Source Note Information

A source note shows the legislative history of a C.R.S. section and is located immediately after the text of the section. The source note for each section indicates the year the section was added, each year it was amended, and the page of the Session Laws and the section of the bill where the amendment can be found. The source note includes the number of the section in prior codifications when applicable. For amendments made after 1973, information on each specific provision of the section that has been changed by a bill, the specific change to the provision (i.e. added, added with relocations, amended, amended with relocations, repealed, repealed and reenacted, or recreated and reenacted), and the effective date of the bill are shown.

The legislative history is arranged by year of passage; if the section was amended by two or more acts in the same year, the order of the information for that year is determined by the effective dates of the acts. The effective date in the source note indicates the date the act or portion of the act takes effect even if the text of the amendment indicates a different date. If the year is not included with the month and day, the provision is effective the year of passage. Additional information to assist the user in researching C.R.S. sections can be found beginning on page vii.

The following provides a further explanation of the information found in a source note:

“L.” is the symbol for “Session Laws” and will be followed by a number indicating the year when the C.R.S. section was changed by an act generally either creating new law, amending existing law, or repealing existing law; except that, in the constitution, “L.” also means constitutional measures referred by the General Assembly and voted on by the people of Colorado at a general or an odd-year election.

“Ex. Sess.” is the symbol for “Extraordinary Session”. If this symbol follows the year, the amended provision can be found in the Session Laws for an extraordinary session for that year and not in the Session Laws for the regular session of the General Assembly for that year (S, S2 in the Red Book).

“p.” is the symbol for “page” and will be followed by a number indicating the page of the Session Laws where the amendment to the C.R.S. section can be found.

“§” is the symbol for “section” and will be followed by a number indicating the section of the act where the amendment to the C.R.S. section can be found.

“IP” is the symbol for the “introductory portion” to a section, subsection, paragraph, or subparagraph.

“Added” means the provision was newly enacted by the act (N in the Red Book).

“Added with relocations” means the provision in existing law was relocated from one title, article, part, or section to another title, article, part, or section with amendments by the act.

“Amended” means the provision in existing law was amended by the act (A in the Red Book).

“Amended with relocations” means the provision in existing law was amended to reorganize an entire title, article, part, or section by the act.

“Repealed” means the provision was deleted from the existing law by the act through the use of a repeal provision (R in the Red Book).

“R&RE” is the symbol for “Repealed and Reenacted” and means the provision in existing law was repealed and reenacted by the act (RE in the Red Book).

“RC&RE” is the symbol for “Recreated and Reenacted” and means a previously repealed provision has been recreated by the act (RC in the Red Book).

“Added by revision” means a provision providing for the repeal of a statutory provision on a specified date has been added by the Revisor of Statutes as a C.R.S. provision. Adding the provision is necessary because a separate section of the act provided for the repeal of the provision with a future effective date.

“Initiated” means a provision that was amended by means of an initiated petition approved by a vote of the people of Colorado at a general or an odd-year election.

“Referred” means a provision that was amended by a measure referred by the General Assembly and voted on by the people of Colorado at a general or an odd-year election; except that, in the constitution, a referred measure is indicated by “L.” and also means constitutional measures referred by the General Assembly and voted on by the people of Colorado at a general or an odd-year election.

Starting in 2009, references to the bill number and chapter number have been included in the source note. If you are conducting a search on-line, the bill number reference within the source note links directly to the bill itself.

Colorado Statutory Research

Legislative history is not already written. It must be compiled by the researcher from many different sources and materials. The following information is a helpful starting point in identifying information you wish to research. Consult the red book table distributed with the session laws, the softbound editions of Colorado Revised Statutes beginning in 1997, the comparative tables located in the back of the C.R.S. index, C.R.S. 1963 and subsequent cumulative supplements thereto through 1971, and C.R.S. 1973 and annual cumulative supplements thereto through 1996.

Prior to 1921, enacted laws were not compiled into a comparative table, thereby making it more difficult to track the legislative history. Determining the subject matter in the statutory index is the only choice for tracking the history of a statute since a statute did not retain its original number. The General Statutes of 1883 arranged laws into numbered chapters, alphabetically entitled, collated, and arranged by sections. This became the foundation and model for compiling the statutes until the codification of C.R.S. 1973. (See Revised Statutes of Colorado 1908, An Act Providing For the Compilation, Publication, and Distribution of all the general statutes of the state.)

References in some source notes throughout the Colorado Revised Statutes to “Code 08”, “Code 21”, and “Code 35” are to the Revised Statutes of Colorado 1908, the Compiled Laws of Colorado 1921, and the Colorado Statutes Annotated 1935, respectively. Each of these volumes set forth the general statutes of the state of Colorado, including the Code of Civil Procedure and, in 1935, the Colorado Supreme Court Rules. On January 6, 1941, the Colorado Supreme Court adopted the new Rules of Civil Procedure, which became effective on April 6, 1941, resulting in the publication of a replacement volume. Thereafter, the publication of the Colorado Court Rules, although a continuing part of the Colorado Revised Statutes, contained a combination of the Federal Rules and the Colorado Code of Civil Procedure and, in addition, included some provisions that were entirely distinct from both the Federal Rules and the Colorado Code of Civil Procedure, as adopted or amended by the Supreme Court of Colorado.

To research a statute as it existed in previous years, the following is a chronological list of C.R.S. publications and the correct citation for each publication.

Supplements to C.R.S. 1963 include:

- 1965 hardbound supplement containing laws enacted in 1964 and 1965
- 1967 hardbound supplement containing laws enacted in 1966 and 1967
- 1969 hardbound supplement containing laws enacted in 1968 and 1969
- 1971 hardbound supplement containing laws enacted in 1970 and 1971

The softbound publication of the “Official Report of the Committee on Legal Services” was not intended as an official publication of our office. Copies were distributed to the members of the General Assembly for the purpose of certifying the laws enacted in the 1972 and 1973 Sessions for inclusion in the compilation of the 1973 C.R.S., which was not available until 1974. To find the 1972 or 1973 amended language, refer to the session laws of either 1972 or 1973.

Bills Enacted Without A Safety Clause Explanation of Effective Date

If a bill is enacted without a safety clause and an effective date is not indicated in the bill, the effective date is the day following the expiration of the ninety-day period after final adjournment of the General Assembly that is allowed for submitting a referendum petition pursuant to article V, section 1 (3) of the state Constitution unless a referendum petition is filed against the act within such time period. If a referendum petition is filed, the act, if approved by the people, will take effect on the date of the official declaration of the vote thereon by proclamation of the Governor or the date indicated in the act if it is later than the Governor's proclamation. The source note for a provision contained in such an act will indicate the actual date following the ninety-day period or the date set out in the act. If a referendum petition is filed, the date in the source note will be adjusted accordingly in the next publication following the election where the referendum petition is considered.

Annotations

Beginning in 2012, the annotations for Colorado state appellate court decisions include both public domain and regional reporter case cites. In preparing annotations to court decisions, we endeavor to include the most recent decisions. Occasionally, this may result in the inclusion of a decision before it becomes finalized and published in an official reporter. In such instances, the case cite will contain blank spaces for the volume and page number of the reporter. The volume and page number will be substituted for the blank spaces in subsequent publications of the statutes.

24-1-101. Legislative declaration. The general assembly declares that this article is necessary to create a structure of state government which will be responsive to the needs of the people of this state and sufficiently flexible to meet changing conditions; to strengthen the powers of the governor and provide a reasonable span of administrative and budgetary controls within an orderly organizational structure of state government; to strengthen the role of the general assembly in state government; to encourage greater participation of the public in state government; to effect the grouping of state agencies into a limited number of principal departments primarily according to function; and to eliminate overlapping and duplication of effort. It is the intent of the general assembly to provide for an orderly transfer of powers, duties, and functions of the various state agencies to such principal departments with a minimum of disruption of governmental services and functions and with a minimum of expense. To the ends stated in this section, this article shall be liberally construed.

24-1-105. Types of transfers. (1) Under this article, a type 1 transfer means the transferring intact of an existing department, institution, or other agency, or part thereof, to a principal department established by this article. When any department, institution, or other agency, or part thereof, is transferred to a principal department under a type 1 transfer, that department, institution, or other agency, or part thereof, shall be administered under the direction and supervision of that principal department, but it shall exercise its prescribed statutory powers, duties, and functions, including rule-making, regulation, licensing, and registration, the promulgation of rules, rates, regulations, and standards, and the rendering of findings, orders, and adjudications, independently of the head of the principal department. Under a type 1 transfer, any powers, duties, and functions not specifically vested by statute in the agency being transferred, including, but not limited to, all budgeting, purchasing, planning, and related management functions of any transferred department, institution, or other agency, or part thereof, shall be performed under the direction and supervision of the head of the principal department.

(2) Under this article, a type 2 transfer means the transferring of all or part of an existing department, institution, or other agency to a principal department established by this article. When all or part of any department, institution, or other agency is transferred to a principal department under a type 2 transfer, its statutory authority, powers, duties, and functions, records, personnel, property, and unexpended balances of appropriations, allocations, or other funds, including the functions of budgeting, purchasing, and planning, are transferred to the principal department.

(3) Under this article, a type 3 transfer means the abolishing of an existing department, institution, or other agency and the transferring of all or part of its powers, duties, functions, records, personnel, property, and unexpended balances of appropriations, allocations, or other funds to a principal department as specified under this article.

(4) When any department, institution, or other agency, or part thereof, is transferred by a type 2 or type 3 transfer to a principal department under the provisions of this article, its prescribed powers, duties, and functions, including rule-making, regulation, licensing, promulgation of rules, rates, regulations, and standards, and the rendering of findings, orders, and adjudications are transferred to the head of the principal department into which the department, institution, or other agency, or part thereof, has been transferred.

ANNOTATION

State highway commission is empowered to direct the chief engineer in the areas which will enable it to exercise its prescribed statutory powers, duties, and functions independently of the head of the principal department. State Hwy. Comm'n v. Haase, 189 Colo. 69, 537 P.2d 300 (1975).

State department of personnel does not oversee the state personnel board's activities; rather, the board reviews the actions of the head of the personnel department. Spahn v. Dept. of Pers., 44 Colo. App. 446, 615 P.2d 66 (1980).

24-1-106. Agencies not enumerated - continuation. Any board, commission, advisory board, or other entity not enumerated in this article, but established by law within or as advisory to an existing department, institution, or other agency shall continue to exercise all its powers, duties, and functions within or as advisory to such department, institution, or other agency under the principal department and the type of transfer to which such department, institution, or other agency is transferred under this article.

24-1-107. Internal organization of department - allocation and reallocation of powers, duties, and functions - limitations. In order to promote economic and efficient administration and operation of a principal department and notwithstanding any other provisions of law, except as provided in section 24-1-105, the head of a principal department, with the approval of the governor, may establish, combine, or abolish divisions, sections, and units other than those specifically created by law and may allocate and reallocate powers, duties, and functions to divisions, sections, and units under the principal department, but no substantive function vested by law in any officer, department, institution, or other agency within the principal department shall be removed from the jurisdiction of such officer, department, institution, or other agency under the provisions of this section.

24-1-107.5. Nonprofit entities created or supported by state agencies and state-level authorities - requirements - legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) State agencies and state-level authorities currently benefit from working with nonprofit entities in a variety of areas, including contracting with nonprofit entities to obtain goods or services, developing working relationships with nonprofit entities to further an agency's or authority's goals and objectives, and using nonprofit entities to obtain gifts, bequests, or donations;

(b) Although state agencies also benefit from the ability to create nonprofit entities to assist them in carrying out their statutory powers and duties, the expenditure of state revenues through nonprofit entities created by state agencies hampers the general assembly's ability to adequately perform its duties of monitoring state revenues and ensuring that sufficient revenues are available for appropriations to the executive, legislative, and judicial branches of government;

(c) In order for the general assembly to carry out its duties to plan for and monitor state revenues, it is the intent of the general assembly to establish specific statutory requirements for the creation of nonprofit entities by state agencies to perform their statutory powers and duties and to establish accountability requirements for certain nonprofit entities formed for the benefit of state agencies; and

(d) It is the further intent of the general assembly to:

(I) Monitor the creation of nonprofit entities by state-level authorities where the creation of such entities could affect the purpose for which such authorities were established by imposing specific reporting requirements upon those authorities intending to create such entities; and

(II) Retain the laws applicable to the separate identity of nonprofit entities created by or on behalf of state agencies.

(2) (a) (I) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (3) of this section, commencing July 1, 1999, no state agency or employee or agent acting on behalf of such agency shall establish a nonprofit entity without specific statutory authority if:

(A) The purpose of establishing a nonprofit entity is to carry out the governmental functions of the state agency; and

(B) The state agency or an employee or agent acting on behalf of such agency has actual control over the management and internal operations of the nonprofit entity.

(II) The provisions of this paragraph (a) shall not limit:

(A) The office of the governor;

(B) State-supported institutions of higher education from using nonprofit entities, such as foundations, institutes, or similar organizations, as authorized in section 23-5-112, C.R.S.;

(C) State-supported institutions of higher education from issuing revenue bonds or pledging revenues as authorized in sections 23-5-102, 23-5-103, 23-70-107, and 23-70-108, C.R.S.;

(D) The Colorado educational and cultural facilities authority from financing facilities and capital expenditures or refunding or refinancing outstanding indebtedness as authorized in sections 23-15-107 to 23-15-110, C.R.S.;

(E) State-supported institutions of higher education from creating or using nonprofit entities to issue obligations for or assist in the financing of capital expenditures on behalf of or for the benefit of such institutions; and

(F) The Colorado school for the deaf and the blind, as provided for in article 80 of title 22, C.R.S., from using nonprofit entities, such as foundations, institutes, or similar organizations, as authorized in section 22-80-103, C.R.S.

(b) No later than September 1, 1999, each state agency shall provide to the state auditor a list of all nonprofit entities in existence on July 1, 1999, that were established by the state agency or an employee or agent acting on behalf of such agency and that meet the criteria set forth in sub-subparagraphs (A) and (B) of subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), along with a copy of each nonprofit entity's most recent annual audit report or, if such entity has not been audited, the entity's most recent annual financial statement.

(c) The provisions of this subsection (2) do not apply to:

(I) The Colorado advanced technology institute commission;

(II) Any nonprofit corporation created by the board of regents of the university of Colorado pursuant to section 23-20-114 (2), C.R.S.; or

(III) Any private nonprofit corporation created by any state-supported institution of higher education, as authorized under section 23-5-121, C.R.S., for the purpose of developing discoveries and technology resulting from science and technology research at such institution of higher education.

(3) A state-supported institution of higher education may establish a nonprofit entity that would otherwise require specific statutory authority under paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section upon a finding by the governing board of the institution that establishing the nonprofit entity would be in the best interests of the institution.

(4) (a) (I) Except as otherwise provided in sections 23-5-112 (3) and 23-5-121, C.R.S., subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a), and paragraph (b) of this subsection (4), any nonprofit entity created by or on behalf of a state agency under paragraph (a) of subsection (2) of this section or subsection (3) of this section and any nonprofit entities reported under paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section shall be subject to an annual audit by the state auditor or his or her designee as required for state agencies under section 2-3-103 (1), C.R.S.

(II) The provisions of this paragraph (a) do not apply to any nonprofit corporation created by the board of regents of the university of Colorado pursuant to section 23-20-114 (2), C.R.S.

(b) If any nonprofit entity, created for the sole benefit of one or more state-supported institutions of higher education, issues obligations to finance capital expenditures for the benefit of the institution or institutions and pledges payments to be received from the institution or institutions in repayment of such obligations, such capital financing activities are subject to the same audit requirements imposed for gifts and bequests received by a nonprofit entity under section 23-5-112 (3), C.R.S.

(5) (a) (I) Except as provided in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a), beginning July 1, 1999, each state-level authority intending to create or participate in the creation of a nonprofit entity shall file a statement with the state auditor regarding its intent to create such entity. The statement shall include information about the purpose and use of the nonprofit entity. The state-level authority shall file such statement at least thirty days prior to the incorporation of the nonprofit entity.

(II) For purposes of the requirements specified in this paragraph (a), the office of the governor, the university of Colorado hospital authority, created in part 5 of article 21 of title 23, C.R.S., and the Denver health and hospital authority created in part 1 of article 29 of title 25, C.R.S., shall not be required to provide notice of its intent to create a nonprofit entity or to disclose any information relating to the modification, initiation, or cessation of patient care programs if the disclosure of such information would give an unfair competitive or bargaining advantage to any person or entity.

(b) For fiscal years ending after June 30, 1999, each state-level authority shall report the annual financial activities of any nonprofit entity it has created in conjunction with the filing of its annual financial audit report with the state auditor as required under section 29-1-603, C.R.S. The reporting of such financial activities may be a part of the audited financial statements if the financial activities are separately identified or the reporting may be performed separately.

(6) (a) Except as provided in this section or other applicable law, any nonprofit entity supported by or established by or on behalf of a state agency shall not be an agency or department of state government and shall not be subject to any provisions of law affecting only governmental or public entities. The state of Colorado or the applicable state agency shall not be held responsible for any debt or liability incurred by any nonprofit entity supported by or established by or on behalf of a state agency, except as otherwise provided by law.

(b) The provisions of this subsection (6) shall apply to any nonprofit entity supported by or created by or on behalf of a state agency regardless of whether such entity is subject to the requirements specified in this section.

(7) For purposes of this section:

(a) "Nonprofit entity" means a nonprofit corporation created under the "Colorado Revised Nonprofit Corporation Act", articles 121 to 137 of title 7, C.R.S. "Nonprofit entity" may include, but is not limited to, a corporation, a partnership, a joint venture, a foundation, and an institute.

(b) "State agency" means an agency as defined in section 24-3-101 or an institution of higher education.

(c) "State-level authority" means a special purpose authority as defined in section 24-77-102 (15) and excludes nonprofit entities created by and for local governmental entities, such as municipalities, counties, city and counties, school districts, and special districts.

24-1-108. Appointment of officers and employees. (1) Any provisions of law to the contrary notwithstanding and subject to the provisions of the constitution of the state of Colorado, the head of a principal department shall be appointed by the governor, with the consent of the senate. The head of a principal department shall appoint all subordinate officers and employees of his or her office and the head of each division under his or her department, and the head of each division shall appoint all employees in his or her division, but all appointments made by the head of a principal department and heads of divisions shall be made in accordance with section 24-2-102.

(2) In the event that the lieutenant governor is appointed during his or her term of office to concurrently serve as the head of a principal department:

(a) Acceptance or retention of such an appointment shall not result in a forfeiture of the office of lieutenant governor; and

(b) It shall be deemed that holding the office of lieutenant governor while concurrently serving as the head of a principal department is not incompatible, inconsistent, or in conflict with the duties of the lieutenant governor or with the duties, powers, and functions of the head of a principal department.

ANNOTATION

Mining reclamation board and the division of mined land reclamation are definite and distinct entities and the designation of the division as a party defendant in lieu of a designation of the board in a challenge to the board's issuance of a mining permit was a failure to join an indispensable party, since the board is an indispensable party to such an action. Cold Springs Ranch v. Dept. of Nat. Res., 765 P.2d 1035 (Colo. App. 1988).

24-1-125. Department of local affairs - creation. (1) There is hereby created a department of local affairs, the head of which shall be the executive director of the department of local affairs, which office is hereby created. The executive director shall be appointed by the governor, with the consent of the senate, and shall serve at the pleasure of the governor. The reappointment of an executive director after initial election of a governor shall be subject to the provisions of section 24-20-109. The executive director shall have those powers, duties, and functions prescribed for heads of principal departments in the "Administrative Organization Act of 1968", article 1 of this title.

(2) The department of local affairs shall consist of the following divisions:

(a) Division of local government, the head of which shall be the director of local government. The division of local government and the office of director thereof, created by part 1 of article 32 of this title, and their powers, duties, and functions are transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of local affairs as the division of local government.

(b) Division of property taxation, the head of which shall be the property tax administrator. The rule-making, administrative, and enforcement powers, duties, and functions, except as provided in subsection (3) of this section, of the Colorado tax commission are transferred by a type 1 transfer to the department of local affairs, and said powers, duties, and functions shall be exercised or performed by the property tax administrator or the division of property taxation as is otherwise provided by law.

(c) (I) Division of commerce and development, the head of which shall be the director of commerce and development. The division of commerce and development and the office of director thereof, created by part 3 of article 32 of this title, and their powers, duties, and functions are transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of local affairs as the division of commerce and development.

(II) Repealed.

(d) and (e) Repealed.

(f) The division of housing, created by the "Colorado Housing Act of 1970", part 7 of article 32 of this title. Its powers, duties, and functions are transferred by a type 1 transfer to the department of local affairs as a division thereof.

(g) Division of planning, the head of which shall be the director of the division of planning. The division of planning and the office of director thereof, created by part 2 of article 32 of this title, and their powers, duties, and functions are transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of local affairs as a division thereof.

(h) Repealed.

(i) Office of rural development, the head of which shall be the coordinator of rural development. The office of rural development and the position of coordinator of rural development, created by part 8 of article 32 of this title, and their powers, duties, and functions are transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of local affairs.

(j) Repealed.

(k) The office of the Colorado youth service corps, created by part 20 of article 32 of this title, shall exercise its powers and perform its duties and functions under the department of local affairs as if the same were transferred to said department by a type 2 transfer.

(l) Repealed.

(m) Repealed.

(3) The board of assessment appeals created by article 2 of title 39, C.R.S., shall be vested with the quasi-judicial powers, duties, and functions of the Colorado tax commission, which board shall constitute a part of the department of local affairs, and said board is transferred by a type 1 transfer to the department of local affairs.

(4) The advisory committee to the property tax administrator, created by article 2 of title 39, C.R.S., shall constitute a part of the department of local affairs and shall exercise its powers and perform its duties and functions under the department as if it were transferred to said department by a type 1 transfer.

(1) There is hereby created a department of public safety, the head of which shall be the executive director of the department of public safety. The executive director shall be appointed by the governor, with the consent of the senate, and shall serve at the pleasure of the governor. The reappointment of an executive director after initial election of a governor shall be subject to the provisions of section 24-20-109.

(2) The department of public safety consists of the following divisions:

(a) Colorado state patrol, the head of which shall be the chief of the Colorado state patrol. The Colorado state patrol and the office of chief thereof, created by part 2 of article 33.5 of this title, and their powers, duties, and functions are transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of public safety. The powers, duties, and functions of the state department of highways relating to the Colorado state patrol are transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of public safety and allocated to the Colorado state patrol. The powers, duties, and functions of the ports of entry section of the motor carrier services division of the division of motor vehicles of the department of revenue, which motor carrier services division is abolished pursuant to section 24-1-117 (5), enacted by House Bill 12-1019, enacted in 2012, are transferred by a type 3 transfer to the department of public safety and allocated to the Colorado state patrol.

(b) Repealed.

(c) Colorado bureau of investigation, the head of which shall be the director of the Colorado bureau of investigation. The Colorado bureau of investigation and the office of director thereof, created by part 4 of article 33.5 of this title, and their powers, duties, and functions are transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of public safety. The powers, duties, and functions of the department of local affairs relating to the Colorado bureau of investigation are transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of public safety and allocated to the Colorado bureau of investigation.

(d) Division of criminal justice, the head of which shall be the director of the division of criminal justice. The division of criminal justice and the office of director thereof, created by part 5 of article 33.5 of this title, and their powers, duties, and functions are transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of public safety. The powers, duties, and functions of the department of local affairs relating to the division of criminal justice are transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of public safety and allocated to the division of criminal justice.

(g) Repealed.

(h) (I) Division of homeland security and emergency management, the head of which is the director of the division of homeland security and emergency management. The division of homeland security and emergency management and the office of director thereof, created by part 16 of article 33.5 of this title, shall exercise their powers and perform their duties and functions as if the same were transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of public safety and allocated to the division of homeland security and emergency management.

(II) The division of homeland security and emergency management includes the following agencies, which shall exercise their powers and perform their duties and functions under the department of public safety as if the same were transferred thereto by a type 2 transfer:

(A) The office of emergency management created by part 7 of article 33.5 of this title, the head of which is the director of the office of emergency management. Effective July 1, 2012, the division of emergency management in the department of local affairs, created by part 21 of article 32 of this title, prior to its repeal in 2012, and its powers, duties, and functions are transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of public safety and allocated to the office of emergency management under the division of homeland security and emergency management pursuant to this article.

(B) Office of prevention and security, created in section 24-33.5-1606; and

(C) The office of preparedness, created in section 24-33.5-1606.5.

(i) Division of fire prevention and control, the head of which is the director of the division of fire prevention and control. The division of fire prevention and control and the office of the director thereof, created by part 12 of article 33.5 of this title, and their powers, duties, and functions are transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of public safety.

(3) Repealed.

(4) (a) The Colorado emergency planning commission, created by part 15 of article 33.5 of this title, shall exercise its powers and perform its duties and functions as if the same were transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of public safety.

(b) Effective July 1, 2012, the Colorado emergency planning commission in the department of local affairs, created by part 26 of article 32 of this title, prior to its repeal in 2012, and its powers, duties, and functions are transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of public safety, pursuant to this article.

(5) The witness protection board, created by section 24-33.5-106, shall exercise its powers and perform its duties and functions as if the same were transferred by a type 1 transfer to the department of public safety.

(6) The identity theft and financial fraud board, created by section 24-33.5-1703, shall exercise its powers and perform its duties and functions as if the same were transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of public safety.

(7) The cold case task force, created in section 24-33.5-109, shall exercise its powers and perform its duties and functions as if the same were transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of public safety.

(8) (a) The Colorado commission on criminal and juvenile justice, created pursuant to section 16-11.3-102, C.R.S., shall exercise its powers and perform its duties and functions as if the same were transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of public safety.

(b) This subsection (8) is repealed, effective July 1, 2013.

(9) The crime victim services advisory board, created pursuant to section 24-4.1-117.3, shall exercise its powers and perform its duties and functions as if the same were transferred by a type 2 transfer to the division of criminal justice in the department of public safety.

24-1-128.7. Department of transportation - creation. (1) There is hereby created a department of transportation, the head of which shall be the executive director of the department of transportation.

(2) The transportation commission, created by part 1 of article 1 of title 43, C.R.S., and its powers, duties, and functions are transferred by a type 1 transfer to the department of transportation.

(3) The department of transportation shall consist of the following divisions:

(a) Highway operations and maintenance division, the head of which shall be the chief engineer. The highway operations and maintenance division and the office of the chief engineer, created by part 1 of article 1 of title 43, C.R.S., and their powers, duties, and functions are transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of transportation.

(b) Aeronautics division, the head of which shall be the director of the aeronautics division. The aeronautics division and the office of the director thereof, created by article 10 of title 43, C.R.S., and their powers, duties, and functions are transferred by a type 1 transfer to the department of transportation. The powers, duties, and functions of the division of aviation of the department of military and veterans affairs are transferred by a type 1 transfer to the department of transportation and allocated to the aeronautics division.

(c) Transportation development division, the head of which shall be the director of the transportation development division. The transportation development division and the office of the director thereof, created by part 1 of article 1 of title 43, C.R.S., and their powers, duties, and functions are transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of transportation.

(d) Engineering, design, and construction division, the head of which shall be the chief engineer. The transportation development division and the office of the chief engineer, created by part 1 of article 1 of title 43, C.R.S., and their powers, duties, and functions are transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of transportation.

(e) The transit and rail division created in part 1 of article 1 of title 43, C.R.S., the head of which shall be the director of the transit and rail division. The transit and rail division and the office of the director of the division shall exercise their powers and perform their duties and functions under the department of transportation and the executive director of the department as if the same were transferred thereto by a type 2 transfer.

(4) The state department of highways, created by section 24-1-126, prior to its repeal in 1991, and its powers, duties, and functions, are transferred by a type 3 transfer to the department of transportation, pursuant to the provisions of this article, and the state department of highways is abolished.

(5) The statewide bridge enterprise created in section 43-4-805 (2), C.R.S., shall exercise its powers and perform its duties and functions as if the same were transferred by a type 1 transfer, as defined in section 24-1-105, to the department of transportation.

(6) (a) The high-performance transportation enterprise created in section 43-4-806 (2) (a), C.R.S., shall exercise its powers and perform its duties and functions as if the same were transferred by a type 1 transfer, as defined in section 24-1-105, to the department of transportation.

(b) The statewide tolling enterprise, created by the transportation commission pursuant to section 43-4-803 (1), C.R.S., prior to the repeal and reenactment of said section by Senate Bill 09-108, enacted in 2009, and its powers, duties, and functions are transferred by a type 3 transfer, as defined in section 24-1-105, to the high-performance transportation enterprise created in section 43-4-806 (2) (a), C.R.S., and the statewide tolling enterprise is abolished.

24-1-129. Effect of transfer of powers, duties, and functions. Any principal department to which powers, duties, and functions of any existing department, institution, or other agency are transferred or any division, section, or unit of any principal department to which such powers, duties, and functions are allocated shall be the successor in every way with respect to such powers, duties, and functions of the department, institution, or other agency in which such powers, duties, and functions were vested prior to July 1, 1968, except as otherwise provided by this article. Every act performed in the exercise of such powers, duties, and functions by or under the authority of the principal department or any division, section, or unit thereof to which such powers, duties, and functions are transferred or allocated by this article shall be deemed to have the same force and effect as if performed by the department, institution, or other agency in which such functions were vested prior to July 1, 1968. When any such department, institution, or other agency is referred to or designated by any law, contract, or other document, such reference or designation shall be deemed to apply to the principal department or the division, section, or unit thereof in which the powers, duties, and functions of such department, institution, or other agency so referred to or designated are vested by the provisions of this article.

24-1-130. Actions, suits, or proceedings not to abate by reorganization - maintenance by or against successors. (1) No suit, action, or other proceeding, judicial or administrative, lawfully commenced, or which could have been lawfully commenced, by or against any department, institution, or other agency or by or against any officer of the state in his official capacity or in relation to the discharge of his official duties shall abate by reason of the taking effect of any reorganization under the provisions of this article. The court may allow the suit, action, or other proceeding to be maintained by or against the successor of any department, institution, or other agency, or any officer affected.

(2) No criminal action commenced or which could have been commenced by the state shall abate by the taking effect of this article.

24-1-133. Transfer of property and records. In all cases where, under the provisions of this article, the powers, duties, and functions of any department, institution, or other agency are transferred to a principal department or divided between any two or more principal departments, such principal department shall succeed to all property and records which were used for or pertain to the performance of the powers, duties, and functions transferred. Any conflict as to the proper disposition of such property or records arising under this section and resulting from the transfer, allocation, abolishment, or division of any department, institution, or other agency or the powers, duties, and functions thereof shall be determined by the governor, whose decision shall be final.

24-1-135. Effect of congressional redistricting. (1) Effective January 1, 1983, the terms of office of persons appointed pursuant to sections 11-2-102, 12-22-104, 12-35-104, 12-65-102, 17-2-102, and 23-60-104, C.R.S., sections 24-32-308 and 24-32-706, and sections 25-1-103, 25-1-902, 25-3.5-104, 26-11-101, 33-11-105, 34-60-104, and 35-65-105, C.R.S., shall terminate. Prior thereto, the appointing authority designated by law shall appoint members to such boards, commissions, and committees for terms to commence on January 1, 1983, and to expire on the date the terms of the predecessors in office of such members would have expired, and any person whose term of office is terminated by this section may be reappointed effective January 1, 1983, and, for the purposes of such reappointment, shall not be deemed to succeed himself. Appointments thereafter shall be made as prescribed by law.

(2) Any member of a board, commission, or committee who was appointed or elected to such office as a resident of a designated congressional district pursuant to section 24 (2) of article VI of the state constitution or section 11-2-102, 12-22-104, 12-35-104, 12-47-1-301, 22-2-105, 23-1-102, 23-20-102, 23-21-503, or 23-60-104, C.R.S., or section 24-32-308 or 24-32-706, or section 25-1-103, 25-1-902, 25-3.5-104, 26-11-101, 33-11-105, 34-60-104, or 35-65-401, C.R.S., and who no longer resides in such congressional district solely because of a change made to the boundaries of such district subsequent to the 1990 federal decennial census is eligible to hold office for the remainder of the term to which the member was elected or appointed, notwithstanding such nonresidency.

Editor's note: (1) Section 12-65-102, referred to in this section, provided for the appointment of the board of hearing aid dealers. Article 65 of title 12 was repealed by L. 86, p. 447.

(2) The internal references in this section to section 24-32-308 refer to that section as it existed prior to its repeal on July 1, 2000.

24-1-135.1. Effect of congressional redistricting related to 2000 federal decennial census. (1) (a) The appointing authority of the boards, commissions, or committees established pursuant to sections 13-91-104, 14-10-115, 21-2-101, 23-1-102, 23-21-503, 23-60-104, 24-32-706, 25-1-103, 25-1-902, 25-32-104, 25.5-1-301, 26-11-101, 33-11-105, and 35-65-401, C.R.S., which require members to be appointed as residents of designated congressional districts, shall determine whether the current appointments to such boards, commissions, or committees adequately represent Colorado's new congressional districts. Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, such appointing authority shall terminate the terms of current members and appoint new members to replace such members on the boards, commissions, or committees as is necessary to ensure proper representation from the new congressional districts; except that the term of a member who continues to reside in the district that such member was designated to represent shall not be terminated.

Such changes shall be made no later than January 1, 2003. If the current members adequately represent the new congressional districts, the membership of the board, commission, or committee shall remain unchanged. Any member who continues to serve on a board, commission, or committee shall not be required to be reappointed.

(b) If the appointing authority of the boards, commissions, or committees set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) is the governor, with the consent of the senate, the governor alone shall determine whether the current appointments to such boards, commissions, or committees adequately represent the new congressional districts and terminate the terms of current members as is necessary to ensure proper representation from such districts, but senate consent shall still be required for the appointment of any new members.

(c) As used in this section, "new congressional districts" means the congressional districts for the state of Colorado as they exist after the changes that occurred as a result of the 2000 federal decennial census, including the addition of a seventh congressional district and the changes in boundaries of the other six congressional districts.

(2) The term of any new appointee who is appointed to replace a person on a board, commission, or committee pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall expire on the date that the term of the person that such new appointee replaced would have expired, and such member shall not be deemed to have served a full term for purposes of calculating any applicable term limits. If the total size of a board, commission, or committee was increased as a result of the new congressional districts, a new member to such board, commission, or committee shall serve for a term as prescribed by law.

(3) Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, the appointing authority of the boards, commissions, or committees set forth in subsection (1) shall not be required to make any changes to such boards, commissions, and committees in order to accommodate the new congressional districts, except as required by this section.

(4) Any member of a board or commission who was appointed to such office as a resident of a designated congressional district pursuant to section 24 (2) of article VI and section 6 (1) of article XXVII of the state constitution, and who no longer resides in such congressional district solely because of a change made to the boundaries of such district subsequent to the 2000 federal decennial census, is eligible to hold office for the remainder of the term to which the member was appointed, notwithstanding such nonresidency.

(5) Except as otherwise provided in this section, all appointments to the boards, commissions, and committees set forth in subsection (1) of this section shall be made as prescribed by law.

24-1-136. "Information Coordination Act" - policy - functions of the heads of principal departments. (1) This section shall be known and may be cited as the "Information Coordination Act". The legislative policy with reference to the coordination of information is hereby declared to be that:

(a) The operational reports of the executive agencies should provide complete, concise, and useful information about executive operations to the governor and the general assembly;

(b) The publications of executive agencies should be clearly related to agency functions and cost no more than is necessary to accomplish the purpose for which the material is published;

(c) Executive agencies should recover the full cost of those publications not necessary to the agency's function but issued for the convenience of the users;

(d) Publication activities of executive agencies should be responsive to the direction of the governor; and

(e) Operational reports and publications of executive agencies should continue to be produced as long as they are useful, but the need for them should be reviewed periodically to ensure that public resources are not misdirected toward the fulfillment of outmoded directives.

(2) There is assigned to the heads of the principal departments the function of coordination and control of operational and administrative information within the executive branch.

(3) The heads of the principal departments shall jointly have the following responsibilities of coordination and control:

(a) Development and direction of a system for the collection, coordination, control, and distribution of state operational and administrative reports and information;

(b) (I) Preparation for the governor of annual reports by the principal departments, accounting to the general assembly for the operations of all agencies in the executive branch, which shall include the results of any actions in furtherance of measurable annual objectives in the areas of operational efficiency and effectiveness set forth in the budget request of each department pursuant to section 24-37-304 (1) (a); and

(II) Publication of such reports subject to the approval of the governor;

(c) Preparation of operational and administrative reports and bringing to the attention of the governor special problems of agencies as disclosed through the reporting system;

(d) Delivery to the custody of the executive director of the department of personnel, as chief administrative officer of the state archives and public records, of two official archival copies of original published and processed agency reports, studies, and other publications and distribution of other copies of the original reports as directed by the governor. Colleges and universities shall forward a monthly listing of publications in the form and manner prescribed by the executive director of the department of personnel.

(e) Delivery to the custody of the state librarian of four copies of all state publications pursuant to section 24-90-204;

(f) Effecting economies in the publication of operational and administrative information consistent with the purpose of the publication and without interference to the discharge of the agency's statutory responsibilities.

(4) The governor or the general assembly may at any time require that the heads of the principal departments collect and from time to time publish certain regular or special reports, in whole or in part.

(5) The provisions of this section shall not apply to reports and publications of the legislative and judicial branches of state government nor to the publications of executive agencies in connection with research they perform under contract.

(6) Nothing in this section shall be construed to change or supersede the present authority and responsibility of the executive director of the department of personnel to act as official custodian and trustee of permanent public documents and to respond to all reasonable requests for reference, research, and information and to provide facsimiles thereof concerning the contents of original agency reports.

(7) The authority of the heads of the principal departments over the issuance of publications as prescribed in this section shall in no way be construed as being in contravention of those administrative procedure laws which elsewhere either grant powers to executive agencies to promulgate and issue agency rules and regulations or define legal notice and publication with reference to such rules and regulations.

(8) Nothing in this section shall be construed to empower anyone to restrict or inhibit the free flow of news or the release of public information, or to establish censorship or control over news or information of actions by public employees or public bodies, or to restrict public access to public records; nor shall any part of this section be construed as restricting, amending, superseding, or contravening any existing law, order, or requirement relating to any required or permitted official or public notice or legal advertisement.

(9) Whenever any report is required or allowed to be made to the general assembly, including any report required to be made to any committee of the general assembly or legislative staff, the reporting entity shall file one electronic copy of the report with the joint legislative library, and four hard copies with the state librarian for the state publications depository and distribution center. Such filing is sufficient to comply with the direction or authority to make such report. The electronic filing shall be by means of a portable document format and shall include a hyperlink to the web site where the report is located, if the report is directly accessible via the internet. If the reporting entity cannot provide an electronic copy of the report to the joint legislative library, then the reporting entity shall deliver six hard copies to the joint legislative library. The joint legislative library is responsible for delivering an electronic or hard copy of the report to the legislators, legislative committees, or legislative staff, as applicable, who are to receive the report. A legislator may request from the joint legislative library delivery of a hard copy of any report.

(10) An agency or department not having an appropriation for producing publications to be sold to the public shall obtain the approval of the controller prior to making any disbursements for said publications. The request for approval shall include the proposed procedures for control of the proceeds of sales.

(11) (a) (I) Effective July 1, 1996, whenever any report is required to be made to the general assembly by an executive agency or the judicial branch on a periodic basis, the requirement for such report shall expire on the day after the third anniversary of the date on which the first such report is due unless the general assembly, acting by bill, continues the requirement.

(II) All requirements for reports to the general assembly by executive agencies or the judicial branch that were in existence before July 1, 1996, or that otherwise are not covered by subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a), shall expire on the following dates:

(A) to (F) Repealed.

(b) Among the matters to be considered by the sunrise and sunset review committee, created by joint rule of the senate and house of representatives, during each interim shall be an inventory and review of all existing requirements for reports by executive agencies or the judicial branch to the general assembly that are due to expire on or before July 1 of the following year pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (11); except that, if House Bill 96-1159 is enacted at the second regular session of the sixtieth general assembly and becomes law or if, for any other reason, the sunrise and sunset review committee ceases to exist, such inventory and review shall be conducted by the several committees of reference as directed by the president of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives, or otherwise as follows:

(I) The agriculture, livestock, and natural resources committee in the house of representatives and the agriculture, natural resources, and energy committee in the senate, or any successor committees, shall consider reporting requirements contained in titles 33 to 37, C.R.S.;

(II) The appropriations committees, or any successor committees, in the house of representatives and the senate shall consider reporting requirements contained in articles 75 to 114 of this title;

(III) The business affairs and labor committee in the house of representatives and the business, labor, and technology committee in the senate, or any successor committees, shall consider reporting requirements contained in titles 4 to 12 and 40, C.R.S.;

(IV) The education committees, or any successor committees, in the house of representatives and the senate shall consider reporting requirements contained in titles 22 and 23, C.R.S.;

(V) The finance committees, or any successor committees, in the house of representatives and the senate shall consider reporting requirements contained in titles 38 and 39, C.R.S.;

(VI) The health and human services committees in the house of representatives and the senate, or any successor committees, shall consider reporting requirements contained in titles 25 to 27, C.R.S.;

(VII) The judiciary committees, or any successor committees, in the house of representatives and the senate shall consider reporting requirements contained in titles 13 to 21, C.R.S.;

(VIII) The local government committees, or any successor committees, in the house of representatives and the senate shall consider reporting requirements contained in titles 30 to 32, C.R.S.;

(IX) The state, veterans, and military affairs committees, or any successor committees, in the house of representatives and the senate shall consider reporting requirements contained in titles 1 to 3, C.R.S., titles 28 and 29, C.R.S., and this title with the exception of articles 75 to 114 and, in addition, any reporting requirement not otherwise assigned to a committee of reference under this paragraph (b); and

(X) The transportation and energy committee in the house of representatives and the transportation committee in the senate, or any successor committees, shall consider reporting requirements contained in titles 41 to 43, C.R.S.

24-1-136.5. Capital construction and long-range planning - policy - heads of principal departments. (1) The executive director of each department, after consultation with the directors of the subordinate agencies, divisions, or offices within the department, shall have authority to prescribe uniform policies, procedures, and standards of space utilization in department facilities, except for office space, for the development and approval of capital construction projects for the department. Nothing in this subsection (1) shall be construed to alter the authority of the department of personnel to prescribe uniform standards for office space pursuant to section 24-30-1303 (1) (h).

(2) The executive director shall review and, with the approval of the governor, approve facilities master planning and facilities program planning for all capital construction projects of the department on state-owned or state-controlled land, regardless of the source of funds, and no capital construction shall commence except in accordance with an approved facilities master plan, facilities program plan, and physical plan.

(3) The executive director shall ensure conformity of facilities master planning with approved department operational master plans, facilities program plans with approved facilities master plans, and physical plans with approved facilities program plans.

(4) Plans for any capital construction project for the department shall be subject to the approval of the executive director, regardless of the source of funds. The executive director may exempt any project which requires less than five hundred thousand dollars of state moneys from the requirements for master planning and program planning.

(5) The executive director shall annually request from the director of each subordinate agency, division, or office within the department a five-year projection of capital development projects. The projection shall include the estimated cost, the method of funding, a schedule for project completion, and the director's priority for each project. The executive director shall determine whether a proposed project is consistent with operational master planning and facilities master planning of the department and conforms to space utilization standards established pursuant to subsection (1) of this section and section 24-30-1303 (1) (h).

(6) (a) The executive director shall annually establish a department five-year capital improvements plan coordinated with department operational master plans and facilities master plans and shall transmit to the office of state planning and budgeting, the governor, and the general assembly, consistent with the executive budget timetable, a recommended priority of funding of capital construction projects for the department.

(b) Except as provided in subsection (4) of this section, it is the policy of the general assembly to appropriate funds only for projects approved by the executive director.

(7) Any acquisition or utilization of real property by a department which is conditional upon or requires expenditures of state-controlled funds or federal funds shall be subject to the approval of the executive director, regardless of whether the acquisition is by lease, lease-purchase, purchase, gift, or otherwise.

(8) Prior to approving the facilities master plan and facilities program plan for any capital construction project to be constructed, operated, and maintained solely from fees, gifts and bequests, grants, revolving funds, or a combination of such sources, the executive director shall request and consider recommendations from the capital development committee and the joint budget committee. The executive director, the capital development committee, and the joint budget committee shall by agreement adopt procedures for the review of such projects by the capital development committee and joint budget committee. The agreement shall provide that, whenever possible, the capital development committee and joint budget committee will submit their recommendations to the executive director within thirty days after each committee receives the information prescribed in the agreement as necessary for its review.

(9) This section shall not apply to the department of higher education, nor shall it be construed to alter the duties of the Colorado commission on higher education set forth in section 23-1-106, C.R.S.

24-1-137. Effect of decrease in length of terms of office for certain state boards, commissions, authorities, and agencies. Persons who are holding office on June 15, 1987, and who were appointed to terms of office pursuant to sections 11-2-102, 12-4-103, 12-22-104, 12-32-103, 12-33-103, 12-36-103, 12-40-106, 12-60-102, 22-80-104, 23-9-103, 23-15-104, 23-40-104, 23-41-102, 24-32-706, 24-42-102, 25-25-104, 29-1-503, 29-4-704, 34-60-104, 35-41-101, 35-65-401, 35-75-104, 39-2-123, and 40-2-101, C.R.S., as said sections existed prior to June 15, 1987, shall continue to serve in such office, but such service shall be at the pleasure of the governor, who may appoint a replacement to serve for the unexpired term of any member. However, if the governor has not appointed any such replacement on or before November 15, 1987, then the person who is holding such office on June 15, 1987, shall no longer be subject to replacement pursuant to this section but shall be subject to whatever removal provisions may otherwise apply for such office. Any such member for whom a replacement has been appointed shall continue to serve until his or her successor is duly qualified. Appointments to new terms of office made after June 15, 1987, shall be made for terms of four years or as otherwise prescribed by law; except that such provision shall not apply to terms of office of persons appointed pursuant to section 23-9-103, C.R.S., as it existed prior to July 1, 2006, or to section 24-48.5-303, which is the former section 23-9-103, C.R.S.

State Administrative Organization Board

- 24-1.5-101. Legislative declaration.
24-1.5-102. State administrative organization board - creation - duties.

24-1.5-101. Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds and declares that the proliferation of type 1 agencies in state government has increased the number of state government programs through the adoption of administrative rules and regulations and that the level of accountability within each principal department of state government has decreased due to the independence of the type 1 agencies. The general assembly therefore adopts this article in order to evaluate existing type 1 agencies and to determine whether agencies created in the future should be so designated.

24-1.5-102. State administrative organization board - creation - duties. (1) There is hereby created the state administrative organization board, referred to in this article as the "board", to be comprised of eleven members. Two members of the board shall be appointed by the speaker of the house of representatives, one of whom shall be a member of the general assembly. One member shall be appointed by the minority leader of the house of representatives and shall not be a member of the general assembly and shall not be a state government employee. The other member appointed by the speaker shall not be a member of the general assembly and shall not be a state government employee. Two members of the board shall be appointed by the president of the senate, one of whom shall be a member of the senate. One member shall be appointed by the minority leader of the senate and shall not be a member of the general assembly and shall not be a state government employee. The other member appointed by the president shall not be a member of the general assembly and shall not be a state government employee. Five members of the board shall be appointed by the governor, three of whom shall not be members of the general assembly or state government employees.

(2) The board shall develop a procedure to systematically and regularly review the functions and duties of all type 1 agencies in accordance with a schedule that the board shall devise. The board shall establish criteria for type 1 agencies to determine whether all existing type 1 agencies should continue as type 1 agencies and to evaluate the designation of proposed new type 1 agencies.

(3) The board shall select a chairman from among its members, and it shall meet as often as necessary to carry out the duties specified in this section.

24-1.7-101. Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby declares its support for local flexibility in the planning and delivery of health and human services and states its intent to foster continuing coordination, communication, and collaboration at the local level. The general assembly further states its support for local decisions to utilize people and resources at the local level in a more efficient, effective, and economical manner through consolidation of local advisory boards. The general assembly further declares its intent to streamline local planning and community input mechanisms.

24-1.7-102. Local health and human services advisory boards - creation - functions. (1) In order to accomplish the intent of prior legislation on human services delivery that there be an ongoing process or forum for continued coordination and collaboration at the local level concerning the delivery of human services, this article authorizes the creation of local health and human services advisory boards. A local health and human services advisory board may serve a single county, two or more counties jointly, one or more judicial districts, or other service areas. Members of an advisory board shall be appointed by the governing body or bodies of the counties included. Membership shall be locally determined and shall include appropriate geographic, ethnic, and cultural representation and representation from the public and from consumers of services. Membership shall also include persons who have program expertise for the types of programs the advisory board advises.

(2) In addition to, in combination with, or in lieu of creating a local health and human services advisory board, a county, judicial district, or other service area may elect to consolidate its advisory board with that of one or more other counties, judicial districts, or service areas as specified in section 24-1.7-103.

Editor's note: This section is similar to former §§ 24-1.7-201 and 24-1.7-402 to 24-1.7-404 as they existed prior to 1997.

24-1.7-103. Consolidation of local boards - process - requirements. (1) The general assembly hereby finds that there are many advisory types of boards in the human services delivery system that have similar functions and purposes and have members with similar qualifications and expertise. The general assembly finds that greater efficiency and flexibility would be achieved by allowing counties, judicial districts, and other service areas to combine and consolidate some or all of these boards into one board that serves as a broad-based local planning group and carries out all of the functions and responsibilities of the previous boards through a consolidated board.

(2) Any combination of the following boards or groups may be consolidated into a single advisory board:

(a) Placement alternatives commissions, created pursuant to section 19-1-116 (2) (a), C.R.S.;

(b) Juvenile community review boards, as defined in section 19-1-103 (69), C.R.S., and described in section 19-2-210, C.R.S.;

- (c) Local juvenile services planning committees, created pursuant to section 19-2-211, C.R.S.;
 - (d) Child protection teams, created pursuant to section 19-3-308 (6), C.R.S.;
 - (e) Family preservation commissions, established pursuant to section 26-5.5-106, C.R.S.;
 - (f) A local health and human services advisory board, created pursuant to section 24-1.7-102.
- (3) The consolidation of, and appointments to, local boards or groups that have different appointing authorities set in statute, are subject to the agreement of each appointing authority. Each of the separate functions and responsibilities of each board or group as specified in statute must continue to be met by the consolidated board.

Collaborative Management of Multi-agency Services Provided to Children and Families

24-1.9-101. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds that children and families who receive child welfare services often benefit from treatment and services that involve multiple agencies, divisions, units, and sections of departments at the state and county level.

(2) The general assembly further finds that the development of a uniform system of collaborative management is necessary for agencies at the state and county levels to effectively and efficiently collaborate to share resources or to manage and integrate the treatment and services provided to children and families who benefit from multi-agency services.

(3) (a) The development of a more uniform system of collaborative management that includes the input, expertise, and active participation of parent advocacy or family advocacy organizations may reduce duplication and eliminate fragmentation of services; increase the quality, appropriateness, and effectiveness of services provided; encourage cost-sharing among service providers; and ultimately lead to better outcomes and cost-reduction for the services provided to children and families in the child welfare system, including the foster care system, in the state of Colorado.

(b) In addition, the general fund moneys saved through utilizing a collaborative approach and consolidating various sources of agency funding will allow for reinvestment of these moneys by the agencies participating in the systems of collaborative management to provide appropriate support to children and families who would benefit from collaborative management of treatment and services.

(4) The general assembly therefore finds that because a collaborative approach may lead to the provision of more appropriate and effective delivery of services to children and families and may ultimately allow the agencies providing treatment and services to provide appropriate services to children and families within existing consolidated resources, it is in the best interests of the state of Colorado to establish systems of collaborative management of multi-agency services provided to children and families.

24-1.9-102. Memorandum of understanding - local-level interagency oversight groups - individualized service and support teams - coordination of services for children and families - requirements - waiver. (1) (a) Local representatives of each of the agencies specified in this paragraph (a) and county departments of social services may enter into memorandums of understanding that are designed to promote a collaborative system of local-level interagency oversight groups and individualized service and support teams to coordinate and manage the provision of services to children and families who would benefit from integrated multi-agency services. The memorandums of understanding entered into pursuant to this subsection (1) shall be between interested county departments of social services and local representatives of each of the following agencies or entities:

- (I) The local judicial districts, including probation services;
- (II) The health department, whether a county or district public health agency;
- (III) The local school district or school districts;
- (IV) Each community mental health center;
- (V) Each behavioral health organization;
- (VI) The division of youth corrections;
- (VII) A designated managed service organization for the provision of treatment services for alcohol and drug abuse pursuant to section 27-80-107, C.R.S.; and
- (VIII) A domestic abuse program as defined in section 26-7.5-102, C.R.S., if representation from such a program is available.

(a.5) In addition to the parties specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), the memorandums of understanding entered into pursuant to this subsection (1) may include family resource centers created pursuant to article 18 of title 26, C.R.S.

(b) The general assembly strongly encourages the agencies specified in paragraphs (a) and (a.5) of this subsection (1) to enter into memorandums of understanding that are regional.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (b) of this subsection (1), the agencies specified in paragraphs (a) and (a.5) of this subsection (1) may enter into memorandums of understanding involving only one or more county departments of social services, not necessarily by region, as may be appropriate to ensure the effectiveness of local-level interagency oversight groups and individualized service and support teams in the county or counties.

(d) In developing the memorandums of understanding, the general assembly strongly encourages the parties to the memorandums of understanding to seek input, support, and collaboration from key stakeholders in the private and nonprofit sector, as well as parent advocacy or family advocacy organizations that represent family members or caregivers of children who would benefit from multi-agency services.

(e) Nothing shall preclude the agencies specified in paragraphs (a) and (a.5) of this subsection (1) from including parties in addition to the agencies specified in paragraphs (a) and (a.5) of this subsection (1) in the memorandums of understanding developed for purposes of this section.

(2) (a) Each memorandum of understanding entered into shall include, but is not limited to, the requirements specified in paragraphs (b) to (j) of this subsection (2). On or before October 1, 2004, utilizing moneys in the performance incentive cash fund created in section 26-5-105.5 (3.2) (a), C.R.S., the state department of human services, in conjunction with the judicial department, shall develop and make available to the parties specified in paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section, a model memorandum of understanding based on the requirements specified in paragraphs (b) to (j) of this subsection (2).

(b) Identification of services and funding sources. The memorandum of understanding shall specify the legal responsibilities and funding sources of each party to the memorandum of understanding as those responsibilities and funding sources relate to children and families who would benefit from integrated multi-agency services, including the identification of the specific services that may be provided. Specific services that may be provided may include, but are not limited to: Prevention, intervention, and treatment services; family preservation services; family stabilization services; out-of-home placement services; services for children at imminent risk of out-of-home placement; probation services; services for children with mental illness; public assistance services; medical assistance services; child welfare services; and any additional services which the parties deem necessary to identify.

(c) Definition of the population to be served. The memorandum of understanding shall include a functional definition of “children and families who would benefit from integrated multi-agency services”.

(d) Creation of an oversight group. The memorandum of understanding shall create a local-level interagency oversight group and identify the oversight group’s membership requirements, procedures for selection of officers, procedures for resolving disputes by a majority vote of those members authorized to vote, and procedures for establishing any necessary subcommittees of the interagency oversight group. Each interagency oversight group shall include a local representative of each party to the memorandum of understanding specified in paragraphs (a) and (a.5) of subsection (1) of this section, each of whom shall be a voting member of the interagency oversight group. In addition, the interagency oversight group may include, but is not limited to, the following advisory nonvoting members:

(I) Representatives of interested local private sector entities; and

(II) Family members or caregivers of children who would benefit from integrated multi-agency services or current or previous consumers of integrated multi-agency services.

(e) Establishment of collaborative management processes. The memorandum of understanding shall require the interagency oversight group to establish collaborative management processes to be utilized by individualized service and support teams authorized pursuant to paragraph (f) of this subsection (2) when providing services to children and families served by the parties to the memorandum of understanding. The collaborative management processes required to be established by the interagency oversight group shall address risk-sharing, resource-pooling, performance expectations, outcome-monitoring, and staff-training, and shall be designed to do the following:

(I) Reduce duplication and eliminate fragmentation of services provided to children or families who would benefit from integrated multi-agency services;

(II) Increase the quality, appropriateness, and effectiveness of services delivered to children or families who would benefit from integrated multi-agency services to achieve better outcomes for these children and families; and

(III) Encourage cost-sharing among service providers.

(f) Authorization to create individualized service and support teams. The memorandum of understanding shall include authorization for the interagency oversight group to establish individualized service and support teams to develop a service and support plan and to provide services to children and families who would benefit from integrated multi-agency services.

(g) Authorization to contribute resources and funding. The memorandum of understanding shall specify that each party to the memorandum of understanding has the authority to contribute time, resources, and funding to solve problems identified by the local-level interagency oversight group in order to create a seamless, collaborative system of delivering multi-agency services to children and families, upon approval by the head or director of each agency or department specified in paragraphs (a) and (a.5) of subsection (1) of this section.

(h) Reinvestment of moneys saved to serve additional children and families.
(I) The memorandum of understanding shall require the interagency oversight group to create a procedure, subject to approval by the head or director of each agency or department specified in paragraphs (a) and (a.5) of subsection (1) of this section, to allow any moneys resulting from waivers granted by the federal government and any state general fund savings realized as a result of the implementation of the collaborative system of management of multi-agency services provided to children and families related to the funding sources specified by the parties to the memorandum of understanding pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (2) to be reinvested by the parties to the memorandum of understanding to provide appropriate services to children and families who would benefit from integrated multi-agency services, as the population is defined by the memorandum of understanding pursuant to paragraph (c) of this subsection (2). The general fund savings realized, as referenced in this section, shall be determined in accordance with rules established by the state board of human services.

(II) A county that has implemented a collaborative management process for services to children and families, which services are not included as services to be provided to children and families who would benefit from integrated multi-agency services in the memorandum of understanding pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (2), and that underspends the general fund portion of its capped or targeted allocation may use the portion of general fund savings realized, as referenced in this section, of its underspent capped or targeted allocation for provision of existing services for such children and families in the county.

(i) Performance-based measures. The memorandum of understanding shall include a provision stating whether the parties to the memorandum of understanding will attempt to meet performance measures specified by the department of human services and elements of collaborative management, as defined by rule of the state board of human services. If the parties to the memorandum of understanding agree to attempt to meet the performance measures and elements of collaborative management, the memorandum of understanding shall require the interagency oversight group to create a procedure, subject to the approval of the head or director of each agency or department specified in paragraphs (a) and (a.5) of subsection (1) of this section, to allow any incentive moneys received by the department of human services and allocated pursuant to section 24-1.9-104 to be reinvested by the parties to the memorandum of understanding to provide appropriate services to children and families who would benefit from integrated multi-agency services, as such population is defined by the memorandum of understanding pursuant to paragraph (c) of this subsection (2).

(j) Confidentiality compliance. The memorandum of understanding shall include a provision specifying that state and federal law concerning confidentiality shall be followed and that records used or developed by the interagency oversight group or its members or the individualized service and support teams that relate to a particular person are to be kept confidential and may not be released to any other person or agency except as provided by law.

(3) Each department or division, section, unit, or agency within a department that is a party to the memorandum of understanding shall enter into the memorandum of understanding and all revisions to the memorandum. Revisions to the memorandum shall be developed as necessary to reflect department reorganizations or statutory changes affecting the departments that are parties to the memorandum.

(4) The departments and agencies that provide oversight to the parties to the memorandum of understanding specified in paragraphs (a) and (a.5) of subsection (1) of this section are authorized to issue waivers of any rules to which the departments and agencies are subject and that would prevent the departments from effective implementation of the memorandums of understanding; however, the departments and agencies are prohibited from waiving a rule in violation of federal law or that would compromise the safety of a child.

24-1.9-102.5. Evaluation. The department of human services is authorized to utilize moneys in the performance-based collaborative management incentive cash fund created in section 24-1.9-104 for ongoing external evaluations of the counties participating in memorandums of understanding pursuant to section 24-1.9-102, also known as the collaborative management program, as well as those counties that opted to not participate in the collaborative management program. The external evaluation shall include an evaluation that may be required in connection with a waiver authorized pursuant to section 24-1.9-102 (4). The department of human services, with input from the counties, agencies as listed in section 24-1.9-102 (1) (a) and (1) (a.5), the division of youth corrections in the department of human services, participating stakeholders in the private and nonprofit sector, and participating parent or family advocacy organizations that represent family members or caregivers of children who would benefit from multi-agency services participating in the collaborative management program, shall develop the criteria and components of the external evaluation. Each county participating in the collaborative management program shall participate fully in the annual external evaluation. The department of human services is authorized to perform an evaluation pursuant to this section on an ongoing basis as needed, as determined by the department of human services and subject to available appropriations.

24-1.9-102.7. Technical assistance. The department of human services shall develop and implement training for counties participating in or interested in participating in the collaborative management program. The department of human services shall utilize moneys in the performance-based collaborative management incentive cash fund created in section 24-1.9-104 to develop and implement training for counties. The training shall identify management strategies to collaborate effectively and efficiently to share resources or to manage and integrate the treatment and services provided to children and families receiving collaborative management services pursuant to this article.

24-1.9-103. Reports - executive director review. (1) Commencing January 1, 2007, and on or before each January 1 thereafter, each interagency oversight group shall provide a report to the executive director of each department and agency that is a party to any memorandum of understanding entered into that includes:

(a) The number of children and families served through the local-level individualized service and support teams and the outcomes of the services provided, including a description of any reduction in duplication or fragmentation of services provided and a description of any significant improvement in outcomes for children and families;

(b) A description of estimated costs of implementing the collaborative management approach and any estimated cost-shifting or cost-savings that may have occurred by collaboratively managing the multi-agency services provided through the individualized service and support teams;

(c) An accounting of moneys that were reinvested in additional services provided to children or families who would benefit from integrated multi-agency services due to cost-savings that may have resulted or due to meeting or exceeding performance measures specified by the department of human services and elements of collaborative management established by rule of the state board;

(d) A description of any identified barriers to the ability of the state and county to provide effective services to persons who received multi-agency services; and

(e) Any other information relevant to improving the delivery of services to persons who would benefit from multi-agency services.

(2) (a) Utilizing the reports created pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, the persons specified in paragraph (b) of this subsection (2) shall meet at least annually with the governor, or his or her designee, to review the activities and progress of counties and agencies engaged in collaborative management of multi-agency services provided to children and families. The purpose of the meeting shall be to identify barriers encountered in collaborative management development or implementation or reinvestment of moneys and to discuss and effectuate solutions to these barriers to achieve greater efficiencies and better outcomes for the state, for local communities, and for persons who would benefit from multi-agency services.

(b) The following persons or their designees shall attend the annual meeting required pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2):

(I) The commissioner of education;

(II) A superintendent of a school district that has entered into a memorandum of understanding and has met or exceeded the performance measures specified by the department of human services and the elements of collaborative management established by rule of the state board, as such superintendent is selected by the commissioner of education;

(III) A director of a county department of social services that has entered into a memorandum of understanding and has met or exceeded the performance measures specified by the department of human services and the elements of collaborative management established by rule of the state board, as such director is selected by the executive director of the department of human services;

(IV) The executive director of the department of health care policy and financing;

(V) The executive director of the department of human services;

(VI) A director of a local mental health center that has entered into a memorandum of understanding and has met or exceeded the performance measures specified by the department of human services and the elements of collaborative management established by rule of the state board, as such director is selected by the executive director of the department of human services;

(VII) A representative from a statewide parent advocacy or family advocacy organization who participated in the development of a memorandum of understanding, as such representative is selected by a director of a county department of social services chosen by the state department of human services;

(VIII) The executive director of the department of public health and environment; and

24-1.9-104. Cash fund - creation - grants, gifts, and donations. (1) On July 1, 2005, there shall be created in the state treasury the performance-based collaborative management incentive cash fund, which shall be referred to in this section as the "fund". The moneys in the fund shall be subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly to the department of human services for state fiscal year 2005-06 and each fiscal year thereafter. On July 1, 2006, the state treasurer shall transfer the moneys in the performance incentive cash fund created pursuant to section 26-5-105.5 (3.2) (a), C.R.S., to the fund. In addition, on July 1, 2006, the state treasurer shall transfer the moneys remaining in the family stabilization services fund created pursuant to section 19-1-125, C.R.S., to the fund. The fund shall also consist of moneys received from docket fees in civil actions and transferred as specified in section 13-32-101 (5) (a) (II), C.R.S.

(2) The executive director of the department of human services is authorized to accept and expend on behalf of the state any grants, gifts, or donations from any private or public source for the purposes of this section. All private and public funds received through grants, gifts, or donations shall be transmitted to the state treasurer, who shall credit the same to the fund in addition to moneys credited pursuant to subsection (1) of this section and any moneys that may be appropriated to the fund directly by the general assembly. All investment earnings derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the fund shall remain in the fund and shall not be transferred or revert to the general fund of the state or any other fund at the end of any fiscal year.

(2.5) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, on June 1, 2009, the state treasurer shall deduct three hundred thousand dollars from the fund and transfer such sum to the general fund.

(3) (a) On and after July 1, 2005, the executive director of the department of human services shall allocate the moneys in the fund to provide incentives to parties to a memorandum of understanding who have agreed to performance-based collaborative management pursuant to section 24-1.9-102 (2) (i) and who have successfully implemented the elements of collaborative management specified by rule of the state board and also met or exceeded the performance measures specified by the department of human services. The incentives shall be used to provide services to children and families who would benefit from integrated multi-agency services, as such population is defined by the memorandum of understanding pursuant to section 24-1.9-102 (2) (c).

(a.5) On and after July 1, 2008, the executive director of the department of human services is authorized to allocate moneys in the fund to be used to cover the direct and indirect costs of the external evaluation of the performance-based collaborative management program described in section 24-1.9-102 and the technical assistance and training for counties as described in section 24-1.9-102.7.

(b) For purposes of allocating incentive moneys in the fund pursuant to this subsection (3), the executive director of the department of human services shall submit an accounting of moneys in the fund available for incentives and a proposal for the allocation of incentive moneys to the state board of human services for review and approval prior to the allocation of the moneys. The state board of human services shall approve the proposal not later than thirty days after receipt of the proposal from the executive director of the department of human services.

ANNOTATION

For the constitutionality of earlier administrative code, see Johnson v. People, 96 Colo. 175, 40 P.2d 615 (1935).

24-2-102. Appointment of officers and employees. (1) Except as otherwise provided by law, such officers and employees as may be necessary in each principal department or institution of higher education shall be appointed by the head of each such department or institution in conformity with section 13 of article XII of the constitution of the state and the laws enacted in accordance therewith.

(2) The head of each principal department shall certify to the governor the number of officers and employees needed or required for the operation of his or her department for the ensuing twelve-month period in accordance with article 37 of this title.

(3) If, after appointments have been made to any principal department, the governor is of the opinion that the appointed personnel of any such department is in excess of its needs, the governor may require the separation of any of said appointees if ten days' prior notice of the proposed action is given by the governor to the head of any such department affected and opportunity given to such head within said ten-day period to be heard as to the necessity for the retention of all or any of said appointees proposed to be separated. The decision of the governor after such hearing shall be final and conclusive.

(4) If, during any fiscal period, there are not sufficient revenues available for expenditure during such period to carry on the functions of the state government and to support its agencies and institutions and such fact is made to appear to the governor, in the exercise of his discretion, by executive order, he may suspend or discontinue, in whole or in part, the functions or services of any department, board, bureau, or agency of the state government; except that the authority of the governor to restrict the expenditure of moneys appropriated from the capital construction fund shall be determined by the provisions of section 24-75-201.5. Such discontinuance or suspension shall become effective upon the first day of the calendar month following the entry of such executive order and shall continue for such period of time, not to exceed three months, as shall be determined by such executive order. If, during any such period of time, it again appears to the governor that such deficiency of revenues still persists, from time to time, he may extend the operation of such executive order for a like period of time not to exceed three months; but the state shall not be liable for the payment of any claim for salaries or expenses purporting to have accrued against any such department, board, bureau, or agency during any such period of suspension, and the controller shall not issue nor may the state treasurer honor any warrant therefor. Elective officers shall not be subject to the provisions of this article, parts 2 and 11 of article 30, and articles 31, 35, 36, and 101 to 111 of this title.

ANNOTATION

- I. General Consideration.
- II. Appointments.
- III. Suspensions.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Annotator's note. Cases decided under former law (prior to 1941) have been included in the annotations to this section.

II. APPOINTMENTS.

Persons necessary after department formed deemed necessary employees. The officers, assistants, and employees necessary in each principal department are those persons necessary after each department is formed, not those persons initially necessary to constitute the department. People v. Downen, 106 Colo. 557, 108 P.2d 224 (1940).

Motive or intent in making an appointment is irrelevant where the authority to make an appointment is conferred by statute. Davis v. Morley, 79 Colo. 168, 244 P. 599 (1926).

Chief of Colorado state patrol is appointed by head of department of highways and the appointment must be made from a list of three persons ranking highest, as determined by a competitive test of competence administered by the Colorado state personnel board. Schippers v. Colo. State Pers. Bd., 178 Colo. 154, 496 P.2d 307 (1972) (decided prior to the 1983 transfer of the Colorado state patrol to the department of public safety).

For the former requirement that appointments are to be approved by executive council, see People ex rel. Swayze v. Bixby, 102 Colo. 583, 81 P.2d 880 (1938).

III. SUSPENSIONS.

For constitutionality of provision authorizing suspensions for economy reasons, see Getty v. Gaffy, 96 Colo. 454, 44 P.2d 506 (1935).

Suspension of positions within the Division of Disaster Emergency Services to decrease general fund expenditures is warranted regardless of whether the funding source of the positions is the general fund or federal funds. Bardsley v. Dept. of Pub. Safety, 870 P.2d 641 (Colo. App. 1994).

Temporary discontinuance of a state department's functions and consequent lay off of employees as part of a budget reduction is lawful, but abolition of a statutorily created state agency and the transfer of its functions to another principal department without prior legislative authority is unlawful. Subsequent legislative authority for such transfer of functions does not make the issue of the validity of the Governor's actions moot. Bardsley v. Dept. of Pub. Safety, 870 P.2d 641 (Colo. App. 1994).

Governor's suspension decision not open to judicial inquiry. The finding of the governor that sufficient reason exists for suspending or discontinuing an office, etc., is not open to judicial inquiry. Getty v. Gaffy, 96 Colo. 454, 44 P.2d 506 (1935); People ex rel. Engley v. Martin, 19 Colo. 565, 36 P. 543 (1894); Lee v. Morley, 79 Colo. 481, 247 P. 178 (1926).

Order suspending officer may name incumbent. Where the governor, by executive order, under statutory authority, suspends the secretary of the state civil service commission (now the department of personnel), the fact that the incumbent is named personally in the order is unimportant. Getty v. Gaffy, 96 Colo. 454, 44 P.2d 506 (1935).

Secretary of former civil service commission was not entitled to compensation during suspension. Bedford v. Gaffy, 96 Colo. 452, 44 P.2d 508 (1935).

24-2-103. Compensation of heads of departments and other officers and employees. (1) (a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (1), officers and employees of the state who are exempt from the state personnel system shall receive compensation as fixed by law. Any officer or employee who receives compensation as fixed by law shall not receive compensation or fees from more than one department or institution of higher education or in more than one capacity; except that the lieutenant governor may be compensated for any additional duties and functions relating to a department or institution of higher education as may be authorized by law.

(b) If the compensation of an officer or employee who is exempt from the state personnel system is not fixed by law, the officer's or employee's compensation shall be determined as follows:

(I) The governor shall determine the compensation for the head of each principal department, and the head of each principal department shall determine the compensation for officers and employees of the department.

(II) The governing board of each institution of higher education, including the Auraria higher education center established in article 70 of title 23, C.R.S., shall determine the compensation for the head of the institution, and the head of each institution shall determine the compensation for officers and employees of the institution.

(c) Officers and employees in the state personnel system shall receive compensation pursuant to section 13 of article XII of the state constitution and the compensation system established by the state personnel director pursuant to article 50 of this title. Officers and employees in the state personnel system shall not receive compensation or fees from more than one department or institution of higher education except as permitted by rules adopted by the state personnel director in accordance with article 4 of this title that are consistent with the overtime provisions of section 24-50-104.5.

(d) Nothing in this subsection (1) shall prevent departments and institutions of higher education, including the Auraria higher education center established in article 70 of title 23, C.R.S., from sharing personnel if the terms and conditions of the personnel sharing agreement are in writing and include a provision concerning the distribution of compensation.

(2) Upon declaration of a fiscal emergency made pursuant to section 24-50-109.5 (1) and the subsequent imposition of mandatory furloughs or other measures to reduce personnel expenditures, such measures shall apply not only to state personnel system employees but shall be likewise imposed upon all other officers and employees of the executive branch, if exempt from the state personnel system, except as otherwise provided by law or prohibited by contract.

ANNOTATION

Section 13 of art. XII, Colo. Const., operates as a limitation upon the power of the general assembly, governor, and department heads to fix the salaries of persons under the state personnel system; such power is limited to fixing salaries according to classes and grades and does not include discriminating between individuals in the same classification as determined by the state personnel board. Vivian v. Bloom, 115 Colo. 579, 177 P.2d 541 (1947).

Constitutional or statutory provision fixing salary operates as continuous appropriation. When the constitution or a statutory provision fixes the salary to be received by a public officer, it operates as a continuous appropriation therefor, and no further legislative sanction is necessary to authorize the proper officers to pay the same. People ex rel. Hegwer v. Goodykoontz, 22 Colo. 507, 45 P. 414 (1896).

Appropriation for institution deemed appropriation for employees' salaries. An appropriation for the "support and maintenance" of a state institution is an appropriation for the payment of salaries of the employees thereof. Davis v. Morley, 79 Colo. 168, 244 P. 599 (1926).

24-2-104. Bonds. The head of each principal department or any subordinate officer or employee under the same who may be required to handle state funds shall give bond executed by a responsible surety company, authorized to do business within the state, in such sum as may be fixed by law or, in the absence of any such law, such as shall be fixed by the governor as he deems adequate to safeguard the state funds. All such bonds shall be conditioned upon the faithful performance by such head of department, officer, or employee of his duties and, when approved by the governor, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state. The premiums on all such bonds shall be paid as an ordinary expense of the principal department or the division, section, or unit under the department to which such head of department, officers, or employees are appointed, and due appropriation therefor shall be made by the general assembly.

24-2-105. Rules and regulations. The head of each principal department is empowered, subject to the written approval of the governor, to prescribe rules and regulations, not inconsistent with law, for the government of his department, the conduct of its employees, the distribution and performance of its business, and the custody, use, and preservation of the records, papers, books, documents, and property pertaining thereto.

Department of revenue rule may be inconsistent with retail sales tax law if deemed to create a "conclusive presumption" based upon the failure of the vendee to have a sales tax license or a store license, because the law imposes a tax on retail sales only, not on wholesale sales. Pluss v. Dept. of Rev., 173 Colo. 86, 476 P.2d 253 (1970).

24-2-106. Restriction of number of employees. It is the duty of the governor as the supreme executive power of the state to restrict the number of employees in the various offices, boards, divisions, and agencies of the executive department to the lowest number required for efficient operation thereof. In making any appointment or in approving any appointment made by any other official of the executive department, the governor shall certify in writing that he deems such appointment necessary and for the best interests of the public service. In the exercise of his responsibility, the governor may delegate in writing to some other official the power to approve or disapprove appointments made by other officials of the executive department, subject always to final review by the governor at his option.

24-2-107. Transfer of employees. For the purpose of providing necessary flexibility to meet working conditions and seasonal demands, the governor has power, when he is of the opinion and so certifies in writing that it is necessary or desirable so to do, to transfer any employee of any office, board, division, or agency of the state government to any other office, board, division, or agency of the state government for such time as in the opinion of the governor is necessary.

24-2-108. Departments to share information and mailings. For the convenience of the citizens of this state and to promote economy in state government, it is the intent of the general assembly that all principal departments, when feasible and not contrary to federal or state law, shall share as much information as possible and, when reasonably feasible to do so, shall coordinate forms, both federal and state, and shall eliminate multiple mailings to addressees.

Agencies as Parties in Actions

24-3-101. Agency defined.

24-3-102. Party in original action.

Provisions procedural and remedial.

24-3-101. Agency defined. As used in this article, the term "agency" means every agency in the executive branch of the state government which is required by the constitution or statutes of the state to exercise discretion or to perform judicial or quasi-judicial functions. As so qualified, the term "agency" includes, but is not limited to, boards, commissions, departments, divisions, offices, and officers.

24-3-102. Party in original action. (1) Except as otherwise specifically provided and subject to applicable provisions of the constitution, statutes, and rules of civil procedure of the state of Colorado, every agency is authorized:

(a) To institute and appear as a party in original actions in the supreme court of the state of Colorado and the United States supreme court in all causes, matters, and proceedings involving the functions and duties of such agency where such courts have original jurisdiction;

(b) To prosecute appeals in all cases, causes, matters, and proceedings in which such agency is a party in the courts of this state and its subdivisions, federal courts, and courts in other jurisdictions.

ANNOTATION

Applied in City of Aurora v. Indus. Comm'n, 44 Colo. App. 132, 609 P.2d 129 (1980); CF&I Steel Corp. v. Colo. Air Pollution Control

Comm'n, 44 Colo. App. 111, 640 P.2d 238 (1981).

24-4-101.5. Legislative declaration. The general assembly finds that an agency should not regulate or restrict the freedom of any person to conduct his or her affairs, use his or her property, or deal with others on mutually agreeable terms unless it finds, after a full consideration of the effects of the agency action, that the action would benefit the public interest and encourage the benefits of a free enterprise system for the citizens of this state. The general assembly also finds that many government programs may be adopted without stating the direct and indirect costs to consumers and businesses and without consideration of such costs in relation to the benefits to be derived from the programs. The general assembly further recognizes that agency action taken without evaluation of its economic impact may have unintended effects, which may include barriers to competition, reduced economic efficiency, reduced consumer choice, increased producer and consumer costs, and restrictions on employment. The general assembly further finds that agency rules can negatively impact the state's business climate by impeding the ability of local businesses to compete with out-of-state businesses, by discouraging new or existing businesses from moving to this state, and by hindering economic competitiveness and job creation. Accordingly, it is the continuing responsibility of agencies to analyze the economic impact of agency actions and reevaluate the economic impact of continuing agency actions to determine whether the actions promote the public interest.

24-4-102. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Action" includes the whole or any part of any agency rule, order, interlocutory order, license, sanction, relief, or the equivalent or denial thereof, or failure to act. Any agency rule, order, license, sanction, relief, or the equivalent or denial thereof which constitutes final agency action shall include a list of all parties to the agency proceeding and shall specify the date on which the action becomes effective.

(2) "Adjudication" means the procedure used by an agency for the formulation, amendment, or repeal of an order and includes licensing.

(3) "Agency" means any board, bureau, commission, department, institution, division, section, or officer of the state, except those in the legislative branch or judicial branch and except:

(a) State educational institutions administered pursuant to title 23 (except articles 8 and 9, parts 2 and 3 of article 21, and parts 2 to 4 of article 30), C.R.S.;

(b) Repealed.

(c) The adjutant general of the National Guard, whose powers and duties are set forth in section 28-3-106, C.R.S.

(3.5) "Aggrieved", for the purpose of judicial review of rule-making, means having suffered actual loss or injury or being exposed to potential loss or injury to legitimate interests including, but not limited to, business, economic, aesthetic, governmental, recreational, or conservation interests.

(4) "Counsel" means an attorney admitted to practice before the supreme court of this state.

(5) "Decision" means the determinative action in adjudication and includes order, opinion, sanction, and relief.

(5.5) "Economic competitiveness" means the ability of the state of Colorado to attract new business and the ability of the businesses currently operating in Colorado to create new jobs and raise productivity.

(6) "Initial decision" means a decision made by a hearing officer or administrative law judge which will become the action of the agency unless reviewed by the agency.

(6.2) "Interested person" includes any person who may be aggrieved by agency action.

(6.5) "Legislative committees of reference" means the committees established by the rules of the house of representatives and rules of the senate of the general assembly having jurisdiction over subject matter regulated by state agencies.

(7) "License" includes the whole or any part of any agency permit, certificate, registration, charter, membership, or statutory exemption.

(8) "Licensing" includes the procedure used by an agency respecting the grant, renewal, denial, revocation, suspension, annulment, limitation, or modification of a license.

(9) "Opinion" means the statement of reasons, findings of fact, and conclusions of law in explanation or support of an order.

(10) "Order" means the whole or any part of the final disposition (whether affirmative, negative, injunctive, or declaratory in form) by any agency in any matter other than rule-making.

(11) "Party" includes any person or agency named or admitted as a party, or properly seeking and entitled as of right to be admitted as a party, in any court or agency proceeding subject to the provisions of this article.

(12) "Person" includes an individual, limited liability company, partnership, corporation, association, county, and public or private organization of any character other than an agency.

(13) "Proceeding" means any agency process for any rule or rule-making, order or adjudication, or license or licensing.

(14) "Relief" includes the whole or any part of any agency grant of money, assistance, license, authority, exemption, exception, privilege, or remedy; recognition of any claim, right, immunity, privilege, exemption, exception, or remedy; or any other action upon the application or petition of, and beneficial to, any person.

(14.5) "Representative group" means a diverse group convened by an agency prior to rule-making or invited to participate in the rule-making hearing to give input and to comment on the effect of the proposed rules. The group should represent different points of view and may include representatives of persons, businesses, advocacy groups, trade associations, labor organizations, environmental advocacy groups, consumer advocates, or the regulated industry or profession affected negatively or positively by proposed rules.

(15) "Rule" means the whole or any part of every agency statement of general applicability and future effect implementing, interpreting, or declaring law or policy or setting forth the procedure or practice requirements of any agency. "Rule" includes "regulation".

(16) "Rule-making" means agency process for the formulation, amendment, or repeal of a rule.

(17) "Sanction" includes the whole or any part of any agency prohibition, requirement, limitation, or other condition affecting the freedom of any person; withholding of relief; imposition of any form of penalty or fine; destruction, taking, seizure, barring access to, or withholding of property; assessment of damages; reimbursement; restitution; compensation; costs; charges or fees; requirement; revocation or suspension of a license or the prescription or requirement of terms, conditions, or standards of conduct thereunder; or other compulsory or restrictive action.

(18) "Small business" means a business with fewer than five hundred employees.

The director of the department of revenue is an "agency" for purposes of this act. Farmers Cafe v. State Dept. of Rev., 752 P.2d 1064 (Colo. App. 1988).

Board of chiropractic examiners is an "agency" of the state and not subject to civil rights claims asserted under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Stjernholm v. Colorado Bd. of Chiropractic Exam'rs, 820 P.2d 1166 (Colo. App. 1991).

State board for community colleges and occupational education is an "agency" of the state and no action for damages may be maintained under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Nat'l Camera, Inc. v. Sanchez, 832 P.2d 960 (Colo. App. 1991).

Board of county commissioners is an "agency". Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Love, 172 Colo. 121, 470 P.2d 861 (1970).

Labor department's division of employment must also be deemed an "agency", as that term is defined in this section. City of Aurora v. Indus. Comm'n, 44 Colo. App. 132, 609 P.2d 129 (1980).

Air pollution (now air quality) control commission is an "agency" under this section and is subject to the provisions of the state administrative procedure act. CF&I Steel Corp. v. Colo. Air Pollution Control Comm'n, 199 Colo. 270, 610 P.2d 85 (1980).

University of Colorado not an agency. Since the university of Colorado is neither a rule-making nor licensing agency, the administrative procedure act doesn't apply to it expressly or by implication. Sigma Chi Fraternity v. Regents of Univ. of Colo., 258 F. Supp. 515 (D. Colo. 1966).

Community college board not an agency. Pursuant to subsection (3) of this section and § 24-4-106, decisions by the state board for community colleges and occupational education and by a college president are excluded from judicial review. Van Pelt v. State Bd. for Cmty. Colls. & Occupational Educ., 195 Colo. 316, 577 P.2d 765 (1978).

"Aggrieved" parties defined. Those whose activities are exactly those to which a particular regulation apply, and who will be adversely affected by an application of the regulation, are "aggrieved" parties, with standing to seek judicial review of the regulation. CF&I Steel Corp. v. Colo. Air Pollution Control Comm'n, 199 Colo. 270, 610 P.2d 85 (1980).

"Aggrieved" parties under health insurer conversion statute included a policyholder of the corporation to be converted and a coalition of nonprofit organizations that could be adversely affected if the entity established to receive the consideration under this section were not sufficiently funded. Hawes v. Colo. Div. of Ins., 32 P.3d 571 (Colo. App. 2001).

"Order" includes a permit. Grand Valley Citizens' Alliance v. Colo. Oil & Gas Conservation Comm'n, __ P.3d __ (Colo. App. 2010).

"Party" seeking review need not file alternative regulation. Status as a "party" in seeking judicial review of agency action does not require that one have filed an alternative to a proposed regulation. CF&I Steel Corp. v. Colo. Air Pollution Control Comm'n, 199 Colo. 270, 610 P.2d 85 (1980).

County not included in definition of "party". A county, as an arm of the state board of social services, has no rights or privileges so far as its statutory duties are concerned and hence does not come within the definition of "party". Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Bd. of Soc. Servs., 186 Colo. 435, 528 P.2d 244 (1974).

Board of county commissioners has standing to initiate action against Colorado department of social services because it is seeking judicial review on its own behalf, as distinct from its role as the county board of social services, for an alleged injury it has suffered. Under these circumstances, board is not subordinate to the department. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Romer, 931 P.2d 504 (Colo. App. 1996).

The state board for community colleges and occupational education is by definition a state agency, not a "person" under a 42 U.S.C. § 1983 action, and no action for damages may be maintained against it under that statute. Nat'l Camera, Inc. v. Sanchez, 832 P.2d 960 (Colo. App. 1991).

State department of personnel and its director were not "persons" and lacked standing to seek judicial review of state personnel board's action in questioning part of decision made by department and director. State of Colo. v. Colo. State Pers. Bd., 722 P.2d 1012 (Colo. 1986).

Division of labor's requirement that self-insured employers use payroll statement to calculate the tax owed amounted to a "rule" as defined in subsection (15). Jefferson Sch. Dist. R-1 v. Division of Labor, 791 P.2d 1217 (Colo. App. 1990).

Agency actions often invoke both rule-making and adjudicatory authority, but generally, agency proceedings that primarily seek to or in effect determine policies or standards of general applicability are rule-making proceedings. Colo. Office of Consumer Counsel v. Mountain States Tel. and Tel. Co., 816 P.2d 278 (Colo. 1991).

Determining whether a proceeding constitutes rule-making requires careful analysis of the actual conduct and effect of the proceedings and a determination of the purpose for which the proceedings were called. Colo. Office of Consumer Counsel v. Mountain States Tel. and Tel. Co., 816 P.2d 278 (Colo. 1991).

The mere fact that a particular proceeding may have collateral prospective effects on other similarly situated parties does not convert an adjudication into rule-making. Trans Shuttle, Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 89 P.3d 398 (Colo. 2004).

Although the decision of the public utilities commission appeared as a classification of a single utility's services, it in effect established the standards and policies applicable to telecommunications services of all public utilities. The proceeding which resulted in the ruling was therefore a rule-making proceeding, subject to the APA requirements for rule-making proceedings. Colo. Office of Consumer Counsel v. Mountain States Tel. and Tel. Co., 816 P.2d 278 (Colo. 1991); Avicomm, Inc. v. Colo. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 955 P.2d 1023 (Colo. 1998).

It is within the discretion of the administrative law judge to decide, prior to issuing a decision which constitutes the final agency action in a particular matter, when that decision will become effective. Bethesda Found. v. Dept. of Soc. Servs., 877 P.2d 861 (Colo. 1994).

Secretary of state's notice informing games of chance suppliers and manufacturers of fee assessment and reporting requirement was equivalent to an order and therefore amounted to an agency "action" under subsection (1). Bingo Games Supply Co., Inc. v. Meyer, 895 P.2d 1125 (Colo. App. 1995).

Colorado water quality control division's failure to act on a request for a temporary water discharge permit within 180 days constituted final agency action, thereby requiring any district court complaint concerning said action to be filed within 30 days after the end of the 180-day period. Roosevelt Tunnel, LLC v. Norton, 89 P.3d 427 (Colo. App. 2003).

Substance of actions by PUC and not label attached to actions by PUC determines whether PUC has acted in an adjudicatory or rule-making capacity. Home Builders Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 720 P.2d 552 (Colo. 1986).

Function of supreme court is to review the judgment of trial court, and a question of whether a commission violated administrative rule-making statutory provisions in consideration of a well application is beyond the scope of review. Fundingsland v. Colo. Ground Water Comm'n, 171 Colo. 487, 468 P.2d 835 (1970).

Applied in Colo. State Bd. of Optometric Exam'rs v. Dixon, 165 Colo. 488, 440 P.2d 287 (1968); Colo. Auto & Truck Wreckers Ass'n v. Dept. of Rev., 618 P.2d 646 (Colo. 1980); Colo. Water Quality Control Comm'n v. Town of Frederick, 641 P.2d 958 (Colo. 1982); Fish v. Charnes, 652 P.2d 598 (Colo. 1982); Nat'l Wildlife Fed'n v. Cotter Corp., 665 P.2d 598 (Colo. 1983).

24-4-103. Rule-making - procedure - definitions - repeal. (1) When any agency is required or permitted by law to make rules, in order to establish procedures and to accord interested persons an opportunity to participate therein, the provisions of this section shall be applicable. Except when notice or hearing is otherwise required by law, this section does not apply to interpretative rules or general statements of policy, which are not meant to be binding as rules, or rules of agency organization.

(1.5) If an agency reinterprets an existing rule in a manner that is substantially different than previous agency interpretations of the rule or if there has been a change in a statute that affects the interpretation or the legality of a rule, the office of legislative legal services shall review the rule in the same manner as rules that have been newly adopted or amended under paragraph (d) of subsection (8) of this section upon receiving a request for such a review of the rule by any member of the general assembly.

(2) When rule-making is contemplated, public announcement thereof may be made at such time and in such manner as the agency determines. The agency shall establish a representative group of participants with an interest in the subject of the rule-making to submit views or otherwise participate informally in conferences on the proposals under consideration or to participate in the public rule-making proceedings on the proposed rules. In establishing the representative group, the agency shall make diligent attempts to solicit input from representatives of each of the various stakeholder interests that may be affected positively or negatively by the proposed rules. If the agency convenes a representative group prior to issuing a notice of proposed rule-making as provided in paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of this section, the agency shall add those persons who participated in the representative group to the list of persons who receive notification of proposed rule-making as provided in paragraph (b) of subsection (3) of this section.

(2.5) (a) At the time of filing a notice of proposed rule-making with the secretary of state as the secretary may require, an agency shall submit a draft of the proposed rule or the proposed amendment to an existing rule and a statement, in plain language, concerning the subject matter or purpose of the proposed rule or amendment to the office of the executive director in the department of regulatory agencies. The executive director, or his or her designee, may determine if the proposed rule or amendment may have a negative impact on economic competitiveness or on small business in Colorado. If the executive director, or his or her designee, determines that the proposed rule or amendment may have such negative impact, he or she may direct the submitting agency to perform a cost-benefit analysis of the rule or amendment. If the executive director, or his or her designee, makes such a request, it shall be made at least twenty days before the date of the hearing on the rule or amendment. The agency receiving such request shall complete a cost-benefit analysis at least five days before the hearing on the rule or amendment, shall make the analysis available to the public, and shall submit a copy to the executive director or his or her designee. Failure to complete a requested cost-benefit analysis pursuant to this subsection (2.5) shall preclude the adoption of such rule or amendment. Such cost-benefit analysis shall include the following:

- (I) The reason for the rule or amendment;
- (II) The anticipated economic benefits of the rule or amendment, which shall include economic growth, the creation of new jobs, and increased economic competitiveness;
- (III) The anticipated costs of the rule or amendment, which shall include the direct costs to the government to administer the rule or amendment and the direct and indirect costs to business and other entities required to comply with the rule or amendment;
- (IV) Any adverse effects on the economy, consumers, private markets, small businesses, job creation, and economic competitiveness; and
- (V) At least two alternatives to the proposed rule or amendment that can be identified by the submitting agency or a member of the public, including the costs and benefits of pursuing each of the alternatives identified.

(b) The executive director, or his or her designee, shall study the cost-benefit analysis and may urge the agency to revise the rule or amendment to eliminate or reduce the negative economic impact. The executive director, or his or her designee, may inform the public about the negative impact of the proposed rule or the proposed amendment to an existing rule.

(c) Any proprietary information provided to the department of revenue by a business or trade association for the purpose of preparing a cost-benefit analysis shall be confidential.

(d) If the agency has made a good faith effort to comply with the requirements of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2.5), the rule or amendment shall not be invalidated on the ground that the contents of the cost-benefit analysis are insufficient or inaccurate.

(e) This subsection (2.5) shall not apply to orders, licenses, permits, adjudication, or rules affecting the direct reimbursement of vendors or providers with state funds.

(f) (I) This subsection (2.5) is repealed, effective July 1, 2013.

(II) Prior to such repeal, the provisions regarding the preparation of a cost-benefit analysis pursuant to this subsection (2.5) shall be reviewed as provided for in section 24-34-104, C.R.S.

(2.7) (a) As used in this subsection (2.7):

(I) "Director" means the director of the office of state planning and budgeting.

(II) "State mandate" has the same meaning as set forth in section 29-1-304.5 (3) (d), C.R.S.

(b) No agency shall promulgate a rule creating a state mandate on a local government unless the agency complies with the requirements of section 29-1-304.5, C.R.S.

(c) (I) Beginning January 1, 2014, for each proposed rule that includes a state mandate, an agency shall provide to the director a description of:

(A) The proposed rule;

(B) The nature and extent of any consultations that the agency had with elected officials or other representatives of the local governments that would be affected by the proposed state mandate;

(C) The nature of any concerns of the elected officials or other representatives of the local governments;

(D) Any written communications or comments submitted to the agency by an elected official or other representative of a local government; and

(E) The agency's reasoning supporting the need to promulgate the rule containing the state mandate.

(II) The director shall review the information provided pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c) and, if it complies with the requirements of this paragraph (c), the director shall send a written notice of compliance to the agency. An agency shall not conduct a public rule-making proceeding unless the agency has received the written notice of compliance from the director.

(d) Each agency shall develop a process to actively solicit the meaningful and timely input of elected officials and other representatives of local governments into the development of proposed rules with state mandates affecting local governments. Each agency shall implement its process no later than January 1, 2014, and post the process on the agency's web site.

(e) The executive director of each department shall be responsible for ensuring implementation of and compliance with this subsection (2.7).

(f) The general assembly shall appropriate any moneys necessary for the implementation of this subsection (2.7) to the office of state planning and budgeting in the annual general appropriation act for the fiscal year 2013-14.

(3) (a) Notice of proposed rule-making shall be published as provided in subsection (11) of this section and shall state the time, place, and nature of public rule-making proceedings that shall not be held less than twenty days after such publication, the authority under which the rule is proposed, and either the terms or the substance of the proposed rule or a description of the subjects and issues involved.

(a.5) If the agency proposes a rule to increase fees or fines, at the time of giving notice of proposed rule-making or within ten days following the adoption of an emergency or temporary rule that increases fees or fines, the agency shall send a written or electronic notification to each member of the general assembly notifying the members of the general assembly of the proposed rule or the adoption of an emergency rule and specifying the amount of the increase in the fees or fines.

(b) Each rule-making agency shall maintain a list of all persons who request notification of proposed rule-making, including temporary or emergency rule-making. Any person on such list who requests a copy of the proposed rules shall submit to the agency a fee that shall be set by such agency based upon the agency's actual cost of copying and mailing the proposed rules to such person. All fees collected by the agency are hereby appropriated to the agency solely for the purpose of defraying such cost. On or before the date of the publication of notice of proposed rule-making in the Colorado register, the agency shall mail the notice of proposed rule-making to all persons on such list. If a person requests to be notified by electronic mail, notice is sufficient by such means if a copy of the proposed rules is attached or included in the electronic mail or if the electronic mail provides the location where the proposed rules may be viewed on the internet. No fees shall be charged for notification by electronic mail. A person may only request notification on his or her own behalf, and a request for notification by one person on behalf of another person need not be honored.

(4) (a) At the place and time stated in the notice, the agency shall hold a public hearing at which it shall afford interested persons an opportunity to submit written data, views, or arguments and to present the same orally unless the agency deems it unnecessary. The agency shall consider all such submissions. Any proposed rule or revised proposed rule by an agency which is to be considered at the public hearing, together with a proposed statement of basis, specific statutory authority, purpose, and the regulatory analysis required in subsection (4.5) of this section, shall be made available to any person at least five days prior to said hearing. The rules promulgated by the agency shall be based on the record, which shall consist of proposed rules, evidence, exhibits, and other matters presented or considered, matters officially noticed, rulings on exceptions, any findings of fact and conclusions of law proposed by any party, and any written comments or briefs filed.

(a.5) Subject to the provisions of section 24-72-204 (3) (a) (IV), any study or other documentation utilized by an agency as the basis of a proposed rule shall be a public document in accordance with the provisions of part 2 of article 72 of this title and shall be open for public inspection. Subject to the provisions of section 24-72-204 (3) (a) (IV), all information, including, but not limited to, the conclusions and underlying research data from any studies, reports, published papers, and documents, used by the agency in the development of a proposed rule shall be a public document in accordance with the provisions of part 2 of article 72 of this title and shall be open for public inspection.

(b) All proposed rules shall be reviewed by the agency. No rule shall be adopted unless:

(I) The record of the rule-making proceeding demonstrates the need for the regulation;

(II) The proper statutory authority exists for the regulation;

(III) To the extent practicable, the regulation is clearly and simply stated so that its meaning will be understood by any party required to comply with the regulation;

(IV) The regulation does not conflict with other provisions of law; and

(V) The duplication or overlapping of regulations is explained by the agency proposing the rule.

(c) Rules, as finally adopted, shall be consistent with the subject matter as set forth in the notice of proposed rule-making provided in subsection (11) of this section. After consideration of the relevant matter presented, the agency shall incorporate by reference on the rules adopted a written concise general statement of their basis, specific statutory authority, and purpose. The written statement of the basis, specific authority, regulatory analysis required by subsection (4.5) of this section, and purpose of a rule which involves scientific or technological issues shall include an evaluation of the scientific or technological rationale justifying the rule. Each agency shall maintain a copy of its currently effective rules and the current status of each published proposal for rules and minutes of all its action upon rules, as well as any attorney general's opinion rendered on any adopted or proposed rule. Such materials shall be available for inspection by any person during regular office hours.

(d) Within one hundred eighty days after the last public hearing on the proposed rule, the agency shall adopt a rule pursuant to the rule-making proceeding or terminate the proceeding by publication of a notice to that effect in the Colorado register.

(4.5) (a) Upon request of any person, at least fifteen days prior to the hearing, the agency shall issue a regulatory analysis of a proposed rule. The regulatory analysis shall contain:

(I) A description of the classes of persons who will be affected by the proposed rule, including classes that will bear the costs of the proposed rule and classes that will benefit from the proposed rule;

(II) To the extent practicable, a description of the probable quantitative and qualitative impact of the proposed rule, economic or otherwise, upon affected classes of persons;

(III) The probable costs to the agency and to any other agency of the implementation and enforcement of the proposed rule and any anticipated effect on state revenues;

(IV) A comparison of the probable costs and benefits of the proposed rule to the probable costs and benefits of inaction;

(V) A determination of whether there are less costly methods or less intrusive methods for achieving the purpose of the proposed rule; and

(VI) A description of any alternative methods for achieving the purpose of the proposed rule that were seriously considered by the agency and the reasons why they were rejected in favor of the proposed rule.

(b) Each regulatory analysis shall include quantification of the data to the extent practicable and shall take account of both short-term and long-term consequences.

(c) The regulatory analysis shall be available to the public at least five days prior to the rule-making hearing.

(d) If the agency has made a good faith effort to comply with the requirements of paragraphs (a) to (c) of this subsection (4.5), the rule shall not be invalidated on the ground that the contents of the regulatory analysis are insufficient or inaccurate.

(e) Nothing in paragraphs (a) to (c) of this subsection (4.5) shall limit an agency's discretionary authority to adopt or amend rules.

(f) The provisions of this subsection (4.5) shall not apply to rules and regulations promulgated by the department of revenue regarding the administration of any tax which is within the authority of said department.

(5) A rule shall become effective twenty days after publication of the rule as finally adopted, as provided in subsection (11) of this section, or on such later date as is stated in the rule. Once a rule becomes effective, the rule-making process shall be deemed to have become final agency action for judicial review purposes.

(6) (a) A temporary or emergency rule may be adopted without compliance with the procedures prescribed in subsection (4) of this section and with less than the twenty days' notice prescribed in subsection (3) of this section, or where circumstances imperatively require, without notice, only if the agency finds that immediate adoption of the rule is imperatively necessary to comply with a state or federal law or federal regulation or for the preservation of public health, safety, or welfare and compliance with the requirements of this section would be contrary to the public interest and makes such a finding on the record. Such findings and a statement of the reasons for the action shall be published with the rule. A temporary or emergency rule may be adopted without compliance with subsections (2.5) and (2.7) of this section, but shall not become permanent without compliance with such subsections (2.5) and (2.7). A temporary or emergency rule shall become effective on adoption or on such later date as is stated in the rule, shall be published promptly, and shall have effect for not more than one hundred twenty days after its adoption or for such shorter period as may be specifically provided by the statute governing such agency, unless made permanent by compliance with subsections (3) and (4) of this section.

(b) The period of effectiveness provided by this subsection (6) does not apply to temporary or emergency rules adopted by the public utilities commission under section 40-2-108 (2), C.R.S.

(7) Any interested person shall have the right to petition for the issuance, amendment, or repeal of a rule. Such petition shall be open to public inspection. Action on such petition shall be within the discretion of the agency; but when an agency undertakes rule-making on any matter, all related petitions for the issuance, amendment, or repeal of rules on such matter shall be considered and acted upon in the same proceeding.

(8) (a) No rule shall be issued except within the power delegated to the agency and as authorized by law. A rule shall not be deemed to be within the statutory authority and jurisdiction of any agency merely because such rule is not contrary to the specific provisions of a statute. Any rule or amendment to an existing rule issued by any agency, including state institutions of higher education administered pursuant to title 23, C.R.S., which conflicts with a statute shall be void.

(b) On and after July 1, 1967, no rule shall be issued nor existing rule amended by any agency unless it is first submitted by the issuing agency to the attorney general for his opinion as to its constitutionality and legality. Any rule or amendment to an existing rule issued by any agency without being so submitted to the attorney general shall be void.

(c) (I) Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary and the provisions of section 24-4-107, all rules adopted or amended on or after January 1, 1993, and before November 1, 1993, shall expire at 11:59 p.m. on May 15 of the year following their adoption unless the general assembly by bill acts to postpone the expiration of a specific rule, and commencing with rules adopted or amended on or after November 1, 1993, all rules adopted or amended during any one-year period that begins each November 1 and continues through the following October 31 shall expire at 11:59 p.m. on the May 15 that follows such one-year period unless the general assembly by bill acts to postpone the expiration of a specific rule; except that a rule adopted pursuant to section 25.5-4-402.3 (5) (b) (III), C.R.S., shall expire at 11:59 p.m. on the May 15 following the adoption of the rule unless the general assembly acts by bill to postpone the expiration of a specific rule. The general assembly, in its discretion, may postpone such expiration, in which case, the provisions of section 24-4-108 or 24-34-104 shall apply, and the rules shall expire or be subject to review as provided in said sections. The postponement of the expiration of a rule shall not constitute legislative approval of the rule nor be admissible in any court as evidence of legislative intent. The postponement of the expiration date of a specific rule shall not prohibit any action by the general assembly pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (d) of this subsection (8) with respect to such rule.

(II) It is the intent of the general assembly that, in the event of a conflict between this paragraph (c) and any other provision of law relating to suspension or extension of rules by joint resolution (whether said provision was adopted prior to or subsequent to this paragraph (c)), this paragraph (c) shall control, notwithstanding the rule of law that a specific provision of law controls over a general provision of law.

(d) All rules adopted or amended on or after July 1, 1976, including temporary or emergency rules, shall be submitted by the adopting agency to the office of legislative legal services in the form and manner prescribed by the committee on legal services. Said rules and amendments to existing rules shall be filed by and in such office and shall be first reviewed by the staff of said committee to determine whether said rules and amendments are within the agency's rule-making authority and for later review by the committee on legal services for its opinion as to whether the rules conform with paragraph (a) of this subsection (8). The committee on legal services shall direct the staff of the committee to review the rules submitted by adopting agencies using graduated levels of review based on criteria established by the committee. The criteria developed by the committee shall provide that every rule shall be reviewed as to form and compliance with filing procedures and that, upon request of any member of the committee or any other member of the general assembly, the staff shall provide full legal review of any rule during the time period that such rule is subject to review by the committee. The official certificate of the director of the office of legislative legal services as to the fact of submission or the date of submission of a rule as shown by the records of his office, as well as to the fact of nonsubmission as shown by the nonexistence of such records, shall be received and held in all civil cases as competent evidence of the facts contained therein. Records regarding the review of rules pursuant to this section shall be retained by the office of legislative legal services in accordance with policies established pursuant to section 2-3-303 (2), C.R.S. Any such rule or amendment to an existing rule issued by any agency without being so submitted within twenty days after the date of the attorney general's opinion rendered thereon to the office of legislative legal services for review by the committee on legal services shall be void. The staff's findings shall be presented to said committee at a public meeting held after timely notice to the public and affected agencies. The committee on legal services shall, on affirmative vote, submit such rules, comments, and proposed legislation at the next regular session of the general assembly. The committee on legal services shall be the committee of reference for any bill introduced pursuant to this paragraph (d). Any member of the general assembly may introduce a bill which rescinds or deletes portions of the rule. Rejection of such a bill does not constitute legislative approval of the rule. Only that portion of any rule specifically disapproved by bill shall no longer be effective, and that portion of the rule which remains after deletion of a portion thereof shall retain its character as an administrative rule. Each agency shall revise its rules to conform with the action taken by the general assembly. A rule which has been allowed to expire by action of the general assembly pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (c) of this subsection (8) because such rule, in the opinion of the general assembly, is not authorized by the state constitution or statute shall not be repromulgated by an agency unless the authority to promulgate such rule has been granted to such agency by a statutory amendment or by the state constitution or by a judicial determination that statutory or constitutional authority exists. Any rule so repromulgated shall be void. Such revision shall be transmitted to the secretary of state for publication pursuant to subsection (11) of this section. Passage of a bill repealing a rule does not result in revival of a predecessor rule. This paragraph (d) and subsection (4.5) of this section do not apply to rules of agency organization or general statements of policy which are not meant to be binding as rules. For the purpose of performing the functions assigned it by this paragraph (d), the committee on legal services, with the approval of the speaker of the house of representatives and the president of the senate, may appoint subcommittees from the membership of the general assembly.

(8.1) (a) An agency shall maintain an official rule-making record for each proposed rule for which a notice of proposed rule-making has been published in the Colorado register. Such rule-making record shall be maintained by the agency until all administrative and judicial review procedures have been completed pursuant to the provisions of this article. The rule-making record shall be available for public inspection.

(b) The agency rule-making record shall contain:

(I) Copies of all publications in the Colorado register with respect to the rule or the proceeding upon which the rule is based;

(II) Copies of any portions of the agency's public rule-making docket containing entries relating to the rule or the proceeding upon which the rule is based;

(III) All written petitions, requests, submissions, and comments received by the agency as of the date of the hearing on the rule and all other written materials, or a listing of such materials, considered by the agency in connection with the formulation, proposal, or adoption of the rule or the proceeding upon which the rule is based, which materials shall be available for public inspection during working hours;

(IV) Any official transcript of oral presentations made in the proceeding upon which the rule is based or, if not transcribed, any tape recording or stenographic record of those presentations and any memorandum prepared by a presiding official summarizing the contents of those presentations;

(V) A copy of any regulatory analysis or cost-benefit analysis prepared for the proceeding upon which the rule was based, if applicable, and any formal statement made to the agency promulgating the rule by the executive director of the department of regulatory agencies regarding such cost-benefit analysis;

(VI) A copy of the rule and explanatory statement filed in the office of the secretary of state;

(VII) All petitions for exceptions to, amendments of, or repeal or suspension of the rule;

(VIII) A copy of any objection to the rule presented to the committee on legal services of the general assembly by its staff pursuant to paragraph (d) of subsection (8) of this section and the agency's response;

(IX) A copy of any filed executive order with respect to the rule; and

(X) A copy of any information provided to the director pursuant to paragraph (c) of subsection (2.7) of this section and the written notice of compliance from the director.

(c) Upon judicial review, the record required by this section constitutes the official rule-making record with respect to a rule. The agency rule-making record need not constitute the exclusive basis for agency action on that rule or for judicial review thereof; except that, this paragraph (c) shall not be interpreted to allow the introduction of evidence or information into such rule-making record from outside of the public rule-making hearing, or to allow such introduction of evidence or information without notice to all parties to such hearing and opportunity to respond.

(d) If an agency includes information required by subparagraph (X) of paragraph (b) of this subsection (8.1) in the rule-making record, the agency shall provide a copy of the portion of the record that includes such information with the executive committee of the legislative council in accordance with the provisions of section 24-1-136 (9).

(8.2) (a) A rule adopted on or after September 1, 1988, shall be invalid unless adopted in substantial compliance with the provisions of this section. However, inadvertent failure to mail a notice of proposed rule-making to any person as required by subsection (3) of this section shall not invalidate a rule.

(b) An action to contest the validity of a rule on the grounds of its noncompliance with any provision of this section shall be commenced within thirty days after the effective date of the rule.

(8.3) (a) On or after August 11, 2010, all new or amended rules or regulations promulgated pursuant to this section that refer to persons with disabilities shall comply with the provisions of section 2-2-802, C.R.S., as applicable to the new or amended rule.

(b) Violation of this subsection (8.3) shall not be grounds to invalidate any new or amended rule; however, such rules shall be amended to reflect the provisions of section 2-2-802, C.R.S., in any subsequent revision.

(c) Nothing in this subsection (8.3) shall constitute a requirement to change the name of any department, agency, or program of the state.

(9) Each agency shall make available to the public and shall deliver to anyone requesting it a copy of any notice of proposed rule-making proceeding in which action has not been completed. Upon request, such copy shall be certified. The agency may make a reasonable charge for supplying any such copy.

(10) No rule shall be relied upon or cited against any person unless, if adopted after May 1, 1959, it has been published and, whether adopted before or after said date, it has been made available to the public in accordance with this section.

(11) (a) There is hereby established the code of Colorado regulations for the publication of rules of agencies of the executive branch and the Colorado register for the publication of notices of rule-making, proposed rules, attorney general's opinions relating to such rules, and adopted rules. The code and the register shall be the sole official publications for such rules, notices of rule-making, proposed rules, and attorney general's opinions. The code and the register shall contain, where applicable, references to court opinions and recommendations of the legal services committee of the general assembly that relate to or affect such rules and references to any action of the general assembly relating to the extension, expiration, deletion, or rescission of such rules and may contain other items that, in the opinion of the editor, are relevant to such rules. The register may also include other public notices, including annual departmental regulatory agendas submitted by principal departments to the secretary of state pursuant to section 2-7-203, C.R.S.; however, except as specifically permitted by law, the inclusion of such notices in the register shall be in addition to and not in substitution for existing public notice requirements.

(b) The secretary of state shall cause to be published in electronic form, and may cause to be published in printed form, at the least cost possible to the state, the code of Colorado regulations and the Colorado register no less often than once each calendar month. In the event of any discrepancy between the electronic and printed form of the code or the register, the electronic form shall prevail unless it is conclusively shown, by reference to the rule-making filings made with the secretary of state pursuant to this section, that the electronic form contains an error in publication.

(d) (I) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2010, (SB 10-123), ch. 104, p. 350, § 1, effective April 15, 2010.)

(II) Each rule adopted, together with the attorney general's opinion rendered in connection therewith, shall be filed pursuant to subsection (12) of this section within twenty days after adoption with the secretary of state for publication in the Colorado register. Upon written request of an agency, the secretary of state shall correct typographical and other nonsubstantive errors appearing in the rules as filed by such agency that occur after final adoption of the rules by the agency during the preparation of such rules for publication in order to conform the published rules with the adopted rules. Notices of rule-making proceedings pursuant to subsection (3) of this section shall also be filed with the secretary of state in sufficient time for publication pursuant to subsection (5) of this section in the register. Rules revised to conform with action taken by the general assembly shall be filed with the secretary of state for publication in the register and in the code of Colorado regulations. The legal services committee of the general assembly shall notify the secretary of state whenever a rule published in the code is rescinded or a portion thereof is deleted by the general assembly and whenever a rule or a portion thereof is allowed to expire in accordance with section 24-4-108 or with subparagraph (I) of paragraph (c) of subsection (8) of this section, and the secretary of state shall direct the removal from the code of material so deleted, rescinded, or allowed to expire.

(e) The secretary of state shall establish and maintain an accurate docket system for recording the time and date of the filing of each document, the agency filing the same, and the title or description of such document required to be filed for publication under the provisions of this section, which docket system shall be cross-indexed as to such time, date, agency, and title or description.

(f) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2010, (SB 10-123), ch. 104, p. 350, § 1, effective April 15, 2010.)

(g) Publication of notices and other required information related to proposed and adopted rules shall be by electronic publication.

(h) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2010, (SB 10-123), ch. 104, p. 350, § 1, effective April 15, 2010.)

(i) (I) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2010, (SB 10-123), ch. 104, p. 350, § 1, effective April 15, 2010.)

(II) The Colorado register shall contain only such notices, proposed rules, adopted rules, opinions, and other relevant information and materials as are filed pursuant to law with the secretary of state.

(III) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2010, (SB 10-123), ch. 104, p. 350, § 1, effective April 15, 2010.)

(j) Repealed.

(k) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2010, (SB 10-123), ch. 104, p. 350, § 1, effective April 15, 2010.)

(12) All rules of any agency that have been submitted to the attorney general under the provisions of subsection (8) of this section and the opinion of the attorney general, when issued, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state. The secretary of state shall require that all rules of any agency that have been submitted to the attorney general under the provisions of subsection (8) of this section and the opinion of the attorney general, when issued, be filed in an electronic format that complies with any requirements established pursuant to sections 24-37.5-106 and 24-71.3-118.

(12.5) (a) A rule may incorporate by reference all or any part of a code, standard, guideline, or rule that has been adopted by an agency of the United States, this state, or another state, or adopted or published by a nationally recognized organization or association, if:

(I) Repeating verbatim the text of the code, standard, guideline, or rule in the rule would be unduly cumbersome, expensive, or otherwise inexpedient;

(II) The reference fully identifies the incorporated code, standard, guideline, or rule by citation and date, identifies the address of the agency where the code, standard, guideline, or rule is available for public inspection, and states that the rule does not include any later amendments or editions of the code, standard, guideline, or rule;

(III) The code, standard, guideline, or rule is readily available to the public in written or electronic form;

(IV) The rule states where copies of the code, standard, guideline, or rule are available for a reasonable charge from the agency adopting the rule and where copies are available from the agency of the United States, this state, another state, or the organization or association originally issuing the code, standard, guideline, or rule; and

(V) The agency maintains a copy of the code, standard, guideline, or rule readily available for public inspection at the agency office during regular business hours.

(b) The agency shall provide certified copies of the material incorporated at cost upon request or shall provide the requestor with information on how to obtain a certified copy of the material incorporated by reference from the agency of the United States, this state, another state, or the organization or association originally issuing the code, standard, guideline, or rule.

(c) If any agency incorporates or proposes to incorporate any material by reference in a rule and the version or edition of the material to be incorporated has not previously been provided to the state publications depository and distribution center, and if the rule or proposed rule does not identify where the incorporated material is available to the public on the internet at no cost, then the agency shall provide one copy of the material in either paper or electronic format to the state publications depository and distribution center. The state librarian shall retain the copy of the material and shall make the copy available to the public.

(13) Any agency conducting a hearing shall have authority on its own motion or upon the motion of any interested person for good cause shown to: Administer oaths and affirmations; sign and issue subpoenas; regulate the course of the hearing, set the time and place for continued hearings, and fix the time for the filing of appropriate documents; take depositions or have depositions taken; issue appropriate orders which shall control the subsequent course of the proceedings; and take any other action authorized by agency rule consistent with this article. In the event more than one person engages in the conduct of a hearing, such persons shall designate one of their number to perform the functions of this subsection (13) and subsection (14) of this section as can best be performed by one person only, and thereafter such person only shall perform those functions which are assigned to him by the several persons conducting such hearing.

(14) Subpoenas shall be issued without discrimination between public and private parties by any agency or any member, the secretary or chief administrative officer thereof, or, with respect to any hearing for which a hearing officer or an administrative law judge has been appointed, the hearing officer or administrative law judge. A subpoena shall be served in the same manner as a subpoena issued by a district court. Upon failure of any witness to comply with such subpoena, the agency may petition any district court, setting forth that due notice has been given of the time and place of attendance of the witness and the service of the subpoena, in which event, the district court, after hearing evidence in support of or contrary to the petition, may enter an order as in other civil actions compelling the witness to attend and testify or produce books, records, or other evidence, under penalty of punishment for contempt in case of contumacious failure to comply with the order of the court. A witness shall be entitled to the fees and mileage provided for a witness in sections 13-33-102 and 13-33-103, C.R.S.

Editor's note: (1) House Bill 77-1646, which amended subsection (8)(d), was delivered to the governor on June 20, 1977. The general assembly adjourned sine die on June 22, 1977. The governor disapproved House Bill 77-1646 on July 15, 1977, but the bill was not filed with the secretary of state until July 27, 1977, and the governor's letter stating objections to the bill was not filed with the secretary of state until August 2, 1977. Because House Bill 77-1646 and the governor's objections to it were not filed with the secretary of state within thirty days after adjournment of the general assembly, House Bill 77-1646 became a law pursuant to the provisions of § 11 of article IV of the Colorado Constitution.

(2) Amendments to subsection (4) by House Bill 77-1419 and House Bill 77-1623 were harmonized.

(3) Amendments to subsection (8)(d) by House Bill 79-1393 and House Bill 79-1063 were harmonized.

(4) Amendments to subsection (11)(b) by Senate Bill 03-121 and House Bill 03-1350 were harmonized.

Section constitutional. Subsection (10) does not violate § 21 of art. VI, Colo. Const. People v. Bobian, 626 P.2d 1132 (Colo. 1981).

The basic purpose of subsection (10) is public policy rather than simply a legislative attempt to regulate the day-to-day procedural operation of the courts. People v. Bobian, 626 P.2d 1132 (Colo. 1981).

Section is not applicable to board of regents of university of Colorado. Sigma Chi Fraternity v. Regents of Univ. of Colo., 258 F. Supp. 515 (D. Colo. 1966).

Section is not applicable to suspension of medical license. Section 24-4-104 (4), dealing with the procedure for the issuance, suspension, revocation, or renewal of licenses, is the authority for the state board of medical examiners to summarily suspend a license to practice medicine pending a full hearing; this section and § 12-36-101 et seq., dealing with medical practice, do not apply. Bd. of Medical Exam'rs v. District Court, 191 Colo. 158, 551 P.2d 194 (1976).

Apparent purpose of the 1977 amendment was to formalize, to a limited degree, the agency rule-making process by requiring a brief explanation of the reasoning process underlying an administrative regulation, and by requiring that the regulation be based upon and tied to the administrative record. Citizens for Free Enter. v. Dept. of Rev., 649 P.2d 1054 (Colo. 1982).

Rationale for requirement of statement of basis and purpose. The statement of basis and purpose assures that the administratively perceived necessity for the rule will be explicated, and serves to provide a reference point against which the validity of the rule can be measured. It removes the review process from the realm of speculation and provides a context within which meaningful judicial review can occur. Citizens for Free Enter. v. Dept. of Rev., 649 P.2d 1054 (Colo. 1982).

Where agency, in rule-making, fails to maintain an appropriate record of the public hearing because of a malfunctioning tape recorder, improperly compiles the rule-making record by introducing documents from outside of the rule-making procedures, and fails to maintain the rule-making record by failing to include and maintain all written submissions and comments received by the agency prior to the hearing, the agency has failed to substantially comply with the requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act. Studor v. Examining Bd. of Plumbers, 929 P.2d 46 (Colo. App. 1996).

The reason for the prehearing statement of basis and purpose under subsection (2.5)(a) is to provide public notice of what the agency is considering. The reason for requiring that rules incorporate by reference a written concise general statement of their basis, specific statutory authority, and purpose under subsection (4)(c) is to assist in appellate review. Brighton Pharmacy, Inc. v. Colo. State Pharmacy Bd., 160 P.3d 412 (Colo. App. 2007).

Agency substantially complied with the requirement of state Administrative Procedure Act (APA) of providing a statement of basis and purpose. Here, regulation at issue was not based on findings of fact obtained from evidence presented at the hearing or otherwise. Instead, it was based almost entirely on policy considerations. In addition, the purpose of the regulation is self-explanatory. Brighton Pharmacy, Inc. v. Colo. State Pharmacy Bd., 160 P.3d 412 (Colo. App. 2007).

State pharmacy board (Board) substantially complied with APA requirements of maintaining an adequate and appropriate record of the rulemaking hearing proceeding. Maintaining an adequate record provides a rationale and support for agency decisions, allows for public inspection of the agency's actions, and establishes a record that an appellate court may use to evaluate the basis of the agency's conclusions. Here, the Board substantially complied with APA hearing procedure requirements where (1) although the tape recording of the hearing contains inaudible and unreconstructed portions, the substance of and core testimony at the hearing appears to be intact and sufficient for public inspection and appellate review, (2) written comments were included in the record that address many of the items discussed at the hearing, (3) comments and questions made by Board members during the testimony are sufficient to convey the Board's thought processes and reasoning, and (4) the record sufficiently indicates that a majority of Board members voted in favor of the rule. Brighton Pharmacy, Inc. v. Colo. State Pharmacy Bd., 160 P.3d 412 (Colo. App. 2007).

State pharmacy board (Board) did not exceed its statutory authority in promulgating rule prohibiting pharmacists from dispensing prescription drugs resulting from internet-based questionnaires, internet-based consultation, or telephonic consultation without a valid preexisting patient-practitioner relationship. Court rejects appellants' claims that a determination of whether a valid preexisting patient-practitioner relationship (1) necessarily involves knowledge of the Medical Practice Act and the rules promulgated by the Colorado state board of medical examiners (BME), (2) is beyond the expertise of individual pharmacists and the Board, and (3) improperly injects the Board into areas that are properly regulated by the BME. Brighton Pharmacy, Inc. v. Colo. State Pharmacy Bd., 160 P.3d 412 (Colo. App. 2007).

Fiscal impact determination not based on record before agency. Subsection (8)(d) does not require that the fiscal impact determination be based upon or supported by the record before the administrative agency. Rather, the administrative agency should conduct such investigations and research as are reasonably necessary to arrive at an estimate of fiscal impact or to determine that such impact cannot reasonably or reliably be quantified. Citizens for Free Enter. v. Dept. of Rev., 649 P.2d 1054 (Colo. 1982) (decided prior to 1988 amendment deleting fiscal impact statement requirement).

Fiscal impact statement requirement relates to the substance of new or amended regulations and not to their form. If the amendment is one of substance which has fiscal implications, then the fiscal impact statement is required. Conversely, if the change is not substantive and does not affect the fiscal impact of the regulation as it is written, then no fiscal impact statement is required. Dept. of Natural Res. v. Clark Gen. Store, Inc., 658 P.2d 1385 (Colo. App. 1983) (decided prior to 1988 amendment deleting fiscal impact statement requirement).

Simple renumbering of preexisting regulation does not constitute an amendment such as would require a fiscal impact statement under subsection (8)(d). Dept. of Natural Res. v. Clark Gen. Store, Inc., 658 P.2d 1385 (Colo. App. 1983) (decided prior to 1988 amendment deleting fiscal impact statement requirement).

Review of fiscal impact statements is limited. The role of the court in reviewing the sufficiency of fiscal impact statements is limited. Citizens for Free Enter. v. Dept. of Rev., 649 P.2d 1054 (Colo. 1982) (decided prior to 1988 amendment deleting fiscal impact statement requirement).

Only where the statement of fiscal impact is clearly inadequate may the court intervene. Citizens for Free Enter. v. Dept. of Rev., 649 P.2d 1054 (Colo. 1982) (decided prior to 1988 amendment deleting fiscal impact statement requirement).

Lack of bona fide emergency. Rule not invalid for lack of emergency where challenge was merely procedural and where notice and an opportunity to be heard were given. Colo. Health Care Ass'n v. Dept. of Soc. Servs., 598 F. Supp. 1400 (D. Colo. 1984).

Issue of validity of emergency regulations not considered when the new regulations, if invalidly promulgated, would have left identical prior regulations in effect. Nat. Advertising v. Dept. of Highways, 718 P.2d 1038 (Colo. 1986).

Rule-making quasi-legislative in character. Rule-making conducted in accordance with this section is quasi-legislative, not quasi-judicial, in character. Collopy v. Wildlife Comm'n, 625 P.2d 994 (Colo. 1981).

An administrative regulation promulgated pursuant to this section is a quasi-legislative action subject to review by a declaratory judgment. Clasby v. Klapper, 636 P.2d 682 (Colo. 1981).

Legislative delegation of rule-making and regulatory authority to an administrative agency must provide both sufficient standards for rational and consistent rule-making and adequate procedural safeguards for effective judicial review of administrative action. Orsinger Outdoor Advertising, Inc. v. Dept. of Hwys., 752 P.2d 55 (Colo. 1988); Partridge v. State, 895 P.2d 1183 (Colo. App. 1995).

The general assembly need not adopt a specific formula to guide agency rule-making if the agency can find general guidance, through the legislative intent, in the purposes and overall scheme of an act. Ettelman v. State Bd. of Accountancy, 849 P.2d 795 (Colo. App. 1992).

While the construction of a statute by an administrative agency charged with its enforcement should be given deference by the courts, the courts have a duty to invalidate administrative regulations which conflict with the design of a statute because they are in excess of the administrative authority granted. Ettelman v. State Bd. of Accountancy, 849 P.2d 795 (Colo. App. 1992).

Board's rules were not abolished by legislation abolishing existing board and immediately creating a newly constituted one, nor was board required to re-enact, ratify, or promulgate new rules, since annual legislation by the general assembly specifically postponing the expiration of the board's rules effectively postponed the rules of the "old" board and continued their application under the "new" board. 1st Am. Sav. Bank v. Boulder County, 888 P.2d 360 (Colo. App. 1994).

Secretary of state was not required to promulgate rules under the APA in order to implement the reporting requirement for games of chance suppliers and manufacturers under § 12-9-107.5. Bingo Games Supply Co., Inc. v. Meyer, 895 P.2d 1125 (Colo. App. 1995).

Counties not "persons" or "parties". There is nothing in the context of this section that includes counties as "persons" or "parties" entitled as of right to be admitted to agency hearings. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. State Bd. of Soc. Servs., 186 Colo. 435, 528 P.2d 244 (1974).

Department proposing a regulation has no affirmative duty to offer supporting evidence. Colo. Auto & Truck Wreckers Ass'n v. Dept. of Rev., 618 P.2d 646 (Colo. 1980).

Study or findings are not required to support rules based primarily on policy considerations if reasoning process leading to rules is defensible. Colo. Health Care Ass'n v. Dept. of Soc. Servs., 598 F. Supp. 1400 (D. Colo. 1984).

Racing commission was not precluded from making financial irresponsibility grounds for discipline, even though such grounds were not enumerated in § 12-60-507, since the rule was in the interests of the public and reasonable and was fully consistent with the commission's authority to promulgate rules. Partridge v. State, 895 P.2d 1183 (Colo. App. 1995).

Submissions by interested persons not controlling. Although subsection (4) provides that the agency "shall consider all submissions", it does not provide that such submissions shall be controlling, even when unrebutted. Colo. Auto & Truck Wreckers Ass'n v. Dept. of Rev., 618 P.2d 646 (Colo. 1980).

Definition of "rule". The numerical point system formulated by a peer review organization was not a rule but a general statement of policy which did not establish a binding norm nor finally determine issues or rights. Therefore no publication of the point system was required. Meyer v. State Dept. of Soc. Servs., 758 P.2d 192 (Colo. App. 1988).

Division of labor's requirement that self-insured employers use payroll statement to calculate the tax owed amounted to a "rule" as defined in subsection (15) of § 24-4-102. Jefferson Sch. Dist. R-1 v. Division of Labor, 791 P.2d 1217 (Colo. App. 1990).

Promulgated and effective rule deemed "final" and subject to review. Once a commission's rule or regulation has been promulgated and is in effect, the agency action is "final" as to that particular regulation and subject to review under this article. CF&I Steel Corp. v. Colo. Air Pollution Control Comm'n, 199 Colo. 270, 610 P.2d 85 (1980).

Properly filed and indexed rules introduced in evidence. In effect, the general assembly stated in this section that, in order to have a rule introduced in evidence, the filing authority shall index and number the set of rules involved, shall keep amendments and repealed rules in a separate permanent file, and shall cross-index with up-to-date rules any amended or repealed rules. People v. Williams, 197 Colo. 559, 596 P.2d 745 (1979).

When rule may be introduced into evidence. An administrative rule which does not satisfy the public notice requirements of this section may not be introduced as evidence in criminal proceedings. People v. More, 668 P.2d 968 (Colo. App. 1983).

A party to judicial proceedings has the right to require an adverse party seeking to introduce an administrative rule into evidence to establish compliance with the applicable provisions of this section. People v. More, 668 P.2d 968 (Colo. App. 1983).

Statute governing admission of administrative rules and regulations into evidence against an accused in a criminal trial requires only a showing of proper publication and public availability of the rules. No showing need be made that there has been compliance with the provisions of the statute governing other aspects of issuance or promulgation of the rules. People v. Gallegos, 692 P.2d 1074 (Colo. 1984) (limiting People v. More cited in the previous paragraphs).

Standard of review specified in subsection (6) correctly applied where termination was reversed without an explicit finding that agency action was arbitrary, capricious, or contrary to rule or law. Kinchen v. Dept. of Institutions, 867 P.2d 8 (Colo. App. 1993).

Conviction based on regulation not available to public is reversed. Where, in order to show that defendant received aid to the blind benefits to which he was not entitled, the department of social services had to both cite and rely on a regulation which had not been made available to the public in violation of this section, the defendant's conviction for welfare fraud had to be reversed. People v. Bobian, 626 P.2d 1132 (Colo. 1981).

Administrative law judge (ALJ) violated subsection (10) where the numerical point system formulated by the department of social services was utilized by the ALJ as the sole criterion upon which to determine petitioners' continuing eligibility for benefits but had never been made the subject of a formally adopted rule or regulation nor had claimant been given proper notice of its preeminent significance in determining benefit eligibility. Weaver v. Dept. of Soc. Servs., 791 P.2d 1230 (Colo. App. 1990).

The use of unpublished criteria in a scoring system used to evaluate the plaintiff's eligibility for home- and community-based services was not in violation of the Administrative Procedure Act because the scoring system serves only to facilitate the evaluation process for certain applicants and is not the final factual determination of eligibility. Morgan v. Colo. Dept. of Health Care Policy & Fin., 56 P.3d 1136 (Colo. App. 2002).

Agency rule-making conducted in accordance with this section is quasi-legislative, not quasi-judicial, in character. Colo. Ground Water Comm'n v. Eagle Peak Farms, 919 P.2d 212 (Colo. 1996).

Rules that are interpretive in nature fall within the express exception to the notice and hearing requirements of this section. Regular Rt. Com. Carrier Conf. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 761 P.2d 737 (Colo. 1988).

Agency's rule, which provides minimum guidelines as to how the discovery process will be conducted with respect to that agency, is an interpretive rule and falls within the express exception to the notice and hearing requirements of this section. Colo. Motor Vehicle v. Northglenn, 972 P.2d 707 (Colo. App. 1998).

Whether a rule is legislative or interpretive depends on its effect. It is legislative if it establishes a norm that commands a particular result in all applicable proceedings; it is interpretive if it establishes guidelines that do not bind the agency to a particular result. Hammond v. Pub. Employees' Ret. Ass'n, 219 P.3d 426 (Colo. App. 2009).

Emergency rule-making was within authority of department of social services and in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act and the Medicaid Act. Health Care of Colo. v. Dept. of Soc. Servs., 842 F.2d 1158 (10th Cir. 1988).

Fiscal impact statement is not required to contain a description of the types of persons the rule will injure. The paragraph of the rule only requires a description of those types of persons or groups who will bear the costs of the rule and, for purposes of this paragraph, costs means fiscal costs. Urbish v. Lamm, 761 P.2d 756 (Colo. 1988) (decided under law in effect prior to 1988 amendment deleting fiscal impact statement requirement).

Rules published in the code of Colorado regulations are a fit subject for judicial notice. Westfall v. Town of Hugo, 851 P.2d 299 (Colo. App. 1993).

Where an agency's interpretation of law established agency policy and procedure, compliance with the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) was required and, where the APA requirements were not met, the rule was not enforceable. Jefferson Sch. Dist. R-1 v. Division of Labor, 791 P.2d 1217 (Colo. App. 1990).

It was permissible for the trial court to consider the commission's deliberations in the rule-making proceeding, in conjunction with the rest of the record, in conducting the court's review. The transcripts of the commission's deliberations are analogous to legislative history concerning a statute. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Water Quality Control Comm'n, 809 P.2d 1107 (Colo. App. 1991).

A regulation may not modify or contravene an existing statute, and any regulation that is inconsistent with or contrary to statute is void. Ettelman v. State Bd. of Accountancy, 849 P.2d 795 (Colo. App. 1992).

A regulation that states that permits issued pursuant to it shall be binding with respect to "any conflicting local governmental permit or land use approval process" is overly broad and void where it conflicts with law providing that oil and gas rules preempt county regulations only when the operational effect of the county regulations conflicts with the application of the state oil and gas statute or state regulations. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Colo. Oil & Gas Conser- vation Comm'n, 81 P.3d 1119 (Colo. App. 2003).

District court did not abuse its discretion by entering preliminary injunction against secretary of state enjoining implementation of administrative rule. Proposed rule would force labor and other covered organizations to get written permission before using an individual's dues or contributions to fund political campaigns. Plaintiffs demonstrated reasonable probability of success on the merits in challenging secretary's authority to enact proposed rule. Secretary's "definition" of term "member" in proposed rule is much more than an effort to define term. It can be read effectively to add, modify, and conflict with constitutional provision by imposing new condition not found in text of article XXVIII. Secretary's stated purpose in enacting proposed rule not furthered by "definition" contained in proposed rule. Proposed rule does not further secretary's stated goal of achieving transparency of contributions.

Finally, timing and scope of secretary's definition raise constitutional issues with respect to plaintiff's associational rights. Sanger v. Dennis, 148 P.3d 404 (Colo. App. 2006).

24-4-103.5. Rule-making affecting small business - procedure. (Repealed)

24-4-104. Licenses - issuance, suspension or revocation, renewal. (1) In any case in which application is made for a license required by law, the agency, with due regard for the rights and privileges of all interested persons, shall set and conduct the proceedings in accordance with this article unless otherwise required by law.

(2) Every agency decision respecting the grant, renewal, denial, revocation, suspension, annulment, limitation, or modification of a license shall be based solely upon the stated criteria, terms, and purposes of the statute, or regulations promulgated thereunder, and case law interpreting such statutes and regulations pursuant to which the license is issued or required. Terms, conditions, or requirements limiting any license shall be valid only if reasonably necessary to effectuate the purposes, scope, or stated terms of the statute pursuant to which the license is issued or required.

(3) (a) No revocation, suspension, annulment, limitation, or modification of a license by any agency shall be lawful unless, before institution of agency proceedings therefor, the agency has given the licensee notice in writing of objective facts or conduct established upon a full investigation that may warrant such action and afforded the licensee opportunity to submit written data, views, and arguments with respect to the facts or conduct and, except in cases of deliberate and willful violation or of substantial danger to public health and safety, given the licensee a reasonable opportunity to comply with all lawful requirements. For purposes of this subsection (3), "full investigation" means a reasonable ascertainment of the underlying facts on which the agency action is based.

(b) The full investigation requirement specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) shall not apply to licenses issued under articles 1.1, 9, 10, 11, 11.5, 13, 14, and 16 of title 40 or article 2 of title 42, C.R.S.

(4) (a) Where the agency has objective and reasonable grounds to believe and finds, upon a full investigation, that the licensee has been guilty of deliberate and willful violation or that the public health, safety, or welfare imperatively requires emergency action and incorporates the findings in its order, it may summarily suspend the license pending proceedings for suspension or revocation which shall be promptly instituted and determined. For purposes of this subsection (4), "full investigation" means a reasonable ascertainment of the underlying facts on which the agency action is based.

(b) The full investigation requirement specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) shall not apply to licenses issued under articles 1.1, 9, 10, 11, 11.5, 13, 14, and 16 of title 40 or article 2 of title 42, C.R.S.

(5) A proceeding for the revocation, suspension, annulment, limitation, or modification of a previously issued license shall be commenced by the agency upon its own motion or by the filing with the agency of a written complaint, signed and sworn to by the complainant, stating the name of the licensee complained against and the grounds for the requested action.

(6) No previously issued license shall be revoked, suspended, annulled, limited, or modified, except as provided in subsection (3) of this section, until after hearing as provided in section 24-4-105.

(7) In any case in which the licensee has made timely and sufficient application for the renewal of a license or for a new license for the conduct of a previously licensed activity of a continuing nature, the existing license shall not expire until such application has been finally acted upon by the agency, and, if the application is denied, it shall be treated in all respects as a denial. The licensee, within sixty days after the giving of notice of such action, may request a hearing before the agency as provided in section 24-4-105, and the action of the agency after any hearing shall be subject to judicial review as provided in section 24-4-106.

(8) An application for a license shall be acted upon promptly, and, immediately after the taking of action on such application by an agency, a written notice of the action taken by the agency and, if the application is denied, the grounds therefor shall be given to the applicant. The giving of such notice shall be by personal service upon the applicant or by mailing the same to the address of the applicant as shown on the application or as subsequently furnished in writing by the applicant to the agency.

(9) If an application for a new license is denied without a hearing, the applicant, within sixty days after the giving of notice of such action, may request a hearing before the agency as provided in section 24-4-105, and the action of the agency after any hearing shall be subject to judicial review as provided in section 24-4-106.

(10) Written notice of the revocation, suspension, annulment, limitation, or modification of a license and the grounds therefor shall be served forthwith on the licensee personally or by mailing by first-class mail to the last address furnished the agency by the licensee.

(11) A limitation, unless consented to by the applicant, on a license applied for shall be treated as a denial. A modification, unless consented to by the licensee, of a license already issued shall be treated as a revocation.

(12) In an appropriate case a revoked or suspended license may be reissued.

(13) (a) Any applicant who, under oath, supplies false information to an agency in an application for a license commits perjury in the second degree, as defined in section 18-8-503, C.R.S. Any such application shall bear notice, in accordance with section 18-8-501 (2) (a) (I), C.R.S., that false statements made therein are punishable.

(b) On and after January 1, 1985, an agency shall not require that information contained in an application for a license be affirmed to before a notary.

This section provides an independent right to a hearing in only two areas: Rule-making and licensure. Bazemore v. Colo. State Lottery Div., 64 P.3d 876 (Colo. App. 2002).

Colorado statutory scheme makes adequate provisions for prompt hearing and determination of emergency summary license suspensions to meet due process requirements. Any vagueness in the term "promptly" is adequately cured by licensee's statutory right to request and obtain an "immediate" hearing following an emergency suspension. Motor Vehicle Div. v. Castro, 914 P.2d 517 (Colo. App. 1996).

Section applicable to suspension of medical license. Subsection (4) is the authority for the state board of medical examiners to summarily suspend a license to practice medicine pending a full hearing; § 12-36-101 et seq., dealing with medical practice, and § 24-4-103, dealing with rule-making procedure, do not apply. Bd. of Med. Exam'rs v. District Court, 191 Colo. 158, 551 P.2d 194 (1976).

And to suspension of fireworks licenses by the secretary of state. Sanchez v. State, 730 P.2d 328 (Colo. 1986).

Section not applicable to board of accountancy. The notice and hearing requirements of subsection (3) are of no significance where there is a specific statutory provision concerning the notice and hearing requirements in proceedings before the board of accountancy. People ex rel. Bd. of Accountancy v. McFarland, 37 Colo. App. 93, 543 P.2d 112 (1975).

Nor to liquor license suspension proceedings. The provisions of § 12-47-110, not the state administrative procedure act, do not apply to liquor license suspension proceedings. Continental Liquor Co. v. Kalbin, 43 Colo. App. 438, 608 P.2d 353 (1977); Chroma Corp. v. Campbell, 44 Colo. App. 387, 619 P.2d 74 (1980).

Nor to the director of the department of revenue's discretionary decision. Because § 39-26-111 makes the authority of the director of the department of revenue to withdraw permission to make returns and pay taxes on the cash basis discretionary, that specific provision controls over the general provisions of this section and § 24-4-105 regarding notice and a hearing upon revocation of a license. Montgomery Ward & Co. v. Dept. of Rev., 628 P.2d 85 (Colo. 1981).

Suspension or revocation hearing is a disciplinary proceeding. An administrative hearing to revoke or suspend a professional license is a disciplinary, not a criminal, proceeding. Commerce City Drug v. Bd. of Pharmacy, 32 Colo. App. 216, 511 P.2d 935 (1973).

License conditions and revocation authorized by law and constitution. The gaming commission was within its statutory authority in conditioning a key employee license on payment of back child support and taxes and revoking such license for failure to comply with such conditions. The gaming commission did not abuse its discretion or violate due process in so revoking the license where the licensee was given a reasonable opportunity to comply with such conditions, failed to provide requested income tax returns, and made false statements of material fact to the investigator regarding the filing of tax returns and where the gaming commission provided the licensee with substantial evidentiary leeway, allowed the licensee to cross-examine and impeach the investigator, and gave the licensee the opportunity to argue the proper standard for license revocation. Feeney v. Colo. Ltd. Gaming Control Comm'n, 890 P.2d 173 (Colo. App. 1994).

When there is a conflict between provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) and a specific statutory provision relating to a specific agency, the specific statutory provision is deemed controlling in professional disciplinary proceedings before the board of medical examiners. State Bd. of Med. Exam'rs v. Reiner, 786 P.2d 499 (Colo. App. 1989).

Board of chiropractic examiners only has authority to suspend a license summarily in situations involving an emergency, despite the APA's provision allowing summary suspension for either a deliberate or willful violation or an emergency situation, since the more specific statutory provision relating to a particular agency controls. Stjernholm v. Bd. of Chiropractic Exam'rs, 865 P.2d 853 (Colo. App. 1993).

Agency that is given authority to suspend and revoke licenses pursuant to this section is given qualified authority to revoke licenses and not absolute authority. Sanchez v. State, 730 P.2d 328 (Colo. 1986).

Because the statutes specific to the state engineer are silent with regard to the procedures applicable to a petition to revoke a groundwater permit, the state engineer must follow the procedures established in this section. V Bar Ranch LLC v. Cotten, 233 P.3d 1200 (Colo. 2010).

Agency has no authority to revoke a license unless the licensee is first given a reasonable opportunity to correct such conduct that would justify the revocation of the license, except when it has been determined to have been deliberate and wilful. Sanchez v. State, 730 P.2d 328 (Colo. 1986); Colo. Motor Vehicle Dealer Bd. v. Butterfield, 9 P.3d 1148 (Colo. App. 2000).

A finding that the charges alleged in the notice, which involved fraudulent conduct, had been proven necessarily implied that the respondent acted willfully and deliberately, and thus there was no requirement for a pre-hearing opportunity for compliance. Colo. Motor Vehicle

Dealer Bd. v. Butterfield, 9 P.3d 1148 (Colo. App. 2000).

Exhaustion of administrative remedies is not required prior to judicial review when the agency fails to trigger appropriate procedures by issuing the notice required by subsection (3). Golden's Concrete Co. v. State, 937 P.2d 789 (Colo. App. 1996), rev'd on other grounds, 962 P.2d 919 (Colo. 1998).

Exhaustion doctrine explained. The principal policies underlying the exhaustion doctrine are to prevent premature interference with agency processes; to afford the parties and the courts the benefit of the agency's experience and expertise; and to compile a record that is adequate for judicial review. Golden's Concrete Co. v. State, 937 P.2d 789 (Colo. App. 1996), rev'd on other grounds, 962 P.2d 919 (Colo. 1998).

Exceptions to exhaustion doctrine include situations where only pure questions of law are presented, hence the agency's expertise is of no particular value, and where further administrative proceedings would be futile. Golden's Concrete Co. v. State, 937 P.2d 789 (Colo. App. 1996), rev'd on other grounds, 962 P.2d 919 (Colo. 1998).

Summary revocation of fireworks licenses was improper without the secretary of state making an initial finding of deliberate and willful conduct because the licensee suffers an immediate loss of livelihood without due process protections of prior notice and formal hearing. Sanchez v. State, 730 P.2d 328 (Colo. 1986).

"Timely" notice, plus opportunity to submit arguments, is constitutionally required. When the specific time for a hearing is not expressly provided elsewhere, notice of the hearing must be "timely", and the licensee shall have the opportunity to submit written data, views, and arguments in order to afford due process. Bd. of Med. Exam'rs v. Palmer, 157 Colo. 40, 400 P.2d 914 (1965).

Although "double" notice not required. In a proceeding to revoke an optometrist's license, neither due process considerations nor this section requires "double" notice, i.e., notice that license revocation proceedings have been initiated, as well as a separate notice of the hearing itself. Dixon v. Bd. of Optometric Exam'rs, 39 Colo. App. 200, 565 P.2d 960 (1977); Colo. Motor Vehicle Dealer Bd. v. Butterfield, 9 P.3d 1148 (Colo. App. 2000); Colo. Motor Vehicle Dealer Bd. v. Brinker, 39 P.3d 1269 (Colo. App. 2001).

Department of agriculture did not violate notice requirements merely because it failed to provide written notice of plaintiff's right to submit written data, views, and arguments before the filing of the notice of charges. Speer v. Kourlis, 935 P.2d 43 (Colo. App. 1996); Colo. Motor Vehicle Dealer Bd. v. Butterfield, 9 P.3d 1148 (Colo. App. 2000).

The record did not support that plaintiff's conduct with regard to licensing violations was not willful and deliberate, and therefore plaintiff was entitled to an opportunity to comply with the law before licensing sanctions were imposed. Speer v. Kourlis, 935 P.2d 43 (Colo. App. 1996).

It is less than certain that the APA requires the state board for community colleges and occupational education to conduct a predep-ri-va-tion hearing since it is not clear that a revocation results when an existing certificate merely expires because the renewal application is not sufficient in form or substance as prescribed by § 12-59-108. Nat'l Camera, Inc. v. Sanchez, 832 P.2d 960 (Colo. App. 1991).

No conflict between this section and § 12-36-118 of the "Colorado Medical Practice Act" (MPA) since the MPA does not reference summary suspensions. Bd. of Med. Exam'rs v. Court of Appeals, 920 P.2d 807 (Colo. 1996).

Applied in In re Estate of Smith v. O'Halloran, 557 F. Supp. 289 (D. Colo. 1983); In re Maul v. State Bd. of Dental Exam'rs, 668 P.2d 933 (Colo. 1983).

24-4-104.5. Permits - rules in effect at time of submission of application for a permit control. (1) For purposes of this section, unless the context otherwise requires, "permit" means a grant of authority by an agency that authorizes the holder of the permit to do some act not forbidden by law but not allowed to be performed without such authority. "Permit" does not include a professional license issued by a licensing board or an agency to conduct a profession or occupation. "Permit" does not include a registration or certification issued by a board or state agency to an individual to pursue a profession, practice, or occupation. "Permit" does not include a water well permit issued by the state engineer pursuant to title 37, C.R.S.

(2) (a) The rules and any written statements of agency interpretation of the statutes of an agency that are in effect on the date that a person applies for issuance or renewal of a permit govern the application process and any permit eligibility requirement. If the rules or any written statements of agency interpretation of the statutes governing the agency's permit process or the requirements to qualify for a permit have been amended, the agency shall process the application under the rules and any written statements of agency interpretation of the statutes in effect on the date of the application, unless the agency determines in writing that:

- (I) (A) The new rules materially affect the health and safety of the public; and
 - (B) Use of the rules in effect on the date of application is likely to result in an unsafe situation if the applicant does not comply with the new rules; or
 - (II) New rules or new requirements are necessary to ensure that the agency and the permit will be in compliance with the requirements of federal law and federal regulations; or
 - (III) New rules or new requirements are necessary to ensure that the agency and the permit will not be in conflict with state statutes; or
 - (IV) New rules or new requirements are necessary to ensure that the agency and the permit will be in compliance with the requirements of a court order.
- (b) If the agency determines that one of the exceptions to the requirements of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) will occur if the applicant does not comply with the new rules or new requirements, the agency shall:
- (I) Treat the application as pending;
 - (II) Provide a written notice to the applicant stating the reasons the application is incomplete; and
 - (III) Give the applicant a reasonable opportunity to comply with the new rules or new requirements.
- (3) If an agency adopts or amends rules that govern or impact the application process or any permit eligibility requirements after a person has applied for a permit or renewal of a permit and while the application is pending with the agency, the person shall have the option to have the application processed under the rules in existence at the time of the filing of the application or under the new rules.

24-4-105. Hearings and determinations. (1) In order to assure that all parties to any agency adjudicatory proceeding are accorded due process of law, the provisions of this section shall be applicable.

(2) (a) In any such proceeding in which an opportunity for agency adjudicatory hearing is required under the state constitution or by this or any other statute, the parties are entitled to a hearing and decision in conformity with this section. Any person entitled to notice of a hearing shall be given timely notice of the time, place, and nature thereof, the legal authority and jurisdiction under which it is to be held, and the matters of fact and law asserted. Unless otherwise provided by law, such notice shall be served personally or by mailing by first-class mail to the last address furnished the agency by the person to be notified at least thirty days prior to the hearing. In fixing the time and place for a hearing, due regard shall be had for the convenience and necessity of the parties and their representatives.

(b) Any person given such notice shall file a written answer thirty days after the service or mailing of such notice. If such person fails to answer, any agency, administrative law judge, or hearing officer, upon motion, may enter a default. For good cause shown, the entry of default may be set aside within ten days after the date of such entry.

(c) A person who may be affected or aggrieved by agency action shall be admitted as a party to the proceeding upon his filing with the agency a written request therefor, setting forth a brief and plain statement of the facts which entitle him to be admitted and the matters which he claims should be decided. Nothing in this subsection (2) shall prevent an agency from admitting any person or agency as a party to any agency proceeding for limited purposes.

(3) At a hearing only one of the following may preside: The agency, an administrative law judge from the office of administrative courts, or, if otherwise authorized by law, a hearing officer who if authorized by law may be a member of the body which comprises the agency. Upon the filing in good faith by a party of a timely and sufficient affidavit of personal bias of an administrative law judge or a hearing officer or a member of the agency or the agency, the administrative law judge, hearing officer, or agency shall forthwith rule upon the allegations in such affidavit as part of the record in the case. An administrative law judge or a hearing officer may at any time withdraw if he or she deems himself or herself disqualified or for any other good reason in which case another administrative law judge or hearing officer may be assigned to continue the case, and he or she shall do so in such manner that no substantial prejudice to any party results therefrom. An agency or a member of an agency may withdraw for any like reason and in like manner, unless his or her withdrawal makes it impossible for the agency to render a decision.

(4) Any agency conducting a hearing, any administrative law judge, and any hearing officer shall have authority to: Administer oaths and affirmations; sign and issue subpoenas; rule upon offers of proof and receive evidence; dispose of motions relating to the discovery and production of relevant documents and things for inspection, copying, or photographing; regulate the course of the hearing, set the time and place for continued hearings, and fix the time for the filing of briefs and other documents; direct the parties to appear and confer to consider the simplification of the issues, admissions of fact or of documents to avoid unnecessary proof, and limitation of the number of expert witnesses; issue appropriate orders which shall control the subsequent course of the proceedings; dispose of motions to dismiss for lack of agency jurisdiction over the subject matter or parties or for any other ground; dispose of motions to amend or to dismiss without prejudice applications and other pleadings; dispose of motions to intervene, procedural requests, or similar matters; reprimand or exclude from the hearing any person for any improper or indecorous conduct in his presence; award attorney fees for abuses of discovery procedures or as otherwise provided under the Colorado rules of civil procedure; and take any other action authorized by agency rule consistent with this article or in accordance, to the extent practicable, with the procedure in the district courts. All parties to the proceeding shall also have the right to cross-examine witnesses who testify at the proceeding. In the event more than one person engages in the conduct of a hearing, such persons shall designate one of their number to perform such of the above functions as can best be performed by one person only, and thereafter such person only shall perform those functions which are assigned to him by the several persons conducting such hearing.

(5) Subpoenas shall be issued without discrimination between public and private parties by any agency or any member, the secretary, or chief administrative officer thereof or, with respect to any hearing for which an administrative law judge or a hearing officer has been appointed, the administrative law judge or the hearing officer. A subpoena shall be served in the same manner as a subpoena issued by a district court. Upon failure of any witness to comply with such subpoena, the agency may petition any district court, setting forth that due notice has been given of the time and place of attendance of the witness and the service of the subpoena; in which event, the district court, after hearing evidence in support of or contrary to the petition, may enter an order as in other civil actions compelling the witness to attend and testify or produce books, records, or other evidence, under penalty of punishment for contempt in case of contumacious failure to comply with the order of the court and may award attorney fees under the Colorado rules of civil procedure. A witness shall be entitled to the fees and mileage provided for a witness in a court of record.

(6) No person engaged in conducting a hearing or participating in a decision or an initial decision shall be responsible to or subject to the supervision or direction of any officer, employee, or agent engaged in the performance of investigatory or prosecuting functions for the agency.

(7) Except as otherwise provided by statute, the proponent of an order shall have the burden of proof, and every party to the proceeding shall have the right to present his case or defense by oral and documentary evidence, to submit rebuttal evidence, and to conduct such cross-examination as may be required for a full and true disclosure of the facts. Subject to these rights and requirements, where a hearing will be expedited and the interests of the parties will not be substantially prejudiced thereby, a person conducting a hearing may receive all or part of the evidence in written form. The rules of evidence and requirements of proof shall conform, to the extent practicable, with those in civil nonjury cases in the district courts. However, when necessary to do so in order to ascertain facts affecting the substantial rights of the parties to the proceeding, the person so conducting the hearing may receive and consider evidence not admissible under such rules if such evidence possesses probative value commonly accepted by reasonable and prudent men in the conduct of their affairs. Objections to evidentiary offers may be made and shall be noted in the record. The person conducting a hearing shall give effect to the rules of privilege recognized by law. He may exclude incompetent and unduly repetitious evidence. Documentary evidence may be received in the form of a copy or excerpt if the original is not readily available; but, upon request, the party shall be given an opportunity to compare the copy with the original. An agency may utilize its experience, technical competence, and specialized knowledge in the evaluation of the evidence presented to it.

(8) An agency may take notice of general, technical, or scientific facts within its knowledge, but only if the fact so noticed is specified in the record or is brought to the attention of the parties before final decision and every party is afforded an opportunity to controvert the fact so noticed.

(9) (a) Any party, or the agent, servant, or employee of any party, permitted or compelled to testify or to submit data or evidence shall be entitled to the benefit of legal counsel of his or her own choosing and at his or her own expense, but a person may appear on their own behalf. An attorney who is a witness may not act as counsel for the party calling the attorney as a witness. Any party, upon payment of a reasonable charge therefor, shall be entitled to procure a copy of the transcript of the record or any part thereof. Any person permitted or compelled to testify or to submit data or evidence shall be entitled to the benefit of legal counsel of such person's own choosing and, upon payment of a reasonable charge therefor, to procure a copy of the transcript of such person's testimony if it is recorded.

(b) (I) Except as provided in subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (b), no attorney shall submit a document concerning an adjudicatory proceeding after January 1, 1994, unless such document is submitted on recycled paper. The provisions of this section shall apply to all papers appended to each such document.

(II) (A) Any state agency that adopts policies, procedures, rules, or regulations for the purpose of implementing the provisions of this section shall ensure that the conduct of state business is not impeded and that no person is denied access to the services or programs of a state agency as a result of such implementation.

(B) No document shall be refused by a state agency solely because it was not submitted on recycled paper.

(III) Nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to:

(A) Photographs;

(B) An original document that was prepared or printed prior to January 1, 1994;

(C) A document that was not created at the direction or under the control of the submitting attorney;

(D) Facsimile copies concerning an adjudicatory proceeding otherwise permitted to be filed in lieu of the original document; however, if the original is also required to be filed, such original shall be submitted in compliance with this section;

(E) Existing stocks of nonrecycled paper and preprinted forms acquired or printed prior to January 1, 1994.

(IV) The provisions of this section shall not be applicable if recycled paper is not readily available.

(V) For purposes of this paragraph (b), unless the context otherwise requires:

(A) "Attorney" means an attorney-at-law admitted to practice law before any court of record in this state.

(B) "Document" means any pleading or any other paper submitted as an appendix to such pleading by an attorney, which document is required or permitted to be filed with a state agency concerning any action to be commenced or which is pending before such agency.

(C) "Recycled paper" means paper with not less than fifty percent of its total weight consisting of secondary and postconsumer waste and with not less than ten percent of such total weight consisting of postconsumer waste.

(10) Every agency shall proceed with reasonable dispatch to conclude any matter presented to it with due regard for the convenience of the parties or their representatives, giving precedence to rehearing proceedings after remand by court order. Prompt notice shall be given of the refusal to accept for filing or the denial in whole or in part of any written application or other request made in connection with any agency proceeding or action, with a statement of the grounds therefor. Upon application made to any court of competent jurisdiction by a party to any agency proceeding or by a person adversely affected by agency action and a showing to the court that there has been undue delay in connection with such proceeding or action, the court may direct the agency to decide the matter promptly.

(11) Every agency shall provide by rule for the entertaining, in its sound discretion, and prompt disposition of petitions for declaratory orders to terminate controversies or to remove uncertainties as to the applicability to the petitioners of any statutory provision or of any rule or order of the agency. The order disposing of the petition shall constitute agency action subject to judicial review.

(12) Nothing in this article shall affect statutory powers of an agency to issue an emergency order where the agency finds and states of record the reasons for so finding that immediate issuance of the order is imperatively necessary for the preservation of public health, safety, or welfare and observance of the requirements of this section would be contrary to the public interest. Any person against whom an emergency order is issued, who would otherwise be entitled to a hearing pursuant to this section, shall be entitled upon request to an immediate hearing in accordance with this article, in which proceeding the agency shall be deemed the proponent of the order.

(13) The administrative law judge or the hearing officer shall cause the proceedings to be recorded by a reporter or by an electronic recording device. When required, the administrative law judge or the hearing officer shall cause the proceedings, or any portion thereof, to be transcribed, the cost thereof to be paid by the agency when it orders the transcription or by any party seeking to reverse or modify an initial decision of the administrative law judge or the hearing officer. If the agency acquires a copy of the transcription of the proceedings, its copy of the transcription shall be made available to any party at reasonable times for inspection and study.

(14) (a) For the purpose of a decision by an agency which conducts a hearing or an initial decision by an administrative law judge or a hearing officer, the record shall include: All pleadings, applications, evidence, exhibits, and other papers presented or considered, matters officially noticed, rulings upon exceptions, any findings of fact and conclusions of law proposed by any party, and any written brief filed. The agency, administrative law judge, or hearing officer may permit oral argument. No ex parte material or representation of any kind offered without notice shall be received or considered by the agency, the administrative law judge, or by the hearing officer. The agency, an administrative law judge, or hearing officer, with the consent of all parties, may eliminate or summarize any part of the record where this may be done without affecting the decision. In any case in which the agency has conducted the hearing, the agency shall prepare, file, and serve upon each party its decision. In any case in which an administrative law judge or a hearing officer has conducted the hearing, the administrative law judge or the hearing officer shall prepare and file an initial decision which the agency shall serve upon each party, except where all parties with the consent of the agency have expressly waived their right to have an initial decision rendered by such administrative law judge or hearing officer. Each decision and initial decision shall include a statement of findings and conclusions upon all the material issues of fact, law, or discretion presented by the record and the appropriate order, sanction, relief, or denial thereof. An appeal to the agency shall be made as follows:

(I) With regard to initial decisions regarding agency action by the department of health care policy and financing, the state department of human services, or county department of social services, or any contractor acting for any such department, under section 26-1-106 (1)

(a) or 25.5-1-107 (1) (a), C.R.S., by filing exceptions within fifteen days after service of the initial decision upon the parties, unless extended by the department of health care policy and financing, or the state department of human services, as applicable, or unless a review has been initiated in accordance with this subparagraph (I) upon motion of the applicable department within fifteen days after service of the initial decision. In the event a party fails to file an exception within fifteen days, the applicable department may allow, upon a showing of good cause by the party, for an extension of up to an additional fifteen days to reconsider the final agency action.

(II) With regard to initial decisions regarding agency action of any other agency, by filing exceptions within thirty days after service of the initial decision upon the parties, unless extended by the agency or unless review has been initiated upon motion of the agency within thirty days after service of the initial decision.

(b) (I) In the absence of an exception filed pursuant to subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (14), the executive director of the department of health care policy and financing shall review the initial decision regarding agency action by such department in accordance with a procedure adopted by the medical services board pursuant to section 25.5-1-107 (1), C.R.S.

(II) In the absence of an exception filed pursuant to subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (14), the executive director of the state department of human services shall review the initial decision regarding agency action by such department in accordance with a procedure adopted by the state board of human services pursuant to section 26-1-106 (1), C.R.S.

(III) In the absence of an exception filed pursuant to subparagraph (II) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (14), the initial decision of any other agency shall become the decision of the agency, and, in such case, the evidence taken by the administrative law judge or the hearing officer need not be transcribed.

(c) Failure to file the exceptions prescribed in this subsection (14) shall result in a waiver of the right to judicial review of the final order of such agency, unless that portion of such order subject to exception is different from the content of the initial decision.

(15) (a) Any party who seeks to reverse or modify the initial decision of the administrative law judge or the hearing officer shall file with the agency, within twenty days following such decision, a designation of the relevant parts of the record described in subsection (14) of this section and of the parts of the transcript of the proceedings which shall be prepared and advance the cost therefor. A copy of this designation shall be served on all parties. Within ten days thereafter, any other party or the agency may also file a designation of additional parts of the transcript of the proceedings which is to be included and advance the cost therefor. The transcript or the parts thereof which may be designated by the parties or the agency shall be prepared by the reporter or, in the case of an electronic recording device, the agency and shall thereafter be filed with the agency. No transcription is required if the agency's review is limited to a pure question of law. The agency may permit oral argument. The grounds of the decision shall be within the scope of the issues presented on the record. The record shall include all matters constituting the record upon which the decision of the administrative law judge or the hearing officer was based, the rulings upon the proposed findings and conclusions, the initial decision of the administrative law judge or the hearing officer, and any other exceptions and briefs filed.

(b) The findings of evidentiary fact, as distinguished from ultimate conclusions of fact, made by the administrative law judge or the hearing officer shall not be set aside by the agency on review of the initial decision unless such findings of evidentiary fact are contrary to the weight of the evidence. The agency may remand the case to the administrative law judge or the hearing officer for such further proceedings as it may direct, or it may affirm, set aside, or modify the order or any sanction or relief entered therein, in conformity with the facts and the law.

(16) (a) Each decision and initial decision shall be served on each party by personal service or by mailing by first-class mail to the last address furnished the agency by such party and, except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (16), shall be effective as to such party on the date mailed or such later date as is stated in the decision.

(b) Upon application by a party, and prior to the expiration of the time allowed for commencing an action for judicial review, the agency may change the effective date of a decision or initial decision.

Annotator's note. Cases included in the annotations to this section which refer to a hearing officer were decided prior to the enactment of 1987 House Bill No. 1049 which changed the title of hearing officers to administrative law judges.

Purpose of section. These statutory provisions are designed to assure that administrative adjudicatory proceedings are conducted in accordance with due process and will be expedited in the interest of the parties so that no party will be substantially prejudiced thereby. Weiss v. Dept. of Pub. Safety, 847 P.2d 197 (Colo. App. 1992).

Authority of state personnel board hearing officer with respect to hearing procedures is established by this section in accordance with Art. XII, §§ 13 and 14, of the state constitution. Weiss v. Dept. of Pub. Safety, 847 P.2d 197 (Colo. App. 1992).

Under the Administrative Procedure Act, an administrative agency has authority and, in certain situations, the duty to issue subpoenas. Nye v. State, Dept. of Rev., 902 P.2d 959 (Colo. App. 1995).

Section not applicable to the director of the department of revenue's discretionary decision. Because § 39-26-111 makes the authority of the director of the department of revenue to withdraw permission to make returns and pay taxes on the cash basis discretionary, that specific provision controls over the general provisions of § 24-4-104 and this section. Montgomery Ward & Co. v. Dept. of Rev., 628 P.2d 85 (Colo. 1981).

Nor to water commissioners supplying customers outside city. Denver's action in supplying customers outside the city does not subject the board of water commissioners to the notice and hearing requirements of this section.

Cottrell v. City & County of Denver, 636 P.2d 703 (Colo. 1981).

Nor to delays prior to hearing. This section deals with the progress of proceedings before an agency after commencement thereof, and not with delays prior to hearing. Berry v. Dept. of Rev., 656 P.2d 721 (Colo. App. 1982).

Nor do subsection (14) requirements apply to the initiative title setting review board when it holds a meeting for designating and fixing a title, ballot title and submission clause, and summary. Specific process and procedure is set out in the initiative and referendum statutes. Matter of Title, Ballot Title et al., 831 P.2d 1301 (Colo. 1992).

Subsection (14) requirements do not apply to the board of equalization in light of the specific hearing and appellate provisions set out in the property tax statutes. Carrara Place v. Bd. of Equaliz., 761 P.2d 197 (Colo. 1988).

Colorado administrative procedure act does not bar a dual role as a fact witness at one step of the proceedings and a member of a reviewing body at another step in the proceedings. Leonard v. Bd. of Dirs., 673 P.2d 1019 (Colo. App. 1983).

The administrative procedure act contains no statutory provision indicating that the director of the motor vehicle division of the department of revenue is one who is "engaged in the performance of investigatory or prosecuting functions" of the department. Cordova v. Mansheim, 725 P.2d 1158 (Colo. App. 1986).

Subsection (6), which requires separation of prosecutorial and judging functions, is only applicable when the statutory scheme requires both a prosecutor and a hearing examiner. When the statutory scheme provides for a nonadversarial, show cause proceeding, which does not require the participation of a prosecutor, subsection (6) does not apply. Woodrow v. Wildlife Comm'n, 206 P.3d 835 (Colo. App. 2009).

Subsection (6) is not violated simply because a hearing officer is a member of the relevant agency. Woodrow v. Wildlife Comm'n, 206 P.3d 835 (Colo. App. 2009).

Disqualification of hospital board members. The withdrawal of hospital board members for reason of alleged bias would make it impossible to decide the question of a physician's medical staff privileges where the board is the only body empowered under the bylaws to make such a decision. Disqualification will not be permitted to destroy the only tribunal with power in the premises. Leonard v. Bd. of Dirs., 673 P.2d 1019 (Colo. App. 1983).

Suspension or revocation hearing is a disciplinary proceeding. An administrative hearing to revoke or suspend a professional license is a disciplinary, not a criminal, proceeding. Commerce City Drug v. Bd. of Pharmacy, 32 Colo. App. 216, 511 P.2d 935 (1973).

License revocation proceeding is civil in nature, not criminal. Thus, the right to counsel is not constitutional, but rather is governed by statute. Bedell v. Dept. of Rev., 655 P.2d 849 (Colo. App. 1982).

Although the public utilities commission has broad power to issue declaratory orders and to initiate various types of proceedings, where a declaratory order is in essence a rule, the commission is bound by the procedural requirements pertaining to rule-making proceedings. Colo. Office of Consumer Counsel v. Mountain States Tel. and Tel. Co., 816 P.2d 278 (Colo. 1991).

A hearing on a contested permit application under the Colorado Oil and Gas Conservation Act is an agency adjudicatory proceeding subject to this section. Grand Valley Citizens' Alliance v. Colo. Oil & Gas Conservation Comm'n, __ P.3d __ (Colo. App. 2010).

Due process rights in a liquor licensing hearing are diluted by strong state interest in liquor control and safeguards provided by judicial review. Therefore, where plaintiff had notice of issue and knowledge of contents of documents, failure to give him documents did not violate his due process rights. Fueston v. City of Colo. Springs, 713 P.2d 1323 (Colo. App. 1985).

Secretary of state need not hold public hearing regarding revocation of liquor license, but may rely on investigation reports and the hearing record of the local licensing authority, which by law must conduct a hearing. Potter v. Anderson, 155 Colo. 25, 392 P.2d 650 (1964).

A quasi-judicial hearing must be conducted strictly in accordance with requirements of section. Carroll v. Barnes, 169 Colo. 277, 455 P.2d 644 (1969).

It is within the discretion of the administrative law judge (ALJ) to decide, prior to issuing a decision which constitutes the final agency action in a particular matter, when that decision will become effective. Bethesda Found. v. Dept. of Soc. Servs., 877 P.2d 860 (Colo. 1994).

Administrative remedies available must be exhausted prior to seeking judicial relief. Leete v. Bd. of Medical Exam'rs, 807 P.2d 1249 (Colo. App. 1991).

There is no requirement that proceedings to review a hearing officer's initial decision concerning disciplinary actions be recorded. Ranum v. Colo. Real Estate Comm'n, 713 P.2d 418 (Colo. App. 1985).

1993 amendment to subsection (4) explicitly authorizing administrative law judges to award attorney fees was procedural and had no substantive effect on existing authority to award such fees. Colo. Dept. of Soc. Servs. v. Bethesda Care Center, Inc., 867 P.2d 4 (Colo. App. 1993).

Colorado department of social services is a party for purposes of an administrative proceeding conducted pursuant to this section and as such may be held liable for attorney fees for asserting a frivolous defense. Colo. Dept. of Soc. Servs. v. Bethesda Care Center, Inc., 867 P.2d 4 (Colo. App. 1993).

Where an agency's interpretation of a regulation clearly contradicts that agency's consistent practice, the agency's practices and not its interpretation should prevail. Geriatrics, Inc. v. Dept. of Soc. Servs., 712 P.2d 1035 (Colo. App. 1985).

Applied in Walton v. Banking Bd., 36 Colo. App. 311, 541 P.2d 1254 (1975); Kuiper v. Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry., 195 Colo. 557, 581 P.2d 293 (1978); Johns v. Miller, 42 Colo. App. 97, 594 P.2d 590 (1979); People v. District Court, 200 Colo. 65, 612 P.2d 87 (1980); MacLeod v. Miller, 44 Colo. App. 313, 612 P.2d 1158 (1980); Ricci v. Davis, 627 P.2d 1111 (Colo. 1981); Stone Environmental Eng'r Servs., Inc. v. Dept. of Health, 631 P.2d 1185 (Colo. App. 1981); Cavanaugh v. State, Dept. of Soc. Servs., 644 P.2d 1 (Colo. 1982); Spelts v. Klausing, 649 P.2d 303 (Colo. 1982); Lee v. State Bd. of Dental Exam'rs, 654 P.2d 839 (Colo. 1982); World Wide Constr. Servs., Inc. v. Chapman, 665 P.2d 132 (Colo. App. 1982); First Nat'l Bank v. Banking Bd., 663 P.2d 261 (Colo. App. 1983); In re Maul v. Bd. of Dental Exam'rs, 668 P.2d 933 (Colo. 1983); Rosenberg v. Bd. of Education of Sch. District #1, 710 P.2d 1095 (Colo. 1985); Platinum Props. v. Assess. App. Bd., 738 P.2d 34 (Colo. App. 1987); Beardsley v. Colo. State Univ., 746 P.2d 1350 (Colo. App. 1987), cert. discharged, 761 P.2d 792 (Colo. 1988); Lopez-Samoyoa v. Bd. of Medical Exam'rs, 868 P.2d 1110 (Colo. App. 1993); Partridge v. State, 895 P.2d 1183 (Colo. App. 1995).

II. NOTICE.

Liquor code notice requirements applicable in county proceeding. Since the general assembly has not adopted legislation requiring that license suspension proceedings by a county be conducted pursuant to the state administrative procedure act, and since a county does not have statewide jurisdiction, the notice requirements for a proceeding for the suspension of a liquor license are governed by the Colorado liquor code. Chroma Corp. v. County of Adams, 36 Colo. App. 345, 543 P.2d 83 (1975).

Test as to whether party is afforded procedural due process is "fundamental fairness" in light of total circumstances. The due process clause does not guarantee any particular mode of procedure, but it does require adequate notice of opposing claims, reasonable opportunity to prepare and meet them in an orderly hearing adapted to the nature of the case, and, finally, a fair and impartial decision. Sigma Chi Fraternity

v. Regents of Univ. of Colo., 258 F. Supp. 515 (D. Colo. 1966).

The essence of procedural due process is fundamental fairness. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Dept. of Labor & Emp., 184 Colo. 334, 520 P.2d 586 (1974).

"Timely" notice, plus opportunity to submit arguments, is constitutionally required. When the specific time for a hearing is not expressly provided elsewhere, notice of hearing must be "timely", so that the licensee shall have the opportunity to submit data, views, and arguments in order to afford due process. Bd. of Medical Exam'rs v. Palmer, 157 Colo. 40, 400 P.2d 914 (1965).

Opportunity to be heard, not an actual hearing, is all that due process requires. Where the respondent receives timely notice and elects not to appear, there is no violation. Colo. State Bd. of Nursing v. Geary, 954 P.2d 614 (Colo. App. 1997).

Fundamental fairness embodies adequate advance notice and an opportunity to be heard prior to state action resulting in the deprivation of a significant property interest. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Dept. of Labor & Emp., 184 Colo. 334, 520 P.2d 586 (1974).

It likewise entitles a litigant to timely notice of decisions which have adjudicated his property interests, in relation to available appellate remedies. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Dept. of Labor & Emp., 184 Colo. 334, 520 P.2d 586 (1974).

Where the parties, whether an employee or an employer, are represented in an administrative proceeding under consideration by attorneys of record, notice of decisions affecting the substantial rights of the parties must be given to their attorneys. Mountain States Tel. & Tel. Co. v. Dept. of Labor & Emp., 184 Colo. 334, 520 P.2d 586 (1974).

The requirement of this section that notice of the hearing be made by first-class mail is not satisfied when such notice is sent by certified mail, since the notice will not be delivered by certified mail if the addressee is not present at the time of the attempted delivery. Dodge v. Meyer, 793 P.2d 639 (Colo. App. 1990).

Party requesting early hearing cannot complain that statutory time period not observed. Where a party has adequate notice of a hearing and its purpose, and where promptness of a hearing is in accordance with that party's request that it be held at "as early a date as possible", the party may not complain that the commission conducting the hearing did not wait the 20 days prescribed in this section. Harbour v. Racing Comm'n, 32 Colo. App. 1, 505 P.2d 22 (1973).

Notice of state pharmacy board's changes in hearing officer's decision not required. Changes made by the state board of pharmacy in a hearing officer's penalty for a pharmacist's violation of § 12-22-124 (now § 12-22-126) rendered without notice to the appellant or without any further hearings following a hearing officer's initial decision and order are quasi-judicial in nature and, thus, neither statutory nor due process principles require that the board issue any notice prior to announcing its final decision. Mitchell v. Klapper, 626 P.2d 1163 (Colo. App. 1980).

III. ADMINISTRATIVE LAW JUDGES.

There is no requirement that a hearing officer be learned in the law. Campbell v. Dept. of Rev., 176 Colo. 202, 491 P.2d 1385 (1971).

Officer may be appointed through oral examination. The fact that a hearing officer is appointed on the basis of an oral examination does not invalidate his appointment, because the mode of examination is discretionary with the civil service commission. Campbell v. Dept. of Rev., 176 Colo. 202, 491 P.2d 1385 (1971).

No requirement that officer take oath before entering duties. Since a hearing officer possesses no independent power of his own, his position is that of employee, not that of civil officer; thus, there is no requirement that a hearing officer take an oath of office before entering upon his duties. Campbell v. Dept. of Rev., 176 Colo. 202, 491 P.2d 1385 (1971).

Colorado rules of civil procedure offer guidance in deciding issues regarding conduct of hearings under this section. Weiss v. Dept. of Pub. Safety, 847 P.2d 197 (Colo. App. 1992).

Agency decision making must demonstrate the use of (1) sufficient standards ensuring rational and consistent results in the application of the statute and implementing regulations and (2) adequate procedural safeguards, determinations, and a record enabling judicial review. Zamarripa v. Q & T Food Stores, Inc., 929 P.2d 1332 (Colo. 1997).

Failure to make timely objection to the appointment of a hearing officer is a waiver, and the objection cannot be raised at a later date. Geriatrics, Inc. v. Dept. of Health, 650 P.2d 1288 (Colo. App. 1982), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 699 P.2d 952 (Colo. 1985).

Affidavit of personal bias required for disqualification of presiding officers. Under subsection (3), a motion seeking to disqualify a hearing officer, a member of the agency, or the agency itself from presiding over an administrative hearing must be accompanied by a timely and sufficient affidavit of personal bias. Peoples Natural Gas Div. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 626 P.2d 159 (Colo. 1981).

Drastic sanctions such as dismissal with prejudice or striking of pleadings should be reserved for only the most flagrant cases in which a party acts deliberately, with rebellious disregard for authority, or with gross negligence and in which such actions result in prejudice to the other party. Weiss v. Dept. of Pub. Safety, 847 P.2d 197 (Colo. App. 1992).

Substitution of hearing officer following hospitalization constitutional. Where the initial hearing officer is hospitalized at the time further proceedings are scheduled, the substitution of a second hearing officer to hear the remainder of the case satisfies both statutory requirements and due process. Harris v. Charnes, 616 P.2d 996 (Colo. App. 1980).

Hearing where examiner takes active role and where party represented by attorney is constitutional. A hearing conducted under § 42-4-1202 does not violate the requirement of separation of the judicial and executive functions, although the hearing examiner conducts the hearing without a prosecutor and takes an active role in the questioning of the witnesses, where the motorist accused of driving while intoxicated is represented by an attorney. Stream v. Heckers, 184 Colo. 149, 519 P.2d 336 (1974).

Hearing officer abused discretion by rescinding disciplinary action for noncompliance with deadline schedule, where noncompliance was apparently innocent and opposing party was not prejudiced. Weiss v. Dept. of Pub. Safety, 847 P.2d 197 (Colo. App. 1992).

The power conferred in the ALJ to modify a decision upon a motion for reconsideration encompasses the power to modify the decision's effective date. Bethesda Found. v. Dept. of Soc. Servs., 877 P.2d 861 (Colo. 1994).

Any error by ALJ in requiring accountant to testify at proceeding to revoke license of physician without counsel was harmless where the essence of accountant's testimony was that he had been able to communicate with physician despite his incarceration in another state, which duplicated administrative clerk's testimony. Colo. Bd. of Medical Exam'rs v. Boyle, 924 P.2d 1113 (Colo. App. 1996).

The decision to disqualify an ALJ for personal bias is within the discretion of the ALJ and will not be disturbed absent an abuse of that discretion. Rice v. Dept. of Corr., 950 P.2d 676 (Colo. App. 1997).

IV. EVIDENCE.

Burden is upon the proponent of order of suspension or revocation to prove sufficient grounds therefor, not upon the licensee. People ex rel. Heckers v. District Court, 170 Colo. 533, 463 P.2d 310 (1970); Colo. Real Estate Comm'n v. Bartlett, __ P.3d __ (Colo. App. 2011).

"Proponent of an order" bearing the burden of proof under subsection (7), in the context of an employee's appeal of an allocation decision before the director of personnel, is not the appointing authority which made the decision appealed from, but is instead the employee who seeks an order of the director voiding the decision. Renteria v. State Dept. of Pers., 811 P.2d 797 (Colo. 1991).

The burden of proof is on the certified state employee to prove that she was terminated involuntarily and, once the employee prevails upon that issue, then it will be the appointing authority's burden to prove that the termination imposed was justified by the factual circumstances. Harris v. State Bd. of Agriculture, 968 P.2d 148 (Colo. App. 1998).

Hearing officer properly placed burden of proof on department of institutions as proponent of order upholding dismissal in proceeding involving state employee's appeal of termination. Kinchen v. Dept. of Institutions, 867 P.2d 8 (Colo. App. 1993).

When an agency seeks revocation of an existing license, the agency is the proponent of the order and bears the burden of proof. Q & T Food Stores, Inc. v. Zamarripa, 910 P.2d 44 (Colo. App. 1995), aff'd, 929 P.2d 1332 (Colo. 1997).

Administrative hearing not bound by strict rules of evidence. A driver's license revocation hearing is an administrative hearing and is not governed by the strict rules of evidence and procedure which obtain in a criminal action. Campbell v. Dept. of Rev., 176 Colo. 202, 491 P.2d 1385 (1971).

The state board of accountancy is not bound by the technical rules on the admission of documentary evidence. Hentges v. Bartsch, 35 Colo. App. 384, 533 P.2d 66 (1975).

A hearing officer has some flexibility in his adherence to the civil rules of evidence in order to promote the fact finding process. Fish v. Charnes, 652 P.2d 598 (Colo. 1982).

The standard to be applied is whether the evidence possesses probative value commonly accepted by reasonable and prudent persons in the conduct of their affairs. Partridge v. State, 895 P.2d 1183 (Colo. App. 1995).

Hearsay testimony may be allowed and reversal is proper only if otherwise inadmissible hearsay is sole evidence relied upon by trier of fact. Mondragon v. Poudre Sch. Dist. R-1, 696 P.2d 831 (Colo. App. 1984).

Hearsay evidence alone may be used to establish an element at a revocation hearing if such evidence is sufficiently reliable and trustworthy, and the evidence possesses probative value commonly accepted by reasonable and prudent persons in the conduct of their affairs. Dept. of Rev. v. Kirke, 743 P.2d 16 (Colo. 1987); Div. of Rev. v. Lounsbury, 743 P.2d 23 (Colo. 1987); Charnes v. Lobato, 743 P.2d 27 (Colo. 1987); Heller v. Velasquez, 743 P.2d 34 (Colo. 1987); Charnes v. Oldna, 743 P.2d 36 (Colo. 1987); Schaffer v. State Dept. of Soc. Servs., 759 P.2d 837 (Colo. App. 1988).

The public utilities commission is allowed to consider a broader range of information in making an adjudicatory decision than that allowed by subsection (14). Colo. Energy Advocacy v. Pub. Serv. Co., 704 P.2d 298 (Colo. 1985).

Factors which provide guidance in determining whether evidence is reliable, trustworthy, and probative for the purposes of an administrative hearing are: (1) Whether the statement was written and signed; (2) Whether the statement was sworn to by the declarant; (3) Whether the declarant was a disinterested witness or had a potential bias; (4) Whether the hearsay statement is denied or contradicted by other evidence; (5) Whether the declarant is credible; (6) Whether there is corroboration for the hearsay statement; (7) Whether the case turns on the credibility of witnesses; (8) Whether the party relying on the hearsay offers an adequate explanation for the failure to call the declarant to testify; and, (9) Whether the party against whom the hearsay is used had access to the statements prior to the hearing or the opportunity to subpoena the declarant. Indus. Claim Appeals Office v. Flower Stop, 782 P.2d 13 (Colo. 1989); Partridge v. State, 895 P.2d 1183 (Colo. App. 1995).

Due process requires that hearsay evidence admitted at an administrative hearing be of a kind commonly relied upon so as to be worthy of belief under similar circumstances and must possess probative value commonly accepted by reasonable and prudent persons in the conduct of their affairs. 117th Assoc. v. Jefferson County, 811 P.2d 461 (Colo. App. 1991).

Agencies are not always restricted to litigants' record. Although courts are generally limited to the consideration of the record made by litigants in the trial court, administrative agencies are not always so restricted. City & County of Denver v. Dore, 176 Colo. 367, 490 P.2d 694 (1971).

Therefore, records of the division of motor vehicles are not inadmissible hearsay. Campbell v. Dept. of Rev., 176 Colo. 202, 491 P.2d 1385 (1971); Zaba v. Motor Vehicle Div., 183 Colo. 335, 516 P.2d 634 (1973).

Driver's history record is prima facie evidence of its contents. Hoehl v. Motor Vehicle Div., 624 P.2d 907 (Colo. App. 1980).

Admitting photocopy of blood test into evidence in driver's license revocation was proper. Ellis v. Charnes, 722 P.2d 436 (Colo. App. 1986).

Hearing officer's insistence that witness testify in person, rather than via telephone, was within officer's discretion where credibility was a significant issue. Shaball v. State Compensation Ins. Auth., 799 P.2d 399 (Colo. App. 1990).

Administrative law judge did not abuse her discretion in determining that good cause existed to take telephone testimony because of the limited testimony to be given by the witnesses, the absence of reference in their testimony to exhibits or to demonstrative evidence, and the inconvenience and expense to procure their live testimony. State Bd. of Medical Exam'rs v. Thompson, 944 P.2d 547 (Colo. App. 1996).

Rebuttal of driving record's accuracy presents a question of fact. Where evidence is presented which rebuts the accuracy of any item in a person's driving record, there is a fact question to be resolved by the hearing officer. Hoehl v. Motor Vehicle Div., 624 P.2d 907 (Colo. App. 1980).

Identical copies of cancelled checks from separate disinterested sources is competent evidence. Where two sets of copies of cancelled checks are put into evidence from separate disinterested sources, and the two sets are identical, the evidence is competent under the standards set out in the state administrative procedure act. Hentges v. Bartsch, 35 Colo. App. 384, 533 P.2d 66 (1975).

Court cannot release grand jury documents for use in civil action. The trial court does not have the jurisdiction to order an ex parte release of documents which are being used by a grand jury in a criminal investigation, for use in a civil liquor code violations action. Granbery v. District Court, 187 Colo. 316, 531 P.2d 390 (1975).

Exchanges between tribunal parties cannot be screened from review. Ex parte exchanges between an advocate and the adjudicatory tribunal may not be screened arbitrarily from appellate scrutiny. Peoples Natural Gas Div. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 626 P.2d 159 (Colo. 1981).

Findings of evidentiary fact of hearing officer supported ultimate finding of board of medical examiners that physician's actions were a manipulation of a patient for his own personal interest and constituted misconduct. Puls v. People ex rel. Woodard, 722 P.2d 424 (Colo. App. 1986).

Limitation on rebuttal evidence authorized and not a violation of due process. Hearing officer's limitation on oral rebuttal testimony did not violate licensee's due process rights to rebut expert witnesses' statements where licensee was given opportunity to present rebuttal evidence through presubmitted written statements and where such procedure was authorized by statute. Bassett v. State Bd. of Dental Exam'rs, 727 P.2d 864 (Colo. App. 1986).

In determining eligibility for Medicaid home-based services under § 25.5-6-306, an ALJ is not limited to evidence that the case manager heard on the day of assessment. The ALJ may properly consider any testimony introduced at the hearing concerning the individual's condition as of the date of the level of care assessment. Reiff v. Colo. Dept. of Health Care Policy & Fin., 148 P.3d 355 (Colo. App. 2006).

Applied in Jimerson v. Prendergast, 697 P.2d 804 (Colo. App. 1985).

V. AGENCY AND JUDICIAL REVIEW.

Colorado statutory scheme makes adequate provisions for prompt hearing and determination of emergency summary license suspensions to meet due process requirements. Any vagueness in the term "promptly" is adequately cured by licensee's statutory right to request and obtain an "immediate" hearing following an emergency suspension. Motor Vehicle Div. v. Castro, 914 P.2d 517 (Colo. App. 1996).

Party status required for judicial review. One must comply with the requirements for obtaining party status in adjudicatory hearings as a prerequisite to seeking judicial review under the administrative procedure act. Colo. Water Quality Control Comm'n v. Town of Frederick, 641 P.2d 958 (Colo. 1982).

There is no requirement, under the applicable statutes and rules, that the limited gaming control commission hold an evidentiary hearing on petitions for declaratory orders. Purcell v. Colo. Div. of Gaming, 924 P.2d 1203 (Colo. App. 1996).

Exhaustion of administrative remedies was not required by this section with respect to plaintiff's claims that lottery division and lottery commission knew that the last grand prize for a particular scratch game had been claimed, continued to sell tickets for the scratch game, did not inform potential ticket purchasers that the grand prize was no longer available, and continued to represent the availability of the grand prize. The applicable lottery statute does not provide a right to a hearing under this section. Bazemore v. Colo. State Lottery Div., 64 P.3d 876 (Colo. App. 2002).

District court's order can only apply to parties. Unless an agency has adjudicated the rights of a person who is also a party, a district court reviewing the agency action has no authority, sua sponte, to enter its own findings and conclusions of law with regard to that person. N.J. Zinc Co. v. Mined Land Reclamation, 738 P.2d 51 (Colo. App. 1987).

"Final" agency action required for judicial review. The decision of an agency (other than a remand for further proceedings) described in subsection (15)(b) is the "final" agency action subject to judicial review under § 24-4-106 (2). State Pers. Bd. v. District Court, 637 P.2d 333 (Colo. 1981).

A decision and order of a hearing officer or administrative law judge is an initial decision only, and becomes final only if no exceptions or agency motions have been submitted within the 30-day appeal period. Western Colo. Congress v. Dept. of Health, 844 P.2d 1264 (Colo. App. 1992).

Determination by a division of the department of public health and environment regarding whether documents contained confidential information did not constitute an adjudicatory agency action of the kind addressed in this section. Therefore, the trial court was deciding the dispute between the parties in the first instance and properly resolved the dispute in accordance with the standards applicable to injunctive relief. CF&I Steel, L.P. v. Air Pollution Control Div., 77 P.3d 933 (Colo. App. 2003).

This section contemplates that review of the administrative law judge's initial order be initiated by the filing of exceptions or upon the motion of the agency within the requisite time. Because exceptions were not timely filed by the agency and because review was not initiated upon motion of the agency within 30 days of service of the administrative law judge's initial decision, that decision became the agency's final order as a matter of law. Winterhawk Outfitters, Inc. v. Office of Outfitters Registration, 43 P.3d 745 (Colo. App. 2002).

An agency cannot vest final authority in a hearing officer when the regulation relied upon to make the delegation of final decision-making authority is contrary to statute. Western Colo. Congress v. Dept. of Health, 844 P.2d 1264 (Colo. App. 1992).

The department of health improperly denied plaintiff its right to agency review of a hearing officer's order. It was accordingly held that the order never became the decision of the department. Western Colo. Congress v. Dept. of Health, 844 P.2d 1264 (Colo. App. 1992).

An appeal from a decision of the hearing officer must be made within 30 days of the date the initial decision is mailed to the parties, and not within 30 days of the receipt of such decision by the parties. Vendetti v. Univ. of So. Colo., 793 P.2d 657 (Colo. App. 1990).

Dissatisfied party to appeal to agency within 30 days. A party dissatisfied with the rulings of a hearing officer may appeal to the Colorado civil rights commission by filing exceptions within 30 days after service of the initial decision. North Washington St. Water & San. Dist. v. Emerson, 626 P.2d 1152 (Colo. App. 1980); State Bd. of Medical Exam'rs v. Thompson, 944 P.2d 547 (Colo. App. 1996).

Placing exceptions in the mail is not the same as filing. For the purposes of this section, filing requires actual, physical presentation of documents to the appropriate official. State Bd. of Registration v. Brinker, 948 P.2d 96 (Colo. App. 1997).

Failure to file exceptions as prescribed in subsection (14) results in a waiver of the right to appeal. State Bd. of Registration v. Brinker, 948 P.2d 96 (Colo. App. 1997).

Exceptions to disciplinary finding were timely filed within 30 days after service of agency decision. State Bd. of Nursing v. Crickenberger, 757 P.2d 1167 (Colo. App. 1988).

The language of subsection (14) is directory and is not intended to limit the jurisdiction of an agency to review an initial decision outside of the thirty-day period so long as the agency's motion to review was timely made. Cornell v. State Bd. of Pharmacy, 813 P.2d 771 (Colo. App. 1990).

Failure of exceptions to mention a ruling on a motion for a continuance constituted a waiver of any contention of error in the ruling pursuant to subsection (14)(c). State Bd. of Medical Exam'rs v. Thompson, 944 P.2d 547 (Colo. App. 1996).

The term "exception" in subsection (14)(a)(II) is designed to serve the same purpose as common law exceptions acting as a statement of specific formal objections designed to place the agency on notice of the basis for the requested review of the initial decision. Requiring a specific statement furthers the purpose of agency review of initial decisions, providing the agency with an opportunity to correct errors before judicial review is sought in the same way common law exceptions provided the trial court with an opportunity to correct errors and thereby make appellate review unnecessary. Lanphier v. Dept. of Pub. Health & Env't, 179 P.3d 148 (Colo. App. 2007).

Notice of review need not be given. Subsection (15) does not require that notice of the time and place of the agency review be given. Dixon v. Bd. of Optometric Exam'rs, 39 Colo. App. 200, 565 P.2d 960 (1977).

Subsection (15)(a) requires that a party's challenge to the factual findings of the ALJ must be supported by transcripts made available for the agency's review. Colo. State Bd. of Medical Exam'rs v. Hoffner, 832 P.2d 1062 (Colo. App. 1992).

Party may not decline to request a transcript and then assert, as a matter of law, that the board decided his case without review of a transcript. Tepley v. Pub. Emp. Retirement Ass'n, 955 P.2d 573 (Colo. App. 1997).

When agency seeks to reverse evidentiary facts found by an ALJ, subsection (15)(a) requires a transcript of the hearing. A tape recording of a hearing does not constitute a transcript within the meaning of subsection (15)(a). Rigmaiden v. Colo. Dept. of Health Care Policy & Fin., 155 P.3d 498 (Colo. App. 2006).

Aggrieved party may order hearing transcript from agency at own expense. A party seeking to reverse a hearing officer's decision may, at his or her own expense, order a hearing transcript from the agency involved. Loesch v. Dept. of Rev., 194 Colo. 169, 570 P.2d 530 (1977).

A court order for transcript is unnecessary. A party desiring a hearing transcript may order it directly from the agency, and a court order would not be necessary absent agency refusal. Loesch v. Dept. of Rev., 194 Colo. 169, 570 P.2d 530 (1977).

No error resulted from lack of a transcript of the proceedings, because the administrative law judge's finding were not challenged, and the review was limited to conclusions of law and findings of fact based on undisputed evidentiary facts. Hall v. State Bd. of Medical Exam'rs, 876 P.2d 77 (Colo. App. 1994).

Discovery in post-hearing, preappeal administrative proceeding available where party shows impermissible tribunal considerations. In a post-hearing, preappeal administrative proceeding, discovery should be available as a matter of right only if the party alleging procedural irregularities first shows, by affidavit or other substantial factual evidence, that there is good cause to believe that ex parte communications, personal bias, or other impermissible considerations played a part in the tribunal's decision. Peoples Natural Gas Div. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 626 P.2d 159 (Colo. 1981).

Subsection (15) expressly makes discretionary with the agency the presentation of oral argument. Dixon v. Bd. of Optometric Exam'rs, 39 Colo. App. 200, 565 P.2d 960 (1977).

There is no constitutional requirement that the agency personally hear the licensee or other witnesses. Dixon v. Bd. of Optometric Exam'rs, 39 Colo. App. 200, 565 P.2d 960 (1977).

Board may review decision and adopt findings different than those of hearing officer where attorney general filed exceptions to decision, complaint charges were not unproven or unfounded, board expressly concluded that findings were contrary to weight of evidence, and decision was neither arbitrary nor capricious. Bd. of Medical Exam'rs v. Robertson, 751 P.2d 648 (Colo. App. 1987); Davis v. Bd. of Psychologist Exam'rs, 791 P.2d 1198 (Colo. App. 1989).

Presumption of correct findings. Classification and valuation of property by a county assessor is presumed correct, and in an appeal to the state board of assessment appeals, the burden of proof is on the taxpayer to rebut that presumption by showing, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the classification and valuation is incorrect. The determination whether that burden of proof has been met is a question of fact for the board and may not be displaced by a reviewing court. Gyurman v. Weld County Bd. of Equaliz., 851 P.2d 307 (Colo. App. 1993).

Hearing officer's decision held not contrary to weight of evidence and binding upon agency. Brennan v. Dept. of Local Affairs, 786 P.2d 426 (Colo. App. 1989).

Unless contrary to the weight of the evidence, a hearing officer's determinations of evidentiary fact cannot be set aside by a reviewing court. Colo. State Bd. of Nursing v. Geary, 954 P.2d 614 (Colo. App. 1997).

An agency's determination of ultimate fact may be set aside on review if it is unsupported by any reasonable basis. If there is sufficient evidentiary support in the record for that decision, a reviewing court must defer to the decision of an agency as to matters within the agency's discretion. Nat'l Inst. of Nutritional Educ. v. Meyer, 855 P.2d 31 (Colo. App. 1993).

Board exceeded its jurisdiction in finding that nurse was "presently" addicted to or dependent on drug where substantial evidence in the record supported findings that nurse had not used habit forming drugs for a substantial period of time and was not an habitual user of controlled substances at the time of the hearing. Colo. State Bd. of Nursing v. Lang, 842 P.2d 1383 (Colo. App. 1992).

Although an ALJ's finding of evidentiary fact may not be altered by the board if supported by the evidence, the board is not precluded from drawing a different ultimate conclusion therefrom. Puls v. People ex rel. Woodard, 722 P.2d 424 (Colo. App. 1986); Colo. State Bd. of Medical Exam'rs v. Hoffner, 832 P.2d 1062 (Colo. App. 1992).

In determining eligibility for Medicaid home-based services under § 25.5-6-306, an ALJ is not limited to evidence that the case manager heard on the day of assessment. The ALJ may properly consider any testimony introduced at the hearing concerning the individual's condition as of the date of the level of care assessment. Reiff v. Colo. Dept. of Health Care Policy & Fin., 148 P.3d 355 (Colo. App. 2006).

Findings of evidentiary fact involve the raw, historical data underlying the controversy. If there is conflicting testimony, the credibility of witnesses and the weight to be given their testimony is within the province of the hearing officer. Barrett v. Univ. of Colo., 851 P.2d 258 (Colo. App. 1993).

Findings of ultimate fact, such as whether particular conduct constitutes "willful misconduct", may be disturbed on appellate review only if it is unsupported by any competent evidence or is based on an incorrect legal conclusion applied to the underlying facts. Barrett v. Univ. of Colo., 851 P.2d 258 (Colo. App. 1993).

An agency's determination of ultimate facts may be set aside if it is not supported by substantial evidence in the record. Department's decision reversing ALJ determination had no reasonable basis in fact or law and district court erred in upholding that decision. Moczygemba v. Colo. Dept. of Health Care Policy & Fin., 51 P.3d 1083 (Colo. App. 2002).

The distinction between evidentiary facts and ultimate conclusions of fact is not always clear. State Bd. of Medical Exam'rs v. McCroskey, 880 P.2d 1188 (Colo. 1994).

Evidentiary facts are detailed factual or historical findings upon which a legal determination rests, such as when a physician made certain entries into a patient's medical records. State Bd. of Medical Exam'rs v. McCroskey, 880 P.2d 1188 (Colo. 1994).

Ultimate conclusions of fact involve a conclusion of law, or at least a mixed question of law and fact, and settle the rights and liabilities of the parties. Unlike evidentiary facts, ultimate conclusions of fact usually are phrased in the language of the controlling statute or legal standard. State Bd. of Medical Exam'rs v. McCroskey, 880 P.2d 1188 (Colo. 1994).

The standard for setting aside a hearing officer's findings of fact, stated in subsection (15), establishes the assumption that the hearing officer's findings are accurate. If the evidence would equally support alternative findings, the hearing officer's determination may not be set aside. The party challenging the hearing officer's findings has the burden of proving the weight of the evidence. Samaritan Inst. v. Prince-Walker, 883 P.2d 3 (Colo. 1994).

Reversal of a driver's license revocation is warranted where the agency failed to comply with written request to issue a subpoena and this failure caused prejudice to the driver's substantial right to engage in cross-examination of witnesses. Nye v. State, Dept. of Rev., 902 P.2d 959 (Colo. App. 1995).

Remedy for driver who has had his driver's license revoked or suspended may be available pursuant to subsection (10) where the Colorado department of revenue does not hold an administrative hearing prior to the expiration of 60 days as the department is under statutory obligation to hold an administrative hearing within 60 days under either § 42-2-125 or § 42-2-126. Kriz v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 916 P.2d 659 (Colo. App. 1996).

The fact that questions of statutory interpretation have been raised by claims does not exempt the matter from administrative review. Even if pure questions of law are concerned, agency review of the challenged action is desirable in order to provide the court with the benefit of the agency's considered interpretation of its enabling statute. Kendal v. Cason, 791 P.2d 1227 (Colo. App. 1990).

Prevailing party not required to file an appeal to defend the results reached by the hearing officer on any grounds. An appeal need not be filed unless an enlargement of rights under the original decision is sought. Ehrle v. Dept. of Administration, 844 P.2d 1267 (Colo. App. 1992).

There is no provision in subsection (14) for an administrative cross-appeal. Ehrle v. Dept. of Administration, 844 P.2d 1267 (Colo. App. 1992).

Where notice to the respondent did not apprise him of the type of conduct being alleged, the charge must be dismissed. Herein, the dental examiners' charge against respondent dentist was based upon respondent's alleged failure to wear gloves during a procedure but the evidence supported a finding that one of the respondent's assistants had failed to wear gloves during a procedure. State Bd. of Dental Exam'rs v. Micheli, 928 P.2d 839 (Colo. App. 1996).

Subsection (15)(b) is a broad grant of authority that permits the agency to enter additional orders as required to bring its prior orders into conformity with the mandate from the appellate court. Rodgers v. Colo. Dept. of Human Servs., 39 P.3d 1232 (Colo. App. 2001).

24-4-106. Judicial review. (1) In order to assure a plain, simple, and prompt judicial remedy to persons or parties adversely affected or aggrieved by agency actions, the provisions of this section shall be applicable.

(2) Final agency action under this or any other law shall be subject to judicial review as provided in this section, whether or not an application for reconsideration has been filed, unless the filing of an application for reconsideration is required by the statutory provisions governing the specific agency. In the event specific provisions for rehearing as a basis for judicial review as applied to any particular agency are in effect on or after July 1, 1969, then such provisions shall govern the rehearing and appeal procedure, the provisions of this article to the contrary notwithstanding.

(3) An action may be commenced in any court of competent jurisdiction by or on behalf of an agency for judicial enforcement of any final order of such agency. In any such action, any person adversely affected or aggrieved by such agency action may obtain judicial review of such agency action.

(4) Except as provided in subsection (11) of this section, any person adversely affected or aggrieved by any agency action may commence an action for judicial review in the district court within thirty-five days after such agency action becomes effective; but, if such agency action occurs in relation to any hearing pursuant to section 24-4-105, then the person must also have been a party to such agency hearing. A proceeding for such review may be brought against the agency by its official title, individuals who comprise the agency, or any person representing the agency or acting on its behalf in the matter sought to be reviewed. The complaint shall state the facts upon which the plaintiff bases the claim that he or she has been adversely affected or aggrieved, the reasons entitling him or her to relief, and the relief which he or she seeks. Every party to an agency action in a proceeding under section 24-4-105 not appearing as plaintiff in such action for judicial review shall be made a defendant; except that, in review of agency actions taken pursuant to section 24-4-103, persons participating in the rule-making proceeding need not be made defendants. Each agency conducting a rule-making proceeding shall maintain a docket listing the name, address, and telephone number of every person who has participated in a rule-making proceeding by written statement, or by oral comment at a hearing. Any person who commences suit for judicial review of the rule shall notify each person on the agency's docket of the fact that a suit has been commenced. The notice shall be sent by first-class certified mail within fourteen days after filing of the action and shall be accompanied by a copy of the complaint for judicial review bearing the action number of the case. Thereafter, service of process, responsive pleadings, and other matters of procedure shall be controlled by the Colorado rules of civil procedure. An action shall not be dismissed for failure to join an indispensable party until an opportunity has been afforded to an affected party to bring the indispensable party into the action. The residence of a state agency for the purposes of this subsection (4) shall be deemed to be the city and county of Denver. In any action in which the plaintiff seeks judicial review of an agency decision made after a hearing as provided in section 24-4-105, the parties after issue is joined shall file briefs within the time periods specified in the Colorado appellate rules.

(4.5) Subject to the limitation set forth in section 39-8-108 (2), C.R.S., the board of county commissioners of any county of this state may commence an action in the Denver district court within the time limit set forth in subsection (4) of this section for judicial review of any agency action which is directed to any official, board, or employee of such county or which involves any duty or function of any official, board, or employee of such county with the consent of said official, board, or employee, and to the extent that said official, board, or employee could maintain an action under subsection (4) of this section. In addition, in any action brought against any official, board, or employee of a county of this state for judicial enforcement of any final order of any agency, the defendant official, board, or employee may obtain judicial review of such agency action. In any such action for judicial review, the county official, board, or employee shall not be permitted to seek temporary or preliminary injunctive relief pending a final decision on the merits of its claim.

(5) Upon a finding that irreparable injury would otherwise result, the agency, upon application therefor, shall postpone the effective date of the agency action pending judicial review, or the reviewing court, upon application therefor and regardless of whether such an application previously has been made to or denied by any agency, and upon such terms and upon such security, if any, as the court shall find necessary and order, shall issue all necessary and appropriate process to postpone the effective date of the agency action or to preserve the rights of the parties pending conclusion of the review proceedings.

(6) In every case of agency action, the record, unless otherwise stipulated by the parties, shall include the original or certified copies of all pleadings, applications, evidence, exhibits, and other papers presented to or considered by the agency, rulings upon exceptions, and the decision, findings, and action of the agency. Any person initiating judicial review shall designate the relevant parts of such record and advance the cost therefor. As to alleged errors, omissions, and irregularities in the agency record, evidence may be taken independently by the court.

(7) If the court finds no error, it shall affirm the agency action. If it finds that the agency action is arbitrary or capricious, a denial of statutory right, contrary to constitutional right, power, privilege, or immunity, in excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, purposes, or limitations, not in accord with the procedures or procedural limitations of this article or as otherwise required by law, an abuse or clearly unwarranted exercise of discretion, based upon findings of fact that are clearly erroneous on the whole record, unsupported by substantial evidence when the record is considered as a whole, or otherwise contrary to law, then the court shall hold unlawful and set aside the agency action and shall restrain the enforcement of the order or rule under review, compel any agency action to be taken which has been unlawfully withheld or unduly delayed, remand the case for further proceedings, and afford such other relief as may be appropriate. In making the foregoing determinations, the court shall review the whole record or such portions thereof as may be cited by any party. In all cases under review, the court shall determine all questions of law and interpret the statutory and constitutional provisions involved and shall apply such interpretation to the facts duly found or established.

(8) Upon a showing of irreparable injury, any court of competent jurisdiction may enjoin at any time the conduct of any agency proceeding in which the proceeding itself or the action proposed to be taken therein is clearly beyond the constitutional or statutory jurisdiction or authority of the agency. If the court finds that any proceeding contesting the jurisdiction or authority of the agency is frivolous or brought for the purpose of delay, it shall assess against the plaintiff in such proceeding costs and a reasonable sum for attorney fees (or an equivalent sum in lieu thereof) incurred by other parties, including the state.

(9) The decision of the district court shall be subject to appellate review as may be permitted by law or the Colorado appellate rules, but a notice of intent to seek appellate review must be filed with the district court within forty-five days after its decision becomes final. If no notice of intent to seek appellate review is filed with the trial court within forty-five days after its decision becomes final, the trial court shall immediately return to the agency its record. Upon disposition of a case in an appellate court which requires further proceedings in the trial court, the agency's record shall be returned to the trial court. On final disposition of the case in the appellate court when no further proceedings are necessary or permitted in the trial court, the agency's record shall be returned by the appellate court to the agency with notice of such disposition to the trial court or to the trial court, in which event the agency's record shall be returned by the trial court to the agency.

(10) In any judicial review of agency action, the district court or the appellate court shall advance on the docket any case which in the discretion of the court requires acceleration.

(11) (a) Whenever judicial review of any agency action is directed to the court of appeals, the provisions of this subsection (11) shall be applicable except for review of orders of the industrial claim appeals office.

(b) Such proceeding shall be commenced by the filing of a notice of appeal with the court of appeals within forty-five days after the date of the service of the final order entered in the action by the agency, together with a certificate of service showing service of a copy of said notice of appeal on the agency and on all other persons who have appeared as parties to the action before the agency. The date of service of an order is the date on which a copy of the order is delivered in person or, if service is by mail, the date of mailing.

(c) The record on appeal shall conform to the provisions of subsection (6) of this section. The designation and preparation of the record and its transmission to the court of appeals shall be in accordance with the Colorado appellate rules. A request for an extension of time to transmit the record shall be made to the court of appeals and may be granted only by that court.

(d) The docketing of the appeal and all procedures thereafter shall be as set forth in the Colorado appellate rules. The agency shall not be required to pay a docket fee. All persons who have appeared as parties to the action before the agency who are not designated as appellants shall, together with the agency, be designated as appellees.

(e) The standard for review as set forth in subsection (7) of this section shall apply to appeals brought under this subsection (11).

Subsection (4) is not violative of § 21 of art. VI, Colo. Const., since this section does not impinge on the supreme court's rule-making power. Warren Vill., Inc. v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 619 P.2d 60 (Colo. 1980).

Nature of judicial review. Judicial review pursuant to subsection (6) is an original proceeding and not an appeal. Tassian v. People, 696 P.2d 825 (Colo. App. 1984), rev'd on other grounds, 731 P.2d 672 (Colo. 1987).

Subsection (7) gives a court plenary authority to review and remand a case for further proceedings if it concludes that the agency has acted contrary to law. City and County of Denver v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 947 P.2d 1373 (Colo. 1997).

Although agency should have adopted a rule pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) prior to engaging in unauthorized conduct, that did not remove the jurisdictional requirement that a party seek judicial review of the final agency action within 30 days of an agency's final action. Jefferson Sch. Dist. R-1 v. Division of Labor, 791 P.2d 1217 (Colo. App. 1990).

When an administrative remedy has not been sought in a timely manner, C.R.C.P. 57 does not provide jurisdiction for judicial review. Jefferson Sch. Dist. R-1 v. Division of Labor, 791 P.2d 1217 (Colo. App. 1990).

This section governing judicial review of final agency action does not expand power of courts to initiate and compel administrative action beyond that available under C.R.C.P. 106. Jones v. Bd. of Chiropractic Exam'rs, 874 P.2d 493 (Colo. App. 1994).

Section only addresses procedures of review available once it is established that the dispute is properly brought under some other statutory section. This section alone does not create a legally protected right so as to confer standing to seek judicial review. Dolores Huerta Prep. High v. Colo. State Bd. of Educ., 215 P.3d 1229 (Colo. App. 2009).

District court has subject matter jurisdiction over appeal of jeopardy assessment made pursuant to § 39-21-111 where no notice of deficiency has been issued. A proceeding under this section was proper because there was no conflict with any other statute and there was final agency action where the tax was determined, a demand for payment was issued, and there were no administrative remedies under § 39-21-101 et seq. to exhaust. Flores v. Dept. of Rev., 802 P.2d 1175 (Colo. App. 1990).

Section applies to review of board of assessment appeals' (BAA) denial of abatement petition. Capital Assoc. Intern. v. Arapahoe Comm'rs, 802 P.2d 1180 (Colo. App. 1990).

Mined land reclamation board orders are final and subject to judicial review, notwithstanding the filing of a motion for reconsideration and denial of such motion by the board. The filing of such a motion is not authorized by law, and does not extend the time within which to seek judicial review of the order. Cheney v. State of Colo. Mined Land Reclamation Bd., 826 P.2d 367 (Colo. App. 1991).

Board acted arbitrarily and capriciously within the meaning of subsection (7) in refusing to hold an evidentiary hearing upon employee's disagreements with involuntary transfers where the reasons given by the board do not justify its order of denial, where the hearing officer found, based upon information submitted to her, that employee's allegations were facially supported, and where a proper determination of employee's contentions would require factual determinations that could only be made after an evidentiary hearing. Ivy v. State Pers. Bd., 860 P.2d 602 (Colo. App. 1993).

BAA has no authority to dismiss an administrative appeal based on a taxpayer's failure to comply with non-statutory procedural requirements. Fleisher-Smyth v. Bd. of Assessment App., 865 P.2d 922 (Colo. App. 1993).

Any right that may have existed to obtain review of a prison disciplinary action under the APA was eliminated by the enactment of § 17-1-111. Crawford v. State Dept. of Corr., 895 P.2d 1156 (Colo. App. 1995).

II. APPLICABILITY.

Section applicable to revocation of driver's license. Appellate review by the district court of a department of revenue order revoking a driver's license is governed by this article. Donelson v. Dept. of Rev., 38 Colo. App. 354, 561 P.2d 345 (1976).

The state administrative procedure act and, specifically, this section, constitute the exclusive means through which a person may seek judicial review of the revocation under § 42-4-1202 (3)(f) (now § 42-2-126) of a driver's license. People v. District Court, 200 Colo. 65, 612 P.2d 87 (1980).

A request for extraordinary relief in the form of mandamus under C.R.C.P. 106 was improper to challenge arbitrary action by the department of revenue in revoking a person's driver's license, even though petition was filed on the basis that the department refused to conduct a revocation hearing. The state Administrative Procedures Act provides the proper mechanism for seeking relief based on arbitrary action by an executive agency. Dept. of Rev. v. District Court, 802 P.2d 473 (Colo. 1990).

And to commission of insurance when functioning in adjudicatory capacity. If the commissioner of insurance holds a hearing pursuant to subsections (3) and (4) upon the application of an "aggrieved" person, insurer, or rating organization to determine whether he shall affirm, reverse, or modify his previous action, he is then functioning in an adjudicatory or quasi-judicial capacity and the procedures employed by him must conform to standards prescribed in the administrative code. Carroll v. Barnes, 169 Colo. 277, 455 P.2d 644 (1969).

And to certain actions of state engineer. The modified doctrine of prior appropriation provided for in the Colorado ground water management act applies to nontributary ground water, and rights to such water in designated ground water basins must be obtained through the procedures established in that act. Rights to nontributary ground water not located in a designated basin may be obtained only through application for a well permit from the state engineer under § 37-90-137. Review of the state engineer's action on well permit applications may be obtained under this section, as prescribed by § 37-90-115, for appeals taken before the 1983 revision of § 30-90-115 became applicable. Dept. of Natural Res. v. Southwestern Colo. Water Conservation Dist., 671 P.2d 1294 (Colo. 1983), cert. denied, 466 U.S. 944, 104 S. Ct. 1929, 80 L. Ed.2d 474 (1984).

Subsection (7) standards do not apply to the initiative title setting review board when it holds a meeting for designating and fixing a title, ballot title and submission clause, and summary. Specific process and procedure is set out in the initiative and referendum statutes. Matter of Title, Ballot Title et al., 831 P.2d 1301 (Colo. 1992).

Section is not inapplicable to the adjudication of state water engineers' regulations. Kuiper v. Well Owners Conservation Ass'n, 176 Colo. 119, 490 P.2d 268 (1971).

Nor to insurance commissioner functioning in quasi-legislative capacity. When the commissioner of insurance conducts a hearing, either on his own initiative or at the request of a filing insurer or rating organization, prior to the approval or disapproval by him of a rate filing, he is functioning in a quasi-legislative capacity and the validity of the procedure which he follows is not to be determined by standards provided in the administrative code. Carroll v. Barnes, 169 Colo. 277, 455 P.2d 644 (1969).

Nor to workmen's compensation cases. The appeal procedures under the workmen's compensation act are complete and definitive and constitute an organic act which is self-operational without the need of supplementation from the administrative procedure act. Zappas v. Indus. Comm'n, 36 Colo. App. 319, 543 P.2d 101 (1975).

Nor to order revoking permission to remit sales taxes on cash basis. Section 39-21-105 specifically, and article 21 of title 39 generally, prescribe the procedure for the determination and review of deficiencies in tax payments. So, while this section governs the defendant's appeal of the department's final deficiency determination, it does not govern the defendant's challenge to the order revoking its permission to remit sales taxes on a cash basis. Dept. of Rev. v. District Court, 193 Colo. 553, 568 P.2d 1157 (1977).

Nor to local licensing authority actions. Because the Denver department of excise and licenses is not a state agency with statewide territorial jurisdiction, the decisions of its director are not within the ambit of review procedures under this section. Two G's, Inc. v. Kalbin, 666 P.2d 129 (Colo. 1983).

Colorado rules of civil procedure provide an available remedy for a prisoner who is still held within the period of his sentence. Peterson v. Ricketts, 495 F. Supp. 312 (D. Colo. 1980).

This section is not applicable to the adjustment of the timing and manner of inmate's restitution payments. Jones v. Colo. Dept. of Corr., 53 P.3d 1187 (Colo. App. 2002).

statutory provisions do not specify what counts as an actionable injury, the law of implied private rights of action furnishes a model for whether the substantive law creates rights the invasion of which confers standing under the administrative procedure act. Cloverleaf Kennel Club, Inc. v. Racing Comm'n, 620 P.2d 1051 (Colo. 1980).

Nominal availability of judicial review does not preclude action seeking declaratory relief. The nominal availability of judicial review under subsection (4) of this section or C.R.C.P. 106 (a) (4) does not preclude a C.R.C.P. 57 action seeking declaratory relief if, in the context of a particular controversy, the remedy afforded by this section or by certiorari review would be inadequate. Collopy v. Wildlife Comm'n, 625 P.2d 994 (Colo. 1981).

Permissible to join actions. It is permissible to join a § 24-4-106 action and a C.R.C.P. 57 action for purposes of review. Utah Int'l, Inc. v. Bd. of Land Comm'rs, 41 Colo. App. 72, 579 P.2d 96 (1978).

Failure to pursue other remedies may bar declaratory judgment. The plaintiff's failure to pursue remedies provided in this section and in C.R.C.P. 106 (a) in a timely manner bars a declaratory judgment action, following an agency's adverse interpretation of a statute. Greyhound Racing Ass'n v. Racing Comm'n, 41 Colo. App. 319, 589 P.2d 70 (1978).

Declaratory action is not invariably barred by expiration of this section's filing period. While agency rules and regulations are indeed reviewable under subsection (4), expiration of that subsection's filing period does not invariably bar as untimely a C.R.C.P. 57, action attacking the constitutionality of an administrative regulation promulgated by § 24-4-103 rule-making. Collopy v. Wildlife Comm'n, 625 P.2d 994 (Colo. 1981).

A person to whom an agency regulation is allegedly being unconstitutionally applied need not defy that regulation to obtain a judicial determination of its validity, but may instead commence a suit under C.R.C.P. 57 and an action for declaratory relief brought under these circumstances will not be barred because the time period prescribed by subsection (4) has elapsed since the agency regulation under attack became effective. Collopy v. Wildlife Comm'n, 625 P.2d 994 (Colo. 1981).

Amendment of pleadings governed by rules of civil procedure. The propriety of amendments to pleadings in actions for judicial review under this section is governed by the rules of civil procedure. People v. District Court, 200 Colo. 65, 612 P.2d 87 (1980).

Amendment allowed where mistaken reference to basis of court's jurisdiction. Where the sole amendment required to bring a cause of action within the state administrative procedure act is a deletion of a mistaken reference to

III. COMMENCEMENT OF ACTION.

In absence of statutory provision, standing is conferred by implied right of action. Where

C.R.C.P. 106 (a)(4), as the basis for the court's jurisdiction, and the substitution of a reference to this section, and where in all other respects, the petition states a cause of action under this section, an amendment to the petition should be allowed pursuant to C.R.C.P. 15 (a). People v. District Court, 200 Colo. 87, 612 P.2d 87 (1980).

A complaint for judicial review must be filed within 30 days after final agency action even if the claim is a contract claim. Buzick v. Pub. Emp. Retirement Ass'n, 849 P.2d 869 (Colo. App. 1992).

A complaint in the district court seeking to challenge an administrative ruling concerning attorney fees entered subsequent to a decision on the merits must be filed within 30 days after the ruling. Allen Homesite Group v. Colo. Water Quality Control Comm'n, 19 P.3d 32 (Colo. App. 2000).

Appeal filed within 30 days of service of order from Colorado oil and gas commission timely even if § 34-60-108 (6) provides that such orders are entered as of the date entered into the books of the commission. Richmond Petroleum v. Oil & Gas Conservation Comm'n, 907 P.2d 732 (Colo. App. 1995).

Colorado water quality control division's failure to act on a request for a temporary water discharge permit within 180 days constituted final agency action, thereby requiring any district court complaint concerning said action to be filed within 30 days after the end of the 180-day period. Roosevelt Tunnel, LLC v. Norton, 89 P.3d 427 (Colo. App. 2003).

Motion to amend filed after expiration of 30-day period is allowed. Although a motion to amend is filed approximately one month after the 30-day period prescribed by subsection (4) has expired, leave to amend should be granted under C.R.C.P. 15 (a) and where the amended pleading relates back to the date on which the original petition was filed, the pleading, as amended, states a timely claim for judicial review. Cloverleaf Kennel Club, Inc. v. Racing Comm'n, 620 P.2d 1051 (Colo. 1980).

Filing of motion to reconsider pursuant to subsection (2) does not extend effective date of agency's final decision. Bethesda Found. v. Colo. Dept. of Soc. Servs., 867 P.2d 1 (Colo. App. 1993); rev'd on other grounds, 877 P.2d 860 (Colo. 1994).

The plain language of subsection (3) requires a party aggrieved by an agency action to commence an action for review, and failure of the party to commence such action in the appropriate district court precludes review of the agency action by the appellate court. Davila v. Merit Sys. Council, 15 P.3d 781 (Colo. App. 2000).

Burden is on the appellants to make timely filing of their opening brief pursuant to subsection (4) and C.A.R. 31. It is within the court's discretion to dismiss an appeal if the appellant has not complied with the statutory time limitations for filing briefs. Warren Vill., Inc. v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 619 P.2d 60 (Colo. 1980).

Judicial review of agency action pursuant to subsection (4) is subject to the time limitations specified in C.A.R. 31 (a). Dismissal for failure to comply with statutory time limitations for filing briefs is left within the trial court's discretion. DuPuis v. Charnes, 668 P.2d 1 (Colo. 1983).

Time for review where no specific decision challenged. Where there is no specific decision being challenged, and consequently no specific date from which to reckon the time for filing for judicial review, the standard must be that the action is to be brought within a reasonable time. Nat'l Wildlife Fed'n v. Cotter Corp., 665 P.2d 598 (Colo. 1983).

Action for review of tenured teacher's dismissal was barred as untimely where it was not filed within the 45 days during which the teacher was required to seek review pursuant to the "Teacher Tenure Act" and this section and where the teacher received actual notice of the termination. Talbot v. Sch. Dist. No. 1, 700 P.2d 919 (Colo. App. 1984).

Although the recognized interpretation of issuance of an order is the date of mailing, the mailing occurs on the date that a letter, properly addressed, and bearing proper postage, is deposited in the mails. Where governor's decision was mailed without proper postage, his order is deemed effective when actual notice is received. N. Colo. Consortium v. Rural Job Training, 728 P.2d 744 (Colo. App. 1986).

Time limit in subsection (4) applies to actions under both subsection (2) and subsection (3). Where defendant in enforcement action asserted a counterclaim challenging validity of agency action being enforced, and more than 30 days had elapsed since agency action became effective, court was without jurisdiction to entertain the counterclaim. Gibbs v. Colo. Mined Land Reclamation Bd., 883 P.2d 592 (Colo. App. 1994); Allen Homesite Group v. Colo. Water Quality Control Comm'n, 19 P.3d 32 (Colo. App. 2000).

Subsection (4) does not set date by which appellees must object or be deemed to have waived the brief-filing requirements of this section. Warren Vill., Inc. v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 619 P.2d 60 (Colo. 1980).

Trial court properly dismissed plaintiff's judicial review claim as time-barred under subsection (4). Under subsection (4), any person adversely affected or aggrieved by any agency action may file an action for judicial review in the district court within 30 days after such agency action becomes effective. Moreover, under subsection (2), "unless the filing of an application for reconsideration is required by the statutory provisions governing the specific agency", judicial review must be sought within the 30-day filing requirement, regardless of whether or not a motion for reconsideration has been filed. There is no authority requiring a reconsideration motion before seeking judicial review of department's decisions concerning medicaid. Accordingly, plaintiff's motion for reconsideration did not extend the deadline for commencing a judicial review action. Bates v. Henneberry, 211 P.3d 68 (Colo. App. 2009).

IV. FINALITY AND EXHAUSTION OF ADMINISTRATIVE REMEDIES.

The parties involved in administrative proceedings are required to exhaust their administrative remedies before seeking judicial review in order to avoid encroaching on the executive function. The exception to this rule, however, is stated in subsection (8). A district court may intervene if the agency proceeding or action clearly exceeds the constitutional or statutory jurisdiction or authority of the agency and the party seeking to enjoin the proceedings shows that the agency action will cause irreparable injury. Envirotest Sys. v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 109 P.3d 142 (Colo. 2005).

The general rule is that the failure to exhaust administrative remedies prior to seeking judicial relief is a jurisdictional defect. This is especially true in cases involving tax matters, and thus, if there are complete, adequate, and speedy administrative remedies available for alleged tax irregularities, a taxpayer must exhaust them. Kendal v. Cason, 791 P.2d 1227 (Colo. App. 1990).

Right to review arises only after final adverse decision. A statutory provision defining the period within which judicial review can be sought does not become material until after the right to review arises, that is, until after there is a final decision adverse to the claimant. McCartney v. West Adams County Fire Prot. Dist., 40 Colo. App. 330, 574 P.2d 516 (1978).

Absent final agency action, a district court does not have the authority to interfere with administrative agency proceedings by granting a stay of a public employee's dismissal. State Pers. Bd. v. District Court, 637 P.2d 333 (Colo. 1981).

Until an agency makes a determination, any action of the judiciary is premature. Dept. of Rev. v. District Court, 172 Colo. 144, 470 P.2d 864 (1970).

Judiciary cannot interfere even where claim of unconstitutionality. Even a claim that a statute under which the department is proceeding is unconstitutional will not clothe the judiciary with the power to interfere with or control the department in advance of its taking final action. The question of constitutionality is a matter to be raised on appeal after the executive has performed his functions. Dept. of Rev. v.

District Court, 172 Colo. 144, 470 P.2d 864 (1970); Chonoski v. Dept. of Rev., 699 P.2d 416 (Colo. App. 1985).

The claim of unconstitutionality will not clothe the judiciary with the power to interfere with an administrative agency in advance of its taking final action. Moore v. District Court, 184 Colo. 63, 518 P.2d 948 (1974).

A claim that a statute is unconstitutional does not give the judiciary the power under subsection (8) to interfere with an administrative agency in advance of its taking final action. State Pers. Bd. v. District Court, 637 P.2d 333 (Colo. 1981).

Section only addresses procedures of review available once it is established that the dispute is properly brought under some other statutory section. This section alone does not create a legally protected right so as to confer standing to seek judicial review. Dolores Huerta Prep. High v. Colo. State Bd. of Educ., 215 P.3d 1229 (Colo. App. 2009).

Agency statement on law or policy, or procedure or practice, deemed final action. Whole or part of every agency statement of general applicability and future effect implementing, interpreting, or declaring law or policy, or setting forth procedure or practice requirements of any agency is final agency action subject to judicial review and authority to postpone the effective date of agency action pending review. Colo. Bd. of Optometric Exam'rs v. Dixon, 165 Colo. 488, 440 P.2d 287 (1968).

Agency's decision reviewing hearing officer's decision is final action. The decision of an agency (other than a remand for further proceedings) described in § 24-4-105 (15)(b), is final agency action subject to judicial review under subsection (2). State Pers. Bd. v. District Court, 637 P.2d 333 (Colo. 1981).

But individual votes of members of the state personnel board on motions put before the board do not constitute agency actions. Rather, it is the outcome or effect of those votes that is subject to review. Maggard v. Dept. of Human Servs., 226 P.3d 1209 (Colo. App. 2009), rev'd on other grounds, 248 P.3d 708 (Colo. 2011).

State personnel board order awarding attorney fees, but not establishing the fee amount is a reviewable final agency action. Colo. State Pers. Bd. v. Dept. of Corr., 988 P.2d 1147 (Colo. 1999).

Right to review tax exemption arises only upon board of assessment appeals decision. Where a taxpayer initially applies for a tax exemption prior to the effective date of a statutory provision, but the final administrative decision adverse to the claimant is a board of assessment appeals decision after the statute's effective date, the right to district court review does not arise until that latter date. Warren Vill., Inc. v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 619 P.2d 60 (Colo. 1980).

In cases arising under the tenure act, the "final order" for judicial review is certainly the "order" of the board of education required by § 22-63-117 (10). Snyder v. Jefferson City Sch. Dist. No. 1, 707 P.2d 1049 (Colo App. 1985); Lockhart v. Arapahoe County Sch. District No. 6, 735 P.2d 913 (Colo. App. 1986).

Finality of license revocation by division of motor vehicles. An order of revocation issued at the conclusion of a hearing is final. Inasmuch as motor vehicle statutes are specific as to when an order is effective, when it is final, and when a petition for judicial review is to be filed, they are controlling notwithstanding other conflicting provisions of the State Administrative Procedure Act. Houston v. Dept. of Rev., 699 P.2d 15 (Colo. App. 1985).

Order of board of health reversing and remanding the determination of the hearing officer is not a reviewable final agency action. Colo. Health Facilities Review Council v. District Court, 689 P.2d 617 (Colo. 1984).

Filing of exceptions to the preliminary recommendations of the administrative law judge does not effect the 45-day deadline for filing a notice of appeal from the date of the final agency action. Hussein v. Regents of the Univ. of Colo., 124 P.3d 871 (Colo. App. 2005).

Administrative remedies must be exhausted. Before there can be recourse to courts in administrative matters, there must be an exhaustion of administrative remedies. Moschetti v. Liquor Licensing Auth., 176 Colo. 281, 490 P.2d 299 (1971).

Normally, judicial review of administrative action is available only after an exhaustion of administrative remedies and final agency action. Bd. of Cosmetology v. District Court, 187 Colo. 175, 530 P.2d 1278 (1974); Chonoski v. Dept. of Rev., 699 P.2d 416 (Colo. App. 1985).

Exhaustion of the administrative remedy of an appeal to the Colorado civil rights commission from an adverse ruling of a hearing officer is a prerequisite to the maintenance of a court action challenging the hearing officer's ruling. North Washington St. Water & San. Dist. v. Emerson, 626 P.2d 1152 (Colo. App. 1980).

The need for application of the rule requiring exhaustion of remedies becomes more persuasive when the matter in controversy raises the precise questions which are within the expertise of the administrative agency, and are of the very nature the agency was designed to resolve. Downey v. Dept. of Rev., 653 P.2d 72 (Colo. App. 1982).

District court properly dismissed action for lack of jurisdiction since plaintiffs failed to exhaust the administrative remedies available to them which could have afforded them complete relief in the matter. Kendal v. Cason, 791 P.2d 1227 (Colo. App. 1990).

District court does not have jurisdiction under C.R.C.P. 106 (a)(4) to review an interlocutory order of a state administrative agency, absent a showing of irreparable harm from such order. T & S Leasing v. District Court, 728 P.2d 729 (Colo. 1986).

District court lacked authority to issue injunctive relief regarding a hearing officer ruling made during an ongoing administrative hearing. Envirotest Sys. v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 109 P.3d 142 (Colo. 2005).

There is an exception to this rule that judicial review is available only after an exhaustion of administrative remedies provided by subsection (8). Bd. of Cosmetology v. District Court, 187 Colo. 175, 530 P.2d 1278 (1974).

Individual may initiate pre-enforcement challenge to regulation's validity. Nothing in the state administrative procedure act denies standing to an individual to initiate a pre-enforcement challenge to the validity of a regulation, if he is subject to its demands. CF&I Steel Corp. v. Colo. Air Pollution Control Comm'n, 199 Colo. 270, 610 P.2d 85 (1980).

Trial court erred in dismissing 42 U.S.C. § 1983 claim against the members of the state board for community colleges and occupational education since the availability of judicial review pursuant to this section did not preclude such action. Nat'l Camera, Inc. v. Sanchez, 832 P.2d 960 (Colo. App. 1991).

Applied in Envirotest Sys. v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 109 P.3d 142 (Colo. 2005).

V. PARTIES.

Counties not included in definition of "party". A county, as an arm of the state board of social services, has no rights or privileges so far as its statutory duties are concerned and, hence, does not come within the definition of "party". Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Bd. of Soc. Servs., 186 Colo. 435, 528 P.2d 244 (1974).

Nor board of county commissioners. The board of county commissioners is an "agency" within the meaning of the administrative code and as such is not the person who may seek review of final agency action. Also, boards of county commissioners have no authority to sue as representatives of taxpayers of their counties. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Love, 172 Colo. 121, 470 P.2d 861 (1970) (decided prior to 1979 amendment).

A county and, as such, its board of county commissioners are without standing to challenge an action of the state board of social services, even though they may have been extended the courtesy of presenting evidence at the rule-making hearing. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Bd. of Soc. Servs., 186 Colo. 435, 528 P.2d 244 (1974) (decided prior to 1979 amendment).

Where the state board of social services is a party to judicial review proceedings, as a result of which a settlement agreement was reached, reinstating an employee suspended by a county department of social services, the county board and the county department, as subordinates of the state agency, are bound by the state department's actions settling the judicial review proceedings. Accordingly, the county board and the county department are without standing to seek judicial review of the merit system council's order implementing the settlement agreement, and, pursuant to subsection (4.5), the board of county commissioners is likewise without standing to seek judicial review. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Merit Sys. Council, 662 P.2d 1093 (Colo. App. 1982).

Nor does a county department of social services have standing to seek judicial review of an action by the state board of social services by the merit system council. Nadeau v. Merit Sys. Council for County Depts. of Soc. Servs., 36 Colo. App. 362, 545 P.2d 1061 (1975) (decided prior to 1979 amendment).

A county department of social services is not an adversely affected or aggrieved "party" empowered to bring an action for judicial review of an agency action within the meaning of this section. Martin v. District Court, 191 Colo. 107, 550 P.2d 864 (1976) (decided prior to 1979 amendment).

A county board of commissioners has standing to review an administrative rule that provided that a permit issued pursuant to the rule shall be binding with respect to any conflicting local governmental permit or land use approval process. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Colo. Oil & Gas Conservation Comm'n, 81 P.3d 1119 (Colo. App. 2003).

Subsection (4) does not grant a county the right to seek judicial review of state department decisions. Romer v. Bd. of County Comm'rs of the County of Pueblo, 956 P.2d 566 (Colo. 1998).

The statute does not confer a substantive legal right on a county to sue for monetary damages. Provisions that include counties within the definition of "person" were not intended to confer substantive rights on counties to sue the state. Romer v. Bd. of County Comm'rs of the County of Pueblo, 956 P.2d 566 (Colo. 1998).

"Party" status required as prerequisite to judicial review. One must comply with the requirements for obtaining "party" status in adjudicatory hearings as a prerequisite to seeking judicial review under the administrative procedure act. Colo. Water Quality Control Comm'n v. Town of Frederick, 641 P.2d 958 (Colo. 1982).

Right to judicial review is limited to "aggrieved" parties. The right to judicial review of final administrative actions under the administrative procedure act is limited to those parties to the proceeding before the administrative agency whose rights, privileges, or duties, as distinct from those of the state, are adversely affected by the decision. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Bd. of Soc. Servs., 186 Colo. 435, 528 P.2d 244 (1974); Colo.-Ute Elec. Ass'n v. Air Pollution Control Comm'n, 41 Colo. App. 393, 591 P.2d 1323 (1978), rev'd on other grounds, 199 Colo. 270, 610 P.2d 85 (1980).

"Aggrieved" party defined. Those whose activities are exactly those to which a particular regulation apply, and who will be adversely affected by an application of the regulation, are "aggrieved" parties with standing to seek judicial review of the regulation. CF&I Steel Corp. v. Colo. Air Pollution Control Comm'n, 199 Colo. 270, 610 P.2d 85 (1980).

If an administrative rule or order either commands or prohibits action on the part of specific individuals or entities, then those subject to the mandate or prohibition of the rule have sufficient interest and standing to seek judicial review of the administrative action adopting the rule or order under this section. Colo.-Ute Elec. Ass'n v. Air Pollution Control Comm'n, 41 Colo. App. 393, 591 P.2d 1323 (1978), rev'd on other grounds, 199 Colo. 270, 610 P.2d 85 (1980).

Party to an adjudicatory determination by an administrative agency may initiate an appeal. Douglas County Bd. of Comm'rs v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 829 P.2d 1303 (Colo. 1992).

"Party" need not file alternative to proposed regulation. Status as a "party" in seeking judicial review of agency action does not require that one have filed an alternative to the proposed regulation. CF&I Steel Corp. v. Colo. Air Pollution Control Comm'n, 199 Colo. 270, 610 P.2d 85 (1980).

Where there is no allegation of "aggrieved" parties, motion for relief denied. Where a motion for relief does not allege the grounds which, if established, would "aggrieve" parties, the commissioner of insurance does not abuse his discretion in denying the motion. Carroll v. Barnes, 169 Colo. 277, 455 P.2d 644 (1969).

Parties held to be aggrieved persons adversely affected by action of board of public welfare (now department of social services). Fields v. Dept. of Pub. Welfare, 165 Colo. 118, 437 P.2d 538 (1968).

State property tax administrator is an "agency" and therefore is not entitled to appeal an agency action under this section. Maurer v. Young Life, 751 P.2d 653 (Colo. App. 1987), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 779 P.2d 1317 (Colo. 1989).

Standing to seek tax refund depends on financial burden suffered. One who does not bear the financial burden of a tax suffers no loss or injury and has no standing to seek a refund under this section. Washington Plaza Assocs. v.

Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 44 Colo. App. 559, 620 P.2d 52 (1980).

Purpose of indispensable party requirement. The purpose of the requirement that every party in the agency action not appearing as a plaintiff shall be made a defendant is to ensure the complete and just adjudication of the rights of those having an interest in the subject matter of the litigation. Cissell v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 38 Colo. App. 560, 564 P.2d 124 (1977).

Joinder of indispensable parties required. An appeal must be perfected—as well as commenced—within the time period established. Part of the perfection of an appeal requires the joinder of indispensable parties. West Brandt Found., Inc. v. Carper, 44 Colo. App. 137, 608 P.2d 355 (1978), rev'd on other grounds, 199 Colo. 334, 608 P.2d 339 (1980).

Joinder of board of assessment appeals required in action for review of a board of assessment appeals' decision. Capital Assoc. Intern. v. Arapahoe Comm'rs, 802 P.2d 1180 (Colo. App. 1990); Colo. Interstate Gas Co. v. Huddleston, 28 P.3d 958 (Colo. App. 2000).

C.R.C.P. 19 is inapplicable to proceedings under this article. Because the general assembly specifically has addressed the question of joinder in this section, C.R.C.P. 19 is not applicable in proceedings brought under the State Administrative Procedure Act. Whether a person or organization meets the statutory requirement as a mandatory party in an action for judicial review depends on whether it should have been included in the administrative proceeding. Town of Frederick v. Colo. Water Quality Control Comm'n, 628 P.2d 129 (Colo. App. 1980), rev'd on other grounds, 641 P.2d 958 (1982).

Language of subsection (4) is mandatory in effect. Cissell v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 38 Colo. App. 560, 564 P.2d 124 (1977); West-Brandt Found., Inc. v. Carper, 199 Colo. 334, 608 P.2d 339 (1980).

Mining reclamation board and the division of mined land reclamation are definite and distinct entities and the designation of the division as a party defendant in lieu of a designation of the board in a challenge to the board's issuance of a mining permit was a failure to join an indispensable party, since the board is an indispensable party to such an action. Cold Springs Ranch v. Dept. of Nat. Res., 765 P.2d 1035 (Colo. App. 1988).

Failure to join indispensable party requires dismissal. The failure to join an indispensable party in an action for review of an administrative proceeding is a defect of constitutional proportion requiring dismissal of the action. Cissell v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 38 Colo. App. 560, 564 P.2d 124 (1977).

University is an indispensable party in employment dispute. The university of Colorado is an indispensable party required by this section to be joined in a suit seeking judicial review of a termination of employment at the university. Ricci v. State Pers. Bd., 44 Colo. App. 9, 605 P.2d 492 (1980).

Erroneous designation of agency, where not technical error, precludes determination of merits. Where a proceeding is not brought against the agency whose action is challenged by its official title, the issue is whether the error in designation is a mere technical error which should not preclude a determination of the issues on the merits. Spahn v. Dept. of Pers., 44 Colo. App. 446, 615 P.2d 66 (1980).

The designation of the state department of personnel instead of the state personnel board as the defendant in a suit by a party who had her employment terminated in a hearing before the state personnel board is not a mere technical error and, therefore, the district court should dismiss the complaint for failure to join an indispensable party. Spahn v. Dept. of Pers., 44 Colo. App. 446, 615 P.2d 66 (1980).

Class action relief can be sought for the first time on appeal where review is pursuant to this section. Rodgers v. Atencio, 43 Colo. App. 268, 608 P.2d 813 (1979).

VI. RELIEF GRANTED.

Section allows for declaratory and injunctive relief from an unconstitutional agency action as part of the administrative procedure act review. Jeffrey v. Colo. Dept. of Soc. Servs., 198 Colo. 265, 599 P.2d 874 (1979).

Colorado department of social services is a party for purposes of an administrative proceeding conducted pursuant to this section and as such may be held liable for attorney's fees for asserting a frivolous defense. Colo. Dept. of Soc. Servs. v. Bethesda Care Center, Inc., 867 P.2d 4 (Colo. App. 1993).

But assessment of costs against state not allowed. Upon judicial review of administrative action, while subsection (7) permits the court "to afford such other relief as may be appropriate", this provision cannot be construed to authorize the assessment of costs against the state so as to take precedence over C.R.C.P. 54 (d). Shumate v. State Pers. Bd., 34 Colo. App. 393, 528 P.2d 404 (1974).

There is no specific statutory provision allowing for the award of costs where an individual pursues his right to judicial review of an administrative hearing officer's actions under § 42-2-127 and this section; such an award is erroneous, because C.R.C.P. 54 (d) limits the imposition of costs against the state to "the extent permitted by law". Lucero v. Charnes, 44 Colo. App. 73, 607 P.2d 405 (1980).

Jurisdiction of court to postpone action's effective date limited. The jurisdiction of a district court to postpone the effective date of an agency action is limited to proceedings taken in conjunction with an action for judicial review filed after final agency action. State Pers. Bd. v. District Court, 637 P.2d 333 (Colo. 1981).

There is no constitutional prohibition against requiring irreparable injury showing. Nothing in the constitution of Colorado, or that of the United States, prohibits the general assembly from requiring a showing of irreparable injury as a condition to be met before the postponement of the effective date of agency action shall be brought about. Theobald v. District Court, 148 Colo. 466, 366 P.2d 563 (1961).

Showing of irreparable injury constitutes only prerequisite to entry of stay. Under subsection (5), the only prerequisite to an entry of a stay of agency action is a finding that irreparable injury would otherwise result. Dept. of Rev. v. District Court, 193 Colo. 553, 568 P.2d 1157 (1977).

Where there is no showing of irreparable injury justifying the postponement of the effective date of an order of the director of revenue suspending a driver's license, and no notice to the director of an application for an order commanding him to restore the license pending determination of review proceedings, the district court is without authority to summarily order restoration of the license. Theobald v. District Court, 148 Colo. 466, 366 P.2d 563 (1961).

Section 39-21-105 does not expressly prohibit the entry of a stay as authorized by subsection (5). Dept. of Rev. v. District Court, 193 Colo. 553, 568 P.2d 1157 (1977).

Court may provide appropriate temporary relief for driver with suspended license. When a driver whose license has been suspended establishes that irreparable injury would otherwise result if the suspension were effective pending judicial review, a court may provide appropriate relief under subsection (5). Tomasi v. Thompson, 635 P.2d 538 (Colo. 1981).

Court cannot modify administrative relief awarded. To "postpone" the effective date of an agency action means only to hold back to a later time or to defer; it cannot be expanded to include a modification of the administrative relief awarded by substituting a period of restricted driving for a period of full suspension of driving privileges. Tomasi v. Thompson, 635 P.2d 538 (Colo. 1981).

Supreme court not to act as licensing board. It is not within the scope of judicial review for the supreme court to act as a professional licensing board. In re Maul v. State Bd. of Dental Exam'rs, 668 P.2d 933 (Colo. 1983).

Insurance companies allowed to increase rates approved by commissioner. Where a suit challenging an insurance premium rate increase has not been determined, companies can increase rates approved by the commissioner, since the commissioner can order refunds if the increase is held invalid, and since insurance companies would otherwise suffer irreparable injury if the increase were upheld. Nat'l Auto.

No further agency action once judicial review commenced. Once an action for judicial review had been commenced in the district court, the department of revenue has no jurisdiction to enter any further orders in the case until final disposition of the judicial proceedings and a remand of the case to the department, and may not stay an order of license revocation. Marr v. Dept. of Rev., 43 Colo. App. 36, 598 P.2d 155 (1979).

VII. RECORD ON REVIEW.

No time limitations relating to filing record. Subsection (6) does not contain any time limitations on filing a designation of record, objecting to or supplementing the record designated, or filing the record. Harris v. District Court, 655 P.2d 398 (Colo. 1982).

Party seeking review must order transcript to make it part of record. The party seeking review is required to order and pay for a transcript of an administrative hearing in order to make it part of the record for purposes of judicial review under this section. Harris v. District Court, 655 P.2d 398 (Colo. 1982).

However, when the party seeking review proceeds in forma pauperis, an alternative method of providing a record of the administrative proceedings may be allowed. Schaffes v. District Court, 719 P.2d 1088 (Colo. 1986); Earl v. District Court, 719 P.2d 321 (Colo. 1986).

Review by district court is limited to the record compiled by the agency. Stream v. Heckers, 184 Colo. 149, 519 P.2d 336 (1974).

In certiorari proceedings reviewing an administrative action, the trial court is confined to a review of the record of hearings before the agency. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Simmons, 177 Colo. 347, 494 P.2d 85 (1972).

Remand is mandated where agency order is without findings. Where the civil service commission (now the department of personnel) modifies a dismissal order of the police chief without findings, the district court should remand to the commission (now department) to supply findings, because otherwise there can be no meaningful review on the merits. Lawless v. Bach, 176 Colo. 165, 489 P.2d 316 (1971).

Record may not include post-hearing matters. Complaints about other matters filed after the agency hearing upon which the board based its findings of fact and conclusions of law could not pertain to errors, omissions, and irregularities in the agency record, and may not be included in the record on appeal. Harris v. District Court, 655 P.2d 398 (Colo. 1982).

Hearing transcript made part of record considered. If a hearing transcript is ordered, paid for, and made part of the record on appeal, the reviewing court is required to consider it.

Loesch v. Dept. of Rev., 194 Colo. 169, 570 P.2d 530 (1977).

Appellate court reviews record where lower court reviews only transcript and exhibits. Where a review of a dismissal action in a lower court is only of the transcript and exhibits presented at the agency hearing, the appellate court is in as good a position as the district court to review the record, and it need not remand the case to the lower court for a determination of whether the dismissal was supported by the requisite substantial evidence. Lassner v. Civil Service Comm'n, 177 Colo. 257, 493 P.2d 1087 (1972).

VIII. STANDARD OF REVIEW.

Standard of review in the consideration of agency rule-making is reasonableness. Amax, Inc. v. Water Quality Control Comm'n, 790 P.2d 879 (Colo. App. 1989); Brown v. Colo. Ltd. Gaming Control Comm'n, 1 P.3d 175 (Colo. App. 1999).

Under the applicable standard of review, the board of assessment appeals' exemption determination must be sustained if it has a reasonable basis in law and is supported by substantial evidence in the record as a whole. Bd. of Assessment Appeals v. AM/FM Int'l, 940 P.2d 338 (Colo. 1997); Pilgrim Rest Baptist Church, Inc. v. Prop. Tax Adm'r, 971 P.2d 270 (Colo. App. 1998); EchoStar Satellite, L.L.C. v. Arapahoe County Bd. of Equaliz., 171 P.3d 633 (Colo. App. 2007).

Valuation determinations of the board of assessment appeals will not be disturbed on review if the board's factual findings as to the appropriate valuation of the subject property are supported by competent and substantial evidence in the record as a whole. Home Depot USA, Inc. v. Pueblo County Bd. of Comm'rs, 50 P.3d 916 (Colo. App. 2002).

Rules adopted pursuant to a statutory rule-making proceeding are presumed valid. Brown v. Colo. Ltd. Gaming Control Comm'n, 1 P.3d 175 (Colo. App. 1999).

Judicial review of state agency action under this section is the counterpart to judicial review of local government action under C.R.C.P. 106. Review of agency action, whether in the district court or the court of appeals, is essentially appellate in nature based on the board's administrative record. Bd. of Chiropractic Exam'rs v. Stjernholm, 935 P.2d 959 (Colo. 1997).

The board is collaterally estopped from relitigating, in a § 1983 action, the issue of a summary license suspension decided between the same parties in an earlier proceeding in the absence of new circumstances and a finding by the board that an emergency exists. Bd. of Chiropractic Exam'rs v. Stjernholm, 935 P.2d 959 (Colo. 1997).

Burden on challenging party to establish invalidity of rules adopted pursuant to a statutory rule-making proceeding by demonstrating that the rule-making body acted in an unconstitutional manner, exceeded its statutory authority, or otherwise acted in a manner contrary to statutory requirements. Amax, Inc. v. Water Quality Control Comm'n, 790 P.2d 879 (Colo. App. 1989); Wine & Spirits Wholesalers v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 919 P.2d 894 (Colo. App. 1996); Brown v. Colo. Ltd. Gaming Control Comm'n, 1 P.3d 175 (Colo. App. 1999).

Agency rules are presumed valid and a plaintiff challenging a rule must establish the invalidity of the rule by demonstrating that the rule-making body exceeded its statutory authority. An agency's construction of its own governing statute is entitled to great weight. Mile High Greyhound Park v. Racing Comm'n, 12 P.3d 351 (Colo. App. 2000).

A reviewing court may reverse an administrative agency's determination if the court finds that the agency acted in an arbitrary and capricious manner, made a determination that is unsupported by the evidence in the record, erroneously interpreted the law, or exceeded its constitutional or statutory authority. Ohlson v. Weil, 953 P.2d 939 (Colo. App. 1997).

The ultimate determination as to the appropriate classification of property for property tax purposes involves mixed issues of law and fact. Under the applicable standard of review, the board of assessment appeal's property classification determination must be sustained by the appellate court if it has a reasonable basis in law and is supported by substantial evidence in the record considered as a whole. E.R. Southtech, Ltd. v. Arapahoe County Bd. of Equaliz., 972 P.2d 1057 (Colo. App. 1998); Farny v. Bd. of Equaliz., 985 P.2d 106 (Colo. App. 1999); Home Depot USA, Inc. v. Pueblo County Bd. of Comm'rs, 50 P.3d 916 (Colo. App. 2002).

Board of assessment appeals can consider reasonable inferences and circumstances tending to weaken or discredit uncontroverted evidence of a single party. Weingarten v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 876 P.2d 118 (Colo. App. 1994).

Board of assessment appeals' property tax classification determination must be sustained if it has a reasonable basis in law and is supported by substantial evidence in the record as a whole. Johnston v. Park County Bd. of Equaliz., 979 P.2d 578 (Colo. App. 1999); Home Depot USA, Inc. v. Pueblo County Bd. of Comm'rs, 50 P.3d 916 (Colo. App. 2002).

Board of assessment appeals' factual determination as to the appropriate valuation of a parcel may not be disturbed on review where it is supported by competent and substantial evidence in the record as a whole. Steamboat

Ski & Resort Corp. v. Routt County Bd. of Equaliz., 23 P.3d 1258 (Colo. App. 2001).

In determining whether an administrative agency's decision is arbitrary or capricious, the court must determine whether a reasonable person, considering all of the evidence in the record, would fairly and honestly be compelled to reach a different conclusion. If not, no abuse of discretion has occurred and the agency decision must be upheld. Ramseyer v. Colo. Dept. of Soc. Servs., 895 P.2d 1188 (Colo. App. 1995); WCC v. Umetco Minerals, 919 P.2d 887 (Colo. App. 1996).

District court has no jurisdiction to interfere with officers of the executive branch of government whose duties are imposed by statute, because such action constitutes direct and unjustified judicial interference with a function properly delegated to the executive department. Colo. Dept. of Rev. v. District Court, 172 Colo. 144, 470 P.2d 864 (1970).

District courts do not have jurisdiction to interfere with the executive branch of the government in the performance of its statutory duties. Moore v. District Court, 184 Colo. 63, 518 P.2d 948 (1974).

A court cannot substitute its judgment for that of an agency as to what is a reasonable penalty and the power to modify is not given to a reviewing court under subsection (7). Petersen v. Racing Comm'n, 677 P.2d 412 (Colo. App. 1983).

The district court cannot usurp the power of the state banking board to determine whether to grant a bank charter. Banking Bd. v. District Court, 177 Colo. 77, 492 P.2d 837 (1972).

District court cannot substitute its judgment for that of administrative tribunal when there is substantial evidence in record to support tribunal's decision. Institute for Research v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 748 P.2d 1346 (Colo. App. 1987).

Weighing evidence and resolving conflicts is the task of the administrative agency, not the reviewing court. Bd. of Assessment Appeals v. Arlberg Club, 762 P.2d 146 (Colo. 1988).

Agency decision may be set aside only upon the grounds that it is arbitrary and capricious or it is unsupported by any competent evidence. Bd. of Assessment Appeals v. Arlberg Club, 762 P.2d 146 (Colo. 1988); Denver v. Bd. of Assessment Appeals, 802 P.2d 1109 (Colo. App. 1990).

A reviewing court may not reverse the decision of an agency unless the court finds it to be arbitrary and capricious or contrary to rule or law. Kramer v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 964 P.2d 629 (Colo. App. 1998).

An agency interpretation that is not only in conformity with the relevant statutory provisions but is reasonably supported by the agency's reasoning and the record is entitled to deference. Dept. of Rev. v. Woodmen of the World, 919 P.2d 806 (Colo. 1996); Kramer v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 964 P.2d 629 (Colo. App. 1998).

Because the fire and police pension association is not an agency of state government, the standard of review of a decision of the association is not whether there is "substantial evidence" under subsection (7), but rather, whether there is "no competent evidence" under C.R.C.P. 106 (a)(4), to support the decision. Pueblo v. Fire and Police Pension Ass'n, 827 P.2d 597 (Colo. App. 1992); Wine & Spirits Wholesalers v. Colo. Dept. of Rev., 919 P.2d 894 (Colo. App. 1996).

Where evidence is conflicting, the hearing officer's finding is binding on appeal, and a reviewing court may not substitute its judgment for that of the fact finder. Marek v. Dept. of Rev., 709 P.2d 978 (Colo. App. 1985); Glasmann v. Dept. of Rev., 719 P.2d 1096 (Colo. App. 1986).

Record as a whole substantially supported the racing commission's order, and, therefore, the agency's decision must be upheld. Partridge v. State, 895 P.2d 1183 (Colo. App. 1995).

Court properly exercised its judicial review function where record of rule-making proceeding supports the adoption of the rule. City of Aurora v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 785 P.2d 1280 (Colo. 1990).

Administrative decision set aside where unsupported by competent evidence. In order for a court to set aside a decision of an administrative body on the ground that it is arbitrary and capricious, the court must find that the decision is unsupported by any competent evidence. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Simmons, 177 Colo. 347, 494 P.2d 85 (1972); Dolan v. Rust, 195 Colo. 173, 576 P.2d 560 (1978); Noe v. Dolan, 197 Colo. 32, 589 P.2d 483 (1979); Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Bd. of Assmt. Appeals, 628 P.2d 156 (Colo. App. 1981); Mertsching v. Webb, 757 P.2d 1102 (Colo. App. 1988).

A trial court may not set aside the decision of an administrative body as arbitrary and capricious unless the decision is unsupported by competent evidence. Guildner Way, Inc. v. Bd. of Adjustment, 35 Colo. App. 70, 529 P.2d 332 (1974).

Hearing officer wrongly denied licensee access to documents considered by the agency. The administrative procedures act requires that the record include copies of all exhibits and other papers. Gilbert v. Julian, 230 P.3d 1218 (Colo. App. 2009).

Abuse of discretion by board of assessment appeals exists where board failed to consider evidence of value of similar properties in other counties in Colorado and other states for purposes of property tax assessment. Platinum Props. Corp. v. Bd. of Assess. App., 738 P.2d 34 (Colo. App. 1987); Sonnenberg & Sons v. Bd. of Assess. App., 768 P.2d 748 (Colo. App. 1988).

Because specialty board certification exceeds the requirements for licensure of a physician, the board of medical examiners acted outside of its statutory authority in imposing such a requirement as a condition of license reinstatement. Lopez-Samoya v. Bd. of Medical Exam., 868 P.2d 1110 (Colo. App. 1993).

Courts cannot interfere with zoning decisions unless record shows clear abuse of discretion. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Simmons, 177 Colo. 347, 494 P.2d 85 (1972).

Abuse of discretion not shown where factual question debatable. Where the question of whether the character of a neighborhood has changed sufficiently to justify a change in zoning is fairly debatable and the zoning decision of the board of county commissioners is supported by competent evidence, the record does not show a clear abuse of discretion. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Simmons, 177 Colo. 347, 494 P.2d 85 (1972).

Agency action to be supported by substantial evidence when record considered as whole. This section requires agency action to be supportable by substantial evidence when the record is considered as a whole; if there is only some evidence in some particulars, it is insufficient to justify an affirmance of discharge of a civil service employee. Lassner v. Civil Service Comm'n, 177 Colo. 257, 493 P.2d 1087 (1972).

The hearing panel's findings of basic facts must be rejected if they are unsupported by substantial evidence when the record is considered as a whole or if they are not supported by competent evidence in the record. Ricci v. Davis, 627 P.2d 1111 (Colo. 1981).

Facts were sufficient to support, by a preponderance of the evidence, a finding of child abuse; therefore, record on the whole supports the findings of fact and the district court judgment and final agency order shall not be disturbed on review. M.G. v. Colo. Dept. of Human Servs., 12 P.3d 815 (Colo. App. 2000).

The imposition of sanctions is a discretionary function that cannot be overturned unless it is an abuse of that discretion. As long as the record as a whole provides sufficient evidence that the penalty is not manifestly excessive in relation to the misconduct and the public need, the penalty will be upheld. The "reasonable basis" standard does not apply to the review of an agency's imposition of sanctions. Colo. Real Estate Comm'n v. Hanegan, 947 P.2d 933 (Colo. 1997); Ainsworth v. Colo. Ltd. Gaming Control Comm'n, 45 P.3d 768 (Colo. App. 2001).

Effect of substantial evidence supporting agency action. Where appellate review of the record shows "substantial evidence" to support the decision of an administrative hearing officer, the existence of such evidence renders an appellant's claim of an unduly restrictive standard of review by the district court devoid of merit.

DeScala v. Motor Vehicle Div., 667 P.2d 1360 (Colo. 1983).

Doctrines of res judicata and collateral estoppel applicable. While the doctrines of res judicata and collateral estoppel were developed in the context of judicial proceedings, it is now well accepted that in a proper case they may be applied to administrative proceedings as well. Umberfield v. Sch. Dist. No. 11, 185 Colo. 165, 522 P.2d 730 (1974).

Where a teacher has a full adversary hearing before a teacher tenure panel, which has the power to determine all his claims of religious discrimination, the doctrine of res judicata operates as a bar to the relitigation of issues before the civil rights commission which the teacher raises or could raise in the hearing before that panel and on judicial review. Umberfield v. Sch. Dist. No. 11, 185 Colo. 165, 522 P.2d 730 (1974).

Where an agency's interpretation of a regulation clearly contradicts that agency's consistent practice, the agency's practices and not its interpretation should prevail. Geriatrics, Inc. v. Dept. of Soc. Servs., 712 P.2d 1035 (Colo. App. 1985).

Determination held to be supported by substantial evidence. Geriatrics, Inc. v. Dept. of Health, 650 P.2d 1288 (Colo. App. 1982), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 699 P.2d 952 (Colo. 1985); Pub. Emp. Ret. Ass'n v. Stermole, 874 P.2d 444 (Colo. App. 1993).

School board found to have abused its discretion in dismissing teacher. Hudson v. Bd. of Education, 655 P.2d 853 (Colo. App. 1982).

Whether PUC "regularly pursued its authority" pursuant to subsection (7) depends on several factors including whether: The decision is based on evidence introduced at evidence gathering stage of process; the PUC order is supported by findings of fact; the PUC supplied legislative standards guiding its decision-making function; and the PUC acted within authority conferred on it. Home Builders Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 720 P.2d 552 (Colo. 1986); Colo. Office of Consumer Counsel v. Mountain States Tel. and Tel. Co., 816 P.2d 278 (Colo. 1991).

State pharmacy board (Board) did not exceed its statutory authority pursuant to subsection (7) in promulgating rule prohibiting pharmacists from dispensing prescription drugs resulting from internet-based questionnaires, internet-based consultation, or telephonic consultation without a valid preexisting patient-practitioner relationship. Court rejects appellants' claims that a determination of whether a valid preexisting patient-practitioner relationship (1) necessarily involves knowledge of the Medical Practice Act and the rules promulgated by the Colorado state board of medical examiners (BME), (2) is beyond the expertise of individual pharmacists and the Board, and (3) improperly injects the Board into areas that are properly regulated by the BME. Brighton Pharmacy, Inc. v. Colo. State Pharmacy Bd., 160 P.3d 412 (Colo. App. 2007).

Department of health care policy and financing's rules denying spouse of institutionalized man a community spouse monthly income allowance are contrary to federal law and, therefore, may not be applied. Koehler v. Colo. Dept. of Health Care Policy & Fin., 252 P.3d 1174 (Colo. App. 2010).

24-4-107. Application of article. This article applies to every agency of the state having statewide territorial jurisdiction except those in the legislative or judicial branches, courts-martial, military commissions, and arbitration and mediation functions. It applies to every other agency to which it is made to apply by specific statutory reference; but, where there is a conflict between this article and a specific statutory provision relating to a specific agency, such specific statutory provision shall control as to such agency.

ANNOTATION

The Administrative Procedure Act (APA) applies to the review of rules adopted by the ground water commission. Colo. Ground Water Comm'n v. Eagle Peak Farms, 919 P.2d 212 (Colo. 1996); Parrish v. Water Quality Control Div., 934 P.2d 913 (Colo. App. 1997).

Notice requirements for county liquor license suspension proceedings governed by state provisions. Since the general assembly has not adopted legislation requiring that license suspension proceedings by a county be conducted pursuant to the state APA and since a county does not have statewide jurisdiction, the notice requirements for a county proceeding for the suspension of a liquor license are governed by the state liquor code. Chroma Corp. v. County of Adams, 36 Colo. App. 345, 543 P.2d 83 (1975).

When there is a conflict between provisions of the APA and a specific statutory provision relating to a specific agency, the specific statutory provision is deemed controlling in professional disciplinary proceedings before the board of medical examiners. State Bd. of Med. Exam'rs v. Reiner, 786 P.2d 499 (Colo. App. 1989).

No conflict is found between §§ 39-21-105 and 24-4-106 (5) where none plainly appears. Dept. of Rev. v. District Court, 193 Colo. 553, 568 P.2d 1157 (1977).

Air pollution (now air quality) control commission is an "agency" under this section and is subject to the provisions of the state APA. CF&I Steel Corp. v. Colo. Air Pollution Control Comm'n, 199 Colo. 270, 610 P.2d 85 (1980).

Fire and police pension association board is not an "agency" for purposes of the state APA. Ross v. Fire and Police Pension Ass'n, 713 P.2d 1304 (Colo. 1986).

County cannot challenge rule promulgated by state board of social services. This article is inapplicable in determining whether a county, through its board of commissioners, while not engaged in rule-making, has standing to challenge a rule promulgated by the state board of social services fixing the salaries of county welfare department employees. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Bd. of Soc. Servs., 186 Colo. 435, 528 P.2d 244 (1974) (decided prior to 1979 amendment of § 24-4-106).

Provisions on marketing orders supersede administrative provisions. The specific procedural requirements for the issuance and administration of marketing orders, as set forth in agricultural marketing act, supersede the general procedure of the administrative code as dictated by stated legislative intent. Shoenberg Farms, Inc. v. People ex rel. Swisher, 166 Colo. 199, 444 P.2d 277 (1968).

Provisions concerning property tax administration in §§ 39-2-117 and 39-2-125 supersede administrative provisions. Colo. Rocky Mtn. Sch., Inc., v. Shriver, 689 P.2d 651 (Colo. App. 1984).

Where provisions of public utilities law and state APA conflict, the former governs. Home Builders Ass'n v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 720 P.2d 552 (Colo. 1986).

The provisions of §§ 1-40-101 and 1-40-102, rather than the provisions of the APA, govern the initiative title setting board's action in fixing the title, ballot title and submission clause, and summary of a proposed initiative measure. In re Proposed Initiative Entitled W.A.T.E.R., 831 P.2d 1301 (Colo. App. 1992).

The initiative title setting review board is not acting in an adjudicative or rule-making capacity when it holds a meeting for designating and fixing a title, ballot title and submission clause, and summary. In this context, it is a special statutory body governed by initiative and referendum statutes rather than the APA. Matter of Title, Ballot Title et al., 831 P.2d 1301 (Colo. 1992).

Administrative provisions inapplicable to board of accountancy proceedings. The notice and hearing requirements of § 24-4-104 (3) are of no significance where there is a specific statutory provision concerning the notice and hearing requirements in proceedings before the board of accountancy. People ex rel. Bd. of Accountancy v. McFarland, 37 Colo. App. 93, 543 P.2d 112 (1975).

Former § 12-2-125(2) (now repealed) required that the person charged be served at least 30 days before the hearing with a written notice stating the nature of the charges against the accused and the time and place of the hearing before the board on such charges. This provision was in conflict with the more detailed notice requirements of the state APA. Therefore, the notice requirements of the former provision controlled. Hentges v. Bartsch, 35 Colo. App. 384, 533 P.2d 66 (1975).

And to city's supplying out-of-city customers with water. Denver's action in supplying customers outside the city does not subject the board of water commissioners to the notice and hearing requirements of § 24-4-105. Cottrell v. City & County of Denver, 636 P.2d 703 (Colo. 1981).

Applied in Lontine v. VanCleave, 483 F.2d 966 (10th Cir. 1973); Montgomery Ward & Co. v. Dept. of Rev., 628 P.2d 85 (Colo. 1981); Colo. Water Quality Control Comm'n v. Town of Frederick, 641 P.2d 958 (Colo. 1982); Citizens for Free Enter. v. Dept. of Rev., 649 P.2d 1054 (Colo. 1982).

24-4-108. Legislative consideration of rules. (1) Unless extended by the general assembly acting by bill, all of the rules and regulations of the principal departments shall expire on the dates specified in this section.

(2) The rules and regulations of the following principal departments shall expire on July 1, 1980:

(a) to (c) Repealed.

(3) The rules and regulations of the following principal departments shall expire on July 1, 1981:

(a) to (d) Repealed.

(4) The rules and regulations of the following principal departments shall expire on July 1, 1982:

(a) to (c) Repealed.

(5) The rules and regulations of the following principal departments shall expire on July 1, 1983:

(a) to (d) Repealed.

(6) The rules and regulations of the following principal departments shall expire on July 1, 1984:

(a) Department of the treasury;

(b) Repealed.

(c) Office of state planning and budgeting;

(d) to (h) Repealed.

(6.1) Repealed.

(7) The general assembly, in its discretion, may postpone by bill the expiration of rules and regulations, or any portion thereof. Nothing in this section shall prohibit any action by the general assembly pursuant to section 24-4-103 (8) (d). The postponement of the expiration of a rule shall not constitute legislative approval of the rule nor be admissible in any court as evidence of legislative intent. The committee on legal services is authorized to establish procedures for the implementation of review of rules and regulations contemplated by this section including, but not limited to, a procedure for annual review of rules and regulations which may conflict with statutes or statutory changes adopted subsequent to review of a department's rules and regulations pursuant to this section.

(8) This section shall not apply to rules and regulations of any agency in the department of regulatory agencies, which rules shall be subject to the provisions of section 24-34-104 (9) (b) (II).

CRIME VICTIM COMPENSATION ACT

24-4.1-100.1. Short title. This part 1 shall be known and may be cited as the “Colorado Crime Victim Compensation Act”.

Source: L. 82: Entire section added, p. 364, § 1, effective March 22. L. 84: Entire section amended, p. 657, § 5, effective May 14.

24-4.1-101. Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds that an effective criminal justice system requires the protection and assistance of victims of crime and members of the immediate families of such victims in order to preserve the individual dignity of victims and to encourage greater public cooperation in the apprehension and prosecution of criminal defendants. The general assembly hereby intends to provide protection and assistance to victims and members of the immediate families of such victims by declaring and implementing the rights of such persons and by lessening the financial burden placed upon victims due to the commission of crimes. This article shall be liberally construed to accomplish such purposes.

Source: L. 81: Entire article added, p. 1135, § 5, effective July 1. L. 92: Entire section amended, p. 415, § 1, effective January 14, 1993.

24-4.1-102. Definitions. As used in this part 1, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) “Applicant” means any victim of a compensable crime who applies to the fund for compensation under this part 1. In the case of such victim’s death, the term includes any person who was his dependent at the time of the death of that victim.

(2) “Board” means the crime victim compensation board in each judicial district.

(3) “Child” means an unmarried person who is under eighteen years of age. The term includes a posthumous child, a stepchild, or an adopted child.

(4) (a) “Compensable crime” means:

(I) An intentional, knowing, reckless, or criminally negligent act of a person or any act in violation of section 42-4-1301 (1) or (2), C.R.S., that results in residential property damage to or bodily injury or death of another person or results in loss of or damage to eyeglasses, dentures, hearing aids, or other prosthetic or medically necessary devices and which, if committed by a person of full legal capacity, is punishable as a crime in this state; or

(II) An act in violation of section 42-4-1402, C.R.S., that results in the death of another person or section 42-4-1601, C.R.S., where the accident results in the death of another person.

(b) “Compensable crime” includes federal offenses that are comparable to those specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) and are committed in this state.

(5) “Dependent” means relatives of a deceased victim who, wholly or partially, were dependent upon the victim’s income at the time of death or would have been so dependent but for the victim’s incapacity due to the injury from which the death resulted.

(6) “Economic loss” means economic detriment consisting only of allowable expense, net income, replacement services loss, and, if injury causes death, dependent’s economic loss. The term does not include noneconomic detriment.

(7) "Fund" means the crime victim compensation fund as established in each judicial district.

(8) "Injury" means impairment of a person's physical or mental condition and includes pregnancy.

(8.5) "Property damage" means damage to windows, doors, locks, or other security devices of a residential dwelling and includes damage to a leased residential dwelling.

(9) "Relative" means a victim's spouse, parent, grandparent, stepfather, stepmother, child, grandchild, brother, sister, half brother, half sister, or spouse's parents. The term includes said relationships that are created as a result of adoption. In addition, "relative" includes any person who has a family-type relationship with a victim.

(10) (a) "Victim" means any of the following persons who suffer property damage, economic loss, injury, or death as a result of a compensable crime perpetrated or attempted in whole or in part in this state:

(I) Any person against whom a compensable crime is perpetrated or attempted. Such person shall be referred to as a "primary victim".

(II) Any person who attempts to assist or assists a primary victim;

(III) Any person who is a relative of a primary victim.

(b) "Victim" also means a person who suffers injury or death, the proximate cause of which is a compensable crime perpetrated or attempted in the person's presence against a primary victim.

(c) "Victim" also means a person who is a resident of this state and who is a victim of a crime that occurred outside of this state, where the crime would be a compensable crime had it occurred in this state and where the state or country in which the crime occurred does not have a crime victim compensation program for which the person would be eligible.

(d) "Victim" also means a person who is a resident of this state who is injured or killed by an act of international terrorism, as defined in 18 U.S.C. sec. 2331, committed outside of the United States.

24-4.1-103. Crime victim compensation board - creation. (1) There is hereby created in each judicial district a crime victim compensation board. Each board shall be composed of three members to be appointed by the district attorney. The district attorney shall designate one of the members as chairman. To the extent possible, members shall fairly reflect the population of the judicial district.

(2) The term of office of each member of the board shall be three years; except that, of those members first appointed, one shall be appointed for a three-year term, one for a two-year term, and one for a one-year term. All vacancies, except through the expiration of term, shall be filled for the unexpired term only. Each member may be reappointed once and serve two consecutive terms. A person may be reappointed to the board thereafter if it has been at least one year since such person served on the board.

(3) Members of the board shall receive no compensation but are entitled to be reimbursed for travel expenses at the rate authorized for state employees.

24-4.1-105. Application for compensation. (1) A person who may be eligible for compensation under this part 1 may apply to the board in the judicial district in which the crime was committed. In a case in which the person entitled to apply is a minor, the application may be made on his behalf by his parent or guardian. In a case in which the person entitled to apply is mentally incompetent, the application may be made on his behalf by his parent, conservator, or guardian or by any other individual authorized to administer his estate.

(2) (a) In order to be eligible for compensation under this part 1, the applicant shall submit reports, if reasonably available, from any physician who has treated or examined the victim at the time of or subsequent to the victim's injury or death. The report shall be in relation to the injury for which compensation is claimed. If, in the opinion of the board, reports on the previous medical history of the victim, a report on the examination of the injured victim, or the report on the cause of death of the victim by a medical expert would be of material aid to its determination, the board may order the reports.

(b) In order to be eligible for compensation for property damage under this part 1, the applicant shall submit a report or case number, if reasonably available, from a law enforcement agency which shall set forth the nature of the property damage which is the result of a compensable crime.

(3) If the applicant makes any false statement as to a material fact, he shall be ineligible for an award pursuant to this part 1.

24-4.1-106. Hearings. (1) The board, in its discretion, may conduct a hearing upon any application submitted to it. All hearings conducted by the board and appeals therefrom shall be held pursuant to sections 24-4-105 and 24-4-106.

(2) The burden of proof is upon the applicant to show that the claim is reasonable and is compensable under the terms of this part 1. The standard of proof is by a preponderance of the evidence.

(3) If a person has been convicted of an offense with respect to an act on which a claim is based, proof of that conviction shall be taken as conclusive evidence that the offense has been committed, unless an appeal or a proceeding with regard to it is pending. The fact that the identity of the assailant is unknown or that the assailant has not been prosecuted or convicted shall not raise a presumption that the claim is invalid.

(4) Orders and decisions of the board are final.

(5) Review of an order or decision of the board may be made in accordance with the Colorado rules of civil procedure.

24-4.1-107. Regulations. In the performance of its functions, the board, pursuant to article 4 of this title, is authorized to make, rescind, and amend regulations prescribing the procedures to be followed in the filing of applications and in proceedings under this part 1.

24-4.1-107.5. Confidentiality of materials. (1) For purposes of this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "In camera review" means a hearing or review in a courtroom, hearing room, or chambers to which the general public is not admitted. After such hearing or review, the contents of the oral and other evidence and statements of the judge and counsel shall be held in confidence by those participating in or present at the hearing or review, and any transcript of the hearing or review shall be sealed, until and unless the contents are ordered to be disclosed by a court having jurisdiction over the matter.

(b) "Materials" means any records, claims, writings, documents, or information.

(2) Any materials received, made, or kept by a crime victim compensation board or a district attorney concerning an application for victim's compensation made under this article are confidential. Any such materials shall not be discoverable unless the court conducts an in camera review of the materials sought to be discovered and determines that the materials sought are necessary for the resolution of an issue then pending before the court. The district attorney shall have standing in any action to oppose the disclosure of any such materials.

Source: L. 2000: Entire section added, p. 242, § 7, effective March 29.

ANNOTATION

Because an in camera review of confidential or privileged records is only required when disclosure is "necessary" to resolve a pending issue, court did not err in denying defendant's request for in camera review of victim's mental health record. Defendant must show that his or her request is not speculative and that an evidentiary hypothesis would disprove all or part of the prosecution's restitution request on the basis that the requested amounts were not proximately caused by defendant's conduct. People v. Rivera, 250 P.3d 1272 (Colo. App. 2010).

24-4.1-108. Awarding compensation. (1) A person is entitled to an award of compensation under this part 1 if:

(a) The person is a victim or a dependent of a victim or a successor in interest under the "Colorado Probate Code" of a victim of a compensable crime which was perpetrated on or after July 1, 1982, and which resulted in a loss;

(b) The appropriate law enforcement officials were notified of the perpetration of the crime allegedly causing the death of or injury to the victim within seventy-two hours after its perpetration, unless the board finds good cause exists for the failure of notification;

(c) The applicant has cooperated fully with law enforcement officials in the apprehension and prosecution of the assailant or the board has found good cause exists for the failure to cooperate;

(d) Repealed.

(e) The death of or injury to the victim was not substantially attributable to his wrongful act or substantial provocation of his assailant; and

(f) The application for an award of compensation under this part 1 is filed with the board within one year of the date of injury to the victim or within such further extension of time as the board, for good cause shown, allows. For purposes of this paragraph (f), "good cause" may include but is not limited to circumstances in which a crime has remained unsolved for more than one year.

(1.5) A person is entitled to an award of compensation for property damage under this part 1 if:

(a) The person is a victim of a compensable crime which was perpetrated on or after July 1, 1983, and which resulted in property damage;

(b) The appropriate law enforcement officials were notified of the perpetration of the crime causing property damage within seventy-two hours after its perpetration, unless the board finds good cause exists for the failure of notification;

(c) The applicant has cooperated fully with law enforcement officials in the apprehension and prosecution of the assailant or the board has found good cause exists for the failure to cooperate; and

(d) The application for an award of compensation for property damage under this part 1 is filed with the board within six months of the date of property damage or within such further extension of time as the board, for good cause shown, allows.

(2) The board may waive any of the requirements set forth in this section, or the limitations set forth in section 24-4.1-109 (1), or order a denial or reduction of an award if, in the interest of justice, it is so required.

(3) Upon a finding by the board that compensation should be awarded, the board shall submit a statement of award to the court administrator who shall remit payment in accordance with the statement of award.

(4) Consistent with approved standards established pursuant to section 24-4.1-117.3 (3) for the administration of crime victim compensation funds, the board may develop policies to ensure that primary victims are compensated and to ensure that available moneys in the fund are not exceeded.

24-4.1-109. Losses compensable. (1) Losses compensable under this part 1 resulting from death of or injury to a victim include:

(a) Reasonable medical and hospital expenses and expenses incurred for dentures, eyeglasses, hearing aids, or other prosthetic or medically necessary devices;

(b) Loss of earnings;

(c) Outpatient care;

(d) Homemaker and home health services;

(e) Burial expenses;

(f) Loss of support to dependents;

(g) Mental health counseling.

(1.5) (a) Losses compensable under this part 1 resulting from property damage include:

(I) (A) Repair or replacement of property damaged as a result of a compensable crime; or

(B) Payment of the deductible amount on a residential insurance policy; and

(II) Any modification to the victim’s residence that is necessary to ensure victim safety.

(b) (Deleted by amendment, L. 98, p. 517, §2, effective April 30, 1998.)

(2) Compensable losses do not include:

(a) Pain and suffering or property damage other than residential property damage; or

(b) Aggregate damages to the victim or to the dependents of a victim exceeding twenty thousand dollars; or

(c) Aggregate damages of less than twenty-five dollars.

24-4.1-110. Recovery from collateral source. (1) The board shall deduct from compensation it awards under this part 1 any payments received by the applicant from the offender or from a person on behalf of the offender, from the United States or any state, or any subdivision or agency thereof, from a private source, or from an emergency award under this part 1 for injury or death compensable under this part 1, excluding death or pension benefits.

(2) If compensation is awarded under this part 1 and the person receiving it also receives a collateral sum under subsection (1) of this section which has not been deducted from it, he shall refund to the board the lesser of the sums or the amount of compensation paid to him under this part 1 unless the aggregate of both sums does not exceed his losses. The fund shall be the payor of last resort.

(3) If a defendant is ordered to pay restitution under article 18.5 of title 16, C.R.S., to a person who has received compensation awarded under this part 1, an amount equal to the compensation awarded shall be transmitted from such restitution to the board for allocation to the fund.

24-4.1-111. Compensation to relatives. (1) A relative of a victim, even though he was not a dependent of the victim, is eligible for compensation for reasonable medical or burial expenses for the victim, if:

- (a) Such expenses were paid by him; and
- (b) He files a claim in the manner provided in this part 1.

24-4.1-112. Emergency awards. (1) The board may order an emergency award to the applicant pending a final decision in the claim if it appears to the board, prior to taking action upon the claim, that undue hardship will result to the applicant if immediate payment is not made. Awards pursuant to this section are intended to cover expenses incurred by crime victims in meeting their immediate short-term needs. The amount of such award shall not exceed one thousand dollars and shall be deducted from any final award made as a result of the claim.

(2) If the amount of such emergency award exceeds the sum the board would have awarded pursuant to this part 1, such excess shall be repaid by the recipient.

24-4.1-117. Fund created - control of fund. (1) The crime victim compensation fund is hereby established in the office of the court administrator of each judicial district for the benefit of eligible applicants under this part 1.

(1.5) In any judicial district where a separate juvenile court exists, all moneys collected by such juvenile court shall be deposited in the fund and administered by the district court administrator.

(2) The fund shall consist of all moneys paid as a cost or surcharge levied on criminal actions, as provided in section 24-4.1-119; any federal moneys available to state or local governments for victim compensation; all moneys received from any action or suit to recover damages from an assailant for a compensable crime which was the basis for an award of, and limited to, compensation received under this part 1; and any restitution paid by an assailant to a victim for damages for a compensable crime which was the basis for an award received under this part 1 and for damages for which the victim has received an award of, and limited to, compensation received under this part 1.

(3) All moneys deposited in the fund shall be deposited in an interest-bearing account, which shall be no less secure than those used by the state treasurer, and which shall yield the highest interest possible. All interest earned by moneys in the fund shall be credited to the fund.

(4) At the conclusion of each fiscal year, all moneys remaining in the fund shall remain in the fund for use the succeeding year.

(5) All moneys deposited in the fund shall be used solely for the compensation of victims pursuant to this part 1; except that the district attorney and the court administrator may use an aggregate of no more than twelve and one-half percent of the total amount of moneys in the crime victim compensation fund for administrative costs incurred pursuant to this part 1. The district attorney shall be permitted to use no more than ten percent of the total amount of moneys in the fund for administrative costs. The court administrator shall be permitted to use no more than two and one-half percent of the total amount of moneys in the fund for administrative costs.

(6) Grants of federal funds that are accepted pursuant to this part 1 for the purpose of assisting crime victims shall not be used to supplant state funds available to assist crime victims.

24-4.1-117.3. Crime victim services advisory board - creation - duties. (1) There is hereby created in the division of criminal justice in the department of public safety the crime victim services advisory board, referred to in this section as the “advisory board”. The advisory board shall exercise its powers and perform its duties and functions under the division of criminal justice in the department of public safety and the executive director of the department of public safety, referred to in this section as the “executive director”, as if the same were transferred to the department of public safety by a type 2 transfer, as such transfer is defined in the “Administrative Organization Act of 1968”, article 1 of this title.

(2) (a) The advisory board shall consist of at least seventeen members appointed by the executive director, including but not limited to:

- (I) A judge;
- (II) An elected district attorney, the assistant district attorney, or a chief deputy district attorney;
- (III) A member of a crime victim compensation board created in section 24-4.1-103;
- (IV) A member of a local victims and witnesses assistance and law enforcement board created in section 24-4.2-101;
- (V) An administrator of crime victim compensation from a district attorney’s office;
- (VI) An administrator of victims and witnesses assistance from a district attorney’s office;
- (VII) A representative of a statewide victims’ organization;
- (VIII) A judicial district administrator or judicial district representative;
- (IX) A representative of a domestic violence program;
- (X) A representative of a sexual assault program;
- (XI) A sheriff or sheriff’s representative;
- (XII) A police chief or police representative;
- (XIII) A deputy district attorney;
- (XIV) A victim of a crime of violence; and
- (XV) Three members of the community at large.

(b) The executive director may consider geographic diversity when making appointments to the advisory board.

(c) The term of office for each member of the advisory board shall be three years; except that, of the members first appointed, six members shall be appointed to serve one-year terms and six members shall be appointed to serve two-year terms.

(d) Members of the advisory board shall serve at the pleasure of the executive director or until the member no longer serves in the position for which he or she was appointed to the advisory board, at which time a vacancy shall be deemed to exist on the advisory board. If a vacancy arises on the advisory board, the executive director shall appoint an appropriate person to serve for the remainder of the unexpired term.

(e) The executive director shall appoint the initial members of the advisory board on or before August 1, 2009. The executive director may reappoint a person to serve an unlimited number of consecutive terms. The executive director shall annually appoint a chairperson of the advisory board who shall preside over the advisory board’s meetings.

(f) Members of the advisory board shall serve without compensation but may be reimbursed for actual travel expenses incurred in the performance of their duties.

(3) The advisory board's powers and duties shall include, but need not be limited to, the following:

(a) To develop and revise, when necessary, standards for the administration of the crime victim compensation fund established in section 24-4.1-117 in each judicial district and the victims and witnesses assistance and law enforcement fund established in section 24-4.2-103 in each judicial district, and to develop, revise when necessary, and impose sanctions for violating these standards;

(b) To review, pursuant to section 24-4.1-303 (17), any reports of noncompliance with this article;

(c) To distribute profits from crime pursuant to section 24-4.1-201;

(d) To advise and make recommendations to the division of criminal justice in the department of public safety concerning the award of grants pursuant to sections 24-33.5-506 and 24-33.5-507; and

(e) To establish subcommittees of the advisory board from within the membership of the advisory board, which subcommittees shall include, but need not be limited to:

(I) A standards subcommittee that shall make recommendations to the advisory board concerning the development and revision, when necessary, of standards and sanctions for the violation of standards to assist the advisory board in implementing paragraph (a) of this subsection (3); and

(II) A victim rights subcommittee that shall review, pursuant to section 24-4.1-303 (17), any reports of noncompliance with this article to assist the advisory board in implementing paragraph (b) of this subsection (3).

(4) The advisory board shall not release to the public any records submitted to or generated by the advisory board or a subcommittee of the advisory board for the purposes of the advisory board's or the subcommittee's review, pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection (3) of this section, of a report of noncompliance with this article until the report of noncompliance has been reviewed and resolved by the advisory board. The advisory board shall redact all victim-identifying information from any document released to the public.

24-4.1-119. Costs and surcharges levied on criminal actions and traffic offenses.

(1) (a) Except as provided in paragraphs (c) and (d) of this subsection (1), a cost of one hundred sixty-three dollars for felonies, seventy-eight dollars for misdemeanors, forty-six dollars for class 1 misdemeanor traffic offenses, and thirty-three dollars for class 2 misdemeanor traffic offenses is hereby levied on each criminal action resulting in a conviction or in a deferred judgment and sentence, as provided for in section 18-1.3-102, C.R.S., which criminal action is charged pursuant to state statute. These costs shall be paid to the clerk of the court by the defendant. Each clerk shall transmit the costs so received to the court administrator of the judicial district in which the offense occurred for credit to the crime victim compensation fund established in that judicial district.

(b) The costs required by paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) shall not be levied on criminal actions which are charged pursuant to the penalty assessment provisions of section 42-4-1701, C.R.S., or to any violations of articles 1 to 15 of title 33, C.R.S.

(c) A cost of thirty-three dollars is hereby levied on each criminal action resulting in a conviction or in a deferred judgment and sentence, as provided for in section 18-1.3-102, C.R.S., of a violation of section 42-4-1301 (1) or (2), C.R.S. This cost shall be paid to the clerk of the court, who shall deposit the same in the crime victim compensation fund established in section 24-4.1-117.

(d) A cost, in an amount determined pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), is hereby levied on every action upon the filing of a petition alleging a child is delinquent which results in a finding of guilty pursuant to part 8 of article 2 of title 19, C.R.S., or a deferral of adjudication pursuant to section 19-2-709, C.R.S. This cost shall be paid to the clerk of the court, who shall deposit the same in the fund established in section 24-4.1-117.

(e) Repealed.

(f) (I) A surcharge is hereby levied against each penalty assessment imposed for a violation of a class A or class B traffic infraction or class 1 or class 2 misdemeanor traffic offense pursuant to section 42-4-1701, C.R.S. The amount of the surcharge shall be one half of the amount specified in the penalty and surcharge schedule in section 42-4-1701 (4), C.R.S., or, if no surcharge amount is specified, the surcharge shall be calculated as thirty-seven percent of the penalty imposed. All moneys collected by the department of revenue pursuant to this paragraph (f) shall be transmitted to the court administrator of the judicial district in which the infraction occurred for credit to the crime victim compensation fund established in that judicial district as provided in section 42-1-217, C.R.S.

(II) All calculated surcharge amounts pursuant to this paragraph (f) resulting in dollars and cents shall be rounded down to the nearest whole dollar.

(III) The surcharges levied pursuant to this paragraph (f) are separate and distinct from surcharges levied pursuant to section 24-4.2-104 for the victims and witnesses assistance and law enforcement fund.

(1.5) A cost or surcharge levied pursuant to this section may not be suspended or waived by the court unless the court determines that the defendant against whom the cost or surcharge is levied is indigent.

(2) For purposes of determining the order of priority for payments required of a defendant pursuant to section 18-1.3-204 (2.5), C.R.S., the payments to the victim compensation fund required under this part 1 shall be the first obligation of the defendant.

(3) The provisions of sections 18-1.3-701 and 18-1.3-702, C.R.S., shall be applicable as to the collection of costs levied pursuant to this part 1.

ANNOTATION

Payment of victim compensation costs does not violate principles of double jeopardy. Costs are not a form of punishment but are essentially civil and are not traditionally considered to be punishment, and the imposition of costs generally does not serve the goals of retribution and deterrence. People v. McQuarrie, 66 P.3d 181 (Colo. App. 2002).

COMPENSATION FROM BENEFITS OF CRIME

24-4.1-201. Distribution of profits from crime - escrow account - civil suit by victim - definitions. (1) The general assembly hereby finds that the state has a compelling interest in preventing any person who is convicted of a crime from profiting from the crime and in recompensing victims of the crime. It is therefore the intent of the general assembly to provide a mechanism whereby any profits from a crime that are received by the person convicted of the crime are available as restitution to the victims of the crime.

(1.3) For purposes of this part 2, "victim" means any natural person against whom any crime has been perpetrated or attempted, unless the person is accountable for the crime or a crime arising from the same conduct, criminal episode or plan or if such person is deceased or incapacitated, the person's spouse, parent, child, sibling, grandparent, significant other, or other lawful representative. For purposes of this part 2, any person under the age of eighteen years is considered incapacitated, unless that person is emancipated.

(1.5) (a) For purposes of this part 2, "profits from the crime" means:

(I) Any property obtained through or income generated from the commission of the crime of which the defendant was convicted;

(II) Any property obtained by or income generated from the sale, conversion, or exchange of proceeds of the crime of which the defendant was convicted, including any gain realized by such sale, conversion, or exchange; and

(III) Any property that the defendant obtained or income generated as a result of having committed the crime of which the defendant was convicted, including any assets obtained through the use of unique knowledge obtained during the commission of, or in preparation for the commission of, the crime, as well as any property obtained by or income generated from the sale, conversion, or exchange of such property and any gain realized by such sale, conversion, or exchange.

(b) (I) Any person who contracts with a person convicted of a crime in this state, or such person's representative or assignee, for payment of any profits from the crime of which such person is convicted shall pay to the crime victim services advisory board created in section 24-4.1-117.3 (1), referred to in this part 2 as the "board", any money that would otherwise by terms of the contract be paid to the convicted person or such person's representatives or assignees. The board shall deposit the money in an escrow account for the benefit of any victim of the crime of which the person was convicted.

(II) Any person or any person's agent or other legal representative who contracts with a convicted person, or the convicted person's representative or assignee, in the manner described in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b), shall:

(A) Submit a copy of the contract or a summary of the terms of an oral agreement to the board;

(B) Pay over to the board any moneys or consideration not subject to an order of restitution and that by the terms of the contract would be otherwise owing to the convicted person or owing to a representative or assignee of the convicted person.

(c) Any person who is a victim of the crime from which a convicted person receives profits under paragraph (b) of this subsection (1.5) may, within five years of establishment of the escrow account, enforce any order of restitution entered against the convicted person against the moneys on deposit in the escrow account. If no order of restitution has been entered, the victim may bring a civil action in a court of competent jurisdiction to recover a judgment against the convicted person or such person's representatives or designees.

(d) (I) Upon establishing an escrow account pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (1.5), the board shall notify any victims of the crime of which the person was convicted at such victims' last known addresses of the establishment of the escrow account.

(II) The board, in addition, shall publish at least once annually from the date of the establishment of the escrow account, a notice of the escrow account's establishment in a newspaper having general circulation throughout the county in which the crime was committed. The expenses of notification shall be paid from the amount received in the escrow account. The board, in its discretion, may provide for such additional notice as it deems necessary.

(III) The notice required under subparagraphs (I) and (II) of this paragraph (d) shall specify the existence of the escrow account, the amount on deposit, and the victim's right to execute an order of restitution or bring a civil action to recover against the moneys in the escrow account within five years after the date the escrow account is established.

(e) (I) Any person who knowingly fails to comply with any requirement of subparagraph (II) of paragraph (b) of this subsection (1.5) shall be liable for a civil penalty of not less than ten thousand dollars nor more than three times the contract amount.

(II) If two or more persons are adjudged liable for the civil penalty imposed, such persons shall be jointly and severally liable.

(III) After notice and opportunity to be heard is provided, the court, by order of judgment, may assess the penalty described in this paragraph (e). All moneys received from the payment of these penalties shall be paid over to the board.

(IV) In any action or proceeding brought to enforce the contract provisions of this subsection (1.5), the court shall have jurisdiction to grant the attorney general, without bond or other undertaking, any injunctive relief necessary to prevent any payment under a contract that is prohibited under this subsection (1.5).

(1.7) For purposes of this section, "person" means any natural person, firm, corporation, partnership, association, or other legal entity.

(2) If funds remain in the escrow account after payment of a money judgment pursuant to subsection (1) of this section and if no civil actions are pending under this section after five years from the establishment of an escrow account, the board shall notify the department of corrections of the existence of such escrow account. The department of corrections shall certify to the board a statement of the costs of maintenance of the person in the state correctional institution or institutions at which the person was incarcerated. A statement of the cost of maintenance shall be submitted annually for payment to the department of corrections by the board until such time as the person is released from custody of the state. No such payment shall be made upon the dismissal of the charges against any individual whose proceeds are placed in the escrow account.

(3) Upon the dismissal of the charges against any individual whose proceeds are placed in the escrow account or upon a showing by the defendant that five years have elapsed from the establishment of an escrow account and that no civil actions are pending against him or her under this section, the board shall immediately pay any money in the escrow account to the defendant except for funds paid to the department of corrections and anticipated as necessary for future payment to the department of corrections as set forth in subsection (2) of this section.

(4) If an escrow account is established under this section, no otherwise applicable statute of limitations on the time within which civil action may be brought bars action by a victim of a crime committed by the person accused or convicted of the crime, as to a claim resulting from the crime, until five years have elapsed from the time the escrow account was established.

(4.5) The escrow account shall be established for a period of five years. If an action is filed by a victim to recover the victim's interest in the escrow account within such five-year period, the escrow account shall continue until the conclusion of such action.

(5) The board shall make payments from an escrow account to the accused upon an order of the court after a showing by the accused that:

(a) The money will be used for the exclusive purpose of retaining legal representation at any stage of the civil or criminal proceedings against him, including the appeals process; and

(b) He has insufficient assets, other than funds in the escrow account and assets which could be claimed as exempt from execution under state law, to provide for payment of the expenses of legal representation.

(6) The attorney general, at the request of the board, shall bring an action to cause profits from the crime to be paid over and held in an escrow account established by the board.

GUIDELINES FOR ASSURING THE RIGHTS OF VICTIMS OF AND WITNESSES TO CRIMES

Cross references: For constitutional provisions relating to the rights of crime victims, see section 16a of article II of the Colorado constitution.

24-4.1-301. Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds and declares that the full and voluntary cooperation of victims of and witnesses to crimes with state and local law enforcement agencies as to such crimes is imperative for the general effectiveness and well-being of the criminal justice system of this state. It is the intent of this part 3, therefore, to assure that all victims of and witnesses to crimes are honored and protected by law enforcement agencies, prosecutors, and judges in a manner no less vigorous than the protection afforded criminal defendants.

(2) "Critical stages" means the following stages of the criminal justice process:

(a) The filing of charges against a person accused of a crime;

(a.5) The decision not to file charges against a person accused of a crime;

(b) The preliminary hearing;

(c) (I) Any court action involving a bond reduction or modification at which the following occurs:

(A) A bond is set lower than the scheduled or customary amount for the specific charge, including any adjustments made by the court to the amount of bond to correspond to the specific charge to which the defendant pled guilty or for which the defendant was convicted, if the adjusted bond is lower than the scheduled or customary amount for the specific charge;

(B) A change in the type of bond;

(C) A modification to a condition of the bond;

(D) A defendant is permitted to appear without posting a bond;

(E) In a case involving a capital offense, the court grants the defendant's motion for admission to bail pursuant to section 16-4-101 (3), C.R.S.; or

(F) For jurisdictions that do not have a bond schedule or customary amount for bond, a bond is modified to a lower amount than that set at the initial bond hearing.

(II) Notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c), the following shall not constitute a bond reduction or modification:

(A) The initial setting of a bond, whether set by the court at the first appearance or by another entity authorized to do so by the court prior to the first appearance;

(B) The setting of a new bond upon the filing of charges by the district attorney, so long as the bond is set at or above the scheduled or customary amount for the specific charge filed; and

(C) For nonbailable offenses pursuant to section 16-4-101, C.R.S., the subsequent setting of a bond by the court.

(d) The arraignment of a person accused of a crime;

(e) Any hearing on motions concerning evidentiary matters or pre-plea or post-plea relief;

(e.5) Any subpoena for records concerning the victim's medical history, mental health, education, or victim's compensation;

(f) Any disposition of the complaint or charges against the person accused;

(g) The trial;

(h) Any sentencing hearing;

(i) Any appellate review or appellate decision;

(j) Any subsequent modification of the sentence;

(k) Any probation revocation hearing;

(k.3) The filing of any complaint, summons, or warrant by the probation department for failure to report to probation or because the location of a person convicted of a crime is unknown;

(k.5) The change of venue or transfer of probation supervision from one jurisdiction to another;

(k.7) The request for any release from probation supervision prior to the expiration of the defendant's sentence;

(l) An attack on a judgment or conviction for which a court hearing is set;

(m) Any parole application hearing;

(n) The parole, release, or discharge from imprisonment of a person convicted of a crime;

(o) Any parole revocation hearing;

(p) The transfer to or placement of a person convicted of a crime in a nonsecured facility;

(q) The transfer, release, or escape of a person charged with or convicted of a crime from any state hospital;

(r) Any petition by a sex offender to terminate sex offender registration;

(s) The execution of an offender in a capital case;

(t) A hearing held pursuant to section 18-1-414 (2) (b), C.R.S.; and

(u) The decision, whether by court order, stipulation of the parties, or otherwise, to conduct postconviction DNA testing to establish the actual innocence of the person convicted of a crime against the victim; the results of any such postconviction DNA testing; and court proceedings initiated based on the result of the postconviction DNA testing. An inmate's written or oral request for such testing is not a "critical stage".

(3) "Lawful representative" means any person who is designated by the victim or appointed by the court to act in the best interests of the victim.

(3.5) "Modification of sentence" means an action taken by the court to modify the length, terms, or conditions of an offender's sentence pursuant to rule 35 (a) or (b) of the Colorado rules of criminal procedure. Action taken by the court includes an order by the court modifying an offender's sentence upon review of the written motion without a hearing but does not include an order denying a motion to modify a sentence without a hearing.

(4) "Significant other" means any person who is in a family-type living arrangement with a victim and who would constitute a spouse of the victim if the victim and such person were married.

(5) "Victim" means any natural person against whom any crime has been perpetrated or attempted, unless the person is accountable for the crime or a crime arising from the same conduct, criminal episode, or plan as crime is defined under the laws of this state or of the United States, or, if such person is deceased or incapacitated, the person's spouse, parent, child, sibling, grandparent, grandchild, significant other, or other lawful representative. For purposes of notification under this part 3, any person under the age of eighteen years is considered incapacitated, unless that person is legally emancipated. It is the intent of the general assembly that this definition of the term "victim" shall apply only to this part 3 and shall not be applied to any other provision of the laws of the state of Colorado that refer to the term "victim".

(6) "Victim's immediate family" means the spouse, any child by birth or adoption, any stepchild, the parent, the stepparent, a sibling, a legal guardian, significant other, or a lawful representative of the victim.

(7) "Witness" means any natural person:

(a) Having knowledge of the existence or nonexistence of facts relating to any crime;

(b) Whose declaration under oath is received or has been received as evidence for any purpose;

(c) Who has reported any crime to any peace officer, correctional officer, or judicial officer;

(d) Who has been served with a subpoena issued under the authority of any court in this state, of any other state, or of the United States; or

(e) Who would be believed by any reasonable person to be an individual described in paragraph (a), (b), (c), or (d) of this subsection (7).

24-4.1-302.5. Rights afforded to victims. (1) In order to preserve and protect a victim's rights to justice and due process, each victim of a crime shall have the following rights:

(a) The right to be treated with fairness, respect, and dignity, and to be free from intimidation, harassment, or abuse, throughout the criminal justice process;

(b) The right to be informed of and present for all critical stages of the criminal justice process as specified in section 24-4.1-302 (2); except that the victim shall have the right to be informed of, without being present for, the critical stages described in section 24-4.1-302 (2) (a), (2) (a.5), (2) (e.5), (2) (k.3), (2) (n), (2) (p), (2) (q), and (2) (u);

(b.5) The right to be informed of and present for the critical stages described in section 24-4.1-302 (2) (k) to (2) (q) and (2) (s), upon the written request of the victim; except that the victim shall have the right to be informed of the critical stage described in section 24-4.1-302 (2) (l) without submitting a written request for notification;

(b.7) For a victim of a sex offense, the right to be informed of the filing of a petition by the perpetrator of the offense to terminate sex offender registration pursuant to section 16-22-113 (2) (c), C.R.S.;

(c) (I) Except as otherwise provided in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (c):

(A) The right to be informed, upon request by the victim, when a person who is accused or convicted of a crime against the victim is released or discharged from county jail;

(B) The right to be informed, upon written request by the victim, when a person who is accused or convicted of a crime against the victim is released or discharged from custody other than county jail, is paroled, escapes from a secure or nonsecure correctional facility or program, or absconds from probation or parole.

(II) With respect to the release, discharge, or permanent transfer of a person from a county jail or correctional facility, the provisions of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c) shall apply when the person released, discharged, or permanently transferred is no longer within the care and control of the supervising law enforcement or correctional agency. The provisions of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c) shall not apply to the temporary transfer of the care and control of a person from a county jail or a correctional facility by the supervising law enforcement or correctional agency to another equally or more secure county jail or correctional facility, so long as the person will return to the care and control of the transferring supervisory agency.

(d) The right to be heard at any court proceeding:

(I) Involving the defendant's bond as specified in section 24-4.1-302 (2) (c);

(II) At which the court accepts a plea of nolo contendere;

(III) At which the court accepts a negotiated plea agreement;

(IV) At which a person accused or convicted of a crime against the victim is sentenced;

(V) At which the sentence of a person accused or convicted of a crime against the victim is modified;

(VI) At which the defendant requests a modification of the no contact provision of the mandatory criminal protection order under section 18-1-1001, C.R.S., or section 19-2-707, C.R.S.; or

(VII) Involving a subpoena for records concerning the victim's medical history, mental health, education, or victim compensation, or any other records that are privileged pursuant to section 13-90-107, C.R.S.;

(d.5) (I) If a victim or a victim's designee is unavailable to be present for the critical stages described in paragraph (d) of this subsection (1) and the victim or the victim's designee wishes to address the court, the right to request that the court, within the court's resources, arrange and provide the means for the victim and the victim's designee to provide input to the court beyond a written victim impact statement.

(II) For purposes of this paragraph (d.5), "unavailable" means that the victim or the victim's designee is physically unable to attend the court hearing, may sustain a financial hardship to attend the court hearing, is concerned for his or her safety if he or she attends the court hearing, may suffer significant emotional impact by attending the hearing, or is unavailable for other good cause.

(III) The victim or the victim's designee shall notify the district attorney within a reasonable time that he or she is unavailable to attend the court hearing. The district attorney's office shall then inform the court that the victim or the victim's designee, due to his or her unavailability, is requesting the court to arrange for and provide the means to address the court, which may include but need not be limited to appearing by phone or similar technology. The district attorney shall inform the victim or the victim's designee of the court's decision regarding an alternate arrangement.

(IV) This paragraph (d.5) applies to a victim who is incarcerated or otherwise being held in a local county jail or the department of corrections, but is limited to participation by telephone.

(e) The right to consult with the prosecution after any crime against the victim has been charged, prior to any disposition of the case, or prior to any trial of the case, and the right to be informed of the final disposition of the case;

(f) The right to be informed by local law enforcement agencies, prior to the filing of charges with the court, or by the district attorney, after the filing of charges with the court, of the status of any case concerning a crime against the victim, and any scheduling changes or cancellations, if such changes or cancellations are known in advance;

(g) The right to be present at the sentencing hearing, including any hearing conducted pursuant to section 18-1.3-1201 or 18-1.4-102, C.R.S., for cases involving class 1 felonies, of any person convicted of a crime against such victim, and to inform the district attorney and the court, in writing, by a victim impact statement, and by an oral statement, of the harm that the victim has sustained as a result of the crime, with the determination of whether the victim makes written input or oral input, or both, to be made at the sole discretion of the victim;

(h) The right to have the court determine the amount, if any, of restitution to be paid to a victim pursuant to part 6 of article 1.3 of title 18, C.R.S., by any person convicted of a crime against such victim for the actual pecuniary damages that resulted from the commission of the crime;

(i) The right to be informed of the victim's right to pursue a civil judgment against any person convicted of a crime against the victim for any damages incurred by the victim as a result of the commission of the crime regardless of whether the court has ordered such person to make restitution to the victim;

(j) The right to be informed, upon written request from the victim, of any proceeding at which any postconviction release from confinement in a secure state correctional facility is being considered for any person convicted of a crime against the victim and the right to be heard at any such proceeding or to provide written information thereto. For purposes of this subsection (1), "proceeding" means reconsideration of sentence, a parole hearing, or commutation of sentence.

(j.3) The right to be notified of a referral of an offender to community corrections;

(j.5) (I) The right to provide a written victim impact statement that will be included with any referral made by the department of corrections or a district court to place an offender in a community corrections facility or program. A community corrections board may allow a victim to provide an oral statement to the community corrections board when an offender is being considered for a direct sentence to community corrections and may place reasonable limits on the victim's oral statement.

(II) For purposes of this paragraph (j.5), the victim shall have the right to provide a separate oral statement to the community corrections board considering a transitional referral, but the board shall have discretion to place reasonable parameters on the victim's oral statement. If a community corrections board denies the offender's referral to community corrections, the victim's right under this subparagraph (II) to provide an oral statement shall not take effect.

(j.7) The right, at the discretion of the district attorney, to view all or a portion of the presentence report of the probation department;

(k) The right to promptly receive any property that belongs to a victim and that is being held by a prosecutorial or law enforcement agency unless there are evidentiary reasons for the retention of such property;

(l) The right to be informed of the availability of financial assistance and community services for victims, the immediate families of victims, and witnesses, which assistance and community services shall include, but shall not be limited to, crisis intervention services, victim compensation funds, victim assistance resources, legal resources, mental health services, social services, medical resources, rehabilitative services, and financial assistance services, and the right to be informed about the application process for such services;

(l.5) The right to be informed about the possibility of restorative justice practices, as defined in section 18-1-901 (3) (o.5), C.R.S.;

(m) The right to be informed about what steps can be taken by a victim or a witness, including information regarding protection services, in case there is any intimidation or harassment by a person accused or convicted of a crime against the victim, or any other person acting on behalf of the accused or convicted person;

(n) The right to be provided with appropriate employer intercession services to encourage the victim's employer to cooperate with the criminal justice system in order to minimize the loss of employment, pay, or other benefits resulting from a victim's court appearances or other required meetings with criminal justice officials;

(o) The right to be assured that in any criminal proceeding the court, the prosecutor, and other law enforcement officials will take appropriate action to achieve a swift and fair resolution of the proceedings;

(p) The right to be provided, whenever practicable, with a secure waiting area during court proceedings that does not require a victim or a witness to be seen or to be in close proximity to the person accused or convicted of a crime against the victim or such person's family or friends;

(q) The right to be informed, upon written request by the victim, when a person convicted of a crime against the victim is placed in or transferred to a less secure public or private correctional facility or program;

(r) The right to be informed, upon written request by the victim, when a person who is or was charged with or convicted of a crime against the victim escapes or is permanently or conditionally transferred or released from any public hospital, private hospital, or state hospital;

(s) The right to be informed of any rights which the victim has pursuant to the constitution of the United States or the state of Colorado;

(t) The right to be informed of the process for enforcing compliance with this article pursuant to section 24-4.1-303 (17);

(u) The right to be informed of the results of any HIV testing that is ordered and performed pursuant to section 18-3-415, C.R.S.;

(v) The right to prevent any party at any court proceeding from compelling testimony regarding the current address, telephone number, place of employment, or other locating information of the victim unless the victim consents or the court orders disclosure upon a finding that a reasonable and articulable need for the information exists. Any proceeding conducted by the court concerning whether to order disclosure shall be in camera.

(w) The right to have the district attorney, a law enforcement agency, a probation department, a state or private correctional facility, the department of human services, or the Colorado mental health institute at Pueblo make all reasonable efforts to exclude or redact a victim's social security number or a witness' social security number from a criminal justice document or record created or compiled as a result of a criminal investigation when the document or record is released to anyone other than the victim, the defense attorney of record, the defense attorney's agent, or a criminal justice agency that has duties under this article;

(x) The right to be notified of how to request protection of their address pursuant to the Colorado rules of criminal procedure;

(y) The right to receive a copy of the victim impact statement form from the district attorney's office.

(1.6) The right to be informed of the existence of a criminal protection order under section 18-1-1001, C.R.S., or section 19-2-707, C.R.S., and, upon request of the victim, information about provisions that may be added or modified, and the process for requesting such an addition or modification.

(2) Subsection (1) of this section shall not be construed to imply that any victim who is incarcerated by the department of corrections or any local law enforcement agency has a right to be released to attend any hearing or that the department of corrections or the local law enforcement agency has any duty to transport such incarcerated victim to any hearing.

(3) Municipalities and municipal courts shall be encouraged to adopt policies which afford the rights granted to crime victims pursuant to this section to crime victims at the municipal court level, to the extent the adoption of such policies is practicable in the particular municipality.

(4) If a victim contacts a criminal justice agency regarding a crime that occurred before 1993, and the offender who committed the crime is currently serving a sentence for the crime, the victim may request notification of any future critical stages of the criminal proceedings. In addition, if an arrest is made for a crime committed before 1993 that was previously unsolved, the victim of the crime may request notification of all future critical stages from the appropriate criminal justice agency. This provision does not require a criminal justice agency to proactively locate victims of crimes that occurred before 1993.

ANNOTATION

A victim's right to be present at all critical stages of the criminal justice process under § 16a of article II of the state constitution and subsection (1)(d) takes precedence over a party's right to sequester witnesses under C.R.E. 615. The father of a murder victim who testified in the defendant's trial was wrongly excluded from subsequent portions of the trial. People v. Coney, 98 P.3d 930 (Colo. App. 2004).

A victim's "right to be heard" under Colo. Const. art. II § 16a is limited by subsection (1)(d) to "any court proceeding which involves a bond reduction or modification, the acceptance of a negotiated plea agreement, or the sentencing of any person accused or convicted of a crime" against the victim. Gansz v. People, 888 P.2d 256 (Colo. 1995).

Colo. Const. art. II § 16a authorizes the general assembly to define "all terminology". The enactment of subsection (1)(d) reflects a legislative determination as to when a victim's input would be relevant, and, therefore, when a right to be heard would be appropriate. Gansz v. People, 888 P.2d 256 (Colo. 1995).

Colo. Const. art. II § 16a does not grant an alleged crime victim standing or the right to contest a district attorney's decision to dismiss criminal charges or the right to appellate review of the order dismissing the charges, nor does that section and the enabling legislation under this section grant an alleged crime victim the right to be heard on a district attorney's motion to dismiss a criminal charge. Gansz v. People, 888 P.2d 256 (Colo. 1995).

Mother convicted of contributing to the delinquency of her minor son was required to pay restitution since he was the victim of the crime. People v. Miller, 830 P.2d 1092 (Colo. App. 1991).

The doctrine of abatement ab initio does not apply to civil judgments created by restitution orders. Where defendant died after conviction and entry of the order of restitution, but before determination of the direct appeal, the common law doctrine of abatement ab initio applied to defendant's conviction. Because of the importance of protecting the rights of victims, however, the restitution order, which created a civil judgment under § 18-1.3-603 (4)(a), was not subject to abatement but could be appealed by defendant's estate. People v. Daly, ___ P.3d ___ (Colo. App. 2011).

The general assembly did not act improperly in limiting the proceedings in which a victim has the right to be heard. Since § 16a of article II of the state constitution grants the general assembly the power to define "critical stages" and "right to be heard", the constitution does not guarantee a victim the right to be heard at all stages of the trial. People v. Herron, 874 P.2d 435 (Colo. App. 1993).

In implementing § 16a of article II of the state constitution, the general assembly did not give victims the right to appeal a district attorney's decision to dismiss the charges. People v. Herron, 874 P.2d 435 (Colo. App. 1993).

24-4.1-303. Procedures for ensuring rights of victims of crimes. (1) Law enforcement agencies, prosecutorial agencies, judicial agencies, and correctional agencies shall ensure that victims of crimes are afforded the rights described in section 24-4.1-302.5.

(2) Upon request of a victim, all correctional officials shall keep confidential the address, telephone number, place of employment, or other personal information of such victim or members of such victim's immediate family.

(3) The district attorney's office, if practicable, shall inform the victim of any pending motion that may substantially delay the prosecution. The district attorney shall inform the court of the victim's position on the motion, if any. If the victim has objected, the court shall state in writing or on the record prior to granting any delay that the objection was considered.

(4) After a crime has been charged, unless inconsistent with the requirements of investigative activities, the district attorney shall consult, where practicable, with the victim concerning the reduction of charges, negotiated pleas, diversion, dismissal, seeking of death penalty, or other disposition. Failure to comply with this subsection (4) shall not invalidate any decision, agreement, or disposition. This subsection (4) shall not be construed as a restriction on or delegation of the district attorney's authority under the constitution and laws of this state.

(5) All reasonable attempts shall be made to protect any victim or the victim's immediate family from harm, harassment, intimidation, or retaliation arising from cooperating in the reporting, investigation, and prosecution of a crime. Law enforcement officials and the district attorney shall provide reasonable efforts to minimize contact between the victim and the victim's immediate family and the defendant and the relatives of the defendant before, during, and immediately after a judicial proceeding. Whenever possible, a waiting area shall be provided that is separate in both proximity and sight from that of the defendant, the defendant's relatives, and any defense witnesses.

(6) (a) A victim or an individual designated by the victim may be present at all critical stages of a criminal proceeding regarding any crime against such victim unless the court or the district attorney determines that exclusion of the victim is necessary to protect the defendant's right to a fair trial or the confidentiality of juvenile proceedings. If the victim is present, the court, at the victim's request, may permit the presence of an individual to provide support to the victim.

(b) A victim may be present at the phase of the trial at which the defendant is determined to be guilty or not guilty and may be heard at such phase of the trial if called to testify by the district attorney, defense, or court if any such statement would be relevant.

(c) The court shall make all reasonable efforts to accommodate the victim upon the return of a verdict by the jury. If the court is informed by the district attorney that the victim is en route to the courtroom for the reading of the verdict, the court shall state on the record that it has considered the information provided by the district attorney prior to the return of the verdict by the jury.

(7) When a victim's property is no longer needed for evidentiary reasons, the district attorney or any law enforcement agency shall, upon request of the victim, return such property to the victim within five working days unless the property is contraband or subject to forfeiture proceedings.

(8) An employer may not discharge or discipline any victim or a member of a victim's immediate family for honoring a subpoena to testify in a criminal proceeding or for participating in the preparation of a criminal proceeding.

(9) The district attorney and any law enforcement agency shall inform each victim as to the availability of the following services:

(a) Follow-up support for the victim and the victim's immediate family in order to ensure that the necessary assistance is received by such persons;

(b) Services for child victims and elderly victims, and services for victims who are persons with disabilities, which are directed to the special needs of such victims;

(c) Referral to special counseling facilities and community service agencies by providing the names and telephone numbers of such facilities or agencies, whether public or private, which provide such services as crisis intervention services, victim compensation funds, victim assistance resources, legal resources, mental health services, social services, medical resources, rehabilitative services, financial assistance, and other support services;

(d) Transportation and household assistance to promote the participation of any victim or the victim's immediate family in the criminal proceedings;

(e) Assistance in dealing with creditors and credit reporting agencies to deal with any financial setbacks caused by the commission of a crime;

(f) Interpretation services and information printed in languages other than the English language;

(g) Child care services to enable a victim or the victim's immediate family to give testimony or otherwise cooperate in the prosecution of a criminal proceeding; and

(h) The existence of a criminal protection order under section 18-1-1001, C.R.S., or section 19-2-707, C.R.S., and, upon request of the victim, information about provisions that may be added or modified and the process for requesting such an addition or modification.

(10) (a) After the initial contact between a victim and a law enforcement agency responsible for investigating a crime, the agency shall promptly give the victim the following information in writing:

(I) A statement of the victim's rights as enumerated in this article;

(II) Information concerning the availability of victim assistance, medical, and emergency services;

(III) Information concerning the availability of compensatory benefits pursuant to this article and the name, address, and telephone number of any person to contact to obtain such benefits;

(IV) The availability of protection for the victim from the person accused of committing a crime against the victim, including protective court orders; and

(V) The right of a victim to request a copy of the law enforcement report and other documents related to the case, including the right to receive a free copy of the initial incident report. The release of any documents associated with the investigation is at the discretion of the law enforcement agency based on the status of the case.

(b) As soon as available, the law enforcement agency shall give to each victim, as appropriate, the following information:

(I) The business address and business telephone number of the office of the district attorney;

(II) The file number of the case and the name, business address, and business telephone number of any law enforcement officer assigned to investigate the case;

(III) Unless such information would be inconsistent with the requirements of the investigation, information as to whether a suspect has been taken into custody and, if known, whether the suspect has been released and any conditions imposed upon such release;

(IV) The law enforcement agency shall provide the victim in a cold case information concerning any change in the status of the case. In addition, upon the written request of the victim, the law enforcement agency shall provide an update at least annually to the victim concerning the status of a cold case involving one or more crimes for which the criminal statute of limitations is longer than three years.

(V) Any final decision not to file misdemeanor charges against a person accused of committing any crime specified in section 24-4.1-302 (1) against the victim unless law enforcement and the district attorney's office in a judicial district have developed a policy specifying the manner in which to inform victims of decisions not to file charges in a case.

(11) The district attorney shall inform a victim of the following:

(a) The filing of charges against a person accused of committing any of the crimes specified in section 24-4.1-302 (1) against the victim, including an explanation of the charges when necessary; or a final decision not to file felony charges against a person for whom law enforcement has requested, pursuant to section 16-21-103 (2) (a), C.R.S., the filing of charges for any of the crimes specified in section 24-4.1-302 (1) committed against the victim unless law enforcement and the district attorney's office in a judicial district have developed a policy specifying the manner in which to inform victims of decisions not to file charges in a case;

(a.5) The charges to be filed, prior to filing of the charges, if the most serious charge to be filed is lower than the most serious charge for which the individual was arrested and the filing of the lower charge may result in the court issuing a new, lower bond;

(b) Any of the critical stages specified in section 24-4.1-302 (2) (a) to (2) (j) and (2) (l) of a criminal proceeding relating to a person accused of a crime against the victim; except that the district attorney shall not be obligated to inform the victim of any appellate review undertaken by the attorney general's office;

(c) The assignment of any case regarding a crime against the victim, including the file number of such case and, if available, the name, business address, and business telephone number of any deputy district attorney assigned to the case, and the court room to which the case is assigned;

(d) The date, time, and place of any of the critical stages specified in section 24-4.1-302 (2) (a) to (2) (j) and (2) (l) of the proceeding;

(e) The availability of benefits pursuant to this article and the name, address, and telephone number of any person to contact to obtain such benefits;

(f) The availability of transportation to and from any court proceeding for any victim, except as provided in section 24-4.1-302.5 (2);

(g) The availability of restorative justice practices, as defined in section 18-1-901 (3) (o.5), C.R.S.;

(h) The right to complete a written victim impact statement. The victim has the option to complete the statement on a form provided by the district attorney's office. The district attorney shall inform the victim that the defendant has a right to view the victim impact statement.

(i) The availability of the district attorney to seek a court order to protect a victim's residential address.

(12) Unless a victim requests otherwise, the district attorney shall inform each victim of the following:

(a) The function of a presentence report, including the name and telephone number of the probation office preparing any such report regarding a person convicted of a crime against the victim, and the right of a victim, or a member of the victim's immediate family, to make a victim impact statement pursuant to this article;

(b) The defendant's right to view the presentence report and the victim impact statement;

(c) The date, time, and location of any sentencing hearing;

(d) The right of the victim, or a member of the victim's immediate family, to attend and to express an opinion at the sentencing hearing as to the appropriateness of any sentence proposed to the court for consideration;

(e) Any sentence imposed;

(f) (I) The date, time, and location of any hearing for modification of a sentence pursuant to rule 35 (a) or rule 35 (b) of the Colorado rules of criminal procedure or any provision of state or federal law.

(II) If a hearing is not scheduled and the court has reviewed a written motion for modification of sentence and is considering granting any part of the motion without a hearing, the court shall inform the district attorney, and the district attorney shall notify and receive input from the victim to give to the court before the court rules on the motion.

(III) If the court has reviewed and denied the written motion without a hearing, the district attorney is not required to notify the victim regarding the filing of or ruling on the motion.

(IV) This paragraph (f) does not modify the probation department's responsibility to notify a victim that has opted to receive notifications described in subsection (13.5) of this section.

(f.5) Any motion to modify the terms and conditions of an unsupervised deferred sentence for which the district attorney's office is the monitoring agency. The procedures for notifying victims outlined in subparagraphs (I) and (II) of paragraph (f) of this subsection (12) apply to the district attorney and the court with regard to this motion.

(g) The right to receive information from correctional officials concerning the imprisonment and release of a person convicted of a crime against the victim pursuant to subsection (14) of this section.

(h) The right to receive information from the probation department concerning information outlined in subsection (13.5) of this section regarding a person convicted of a crime against the victim; and

(i) The decision, whether by court order, stipulation of the parties, or otherwise, to conduct postconviction DNA testing to establish the actual innocence of the person convicted of a crime against the victim. If court proceedings are initiated based on the results of the postconviction DNA testing, the victim shall be notified of the court proceedings by the district attorney's office that filed and prosecuted the charges resulting in the entry of the judgment of conviction challenged by the defendant. If the attorney general's office is the agency that decides to conduct postconviction DNA testing, the attorney general's office is responsible for notifying the victim.

(13) If a person convicted of a crime against the victim seeks appellate review or attacks the conviction or sentence, the district attorney or the office of the attorney general, whichever is appropriate, shall inform the victim of the status of the case and of the decision of the court.

(13.5) (a) Following a sentence to probation and upon the written request of a victim, the probation department shall notify the victim of the following information regarding any person who was charged with or convicted of a crime against the victim:

(I) The location and telephone number of the probation department responsible for the supervision of the person;

(II) The date of the person's termination from probation supervision;

(III) Any request for release of the person in advance of the person's imposed sentence or period of probation;

(IV) Any probation revocation or modification hearing regarding the person and any changes in the scheduling of the hearings;

(V) Any motion filed by the probation department requesting permission from the court to modify the terms and conditions of probation as described in section 18-1.3-204, C.R.S., if the motion has not been denied by the court without a hearing;

(V.5) Any change of venue, transfer of probation supervision from one jurisdiction to another, or interstate compact transfer of probation supervision;

(VI) Any complaint, summons, or warrant filed by the probation department for failure to report to probation or because the location of a person convicted of a crime is unknown;

(VII) The death of the person while under the jurisdiction of the probation department; and (VIII) Concerning domestic violence cases, any conduct by the defendant that results in an increase in the supervision level by the probation department.

(b) Repealed.

(14) Upon receipt of a written victim impact statement as provided in section 24-4.1-302.5 (1) (j.5), the department of corrections shall include the statement with any referral made by the department of corrections or a district court to place an offender in a public or private community corrections facility or program. Upon written request of a victim, the department of corrections or the public or private local corrections authorities shall notify the victim of the following information regarding any person who was charged with or convicted of a crime against the victim:

(a) The institution in which such person is incarcerated or otherwise being held;

(b) The projected date of such person's release from confinement;

(c) Any release of such person on furlough or work release or to a community correctional facility or other program, in advance of such release;

(d) Any scheduled parole hearings regarding such person and any changes in the scheduling of such hearings;

(e) Any escape by such person or transfer or release from any state hospital, a detention facility, a correctional facility, a community correctional facility, or other program, and any subsequent recapture of such person;

(f) Any decision by the parole board to release such person or any decision by the governor to commute the sentence of such person or pardon such person;

(g) The transfer to or placement in a nonsecured facility of a person convicted of a crime, any release or discharge from confinement of the person, and any conditions attached to the release;

(h) The death of the person while in custody or while under the jurisdiction of the state of Colorado concerning the crime; and

(i) The transition of the person from a residential facility to a nonresidential setting.

(14.2) Upon receipt of a written statement as provided in section 24-4.1-302.5 (1) (j.5), the department of human services shall include the statement with any referral made by the department of human services or a district court to place an offender in a public or private community corrections facility or program. Upon written request of the victim, the department of human services and any state hospital shall notify the victim of the following information regarding any person who was charged with or convicted of a crime against the victim:

- (a) The institution in which such person is incarcerated or otherwise being held;
- (b) The projected date of such person's release from confinement;
- (c) Any release of such person on furlough or work release or to a community correctional facility or other program, in advance of such release;
- (d) Any scheduled parole hearings regarding such person and any changes in the scheduling of such hearings;
- (e) Any escape by such person or transfer or release from any state hospital, a detention facility, a correctional facility, a community correctional facility, or other program, and any subsequent recapture of such person;
- (f) Any decision by the parole board to release such person or any decision by the governor to commute the sentence of such person or pardon such person;
- (g) The transfer to or placement in a nonsecured facility of a person convicted of a crime, any release or discharge from confinement of the person, and any conditions attached to the release;
- (h) The death of such person while in custody or while under the jurisdiction of the state of Colorado concerning the crime; and
- (i) Any request by the department of human services to the juvenile court to modify the sentence to commitment and any decision by the juvenile court to modify the sentence to commitment.

(14.3) Upon receipt of a written statement from the victim, the juvenile parole board shall notify the victim of the following information regarding any person who was charged with or convicted of an offense against the victim:

- (a) Any scheduled juvenile parole hearings pursuant to sections 19-2-1002 and 19-2-1004, C.R.S., regarding the person, and any changes in the scheduling of the hearings in advance of the hearing;
- (b) Any escape by the person while serving juvenile parole and any subsequent recapture of the person;
- (c) Any placement change that occurs during the period of parole that may impact the victim's safety or public safety as determined by the division of youth corrections; and
- (d) Any discharge from juvenile parole.

(14.4) The court or its designee, pursuant to section 18-3-415, C.R.S., shall disclose the results of any HIV testing that is ordered and performed pursuant to section 18-3-415, C.R.S., to any victim of a sexual offense in the case in which the testing was ordered.

(14.5) (a) At any proceeding specified in section 24-4.1-302.5 (1) (d), the court shall inquire whether the victim is present and wishes to address the court. The court shall advise the victim of his or her right to address the court regarding issues relevant to the case.

(b) At a proceeding specified in section 24-4.1-302.5 (1) (d) (VII), involving a subpoena for records of a victim, the court shall ascertain whether the victim received notice from the district attorney's office of the subpoena. After considering all evidence relevant to the subpoena, the court shall deny a request for a victim's records that are privileged pursuant to section 13-90-107, C.R.S., unless the court makes a finding supported by specific facts that a victim has expressly or impliedly waived the victim's statutory privilege specified in section 13-90-107, C.R.S.

(14.7) (a) The court or its designee shall ensure that victim information be provided to any entity responsible for victim notification after the defendant is sentenced.

(b) The court shall notify the victim of petitions filed by sex offenders to cease sex offender registration pursuant to section 16-22-113 (2) (c), C.R.S.

(15) (a) Unless specifically stated otherwise, the requirements of this section to provide information to the victim may be satisfied by either written, electronic, or oral communication with the victim or the victim's designee. The person responsible for providing the information shall do so in a timely manner and advise the victim or the victim's designee of any significant changes in the information. The victim or the victim's designee shall keep appropriate criminal justice authorities informed of the name, address, electronic mail address, if available, and telephone number of the person to whom the information should be provided, and any changes of the name, address, electronic mail address, and telephone number.

(a.5) A victim who turns eighteen years of age has the right to request notification from a criminal justice agency and to become the primary point of contact. The designee for the victim shall also continue to receive notifications if the designee has requested notification; except that the notifying agency has the discretion to notify only the victim if the victim so requests or if the agency deems that extenuating and documentable circumstances justify discontinuing notification to the victim's designee. The right of a victim's designee to address the court remains in effect even if the victim requests notification from a criminal justice agency.

(b) An agency that is required to notify a victim under this part 3 shall make reasonable attempts to contact the victim or the victim's designee by mail, electronic communication, if the victim or the victim's designee has provided an electronic mail address, and by telephone. If the victim or the victim's designee does not provide the agency with a forwarding address, electronic mail address, and telephone number and the agency is unable to locate the victim or the victim's designee after reasonable attempts have been made to contact the victim or the victim's designee, the agency shall be deemed to have met its obligation under this part 3 and shall not be required to notify the victim or victim's designee until the victim or victim's designee provides the agency with the current address, electronic mail address, if available, and telephone of the victim and the name of the victim's current designee, if applicable.

(c) An agency that is required to notify a victim under this part 3 may use an automated victim notification system.

(16) A defendant or person accused or convicted of a crime against the victim shall have no standing to object to any failure to comply with this article.

(17) Any affected person, except as provided in subsection (16) of this section, may enforce compliance with this article by notifying the crime victim services advisory board created in section 24-4.1-117.3 (1) of any noncompliance with this article. The crime victim services advisory board shall review any report of noncompliance, and, if the board determines that the report of noncompliance has a basis in fact and cannot be resolved, the board shall refer the report of noncompliance to the governor, who shall request that the attorney general file suit to enforce compliance with this article. A person, corporation, or other legal entity shall not be entitled to claim or to receive any damages or other financial redress for any failure to comply with this article.

(18) The district attorney, a law enforcement agency, a probation department, a state or private correctional facility, the department of human services, or the Colorado mental health institute at Pueblo shall make all reasonable efforts to exclude or redact a victim's social security number or a witness' social security number from any criminal justice document or record created or compiled as a result of a criminal investigation when the document or record is released to anyone other than the victim, a criminal justice agency that has duties under this article, or the attorney for the defendant.

24-4.2-101. Victims and witnesses assistance and law enforcement board - creation. (1) There is hereby created in each judicial district a victims and witnesses assistance and law enforcement board, referred to in this article as the "board". Each board shall be composed of five members to be appointed by the chief judge of the judicial district. In making such appointments, the chief judge shall consider whether an appointee represents or belongs to an organization, public or private, which might reasonably be anticipated to be a recipient of moneys pursuant to this article. In multicounty judicial districts, to the extent possible, members shall fairly reflect the population of the judicial district. The board shall designate one of its members as chairman.

(2) The term of office of each member of the board shall be three years; except that, of those members first appointed, one shall be appointed for a one-year term, two for two-year terms, and two for three-year terms. All vacancies, except through the expiration of term, shall be filled for the unexpired term only. Each member may be reappointed once and serve two consecutive terms. A person may be reappointed to the board thereafter if it has been at least one year since such person served on the board.

(3) Members of the board shall receive no compensation.

24-4.2-103. Victims and witnesses assistance and law enforcement fund - control of fund. (1) The victims and witnesses assistance and law enforcement fund is hereby established in the office of the court administrator of each judicial district and is referred to in this article as the "fund". The fund shall consist of all moneys paid as a surcharge as provided in section 24-4.2-104.

(1.5) In addition to the moneys paid into the fund pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, the fund shall consist of moneys paid pursuant to section 17-27-104 (4) (b) (IV), C.R.S.

(2) All moneys deposited in the fund shall be deposited in an interest-bearing account which would be a legal investment for the state treasurer. All interest earned by moneys in the fund shall be credited to the fund.

(3) At the conclusion of each fiscal year, all moneys remaining in the fund shall remain in the fund for allocation as originally designated under section 24-4.2-105.

(4) All moneys deposited in the fund shall be used solely for the purposes designated in section 24-4.2-105; except that the district attorney may use up to an aggregate of ten percent of the total amount of moneys in the fund for administrative costs incurred pursuant to this article and for preparation of victim impact statements required pursuant to section 16-11-102 (1), C.R.S. The board shall determine the manner of reimbursement for preparation of victim impact statements and the method of establishing actual costs for such preparation.

(5) The priority use for moneys in the fund created in this section shall be for the implementation of the rights afforded to crime victims pursuant to section 24-4.1-302.5 and the provision of the services and programs delineated in sections 24-4.1-303, 24-4.1-304, and 24-4.2-105 (4) related to all crimes as defined by section 24-4.1-302 (1).

(6) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, on June 30, 2004, the state treasurer shall transfer up to one million dollars of locally unencumbered moneys in the fund to the general fund.

24-4.2-104. Surcharges levied on criminal actions and traffic offenses.

(1) (a) (I) A surcharge equal to thirty-seven percent of the fine imposed for each felony, misdemeanor, or class 1 or class 2 misdemeanor traffic offense, or a surcharge of one hundred sixty-three dollars for felonies, seventy-eight dollars for misdemeanors, forty-six dollars for class 1 misdemeanor traffic offenses, and thirty-three dollars for class 2 misdemeanor traffic offenses, whichever amount is greater, except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (1), is hereby levied on each criminal action resulting in a conviction or in a deferred judgment and sentence, as provided in section 18-1.3-102, C.R.S., which criminal action is charged pursuant to state statute, or upon each petition alleging that a child is delinquent that results in a finding of guilty pursuant to part 8 of article 2 of title 19, C.R.S., or a deferral of adjudication pursuant to section 19-2-709, C.R.S. These surcharges shall be paid to the clerk of the court by the defendant. Each clerk shall transmit the moneys to the court administrator of the judicial district in which the offense occurred for credit to the victims and witnesses assistance and law enforcement fund established in that judicial district.

(II) (A) In addition to any other surcharge provided for in this section, a surcharge of one thousand three hundred dollars shall be levied on each criminal action resulting in a conviction or in a deferred judgment and sentence, as provided in section 18-1.3-102, C.R.S., which criminal action is charged pursuant to the statutes listed in sub-subparagraph (B) of this subparagraph (II). These surcharges shall be paid to the clerk of the court by the defendant. Any moneys collected by the clerk pursuant to this subparagraph (II) shall be transmitted to the court administrator of the judicial district in which the offense occurred for credit to the victims and witnesses assistance and law enforcement fund established in that judicial district.

(B) The surcharge in sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (II) shall apply to charges brought pursuant to the following sections: 18-3-305, 18-3-402, 18-3-403, as it existed prior to July 1, 2000, 18-3-404, 18-3-405, 18-3-405.3, 18-3-405.5, 18-3-502, 18-6-301, 18-6-302, 18-6-403, 18-6-404, 18-7-302, 18-7-402, 18-7-405, 18-7-405.5, and 18-7-406, C.R.S., or any attempt to commit any of these crimes.

(b) (I) A surcharge shall be levied against a penalty assessment imposed for a violation of a class A or class B traffic infraction or class 1 or class 2 misdemeanor traffic offense pursuant to section 42-4-1701, C.R.S. The amount of such surcharge shall be one half of the amount specified in the penalty and surcharge schedule in section 42-4-1701 (4), C.R.S., or, if no amount is specified, thirty-seven percent of the penalty imposed. All moneys collected by the department of revenue pursuant to this subparagraph (I) shall be transmitted to the court administrator of the judicial district in which the infraction occurred for credit to the victims and witnesses assistance and law enforcement fund established in that judicial district as provided in section 42-1-217, C.R.S. Surcharges paid to the clerk of the court pursuant to this subparagraph (I) shall be transmitted to the court administrator of the judicial district in which the offense was committed for credit to the victims and witnesses assistance and law enforcement fund established in that judicial district.

(II) A surcharge shall be levied against all penalty assessments issued pursuant to section 33-6-104, C.R.S., in an amount equal to thirty-seven percent of the penalty imposed. Any moneys collected by the division of parks and wildlife pursuant to this subparagraph (II) shall be transmitted to the court administrator of the judicial district in which the offense was committed for credit to the victims and witnesses assistance and law enforcement fund established in that judicial district.

(c) All calculated surcharge amounts resulting in dollars and cents shall be rounded down to the nearest whole dollar. The surcharge levied by this section may not be suspended or waived by the court unless the court determines that the defendant is indigent.

(d) The surcharges levied pursuant to this subsection (1) are separate and distinct from costs levied pursuant to section 24-4.1-119 for the crime victim compensation fund.

(1.5) Repealed.

(2) The provisions of sections 18-1.3-701 and 18-1.3-702, C.R.S., shall be applicable to the collection of costs levied pursuant to this section.

ANNOTATION

Assessment of surcharges pursuant to subsection (1)(a)(II) does not violate the prohibition against ex post facto laws since the statute's effective date predates the date of the offenses with which the defendant was charged. People v. Bowring, 902 P.2d 911 (Colo. App. 1995).

Imposition of two surcharges for conviction does not violate the prohibition against double jeopardy. The surcharge created by subsection (1)(a)(II)(A) and the surcharge created by § 18-21-103 (1)(c) may both be applied to the conviction for second degree sexual assault. People v. Thien Van Vo, 932 P.2d 849 (Colo. App. 1996).

Costs are not a form of punishment but are essentially civil and are not traditionally considered to be punishment, and the imposition of costs generally does not serve the goals of retribution and deterrence. People v. Howell, 64 P.3d 894 (Colo. App. 2002); People v. McQuarrie, 66 P.3d 181 (Colo. App. 2002).

24-4.2-105. Allocation of moneys from fund - application for grants - disbursements. (1) Thirteen percent of the aggregate amount of the moneys in the fund, after payment of the expenses specified in section 24-4.2-103 (4), shall be deposited with the state treasurer to the credit of the fund created pursuant to section 24-33.5-506.

(2) Not less than eighty-five percent of the net aggregate of the fund remaining after the deduction of the amounts specified in subsection (1) of this section shall be allocated for the purchase of victims and witnesses services pursuant to subsection (4) of this section, and the remaining moneys may be allocated to the police departments, sheriffs' departments, and district attorneys for the purposes specified in subsection (3) of this section.

(2.5) (a) The board shall not accept, evaluate, or approve any application requesting grants of money from the fund submitted by, or on behalf of, any state agency, including local offices of such agencies; except that:

(I) The court administrator of each judicial district may apply for grants of moneys for the purpose of collecting all moneys assessed by the courts, including moneys owed pursuant to this article, and collecting and disbursing restitution owed to victims of crime; and

(II) The local probation department may apply for grants of moneys for the purpose of implementing the rights of victims established pursuant to article 4.1 of this title.

(b) The state judicial department shall study alternative methods for funding the collection of restitution owed to victims of crime.

(3) The board shall accept and evaluate applications from the law enforcement agencies listed in subsection (2) of this section requesting grants of moneys for the following purposes, including, but not limited to, purchase of equipment, training programs, and additional personnel. Such moneys shall not be used for defraying the costs of routine and ongoing operating expenses.

(4) The board is authorized to enter into contracts for the purchase and coordination of victims and witnesses assistance services with persons or agencies which the board deems appropriate. Victims and witnesses assistance services may be used for the following:

(a) Provision of services for early crisis intervention;
(b) Provision of telephone lines for victims and witnesses assistance;
(c) Referral of victims to appropriate social service and victim compensation programs and assistance in filling out forms for compensation;

(c.5) Assistance programs for victims and their families;

(d) Education of victims and witnesses about the operation of the criminal justice system;

(e) Assistance in prompt return of the victims' property;

(f) Notification to the victim of the progress of the investigation, the defendant's arrest, subsequent bail determinations, and the status of the case;

(g) Intercession with the employers or creditors of victims or witnesses;

(h) Assistance to the elderly and to persons with disabilities in arranging transportation to and from court;

(i) Provision of translator services;

(j) Coordination of efforts to assure that victims have a secure place to wait before testifying;

(k) Provision of counseling or assistance during court appearances when appropriate;

(l) Protection from threats of harm and other forms of intimidation; and

(m) Special advocate services.

(4.3) (a) Moneys allocated for the purposes specified in subsections (3) and (4) of this section shall only be used for the purchases of equipment, training programs, additional personnel, and victims and witnesses services that are directly related to the implementation of the rights afforded to crime victims pursuant to section 24-4.1-302.5 and the provision of services delineated pursuant to sections 24-4.1-303 and 24-4.1-304.

(b) Equipment that may be purchased with such moneys includes technical equipment directly related to the immediate individual physical safety of crime victims.

(c) Grants of moneys may be approved for registration fees and expenses for lodging, travel, and meals for those in-state training programs specifically directed toward delivery of services to crime victims and for the actual cost of providing the necessary staff training directly related to the implementation of the rights afforded to crime victims pursuant to section 24-4.1-302.5 and the provision of services delineated pursuant to sections 24-4.1-303 and 24-4.1-304. Nothing in this subsection (4.3) shall preclude volunteer board members from receiving reimbursement for actual and necessary expenses incurred at in-state training programs held pursuant to this paragraph (c). Expenses for lodging, travel, and meals which may be reimbursed pursuant to this paragraph (c) shall not exceed the state government expense reimbursement guidelines.

(4.7) A requesting agency or person shall acknowledge in writing that such agency or person has read and understands the rights afforded to crime victims pursuant to section 24-4.1-302.5 and the services delineated pursuant to sections 24-4.1-303 and 24-4.1-304. Such written acknowledgment shall be attached to such requesting agency's or person's application for moneys pursuant to this section. The board shall not accept for evaluation any application for a grant of moneys pursuant to this section until the requesting agency or person provides the board with such written acknowledgment.

(5) The board shall specify levels and types of services to be provided pursuant to this section and shall review expenditures in accord with these standards.

(6) Upon a finding by the board that a disbursement shall be made from the fund, the board shall submit a written request for payment to the court administrator who shall remit payment in accordance with the request.

(7) For purposes of this section:

(a) "Victim" and "witness" mean "victim" and "witness" as defined in section 24-4.1-302.

(b) "Special advocate services" means the services offered to aid victims who are children, including, but not limited to, court-appointed special advocate (CASA) programs, sexual assault treatment and prevention programs, community-based youth and family servicing programs, gang alternative programs, school-based intervention and prevention programs, big brother and big sister programs offering aid to children who are victims, restitution programs, partners programs offering aid to children who are victims, and child abuse treatment programs.

(c) "Court-Appointed Special Advocate" or "CASA" means a trained volunteer appointed by the court pursuant to the provisions of part 2 of article 1 of title 19, C.R.S., in a district to aid the court by providing independent and objective information as directed by the court, regarding children involved in actions brought pursuant to this title.

ARTICLE 5

Public Employment - Eligibility

24-5-101. Effect of criminal conviction on employment rights.

24-5-101. Effect of criminal conviction on employment rights. (1) (a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (1), the fact that a person has been convicted of a felony or other offense involving moral turpitude shall not, in and of itself, prevent the person from applying for and obtaining public employment or from applying for and receiving a license, certification, permit, or registration required by the laws of this state to follow any business, occupation, or profession.

(b) This subsection (1) shall not apply to:

(I) The offices and convictions described in section 4 of article XII of the state constitution;

(II) The certification and revocation of certification of peace officers as provided in section 24-31-305;

(III) The employment of personnel in positions involving direct contact with vulnerable persons as specified in section 27-90-111, C.R.S.;

(IV) The licensure or authorization of educators prohibited pursuant to section 22-60.5-107 (2), (2.5), or (2.6), C.R.S.;

(V) The employment of persons in public or private correctional facilities pursuant to the provisions of sections 17-1-109.5 and 17-1-202 (1) (a) (I) and (1.5), C.R.S., and the employment of persons in public or private juvenile facilities pursuant to the provisions of sections 19-2-403.3 and 19-2-410 (4), C.R.S.;

(VI) The employment of persons by the public employees' retirement association created pursuant to section 24-51-201 who, upon the commencement of that employment, will have access to association investment information, association assets, or financial, demographic, or other information relating to association members or beneficiaries; and

(VII) The employment of persons by the department of public safety.

(2) Whenever any state or local agency is required to make a finding that an applicant for a license, certification, permit, or registration is a person of good moral character as a condition to the issuance thereof, the fact that such applicant has, at some time prior thereto, been convicted of a felony or other offense involving moral turpitude, and pertinent circumstances connected with such conviction, shall be given consideration in determining whether, in fact, the applicant is a person of good moral character at the time of the application. The intent of this section is to expand employment opportunities for persons who, notwithstanding that fact of conviction of an offense, have been rehabilitated and are ready to accept the responsibilities of a law-abiding and productive member of society.

(3) (a) Unless statute prohibits the employment of a person with a specific criminal conviction for a particular position, an agency shall not advertise the position with a statement that a person with a criminal record may not apply for the position or place on the application a statement that a person with a criminal record may not apply for the position.

(b) The agency shall not perform a background check until the agency determines that an applicant is a finalist or makes a conditional offer of employment to the applicant.

(c) If, after determining that an applicant is a finalist or after making a conditional offer of employment to an applicant, the agency determines that the applicant has been arrested or charged but not convicted of a criminal offense and the criminal case is not actively pending, the agency shall not use that information as a basis for not making an offer of employment or for withdrawing the conditional offer of employment.

(d) If, after determining that an applicant is a finalist or after making a conditional offer of employment to an applicant, the agency determines that the applicant has had a criminal conviction expunged or sealed from his or her record, received a pardon, or that charges were dismissed pursuant to successfully completing a deferred judgment or sentence, the agency shall not use that information as a basis for not making an offer of employment or for withdrawing the conditional offer of employment unless, after reviewing the factors in subsection (4) of this section, the agency determines that the applicant should be disqualified for the position.

(e) Nothing in this section prevents an agency from considering criminal history information that the applicant voluntarily provides.

(4) If, after determining that an applicant is a finalist or making a conditional offer of employment to an applicant, the agency determines that the applicant has been convicted of a crime, the agency shall consider the following factors when determining whether the conviction disqualifies the applicant for the position:

(a) The nature of the conviction;

(b) Whether there is a direct relationship between the conviction and the position's duties and responsibilities and the bearing, if any, the conviction may have on the applicant's fitness or ability to perform one or more such duties and responsibilities, including whether the conviction was for unlawful sexual behavior as listed in section 16-22-102 (9), C.R.S., and whether the duties of employment would place a co-worker or the public in a vulnerable position;

(c) Any information produced by the applicant or produced on his or her behalf regarding his or her rehabilitation and good conduct; and

(d) The time that has elapsed since the conviction.

(5) Notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, the provisions of this section apply to the office of the governor.

ANNOTATION

Strong public policy of Colorado is to aid ex-offenders in their rehabilitation to society and to insure that they are not discriminated against solely because they, at one time, were convicted of crimes. Watson v. Cronin, 384 F. Supp. 652 (D. Colo. 1974).

Medical license not necessarily prohibited by prior conviction. A prior felony conviction, by itself, is not sufficient to warrant the denial or revocation of a medical license. Bd. of Med. Exam'rs v. Jorgensen, 198 Colo. 275, 599 P.2d 869 (1979).

This section, in combination with the statutes governing disciplinary action against a real estate broker, makes the degree of rehabilitation an essential factor to be considered. The real estate commission bears the burden of proving not only that the broker was convicted of a felony, but also that he or she has not been rehabilitated. Colo. Real Estate Comm'n v. Bartlett, __ P.3d __ (Colo. App. 2011).

Evidence of circumstances which led to prior felony conviction may be considered by the board of medical examiners in deciding whether or not to revoke a medical license. Bd. of Med. Exam'rs v. Jorgensen, 198 Colo. 275, 599 P.2d 869 (1979).

Massage parlor license inquiry not restricted to prior felony convictions. In making an examination of an applicant for a massage parlor license, a board of county commissioners is not restricted to inquiring into prior felony convictions. JRM, Inc. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 200 Colo. 384, 615 P.2d 31 (1980).

This section does not prohibit denial of massage parlor license for other conduct which would establish the absence of good moral character. JRM, Inc. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 200 Colo. 384, 615 P.2d 31 (1980).

Such as sexual activity and nudity. The consideration by the board of county commissioners of evidence of sex acts and nudity in the operation of a massage parlor by the applicant for a massage parlor license is proper. JRM, Inc. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 200 Colo. 384, 615 P.2d 31 (1980).

Only “moral turpitude” offenses serve as justification for denial of liquor license. Sections 12-47-118, 12-47-137, and 12-47-141, as governed and modified by this section, require that only those offenses involving “moral turpitude” can serve as justification for the denial of a liquor license. Hartman v. Wadlow, 37 Colo. App. 90, 545 P.2d 735 (1975), aff'd, 191 Colo. 196, 551 P.2d 201 (1976).

“Driving while impaired” is not a moral turpitude offense. While “driving a motor vehicle while ability is impaired” is a serious offense, nevertheless, it does not rise to the magnitude of being one involving moral turpitude. Hartman v. Wadlow, 37 Colo. App. 90, 545 P.2d 735 (1975), aff'd, 191 Colo. 196, 551 P.2d 201 (1976).

Convictions may serve as a basis for delaying, but not permanently denying, a motor vehicle salesperson license under § 12-6-118 (7)(a)(I), which section is limited to specific felony convictions and does not make a criminal conviction, without more, the basis for denying a license; therefore, there is no irreconcilable conflict between this section and § 12-6-118 (7)(a)(I). Smith v. Colo. Motor Vehicle Dealer Bd., 200 P.3d 1115 (Colo. App. 2008).

Board may consider circumstances surrounding applicant’s criminal conduct in determining whether to reinstate license. The applicant’s rehabilitation alone does not mandate licensure. Colo. State Bd. of Pharmacy v. Priem, 2012 COA 5, __ P.3d __.

Applied in Beathune v. Colorado Dealer Licensing Bd., 198 Colo. 483, 601 P.2d 1386 (1979); R & F Enterprises, Inc. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 199 Colo. 137, 606 P.2d 64 (1980).

24-6-202. Disclosure - contents - filing - false or incomplete filing - penalty.
 (1) Except as otherwise provided in subsection (1.7) of this section, not later than the January 10 following his or her election, reelection, appointment, or retention in office, written disclosure, in such form as the secretary of state shall prescribe, stating the interests named in subsection (2) of this section shall be made to and filed with the secretary of state of Colorado by:

(a) Each member of the general assembly;

(b) The governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general, and state treasurer;

(c) Each justice or judge of a court of record;

(d) Each district attorney;

(e) Each member of the state board of education;

(f) Each member of the board of regents of the university of Colorado;

(g) Each member of the public utilities commission.

(h) Repealed.

(1.5) The provisions of subsection (1) of this section apply to any person who is serving in any position noted in said subsection (1) on July 1, 1979.

(1.7) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, any person who has timely filed an amended statement with the secretary of state pursuant to subsection (4) of this section is not required to additionally file a disclosure statement satisfying the requirements of subsection (1) of this section by the January 10 following his or her election, reelection, appointment, or retention in office.

(2) Disclosure shall include:

(a) The names of any source or sources of any income, including capital gains, whether or not taxable, of the person making disclosure, his spouse, and minor children residing with him;

(b) The name of each business, insurance policy, or trust in which he, his spouse, or minor children residing with him has a financial interest in excess of five thousand dollars;

(c) The legal description of any interest in real property, including an option to buy, in the state in which the person making disclosure, his spouse, or minor children residing with him have any interest, direct or indirect, the market value of which is in excess of five thousand dollars;

(d) The identity, by name, of all offices, directorships, and fiduciary relationships held by the person making disclosure, his spouse, and minor children residing with him;

(e) The identity, by name, of any person, firm, or organization for whom compensated lobbying is done by any person associated with the person making disclosure if the benefits of such compensation are or may be shared by the person making disclosure, directly or indirectly;

(f) The name of each creditor to whom the person making disclosure, his spouse, or minor children owe money in excess of one thousand dollars and the interest rate;

(g) A list of businesses with which the person making disclosure or his spouse are associated that do business with or are regulated by the state and the nature of such business or regulation;

(h) Such additional information as the person making disclosure might desire.

(3) Any disclosure statement shall be amended no more than thirty days after any termination or acquisition of interests as to which disclosure is required.

(4) Any person required by this section to file a disclosure statement shall, on or before January 10 of each calendar year, file an amended statement with the secretary of state or notify the secretary of state in writing that he has had no change of condition since the previous filing of a disclosure statement.

(5) Each disclosure statement, amended statement, or notification that no amendment is required shall be public information, available to any person upon request during normal working hours.

(6) Any person subject to the provisions of this section may elect to file with the secretary of state annually a copy of his federal income tax return and any separate federal income tax return filed by his spouse or minor children residing with him together with a certified statement of any investments held by him, his spouse, or minor children residing with him which are not reflected by the income tax returns in lieu of complying with the provisions of subsections (1) to (4) of this section, which tax return and any statement filed under the provisions of this subsection (6) shall be public information.

(7) Any person who willfully files a false or incomplete disclosure statement, amendment, or notice that no amendment is required, or who willfully files a false or incomplete copy of any federal income tax return or a false or incomplete certified statement of investments, or who willfully fails to make any filing required by this section is guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one thousand dollars nor more than five thousand dollars.

24-6-203. Reporting by incumbents and elected candidates - gifts, honoraria, and other benefits - prohibition on monetary gifts - penalty - definitions. (1) (a) As used in this section, the terms “appropriate officer” and “candidate” shall have the meanings ascribed to them in section 1-45-103, C.R.S., of the “Fair Campaign Practices Act”.

(b) (I) As used in this section, the term “public office” means any office voted for in this state at any election. “Public office” includes, without limitation, the governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general, and state treasurer; a member of the general assembly or the state board of education; a regent of the university of Colorado; a judge on the Colorado court of appeals or the Colorado supreme court; a district attorney; or an officer of a county, municipality, city and county, school district, or any elective office within a special district for which the annual compensation exceeds sixteen hundred dollars.

(II) “Public office” does not include:

(A) The office of president or vice president of the United States;

(B) The office of senator or representative in the congress of the United States;

(C) Any office in a political party chosen pursuant to sections 1-3-103, 1-4-403, and 1-4-701, C.R.S.; or

(D) Any political party office in an assembly or convention, including delegates thereto.

(E) Repealed.

(III) Repealed.

(c) As used in this section, “covered state office” means the governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general, state treasurer, a member of the state board of education, a regent of the university of Colorado, a member of the general assembly, or a district attorney.

(2) Every incumbent in or candidate elected to public office who receives from any other person any item described in subsection (3) of this section in connection with the incumbent’s or elected candidate’s public service shall file with the appropriate officer, on or before January 15, April 15, July 15, and October 15 of each year, a report covering the period since the last report. The requirement of this subsection (2) pertaining to the report due January 15 shall extend to an incumbent leaving public office between October 15 and January 15, who shall file with the appropriate officer by January 15 a report that covers any items received during the period since the last report. Such report shall be on forms prescribed by the secretary of state and shall contain, at a minimum, the name of the person from whom the item was received and the amount or value and the date of receipt. The secretary of state shall furnish such forms to municipal clerks, to county clerk and recorders, and to incumbents and elected candidates for state offices and district offices of districts greater than a county free of charge for use by incumbents and elected candidates required to file such forms. If any incumbent in or candidate elected to public office does not receive any such item, he or she shall not be required to file such report.

(3) The reports required by subsection (2) of this section shall include the following:

(a) In the case of a candidate elected to public office who is not an incumbent and has not yet been sworn into such office and subject to the requirements of subsection (3.5) of this section, any money, including but not limited to a loan, pledge, or advance of money or a guarantee of a loan of money, or any forbearance or forgiveness of indebtedness from any person, with a value greater than fifty-three dollars;

(b) In the case of a candidate elected to public office who is not an incumbent and has not yet been sworn into such office and subject to the requirements of subsection (3.5) of this section, any gift of any item of real or personal property, other than money, with a value greater than fifty-three dollars;

(c) In the case of a candidate elected to public office who is not an incumbent and has not yet been sworn into such office, any loan of any item of real or personal property, other than money, if the value of the loan is greater than fifty-three dollars. For such purpose, the "value of the loan" means the cost saved or avoided by the elected candidate by not borrowing, leasing, or purchasing comparable property from a source available to the general public.

(d) Any payment for a speech, appearance, or publication;

(e) In the case of a candidate elected to public office who is not an incumbent and has not yet been sworn into such office, tickets to sporting, recreational, educational, or cultural events with a value greater than fifty-three dollars for any single event;

(f) Payment of or reimbursement for actual and necessary expenditures for travel and lodging for attendance at a convention, fact-finding mission or trip, or other meeting that the incumbent or elected candidate who has been sworn into public office is permitted to accept or receive in accordance with the provisions of section 3 of article XXIX of the state constitution, unless the payment of or reimbursement for such expenditures is made from public funds of a state or local government in the case of an incumbent or elected candidate subject to the provisions of said article or from the funds of any association of public officials or public entities whose membership includes the incumbent's or elected candidate's office or the governmental entity in which such office is held;

(g) Subject to the provisions of section 3 of article XXIX of the state constitution, any gift of a meal to a fund-raising event of a political party;

(h) Payment of or reimbursement for actual and necessary expenses for travel and lodging for attendance at a convention, fact-finding mission or trip, or other meeting that is from an organization declared to be a joint governmental agency by section 2-3-311, C.R.S.

(3.5) (a) Each incumbent in or candidate elected to covered state office is prohibited from knowingly receiving or accepting from any other person, in connection with the public service of the incumbent or elected candidate:

(I) A gift of any money, including but not limited to a loan, pledge, or advance of money, a guarantee of a loan of money, or any monetary payment given, directly or indirectly, for the purpose of defraying any expenses related to the official duties undertaken by the incumbent or elected candidate; or

(II) An in-kind gift.

(b) Nothing in paragraph (a) of this subsection (3.5) shall be construed to prohibit an incumbent or elected candidate from receiving a salary or other compensation paid to the incumbent or elected candidate in connection with the performance of his or her official duties, including, without limitation, payment for a speech, appearance, or publication or payment of or reimbursement for actual and necessary expenditures for travel and lodging to the extent the incumbent or elected candidate who has been sworn into covered state office is permitted to accept or receive such items in accordance with the provisions of section 3 of article XXIX of the state constitution.

(c) For purposes of this subsection (3.5), an "in-kind gift" means any gift of equipment, goods, supplies, property, services, or anything else, the value of which exceeds fifty dollars in the aggregate in any one calendar year, given, directly or indirectly, to an incumbent in or candidate elected to covered state office for the purpose of defraying any expenses related to the official duties undertaken by the incumbent or elected candidate.

(3.7) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, no incumbent in or candidate elected to covered state office shall accept a gift of any money from any person who is a professional or volunteer lobbyist or from a corporation or labor organization.

(4) The reports required by subsection (2) of this section need not include the following:

(a) A contribution or contribution in kind that has already been reported pursuant to section 1-45-108, C.R.S.;

(b) Any unsolicited item of trivial value as described in section 3 (3) (b) of article XXIX of the state constitution;

(c) An unsolicited token or award of appreciation as described in section 3 (3) (c) of article XXIX of the state constitution;

(d) Payment of or reimbursement for actual and necessary expenditures for travel and lodging for attendance at a convention, fact-finding mission or trip, or other meeting that the incumbent or elected candidate is permitted to accept or receive in accordance with the provisions of section 3 of article XXIX of the state constitution, if the payment of or reimbursement for such expenditures is made from public funds of a state or local government in the case of an incumbent or elected candidate subject to the provisions of said article or from the funds of any association of public officials or public entities whose membership includes the incumbent's or elected candidate's office or the governmental entity in which such office is held;

(e) Payment of salary from employment, including other government employment, in addition to that earned from being a member of the general assembly or by reason of service in other public office;

(f) Except as otherwise described in this subsection (4), any other gift or thing of value an incumbent or elected candidate who has been sworn into public office is permitted to solicit, accept, or receive in accordance with the provisions of section 3 of article XXIX of the state constitution.

(5) Any person who provides an incumbent or elected candidate with any item required to be reported by the incumbent or elected candidate pursuant to this section shall, at the time the item is provided, furnish the recipient with a written statement of the dollar value of the item.

(6) Nothing contained in this section shall relieve any person from the disclosure requirements of part 3 of article 6 of this title, relating to the regulation of lobbyists.

(7) Any person who willfully files a false or incomplete report pursuant to this section, who willfully fails to file a report required by this section, who willfully fails to provide the statement of value required by subsection (5) of this section, or who violates any provision of subsection (3.5) of this section is guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than one thousand dollars.

(8) The amount of the gift limit specified in subsection (3) of this section, set at fifty-three dollars as of August 8, 2012, shall be identical to the amount of the gift limit under section 3 of article XXIX of the state constitution, and shall be adjusted for inflation contemporaneously with any adjustment of the constitutional gift limit pursuant to section 3 (6) of article XXIX.

REGULATION OF LOBBYISTS

24-6-301. Definitions - legislative declaration. As used in this part 3, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Communication" includes but is not limited to a transmittal of information, data, ideas, opinions, or anything of a similar nature, either oral, written, or by any other means, to a covered official.

(1.5) "Contribution" means a gift, subscription, loan, advance, or deposit of money or anything of value and includes a contract, promise, or agreement, whether or not legally enforceable, to make a contribution. "Contribution" also includes the compensation and reimbursement for expenses of a person required to file a disclosure statement under section 24-6-302.

(1.7) "Covered official" means:

(a) For the type of lobbying defined in subparagraphs (I), (II), and (III) of paragraph (a) of subsection (3.5) of this section, the governor, the lieutenant governor, or a member of the general assembly;

(b) For the type of lobbying defined in subparagraph (IV) of paragraph (a) of subsection (3.5) of this section, a member of a rule-making board or commission or a rule-making official of a state agency which has jurisdiction over the subject matter of a rule, standard, or rate.

(1.9) (a) "Disclosure statement" means a written statement that contains:

(I) The name and address of each person who has made a contribution totaling one hundred dollars or more to or for the disclosing person for lobbying during the fiscal year, together with the amount thereof;

(II) The total sum of the contributions made to or for the disclosing person for lobbying since the last disclosure statement which are not stated under subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a);

(III) The total sum of all contributions made to or for the disclosing person for lobbying since the last disclosure statement and during the fiscal year;

(IV) The name of the covered official to or for whom such expenditures of more than fifty-three dollars have been made by or on behalf of the disclosing person for gift or entertainment purposes in connection with lobbying or for whom an expenditure was made by or on behalf of the disclosing person for a gift of a meal at a fund-raising event of a political party described in section 1-45-105.5 (1) (c) (IV), C.R.S., during either the first six months or the second six months of a state fiscal year and the amount, date, and principal purpose of the gift or entertainment, if the covered official or a member of his or her family actually received such gift or entertainment, but expenditures of one dollar or less shall be reported under subparagraph (V) of this paragraph (a). All amounts that a professional lobbyist spends on a covered official for which the lobbyist is reimbursed, or the source of which is a contribution, shall be deemed to be for gift or entertainment purposes.

(V) The total sum of all such expenditures made by or on behalf of the disclosing person to covered officials for gift or entertainment purposes in connection with lobbying since the last disclosure statement that are not stated under subparagraph (IV) of this paragraph (a);

(VI) (Deleted by amendment, L. 96, p. 1081, § 1, effective August 7, 1996.)

(VII) The total sum of all expenditures made by or on behalf of the disclosing person in connection with lobbying, other than gift and entertainment expenditures, since the last disclosure statement which are not stated under subparagraph (VI) of this paragraph (a);

(VIII) The total sum of all expenditures made by or on behalf of the disclosing person in connection with lobbying since the last disclosure statement and during the fiscal year;

(IX) A statement, which shall only be given by a professional lobbyist, which contains the names of, and the amounts of any expenditures or contributions made to, any papers, periodicals, magazines, radio or television stations, or other media of mass communication to whom expenditures or contributions were made in which the professional lobbyist or his employer or agent has caused to be published any advertisements, articles, or editorials relating to lobbying; except that this information is not required for regular or routine publications sent primarily to the members of the professional lobbyist's organization, which publications contain information relating to his lobbying;

(X) The nature of the legislation, standards, rules, or rates for which the disclosing person is receiving contributions or making expenditures for lobbying and, where known, the specific legislation, standards, rules, or rates. In the case of specific legislation, disclosure shall include, during a regular or special session of the general assembly, the bill number of the legislation, and whether the disclosing person's principal is supporting, opposing, amending, or monitoring the legislation identified as of the time a disclosure statement is required to be filed pursuant to section 24-6-302 (3), after the disclosing person is retained to advocate or monitor in connection with the legislation. The disclosure statement shall specify that the disclosing person's representation is accurate as of the date of disclosure only and that such representation is not binding on the disclosing person after such date and is subject to change subsequent to such date and prior to the time the next disclosure statement is due. If a disclosure statement from a disclosing person during a regular or special session of the general assembly fails to show any bill numbers or nature of the legislation, as applicable, the disclosing person shall be required to make an affirmative statement that he or she was not retained in connection with any legislation. Nothing in this subparagraph (X) shall require any additional disclosure on the part of a disclosing person before the next applicable reporting deadline pursuant to section 24-6-302 (3). For purposes of this subparagraph (X), "legislation" means the process of making or enacting law in written form in the form of codes, statutes, or rules.

(XI) If the disclosing person's principal is an individual, the name and address of the individual and a description of the business activity in which the individual is engaged. If the disclosing person's principal is a business entity, a description of the business entity in which the principal is engaged and the name or names of the entity's chief executive officer or partners, as applicable. If the disclosing person's principal is an industry, trade, organization or group of persons, or professional association, a description of the industry, trade, organization or group of persons, or profession that the disclosing person represents.

(XII) A statement detailing any direct business association of the disclosing person in any pending legislation, measure, or question. For purposes of this subparagraph (XII), a "direct business association" means that, in connection with a pending bill, measure, or question, the passage or failure of the bill, measure, or question will result in the disclosing person deriving a direct financial or pecuniary benefit that is greater than any such benefit derived by or shared by other persons in the disclosing person's profession, occupation, or industry. A disclosing person shall not be deemed to have a direct personal relationship in a pending bill, measure, or question where such interest arises from a bill, measure, or question that affects the entire membership of a class to which the disclosing person belongs.

(b) The secretary of state shall prescribe a form for disclosure statements, which shall contain:

(I) A statement, which the disclosing person may adopt, if true, that no change has occurred since the prior month's disclosure statement, in which case the information required by paragraph (a) of this subsection (1.9) may be omitted;

(II) A statement, which the disclosing person may adopt, if true, that no unreported contributions for lobbying are receivable and that no unreported expenditures for lobbying will be made during the remainder of the fiscal year;

(III) A statement which the disclosing person shall sign indicating that the information provided is correct and complete; but notarization of such statement shall not be required. The disclosing person, in signing such statement, shall be subject to section 18-8-503, C.R.S., concerning false statements made to a public servant.

(c) Whenever a person required to file a disclosure statement under this part 3 solicits, collects, or receives contributions which are used for lobbying as well as for other purposes, or makes an expenditure which is attributable to lobbying as well as to other purposes, such contributions and expenditures shall be allocated between lobbying and other purposes, and the disclosure statement shall contain that portion allocated to lobbying.

(2) "Expenditure" means a payment, distribution, loan, advance, deposit, or gift of money or anything of value and includes a contract, promise, or agreement, whether or not legally enforceable, to make an expenditure.

(2.3) "Fiscal year" means the period commencing July 1 of a calendar year and concluding June 30 of the following calendar year.

(2.5) "Gross income for lobbying" means the total income, including compensation for services, fees, and similar payments, before any deductions are made, received by a professional lobbyist for lobbying or by a firm organized for professional lobbying purposes that employs a professional lobbyist.

(3) Repealed.

(3.5) (a) "Lobbying" means communicating directly, or soliciting others to communicate, with a covered official for the purpose of aiding in or influencing:

(I) The drafting, introduction, sponsorship, consideration, debate, amendment, passage, defeat, approval, or veto by any covered official on:

(A) Any bill, resolution, amendment, nomination, appointment, or report, whether or not in writing, pending or proposed for consideration by either house of the general assembly or committee thereof, whether or not the general assembly is in session;

(B) Any other matter pending or proposed in writing by any covered official for consideration by either house of the general assembly or a committee thereof, whether or not the general assembly is in session;

(II) Repealed.

(III) The convening of a special session of the general assembly or the specification of business to be transacted at such special session;

(IV) The drafting, consideration, amendment, adoption, or defeat of any rule, standard, or rate of any state agency having rule-making authority.

(b) Subject to the exclusions and provisions of this paragraph (b), for the purpose of determining when contributions and expenditures become reportable in disclosure statements, "lobbying" includes activities undertaken by the person engaging in lobbying and persons acting at his request to prepare for lobbying which in fact ultimately occurs, provided:

(I) No such reports shall be required for activities occurring prior to the preceding fiscal year;

(II) Expenditures shall not be reported when such expenditures are incurred by a person in the ordinary course of the business or affairs of such person and are not made for lobbying. Such nonreportable expenditures will include, but not be limited to, the keeping of books of account and the routine collection of statistics and other data.

(c) "Lobbying" does not include communications made by a person in response to a statute, rule, regulation, or order requiring such a communication.

(d) (I) "Lobbying" does not include communications by a person who appears before a committee of the general assembly or a rule-making board or commission solely as a result of an affirmative vote by the committee, board, or commission issuing a mandatory order or subpoena commanding that the person appear and testify, or making such a person a respondent in such a proceeding whether or not the person is reimbursed by the committee, board, or commission for expenses incurred in making such appearance.

(II) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2004, p. 431, § 1, effective August 4, 2004.)

(III) (A) Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby declares its support of the "Colorado Sunshine Act of 1972" and the open process that it has brought to the legislative process in Colorado. The general assembly's intent in enacting this subparagraph (III) is to achieve a more uniform application of the lobbying laws to witness testimony and to clarify the ability of the public to provide testimony to the general assembly and to state agencies.

(B) "Lobbying" excludes persons who are not otherwise registered as lobbyists and who limit their activities to appearances to give testimony or provide information to committees of the general assembly or at public hearings of state agencies or who give testimony or provide information at the request of public officials or employees and who clearly identify themselves and the interest for whom they are testifying or providing information.

(e) "Lobbying" does not include communications made by an attorney-at-law when such communications are made on behalf of a client whose name has been identified and when such communications constitute the practice of law subject to control by the judicial branch of the state of Colorado.

(f) "Lobbying" does not include duties performed by employees of the legislative department.

(3.7) "Lobbyist" means either a professional or a volunteer lobbyist.

(4) "Person" means an individual, limited liability company, partnership, committee, association, corporation, or any other organization or group of persons.

(5) "Political committee" means any committee, association, or organization which accepts contributions or makes expenditures for the purpose of influencing or attempting to influence the election of candidates or presidential and vice-presidential electors or any duly authorized committee or subcommittee of a national, state, or local political party.

(5.5) "Principal" means any person who employs a lobbyist. If an association, corporation, limited liability company, partnership, or any other organization or group of persons or form of business entity engages a lobbyist, a person serving as an officer, employee, member, shareholder, or partner of the association, corporation, limited liability company, partnership, or other organization or group of persons or form of business entity shall not be considered a principal.

(6) "Professional lobbyist" means any individual who engages himself or is engaged by any other person for pay or for any consideration for lobbying. "Professional lobbyist" does not include any volunteer lobbyist, any state official or employee acting in his official capacity, except as provided in section 24-6-303.5, any elected public official acting in his official capacity, or any individual who appears as counsel or advisor in an adjudicatory proceeding.

(7) "Volunteer lobbyist" means any individual who engages in lobbying and whose only receipt of money or other thing of value consists of nothing more than reimbursement for actual and reasonable expenses incurred for personal needs, such as meals, travel, lodging, and parking, while engaged in lobbying or for actual expenses incurred in informing the organization making the reimbursement or the members thereof of his lobbying.

24-6-302. Disclosure statements - required.

(2) Any person who makes expenditures for gifts or entertainment purposes for the benefit of covered officials in the aggregate amount of two hundred dollars in a state fiscal year shall file disclosure statements with the secretary of state in accordance with this section. Such disclosure statements shall not include actual and reasonable expenses incurred for personal needs, such as meals, travel, lodging, and parking.

(2.5) (a) A professional lobbyist and any firm organized for professional lobbying purposes that employs such lobbyist shall file disclosure statements in accordance with this section. Such a disclosure statement, in lieu of the contributions described in section 24-6-301 (1.9) (a) (I), (1.9) (a) (II), and (1.9) (a) (III), shall contain the gross income for lobbying since the prior month's disclosure statement and the name and address of any person from whom gross income for lobbying is received totaling one hundred dollars or more.

(b) No disclosure statement shall be required of a person who is described in a disclosure statement of a professional lobbyist pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2.5).

(c) Nothing in this subsection (2.5) shall be construed to require a professional lobbyist or a firm organized for professional lobbying purposes that is engaged in lobbying for a trade association, public interest group, or governmental organization to include in the disclosure statement of such lobbyist or firm any dues, assessments, or fees collected by such association, group, or organization for lobbying purposes.

(3) (a) A disclosure statement shall be filed within fifteen days after the end of the first calendar month in which any contribution or gross income for lobbying is received or any expenditure is made or incurred for lobbying and shall be filed within fifteen days after the end of each subsequent month during the fiscal year.

(b) A cumulative disclosure statement for the entire fiscal year shall be filed by a professional lobbyist or a firm organized for professional lobbying purposes on or before July 15 covering the fiscal year immediately preceding the date on which the cumulative disclosure statement is due. Such disclosure statement shall contain the name of and total gross income for lobbying received from each person for the previous fiscal year. If a firm organized for professional lobbying purposes subcontracts lobbying business to another such firm or professional lobbyist, or if a professional lobbyist subcontracts lobbying business to another such firm or lobbyist, only the firm or professional lobbyist that receives the business on a subcontract shall report the information required to be disclosed pursuant to this subsection (3). The firm or professional lobbyist that subcontracted the business to another firm or professional lobbyist shall describe in an addendum or supplement to the report required to be filed pursuant to the provisions of this subsection (3) the total gross income received from lobbying that is being contemporaneously reported by another firm or professional lobbyist.

(4) If a person adopts the statement set out in section 24-6-301 (1.9) (b) (II), he or she shall at the same time file a cumulative disclosure statement for the fiscal year to date and thereafter shall not have to file monthly disclosure statements unless he or she subsequently becomes required to do so by virtue of subsection (3) of this section.

(5) This section shall not apply to any political committee, volunteer lobbyist, citizen who lobbies on his or her own behalf, state official or employee acting in his or her official capacity, except as provided in section 24-6-303.5, or elected public official acting in his or her official capacity.

(6) (a) During the period that the general assembly is not in session, a professional lobbyist shall notify the secretary of state in writing within five working days after an oral or written agreement to engage in lobbying for any person not disclosed in the registration statement filed pursuant to section 24-6-303 (1). During the period that the general assembly is in session, a professional lobbyist shall notify the secretary of state after an agreement to engage in lobbying for any person not disclosed in the registration statement filed pursuant to section 24-6-303 (1), either by means of the electronic filing system created in section 24-6-303 (6.3) or by facsimile transmission in accordance with the following:

(I) In the case of a written agreement to engage the lobbyist, disclosure shall be made within twenty-four hours after the date of the agreement; and

(II) In the case of an oral agreement to engage the lobbyist, the disclosure shall be made within twenty-four hours after the date of a subsequent written agreement between the parties, the commencing of lobbying activities, or the date the lobbyist receives any payment on the agreement, whichever occurs first.

(b) A professional lobbyist who provides the notification under paragraph (a) of this subsection (6) shall file, concurrently with the next disclosure statement due after such notification, a signed written statement that contains:

(I) The name and address of the person described in such notification;

(II) A summary of the terms related to lobbying under the agreement between such person and the professional lobbyist.

(III) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2001, p. 147, § 1, effective July 1, 2001.)

(7) In addition to the criminal penalty provided for in section 24-6-309 (1), the secretary of state, after proper notification by certified mail, shall impose an additional penalty of twenty dollars per day for each business day that a disclosure statement required to be filed by this section is not filed by the close of the business day on the day due up to and including the first ten business days on which the disclosure statement has not been filed after the day due. For failure to file a disclosure statement required to be filed by this section by the close of the eleventh business day on which the disclosure statement has not been filed after the day due, in addition to the criminal penalty provided for in section 24-6-309 (1), the secretary of state shall impose an additional penalty of fifty dollars for each day thereafter that a disclosure statement required to be filed by this section is not filed by the close of the business day. The secretary of state may excuse the payment of any penalty imposed by this subsection (7), or reduce the amount of any penalty imposed, for bona fide personal emergencies. Revenues collected from penalties assessed by the secretary of state shall be deposited in the department of state cash fund created in section 24-21-104 (3).

Editor's note: Section 8 of chapter 63, Session Laws of Colorado 2001, amending subsections (3)(b), (6)(a), and (6)(b)(III) specifies that the only statements required to be filed by July 15, 2001, pursuant to the registration requirements contained in those subsections shall be the updated registration statement required by section 24-6-303 (1.5), as amended, and a cumulative disclosure statement as required by subsection (3)(b) of this section. Such statements shall cover the six-month period between January 1, 2001, and June 30, 2001. Thereafter, cumulative disclosure statements shall be filed that cover the entire state fiscal year.

24-6-303. Registration as professional lobbyist - filing of disclosure statements - certificate of registration - legislative declaration. (1) Any professional lobbyist, before engaging in lobbying, shall register with the secretary of state and file a written or electronic registration statement that shall contain:

- (a) His or her full legal name, business address, and business telephone number;
- (b) The name, address, and telephone number of any person by whom he or she is employed;
- (c) The name, address, and telephone number of any person for whom he or she will be lobbying; and
- (d) The name, address, and telephone number of any person by whom the professional lobbyist or firm organized for professional lobbying is paid or is to be paid for such lobbying.

(1.3) (a) At the time a professional lobbyist files a registration statement in accordance with subsection (1) of this section prior to engaging in lobbying, and each time such lobbyist files an updated registration statement in accordance with subsection (1.5) of this section, such individual shall pay a registration fee in an amount that shall be set by the secretary of state by rule promulgated in accordance with article 4 of this title and shall be set at a level that offsets the costs to the secretary of state of providing electronic access to information pursuant to section 24-6-304 (2), and in processing and maintaining the disclosure information required by this part 3. The secretary of state shall charge a reduced fee to a professional lobbyist that files his or her registration statement pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection (6.3) of this section. The secretary of state may waive the fee of a professional lobbyist for a not-for-profit organization who derives his or her compensation solely from the organization. A volunteer lobbyist shall be exempt from the requirement to pay the registration fee mandated by this paragraph (a).

(b) All fees collected pursuant to the provisions of this subsection (1.3) shall be credited to the department of state cash fund created in section 24-21-104 (3) (b).

(1.5) A professional lobbyist shall file an updated registration statement on or before July 15 of each year unless at that time he or she is no longer a professional lobbyist. Registration under this subsection (1.5) shall be effective until July 1 of the next year.

(2) A professional lobbyist shall file disclosure statements as required by section 24-6-302.

(3) Consistent with the requirements of subsection (6.3) of this section, a hard copy of all registration statements and disclosure statements of professional lobbyists and firms organized for lobbying purposes shall be compiled by the secretary of state within thirty days after the end of the calendar month for which such information is filed and shall be organized alphabetically according to the names of the lobbyists and firms.

(4) No individual shall act as a professional lobbyist unless he has received a certificate of registration as provided in section 24-6-305 (1).

(5) An individual shall not be considered a lobbyist solely because of his or her appearance as a witness in rule, standard, or rate-making proceedings.

(6) This section shall not apply to any political committee, volunteer lobbyist, citizen who lobbies on his or her own behalf, state official or employee acting in his or her official capacity, except as provided in section 24-6-303.5, or elected public official acting in his or her official capacity.

(6.3) (a) No later than January 1, 2002, the secretary of state shall establish, operate, and maintain a system that enables electronic filing of the reports required by this part 3 by utilizing the internet. Rules concerning the manner in which reports required by this part 3 may be filed electronically, including but not limited to the information to be contained in such reports, the procedure for amending such reports, and public access to the electronic filing system, shall be promulgated by the secretary of state in accordance with article 4 of this title.

(b) In addition to any other method of filing, any person subject to the filing requirements of this part 3 or his or her duly authorized agent may use the electronic filing system described in paragraph (a) of this subsection (6.3) in order to meet such filing requirements.

Editor's note: Section 8 of chapter 63, Session Laws of Colorado 2001, amending the introductory portion to subsection (1) and subsections (1)(d), (1.5), and (3), and enacting subsection (1.3), specifies that the only statements required to be filed by July 15, 2001, pursuant to the registration requirements contained in those subsections shall be the updated registration statement required by section 24-6-303 (1.5), as amended, and a cumulative disclosure statement as required by subsection (3)(b) of this section. Such statements shall cover the six-month period between January 1, 2001, and June 30, 2001. Thereafter, cumulative disclosure statements shall be filed that cover the entire state fiscal year.

24-6-303.5. Lobbying by state officials and employees. (1) (a) Each principal department of state government, as defined in section 24-1-110, shall designate one person who shall be responsible for any lobbying of the type defined in section 24-6-301 (3.5) (a) (I) or (3.5) (a) (III) by a state official or employee on behalf of said principal department. All designated persons from the principal departments, as well as any person lobbying, as defined in section 24-6-301 (3.5) (a) (I) or (3.5) (a) (III), on behalf of an institution or governing board of higher education, shall register with the secretary of state by filing a written statement on or before January 15 of each year. Such registration statement shall be on a form prescribed by the secretary of state and shall include the following:

(I) The designated person's full legal name, principal department address, and business telephone number;

(II) The name of any state official or employee who is lobbying on behalf of the principal department, the name of such person's division or unit within the principal department, his classification or job title, and the address and telephone number of his division or unit.

(b) Copies of the original documents filed with the secretary of state shall be filed with the governor's office, the secretary of the senate, and the chief clerk of the house of representatives.

(c) Any amendments to the original registration statement shall be filed with the secretary of state within seven days of the pertinent change.

(2) (a) In addition to the registration statement filed pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, the designated person, and any person lobbying on behalf of an institution or governing board of higher education, shall file, monthly, a disclosure statement with the secretary of state in accordance with this subsection (2). The secretary of state shall prescribe the form for such disclosure statement, which shall include:

(I) The legislation on which lobbying is being performed;

(II) Any expenditure of public funds used for lobbying and the amount thereof;

(III) An estimate of the time spent on lobbying or preparation thereof by any state official or employee named in the registration statement or any other employee of the principal department.

(b) Disclosure statements shall be filed within fifteen days after the end of the first calendar month and shall be filed within fifteen days after the end of each subsequent month during the fiscal year.

(3) For purposes of this section, "state official or employee" means an individual who is compensated by a state of Colorado warrant and receives state of Colorado employee benefits except a lobbyist hired on a contract basis if he is currently registered under sections 24-6-302 and 24-6-303 or a lobbyist who registers as a professional lobbyist pursuant to sections 24-6-302 and 24-6-303.

(4) This section shall not apply to the following persons:

(a) Members of the public utilities commission, the industrial claim appeals office, the state board of land commissioners, the office of the property tax administrator, the state parole board, and the state personnel board;

(b) Members of any board or commission serving without compensation except for per diem allowances provided by law and reimbursement of expenses;

(c) Members of the governor's cabinet and personal staff employees in the offices of the governor and the lieutenant governor whose functions are confined to such offices and who report directly to the governor or lieutenant governor;

(d) Appointees to fill vacancies in elective offices;

(e) One deputy of each elective officer other than the governor and lieutenant governor specified in section 1 of article IV of the state constitution;

(f) Members, officers, and employees of the legislative branch;

(g) Members, officers, and employees of the judicial branch; specifically, municipal, state, and federal judges and the state court administrator and his designee; and

(h) Any state official or employee communicating with a covered official in response to an inquiry of that covered official or when testifying before any committee of the general assembly upon request of a committee member.

(5) Any person who engages in lobbying for a principal department but who is not a state official or employee shall comply with the requirements of sections 24-6-302 and 24-6-303.

24-6-304. Records - preservation - public inspection - electronic access. (1) Each person required to file statements or reports under this part 3 shall maintain for a period of five years such records relating to such statements or reports as the secretary of state determines by regulation are necessary for the effective implementation of this part 3.

(2) (a) Any statement required by this part 3 to be filed with the secretary of state shall be preserved by the secretary of state for a period of five years after the date of filing, shall constitute part of the public records of that office, and shall be open and readily accessible for public inspection. The secretary of state shall implement a computer information system that will allow computer users to cross-reference and review, using the name of a professional lobbyist or any other person, any disclosure statement or other written statement filed pursuant to section 24-6-302 and registration statement filed pursuant to section 24-6-303 on which the name of such lobbyist or other person appears.

(b) No later than January 1, 2002, the secretary of state shall establish, operate, and maintain a web site on the internet, or modify an existing site, that will allow computer users electronic read-only access to the information required to be filed by this part 3 free of charge. All information required to be filed by this part 3 that is filed electronically shall be made available:

(I) On the web site within twenty-four hours after filing; and

(II) In a form that allows a computer user to cross-reference and review, using the name of a professional lobbyist or any other person, any disclosure statement or other written statement filed pursuant to section 24-6-302 and registration statement filed pursuant to section 24-6-303 on which the name of such lobbyist or other person appears.

24-6-304.5. Examination of books and records. (1) The secretary of state has the power to request to examine or cause to be examined the books and records of any individual who has received or is seeking to renew a certificate of registration as a lobbyist as such books and records may relate to lobbying.

(2) Failure of a registrant or an applicant for renewal of the certificate of registration to comply with a request from the secretary of state to furnish the information in subsection (1) of this section shall be grounds for the secretary of state to proceed to use his powers to revoke or suspend a certificate of registration or bar an individual from registration as provided in section 24-6-305.

24-6-305. Powers of the secretary of state - granting and revoking of certificates - barring from registration - imposition of penalties - notification of substantial violation. (1) It is the duty and responsibility of the secretary of state:

(a) To grant a certificate of registration as a lobbyist to any individual who registers under the provisions of this section and who supplies the information required in this part 3;

(b) To revoke the certificate of registration of any individual who has been convicted of violating any of the provisions of this part 3;

(c) and (d) Repealed.

(e) To revoke the certificate of registration of any individual whose lobbying privileges before the general assembly have been suspended following action on a written complaint against the person in accordance with the rules on lobbying practices promulgated by the general assembly.

(1.5) (a) In the case of misconduct by an individual culminating in the revocation of a certificate of registration in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (b) or (e) of subsection (1) of this section, the secretary of state shall additionally indicate the revocation of the individual's certificate of registration on the web site maintained by the secretary and shall send written notice of the revocation by United States mail to each principal for whom the individual lobbies as shown on the individual's registration statement filed pursuant to section 24-6-303 (1).

(b) In the case of misconduct by an individual culminating in a resolution of censure that has been adopted by the general assembly in accordance with its rules on lobbying practices, the secretary of state shall send a copy of the resolution by United States mail to each principal for whom the individual lobbies as shown on the individual's registration statement filed pursuant to section 24-6-303 (1).

(2) In addition to any other powers conferred by this section, the secretary of state may:

(a) Revoke, or suspend for a maximum period of one year, or bar from registration for a maximum period of one year or the remainder of the legislative biennium, whichever is longer, the certificate of registration required by section 24-6-303 for failure to file the reports required by section 24-6-303, provide the information required by section 24-6-304.5, or pay fully any penalty imposed pursuant to section 24-6-302 (7); but no certificate may be revoked or suspended within thirty days after the failure to file such a report if, prior to the last day for filing such reports, the secretary of state has been informed in writing of extenuating circumstances justifying such failure. Any revocation or suspension of a certificate of registration or bar from registration shall be in accordance with the provisions of article 4 of this title.

(b) Adopt rules and regulations in accordance with the provisions of article 4 of this title to define, interpret, implement, and enforce the provisions of this part 3 and to prevent the evasion of the requirements of this part 3;

(c) On his or her own motion or on the verified complaint of any person, investigate the activities of any person who is or who has allegedly been engaged in lobbying and who may be in violation of the requirements of this part 3;

(d) Apply to the district court of the city and county of Denver for the issuance of an order requiring any individual who is believed by the secretary of state to be engaging in lobbying as a professional lobbyist as defined in section 24-6-301 without having received a certificate of registration as required by the provisions of section 24-6-303 to produce documentary evidence which is relevant or material or to give testimony which is relevant or material to the matter in question.

(3) If the secretary of state has reasonable grounds to believe that any person is in violation of section 24-6-302 or 24-6-303, the secretary of state may, after notice has been given and a hearing held in accordance with the provisions of article 4 of this title, issue a cease-and-desist order. Such order shall set forth the provisions of this part 3 found to be violated and the facts found to be the violation. Any person subject to a cease-and-desist order shall be entitled, upon request, to judicial review in accordance with the provisions of article 4 of this title.

(4) The secretary of state shall timely inform the president of the state senate and the speaker of the state house of representatives whenever the secretary of state has reasonable grounds to believe that a violation of section 24-6-302 or 24-6-303 has occurred that the secretary of state deems substantial.

24-6-308. Prohibited practices. (1) No person engaged in lobbying shall:

(a) Make any agreement under which any consideration is to be given, transferred, or paid to any person contingent upon the passage or defeat of any legislation; the making or defeat of any rule, standard, or rate by any state agency; or the approval or veto of any legislation by the governor of this state;

(b) Knowingly attempt to deceive, or make a false statement to, a covered official regarding any material fact relating to a matter that is within the scope of duties of the covered official;

(c) Conceal from a covered official the identity of the person or entity for whom the lobbyist is lobbying;

(d) Knowingly use a fictitious name, or a real name without the consent of the person whose name is used, to communicate with a covered official;

(e) Knowingly represent an interest adverse to the lobbyist's principal without first obtaining the consent of the principal after full disclosure by the lobbyist of the adverse interest;

(f) Make any form of payment to a covered official as compensation for any interest in real or personal property or the provision of services in excess of the amount of compensation that would be paid by a person who is not a lobbyist for such interest or services in the ordinary course of business;

(g) Make a loan to a covered official or engage in any other transaction with a covered official with the intention of making the covered official personally obligated to the lobbyist;

(h) Attempt to influence the vote of a covered official in connection with any pending matter by threat of a political reprisal, including without limitation the promise of financial support of, or opposition to, the covered official's candidacy at any future election;

(i) Seek to influence a covered official by communicating with the covered official's employer;

(j) Cause to be introduced, or influence the introduction of, any bill, resolution, amendment, standard, rule, or rate for the purpose of afterwards being employed to secure its passage or defeat;

(k) Receive compensation for lobbying while serving as a state officer or employee of the state central committee of a political party;

(l) Make a campaign contribution in excess of the applicable limitations established by law or rule or make, solicit, or promise to solicit a campaign contribution during the period when lobbyists are prohibited from making such contributions under section 1-45-105.5, C.R.S.;

(m) Employ, subcontract, or pay compensation to a person for lobbying who has not registered as a lobbyist; or

(n) Engage in any other practice that discredits the practice of lobbying or the general assembly.

(2) Any person who believes that a lobbyist has committed any act or omission in violation of this section may file a complaint with the secretary of state or any member of the executive committee of the general assembly in accordance with the procedures for filing a complaint against a lobbyist under the joint rules of the senate and the house of representatives. Upon receipt of a complaint, the secretary of state may act upon alleged violations of this section to enforce governing laws or rules or may refer the matter to the executive committee of the general assembly.

24-6-309. Offenses - penalties - injunctions. (1) Any person who violates any of the provisions of this part 3, willfully files any document provided for in this part 3 that contains any materially false statement or material omission, or willfully fails to comply with any material requirement of this part 3 is guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not more than five thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than twelve months, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

(2) Whenever it appears that any person has engaged or is about to engage in any act or practice constituting a violation of any provision of this part 3 or any rule or order under this part 3, the secretary of state may bring an action in district court to enjoin the acts or practices and to enforce compliance with this part 3 or any rule or order under this part 3.

OPEN MEETINGS LAW

24-6-401. Declaration of policy. It is declared to be a matter of statewide concern and the policy of this state that the formation of public policy is public business and may not be conducted in secret.

Source: Initiated 72. L. 73: p. 1666, § 1. C.R.S. 1963: § 3-37-401. L. 91: Entire section amended, p. 815, § 1, effective June 1.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Home Rule Municipalities and Colorado's Open Records and Meetings Laws", see 18 Colo. Law. 1125 (1989).

Open meetings law is a general law. Associated Students of Univ. of Colo. v. Regents of Univ. of Colo., 189 Colo. 482, 543 P.2d 59 (1975).

Such legislation does not generally repeal conflicting special statutory or constitutional provisions unless the intent to do so is clear and unmistakable. Associated Students of Univ. of Colo. v. Regents of Univ. of Colo., 189 Colo. 482, 543 P.2d 59 (1975).

Such as that concerning attorney-client communications. The open meetings law cannot and does not repeal by implication the statutory provision concerning the attorney-client evidentiary privilege, § 13-90-107 (1)(b). Thus, executive sessions of a university board of regents involving "attorney-client communications" are permitted. Associated Students of Univ. of Colo. v. Regents of Univ. of Colo., 189 Colo. 482, 543 P.2d 59 (1975).

The intent of the Open Meetings Law is to afford public access to a broad range of meetings at which public business is considered. Benson v. McCormick, 195 Colo. 381, 578 P.2d 651 (1978); Van Alstyne v. Hous. Auth. of City of Pueblo, 985 P.2d 97 (Colo. App. 1999); Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Costilla County Conservancy Dist., 88 P.3d 1188 (Colo. 2004).

The public meetings laws are interpreted broadly to further the legislative intent that citizens be given a greater opportunity to become fully informed on issues of public importance so that meaningful participation in the decision-making process may be achieved. Cole v. State, 673 P.2d 345 (Colo. 1983).

24-6-402. Meetings - open to public - definitions. (1) For the purposes of this section:

(a) "Local public body" means any board, committee, commission, authority, or other advisory, policy-making, rule-making, or formally constituted body of any political subdivision of the state and any public or private entity to which a political subdivision, or an official thereof, has delegated a governmental decision-making function but does not include persons on the administrative staff of the local public body.

(b) "Meeting" means any kind of gathering, convened to discuss public business, in person, by telephone, electronically, or by other means of communication.

(c) "Political subdivision of the state" includes, but is not limited to, any county, city, city and county, town, home rule city, home rule county, home rule city and county, school district, special district, local improvement district, special improvement district, or service district.

(d) "State public body" means any board, committee, commission, or other advisory, policy-making, rule-making, decision-making, or formally constituted body of any state agency, state authority, governing board of a state institution of higher education including the regents of the university of Colorado, a nonprofit corporation incorporated pursuant to section 23-5-121 (2), C.R.S., or the general assembly, and any public or private entity to which the state, or an official thereof, has delegated a governmental decision-making function but does not include persons on the administrative staff of the state public body.

(2) (a) All meetings of two or more members of any state public body at which any public business is discussed or at which any formal action may be taken are declared to be public meetings open to the public at all times.

(b) All meetings of a quorum or three or more members of any local public body, whichever is fewer, at which any public business is discussed or at which any formal action may be taken are declared to be public meetings open to the public at all times.

(c) Any meetings at which the adoption of any proposed policy, position, resolution, rule, regulation, or formal action occurs or at which a majority or quorum of the body is in attendance, or is expected to be in attendance, shall be held only after full and timely notice to the public. In addition to any other means of full and timely notice, a local public body shall be deemed to have given full and timely notice if the notice of the meeting is posted in a designated public place within the boundaries of the local public body no less than twenty-four hours prior to the holding of the meeting. The public place or places for posting such notice shall be designated annually at the local public body's first regular meeting of each calendar year. The posting shall include specific agenda information where possible.

(d) (I) Minutes of any meeting of a state public body shall be taken and promptly recorded, and such records shall be open to public inspection. The minutes of a meeting during which an executive session authorized under subsection (3) of this section is held shall reflect the topic of the discussion at the executive session.

(II) Minutes of any meeting of a local public body at which the adoption of any proposed policy, position, resolution, rule, regulation, or formal action occurs or could occur shall be taken and promptly recorded, and such records shall be open to public inspection. The minutes of a meeting during which an executive session authorized under subsection (4) of this section is held shall reflect the topic of the discussion at the executive session.

(III) If elected officials use electronic mail to discuss pending legislation or other public business among themselves, the electronic mail shall be subject to the requirements of this section. Electronic mail communication among elected officials that does not relate to pending legislation or other public business shall not be considered a "meeting" within the meaning of this section.

(IV) Neither a state nor a local public body may adopt any proposed policy, position, resolution, rule, or regulation or take formal action by secret ballot unless otherwise authorized in accordance with the provisions of this subparagraph (IV). Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, a vote to elect leadership of a state or local public body by that same public body may be taken by secret ballot, and a secret ballot may be used in connection with the election by a state or local public body of members of a search committee, which committee is otherwise subject to the requirements of this section, but the outcome of the vote shall be recorded contemporaneously in the minutes of the body in accordance with the requirements of this section. Nothing in this subparagraph (IV) shall be construed to affect the authority of a board of education to use a secret ballot in accordance with the requirements of section 22-32-108 (6), C.R.S. For purposes of this subparagraph (IV), "secret ballot" means a vote cast in such a way that the identity of the person voting or the position taken in such vote is withheld from the public.

(d.5) (I) (A) Discussions that occur in an executive session of a state public body shall be electronically recorded. If a state public body electronically recorded the minutes of its open meetings on or after August 8, 2001, the state public body shall continue to electronically record the minutes of its open meetings that occur on or after August 8, 2001; except that electronic recording shall not be required for two successive meetings of the state public body while the regularly used electronic equipment is inoperable. A state public body may satisfy the electronic recording requirements of this sub-subparagraph (A) by making any form of electronic recording of the discussions in an executive session of the state public body. Except as provided in sub-subparagraph (B) of this subparagraph (I), the electronic recording of an executive session shall reflect the specific citation to the provision in subsection (3) of this section that authorizes the state public body to meet in an executive session and the actual contents of the discussion during the session. The provisions of this sub-subparagraph (A) shall not apply to discussions of individual students by a state public body pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection (3) of this section.

(B) If, in the opinion of the attorney who is representing a governing board of a state institution of higher education, including the regents of the university of Colorado, and is in attendance at an executive session that has been properly announced pursuant to paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of this section, all or a portion of the discussion during the executive session constitutes a privileged attorney-client communication, no record or electronic recording shall be required to be kept of the part of the discussion that constitutes a privileged attorney-client communication. The electronic recording of said executive session discussion shall reflect that no further record or electronic recording was kept of the discussion based on the opinion of the attorney representing the governing board of a state institution of higher education, including the regents of the university of Colorado, as stated for the record during the executive session, that the discussion constituted a privileged attorney-client communication, or the attorney representing the governing board of a state institution of higher education, including the regents of the university of Colorado, may provide a signed statement attesting that the portion of the executive session that was not recorded constituted a privileged attorney-client communication in the opinion of the attorney.

(C) If a court finds, upon application of a person seeking access to the record of the executive session of a state public body in accordance with section 24-72-204 (5.5) and after an in camera review of the record of the executive session, that the state public body engaged in substantial discussion of any matters not enumerated in subsection (3) of this section or that the body adopted a proposed policy, position, resolution, rule, regulation, or formal action in the executive session in contravention of paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of this section, the portion of the record of the executive session that reflects the substantial discussion of matters not enumerated in subsection (3) of this section or the adoption of a proposed policy, position, resolution, rule, regulation, or formal action shall be open to public inspection pursuant to section 24-72-204 (5.5).

(D) No portion of the record of an executive session of a state public body shall be open for public inspection or subject to discovery in any administrative or judicial proceeding, except upon the consent of the state public body or as provided in sub-subparagraph (C) of this subparagraph (I) and section 24-72-204 (5.5).

(E) The record of an executive session of a state public body recorded pursuant to sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (I) shall be retained for at least ninety days after the date of the executive session.

(II) (A) Discussions that occur in an executive session of a local public body shall be electronically recorded. If a local public body electronically recorded the minutes of its open meetings on or after August 8, 2001, the local public body shall continue to electronically record the minutes of its open meetings that occur on or after August 8, 2001; except that electronic recording shall not be required for two successive meetings of the local public body while the regularly used electronic equipment is inoperable. A local public body may satisfy the electronic recording requirements of this sub-subparagraph (A) by making any form of electronic recording of the discussions in an executive session of the local public body. Except as provided in sub-subparagraph (B) of this subparagraph (II), the electronic recording of an executive session shall reflect the specific citation to the provision in subsection (4) of this section that authorizes the local public body to meet in an executive session and the actual contents of the discussion during the session. The provisions of this sub-subparagraph (A) shall not apply to discussions of individual students by a local public body pursuant to paragraph (h) of subsection (4) of this section.

(B) If, in the opinion of the attorney who is representing the local public body and who is in attendance at an executive session that has been properly announced pursuant to subsection (4) of this section, all or a portion of the discussion during the executive session constitutes a privileged attorney-client communication, no record or electronic recording shall be required to be kept of the part of the discussion that constitutes a privileged attorney-client communication. The electronic recording of said executive session discussion shall reflect that no further record or electronic recording was kept of the discussion based on the opinion of the attorney representing the local public body, as stated for the record during the executive session, that the discussion constituted a privileged attorney-client communication, or the attorney representing the local public body may provide a signed statement attesting that the portion of the executive session that was not recorded constituted a privileged attorney-client communication in the opinion of the attorney.

(C) If a court finds, upon application of a person seeking access to the record of the executive session of a local public body in accordance with section 24-72-204 (5.5) and after an in camera review of the record of the executive session, that the local public body engaged in substantial discussion of any matters not enumerated in subsection (4) of this section or that the body adopted a proposed policy, position, resolution, rule, regulation, or formal action in the executive session in contravention of subsection (4) of this section, the portion of the record of the executive session that reflects the substantial discussion of matters not enumerated in subsection (4) of this section or the adoption of a proposed policy, position, resolution, rule, regulation, or formal action shall be open to public inspection pursuant to section 24-72-204 (5.5).

(D) No portion of the record of an executive session of a local public body shall be open for public inspection or subject to discovery in any administrative or judicial proceeding, except upon the consent of the local public body or as provided in sub-subparagraph (C) of this subparagraph (II) and section 24-72-204 (5.5).

(E) The record of an executive session of a local public body recorded pursuant to sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (II) shall be retained for at least ninety days after the date of the executive session.

(e) This part 4 does not apply to any chance meeting or social gathering at which discussion of public business is not the central purpose.

(f) The provisions of paragraph (c) of this subsection (2) shall not be construed to apply to the day-to-day oversight of property or supervision of employees by county commissioners. Except as set forth in this paragraph (f), the provisions of this paragraph (f) shall not be interpreted to alter any requirements of paragraph (c) of this subsection (2).

(3) (a) The members of a state public body subject to this part 4, upon the announcement by the state public body to the public of the topic for discussion in the executive session, including specific citation to the provision of this subsection (3) authorizing the body to meet in an executive session and identification of the particular matter to be discussed in as much detail as possible without compromising the purpose for which the executive session is authorized, and the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the entire membership of the body after such announcement, may hold an executive session only at a regular or special meeting and for the sole purpose of considering any of the matters enumerated in paragraph (b) of this subsection (3) or the following matters; except that no adoption of any proposed policy, position, resolution, rule, regulation, or formal action, except the review, approval, and amendment of the minutes of an executive session recorded pursuant to subparagraph (I) of paragraph (d.5) of subsection (2) of this section, shall occur at any executive session that is not open to the public:

(I) The purchase of property for public purposes, or the sale of property at competitive bidding, if premature disclosure of information would give an unfair competitive or bargaining advantage to a person whose personal, private interest is adverse to the general public interest. No member of the state public body shall use this paragraph (a) as a subterfuge for providing covert information to prospective buyers or sellers. Governing boards of state institutions of higher education including the regents of the university of Colorado may also consider the acquisition of property as a gift in an executive session, only if such executive session is requested by the donor.

(II) Conferences with an attorney representing the state public body concerning disputes involving the public body that are the subject of pending or imminent court action, concerning specific claims or grievances, or for purposes of receiving legal advice on specific legal questions. Mere presence or participation of an attorney at an executive session of a state public body is not sufficient to satisfy the requirements of this subsection (3).

(III) Matters required to be kept confidential by federal law or rules, state statutes, or in accordance with the requirements of any joint rule of the senate and the house of representatives pertaining to lobbying practices;

(IV) Specialized details of security arrangements or investigations, including defenses against terrorism, both domestic and foreign, and including where disclosure of the matters discussed might reveal information that could be used for the purpose of committing, or avoiding prosecution for, a violation of the law;

(V) Determining positions relative to matters that may be subject to negotiations with employees or employee organizations; developing strategy for and receiving reports on the progress of such negotiations; and instructing negotiators;

(VI) With respect to the board of regents of the university of Colorado and the board of directors of the university of Colorado hospital authority created pursuant to article 21 of title 23, C.R.S., matters concerning the modification, initiation, or cessation of patient care programs at the university hospital operated by the university of Colorado hospital authority pursuant to part 5 of article 21 of title 23, C.R.S., (including the university of Colorado psychiatric hospital), and receiving reports with regard to any of the above, if premature disclosure of information would give an unfair competitive or bargaining advantage to any person or entity;

(VII) With respect to nonprofit corporations incorporated pursuant to section 23-5-121 (2), C.R.S., matters concerning trade secrets, privileged information, and confidential commercial, financial, geological, or geophysical data furnished by or obtained from any person;

(VIII) With respect to the governing board of a state institution of higher education and any committee thereof, consideration of nominations for the awarding of honorary degrees, medals, and other honorary awards by the institution and consideration of proposals for the naming of a building or a portion of a building for a person or persons.

(b) (I) All meetings held by members of a state public body subject to this part 4 to consider the appointment or employment of a public official or employee or the dismissal, discipline, promotion, demotion, or compensation of, or the investigation of charges or complaints against, a public official or employee shall be open to the public unless said applicant, official, or employee requests an executive session. Governing boards of institutions of higher education including the regents of the university of Colorado may, upon their own affirmative vote, hold executive sessions to consider the matters listed in this paragraph (b). Executive sessions may be held to review administrative actions regarding investigation of charges or complaints and attendant investigative reports against students where public disclosure could adversely affect the person or persons involved, unless the students have specifically consented to or requested the disclosure of such matters. An executive session may be held only at a regular or special meeting of the state public body and only upon the announcement by the public body to the public of the topic for discussion in the executive session and the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the entire membership of the body after such announcement.

(II) The provisions of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (b) shall not apply to discussions concerning any member of the state public body, any elected official, or the appointment of a person to fill the office of a member of the state public body or an elected official or to discussions of personnel policies that do not require the discussion of matters personal to particular employees.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection (3), the state board of parole created in part 2 of article 2 of title 17, C.R.S., may proceed in executive session to consider matters connected with any parole proceedings under the jurisdiction of said board; except that no final parole decisions shall be made by said board while in executive session. Such executive session may be held only at a regular or special meeting of the state board of parole and only upon the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the membership of the board present at such meeting.

(d) Notwithstanding any provision of paragraph (a) or (b) of this subsection (3) to the contrary, upon the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the members of the governing board of an institution of higher education who are authorized to vote, the governing board may hold an executive session in accordance with the provisions of this subsection (3).

(3.5) A search committee of a state public body or local public body shall establish job search goals, including the writing of the job description, deadlines for applications, requirements for applicants, selection procedures, and the time frame for appointing or employing a chief executive officer of an agency, authority, institution, or other entity at an open meeting. The state or local public body shall make public the list of all finalists under consideration for the position of chief executive officer no later than fourteen days prior to appointing or employing one of the finalists to fill the position. No offer of appointment or employment shall be made prior to this public notice. Records submitted by or on behalf of a finalist for such position shall be subject to the provisions of section 24-72-204 (3) (a) (XI). As used in this subsection (3.5), "finalist" shall have the same meaning as in section 24-72-204 (3) (a) (XI). Nothing in this subsection (3.5) shall be construed to prohibit a search committee from holding an executive session to consider appointment or employment matters not described in this subsection (3.5) and otherwise authorized by this section.

(4) The members of a local public body subject to this part 4, upon the announcement by the local public body to the public of the topic for discussion in the executive session, including specific citation to the provision of this subsection (4) authorizing the body to meet in an executive session and identification of the particular matter to be discussed in as much detail as possible without compromising the purpose for which the executive session is authorized, and the affirmative vote of two-thirds of the quorum present, after such announcement, may hold an executive session only at a regular or special meeting and for the sole purpose of considering any of the following matters; except that no adoption of any proposed policy, position, resolution, rule, regulation, or formal action, except the review, approval, and amendment of the minutes of an executive session recorded pursuant to subparagraph (II) of paragraph (d.5) of subsection (2) of this section, shall occur at any executive session that is not open to the public:

(a) The purchase, acquisition, lease, transfer, or sale of any real, personal, or other property interest; except that no executive session shall be held for the purpose of concealing the fact that a member of the local public body has a personal interest in such purchase, acquisition, lease, transfer, or sale;

(b) Conferences with an attorney for the local public body for the purposes of receiving legal advice on specific legal questions. Mere presence or participation of an attorney at an executive session of the local public body is not sufficient to satisfy the requirements of this subsection (4).

(c) Matters required to be kept confidential by federal or state law or rules and regulations. The local public body shall announce the specific citation of the statutes or rules that are the basis for such confidentiality before holding the executive session.

(d) Specialized details of security arrangements or investigations, including defenses against terrorism, both domestic and foreign, and including where disclosure of the matters discussed might reveal information that could be used for the purpose of committing, or avoiding prosecution for, a violation of the law;

(e) Determining positions relative to matters that may be subject to negotiations; developing strategy for negotiations; and instructing negotiators;

(f) (I) Personnel matters except if the employee who is the subject of the session has requested an open meeting, or if the personnel matter involves more than one employee, all of the employees have requested an open meeting. With respect to hearings held pursuant to the "Teacher Employment, Compensation, and Dismissal Act of 1990", article 63 of title 22, C.R.S., the provisions of section 22-63-302 (7) (a), C.R.S., shall govern in lieu of the provisions of this subsection (4).

(II) The provisions of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (f) shall not apply to discussions concerning any member of the local public body, any elected official, or the appointment of a person to fill the office of a member of the local public body or an elected official or to discussions of personnel policies that do not require the discussion of matters personal to particular employees.

(g) Consideration of any documents protected by the mandatory nondisclosure provisions of the "Colorado Open Records Act", part 2 of article 72 of this title; except that all consideration of documents or records that are work product as defined in section 24-72-202 (6.5) or that are subject to the governmental or deliberative process privilege shall occur in a public meeting unless an executive session is otherwise allowed pursuant to this subsection (4);

(h) Discussion of individual students where public disclosure would adversely affect the person or persons involved.

(6) The limitations imposed by subsections (3), (4), and (5) of this section do not apply to matters which are covered by section 14 of article V of the state constitution.

(7) The secretary or clerk of each state public body or local public body shall maintain a list of persons who, within the previous two years, have requested notification of all meetings or of meetings when certain specified policies will be discussed and shall provide reasonable advance notification of such meetings, provided, however, that unintentional failure to provide such advance notice will not nullify actions taken at an otherwise properly published meeting. The provisions of this subsection (7) shall not apply to the day-to-day oversight of property or supervision of employees by county commissioners, as provided in paragraph (f) of subsection (2) of this section.

(8) No resolution, rule, regulation, ordinance, or formal action of a state or local public body shall be valid unless taken or made at a meeting that meets the requirements of subsection (2) of this section.

(9) The courts of record of this state shall have jurisdiction to issue injunctions to enforce the purposes of this section upon application by any citizen of this state. In any action in which the court finds a violation of this section, the court shall award the citizen prevailing in such action costs and reasonable attorney fees. In the event the court does not find a violation of this section, it shall award costs and reasonable attorney fees to the prevailing party if the court finds that the action was frivolous, vexatious, or groundless.

(10) Any provision of this section declared to be unconstitutional or otherwise invalid shall not impair the remaining provisions of this section, and, to this end, the provisions of this section are declared to be severable.

Editor's note: Subsection (2.3)(f) was amended by House Bill No. 1143, enacted by the General Assembly at its first regular session in 1989, as a conforming amendment necessitated by the authorization for the operation of the university of Colorado university hospital by a nonprofit-nonstock corporation. The Colorado Supreme Court subsequently declared House Bill No. 1143 unconstitutional in its entirety. See Colorado Association of Public Employees v. Board of Regents, 804 P.2d 138 (Colo. 1990). Senate Bill 91-225, enacted by the General Assembly at its first regular session in 1991, authorized the operation of university hospital by a newly created university of Colorado hospital authority. Since the previous act was declared unconstitutional in its entirety, the General Assembly elected to make a similar conforming amendment in Senate Bill 91-225. However, subsection (2.3)(f) was amended in Senate Bill 91-33, enacted by the General Assembly at its first regular session in 1991. The provisions of said subsection (2.3)(f) were moved to subsection (3)(a), and, therefore, said subsection was the version amended. For further explanation of the circumstances surrounding the enactment of Senate Bill 91-225, see the legislative declaration contained in section 1 of chapter 99, Session Laws of Colorado 1991.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Home Rule Municipalities and Colorado's Open Records and Meetings Laws", see 18 Colo. Law. 1125 (1989). For article, "Practicing Law Before Part-Time Citizen Boards and Commissions", see 18 Colo. Law. 1133 (1989). For article, "E-mail, Open Meetings, and Public Records", see 25 Colo. Law. 99 (October 1996).

Constitutionality of section. The open meetings law does not conflict with § 12 of art. V, Colo. Const., which provides in pertinent part: "Each house shall have power to determine the rules of its proceedings ...". Cole v. State, 673 P.2d 345 (Colo. 1983).

The open meetings law strikes the proper balance between the public's right of access to information and a legislator's right to freedom of speech. Cole v. State, 673 P.2d 345 (Colo. 1983).

Although § 14 of art. V, Colo. Const., expressly authorizes the general assembly to conduct certain business in secret, both the senate and the house of representatives have determined that the business of legislative caucuses is not such as ought to be kept secret. Therefore, the open meetings law does not conflict with § 14 of art. V, Colo. Const. Cole v. State, 673 P.2d 345 (Colo. 1983).

Section only applies to state agencies, authorities, and the general assembly. Bagby v.

Sch. Dist. No. 1, 186 Colo. 428, 528 P.2d 1299 (1974).

This section, in contrast to the Florida statute from which it was modeled, only applies to any state agency or authority. James v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 200 Colo. 28, 611 P.2d 976 (1980).

A broad construction of this section is unwarranted because the general assembly was very specific in defining the entities whose meetings were to be open to the public. Free Speech Def. Comm. v. Thomas, 80 P.3d 935 (Colo. App. 2003).

Section fails to define scope of term "state agency or authority". James v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 200 Colo. 28, 611 P.2d 976 (1980).

A county retirement plan operates as an agency or instrumentality of the county when the plan has availed itself of public entity tax and health benefits, has used county purchasing accounts, facilities, and the county seal, is authorized to levy a retirement tax, and has a budget that is factored into the county budget. Such plan is thereby subject to the open meetings law and the open records law. Zubeck v. El Paso County Retirement Plan, 961 P.2d 597 (Colo. App. 1998).

"Formal action" includes review of hearing officer's decision resulting in order representing final agency action on a particular issue. The quasi-judicial nature of such review is im-material. Lanes v. State Auditor's Office, 797 P.2d 764 (Colo. App. 1990).

Teacher hiring and firing decisions are formal decisions, and, therefore, a firing decision by a school board that is made during an executive session as described in § 22-32-108 is invalid. Barbour v. Hanover Sch. Dist. No. 28, 148 P.3d 268 (Colo. App. 2006), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 171 P.3d 223 (Colo. 2007).

Legislative caucus meetings are "meetings" of policy making bodies within the meaning of the Colorado open meetings law and are therefore subject to the open meetings law's requirement that "meetings" be "public meetings open to the public at all times". Cole v. State, 673 P.2d 345 (Colo. 1983).

A local public body is required to give public notice of any meeting attended or expected to be attended by a quorum of the public body when the meeting is part of the policy-making process. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Costilla County Conservancy Dist., 88 P.3d 1188 (Colo. 2004).

A meeting is part of the policy-making process when the meeting is held for the purpose of discussing or undertaking a rule, regulation, ordinance, or formal action. If the record supports the conclusion that the meeting is rationally connected to the policy-making responsibilities of the public body holding or attending the meeting, then the meeting is subject to the Open Meetings Law, and the public body holding or attending the meeting must provide notice. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Costilla County Conservancy Dist., 88 P.3d 1188 (Colo. 2004).

Board of county commissioners was not required to give notice of a meeting arranged by others because nothing in the record establishes any connection between the meeting and the policy-making function of the board. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Costilla County Conservancy Dist., 88 P.3d 1188 (Colo. 2004).

Mere legislative formation of agency or authority insufficient. The mere enactment of legislation which permits the formation of a commission, board, agency, or authority does not per se make that body a state agency or authority. James v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 200 Colo. 28, 611 P.2d 976 (1980).

Section does not apply to political subdivisions. Bagby v. Sch. Dist. No. 1, 186 Colo. 428, 528 P.2d 1299 (1974); James v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 42 Colo. App. 27, 595 P.2d 262 (1978), aff'd, 200 Colo. 28, 611 P.2d 976 (1980).

Local legislative authority of city was an arm of a political subdivision of the state rather than a state agency and thus was not subject to open meetings law with regard to license suspension revocation proceeding. Lasterka Corp. v. Buckingham, 739 P.2d 925 (Colo. App. 1987).

Nor to urban renewal authority. Rather than being a state agency or authority, an urban renewal authority is an arm or agency of the municipality which creates it, and, therefore, this section has no applicability to such an authority. James v. Bd. of Comm'rs, 42 Colo. App. 27, 595 P.2d 262 (1978), aff'd, 200 Colo. 28, 611 P.2d 976 (1980).

Nor to redistricting negotiations held in courthouse under judge's supervision. Combined Communications Corp. v. Finesilver, 672 F.2d 818 (10th Cir. 1982).

Nor to a district attorney's advisory board. A district attorney is not a political subdivision under this section and, therefore, his advisory board is not a local public body. A district attorney is also not a state agency or state authority pursuant to the definition of state public body under this section, therefore, his advisory board is not a state public body. Free Speech Def. Comm. v. Thomas, 80 P.3d 935 (Colo. App. 2003).

Prohibition against making final policy decisions or taking formal action in a closed meeting also prohibits "rubber-stamping" previously decided issues. Bagby v. Sch. Dist. No. 1, 186 Colo. 428, 528 P.2d 1299 (1974); Van Alstyne v. Housing Auth. of City of Pueblo, 985 P.2d 97 (Colo. App. 1999); Walsenburg Sand & Gravel Co. v. City Council of Walsenburg, 160 P.3d 297 (Colo. App. 2007).

School boards not covered since they are political subdivisions. Bagby v. Sch. Dist. No. 1, 186 Colo. 428, 528 P.2d 1299 (1974).

Section establishes flexible standard of notice. In view of the numerous meetings to which the statutory requirement of full and timely notice is applicable, this section establishes a flexible standard aimed at providing fair notice to the public, so that whether the notice requirement has been satisfied in a given case will depend upon the particular type of meeting involved. Benson v. McCormick, 195 Colo. 381, 578 P.2d 651 (1978); Lewis v. Town of Nederland, 934 P.2d 848 (Colo. App. 1996); Town of Marble v. Darien, 181 P.3d 1148 (Colo. 2008).

Publication of notice of meeting of local public body in newspaper of general circulation in the county in which the meeting is to be held, six days prior to the meeting, satisfies notice requirements of section. Van Alstyne v. Housing Auth. of City of Pueblo, 985 P.2d 97 (Colo. App. 1999).

An emergency necessarily presents a situation in which public notice, and likewise, a public forum would be impracticable or impossible. Lewis v. Town of Nederland, 934 P.2d 848 (Colo. App. 1996).

Procedures contained in a municipal ordinance requiring ratification of action taken at an emergency meeting at either the next board meeting or a special meeting where public notice of the emergency has been given, represent reasonable satisfaction of the "public" conditions of the Open Meetings Law under emergency circumstances. Lewis v. Town of Nederland, 934 P.2d 848 (Colo. App. 1996).

Some overt action must be taken by the board to give notice to the public that a meeting is to be held. At the very minimum, full and timely notice to the public requires that notice of the meeting be posted within a reasonable time prior to the meeting in an area which is open to public view. Hyde v. Banking Bd., 38 Colo. App. 41, 552 P.2d 32 (1976).

The mailing of notice to the persons on the "sunshine list" does not constitute full and timely notice to the public. Hyde v. Banking Bd., 38 Colo. App. 41, 552 P.2d 32 (1976).

Though a copy of the notice mailed to persons on the "sunshine list" is available for public inspection upon request, such a procedure does not constitute sufficient notice to the public under this section. Hyde v. Banking Bd., 38 Colo. App. 41, 552 P.2d 32 (1976).

Full notice requirement satisfied. An ordinary member of the community would understand that notice of an advisory committee update would include consideration of, and possible formal action on, the advisory committee's recommendations. Town of Marble v. Darien, 181 P.3d 1148 (Colo. 2008).

Section does not require a public body to adjourn and re-notify when the action already falls under a topic listed on the notice. The particular notice contained the agenda information available at the time of the notice and, thus, satisfied the requirement that "specific agenda information" be included "where possible". Town of Marble v. Darien, 181 P.3d 1148 (Colo. 2008).

Compliance with subsection (3) is not substitute for compliance with subsection (2). Hyde v. Banking Bd., 38 Colo. App. 41, 552 P.2d 32 (1976).

Action taken without full and timely notice is invalid. This section does not invalidate the formal action of a board for the failure to comply with notice to those persons on the "sunshine list", but it does invalidate an action taken where there is not full and timely notice to the public. Hyde v. Banking Bd., 38 Colo. App. 41, 552 P.2d 32 (1976).

City council's use of anonymous ballot procedure to fill city council vacancies and to appoint municipal judge is not prohibited by section. Section does not impose specific voting procedures on local public bodies let alone one that prohibits the use of anonymous ballots. Section is silent as to whether the votes taken need to be recorded in a way that identifies which elected official voted for which candidate. Rather, section only requires that the public have access to meetings of local public bodies and be able to observe the decision-making process. Henderson v. City of Fort Morgan, __ P.3d __ (Colo. App. 2011).

Subsection (4) invalidates any formal action regarding compensation taken other than at an open meeting, absent prior request by the person affected for an executive session. Lanes v. State Auditor's Office, 797 P.2d 764 (Colo. App. 1990).

District court erred in permitting the redaction of the minutes of a county retirement plan's meetings that were not conducted in an executive session because the plan did not follow the statutory requirements for calling an executive session and the meetings were not actually held in an executive session. Zubeck v. El Paso County Retirement Plan, 961 P.2d 597 (Colo. App. 1998).

If a local public body fails strictly to comply with the requirements set forth to convene an executive session, it may not avail itself of the protections afforded by the executive session exception. Therefore, if an executive session is not properly convened, it is an open meeting subject to the public disclosure requirements of the Open Meetings Law. Gumina v. City of Sterling, 119 P.3d 527 (Colo. App. 2004).

Subsection (9) is not a general grant of standing to any citizen and does not abrogate the requirement that in order to have standing the plaintiff must suffer an injury in fact. Pueblo Sch. Dist. No. 60 v. Colo. High Sch. Activities Assn., 30 P.3d 752 (Colo. App. 2000).

Subsection (9) entitles plaintiffs to an award of attorney fees upon a finding that the governmental entity has violated any of the provisions of law. There is no requirement that the violation be knowing or intentional. Zubeck v. El Paso County Retirement Plan, 961 P.2d 597 (Colo. App. 1998).

Subsection (9) establishes mandatory consequences for a violation of the Open Meetings Law, entitling plaintiffs to their costs and attorney fees incurred in bringing an action to force a public body to comply with the law. Van Alstyne v. Housing Auth. of City of Pueblo, 985 P.2d 97 (Colo. App. 1999).

24-8-103. Access to information. (1) The governor and executive director of the department of personnel shall cooperate with the governor-elect and the governor-elect's staff to enable the governor-elect to adequately prepare his or her policy priorities, budget recommendations, legislative program, and messages to the general assembly. To implement the provisions of this section, the governor-elect and authorized staff shall have full access to:

(a) All reports, estimates, minutes of hearings, and other information in the executive department of state government pertaining to estimated revenues and the proposed executive budget for the next fiscal year or years;

(b) All information relating to the problems, policies, and plans of any department of the executive branch of state government;

(c) The official records of the governor's office.

24-8-104. Staff personnel - state employees. The governor-elect shall be entitled to contract for the assistance and services of persons of his own choosing for the period between the general election and the inauguration, and they shall receive reasonable compensation for their services within the limits of appropriations made under section 24-8-105. Such persons shall not otherwise be classified as state employees, nor shall they be subject to the state personnel system laws during such period. In addition, upon request of the governor-elect, the executive director of any department shall assign an employee of his department to assist the governor-elect and his staff for such time as may be necessary between the general election and the inauguration.

24-8-105. General assembly to make appropriation. At the regular session in each year in which there is a general election to elect a new governor, the general assembly shall appropriate to the department of personnel a sum of not less than ten thousand dollars to pay the necessary expenses of the governor-elect incurred between the general election and the inauguration, including, but not limited to, office supplies, postage, actual and necessary travel expenses, and compensation of administrative, secretarial, and clerical personnel. Any unexpended balance of such appropriation remaining after the payment of such expenses shall revert to the general fund.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For note, "Colorado's Ombudsman Office", see 45 Den. L.J. 93 (1968).

Annotator's note. Cases decided under former law, prior to 1958, have been included in the annotations to this section.

State treasurer is entitled to the salary fixed at the time of election, not any increase approved by the general assembly after the election but before taking office. Carlile v. Henderson, 17 Colo. 532, 31 P. 117 (1892).

There can be no appropriation for mileage. Mileage or traveling expenses paid to the lieutenant governor would clearly come within the term "compensation", because, unless the state paid it, he would have to pay it himself. Therefore, if an appropriation is intended to cover mileage, it would be an increase in his compensation and unconstitutional. Leckenby v. Post Printing & Publishing Co., 65 Colo. 443, 176 P. 490 (1918) (decided prior to 1975 enactment of § 24-9-104).

24-9-102. Salaries of appointed state officials. (1) The following state officials shall receive annual salaries and allowances, payable monthly, as follows:

- (a) Deputy secretary of state, an amount set by the secretary of state;
- (b) Deputy state treasurer, an amount set by the state treasurer;
- (c) Repealed.
- (d) Effective July 1, 2005, public utilities commission, each commissioner, an amount as set by the executive director of the department of regulatory agencies based on the most recent available figures contained in the annual total compensation survey conducted by the state personnel director pursuant to section 24-50-104 (4) (a) and subject to review by the state auditor and the general assembly pursuant to section 24-50-104 (4) (b) and (4) (c). The commissioners' salaries shall be set within the range identified in the survey for the category of senior executive service and shall be uniform; except that the chairman may receive a salary that is up to ten percent higher than those of the other two commissioners.

(e) Repealed.

(2) The positions listed in paragraphs (a) to (e) of subsection (1) of this section shall be full-time positions, and the salaries shall be for the full-time services of the persons involved.

ANNOTATION

Applied in Kratzenstein v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 674 P.2d 1009 (Colo. App. 1983).

24-10-102. Declaration of policy. It is recognized by the general assembly that the doctrine of sovereign immunity, whereunder the state and its political subdivisions are often immune from suit for injury suffered by private persons, is, in some instances, an inequitable doctrine. The general assembly also recognizes that the supreme court has abrogated the doctrine of sovereign immunity effective July 1, 1972, and that thereafter the doctrine shall be recognized only to such extent as may be provided by statute. The general assembly also recognizes that the state and its political subdivisions provide essential public services and functions and that unlimited liability could disrupt or make prohibitively expensive the provision of such essential public services and functions. The general assembly further recognizes that the taxpayers would ultimately bear the fiscal burdens of unlimited liability and that limitations on the liability of public entities and public employees are necessary in order to protect the taxpayers against excessive fiscal burdens. It is also recognized that public employees, whether elected or appointed, should be provided with protection from unlimited liability so that such public employees are not discouraged from providing the services or functions required by the citizens or from exercising the powers authorized or required by law. It is further recognized that the state, its political subdivisions, and the public employees of such public entities, by virtue of the services and functions provided, the powers exercised, and the consequences of unlimited liability to the governmental process, should be liable for their actions and those of their agents only to such an extent and subject to such conditions as are provided by this article. The general assembly also recognizes the desirability of including within one article all the circumstances under which the state, any of its political subdivisions, or the public employees of such public entities may be liable in actions which lie in tort or could lie in tort regardless of whether that may be the type of action or the form of relief chosen by a claimant and that the distinction for liability purposes between governmental and proprietary functions should be abolished.

ANNOTATION

The denial of compensation is the constitutional result of the doctrine of sovereign immunity. In re Air Crash Disaster at Stapleton, 720 F. Supp. 1465 (D. Colo. 1989).

The Colorado Governmental Immunity Act is constitutional and classifications restricting recovery by various tort victims bear a rational relationship to the legitimate state interests of fiscal certainty. The fact that the state compensation insurance authority and the state compensation insurance fund were covered by the Colorado Governmental Immunity Act while private insurers were not was not a denial of equal protection. Simon v. State Compensation Ins. Auth., 903 P.2d 1139 (Colo. App. 1994), rev'd on other grounds, 946 P.2d 1298 (Colo. 1997).

Just compensation clause of constitution creates exception to doctrine of governmental immunity. Srb v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 43 Colo. App. 14, 601 P.2d 1082 (1979), cert. dismissed, 199 Colo. 496, 618 P.2d 1105 (1980).

As does making of legislative contract. The making of a contract pursuant to legislative authority is a waiver by the state of its immunity from suit and of any statutory requirement for the filing of claims. Ace Flying Serv., Inc. v. Colo. Dept. of Agric., 136 Colo. 19, 314 P.2d 278 (1957) (decided under former CRS 53, § 130-2-1).

The Colorado Governmental Immunity Act does not apply to claims based on federal civil rights violations. Martinez v. El Paso County, 673 F. Supp. 1030 (D. Colo. 1987).

The Colorado Governmental Immunity Act governs the circumstances under which a person may maintain a tort action against the state, its political subdivisions, and its employees. Mesa County Valley Sch. Dist. v. Kelsey, 8 P.3d 1200 (Colo. 2000).

No immunity for sister state's activities in this state. Where an injured party is a citizen of this state, injured in this state, and sues in the courts of this state, there is no immunity, by law or as a matter of comity, covering a sister state's activities in this state. Peterson v. State of Texas, 635 P.2d 241 (Colo. App. 1981).

State statutory provisions control over conflicting city charter. If a city charter establishes a different notice of claim procedure, it conflicts with the state statutory provisions, and when a conflict exists in a matter of both statewide and local concern, the state statute controls. Lipira v. City of Thornton, 41 Colo. App. 401, 585 P.2d 932 (1978).

The Colorado Governmental Immunity Act derogates Colorado's common law. Consequently, statute's immunity provisions are to be strictly construed. As a logical corollary, provisions withholding immunity are also to be strictly construed in the interest of compensating victims of governmental negligence. Padilla ex rel. Padilla v. Sch. Dist. No. 1, 25 P.3d 1176 (Colo. 2001); Podboy v. Fraternal Order of Police, 94 P.3d 1226 (Colo. App. 2004).

The protections afforded under the Colorado Governmental Immunity Act attach on the date the negligence is alleged to have occurred. Muniz v. Garner, 921 F. Supp. 700 (D. Colo. 1996).

Applied in City of Colo. Springs v. Gladin, 198 Colo. 333, 599 P.2d 907 (1979); South of Second Assocs. v. Georgetown, 199 Colo. 394, 609 P.2d 125 (1980); Forrest v. County Comm'rs, 629 P.2d 1105 (Colo. App. 1981); Young v. State, 642 P.2d 18 (Colo. App. 1981); Mucci v. Falcon Sch. Dist. No. 49, 655 P.2d 422 (Colo. App. 1982).

24-10-103. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Controlled agricultural burn" means a technique used in farming to clear the land of any existing crop residue, kill weeds and weed seeds, or to reduce fuel buildup and decrease the likelihood of a future fire.

(1.3) "Dangerous condition" means either a physical condition of a facility or the use thereof that constitutes an unreasonable risk to the health or safety of the public, which is known to exist or which in the exercise of reasonable care should have been known to exist and which condition is proximately caused by the negligent act or omission of the public entity or public employee in constructing or maintaining such facility. For the purposes of this subsection (1.3), a dangerous condition should have been known to exist if it is established that the condition had existed for such a period and was of such a nature that, in the exercise of reasonable care, such condition and its dangerous character should have been discovered. A dangerous condition shall not exist solely because the design of any facility is inadequate. The mere existence of wind, water, snow, ice, or temperature shall not, by itself, constitute a dangerous condition.

(1.5) "Health care practitioner" means a physician, dentist, clinical psychologist, or any other person acting at the direction or under the supervision or control of any such persons.

(2) "Injury" means death, injury to a person, damage to or loss of property, of whatsoever kind, which, if inflicted by a private person, would lie in tort or could lie in tort regardless of whether that may be the type of action or the form of relief chosen by a claimant.

(2.5) "Maintenance" means the act or omission of a public entity or public employee in keeping a facility in the same general state of repair or efficiency as initially constructed or in preserving a facility from decline or failure. "Maintenance" does not include any duty to upgrade, modernize, modify, or improve the design or construction of a facility.

(2.7) "Motor vehicle" means a motor vehicle as defined in section 42-1-102, C.R.S., and a light rail car or engine owned or leased by a public entity.

(3) (a) "Operation" means the act or omission of a public entity or public employee in the exercise and performance of the powers, duties, and functions vested in them by law with respect to the purposes of any public hospital, jail, or public water, gas, sanitation, power, or swimming facility. "Operation" does not include any duty to upgrade, modernize, modify, or improve the design or construction of a facility.

(b) The term "operation" shall not be construed to include:

(I) A failure to exercise or perform any powers, duties, or functions not vested by law in a public entity or employee with respect to the purposes of any public facility set forth in paragraph (a) of this subsection (3);

(II) A negligent or inadequate inspection or a failure to make an inspection of any property, except property owned or leased by the public entity, to determine whether such property constitutes a hazard to the health or safety of the public.

(3.5) "Prescribed fire" means the application of fire in accordance with a written prescription for vegetative fuels and excludes a controlled agricultural burn.

(4) (a) "Public employee" means an officer, employee, servant, or authorized volunteer of the public entity, whether or not compensated, elected, or appointed, but does not include an independent contractor or any person who is sentenced to participate in any type of useful public service. For the purposes of this subsection (4), "authorized volunteer" means a person who performs an act for the benefit of a public entity at the request of and subject to the control of such public entity and includes a qualified volunteer as defined in section 24-32-2202 (6).

(b) "Public employee" includes any of the following:

(I) Any health care practitioner employed by a public entity, except for any health care practitioner who is employed on less than a full-time basis by a public entity and who additionally has an independent or other health care practice. Any such person employed on less than a full-time basis by a county or a district public health agency and who additionally has an independent or other health care practice shall maintain the status of a public employee only when such person engages in activities at or for the county or the district public health agency that are within the course and scope of such person's responsibilities as an employee of the county or the district public health agency. For purposes of this subparagraph (I), work performed as an employee of another public entity or of an entity of the United States government shall not be considered to be an independent or other health care practice.

(II) Any health care practitioner employed part-time by and holding a clinical faculty appointment at a public entity as to any injury caused by a health care practitioner-in-training under such health care practitioner's supervision. Any such person shall maintain the status of a public employee when such person engages in supervisory and educational activities over a health care practitioner-in-training at a nonpublic entity if said activities are within the course and scope of such person's responsibilities as an employee of a public entity.

(III) Any health care practitioner-in-training who is duly enrolled and matriculated in an educational program of a public entity and who is working at either a public entity or a nonpublic entity. Any such person shall maintain the status of a public employee when such person engages in professional or educational activities at a nonpublic entity if said activities are within the course and scope of such person's responsibilities as a student or employee of a public entity.

(IV) Any health care practitioner who is a nurse licensed under article 38 of title 12, C.R.S., employed by a public entity. Any such person shall maintain the status of a public employee only when such person engages in activities at or for the public entity which are within the course and scope of such person's responsibilities as an employee of the public entity.

(V) Any health care practitioner who volunteers services at or on behalf of a public entity, or who volunteers services as a participant in the community maternity services program;

(VI) Any release hearing officer utilized by the department of corrections and the state board of parole pursuant to section 17-2-217 (1), C.R.S. A release hearing officer shall maintain the status of a public employee only when the release hearing officer engages in activities that are within the course and scope of his or her responsibilities as a release hearing officer.

(VII) Any administrative hearing officer utilized by the department of corrections and the state board of parole pursuant to section 17-2-201 (3) (c) (I), C.R.S. An administrative hearing officer shall maintain the status of a public employee only when the administrative hearing officer engages in activities that are within the course and scope of his or her responsibilities as an administrative hearing officer.

(5) "Public entity" means the state, county, city and county, municipality, school district, special improvement district, and every other kind of district, agency, instrumentality, or political subdivision thereof organized pursuant to law and any separate entity created by intergovernmental contract or cooperation only between or among the state, county, city and county, municipality, school district, special improvement district, and every other kind of district, agency, instrumentality, or political subdivision thereof.

(5.5) "Public sanitation facility" means structures and related apparatus used in the collection, treatment, or disposition of sewage or industrial wastes of a liquid nature that is operated and maintained by a public entity. "Public sanitation facility" does not include: A public water facility; a natural watercourse even if dammed, channelized, or containing storm water runoff, discharge from a storm sewer, or discharge from a sewage treatment plant outfall; a drainage, borrow, or irrigation ditch even if the ditch contains storm water runoff or discharge from storm sewers; a curb and gutter system; or other drainage, flood control, and storm water facilities.

(5.7) "Public water facility" means structures and related apparatus used in the collection, treatment, or distribution of water for domestic and other legal uses that is operated and maintained by a public entity. "Public water facility" does not include: A public sanitation facility; a natural watercourse even if dammed, channelized, or used for transporting domestic water supplies; a drainage, borrow, or irrigation ditch even if dammed, channelized, or containing storm water runoff or discharge; or a curb and gutter system.

(6) "Sidewalk" means that portion of a public roadway between the curb lines or the lateral lines of the traveled portion and the adjacent property lines which is constructed, designed, maintained, and intended for the use of pedestrians.

(7) "State" means the government of the state; every executive department, board, commission, committee, bureau, and office; and every state institution of higher education, whether established by the state constitution or by law, and every governing board thereof. "State" does not include the judicial department, a county, municipality, city and county, school district, special district, or any other kind of district, instrumentality, political subdivision, or public corporation organized pursuant to law.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Public Liability for Privately Employed Security Personnel", see 16 Colo. Law. 2175 (1987).

To recover under the "dangerous condition" of the Colorado Governmental Immunity Act (CGIA), a plaintiff must show as a threshold jurisdictional matter that the condition upon which the plaintiff bases his tort claim existed because of the government's act or omission in maintaining or constructing the condition rather than the government's design of the condition. Swieckowski v. City of Fort Collins, 934 P.2d 1380 (Colo. 1997).

Under the CGIA, the "dangerous condition" must be proximately caused by the negligent act or omission of the public entity in constructing or maintaining a public facility. Jaffe v. City & County of Denver, 15 P.3d 806 (Colo. App. 2000).

A public entity constructs a building within the definition of "dangerous condition" even though it hires an independent contractor to perform the work for it. Springer v. City & County of Denver, 13 P.3d 794 (Colo. 2000).

The common meaning of the word "maintain", its legislative history, and Colorado case law support the court of appeals finding that a failure to "maintain" means a failure to keep a facility in the same general state of being, repair, or efficiency as initially constructed. Swieckowski v. City of Fort Collins, 934 P.2d 1380 (Colo. 1997).

The duties of the public entity, for immunity purposes, to maintain do not include any duty to upgrade, modernize, or improve the design or construction of a facility. Springer v. City &

County of Denver, 990 P.2d 1092 (Colo. App. 1999), rev'd on other grounds, 13 P.3d 794 (Colo. 2000).

The duty to maintain does not include any duty to upgrade, modernize, modify, or improve the design or construction of a facility. Lyons v. City of Aurora, 987 P.2d 900 (Colo. App. 1999); Jaffe v. City & County of Denver, 15 P.3d 806 (Colo. App. 2000).

The city's failure to make improvements for the safety of players on its public golf courses did not create a "dangerous condition" on the golf course for purposes of the CGIA. Jaffe v. City & County of Denver, 15 P.3d 806 (Colo. App. 2000).

City is immune from liability for a roadway's abrupt transition at the ditch because the roadway was in the same condition as when it was originally constructed. Because the roadway remained unchanged, the city did not repair the roadway, and is immune from any claims for negligence for allowing this condition to exist. Swieckowski v. City of Fort Collins, 934 P.2d 1380 (Colo. 1997).

A condition is "dangerous" only if it relates to the physical or structural condition of the facility at issue. King v. U.S., 53 F. Supp. 2d 1056 (D. Colo. 1999).

This section expressly excludes from the definition of "dangerous condition" any danger solely attributable to inadequate design. Swieckowski v. City of Fort Collins, 934 P.2d 1380 (Colo. 1997); Jaffe v. City & County of Denver, 15 P.3d 806 (Colo. App. 2000).

The condition must be associated with construction or maintenance, not solely design.

Padilla ex rel. Padilla v. Sch. Dist. No. 1, 25 P.3d 1176 (Colo. 2001).

To be actionable, the state of the building or use of the building and the resulting injury therefrom must: (1) Have occurred in connection with a negligent act or omission of the governmental entity, not a third party; (2) be associated with "constructing" or "maintaining" the facility; and (3) not be due solely to the facility's design. Padilla ex rel. Padilla v. Sch. Dist. No. 1, 25 P.3d 1176 (Colo. 2001); Curtis v. Hyland Hills Park & Rec. Dist., 179 P.3d 81 (Colo. App. 2007).

Absence of someone to regulate the spacing of people in rafts on a water attraction did not constitute a dangerous condition because there was no physical defect in attraction's construction or maintenance. Curtis v. Hyland Hills Park & Rec. Dist., 179 P.3d 81 (Colo. App. 2007).

A "dangerous condition" exists in a public building only if the condition stems from a physical or structural defect in the building. Jenks v. Sullivan, 826 P.2d 825 (Colo. 1992); Seder v. City of Fort Collins, 987 P.2d 904 (Colo. App. 1999).

Improper placement of stop sign is "dangerous condition". Improper placement of a stop sign is within the statutory definition of a "dangerous condition" for which a city may be held liable. Stephen v. City & County of Denver, 659 P.2d 666 (Colo. 1983).

Private blasting activity adjacent to highway is a "dangerous condition". Belfiore v. Colo. Dept. of Hwys., 847 P.2d 244 (Colo. App. 1993).

Jointer machine used in gunsmithing class was an integral part of the educational facility, a public school building, therefore, a dangerous condition of the jointer is a dangerous condition of the facility for purposes of the "public building" waiver of the CGIA. Longbottom v. State Bd. of Cmty. Colls., 872 P.2d 1253 (Colo. App. 1993).

Phrase "or the use thereof" in definition of "dangerous condition" means the use of a physical condition of a public facility. Thus, the dangerous condition exception to sovereign immunity arises from the physical or structural state of the public building itself or from the use of the physical or structural state of the building, but not from conditions arising as a result of activities conducted within such building. Jenks v. Sullivan, 826 P.2d 825 (Colo. 1992).

The term "public" in the definition of "dangerous condition" does not exclude a person in a public building at a city's invitation. It is the immunity created by the CGIA, and not the exceptions thereto, that must be strictly construed. Kittinger v. City of Colo. Springs, 872 P.2d 1265 (Colo. App. 1993).

Failure to modify or improve traffic signals because of increased pedestrian traffic does not create a "dangerous condition". Karr v. City & County of Denver, 677 P.2d 1384 (Colo. App. 1984).

Inadequate road design and lack of adequate traffic warning signs do not constitute "dangerous conditions" for which governmental immunity has been waived. Lafitte v. State Hwy. Dept., 885 P.2d 338 (Colo. App. 1994); Swieckowski v. City of Fort Collins, 923 P.2d 208 (Colo. App. 1995).

The development of a dangerous condition of a public highway, subsequent to the initial design and construction of the highway creates in the state a duty to return the road to the same general state of being, repair, or efficiency as initially constructed. The duty to maintain requires the state only to rectify degradation not obsolescence. When an injury is caused by a breach of this duty, the CGIA waives the state's immunity in an action to recover therefore. Medina v. State, 35 P.3d 443 (Colo. 2001).

The design of a public roadway will often contribute to injury, but it is only when the dangerous condition is solely attributable to design that the state is immune. Medina v. State, 35 P.3d 443 (Colo. 2001).

The state has a duty to install safety devices only where their installation is necessary to mitigate an increase in risk attributable to a dangerous condition of the road that develops subsequent to the road's initial design and construction. Otherwise, requiring the state to install safety devices to mitigate the risk attributable to a dangerous condition inherent in the design of the road and persisting at the time of the injury would be to mandate that the state reduce the risk of injury below that which existed when the road was initially designed and constructed. Medina v. State, 35 P.3d 443 (Colo. 2001).

Temporary traffic plan in place during upgrade of highway is a new design, so immunity is not waived for plaintiff's injuries resulting from defendants' failure to require or install concrete median barriers during the upgrade, even though the pre-upgrade highway had barriers. In re Estate of Grant, 181 P.3d 1202 (Colo. App. 2008).

Mere accessibility of trash dumpster to the public did not convert it into a public sanitation facility for which the city's immunity has been waived. Delk v. City of Grand Junction, 958 P.2d 532 (Colo. App. 1998).

Dangerous condition not found. Sierra v. City & County of Denver, 730 P.2d 902 (Colo. App. 1986).

"Injury" includes a decrease in the value of property, where such decrease results from government's announcement of intent to take action physically affecting property at some time in the future. City of Lafayette v. Barrack, 847 P.2d 136 (Colo. 1993).

“Injury” includes loss of consortium and gives rise to separate right of recovery. Lee v. Colo. Dept. of Health, 718 P.2d 221 (Colo. 1986).

When commissioner of insurance immune from liability. Attempting to rehabilitate inter-insurance exchange and reissuing certificate of authority to do business during the rehabilitation period were discretionary acts, clearly judgmental in nature, and the commissioner was immune from liability. Alias Smith & Jones, Inc. v. Barnes, 695 P.2d 302 (Colo. App. 1984).

Industrial commission protected by sovereign immunity for failure to inspect machinery. The industrial commission is protected by the doctrine of sovereign immunity from any liability for injuries of a laborer which supposedly result from the commission’s failure to inspect industrial machinery. Quintano v. Indus. Comm’n, 178 Colo. 131, 495 P.2d 1137 (1972) (decided prior to the 1986 amendment abolishing the industrial commission).

The exclusion of independent contractors from the definition of “public employee” means that an independent contractor cannot, under any circumstances, gain immunity by reason of the CGIA’s provisions, not that a public entity has immunity when it constructs a public building through the services of an independent contractor. Springer v. City & County of Denver, 13 P.3d 794 (Colo. 2000).

Employee of private company that contracts with public entity to perform public services is not a “public employee” entitled to immunity under the CGIA; nor is his or her employer. Because employee worked for an independent contractor, employee was not a public employee. Henisse v. First Transit, Inc., 247 P.3d 577 (Colo. 2011).

Private attorney hired by the board of directors of a hospital district is not a “public employee” for purposes of the CGIA. Wilson v. Meyer, 126 P.3d 276 (Colo. App. 2005).

Office of the Colorado state public defender is a “public entity” and its employees are “public employees” for purposes of the CGIA. Wallin v. McCabe, __ P.3d __ (Colo. App. 2011).

Defendants cannot be considered employees of the city and county of Denver as a matter of law and are thus not entitled to the CGIA’s immunity. The city and county of Denver does not have the right to control defendants’ performance as officers of the fraternal order of police (FOP); the complaint did not allege that defendants undertook the challenged action pursuant to their responsibilities as employees of Denver; and the city and county does not have the right to hire, appoint, or dismiss members and officers of the FOP. Podboy v. Fraternal Order of Police, 94 P.3d 1226 (Colo. App. 2004).

Subparagraph (4)(b)(V) does not require that a health care practitioner prove that the practitioner is under the control of a public entity in order to qualify as a “public employee” under the CGIA. Plummer v. Little, 987 P.2d 871 (Colo. App. 1999).

Business entity cannot be a “public employee”. The definition includes only natural persons. Safari 300 v. Hamilton Family Enters., 181 P.3d 278 (Colo. App. 2007).

City housing authority was a “public entity” within the plain and ordinary meaning of the CGIA. Allen v. City of Boulder Hous. Auth., 852 P.2d 1335 (Colo. App. 1993) (decided prior to 1992 amendment to subsection (5)).

The university of Colorado and its governing board are “public entities” under this section. Uberoi v. Univ. of Colo., 713 P.2d 894 (Colo. 1986).

State university a public entity within the meaning of the CGIA. State v. Zahourek, 935 P.2d 74 (Colo. App. 1996).

Three-part balancing test applied to determine that the university of Colorado is characterized as an arm of the state and thus not a person for purposes of sovereign immunity in a 42 U.S.C. § 1983 claim. The factors considered were that the university serves a state function, the university has a significant lack of autonomy or independence from the state, and that the ultimate potential for state liability exists. Hartman v. Regents of the Univ. of Colo., 22 P.3d 524 (Colo. App. 2000), aff’d on other grounds, 45 P.3d 721 (Colo. 2002).

Denver department of social services is a public entity under this section. Corbin v. Corbin v. City & County of Denver, 735 P.2d 214 (Colo. App. 1987).

The judicial department is a public entity, and a third party supervising a father’s visitation was an “authorized volunteer” and thus a public employee. Yonker by & through Helstrom v. Thompson, 939 P.2d 530 (Colo. App. 1997).

But the director and supervisors of the Adams county department of social services are not state employees under this section and are not entitled to indemnification from the state when they are sued as a result of their official duties. Norton v. Gilman, 949 P.2d 565 (Colo. 1997).

By placing the term “instrumentality” in the context of other entities that are public in nature, the general assembly has expressed an intent to restrict the definition of that term only to those entities that are governmental in nature. There is no indication that the general assembly intended to expand the scope of the CGIA to include any private person or corporation that entered into some type of agreement with a public entity. Robinson v. Colo. State Lottery Div., 155 P.3d 409 (Colo. App. 2006), aff’d in part and rev’d in part on other grounds, 179 P.3d

998 (Colo. 2008); Moran v. Standard Ins. Co., 187 P.3d 1162 (Colo. App. 2008).

A private person or corporation that is a licensed sales agent for the state is not an instrumentality. Robinson v. Colo. State Lottery Div., 155 P.3d 409 (Colo. App. 2006), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 179 P.3d 998 (Colo. 2008).

Trust created to hold union pension fund assets and its board of trustees not "public entities". Trust created by transit union representing regional transportation district (RTD) hourly workers to hold assets of the union's pension plan and pay pension benefits not a public entity. Nor is the board of trustees that administers the pension plan. Walker v. Bd. of Trustees, Reg'l Transp. Dist., 76 F. Supp.2d 1105 (D. Colo. 1999).

Individual members of board of trustees that administers union's pension plan cannot be considered public employees of RTD in carrying out their duties as fiduciaries of the plan. Walker v. Bd. of Trustees, Reg'l Transp. Dist., 76 F. Supp.2d 1105 (D. Colo. 1999).

RTD and the board of trustees that administers the union's pension plan have a symbiotic relationship that permits the fair attribution of the board's conduct to the state, however. Because the general assembly created RTD as a political subdivision of the state pursuant to § 39-9-119 (1)(a) and required it to engage in mandatory collective bargaining and because that collective bargaining process created the board of trustees, it is only fair that the state should be held responsible for the board's decisions. Walker v. Bd. of Trustees, Reg'l Transp. Dist., 76 F. Supp.2d 1105 (D. Colo. 1999).

Fraternal order of police (FOP) is not a separate entity created by an intergovernmental contract with the city and county of Denver and is therefore not a "public entity" for purposes of the CGIA. The Denver Municipal Code governs selection and recognition of the bargaining agent elected to represent the Denver sheriff department employees, and, pursuant to the code, the FOP was elected to represent the department employees. However, the code is not a contract between other governmental entities, it does not create the FOP, and it does not confer governmental status upon the FOP. Podboy v. Fraternal Order of Police, 94 P.3d 1226 (Colo. App. 2004).

Plain language of the 2003 amendments does not indicate that the general assembly intended legislation addressing the definitions of "public sanitation facility", "public water facility", "maintenance", "operation", and "dangerous condition" to have retroactive effect. Powell v. City of Colo. Springs, 131 P.3d 1129 (Colo. App. 2005), aff'd, 156 P.3d 461 (Colo. 2007); Speight Family P'ship, LLLP v.

City of Colo. Springs, 131 P.3d 1136 (Colo. App. 2005), aff'd, 155 P.3d 1099 (Colo. 2007).

1986 amendments to the definition of "dangerous condition" negate the proposition that the general assembly intended to distinguish between designs that are "inadequate" initially and designs which become "inadequate" over a period of time. Willer v. City of Thornton, 817 P.2d 514 (Colo. 1991).

As an exception to CGIA, to establish "dangerous condition", plaintiff was required to show that ice constituted an unreasonable risk to the health or safety of the public, the town knew or should have known of the presence of the ice, and the presence of the ice was caused by the negligent act or omission of the town. Smith v. Town of Snowmass Vill., 919 P.2d 868 (Colo. App. 1996).

Trial court properly found that plaintiff adequately established ice constituted a "dangerous condition" for the purpose of a C.R.C.P. 12(b)(1) motion. Martinez v. Weld County Sch. Dist. RE-1, 60 P.3d 736 (Colo. App. 2002).

The fact that the city had not received prior notice of the precise harm that occurred does not compel the conclusion that it did not have either constructive or actual knowledge of the alleged dangerous condition. Luenberger v. City of Golden, 990 P.2d 1145 (Colo. App. 1999).

Town did not have notice of dangerous condition, preserving the town's immunity under the act where the public works director and finance director, officials authorized to receive complaints, did not know or receive complaints of ice on an unlit landing, when there was no evidence of the length of time the ice had been present or how the ice appeared. Smith v. Town of Snowmass Vill., 919 P.2d 868 (Colo. App. 1996).

While plaintiff may have sufficiently alleged an act of negligence, leaving a disabled and distraught child out of sight and reach in an unstable stroller, plaintiff did not demonstrate a sufficient connection between use of the state of the building and a construction or maintenance facility or omission for which defendant school district is responsible. Plaintiff's theory of the case amounts only to a claim that school district should have upgraded the design of the closet if it wished to use it as a "time out" room for students exhibiting disruptive behavior. As such, plaintiff's complaint lacked sufficient jurisdictional facts to support an immunity waiver under the provision of the CGIA waiving immunity for a dangerous condition of a public facility. Padilla ex rel. Padilla v. Sch. Dist. No. 1, 25 P.3d 1176 (Colo. 2001).

Term "operation" must not be construed to include the failure to exercise or perform any powers, duties, or functions not vested by law in a public entity. An urban drainage and flood control district is not vested by law with a responsibility to own or acquire particular property or implement suggested improvements. Nothing in the "Urban Drainage and Flood Control Act" requires such affirmative action, and the district had no preexisting common law duty to act. Larry H. Miller Corp.-Denver v. Urban Drainage & Flood Control Dist., 64 P.3d 941 (Colo. App. 2003).

Phrase "public water facility" includes a water meter pit. Montoya v. City of Westminster Dept. of Pub. Works, 181 P.3d 1197 (Colo. App. 2008).

General assembly intended the term "public roadway", which is a highway designed for vehicular travel, to include the portion intended for pedestrian use. Colucci v. Town of Vail, 232 P.3d 218 (Colo. App. 2009).

As defined in the CGIA, the term "sidewalk" includes a pedestrian overpass. In construing the term, trial court erred in referring to the definition of "roadway" as it appears in the motor vehicle laws, which definition explicitly excludes sidewalks. Colucci v. Town of Vail, 232 P.3d 218 (Colo. App. 2009).

Applied in City of Colo. Springs v. Gladin, 198 Colo. 333, 599 P.2d 907 (1979); Adams County Sch. Dist. No. 1 v. District Court, 199 Colo. 284, 611 P.2d 963 (1980); Jones v. Northeast Durango Water Dist., 622 P.2d 92 (Colo. App. 1980); Mucci v. Falcon Sch. Dist. No. 49, 655 P.2d 422 (Colo. App. 1982); Beacom v. RE-1, 60 P.3d 736 (Colo. App. 2002); Larry H. Miller Corp.-Denver v. Urban Drainage & Flood Control Dist., 64 P.3d 941 (Colo. App. 2003).

24-10-104. Waiver of sovereign immunity. Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, the governing body of a public entity, by resolution, may waive the immunity granted in section 24-10-106 for the types of injuries described in the resolution. Any such waiver may be withdrawn by the governing body by resolution. A resolution adopted pursuant to this section shall apply only to injuries occurring subsequent to the adoption of such resolution.

ANNOTATION

No waiver of eleventh amendment immunity. A state's waiver of its immunity against suit in its own courts does not constitute a waiver of its eleventh amendment immunity against suit in federal court. Verner v. Colo., 533 F. Supp. 1109 (D. Colo. 1982), aff'd, 716 F.2d 1352 (10th Cir. 1983), cert. denied, 466 U.S. 960, 104 S. Ct. 2175, 80 L.Ed.2d 558 (1984); Griess v. Colo., 624 F. Supp. 450 (D. Colo. 1985), aff'd, 841 F.2d 1042 (10th Cir. 1988).

The type of resolution contemplated by this section is a formal legislative action approved by a majority of the governing body. Pierson v. Black Canyon Aggregates, Inc., 32 P.3d 567 (Colo. App. 2000), rev'd on other grounds, 48 P.3d 1215 (Colo. 2002).

Quasi-judicial immunity not waived. Quasi-judicial immunity of parole board and state were not waived by state's purchase of insurance under statute concerning waiver or nonwaiver of sovereign immunity. State v. Mason, 724 P.2d 1289 (Colo. 1986) (decided under law in effect prior to 1986 repeal and reenactment).

Since the grant of immunity to public entities must be strictly construed, the waiver of that immunity may not be so construed. Kittinger v. City of Colo. Springs, 872 P.2d 1265 (Colo. App. 1993).

Exceptions to waivers of immunity are to be construed narrowly but the waiver provisions themselves are to be construed deferentially in favor of injured persons. Quintana v. City of Westminster, 56 P.3d 1193 (Colo. App. 2002).

Public entity is to be treated like a private entity and may not assert the "honest and reasonable mistake" defense in a negligence action since the board had obtained insurance to cover its liability and therefore had waived the defense of sovereign immunity. Moreland v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 725 P.2d 1 (Colo. App. 1985), rev'd on other grounds, 764 P.2d 812 (Colo. 1988) (decided under law in effect prior to 1986 repeal and reenactment).

Express waiver of immunity bars defense. In claim against police officers and city, city waived immunity by confessing liability if arrestee prevailed on assault and battery claim against the police, regardless of finding of negligence against city, and by stating as affirmative defense that arrestee's recovery was limited by Governmental Immunity Act, even though city incorrectly believed that its self-insurance affected its immunity. Valdez v. City & County of Denver, 764 P.2d 393 (Colo. App. 1988) (decided under law in effect prior to 1986 repeal and reenactment).

State held to have waived sovereign immunity by having insurance policy while Denver department of social services held not to have waived sovereign immunity through self-insurance. Corbin by Corbin v. City & County of Denver, 735 P.2d 214 (Colo. App. 1987) (decided prior to 1986 repeal and reenactment).

When a public entity claims before trial that timely notice was not given to it under the Governmental Immunity Act, the issue must be determined by the court before trial. Capra v. Tucker, 857 P.2d 1346 (Colo. App. 1993).

Claim that lawfully seized vehicle was unlawfully retained, could lie in tort and therefore failure to give required notice pursuant to the Governmental Immunity Act required that the action be dismissed. Denver v. Desert Truck Sales, Inc. 837 P.2d 759 (Colo. 1992).

Waiver of sovereign immunity by virtue of liability insurance coverage does not extend to requirement of notice under § 24-10-109. The notice provision is a condition precedent to the commencement of a negligence action against the city, and no provision in the governmental immunity act alters the requirement of notice where the entity carries liability insurance. Morrison v. City of Aurora, 745 P.2d 1042 (Colo. App. 1987) (decided under law in effect prior to 1986 repeal and reenactment).

Purpose of 1986 amendment to this section was to eliminate the provision that the procurement of liability insurance by a public entity effected a waiver of immunity. Pierson v. Black Canyon Aggregates, Inc., 32 P.3d 567 (Colo. App. 2000), rev'd on other grounds, 48 P.3d 1215 (Colo. 2002).

24-10-105. Prior waiver of immunity - effect - indirect claims not separate. (1) It is the intent of this article to cover all actions which lie in tort or could lie in tort regardless of whether that may be the type of action or the form of relief chosen by the claimant. No public entity shall be liable for such actions except as provided in this article, and no public employee shall be liable for injuries arising out of an act or omission occurring during the performance of his or her duties and within the scope of his or her employment, unless such act or omission was willful and wanton, except as provided in this article. Nothing in this section shall be construed to allow any action which lies in tort or could lie in tort regardless of whether that may be the type of action or the form of relief chosen by a claimant to be brought against a public employee except in compliance with the requirements of this article.

(2) (a) A reference in this article to an injury, claim, or action that "lies in tort or could lie in tort" shall be construed in all cases to include, in addition to a direct claim or action, a claim or action asserted by way of assignment or subrogation to recover from a public entity or public employee the amount paid on a damages claim or the amount that may become payable on a damages claim because of the occurrence of an injury, as defined in section 24-10-103 (2).

(b) In any case in which an assignee or subrogee asserts an injury governed by this article:

(I) The injury shall not be deemed to be separate from the injury suffered by the assignor or subrogor; and

(II) Pursuant to section 24-10-114 (1.5), the assignment or subrogation concerning the injury shall not be deemed to be a separate occurrence with regard to limitations on judgments.

ANNOTATION

Article is intended to define the bounds of public entity liability. Forrest v. County Comm'rs, 629 P.2d 1105 (Colo. App. 1981).

Article protects individual public employees from personal liability for a tort allegedly committed by that employee when acting within the scope of his or her employment. City of Lakewood v. Brace, 919 P.2d 231 (Colo. 1996); Richardson ex rel. Richardson v. Starks, 36 P.3d 168 (Colo. App. 2001).

Plaintiff's claim could lie in tort. City's act of providing specifications and design for the pipe to be used gave rise to a common law tort duty to design the pipe with reasonable care and skill. Accordingly, plaintiff's claim could sound in tort, and its nature was not changed by the existence of the contractual relationship between the parties. Morrison v. City of Aurora, 745 P.2d 1042 (Colo. App. 1987).

The exception for willful and wanton conduct does not apply to the acts of a public entity. Stump v. Gates, 777 F. Supp. 808 (D. Colo. 1991).

This section operates as a waiver of a public employee's immunity for willful and wanton acts but does not operate as a waiver of a public entity's immunity for such acts. King v. U.S., 53 F. Supp.2d 1056 (D. Colo. 1999).

The existence of a special relationship, by itself, does not operate as a waiver of immunity under the Colorado Governmental Immunity Act. Rather, such a relationship creates a duty that may subject defendants to liability only if it is first determined that defendant's sovereign immunity is waived for the activity in question. Richardson ex rel. Richardson v. Starks, 36 P.3d 168 (Colo. App. 2001).

Court applied definition of "willful and wanton" found in § 13-21-102 (1)(b). King v. U.S., 53 F. Supp.2d 1056 (D. Colo. 1999).

To satisfy the willful and wanton exception to the Colorado Governmental Immunity Act, a plaintiff must establish not only the elements of a claim for defamation, but also that the defendant's conduct was done heedlessly and recklessly, without regard to the consequences, or rights and safety of others, particularly plaintiff. Drake v. City & County of Denver, 953 F. Supp. 1150 (D. Colo. 1997).

The Colorado Governmental Immunity Act does not shield public entities from an award for attorney's fees for the filing of a frivolous claim by such entities. Colo. City Metro. Dist. v. Graber & Son's, Inc., 897 P.2d 874 (Colo. App. 1995).

Article not applicable to contractual statutory breaches. This article is not meant to apply to situations where the action concerns the breach of a contractual statutory duty. Julesburg Sch. Dist. No. RE-1 v. Ebke, 193 Colo. 40, 562 P.2d 419 (1977).

Claims asking for orders for water services cannot lie in tort. They constitute, in effect, a mandamus action. Jones v. Ne. Durango Water Dist., 622 P.2d 92 (Colo. App. 1980).

Defendants did not make alleged defamatory statements within the scope of employment as law enforcement officers employed by the Denver sheriff department and are therefore not immune from liability under the CGIA. Defendants made alleged statements during fraternal order of police (FOP) directors meetings concerning FOP business in their capacity as officers of the FOP, not as employees of the Denver sheriff Department. Podboy v. Fraternal Order of Police, 94 P.3d 1226 (Colo. App. 2004).

Applied in Gray v. City of Manitou Springs, 43 Colo. App. 60, 598 P.2d 527 (1979); State Comp. Ins. Fund v. City of Colo. Springs, 43 Colo. App. 112, 602 P.2d 881 (1979).

24-10-106. Immunity and partial waiver. (1) A public entity shall be immune from liability in all claims for injury which lie in tort or could lie in tort regardless of whether that may be the type of action or the form of relief chosen by the claimant except as provided otherwise in this section. Sovereign immunity is waived by a public entity in an action for injuries resulting from:

(a) The operation of a motor vehicle, owned or leased by such public entity, by a public employee while in the course of employment, except emergency vehicles operating within the provisions of section 42-4-108 (2) and (3), C.R.S.;

(b) The operation of any public hospital, correctional facility, as defined in section 17-1-102, C.R.S., or jail by such public entity;

(c) A dangerous condition of any public building;

(d) (I) A dangerous condition of a public highway, road, or street which physically interferes with the movement of traffic on the paved portion, if paved, or on the portion customarily used for travel by motor vehicles, if unpaved, of any public highway, road, street, or sidewalk within the corporate limits of any municipality, or of any highway which is a part of the federal interstate highway system or the federal primary highway system, or of any highway which is a part of the federal secondary highway system, or of any highway which is a part of the state highway system on that portion of such highway, road, street, or sidewalk which was designed and intended for public travel or parking thereon. As used in this section, the phrase "physically interferes with the movement of traffic" shall not include traffic signs, signals, or markings, or the lack thereof. Nothing in this subparagraph (I) shall preclude a particular dangerous accumulation of snow, ice, sand, or gravel from being found to constitute a dangerous condition in the surface of a public roadway when the entity fails to use existing means available to it for removal or mitigation of such accumulation and when the public entity had actual notice through the proper public official responsible for the roadway and had a reasonable time to act.

(II) A dangerous condition caused by the failure to realign a stop sign or yield sign which was turned, without authorization of the public entity, in a manner which reassigned the right-of-way upon intersecting public highways, roads, or streets, or the failure to repair a traffic control signal on which conflicting directions are displayed;

(III) A dangerous condition caused by an accumulation of snow and ice which physically interferes with public access on walks leading to a public building open for public business when a public entity fails to use existing means available to it for removal or mitigation of such accumulation and when the public entity had actual notice of such condition and a reasonable time to act.

(e) A dangerous condition of any public hospital, jail, public facility located in any park or recreation area maintained by a public entity, or public water, gas, sanitation, electrical, power, or swimming facility. Nothing in this paragraph (e) or in paragraph (d) of this subsection (1) shall be construed to prevent a public entity from asserting sovereign immunity for an injury caused by the natural condition of any unimproved property, whether or not such property is located in a park or recreation area or on a highway, road, or street right-of-way.

(f) The operation and maintenance of any public water facility, gas facility, sanitation facility, electrical facility, power facility, or swimming facility by such public entity;

(g) The operation and maintenance of a qualified state capital asset that is the subject of a leveraged leasing agreement pursuant to the provisions of part 10 of article 82 of this title;

(h) Failure to perform an education employment required background check as described in section 13-80-103.9, C.R.S.

(1.5) (a) The waiver of sovereign immunity created in paragraphs (b) and (e) of subsection (1) of this section does not apply to claimants who have been convicted of a crime and incarcerated in a correctional facility or jail pursuant to such conviction, and such correctional facility or jail shall be immune from liability as set forth in subsection (1) of this section.

(b) The waiver of sovereign immunity created in paragraphs (b) and (e) of subsection (1) of this section does apply to claimants who are incarcerated but not yet convicted of the crime for which such claimants are being incarcerated if such claimants can show injury due to negligence.

(c) The waiver of sovereign immunity created in paragraph (e) of subsection (1) of this section does not apply to any backcountry landing facility located in whole or in part within any park or recreation area maintained by a public entity. For purposes of this paragraph (c), "backcountry landing facility" means any area of land or water that is unpaved, unlighted, and in a primitive condition and is used or intended for the landing and takeoff of aircraft, and includes any land or water appurtenant to such area.

(2) Nothing in this section or in section 24-10-104 shall be construed to constitute a waiver of sovereign immunity where the injury arises from the act, or failure to act, of a public employee where the act is the type of act for which the public employee would be or heretofore has been personally immune from liability.

(3) In addition to the immunity provided in subsection (1) of this section, a public entity shall also have the same immunity as a public employee for any act or failure to act for which a public employee would be or heretofore has been personally immune from liability.

(4) No rule of law imposing absolute or strict liability shall be applied in any action against a public entity or a public employee for an injury resulting from a dangerous condition of, or the operation and maintenance of, a public water facility or public sanitation facility. No liability shall be imposed in any such action unless negligence is proven.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Law reviews. For note, "Prisoners' Rights: Personal Security", see 42 U. Colo. L. Rev. 305 (1970). For article, "1988 Update on Colorado Tort Reform Legislation — Part II", see 17 Colo. Law. 1949 (1988). For article, "The Public Building Exception to Governmental Immunity", see 24 Colo. Law. 1059 (1995). For article, "Health Care Litigation in Colorado: A Survey of Recent Decisions", see 30 Colo. Law. 91 (August 2001).

Constitutionality upheld. Subsection (1)(d) does not violate the equal protection or due process clause of the state or federal constitution nor the prohibition against special legislation contained in § 25 of article V of the state constitution. Bloomer v. Boulder County Bd. of Comm'rs, 799 P.2d 942 (Colo. 1990).

Subsection (1.5) is rationally related to the legitimate state interests of fiscal solvency and provision of essential services while minimizing taxpayer burdens. Davis v. Paolino, 21 P.3d 870 (Colo. App. 2001).

Subsection (1.5)(a) is rationally related to legitimate state interests; therefore, it does not violate the equal protection clause or the due process clause. Sealock v. Colo., 218 F.3d 1205 (10th Cir. 2000).

Immunity strictly construed. The Colorado Governmental Immunity Act (CGIA) is in derogation of the common law, and the legislative grants of immunity must be strictly construed. Stephen v. City & County of Denver, 659 P.2d 666 (Colo. 1983); Bloomer v. Boulder County Bd. of Comm'rs, 799 P.2d 942 (Colo. 1990), overruled in Bertrand v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 873 P.2d 223 (Colo. 1994); City of Aspen v. Meserole, 803 P.2d 950 (Colo. 1990); Jenks v. Sullivan, 826 P.2d 825 (Colo. 1992), overruled in Bertrand v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 873 P.2d 223 (Colo. 1994); Longbottom v. State Bd. of Cmty. Colls., 872 P.2d 1253 (Colo. App. 1993); Kittinger v. City of Colo. Springs, 872 P.2d 1265 (Colo. App. 1993); Walton v. State, 968 P.2d 636 (Colo. 1998); Tunget v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 992 P.2d 650 (Colo. App. 1999); State v. Nieto, 993 P.2d 493 (Colo. 2000); Harris v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 15 P.3d 782 (Colo. App. 2000).

Because governmental immunity is in derogation of Colorado's common law, the grant of immunity is to be strictly construed, and the waiver is to be liberally or deferentially construed. Springer v. City & County of Denver, 990 P.2d 1092 (Colo. App. 1999), rev'd on other grounds, 13 P.3d 794 (Colo. 2000); Grabler v. Allen, 109 P.3d 1047 (Colo. App. 2005); Awad v. Breeze, 129 P.3d 1039 (Colo. App. 2005).

Since grant of immunity to public entities must be strictly construed, waiver of that immunity may not be. Kittinger v. City of Colo. Springs, 872 P.2d 1265 (Colo. App. 1993).

Exceptions to waivers of immunity are to be construed strictly because the ultimate effect of the exceptions is to grant immunity. Corsentino v. Cordova, 4 P.3d 1082 (Colo. 2000).

If review of exceptions to waivers of immunity is based on analysis of legislative intent, those interpretations are still valid under the Corsentino standard. Montoya v. Trinidad State Nursing Home, 109 P.3d 1051 (Colo. App. 2005).

Exceptions to waivers of immunity are to be construed narrowly, but the waiver provisions themselves are to be construed deferentially in favor of injured persons. Quintana v. City of Westminster, 56 P.3d 1193 (Colo. App. 2002).

The issue of sovereign immunity is one of subject matter jurisdiction, and, under C.R.C.P. 12(b)(1), plaintiff has the burden to prove jurisdiction. Hallam v. City of Colo. Springs, 914 P.2d 479 (Colo. App. 1995); Denmark v. State, 954 P.2d 624 (Colo. App. 1997); Padilla v. Sch. Dist. No. 1, 1 P.3d 256 (Colo. App. 1999), aff'd, 25 P.3d 1176 (Colo. 2001); Larry H. Miller Corp.-Denver v. Urban Drainage & Flood Control Dist., 64 P.3d 941 (Colo. App. 2003); Grabler v. Allen, 109 P.3d 1047 (Colo. App. 2005); Ferrel v. Colo. Dept. of Corr., 179 P.3d 178 (Colo. App. 2007); Douglas v. City & County of Denver, 203 P.3d 620 (Colo. App. 2008).

When the jurisdictional issue involves a factual dispute, reviewing court employs the clearly erroneous standard of review in considering the trial court's findings of jurisdictional fact. If, however, the alleged facts are undisputed and the issue is purely one of law, the appellate court reviews the jurisdictional matter de novo. Springer v. City & County of Denver, 13 P.3d 794 (Colo. 2000); Grabler v. Allen, 109 P.3d 1047 (Colo. App. 2005).

Fact that a question of subject matter jurisdiction under the CGIA is intertwined with the merits of the case does not require a court to treat a C.R.C.P. 12(b)(1) motion to dismiss as a motion for summary judgment under C.R.C.P. 56. Summary judgment standards do not apply when determining issues of immunity. Ferrel v. Colo. Dept. of Corr., 179 P.3d 178 (Colo. App. 2007).

To recover under the "dangerous condition" of the CGIA, plaintiff must show as a threshold jurisdictional matter that the condition upon which the plaintiff bases the tort claim existed because of the government's act or omission in maintaining or constructing the condition rather than the government's design of the condition. Swieckowski v. City of Fort Collins, 934 P.2d 1380 (Colo. 1997).

Statutory limitation on judgment in § 24-10-114 is not an affirmative defense and is not waived if not presented in the pleadings, at trial, or in a motion for a new trial. City of Colo. Springs v. Gladin, 198 Colo. 333, 599 P.2d 907 (1979).

It was proper for trial court to hold an evidentiary hearing after denial of state's motion to dismiss because the state took a timely interlocutory appeal after the trial court made findings of fact and ruled against dismissal. Walton v. State, 968 P.2d 636 (Colo. 1998).

"Emergency" means an unforeseen combination of circumstances or the resulting state that calls for immediate action or a pressing need. Fogg v. Macaluso, 870 P.2d 525 (Colo. App. 1993), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 892 P.2d 271 (Colo. 1995).

Whether the state has an obligation to install safety devices on a road depends on whether they are necessary to return the road to its original state of being, repair, or efficiency, as initially constructed. This question of necessity is a factual determination to be made by the trial court. Medina v. State, 35 P.3d 443 (Colo. 2001).

Applied in Gray v. City of Manitou Springs, 43 Colo. App. 60, 598 P.2d 527 (1979).

II. SUBSECTION (1).

For immunity to be waived under the CGIA, plaintiff's alleged injury must be directly related to the purpose of the public institution, as distinct from its operation. Awad v. Breeze, 129 P.3d 1039 (Colo. App. 2005).

No waiver of eleventh amendment immunity. State's waiver of its immunity against suit in its own courts does not constitute a waiver of its eleventh amendment immunity against suit in federal court. Verner v. Colo., 533 F. Supp. 1109 (D. Colo. 1982), aff'd, 716 F.2d 1352 (10th Cir. 1983), cert. denied, 466 U.S. 960, 104 S. Ct. 2175, 80 L.Ed.2d 558 (1984); Griess v. Colo., 624 F. Supp. 450 (D. Colo. 1985), aff'd, 841 F.2d 1042 (10th Cir. 1988).

Conduct wrongful under § 1983 cannot be immunized. Conduct by persons acting under color of state law that is wrongful under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 cannot be immunized by state law. Mucci v. Falcon Sch. Dist. No. 49, 655 P.2d 422 (Colo. App. 1982).

County is a "public entity" entitled to sovereign immunity. Am. Employers Ins. Co. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 547 F.2d 511 (10th Cir. 1976).

Charter schools established pursuant to the Charter Schools Act are public entities and, thus, absent a CGIA immunity exception, entitled to immunity from liability in claims that lie in tort or could lie in tort. King v. U.S., 53 F. Supp.2d 1056 (D. Colo. 1999).

A charter school's unique characteristics, including its ability to contract for services, prepare its own budget, and handle its own personnel matters, does not render it a private entity. King v. U.S., 53 F. Supp.2d 1056 (D. Colo. 1999).

Teacher and student advisor of a charter school is a public employee pursuant to this act and, as a result, is entitled to immunity. King v. U.S., 53 F. Supp.2d 1056 (D. Colo. 1999).

Police officers have qualified immunity when dealing with stranded motorist and could not be held liable for subsequent assault suffered by the motorist in the absence of conduct that was willful, malicious, or intended harm. Whitcomb v. City & County of Denver, 731 P.2d 749 (Colo. App. 1986).

A public entity and its employees are immune from tort liability if the employee is operating a police vehicle while in actual pursuit of a suspected violator of title 42, C.R.S., even if the employee is not using the vehicle's emergency lights or sirens, if the pursuit is made to obtain verification of or evidence of the guilt of the suspected violator. Tidwell v. City & County of Denver, 62 P.3d 1020 (Colo. App. 2002), rev'd on other grounds, 83 P.3d 75 (Colo. 2003).

No waiver of immunity under subsection (1)(a) where injuries did not arise from operation of police vehicle but rather arose from conduct of police officer inside the vehicle. Valanzuela v. Snider, 889 F. Supp. 1409 (D. Colo. 1995).

Sovereign immunity not waived for a tort claim asserted by a mineral estate owner that publishing of unauthorized and erroneous report about coal content of owner's land diminished the land's value. City of Northglenn v. Grynberg, 846 P.2d 175 (Colo. 1993).

None of the exceptions to immunity listed in the CGIA either explicitly or implicitly waive sovereign immunity for negligence of the Colorado department of public health and environment in issuing a point source discharge permit. Aztec Minerals Corp. v. Romer, 940 P.2d 1025 (Colo. App. 1996).

Sovereign immunity not waived for bad-faith denials of no-fault auto insurance benefits. Lopez v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 899 P.2d 254 (Colo. App. 1994).

None of the waiver provisions listed in this section waive sovereign immunity for elementary school principal's alleged negligence in failing to protect children in her custody from the negligence of third parties; therefore, trial court erred in failing to dismiss plaintiff's claims to the extent that the court relied on waiver of sovereign immunity. Richardson v. Starks, 36 P.3d 168 (Colo. App. 2001).

Amounts contracted to be paid are not "claims" within the meaning of this section. Ace Flying Serv., Inc. v. Colo. Dept. of Agric., 136 Colo. 19, 314 P.2d 278 (1957) (decided under former CRS 53, 130-2-1).

Claims arising under just compensation or due process clauses of the Colorado Constitution are not subject to the CGIA. Because the purpose of the just compensation and due process clauses is to provide a remedy for injury to private property inflicted by the government, claims arising under such clauses cannot be barred by governmental immunity. Desert Truck Sales, Inc. v. City of Denver, 821 P.2d 860 (Colo. App. 1991).

A claim for overtime pay under the Fair Labor Standards Act is not a tort claim and thus not a claim within the meaning of this section. Hartman v. Regents of the Univ. of Colo., 22 P.3d 524 (Colo. App. 2000), aff'd on other grounds, 45 P.3d 721 (Colo. 2002).

Wrongful discharge claim brought by county employees against county commissioners was barred by the CGIA; however, claim for breach of employment contract was stated by allegations that published personnel policies and procedures established an employment agreement and employees' discharge violated that agreement. Koch v. Bd. of Co. Comm'rs of Costilla Co., 774 F. Supp. 1275 (D. Colo. 1991).

Claim of bad faith breach of insurance contract against city is a tort and, therefore, is barred by sovereign immunity. Jordan v. City of Aurora, 876 P.2d 38 (Colo. App. 1993).

Claims against city for equitable estoppel and misrepresentation "sound in tort" and are barred under the doctrine of sovereign immunity. Olsen & Brown v. City of Englewood, 867 P.2d 96 (Colo. App. 1993).

Claim for equitable estoppel properly dismissed by trial court because such claims are deemed to be tort claims for purposes of the CGIA. Allen Homesite Group v. Colo. Water Quality Control Comm'n, 19 P.3d 32 (Colo. App. 2000).

CGIA bars claim for damages resulting from city's delay in issuing a certificate of occupancy. Because a building permit is not a contract that promises or impliedly promises subsequent issuance of certificate of occupancy, the claim could only lie in tort. Patzer v. City of Loveland, 80 P.3d 908 (Colo. App. 2003).

Alleged flaws at intersection are all related to claimed inadequacies in design of intersection and are specifically excluded from type of claims that subsection (1) authorizes to be asserted. Szymanski v. State Dept. of Hwys., 776 P.2d 1124 (Colo. App. 1989).

Action against city for interference with performance of contract lies in tort and, therefore, is barred. Grimm Constr. v. Bd. of Water Comm'rs, 835 P.2d 599 (Colo. App. 1992).

A retaliatory discharge claim is a common-law tort claim. Although a statutory claim such as the one created by the "whistleblower" statute may be excepted, other claims of wrongful discharge are barred under the general rule of immunity stated in subsection (1). Holland v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 883 P.2d 500 (Colo. App. 1994).

Governmental immunity prevented an estoppel claim where the claim was actually based on misrepresentation and could lie in tort. The court did not determine, however, that all estoppel claims could lie in tort. Lehman v. City of Louisville, 857 P.2d 455 (Colo. App. 1992).

Action for reinstatement and back pay under the anti-discrimination provisions of the Colorado civil rights act is not an action seeking compensatory damages for personal injuries and, therefore, neither lies in tort nor could lie in tort for purposes of the CGIA. City of Colo. Springs v. Conners, 993 P.2d 1167 (Colo. 2000).

Action by health maintenance organization against department of health care policy and financing was grounded in contract law and, consequently, not barred by sovereign immunity. Parties were bound by three contracts, and health maintenance organization provided overwhelming evidence at trial that department had breached contracts by failing to calculate capitation rates in accordance with the language of the contracts and governing Medicaid payment rates. Further, trial court expressly found that liability arose from the contracts executed between the department and the health maintenance organization. Rocky Mtn. Health Maint. Org., Inc. v. Colo. Dept. of Health Care Policy & Fin., 54 P.3d 913 (Colo. App. 2001).

Public entity not immune from liability if claim is for breach of obligation arising from terms of contract. Elliott v. Colo. Dept. of Corr., 865 P.2d 859 (Colo. App. 1993); Adams ex rel. Adams v. City of Westminster, 140 P.3d 8 (Colo. App. 2005).

Private contractual right may exist against state agency regarding life insurance policy, based on statutory scheme and purpose for providing life insurance and the statutory requirement that notice of discontinuance be furnished. Elliott v. Colo. Dept. of Corr., 865 P.2d 859 (Colo. App. 1993).

CGIA does not bar an action for damages for mental suffering since such an action does not lie in tort but arises as a result of breach of contract. Hoffsetz v. Jefferson Cty. Sch. Dist. R-1, 757 P.2d 155 (Colo. App. 1988).

Seeking reimbursement only for personal injury protection benefits paid pursuant to contract with insured is not a claim in tort nor could it lie in tort, and it is not barred by the CGIA. GEICO Gen. Ins. Co. v. Pinnacol Assurance, 56 P.3d 1218 (Colo. App. 2002).

Claim of promissory estoppel properly lies in contract and is not barred by the CGIA. Where plaintiff relied on a promise of employment made by the board of county commissioners, her claim was properly for promissory estoppel, not equitable estoppel, and, therefore, was not barred. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. DeLozier, 917 P.2d 714 (Colo. 1996).

Claims for quantum meruit, rescission, restitution, and injunctive relief that arise from the parties' contract are not claims that lie or could lie in tort and, therefore, are not barred by the CGIA. CAMAS Colo., Inc. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 36 P.3d 135 (Colo. App. 2001).

The CGIA does not necessarily bar equitable or declaratory relief. Canal company's claims against a municipality for relief regarding an easement fell entirely under property law; the claims neither depended upon liability for tortious conduct nor sought compensation for an injury caused by a breach of tort duty. Upper Platte & Beaver Canal v. Riv. Com., 250 P.3d 711 (Colo. App. 2010).

No relief could properly be obtained where claims were predicated upon tort allegations, and none of the exceptions set forth in this section apply. Bd. of Soc. Servs. v. Dept. of Soc. Servs., 902 P.2d 407 (Colo. App. 1994).

Claims asking for orders for water services cannot lie in tort. They constitute in effect a mandamus action. Jones v. Ne. Durango Water Dist., 622 P.2d 92 (Colo. App. 1980).

Public duty rule cannot be used to avoid liability where special relationship exists between public entity and plaintiff. Leake v. Cain, 720 P.2d 152 (Colo. 1986).

Special relationship rule applies when a person should reasonably foresee that his act, or failure to act, will involve unreasonable risk of harm to another; then there is a duty to avoid that harm. There is, however, no duty to prevent a third person from harming another absent a special relation between the actor and the wrongdoer or between the actor and the victim. Leake v. Cain, 720 P.2d 152 (Colo. 1986); Whitcomb v. City & County of Denver, 731 P.2d 749 (Colo. App. 1986).

For purposes of the special relationship rule, police officers do not act affirmatively until they act in some way that induces reliance on a promise, expressed or implied, that they will assist or protect the victim. Whitcomb v. City & County of Denver, 731 P.2d 749 (Colo. App. 1986).

Police officers did not voluntarily assume any duty to stranded motorist where they determined that there was no real emergency or hazard and offered to call a tow truck but took no further action and, thus, could not be held liable under the special relationship rule for subsequent assault suffered by motorist. Whitcomb v. City & County of Denver, 731 P.2d 749 (Colo. App. 1986).

Police officer's actions did not fall within one of the six limited areas for which immunity has been waived where officer failed to offer motorist a ride home following a traffic stop in which the officer ordered the driver not to drive and the motorist was subsequently assaulted. Jarvis by and through Jarvis v. Deyoe, 892 P.2d 398 (Colo. App. 1994).

Existence of a special relationship, by itself, does not operate as a waiver of immunity under the CGIA. Rather, such relationship creates a duty that may subject defendants to liability only if it is first determined that defendant's sovereign immunity is waived for the activity in question. Richardson v. Starks, 36 P.3d 168 (Colo. App. 2001).

A. Paragraph (a).

"Operation of a motor vehicle", as used in subsection (1)(a), includes the stops such vehicles ordinarily make. Negligently stopping to discharge a passenger at an improper place is part of the "operation" of a bus for which immunity has been waived under this section. Johnson v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 916 P.2d 619 (Colo. App. 1995).

Providing adequate security is not necessary for bus driver to operate the vehicle, and sovereign immunity is not waived where passenger was attacked by other passengers. Statutory waivers of immunity are to be interpreted narrowly. Stockwell v. Reg'l Trans. Dist., 946 P.2d 542 (Colo. App. 1997).

By limiting waiver of immunity in this section only to acts or omissions of public employee, the general assembly did not intend to extend the waiver to any act or omission of the public entity itself. Stockwell v. Reg'l Trans. Dist., 946 P.2d 542 (Colo. App. 1997).

A bus that is incapable of being operated on streets or highways does not fit within the term "motor vehicle". DiPaolo v. Boulder Valley Sch. Dist., 902 P.2d 439 (Colo. App. 1995).

Motor vehicle does not include a back hoe for purposes of this section. A back hoe is more in the nature of mobile machinery as defined in § 42-1-102 (43). Bain v. Town of Avon, 820 P.2d 1133 (Colo. 1991).

Sovereign immunity not waived for negligent operation of vehicles properly adapted and functioning as snowplows in maintenance of roadways at time of accident. Williams v. State Dept. of Hwys., 874 P.2d 465 (Colo. App. 1993).

Dump truck with attached snowplow blade is a motor vehicle for purposes of this section. Williams v. Dept. of Hwys., 879 P.2d 490 (Colo. App. 1994); Herrera v. City & County of Denver, 221 P.3d 423 (Colo. App. 2009).

Focus must be on design and use of vehicle at time of accident to determine whether sovereign immunity is waived. Williams v. State Dept. of Hwys., 874 P.2d 465 (Colo. App. 1993).

Because snowplow operated by defendant filled a cattle guard with snow and dirt and allowed horses to escape from their enclosure, which resulted in plaintiff's injuries, trial court erred in determining that subsection (1)(a) was inapplicable and that subsection (1)(d) was the exclusive provision under which defendants' immunity could be waived. Kallage v. Alvidrez, 969 P.2d 743 (Colo. App. 1998).

Road grader operating on highway was a "motor vehicle" within the motor vehicle exception to the CGIA. For purposes of this act, "motor vehicle" includes any "vehicle on wheels having its own motor and not running on rails or tracks, for use on streets or highways". Bertrand v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 873 P.2d 223 (Colo. 1994); Kallage v. Alvidrez, 969 P.2d 743 (Colo. App. 1998).

The term "motor vehicle" includes the combination of a public entity's trailer attached to a borrowed motor vehicle, driven by public entity's agent for public entity's purposes and at public entity's request, for purposes of the CGIA. Grabler v. Allen, 109 P.3d 1047 (Colo. App. 2005).

Absent the right to possession, control, and use of an employee's vehicle, the payment of mileage reimbursement does not create a lease of the vehicle for purposes of subsection (1)(a). Ceja v. Lemire, 143 P.3d 1093 (Colo. App. 2006), aff'd on other grounds, 154 P.3d 1064 (Colo. 2007).

Payment of mileage reimbursement did not create a lease of the county employee vehicle for purposes of the CGIA, thus barring the plaintiff's claim against the county. Ceja v. Lemire, 143 P.3d 1093 (Colo. App. 2006), aff'd on other grounds, 154 P.3d 1064 (Colo. 2007).

County employee who caused an automobile accident while using his personal vehicle and acting in the course and scope of his employment was immune from liability under the CGIA. The language in § 24-10-118 (2)(a) that waives immunity under "the circumstances specified in section 24-10-106 (1)" refers not only to the act of operating a motor vehicle but also to the ownership status of the vehicle. The motor vehicle must be "owned or leased" by the public entity. Section 24-10-118 definitively expresses the intent to grant immunity to negligent employees of immune governmental entities. Ceja v. Lemire, 143 P.3d 1093 (Colo. App. 2006), aff'd, 154 P.3d 1064 (Colo. 2007).

The specific reference to § 42-4-108 (2) and (3) in subsection (1)(a) grants immunity under the CGIA to a public entity when the vehicle controlled by a public entity operates as an emergency vehicle. According to § 42-4-108 (2) and (3), this is the case when the vehicle is responding to an emergency call, or when it is in pursuit of an actual or suspected violator of the law, or when it is responding to, but not returning from, a fire alarm. The vehicle must also make use of its audible and visual signals at the time of responding. City of Grand Junction v. Sisneros, 957 P.2d 1026 (Colo. 1998).

"Pursuit" defined as a chasing with haste or the act of chasing to overtake or apprehend. Court looked to the dictionary definition of the term "pursuit" to ascertain its plain meaning. Tidwell v. City & County of Denver, 62 P.3d 1020 (Colo. App. 2002), rev'd on other grounds, 83 P.3d 75 (Colo. 2003).

The term "emergency vehicle" includes police car. Zapp v. Kukuris, 847 P.2d 150 (Colo. App. 1992).

Police car is an emergency vehicle for purposes of this section. Fogg v. Macaluso, 870 P.2d 525 (Colo. App. 1993).

Under the emergency vehicle exception provided for by subsection (1)(a) of this section and § 42-4-108 (2)(c), a trial court must find that a police officer who exceeded the speed limit in pursuit of a fleeing crime suspect did not endanger life or property before granting immunity from a lawsuit resulting from a pursuit-related traffic accident. Case remanded where the trial court dismissed the lawsuit for lack of subject matter jurisdiction based on sovereign immunity without making such a finding. Quintana v. City of Westminster, 8 P.3d 527 (Colo. App. 2000).

A public entity does not have immunity if an operator of an emergency vehicle speeds and endangers life or property in violation of § 42-4-108 (2)(c), but the public entity is liable for any claims against the operator of the emergency vehicle. Only when the operator's acts causing the injuries are willful and wanton is the operator personally liable. Corsentino v. Cordova, 4 P.3d 1082 (Colo. 2000).

Operation of a motor vehicle. For a public entity to be immune from a claim arising from the operation of an emergency vehicle, both the vehicle's lights and siren must have been in operation, and any violation of a traffic regulation that gave rise to the claim must have been one of those specified in § 42-4-108 (2)(a) through (d). Sierra v. City & County of Denver, 730 P.2d 902 (Colo. App. 1986).

Immunity is not waived by subsection (1)(a) for a public employee who was driving his personally owned vehicle at the time of an accident while acting within the course and scope of his employment. Ceja v. Lemire, 154 P.3d 1064 (Colo. 2007).

Police officer was engaged in a pursuit within the provisions of § 42-4-108 (3) when the driver of a car fled the scene in a clear attempt to avoid arrest or further investigation and the officer followed the car. Tidwell v. City & County of Denver, 83 P.3d 75 (Colo. 2003).

Police officer's pursuit was not investigatory in nature when the officer already had authority to stop and arrest the driver of a car and the officer was pursuing the driver of the car for that reason; therefore, the officer was required to activate his emergency signals in order for the city to claim the protection of governmental immunity under the CGIA. Tidwell v. City & County of Denver, 83 P.3d 75 (Colo. 2003).

"Operation", as used in subsection (1)(a), is a broad term that includes both the physical defects of a motor vehicle and its movement, as well as other actions fairly incidental to those defects or movements. Harris v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 15 P.3d 782 (Colo. App. 2000).

Since the waiver provision of subsection (1)(a) applies to injuries that result from the operation of a motor vehicle by a public employee who is acting as an operator, the term "operation" necessarily refers to actions of the operator related to the physical control of the functions of the motor vehicle. Harris v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 15 P.3d 782 (Colo. App. 2000).

The movement of passengers into and out of a bus is a function of the bus controlled by the bus driver. Harris v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 15 P.3d 782 (Colo. App. 2000).

Based on the broad definition of the term "operation" and the requirement that the waiver provision be strictly construed with deference in favor of the victim, the alleged negligent failure of an RTD bus driver to ensure that passengers board and disembark safely is included in the waiver of immunity under subsection (1)(a). Harris v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 15 P.3d 782 (Colo. App. 2000).

The waiver of immunity under subsection (1)(a) is applicable if injuries result from the operation of a bus, even if the underlying cause of the injuries may have been faulty maintenance. Harris v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 15 P.3d 782 (Colo. App. 2000).

"Operation of a motor vehicle" in subsection (1)(a) applies to acts or omissions of a public employee but does not include conduct associated with the public entity's negligent entrustment and negligent hiring, training, and supervision. Kahland v. Villarreal, 155 P.3d 491 (Colo. App. 2006).

B. Paragraph (b).

Primary purpose of a hospital is to provide medical or surgical care to sick or injured persons. Plummer v. Little, 987 P.2d 871 (Colo. App. 1999); Sereff v. Waldman, 30 P.3d 754 (Colo. App. 2000); Craven v. Univ. of Colo. Hosp. Auth., 260 F.3d 1218 (10th Cir. 2001); Awad v. Breeze, 129 P.3d 1039 (Colo. App. 2005).

Practice of medicine is within meaning of "operation of public hospital" for purposes of subsection (1)(b). Sereff v. Waldman, 30 P.3d 754 (Colo. App. 2000).

"Operation" of public hospital or other facility, within meaning of subsection (1)(b), does not include performance of functions only ancillary to, or remotely related to, primary purpose of facility. Daley v. Univ. of Colo. Health Scis. Ctr., 111 P.3d 554 (Colo. App. 2005).

Residency program operated by a public hospital under which resident physicians work at both public and nonpublic hospitals furthers the purposes of the public hospital and, therefore, constitutes the operation of a public hospital for purposes of subsection (1)(b). Sereff v. Waldman, 30 P.3d 754 (Colo. App. 2000).

Fact that alleged malpractice occurred at private hospital does not preclude determination that conduct is part of the operation of a public hospital when a physician holding a clinical faculty appointment with the residency program of a public hospital is supervising a resident physician at a nonpublic entity. Sereff v. Waldman, 30 P.3d 754 (Colo. App. 2000).

Clinic not a public hospital for purposes of this section. Plummer v. Little, 987 P.2d 871 (Colo. App. 1999); Montoya v. Trinidad State Nursing Home, 109 P.3d 1051 (Colo. App. 2005).

Nursing home not a public hospital for purposes of this section. Montoya v. Trinidad State Nursing Home, 109 P.3d 1051 (Colo. App. 2005).

Provision of risk analysis, claim review, and litigation assistance services pursuant to private contract is ancillary to primary purpose of hospital and, therefore, does not constitute operation of a public hospital. Immunity, therefore, is not waived under subsection (1)(b). Daley v. Univ. of Colo. Health Scis. Ctr., 111 P.3d 554 (Colo. App. 2005).

Personnel action only remotely related to hospital's primary purpose. Relation between hospital employee's discharge and provision of medical or surgical care to sick or injured persons is particularly tenuous with respect to administrative employees. Subsection (1)(b) cannot be construed as waiver of state's immunity with respect to personnel action. Craven v. Univ. of Colo. Hosp. Auth., 260 F.3d 1218 (10th Cir. 2001).

Sovereign immunity not waived since all plaintiff's claims involved conflicts among employees, who happened to be physicians, and related only indirectly to patient care. Such conflicts among employees do not concern the operation of a public hospital. Awad v. Breeze, 129 P.3d 1039 (Colo. App. 2005).

Specific immunity provision in § 17-27.7-103 (1) prevails over general waiver of immunity in subsection (1)(b) regarding the operation of a correctional facility or jail. Norsby v. Jensen, 916 P.2d 555 (Colo. App. 1995).

"Operation" of a correction facility includes the provision of medical care necessary for basic health for purposes of subsection (1)(b). Nieto v. State, 952 P.2d 834 (Colo. App. 1997), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 993 P.2d 493 (Colo. 2000).

State officials may be sued in their individual capacities for damages under 42 U.S.C. § 1983, and plaintiff's complaint sufficiently alleges that individual defendants acted in their personal capacities to withstand a motion to dismiss. State v. Nieto, 993 P.2d 493 (Colo. 2000).

Sovereign immunity waived in an action for injuries resulting from public entity's operation of correctional facility; however, where officer had probable cause to arrest plaintiff, confinement in detention center for a few hours was not false imprisonment. Rose v. City & County of Denver, 990 P.2d 1120 (Colo. App. 1999).

Operation of county jail does not include acts carried out in the performance of a criminal history investigation or in the making of a bond recommendation or report to a court, nor does it include the failure to serve warrants. Howard through Young v. Denver, 837 P.2d 255 (Colo. App. 1992).

C. Paragraph (c).

The term "public" in the definition of "dangerous condition" does not exclude a person in a public building at a city's invitation. It is the immunity created by the CGIA, and not the exceptions thereto, that must be strictly construed. Kittinger v. City of Colo. Springs, 872 P.2d 1265 (Colo. App. 1993).

Waiver of immunity under subsection (1)(c) concerning a dangerous condition of any public building is limited to building or structural defects and cannot be used to waive immunity for actions involving only the use of a public building. Jenks v. Sullivan, 813 P.2d 800 (Colo. App. 1991), aff'd, 826 P.2d 825 (Colo. 1992); Reynolds v. State Bd. for Cmty. Colls., 937 P.2d 774 (Colo. App. 1996); Jilot v. State, 944 P.2d 566 (Colo. App. 1996); Douglas v. City & County of Denver, 203 P.3d 620 (Colo. App. 2008).

To establish a waiver of sovereign immunity resulting from a dangerous condition under subsection (1)(c), the injured party must show that the injuries occurred as a result of the physical condition of a public facility or the use thereof that: (1) Constitutes an unreasonable risk to the health or safety of the public, (2) is known to exist or should have been known to exist in the exercise of reasonable care, and (3) is proximately caused by the negligent act or omission of the public entity in constructing or maintaining such facility. Walton v. State, 968 P.2d 636 (Colo. 1998); Padilla ex rel. Padilla v. Sch. Dist. No. 1, 1 P.3d 256 (Colo. App. 1999), aff'd, 25 P.3d 1176 (Colo. 2001); Springer v. City & County of Denver, 13 P.3d 794 (Colo. 2000); Douglas v. City & County of Denver, 203 P.3d 620 (Colo. App. 2008).

No waiver of immunity under subsection (1)(c) was intended for injuries caused by the use of facilities unless such use renders the facility itself an unreasonable risk to public safety or health. Mentzel v. Judicial Dept., 778 P.2d 323 (Colo. App. 1989).

No waiver of immunity exists under subsection (1)(c) when use of public building renders an integral part of the facility a dangerous physical condition. Longbottom v. State Bd. of Cmty. Colls. & Occupational Educ., 872 P.2d 1253 (Colo. App. 1993); Hendricks by and through Martens v. Weld, 895 P.2d 1120 (Colo. App. 1995).

A public entity does not have governmental immunity when it constructs a building through the services of an independent contractor and a dangerous condition arises from that construction. Springer v. City & County of Denver, 13 P.3d 794 (Colo. 2000).

Public entity may proximately cause a condition not only by affirmatively creating it but also by its omission in failing to reasonably discover and correct the unsafe condition. Springer v. City & County of Denver, 13 P.3d 794 (Colo. 2000).

Allegation that warm air vent on outside of public building caused or contributed to formation of ice on which plaintiff slipped was not sufficient to support waiver of immunity for a dangerous condition of a public building under subsection (1)(c) because the ice was not directly caused by or attributable to a physical or structural defect of the building and was at most an indirect effect of the design of the building. Seder v. City of Fort Collins, 987 P.2d 904 (Colo. App. 1999).

Neither grounds surrounding a public building nor driveway leading up to it are subject to a waiver of immunity under subsection (1)(c) or (1)(d)(I). Stanley v. Adams County Sch. Dist. 27J, 942 P.2d 1322 (Colo. App. 1997).

No waiver of immunity under subsection (1)(c) was intended for injuries caused by negligent use of storage closet as seclusion room. Plaintiff does not allege negligent maintenance but, instead, alleges improper actions on part of school staff in placing child out of their line of sight. Accepting plaintiff's argument would mean that any time a school child is injured as a result of being inappropriately placed out of direct line of observation by staff, governmental immunity would be waived under the "dangerous condition" exception. Neither the plain language of the statute nor the case law supports such a construction. Accordingly, the trial court did not err by neither considering nor making findings of fact as to this evidence. Padilla ex rel. Padilla v. Sch. Dist. No. 1, 1 P.3d 256 (Colo. App. 1999), aff'd, 25 P.3d 1176 (Colo. 2001).

Student's injury resulted from "dangerous condition" after sliding into unpadded wall in elementary school gymnasium during physical education class. Hendricks by and through Martens v. Weld, 895 P.2d 1120 (Colo. App. 1995).

Inoperable bus parked in a public building used for safety training is not part of the building that houses it and cannot be construed as a "dangerous condition of a public building" pursuant to this section. DiPaolo v. Boulder Valley Sch. Dist., 902 P.2d 439 (Colo. App. 1995).

University student's common law negligence action was within the immunity waiver for a dangerous condition of a public building where student, at the direction of the teacher, was cleaning out an overhead storage space when the extension ladder student was standing on slipped on the freshly sealed floor. Walton v. State, 968 P.2d 636 (Colo. 1998).

"Public building" includes fixtures. Reynolds v. State Bd. for Cmty. Colls., 937 P.2d 774 (Colo. App. 1996).

Determination of whether underground gasoline storage tanks constitute a dangerous condition of a public building under subsection (1)(c) depends on whether the tanks were installed in or annexed to the building as a fixture. Jilot v. State, 944 P.2d 566 (Colo. App. 1996).

Printing press was not a fixture, hence, liability was not waived for injury resulting from use of printing press inside a public building. Reynolds v. State Bd. for Cmty. Colls., 937 P.2d 774 (Colo. App. 1996).

A dry erase board that would normally have been affixed to a wall is a dangerous condition of a public building where plaintiff's injuries were attributable to the failure to secure the board properly. Booth v. Univ. of Colo., 64 P.3d 926 (Colo. App. 2002), aff'd, 78 P.3d 1098 (Colo. 2003).

The failure to post a warning sign or to supervise is not a maintenance issue. Such a failure does not involve the use of a dangerous physical condition of the building that is associated with its maintenance. Therefore, public recreation center's immunity under subsection (1)(c) was not waived. Douglas v. City & County of Denver, 203 P.3d 620 (Colo. App. 2008).

D. Paragraph (d).

1. Subparagraph (I).

The words "a public highway, road, or street" at the beginning of subsection (1)(d) include county roads. Meserole v. City of Aspen, 786 P.2d 456 (Colo. App. 1989) (overruled in Bloomer v. Boulder County Bd. of Comm'rs, 799 P.2d 942 (Colo. 1990), annotated below); Madill v. County of Adams, 799 P.2d 949 (Colo. App. 1989), cert. granted, judgment vacated, and case remanded to the Colorado court of appeals for reconsideration in light of Bloomer v. Boulder County Bd. of Comm'rs, 799 P.2d 942 (Colo. 1990), 799 P.2d 949 (Colo. 1990).

"Dangerous condition" waiver of immunity applies to: (1) Any road within the corporate limits of any municipality; (2) any highway that is a part of the federal interstate highway system or the federal primary highway system; (3) any highway that is a part of the federal secondary highway system; and (4) any highway that is a part of the state highway system. This section has been construed to effect a waiver of immunity for these categories of roads only and does not effect a waiver of immunity by counties for actions arising from injuries resulting from dangerous conditions on county roads. Bloomer v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 799 P.2d 942 (Colo. 1990), overruled in part on other grounds by Bertrand v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 872 P.2d 223 (Colo. 1994); Click v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 923 P.2d 347 (Colo. App. 1996); Wark v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 47 P.3d 711 (Colo. App. 2002).

E-470 is included within the waiver of immunity in subsection (1)(d)(I). For purposes of the CGIA, E-470 constitutes a federal interstate, federal primary, or federal secondary highway system and therefore immunity is waived. Lauck v. E-470 Pub. Hwy. Auth., 187 P.3d 1148 (Colo. App. 2008).

The federal highway designations contained in subsection (1)(d)(I) were replaced with a successor designation at the federal level, known as the national highway system (NHS). E-470 is listed as an NHS route, which is sufficient to establish a waiver of immunity under the CGIA. Lauck v. E-470 Pub. Hwy. Auth., 187 P.3d 1148 (Colo. App. 2008).

If the intent of subsection (1)(d)(I) is to provide a waiver of immunity for dangerous conditions on public roads, then E-470, which is a paved, four-lane, limited access, divided highway owned, operated, and maintained by a public entity, would not be excluded from such waiver of immunity. Lauck v. E-470 Pub. Hwy. Auth., 187 P.3d 1148 (Colo. App. 2008).

Subsection (1)(d) does not waive immunity of counties for dangerous conditions present on county roads. Subsection (1)(d) waives a public entity's sovereign immunity with regard to only four categories of roads demarcated by the disjunctive "or". The clause following the first "of" modifies "dangerous condition", and only the second and subsequent "of's" create categories of roads. Bloomer v. Boulder County Bd. of Comm'rs, 799 P.2d 942 (Colo. 1990), overruled in part on other grounds, Bertrand v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 872 P.2d 223 (Colo. 1994); Wark v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 47 P.3d 711 (Colo. App. 2002).

Addition in 1992 of last sentence in subsection (1)(d)(I) did not extend the waiver of sovereign immunity to dangerous conditions on county roads. Click v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 923 P.2d 347 (Colo. App. 1996); Wark v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 47 P.3d 711 (Colo. App. 2002).

If subsection (1)(d) is stricken, county remains immune with respect to an accident occurring on a county road, because the effect would be not to extend the waiver of immunity to county roads but, rather, to rescind the waiver. Am. Employers Ins. Co. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 547 F.2d 511 (10th Cir. 1976).

Reason immunity not extended to dangerous conditions of roads or streets. The apparent purpose of the general assembly in not extending sovereign immunity to actions for injuries resulting from dangerous conditions of roads or streets was to make governments liable for failure to maintain those facilities in a condition safe for public use. Stephen v. City & County of Denver, 659 P.2d 666 (Colo. 1983); Schlitters v. State, 787 P.2d 656 (Colo. App. 1989).

If the meaning of "dangerous condition" is limited solely to the physical condition of the road, this purpose would not be fulfilled. Schlitters v. State, 787 P.2d 656 (Colo. App. 1989).

Nothing in subsection (1)(d)(I) bars liability for a public entity if it failed to remove or mitigate the danger when it had the existing means to do so, actual notice of the condition through the proper public official responsible for the roadway, and a reasonable time to act. This is true even if the public entity's negligence did not proximately cause the dangerous condition consisting of an accumulation of sand and gravel on a roadway. Mason v. Adams, 961 P.2d 540 (Colo. App. 1997).

Dangerous condition may exist if there has been a failure to maintain the roadside so as to avoid the presence of obstructions on the traveled portion of a state highway. Schlitters v. State, 787 P.2d 656 (Colo. App. 1989).

Allegations of unreasonable risk to public health or safety were sufficient to state a claim for relief under the statutory exception to sovereign immunity where the plaintiffs' complaint alleged that: (1) Condition of highway was dangerous, (2) defendants had previous knowledge of numerous similar accidents and fatalities caused by falling boulders on the highway, and (3) defendants negligently failed to install devices that would have prevented boulders from this unstable slope from falling onto the traveled portion of the highway. Schlitters v. State, 787 P.2d 656 (Colo. App. 1989).

Dangerous condition is not limited to those conditions that have their physical source in the highway itself, and, although the absence of a barricade may not have itself created a dangerous condition, evidence supported the trial court's conclusion that both the failure to maintain the barricade properly in front of the dirt embankment and the dirt embankment itself created dangerous conditions. Hallam v. City of Colo. Springs, 914 P.2d 479 (Colo. App. 1995).

Failure to post warning signs cannot serve as the basis for finding a dangerous condition and, thus, a waiver of sovereign immunity. Mason v. Adams, 961 P.2d 540 (Colo. App. 1997).

Failure to warn highway users of a hazardous condition on a highway and failure to issue a travel advisory, reroute traffic, or close a highway in response to a hazardous condition does not constitute a waiver of governmental immunity. Medina v. State, 17 P.3d 178 (Colo. App. 2000), aff'd, 35 P.3d 443 (Colo. 2001).

Dangerous condition in a roadway not found. Sierra v. City & County of Denver, 730 P.2d 902 (Colo. App. 1986).

Complaint alleged negligent design of intersection, since the complaint did not allege that the city's acts in constructing or maintaining the intersection differed in any way from the provisions for construction and maintenance of the intersection contained in the initial design; thus, claims were barred by sovereign immunity. Willer v. City of Thornton, 817 P.2d 514 (Colo. 1991).

Sovereign immunity not waived under subsection (1)(d)(I) because overgrown trees and bushes in a median do not physically interfere with movement of traffic on the paved portion of the street. Cordova v. Pueblo W. Metro. Dist., 986 P.2d 976 (Colo. App. 1999), aff'd sub. nom. Corsentino v. Cordova, 4 P.3d 1082 (Colo. 2000).

No waiver of immunity for wildlife on highway. Immunity provision of § 33-3-103 is not implicitly amended or repealed by subsection (1)(d). Deneau v. State, 883 P.2d 567 (Colo. App. 1994).

Necessary to go beyond the wording of subsection (1)(d) and look at legislative history to discern legislative intent since wording in subsection is ambiguous. City of Aspen v. Meserole, 803 P.2d 950 (Colo. 1990).

Sidewalks are specifically included in description of municipal thoroughfares in subsection (1)(d); therefore, sovereign immunity is waived by the municipality. Meserole v. City of Aspen, 786 P.2d 456 (Colo. App. 1989), aff'd, 803 P.2d 950 (Colo. 1990).

Subsection (1)(d) does not provide immunity for city where a two-inch stub of a traffic sign interfered with and caused pedestrian to fall. City of Aspen v. Meserole, 803 P.2d 950 (Colo. 1990).

City is immune from liability for a roadway's abrupt transition at the ditch because the roadway was in the same condition as when it was originally constructed. Because the roadway remained unchanged, the city did not repair the roadway and is immune from any claims for negligence for allowing this condition to exist. Swieckowski v. City of Fort Collins, 934 P.2d 1380 (Colo. 1997).

The meaning of "public highway, road, or street" in subsection (1)(d) does not include the paved surface of a fenced, street-level parking lot with restricted access. Jones v. City & County of Denver, 833 P.2d 870 (Colo. App. 1992).

Constructive notice of dangerous condition. An entity's employees, ignorant of the presence of a particular obstruction, may be deemed to have had notice nonetheless if, in the exercise of ordinary diligence, they should have known of it. Morgan v. Bd. of Water Works of Pueblo, 837 P.2d 300 (Colo. App. 1992).

The question of constructive notice depends upon the facts and circumstances of each particular case and is ordinarily a question to be determined by the jury. Morgan v. Bd. of Water Works of Pueblo, 837 P.2d 300 (Colo. App. 1992).

The definition of "traffic marking" appears to be ambiguous, and the court must look beyond the bare meaning of the words. Hallam v. City of Colo. Springs, 914 P.2d 479 (Colo. App. 1995).

Evidence presented supported the trial court's conclusion that a barricade is not a traffic marking, which conclusion is consistent with the principle that a legislative grant of sovereign immunity must be strictly construed and with the general assembly's purpose in not extending immunity to actions for injuries resulting from dangerous conditions of roads. Hallam v. City of Colo. Springs, 914 P.2d 479 (Colo. App. 1995).

The 1986 amendments to this section did not alter the rule that a governmental entity can be sued for injuries resulting from a dangerous condition on a highway; rather, they were meant primarily to delete "traffic signs, signals, or markings, or the lack thereof" from the statutory definition of "the phrase 'physically interferes with the movement of traffic'". Schlitters v. State, 787 P.2d 656 (Colo. App. 1989); Moldovan v. State, 829 P.2d 481 (Colo. App. 1991), aff'd, 842 P.2d 220 (Colo. 1992).

Statutory language "the phrase 'physically interferes with the movement of traffic' shall not include traffic signs, signals, or markings, or the lack thereof" excludes the failure to post warning signs from the general waiver of sovereign immunity for injuries resulting from dangerous conditions. Willer v. City of Thornton, 817 P.2d 514 (Colo. 1991).

2. Subparagraph (II).

Improper placement of stop sign is within statutory definition of "dangerous condition" for which city may be held liable. Stephen v. City & County of Denver, 659 P.2d 666 (Colo. 1983).

Failure to modify or improve traffic signals. While negligence of public entity in designing or constructing portions of street or highway system or in maintaining them free of defects or obstructions is actionable under the CGIA, failure to modify or improve them to make them safer in light of changing use is not. Karr v. City & County of Denver, 677 P.2d 1384 (Colo. App. 1984).

A temporary stop sign is a "traffic control signal" for purposes of subsection (1)(d)(II) even though it is not a power-operated device. DeForrest v. City of Cherry Hills Vill., 990 P.2d 1139 (Colo. App. 1999).

Because the singular includes the plural under the rule of statutory construction set forth in § 2-4-102, the waiver of sovereign immunity set forth in subsection (1)(d)(II) for “failure to repair a traffic signal on which conflicting directions are displayed” applies to a public entity that fails to repair multiple traffic control signals that display conflicting directions. DeForrest v. City of Cherry Hills Vill., 990 P.2d 1139 (Colo. App. 1999).

A conflict between a temporary stop sign and a traffic light is a “traffic control signal on which conflicting directions are displayed” for purposes of subsection (1)(d)(II). DeForrest v. City of Cherry Hills Vill., 990 P.2d 1139 (Colo. App. 1999).

Subsection (1)(d)(II) precluded a grant of immunity to cities and a police officer in an action resulting from a car accident that occurred at an intersection where a temporary stop sign and a traffic light gave conflicting directions. DeForrest v. City of Cherry Hills Vill., 990 P.2d 1139 (Colo. App. 1999).

Sovereign immunity not waived under subsection (1)(d) where city allegedly failed to set a pedestrian signal so that a pedestrian could cross an entire intersection before the opposing traffic received a green light; however there was no evidence that the opposing traffic had a green signal at the same time as the pedestrian signal indicating that the pedestrian was allowed to cross the intersection. Lyons v. City of Aurora, 987 P.2d 900 (Colo. App. 1999).

At an intersection controlled by both traffic and pedestrian signals, where the traffic signal had been turned 90 degrees so that it displayed green lights simultaneously in two directions but the pedestrian signal was functioning properly, the trial court did not err in determining that “conflicting directions” were not displayed to a pedestrian for purposes of subsection (1)(d)(II). Moore v. City & County of Denver, 42 P.3d 82 (Colo. App. 2002).

Malfunctioning street light may constitute a dangerous condition. Though the street light is not physically on the roadway, it still “physically interferes with the movement of traffic”. Accordingly, the trial court did not err in determining that city’s immunity had been waived. Lin v. City of Golden, 97 P.3d 303 (Colo. App. 2004).

3. Subparagraph (III).

Although the public entity’s failure to post warning signs alone could not establish a dangerous condition, that failure was relevant to whether the entity had used existing means available to it to mitigate the danger. Martinez v. Weld County Sch. Dist. RE-1, 60 P.3d 736 (Colo. App. 2002).

Trial court did not err when it determined that plaintiff had established that defendant had actual notice of a dangerous condition when the particular place where the plaintiff fell was known to be a problem area, the build-up of ice there was a chronic and continuing problem, and the defendant had notice and knowledge of the condition. Martinez v. Weld County Sch. Dist. RE-1, 60 P.3d 736 (Colo. App. 2002).

E. Paragraph (e).

The common meaning of the word “maintain”, its legislative history, and Colorado case law support the court of appeals finding that a failure to “maintain” means a failure to keep a facility in the same general state of being, repair, or efficiency as initially constructed. Swieckowski v. City of Fort Collins, 934 P.2d 1380 (Colo. 1997).

Maintaining a safe work environment by diligently following personnel policies is at best ancillary to the purpose of operating a sanitation facility; therefore, claim that defendants failed to adhere to those policies is barred by the CGIA. Dobson v. City & County of Denver, 81 F. Supp.2d 1080 (D. Colo. 1999).

Sovereign immunity not waived pursuant to subsection (1)(e) for drowning that occurred at lake in city park. Although the record was unclear whether the lake was natural or manmade, if it was natural, the city was immune from liability because the natural condition of land, even within a park, cannot lead to a waiver of immunity. Even if the lake was manmade, the risk was not unreasonable where there was no evidence to suggest the lake had steep or particularly slippery shores that were constructed by the city. Even if dangerous conditions did exist, plaintiff must show that the city knew of the risk and either originally created the risk or negligently allowed the risk to continue. DeAnzola v. City & County of Denver, 222 F.3d 1229 (10th Cir. 2000).

City’s negligent failure to maintain the area surrounding a drainage ditch may support either a determination that a dangerous condition existed for purposes of subsection (1)(e) or a determination that, under subsection (1)(f), the negligent failure to maintain may have contributed to child’s death and his brother’s injuries. Where a drainage ditch is not properly maintained, a city may be held liable for obstacles that are not part of the original design. Powell v. City of Colo. Springs, 25 P.3d 1266 (Colo. App. 2000), aff’d on other grounds, 48 P.3d 561 (Colo. 2002) (decided prior to 2003 amendments to § 24-10-103).

Water department immune from liability arising from injuries caused by water meter pits on private property because city does not both operate and maintain such water pits. City & County of Denver v. Gallegos, 916 P.2d 509 (Colo. 1996); Horrell v. City of Aurora, 976 P.2d 315 (Colo. App. 1998); deBoer v. Ute Water Conservancy Dist., 17 P.3d 187 (Colo. App. 2000).

Water meter pit is not a public water facility when it is owned, operated, and maintained by a public entity but is located on private property and benefits solely the property on which it is located. deBoer v. Ute Water Conservancy Dist., 17 P.3d 187 (Colo. App. 2000).

A water meter pit owned by a city, located on city property, and operated and maintained by the city is a "public water facility" for purposes of subsection (1)(f). Wisdom v. City of Sterling, 36 P.3d 106 (Colo. App. 2001).

The 1986 amendment to subsection (1)(e) that deleted "public parking facilities" did not evidence the general assembly's intent to waive sovereign immunity for dangerous conditions in such facilities. In absence of clear language waiving immunity the court construed the subsection as evidencing the general assembly's intent to retain a public entity's sovereign immunity from liability for dangerous conditions in such facilities. Jones v. City & County of Denver, 833 P.2d 870 (Colo. App. 1992).

No waiver of sovereign immunity under subsection (1)(e) for public parking facilities because there is no clear statutory language waiving such immunity. Jones v. Denver, 833 P.2d 870 (Colo. App. 1992).

Any power or duty to maintain the visitor's parking lot at a correctional facility by the department of corrections is not directly related to the purpose of the facility. Pack v. Arkansas Valley Corr. Facility, 894 P.2d 34 (Colo. App. 1995).

Department of correction's maintenance of visitor area within correctional facility is directly related to purpose of correctional facility. Flores v. Colo. Dept. of Corr., 3 P.3d 464 (Colo. App. 1999).

The term "public hospital" does not include veterinary hospitals but only those public hospitals which care for sick and injured persons. State of Colo. v. Hartsough, 790 P.2d 836 (Colo. 1990).

The term "foster home" cannot be characterized as a "hospital" or a "correctional facility" for purposes of the sovereign immunity statute. Gabriel v. City & County of Denver, 824 P.2d 36 (Colo. App. 1991).

On-site clinic at Denver international airport is operated as part of the overall health services provided by the Denver health department, and an extension of the services rendered by Denver general hospital, that serves all of the general populace in Denver; therefore, the clinic is a "public hospital" under this section. Farina v. City & County of Denver, 940 P.2d 1004 (Colo. App. 1996).

So long as the facility is owned and operated by the public entity, is devoted to a public purpose, and is beneficial to a substantial segment of the public, it is a public facility or hospital under the CGIA. Farina v. City & County of Denver, 940 P.2d 1004 (Colo. App. 1996).

An electrical vault on private property used as a restaurant is a public electrical facility for purposes of subsections (1)(e) and (1)(f); there is a public benefit from the usage of the electricity because the general public patronizes the restaurant and because the use of transformers located in such electrical vaults promotes the efficient delivery of electrical power in the town. Ellis v. Town of Estes Park, 66 P.3d 178 (Colo. App. 2002).

"Public facility" located in a "recreation area" includes a college athletic field that is used for a variety of purposes, including recreation. Denmark v. State, 954 P.2d 624 (Colo. App. 1997).

Mere use of cabin for school-sponsored field trip does transform it into a public facility owned or maintained by school or school district. King v. U.S., 53 F. Supp.2d 1056 (D. Colo. 1999).

Rocks placed in a circle by a group of students do not constitute construction of a "facility". King v. U.S., 53 F. Supp.2d 1056 (D. Colo. 1999).

Circle of rocks is not a physical improvement to property under subsection (1)(e). King v. U.S., 954 P.2d 624 (D. Colo. 1999).

Immunity is waived pursuant to subsection (1)(e) only where the dangerous condition alleged of is of a physical improvement to the property, such as a building, boat dock, or fence. King v. U.S., 53 F. Supp.2d 1056 (D. Colo. 1999).

"Public facility" refers to a facility built or constructed by a public entity rather than a natural feature such as a tree based on the use of the phrase "public facility" in subsection (1)(e), its common meaning, and its grouping with other facilities in that subsection. Accordingly, a tree in a park or recreation area is not a public facility; however, if a public entity incorporates a tree into a facility in such a manner that it becomes an integral part of the facility and is essential for the intended use of the facility, the tree may be a component of the public facility. Rosales v. City & County of Denver, 89 P.3d 507 (Colo. App. 2004).

Based on the plain and ordinary meaning of "swimming", the term "swimming facility" in subsection (1)(e) refers to a facility that is both suitable and commonly used for swimming. Curtis v. Hyland Hills Park & Rec. Dist., 179 P.3d 81 (Colo. App. 2007).

An attraction in which visitors ride a raft down a plume is not a "swimming facility" for purposes of the CGIA. Curtis v. Hyland Hills Park & Rec. Dist., 179 P.3d 81 (Colo. App. 2007).

Absence of someone to regulate the spacing of people in rafts on a water attraction did not constitute a dangerous condition under (1)(e) because there was no physical defect in attraction's construction or maintenance. Curtis v. Hyland Hills Park & Rec. Dist., 179 P.3d 81 (Colo. App. 2007).

F. Paragraph (f).

City ordinance requirement for assertion of claims held void. City ordinance that requires installation of backwater check valves for assertion of claims for damages resulting from operation and maintenance of sewage lines and facilities imposes a requirement that is more onerous than that imposed by subsection (1)(f) and, therefore, is void. Fleckman v. City of Greeley, 673 P.2d 376 (Colo. App. 1983).

In order to be within the waiver of subsection (1)(f), plaintiff must show that public entity's negligence was related to a public water facility and that the negligence arose from the operation and maintenance of that facility. deBoer v. Ute Water Conservancy Dist., 17 P.3d 187 (Colo. App. 2000).

Once a county chooses to operate and maintain a public water or sanitation facility, it has a duty not to do so in a negligent manner. The statutory waiver of governmental immunity for damages resulting from the operation and maintenance of a public water or sanitation facility is an acknowledgment of such a duty by the general assembly. Larry H. Miller Corp.-Denver v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 77 P.3d 870 (Colo. App. 2003).

The pertinent act or omission of the public entity in subsection (1)(f) is deemed to be an "operation" only if it is vested by law "with respect to the purposes" of the public water or sanitation facility, and sovereign immunity is waived only if the act or omission relates to the purpose of the facility. Richland Dev. Co. v. E. Cherry Creek, 934 P.2d 841 (Colo. App. 1996).

City's negligent failure to maintain the area surrounding a drainage ditch may support either a determination that a dangerous condition existed for purposes of subsection (1)(e) or a determination that, under subsection (1)(f), the negligent failure to maintain may have contributed to child's death and his brother's injuries. Where a drainage ditch is not properly maintained, a city may be held liable for obstacles that are not part of the original design. Powell v. City of Colo. Springs, 25 P.3d 1266 (Colo. App. 2000), aff'd on other grounds, 48 P.3d 561 (Colo. 2002) (decided prior to 2003 amendments to § 24-10-103).

Trial court did not err in applying statutory waiver of governmental immunity for injuries caused by operation and maintenance of a public facility where defendant city had not constructed a storm sewer line in accordance with comprehensive plan and a later line installation constituted improper operation and maintenance of the facility. Scott v. City of Greeley, 931 P.2d 525 (Colo. App. 1996).

A "sanitation facility" as used in subsection (1)(f) includes a storm drain operated and maintained by a county. Burnworth v. Adams County, 826 P.2d 368 (Colo. App. 1991).

It also includes a "cross pan" that was a part of the town's storm water drainage system designed to transport water discharged into the cross pan from a culvert to a ditch that emptied into a lake. Smith v. Town of Estes Park, 944 P.2d 571 (Colo. App. 1996).

It also includes a drainage ditch built by a city to accommodate storm water runoff. City of Colo. Springs v. Powell, 48 P.3d 561 (Colo. 2002) (decided prior to 2003 amendments to § 24-10-103).

An artificial irrigation ditch that is partially owned and maintained by a city and is an integral part of the city's storm drainage system is a sanitation facility for purposes of subsection (1)(f). The fact that the city shares the ditch with others does not foreclose tort suits. A facility that fits the definition of sanitation facility because it is a device for the collection of storm water remains a sanitation facility whether or not it contains storm water on a particular occasion. City of Longmont v. Henry-Hobbs, 50 P.3d 906 (Colo. 2002) (decided prior to 2003 amendments to § 24-10-103).

Claims regarding an unsafe design of a drainage ditch fall within the provision of the CGIA, subsection (1)(f), that allows suit for injuries resulting from the operation and maintenance of a sanitation facility. City of Colo. Springs v. Powell, 48 P.3d 561 (Colo. 2002) (decided prior to 2003 amendments to § 24-10-103).

The urban drainage and flood control district does not "operate or maintain" a "sanitation facility" within the meaning of this section; therefore, the district does not waive its sovereign immunity. Larry H. Miller Corp.-Denver v. Urban Drainage & Flood Control Dist., 64 P.3d 941 (Colo. App. 2003).

By placing "gas facility" in the context of other public utilities in subsection (1)(f), the general assembly has expressed its intent to restrict the definition of that term to include only facilities that distribute natural gas rather than gasoline. Jilot v. State, 944 P.2d 566 (Colo. App. 1996).

An electrical vault on private property used as a restaurant is a public electrical facility for purposes of subsections (1)(e) and (1)(f); there is a public benefit from the usage of the electricity because the general public patronizes the restaurant and because the use of transformers located in such electrical vaults promotes the efficient delivery of electrical power in the town. Ellis v. Town of Estes Park, 66 P.3d 178 (Colo. App. 2002).

Phrase "public water facility" includes a water meter pit. Montoya v. City of Westminster ster Dept. of Pub. Works, 181 P.3d 1197 (Colo. App. 2008).

Operation of public water facility. Condemnation of fishing rights for recreational use does not fall within this exception to sovereign immunity. Aurora v. Commerce Group Corp., 694 P.2d 382 (Colo. App. 1984).

Lake in city park does not fall within the definition of a public water facility or swimming facility under subsection (1)(f). DeAnzosa v. City & County of Denver, 222 F.3d 1229 (10th Cir. 2000).

Ride at amusement park constituted a "swimming facility" for purposes of waiving immunity under subsection (1)(f). Water-themed adventure ride supervised by trained lifeguards in which participants generally wear bathing suits and ride a sled down a track, glide part way across a pool of water, and, after coming to a stop in the pool, swim a short distance and then walk out of the pool constitutes a swimming facility. Anderson v. Hyland Hills Park & Recreation Dist., 119 P.3d 533 (Colo. App. 2004).

A golf cart owned and maintained by a recreation district is not a "facility" for purposes of this section. Montes v. Hyland Hills Park, 849 P.2d 852 (Colo. App. 1992).

III. SUBSECTION (1.5).

The state is exposed to significant liability if negligence actions by prisoners are allowed, because of the unique nature of prisons and the obligations imposed in operating them. Subsection (1.5) recognizes the potential liability of the state, eliminates the potential exposure to this liability, and prevents the state from being subjected to frivolous lawsuits that may be brought by inmates. Davis v. Paolino, 21 P.3d 870 (Colo. App. 2001).

IV. SUBSECTION (2).

Running a red light without slowing down is not "within the provisions of" § 42-4-108

24-10-106.1. Immunity and partial waiver - claims against the state - injuries from prescribed fire - on or after January 1, 2012. (1) Notwithstanding any other provision of this article, the state shall be immune from liability in all claims for injury that lie in tort or could lie in tort regardless of whether that may be the type of action or the form of relief chosen by the claimant except as provided otherwise in this section or section 24-10-106. In addition to any other claims for which the state waives immunity under this article, sovereign immunity is waived by the state in an action for injuries resulting from a prescribed fire started or maintained by the state or any of its employees on or after January 1, 2012.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be construed to constitute a waiver of sovereign immunity if the injury arises from any act, or failure to act, of a state employee if the act is the type of act for which the state employee would be or heretofore has been personally immune from liability.

(3) In addition to the immunity provided under subsection (1) of this section, the state shall also have the same immunity as a state employee for any act or failure to act for which a state employee would be or heretofore has been personally immune from liability.

(2)(b); therefore, the government may be held liable for an accident resulting from such conduct. Tunget v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 992 P.2d 650 (Colo. App. 1999).

Individual defendants were not immune from liability pursuant to subsections (2) and (3) for negligent acts committed in course of operating correctional facility, and, therefore, state is not immune pursuant to this section. State v. Nieto, 993 P.2d 493 (Colo. 2000).

V. SUBSECTION (3).

Individual defendants were not immune from liability pursuant to subsections (2) and (3) for negligent acts committed in the course of operating a correctional facility and, therefore, state is not immune under governmental immunity pursuant to this section. State v. Nieto, 993 P.2d 493 (Colo. 2000).

VI. SUBSECTION (4).

Subsection (4) bars trespass claims in damage actions against public water or public sanitation facilities. In actions for injuries resulting from a dangerous condition of, or the operation and maintenance of, a public water facility or public sanitation facility, subsection (4) operates to bar claims that would otherwise allow recovery without a showing of negligence. Colorado law does not recognize negligence-based trespass claims. Accordingly, allowing plaintiffs to pursue a trespass claim in this case is directly at odds with the requirement in subsection (4) that negligence be proven to establish liability in such actions. Lawrence v. Buena Vista Sanitation Dist. 989 P.2d 254 (Colo. App. 1999).

Subsection (4) bars trespass and nuisance claims against a board of county commissioners. Langlois v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 78 P.3d 1154 (Colo. App. 2003).

(4) No rule of law imposing absolute or strict liability shall be applied in any action against the state for an injury resulting from a prescribed fire started or maintained by the state or any of its employees. No liability shall be imposed in any such action unless negligence is proven.

Editor's note: Section 5 of chapter 242, Session Laws of Colorado 2012, provides that the act adding this section applies to claims asserted against the state on or after January 1, 2012.

24-10-106.5. Duty of care. (1) In order to encourage the provision of services to protect the public health and safety and to allow public entities to allocate their limited fiscal resources, a public entity or public employee shall not be deemed to have assumed a duty of care where none otherwise existed by the performance of a service or an act of assistance for the benefit of any person. The adoption of a policy or a regulation to protect any person's health or safety shall not give rise to a duty of care on the part of a public entity or public employee where none otherwise existed. In addition, the enforcement of or failure to enforce any such policy or regulation or the mere fact that an inspection was conducted in the course of enforcing such policy or regulation shall not give rise to a duty of care where none otherwise existed; however, in a situation in which sovereign immunity has been waived in accordance with the provisions of this article, nothing shall be deemed to foreclose the assumption of a duty of care by a public entity or public employee when the public entity or public employee requires any person to perform any act as the result of such an inspection or as the result of the application of such policy or regulation. Nothing in this section shall be construed to relieve a public entity of a duty of care expressly imposed under other statutory provision.

(2) Nothing in this article shall be deemed to create any duty of care.

ANNOTATION

A basic purpose of the Government Immunity Act is to allow a person to seek redress for injuries caused by a public entity, and the government immunity created by the Act, being in derogation of the common law, must be strictly construed. State v. Moldovan, 842 P.2d 220 (Colo. 1992).

The language of this section, recognizing that the state is bound by certain statutory duties, does not create an implied waiver of sovereign immunity. Imposition of a duty of care alone is insufficient to waive sovereign immunity. Dept. of Hwys. v. Mountain States Tel., 869 P.2d 1289 (Colo. 1994).

While this provision precludes the creation of new duties for public entities or employees, it does not seek to limit prior existing common law duties. Gallegos v. City and County of Denver, 894 P.2d 14 (Colo. App. 1994), rev'd on other grounds, 916 P.2d 509 (Colo. 1996).

Even though generally there is no duty to protect students off the school premises, whether a school may, through its actions and policies, undertake such a duty (in this case rules and regulations restricting travel to school by bicycle) is a factual question to be determined by the judge or jury. Jefferson County Sch. Dist. R-1 v. Justus, 725 P.2d 767 (Colo. 1986) (case arose prior to enactment of this section).

School district did not assume duty to provide crossing guards at an intersection in the morning when kindergartners were walking home even though crossing guards were placed at the intersection in the afternoon. Jefferson County Sch. Dist. R-1 v. Gilbert, 725 P.2d 774 (Colo. 1986) (case arose prior to enactment of this section).

24-10-107. Determination of liability. Except as otherwise provided in this article, where sovereign immunity is not a bar under section 24-10-106, liability of the public entity shall be determined in the same manner as if the public entity were a private person.

ANNOTATION

Section authorizes an award of costs against a public entity in a tort action under the Governmental Immunity Act. Nguyen v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 987 P.2d 933 (Colo. App. 1999).

This section does not amount to an explicit legislative authorization to assess costs against a public entity in a contract action but rather applies only to tort actions. Denny Constr., Inc. v. City & County of Denver, 170 P.3d 733 (Colo. App. 2007), rev'd on other grounds, 199 P.3d 742 (Colo. 2009).

Applied in Martinez v. City of Lakewood, 655 P.2d 1388 (Colo. App. 1982); Kussman v. City & County of Denver, 671 P.2d 1000 (Colo. App. 1983).

24-10-108. Sovereign immunity a bar. Except as provided in sections 24-10-104 to 24-10-106, sovereign immunity shall be a bar to any action against a public entity for injury which lies in tort or could lie in tort regardless of whether that may be the type of action or the form of relief chosen by a claimant. If a public entity raises the issue of sovereign immunity prior to or after the commencement of discovery, the court shall suspend discovery, except any discovery necessary to decide the issue of sovereign immunity, and shall decide such issue on motion. The court's decision on such motion shall be a final judgment and shall be subject to interlocutory appeal.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "'Trinity' Hearings: Understanding Colorado Governmental Immunity Act Motions to Dismiss", see 33 Colo. Law. 91 (December 2004).

No waiver of eleventh amendment immunity. A state's waiver of its immunity against suit in its own courts does not constitute a waiver of its eleventh amendment immunity against suit in federal court. Verner v. Colo., 533 F. Supp. 1109 (D. Colo. 1982), aff'd, 716 F.2d 1352 (10th Cir. 1983), cert. denied, 466 U.S. 960, 104 S. Ct. 2175, 80 L. Ed.2d 558 (1984).

Sovereign immunity is in derogation of the common law and must be strictly construed. Exceptions to immunity are to be narrowly interpreted to avoid imposing liability not specifically provided for in the Colorado Governmental Immunity Act (CGIA). Richland Dev. Co. v. E. Cherry Creek, 934 P.2d 841 (Colo. App. 1996).

The CGIA provides that a public entity shall be immune from liability in all claims for injury which lie in tort or could lie in tort unless the injury is among those for which immunity has been expressly waived. Berg v. State Bd. of Agric., 919 P.2d 254 (Colo. 1996).

The CGIA is less concerned with what the plaintiff is arguing and more concerned with what the plaintiff could argue. The form of the complaint is not determinative of the claim's basis in tort or contract. A court must consider the nature of the injury and the relief sought. A court will assess the nature of the injury and the relief requested on a case-by-case basis through a close examination of the pleadings and undisputed evidence. Berg v. State Bd. of Agric., 919 P.2d 254 (Colo. 1996); Robinson v. Colo. State Lottery Div., 179 P.3d 998 (Colo. 2008).

When the injury arises either out of conduct that is tortious in nature or out of the breach of a duty recognized in tort law, and when the relief seeks to compensate the plaintiff for that injury, the claim likely lies in tort or could lie in tort for purposes of the CGIA. Robinson v. Colo. State Lottery Div., 179 P.3d 998 (Colo. 2008).

The nature of the relief is not dispositive as to the question of whether a claim lies in tort. Rather, the relief requested is merely an aid in understanding the duty breached or the injury caused to determine if the claim lies or could lie in tort. Robinson v. Colo. State Lottery Div., 179 P.3d 998 (Colo. 2008).

The dispositive question is whether the claim is a tort claim or could be a tort claim for purposes of analysis under the CGIA. Berg v. State Bd. of Agric., 919 P.2d 254 (Colo. 1996); Robinson v. Colo. State Lottery Div., 155 P.3d 409 (Colo. App. 2006), aff'd, 179 P.3d 998 (Colo. 2008).

Cases that could arise in both tort and contract are barred by the CGIA, for example, where a plaintiff could either sue to rescind a contract or affirm a contract and sue in tort for damages, while claims arising solely in contract are not subject to the CGIA. Robinson v. Colo. State Lottery Div., 179 P.3d 998 (Colo. 2008).

A claim that is supported by allegations of misrepresentation or fraud is likely a claim that could lie in tort. Robinson v. Colo. State Lottery Div., 179 P.3d 998 (Colo. 2008); City of Raton v. Arkansas River Power Auth., 611 F. Supp. 2d 1190 (D. Colo. 2008).

A claim for unjust enrichment can be predicated on either tort or contract. Because this particular unjust enrichment claim is predicated on tortious conduct and the nature of the injury arises out of a misrepresentation, this claim lies in tort or could lie in tort for purposes of the CGIA. Robinson v. Colo. State Lottery Div., 179 P.3d 998 (Colo. 2008).

The CGIA bars claim for damages resulting from city's delay in issuing a certificate of occupancy. Because a building permit is not a contract that promises or impliedly promises subsequent issuance of a certificate of occupancy, the claim could only lie in tort. Patz v. City of Loveland, 80 P.3d 908 (Colo. App. 2003).

The CGIA does not afford state agencies protection from plaintiff's promissory estoppel claims because promissory estoppel is a distinct contract claim. Berg v. State Bd. of Agric., 919 P.2d 254 (Colo. 1996).

County is a "public entity" entitled to sovereign immunity. Am. Employers Ins. Co. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 547 F.2d 511 (10th Cir. 1976).

If § 24-10-106 (1)(d) is struck, county remains immune. If paragraph (d) of subsection (1) is struck from § 24-10-106, a county remains immune as to an accident occurring on a county road, because the effect of striking paragraph (d) would be not to extend the waiver of immunity to county roads but, rather, to rescind the waiver as to the roads described in paragraph (d). Am. Employers Ins. Co. v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 547 F.2d 511 (10th Cir. 1976).

When claimed by a public entity before trial, the issue of governmental immunity is to be determined by the court. Generally, such issue is a question of subject matter jurisdiction to be decided pursuant to C.R.C.P. 12(b)(1). Kittinger v. City of Colo. Springs, 872 P.2d 1265 (Colo. App. 1993); Hendricks by and through Martens v. Weld, 895 P.2d 1120 (Colo. App. 1995).

Case remanded to trial court for further discovery on the issue of actual notice where trial court did not allow hold an evidentiary hearing or allow the plaintiff to conduct full discovery on the issue of whether defendant had actual notice of ice on the sidewalk outside a public building. Seder v. City of Fort Collins, 987 P.2d 904 (Colo. App. 1999).

A state actor cannot avoid liability under a state immunity provision in an action brought under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. City of Lakewood v. Brace, 919 P.2d 231 (Colo. 1996).

The manner in which a claim is characterized is not controlling. When determining if a claim is barred by the CGIA, the dispositive question is whether the claim is a tort claim or could be a tort claim. City of Lakewood v. Brace, 919 P.2d 231 (Colo. 1996).

Under the plain language of this section, the denial of a summary judgment motion asserting a sovereign immunity defense on behalf of a municipality is immediately appealable. City of Lakewood v. Brace, 919 P.2d 231 (Colo. 1996).

C.R.C.P. 54(b) certification not required for appeal from order granting or denying motion to dismiss based on governmental immunity. Richland Dev. Co. v. E. Cherry Creek Valley Water & San. Dist., 899 P.2d 371 (Colo. App. 1995).

Statutory limitation on judgment in § 24-10-114 is not an affirmative defense and is not waived if not presented in the pleadings, at trial, or in a motion for a new trial. City of Colo. Springs v. Gladin, 198 Colo. 333, 599 P.2d 907 (1979).

Later legislative enactment cannot effect a reversal of final appellate determination of the jurisdiction of the court under the CGIA. Powell v. City of Colo. Springs, 131 P.3d 1129 (Colo. App. 2005), aff'd, 156 P.3d 461 (Colo. 2007); Speight Family P'ship, LLLP v. City of Colo. Springs, 131 P.3d 1136 (Colo. App. 2005), aff'd, 155 P.3d 1099 (Colo. 2007).

Where there is a conflict between this statute and a rule which mandates that a judgment include any damages sustained, this statute governs and damages are not recoverable. Sherman v. Colo. Springs Planning Comm'n, 729 P.2d 1014 (Colo. App. 1986), aff'd, 763 P.2d 292 (Colo. 1988).

Express waiver of immunity bars defense. In claim against police officers and city, city waived immunity by confessing liability if arrestee prevailed on assault and battery claims against police, regardless of finding of negligence against city, and by stating as affirmative defense that arrestee's recovery was limited by CGIA, even though city incorrectly believed its self-insurance affected its immunity. Valdez v. City and County of Denver, 764 P.2d 393 (Colo. App. 1988) (decided under law in effect prior to 1986 amendment).

Sovereign immunity issues are neither jury questions nor matters to be determined according to summary judgment standards, but are to be determined by the court in accordance with C.R.C.P. 12(b)(1). Jarvis by and through Jarvis v. Deyoe, 892 P.2d 398 (Colo. App. 1994).

In resolving immunity issue the trial court did not limit itself to a consideration of the evidentiary materials submitted in support of and in opposition to the request for summary judgment, but instead properly conducted an evidentiary hearing and received testimony from witnesses. Cline v. Rabson, 862 P.2d 1035 (Colo. App. 1993).

A retaliatory discharge claim is a common law tort claim. Consequently, wrongful discharge claims are barred by the CGIA. Dyer v. Jefferson County Sch. Dist. R-1, 905 F. Supp. 864 (D. Colo. 1995).

Claims based on negligent misrepresentation or for estoppel of a municipality based on alleged misrepresentation are tort claims. Consequently, such claims are barred by this act. Arabasz v. Schwartzberg, 943 P.2d 463 (Colo. App. 1996).

The partial summary judgment granted to the defendant city is reviewable pursuant to this section because it was based on plaintiffs' argument that their equitable estoppel claim did not lie in tort and could not lie in tort and therefore was not barred by sovereign immunity. Kohn v. City of Boulder, 919 P.2d 822 (Colo. App. 1995).

Any appeal of the dismissal of a claim as barred by the CGIA must be sought immediately within the time limits specified in rule 4(a) of the Colorado appellate rules, or it is barred. Buckles v. State, Div. of Wildlife, 952 P.2d 855 (Colo. App. 1998).

Reference to "final judgment" does not require the public entity to pursue an interlocutory appeal whenever a trial court denies its pre-trial motion to dismiss. Rather, the section merely provides that the trial court's ruling is subject to interlocutory appeal. Walton v. State, 968 P.2d 636 (Colo. 1998) (holding contrary to Buckles v. State, 952 P.2d 855 (Colo. App. 1998)).

A trial court retains jurisdiction to hear the claims against nongovernmental defendants while an interlocutory appeal brought by a governmental entity pursuant to this section is pending. Christel v. EB Eng'g, Inc., 116 P.3d 1267 (Colo. App. 2005).

Applied in Gray v. City of Manitou Springs, 43 Colo. App. 60, 598 P.2d 527 (1979); Szymanski v. State Dept. of Hwys., 776 P.2d 1124 (Colo. App. 1989); Mentzel v. Judicial Dept., 778 P.2d 323 (Colo. App. 1989); State v. Zahourek, 935 P.2d 74 (Colo. App. 1996); Robinson v. Colo. State Lottery Div., 155 P.3d 409 (Colo. App. 2006), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 179 P.3d 998 (Colo. 2008).

24-10-109. Notice required - contents - to whom given - limitations. (1) Any person claiming to have suffered an injury by a public entity or by an employee thereof while in the course of such employment, whether or not by a willful and wanton act or omission, shall file a written notice as provided in this section within one hundred eighty-two days after the date of the discovery of the injury, regardless of whether the person then knew all of the elements of a claim or of a cause of action for such injury. Compliance with the provisions of this section shall be a jurisdictional prerequisite to any action brought under the provisions of this article, and failure of compliance shall forever bar any such action.

(2) The notice shall contain the following:

(a) The name and address of the claimant and the name and address of his attorney, if any;

(b) A concise statement of the factual basis of the claim, including the date, time, place, and circumstances of the act, omission, or event complained of;

(c) The name and address of any public employee involved, if known;

(d) A concise statement of the nature and the extent of the injury claimed to have been suffered;

(e) A statement of the amount of monetary damages that is being requested.

(3) (a) If the claim is against the state or an employee thereof, the notice shall be filed with the attorney general. If the claim is against any other public entity or an employee thereof, the notice shall be filed with the governing body of the public entity or the attorney representing the public entity. Such notice shall be effective upon mailing by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, or upon personal service.

(b) A notice required under this section that is properly filed with a public entity's agent listed in the inventory of local governmental entities pursuant to section 24-32-116, is deemed to satisfy the requirements of this section.

(4) When the claim is one for death by wrongful act or omission, the notice may be presented by the personal representative, surviving spouse, or next of kin of the deceased.

(5) Any action brought pursuant to this article shall be commenced within the time period provided for that type of action in articles 80 and 81 of title 13, C.R.S., relating to limitation of actions, or it shall be forever barred; except that, if compliance with the provisions of subsection (6) of this section would otherwise result in the barring of an action, such time period shall be extended by the time period required for compliance with the provisions of subsection (6) of this section.

(6) No action brought pursuant to this article shall be commenced until after the claimant who has filed timely notice pursuant to subsection (1) of this section has received notice from the public entity that the public entity has denied the claim or until after ninety days has passed following the filing of the notice of claim required by this section, whichever occurs first.

I. GENERAL CONSIDERATION.

Law reviews. For article, "1988 Update on Colorado Tort Reform Legislation — Part I", see 17 Colo. Law. 1790 (1988). For article, "Substantial Compliance With Governmental Immunity Act Notice Requirements," see 21 Colo. Law. 471 (1992). For article, "Asserting Governmental Immunity by Attacking Subject Matter Jurisdiction", see 22 Colo. Law. 2551 (1993). For article, "Discovery: A Prerequisite to the Running of the Governmental Notice Period", see 24 Colo. Law. 2381 (1995).

Annotator's note. Since § 24-10-109 is similar to repealed C.R.S. 1963, § 139-35-1, relevant cases construing that provision have been included in annotations to this section.

Section does not violate the equal protection clauses of either the Colorado or United States Constitution. Fritz v. Regents of Univ. of Colo., 196 Colo. 335, 586 P.2d 23 (1978); Uberoi v. Univ. of Colo., 713 P.2d 894 (Colo. 1986).

Although section establishes two classes. This section results in the establishment of two different classes: persons damaged by a tort committed by a public entity and persons damaged by a tort committed by a private person. Fritz v. Regents of Univ. of Colo., 196 Colo. 335, 586 P.2d 23 (1978).

Section controls over more stringent city ordinance. To the extent that a city ordinance governing the notice of claim imposes more stringent requirements than those imposed by this section, this section controls. State Comp. Ins. Fund v. City of Colo. Springs, 43 Colo. App. 112, 602 P.2d 881 (1979).

Effect of a nonclaim statute is to bar substantive claims. Barnhill v. Pub. Serv. Co., 649 P.2d 716 (Colo. App. 1982), aff'd, 690 P.2d 1248 (Colo. 1984).

Limitations for § 1983 actions. While actions under 42 U.S.C. § 1983 are governed by state statutes of limitation, the applicable state statute of limitations is former § 13-80-106 (now § 13-80-103) and not the time limit found in this act. Mucci v. Falcon Sch. Dist. No. 49, 655 P.2d 422 (Colo. App. 1982) (decided prior to 1986 enactment of § 24-10-119).

Notice issues arising under the Colorado Governmental Immunity Act (CGIA) must be decided pursuant to C.R.C.P. 12(b)(1), rather than by summary judgment and, depending on the case, the trial court may allow limited discovery and conduct an evidentiary hearing before deciding the notice issue. Capra v. Tucker, 857 P.2d 1346 (Colo. App. 1993); Lafitte v. State Hwy. Dept., 885 P.2d 338 (Colo. App. 1994); Armstead v. Memorial Hosp., 892 P.2d 450 (Colo. App. 1995); Miller v. Campbell, 971 P.2d 261 (Colo. App. 1998).

A plaintiff's failure to meet the 180-day notice requirement is a jurisdictional defect that may be raised by the defendant or the court at any time, but a plaintiff's failure to meet the notice requirement of subsection (3) is not jurisdictional and merely gives rise to an affirmative defense that must be timely raised by the defendant. Brock v. Nyland, 955 P.2d 1037 (Colo. 1998).

Compliance with the 180-day notice requirement is a jurisdictional prerequisite to suit. Water Dist. v. Bd. of Land Comm'rs, 968 P.2d 168 (Colo. App. 1998); Bird v. Pioneers Hosp., 121 F. Supp.2d 1321 (D. Colo. 2000).

A challenge to the contents of a notice of claim raises an issue of "sovereign immunity" for purposes of § 24-10-118 (2.5); the trial court's ruling in this case was a "final judgment" subject to interlocutory appeal. Bresciani v. Haragan, 968 P.2d 153 (Colo. App. 1998).

Whether the notice of claim sufficiently complied with the requirements of subsection (2) is an issue of law which is to be reviewed de novo. Bresciani v. Haragan, 968 P.2d 153 (Colo. App. 1998).

An equitable defense such as estoppel is inapplicable to this section and is not a defense to a claimant's failure to file written notice. A school district cannot by its own conduct excuse a claimant's failure to comply with the written notice requirements of this section and thereby confer upon the trial court subject-matter jurisdiction to hear claimant's claim. Mesa County Valley Sch. Dist. No. 51 v. Kelsey, 8 P.3d 1200 (Colo. 2000).

The university of Colorado is the "state" for purposes of the subsection (3) notice provision. Schmidt v. Harken, 42 P.3d 34 (Colo. App. 2001).

Applied in Roderick v. City of Colo. Springs, 193 Colo. 104, 563 P.2d 3 (1977); Lipira v. City of Thornton, 41 Colo. App. 401, 585 P.2d 932 (1978); Srb v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 43 Colo. App. 14, 601 P.2d 1082 (1979); Reussow v. Eddington, 483 F. Supp. 739 (D. Colo. 1980); In re Estate of Daigle, 634 P.2d 71 (Colo. 1981); Forrest v. County Comm'rs, 629 P.2d 1105 (Colo. App. 1981); Carroll v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 638 P.2d 816 (Colo. App. 1981); Martinez v. El Paso County, 673 F. Supp. 1030 (D. Colo. 1987).

II. APPLICABILITY.

It is only where a plaintiff has stated a federal claim that a notice of claim provision may be struck down based on supremacy because allowing a federal claim to be limited by state law would defeat the objective of the federal law. King v. United States, 53 F. Supp.2d 1056 (D. Colo. 1999), rev'd on other grounds, 301 F.3d 1270 (10th Cir. 2002), cert. denied, 539 U.S. 926, 123 S. Ct. 2572, 156 L. Ed. 2d 602 (2003).

Section applies to all actions which lie in tort, whether recognized at common law or created by statute. State Pers. Bd. v. Lloyd, 752 P.2d 559 (Colo. 1988).

Section relates to matters which have arisen when city is performing proprietary functions, as well as to any other actions which might be brought as a result of negligence for which a city may be responsible. Jacob v. City of Colo. Springs, 175 Colo. 102, 485 P.2d 889 (1971).

Claims arising under the provisions of the Colorado constitution are not authorized in the CGIA and Colorado law requires that causes of action for constitutional violations may be allowed only if there is a specific statutory authority for them. Connolly v. Beckett, 863 F. Supp. 1379 (D. Colo. 1994).

Section does not require a person contracting with state to file requests for payment with the claims commission (since abolished) where money has been previously appropriated therefor and the contract itself provides for the method of payment. Ace Flying Serv., Inc. v. Colo. Dept. of Agric., 136 Colo. 19, 314 P.2d 278 (1957) (decided under former CRS 53, § 130-2-1).

Claim that lawfully seized vehicle was unlawfully retained, could lie in tort and therefore failure to give required notice pursuant to the CGIA required that the action be dismissed. Denver v. Desert Truck Sales, Inc., 837 P.2d 759 (Colo. 1992).

Notice not required where claims arise out of breach of tenure contract. Where the plaintiff's claims arise out of a breach of the contract created by the statutory tenure provisions, the violation is a contractual one and is not covered by this article. Therefore, the plaintiff is not required to give the notice provided for in this section. Ebke v. Julesburg Sch. Dist. No. RE-1, 37 Colo. App. 349, 550 P.2d 355 (1976), aff'd, 193 Colo. 40, 562 P.2d 419 (1977).

A claim for loss of consortium constitutes an injury under the CGIA, and gives rise to a separate and individual right of recovery on behalf of the spouse claiming loss of consortium. A spouse may not maintain a claim for loss of consortium unless the spouse submits his or her own written notice of claim in accordance with the act. Smith v. Winter, 934 P.2d 885 (Colo. App. 1997).

Action against public employee for willful and wanton conduct is not subject to the notice provisions of the CGIA. Pacino v. Sanchez, 807 P.2d 1231 (Colo. App. 1990).

Notice-of-claim provisions were meant to apply to suits against state employees in their individual capacities for willful and wanton conduct despite the absence of sovereign immunity. Middleton v. Hartman, 45 P.3d 721 (Colo. 2002).

Section applies to civil actions brought under whistleblower statute, §§ 24-50.5-103 and 24-50.5-105. State Pers. Bd. v. Lloyd, 752 P.2d 559 (Colo. 1988).

Section does not apply to contract claims. State Pers. Bd. v. Lloyd, 752 P.2d 559 (Colo. 1988); Barrack v. City of Lafayette, 829 P.2d 424 (Colo. App. 1991).

Section does not apply to claims for civil rights violations. Mucci v. Falcon Sch. Dist., 655 P.2d 422 (Colo. App. 1982); Barrack v. City of Lafayette, 829 P.2d 424 (Colo. App. 1991); Conners v. City of Colo. Springs, 962 P.2d 294 (Colo. App. 1997), aff'd, 993 P.2d 1167 (Colo. 2000).

Compliance with notice provisions required where defendant sought affirmative relief in tort against the plaintiff based on a claim of tortious interference with contract. Water Dist. v. Bd. of Land Comm'rs, 968 P.2d 168 (Colo. App. 1998).

Similarly, where defendant sought affirmative relief for negligent misrepresentation that is different in kind or nature from that claim brought by the plaintiff, such a claim is also subject to the notice of claim requirements under the CGIA; however, if the defendant's counterclaim for negligent misrepresentation is viewed in part as a request to be restored to the position it was in before, in the event the contract is declared void, notice is not required. Water Dist. v. Bd. of Land Comm'rs, 968 P.2d 168 (Colo. App. 1998).

Examples of other situations in which this section does not apply are listed in Conners v. City of Colo. Springs, 962 P.2d 294 (Colo. App. 1997), aff'd, 993 P.2d 1167 (Colo. 2000).

Section does not apply where there was no actual or constructive notice to potential patients that a doctor and his assistants were functioning as public employees. Raicevich v. Plum Creek Med. P.C., 819 F. Supp. 929 (D. Colo. 1993).

Section inapplicable to bankruptcy proceedings brought against state university to set aside a foreclosure sale as a fraudulent transaction since the university waived whatever immunity it had by filing its proofs of claim. Matter of Windrush Assoc. II, 105 Bankr. 195 (Bankr. D. Conn. 1989).

Claims arising under the just compensation or due process clauses of the Colorado Constitution are excluded from coverage under the CGIA. Thus, section does not apply. Desert Truck Sales v. City of Denver, 821 P.2d 860 (Colo. App. 1991).

In the case of a federal claim, the court must address the issue of preemption and determine whether applicable federal law preempts the application of the notice-of-claim provisions pursuant to this section. Middleton v. Hartman, 45 P.3d 721 (Colo. 2002).

Section not applicable to federal Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA), 29 U.S.C. § 215, retaliation claim against state employees in their individual capacities. FLSA preempts the notice-of-claim provisions in this section, because the requirements of this section stand as an obstacle to the accomplishment and execution of the full objective of congress in enacting the FLSA. Middleton v. Hartman, 45 P.3d 721 (Colo. 2002).

Section not applicable to federal civil rights claim. To require notice as a condition precedent to suit would unduly interfere with the federal action. Miami Intern. Realty v. Town of Mt. Crested Butte, 579 F. Supp. 68 (D. Colo. 1984); Chacon v. Zahorka, 663 F. Supp. 90 (D. Colo. 1987).

Section not applicable to federal Emergency Medical and Active Labor Act (EMTALA), 42 U.S.C. § 1395dd, claim. EMTALA preempts the CGIA's notice requirement because the state statute is potentially in direct conflict with EMTALA's statute of limitations. The state procedural requirement stands as an obstacle to the accomplishments and execution of Congress's objectives in enacting EMTALA. Bird v. Pioneers Hosp., 121 F. Supp. 2d 1321 (D. Colo. 2000).

Section not applicable in inverse condemnation action. Since an inverse condemnation action does not arise under this article, the notice of claims provision (this section) does not apply in such an action. Hayden v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 41 Colo. App. 102, 580 P.2d 830 (1978).

In indemnity action, this section should not be applied in same precise manner it is applied when an injured party is seeking damages against a municipality for alleged negligence. Brady v. City & County of Denver, 181 Colo. 218, 508 P.2d 1254 (1973).

Section 29-5-111 and this section are not to be read together. The requirements of the governmental immunity provisions are extraneous to a town's liability under the liability of peace officers provisions. Antonopoulos v. Town of Telluride, 187 Colo. 392, 532 P.2d 346 (1975).

The secondary liability of a governmental entity as an indemnitor under § 29-5-111 is different and distinct from the direct liability imposed by this article. Antonopoulos v. Town of Telluride, 187 Colo. 392, 532 P.2d 346 (1975); Brown v. Gray, 227 F.3d 1278 (10th Cir. 2000).

Therefore, claims against peace officers not limited by notice provision. The liability of a municipality's police has traditionally existed despite the doctrine of sovereign immunity. Hence, the Colorado supreme court's prospective abrogation of the doctrine and the general assembly's enactment of this article was without effect on a peace officer's vulnerability to liability. Therefore, claims against the peace officers are not limited by the notice provision of this article. Antonopoulos v. Town of Telluride, 187 Colo. 392, 532 P.2d 346 (1975).

Limitations in § 24-10-114 (1) operate independently of the amount of damages requested under this section. Pyles-Knutzen v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 781 P.2d 164 (Colo. App. 1989).

III. PURPOSE OF NOTICE REQUIREMENT.

Purpose of requirement is to give authorities prompt notice of need to investigate the matter, to allow for immediate abatement of dangerous conditions, to foster prompt settlement of meritorious claims, as well as to allow a knowledgeable compliance with the statutory requirements for budgeting and tax levies. Antonopoulos v. Town of Telluride, 187 Colo. 392, 532 P.2d 346 (1975); Jefferson County Health Svcs. Ass'n v. Feeney, 974 P.2d 1001 (Colo. 1998).

The purposes of the notice requirement are to permit a public entity to conduct a prompt investigation of the claim, to remedy any dangerous condition, to make adequate fiscal arrangements to meet any potential liability, and to prepare a defense to the claim. Barham v. Scalia, 928 P.2d 1381 (Colo. App. 1996); Mesa County Valley Sch. Dist. No. 51 v. Kelsey, 8 P.3d 1200 (Colo. 2000); Gallagher v. Univ. of N. Colo., 18 P.3d 837 (Colo. App. 2000), rev'd on other grounds, 54 P.3d 386 (Colo. 2002); Awad v. Breeze, 129 P.3d 1039 (Colo. App. 2005).

The purpose of the notice requirement, among other things, is to give the municipal authority prompt notice of the need to investigate an accident. State Comp. Ins. Fund v. City of Colo. Springs, 43 Colo. App. 112, 602 P.2d 881 (1979).

The purpose of a nonclaim statute is to impose a condition precedent, namely, filing notice within the time specified, to the enforcement of the right of action for the benefit of the party against whom the claim is made. Barnhill v. Pub. Serv. Co., 649 P.2d 716 (Colo. App. 1982), aff'd, 690 P.2d 1248 (Colo. 1984).

The purpose of the notice requirement in subsection (3) is to ensure that the governing body or attorney of a public entity be directly involved, advised, and notified of potential litigation. Brock v. Nyland, 955 P.2d 1037 (Colo. 1998).

Allowing public entities to mislead plaintiffs about how to meet the requirements of the notice provision, and then to assert the affirmative defense of noncompliance, is beyond the legitimate purposes of the notice provision. Therefore, interpretations of the statute should not permit public entities to manipulate the notice provision to dodge otherwise proper suits. Finnie v. Jefferson County Sch. Dist. R-1, 79 P.3d 1253 (Colo. 2003).

IV. COMPLIANCE.

Notice provision of the governmental immunity article stands as a condition precedent to the commencement of an action against a public entity. Antonopoulos v. Town of Telluride, 187 Colo. 392, 532 P.2d 346 (1975); Jones

v. Kristensen, 38 Colo. App. 513, 563 P.2d 959 (1977), aff'd, 195 Colo. 122, 575 P.2d 854 (1978); Fritz v. Regents of Univ. of Colo., 196 Colo. 335, 586 P.2d 23 (1978); Sussman v. Univ. of Colo. Health Sciences Center, 706 P.2d 443 (Colo. App. 1985); Lloyd v. State Pers. Bd., 710 P.2d 1177 (Colo. App. 1985), rev'd on other grounds, 752 P.2d 559 (Colo. 1988); Mountain Gravel and Const. v. Cortez, 721 P.2d 698 (Colo. App. 1986); McMahon v. Denver Water Bd., 780 P.2d 28 (Colo. App. 1989); Brown v. Teitelbaum, 830 P.2d 1081 (Colo. App. 1991); City of Lafayette v. Barrack, 847 P.2d 136 (Colo. 1993).

However, the provision of subsection (3) that the notice shall be effective upon mailing by registered mail or by personal service is a technical filing requirement and is not a jurisdictional prerequisite to suit. Such provision does not require that notice be filed by registered mail. Therefore, mailing of notice by regular mail satisfied the requirements of this section. Blue v. Boss, 781 P.2d 128 (Colo. App. 1989); Woodsmall v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 800 P.2d 63 (Colo. 1990).

Absent a showing that the plaintiff was incapable of giving the requisite notice, compliance is a condition precedent to plaintiff's tort claim. Lloyd v. State Pers. Bd., 710 P.2d 1177 (Colo. App. 1985), rev'd on other grounds, 752 P.2d 559 (Colo. 1988).

The term "written notice" in this section means notice of a claim, and therefore, any documents on which the plaintiff relies to satisfy the requirements of this section necessarily must assert a claim by including a request or demand that the defendant public entity or employee pay the plaintiff an award of monetary damages. Mesa County Valley Sch. Dist. No. 51 v. Kelsey, 8 P.3d 1200 (Colo. 2000); Aspen Orthopaedics & Sports Med., L.L.C. v. Aspen Valley Hosp. Dist., 353 F.3d 832 (10th Cir. 2003).

The 180-day notice period does not commence until the claimant obtains, or reasonably could have obtained, actual knowledge of the injury. A two-year old child with brain damage cannot appreciate her injury and cannot be charged with such discovery. Cintron v. City of Colo. Springs, 886 P.2d 291 (Colo. App. 1994).

Notice sent by regular mail is not effective upon mailing. The date of mailing by regular mail has no legal significance; it is the date of receipt that governs whether notice sent by regular mail is timely. Reg'l Transp. Dist. v. Lopez, 916 P.2d 1187 (Colo. 1996); Peterson v. Arapahoe County Sheriff, 72 P.3d 440 (Colo. App. 2003).

Notice provision applies only to action brought under this article. Compliance with the notice requirement is a condition precedent only to an action brought under the provisions of this article. Antonopoulos v. Town of Telluride, 187 Colo. 392, 532 P.2d 346 (1975); Jones v. Ne. Durango Water Dist., 622 P.2d 92 (Colo. App. 1980).

“Compliance” means substantial compliance. The 1986 amendment did not intend to create a standard of absolute or literal compliance with the notice requirement, but rather intended a degree of compliance that was considerably more than minimal but less than absolute. The only fair characterization of such a degree is substantial compliance. Woodsmall v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 800 P.2d 63 (Colo. 1990); Cassidy v. Reider, 851 P.2d 286 (Colo. App. 1993); Barham v. Scalia, 928 P.2d 1381 (Colo. App. 1996); Dicke v. Mabin, 101 P.3d 1126 (Colo. App. 2004).

Plaintiff must demonstrate strict compliance with the time requirement of the notice, but only substantial compliance with the content requirements. Hamon Contractors, Inc. v. Carter & Burgess, Inc., 229 P.3d 282 (Colo. App. 2009).

The language of the 1986 amendment does not indicate any intent on the part of the general assembly to shorten the 180-day period and thus create a trap for the unwary, when the 180th day falls on a legal holiday. Matthews v. City & County of Denver, 20 P.3d 1227 (Colo. App. 2000).

Request for payment of monetary damages is the essence of the written notice required by this section and strict compliance is required. The request for payment of monetary damages is what shows that a document is a notice of claim under section (1). Standards of strict compliance must be applied in relation to section (1), rather than other standards of compliance applicable to other subsections of the notice-of-claim statute. Mesa County Valley Sch. Dist. No. 51 v. Kelsey, 8 P.3d 1200 (Colo. 2000).

Whether a claimant has satisfied the requirements of subsection (1) presents a mixed question of law and fact. Peterson v. Arapahoe County Sheriff, 72 P.3d 440 (Colo. App. 2003); Dicke v. Mabin, 101 P.3d 1126 (Colo. App. 2004).

Trial court rather than the jury is the fact finder on the issue of notice under the statute. Trinity Broad. of Denver, Inc. v. City of Westminster, 848 P.2d 916 (Colo. 1993).

Trial courts must resolve issues of compliance with the notice requirements in this section before trial, regardless of whether the notice requirement is a jurisdictional bar to suit. Finnie v. Jefferson County Sch. Dist. R-1, 79 P.3d 1253 (Colo. 2003).

In determining whether a claimant has substantially complied with the notice requirement, a court may consider whether and to what extent the public entity has been adversely affected in its ability to defend against the claim by reason of any omission or error in the notice. Woodsmall v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 800 P.2d 63 (Colo. 1990); Cassidy v. Reider, 851 P.2d 286 (Colo. App. 1993); Dicke v. Mabin, 101 P.3d 1126 (Colo. App. 2004); Awad v. Breeze, 129 P.3d 1039 (Colo. App. 2005).

An exact statement of the public entity's official name is not among the required contents of the notice. Cassidy v. Reider, 851 P.2d 286 (Colo. App. 1993).

Plaintiff herself was not required to deliver the notice, nor was it irrelevant that although the public entity was not correctly named in the notice, the notice was delivered to the correct address and the public entity's attorney received a faxed copy the next day. Cassidy v. Reider, 851 P.2d 286 (Colo. App. 1993).

In determining the sufficiency of a notice, a trial court must employ the C.R.C.P. 12(b)(1) standard, under which the plaintiff bears the relatively lenient burden of demonstrating that notice was properly given. If there is no evidentiary dispute, a trial court may rule on the pleadings alone. A court must, however, hold an evidentiary hearing when facts relating to immunity are in dispute. Awad v. Breeze, 129 P.3d 1039 (Colo. App. 2005).

Plaintiff has the relatively lenient burden of demonstrating that it complied with the notice requirements of this section. Tidwell v. City & County of Denver, 83 P.3d 75 (Colo. 2003); Hamon Contractors, Inc. v. Carter & Burgess, Inc., 229 P.3d 282 (Colo. App. 2009).

Where notice sufficiently identified plaintiffs and their addresses and included a concise statement of the factual basis for the claims in question, there was substantial compliance with the notice of claim requirements. Bresciani v. Haragan, 968 P.2d 153 (Colo. App. 1998).

Where notice gave both defendants the information necessary to investigate, remedy any problem, and make adequate financial arrangements to meet any potential liability, and also included a factual description that was sufficient to apprise both defendants that plaintiffs would seek to hold them liable for willful and wanton conduct, such notice substantially complied with the requirements even though the notice did not specifically use the words “willful and wanton”. Carothers v. Archuleta County Sheriff, 159 P.3d 647 (Colo. App. 2006).

Trial court erred in determining that a plaintiff substantially complied with this section where the plaintiff filed notice of claim after 180 days after the date of discovery injuries. The plain language of this section with respect to the 180-day provision requires strict rather than substantial compliance. E. Lake-wood Sanitation Dist. v. District Ct., 842 P.2d 233 (Colo. 1992) (holding contrary to Brown v. Teitelbaum, 830 P.2d 1081 (Colo. App. 1991));

Shandy v. Lunceford, 886 P.2d 319 (Colo. App. 1994).

Plaintiff's mailing of documents to the department of health did not amount to substantial compliance with notice provisions of this section. Bauman v. Colo. Dept. of Health, 857 P.2d 499 (Colo. App. 1993), cert. denied, 511 U.S. 1004, 114 S. Ct. 1369, 128 L. Ed. 2d. 46 (1994).

Accident report form and medical bills and reports received by a school district's manager do not constitute written notice of a claim pursuant to this section. Mesa County Valley Sch. Dist. No. 51 v. Kelsey, 8 P.3d 1200 (Colo. 2000).

An accident report form and medical bills and reports fail to make an explicit demand that the defendant reimburse plaintiff for her medical expenses or otherwise pay monetary damages for her injury. Mesa County Valley Sch. Dist. No. 51 v. Kelsey, 8 P.3d 1200 (Colo. 2000).

Notice of claim inadequate even though defendant knew that plaintiff was asserting a claim for her medical expenses from her oral communications, because this section requires notice of claims against public entities to be in writing. Mesa County Valley Sch. Dist. v. Kelsey, 8 P.3d 1200 (Colo. 2000).

Documents submitted to a public entity by third parties cannot constitute notice under this section where the documents were not authored by a plaintiff or her agent. Mesa County Valley Sch. Dist. No. 51 v. Kelsey, 8 P.3d 1200 (Colo. 2000); Bird v. Pioneers Hosp., 121 F. Supp.2d 1321 (D. Colo. 2000).

At most, such documents give rise to an inference that the plaintiff could have made a claim for damages against the defendant, but not that the plaintiff was in fact making such a claim. Mesa County Valley Sch. Dist. No. 51 v. Kelsey, 8 P.3d 1200 (Colo. 2000); Bird v. Pioneers Hosp., 121 F. Supp.2d 1321 (D. Colo. 2000).

Filing of notice with the claims department of the regional transportation district does not satisfy the requirement in subsection (3) that notice be filed with the governing body of a public entity or the attorney representing the public entity. The requirement may only be satisfied by filing notice with the governing board or attorney. Brock v. Nyland, 955 P.2d 1037 (Colo. 1998).

Subsection (3) requires substantial compliance with its terms. Courts should evaluate compliance on a case-by-case basis, considering principles of agency and equity, the purposes of the notice statute, and concerns of preventing governmental entities from misleading plaintiffs. Finnie v. Jefferson County Sch. Dist. R-1, 79 P.3d 1253 (Colo. 2003); Villalpando v. Denver Health & Hosp. Auth., 181 P.3d 357 (Colo. App. 2007).

County board of health, not the board of county commissioners, is the "governing body" of a county health department for purposes of notice under the CGIA. Jefferson County Health Svcs. Ass'n v. Feeney, 974 P.2d 1001 (Colo. 1998).

Knowledge of an accident by the employees of a city does not suffice, as formal notice is required. Jacob v. City of Colo. Springs, 175 Colo. 102, 485 P.2d 889 (1971).

Actual knowledge by the governmental entity of an incident giving rise to a claim, or of the claim itself, does not constitute compliance with the notice requirement as formal notice is required. Lloyd v. State Pers. Bd., 710 P.2d 1177 (Colo. App. 1985), rev'd on other grounds, 752 P.2d 559 (Colo. 1988); Stone Envir. Eng. Serv. v. State Dept. of Health, 762 P.2d 737 (Colo. App. 1988).

Serving a copy of an appeal of a personnel board action with an assistant attorney general does not fulfill the notice requirements of this section. Conde v. State Dept. of Pers., 872 P.2d 1381 (Colo. App. 1994).

The plain meaning of subsection (6) requires a claimant to timely file a notice of claim and properly serve such notice before filing a complaint. Filing and service of the complaint on the defendant or the defendant's attorney does not provide sufficient notice under the CGIA, and the complaint was properly dismissed. Kratzer v. Colo. Intergovernmental Risk Share Agency, 18 P.3d 766 (Colo. App. 2000).

By providing a notice of claim after an amended complaint had been filed, plaintiffs failed to comply with the subsection (6) requirement of waiting at least 90 days from the date of providing written notice of claim before instituting suit on the new claims in the amended complaint. Dicke v. Mabin, 101 P.3d 1126 (Colo. App. 2004).

Actual knowledge of a claim does not take the place of formal notice. Conde v. State Dept. of Pers., 872 P.2d 1381 (Colo. App. 1994).

Because a natural parent has no legal duty to prosecute a personal injury claim on behalf of his or her child, the actual knowledge of the parent with respect to the child's injury cannot be imputed to that child. Cintron v. City of Colo. Springs, 886 P.2d 291 (Colo. App. 1994); Muniz v. Garner, 921 F. Supp. 700 (D. Colo. 1996).

Notice may be given before injury established. This section does not preclude a party from giving notice prior to the date that the fact of injury is established. State Comp. Ins. Fund v. City of Colo. Springs, 43 Colo. App. 112, 602 P.2d 881 (1979).

A claimant must file notice of a claim with the proper authorities within 180 days after the date of discovery of the injury, regardless of whether the claimant knows all of the elements of a cause of action for such injury. Failure to file timely notice of a claim mandates dismissal of the action. Gallagher v. Univ. of N. Colo., 18 P.3d 837 (Colo. App. 2000), rev'd on other grounds, 54 P.3d 386 (Colo. 2002); Aspen Orthopaedics & Sports Med., L.L.C. v. Aspen Valley Hosp. Dist., 353 F.3d 832 (10th Cir. 2003); City & County of Denver v. Crandall, 161 P.3d 627 (Colo. 2007).

Notice held to contain sufficient information to substantially comply with the provisions of this section. Crouse v. City of Colo. Springs, 766 P.2d 655 (Colo. 1988).

Whistleblower substantially complied with the provisions of this section where the notice contained a concise statement alleging unauthorized communications to persons outside the state personnel system as the factual basis for her invasion of privacy claim. Therefore, the trial court erred in dismissing her entire whistleblower claim on that basis. Conde v. State Dept. of Pers., 872 P.2d 1381 (Colo. App. 1994).

Compliance with this section is necessary when an employee brings suit under the whistleblower statute seeking relief for injuries covered by § 24-10-103 (2). State Pers. Bd. v. Lloyd, 752 P.2d 559 (Colo. 1988); Gallagher v. Univ. of N. Colo., 18 P.3d 837 (Colo. App. 2000), rev'd on other grounds, 54 P.3d 386 (Colo. 2002).

Because the whistleblower statute was intended to create a non-contractual, statutory action that is tortious in nature, a claim brought under the statute is subject to the notice requirements of the CGIA. Conde v. State Dept. of Pers., 872 P.2d 1381 (Colo. App. 1994).

Notice given by insurer of the person claiming injury, rather than by the claimant, is sufficient to meet the statute's requirement of "substantial compliance." Isbill Assocs. v. City & County of Denver, 666 P.2d 1117 (Colo. App., 1983).

Filing complaint with district court and not serving complaint upon public entity or individual defendants held not to constitute "substantial compliance" with the notice provisions of the act. Uberoi v. Univ. of Colo., 713 P.2d 894 (Colo. 1986).

Whistleblower did not substantially comply with the provisions of this section where the notice contained no references whatsoever to incidents of retaliatory harassment or failure to promote. Conde v. State Dept. of Pers., 872 P.2d 1381 (Colo. App. 1994).

Compliance with the administrative requirements of the Employee Protection Act will not satisfy the purposes of this section's notice provision. State Pers. Bd. v. Lloyd, 752 P.2d 559 (Colo. 1988).

Trial court did not err in determining that plaintiff failed to give the statutory notice in medical malpractice action where plaintiff retained counsel and obtained a set of doctors' and hospital's medical records by December 1985 but filed no notice of claim until August 1987. Brown v. Teitelbaum, 830 P.2d 1081 (Colo. App. 1991).

Notice was insufficient to comply with statute where there was no evidence that the notices of claim sent by regular mail had been received. When a party fails to establish that proper notice was provided in compliance with the 180-day notice requirement, the party's action must be dismissed. Armstead v. Memorial Hosp., 892 P.2d 450 (Colo. App. 1995).

Failure to file written notice is a complete defense to any action brought by an injured party against those that fall within this article. Roberts v. City of Boulder, 197 Colo. 97, 589 P.2d 934 (1979); Lloyd v. State Pers. Bd., 710 P.2d 1177 (Colo. App. 1985), rev'd on other grounds, 752 P.2d 559 (Colo. 1988); Stone Envir. Eng. Serv. v. State Dept. of Health, 762 P.2d 737 (Colo. App. 1988).

Where the injury to plaintiff's property did not constitute a taking by the county, plaintiff's failure to supply the public entity with written notice that they were bringing an action pursuant to the CGIA resulted in dismissal of the complaint. Kratzenstein v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 674 P.2d 1009 (Colo. App. 1983).

Failure to comply with provisions of this section provides trial court with basis to bar plaintiff's claim. Deason v. Lewis, 706 P.2d 1283 (Colo. App. 1985); Mountain Gravel and Const. v. Cortez, 721 P.2d 698 (Colo. App. 1986).

Public entity not liable for judgment against employee. If a claimant fails to give the notice required by this section, a public entity cannot be liable under § 24-10-110 for a judgment against an employee in his individual capacity or for the employee's cost of defense. Kristensen v. Jones, 195 Colo. 122, 575 P.2d 854 (1978).

Proceedings subject to dismissal for failure to allege notice or waiver. By failing to allege compliance with the condition precedent of notice or waiver, a claim is insufficient, cannot be cured by amendment, and is, therefore, subject to dismissal at any stage of the proceedings. Jones v. Ne. Durango Water Dist., 622 P.2d 92 (Colo. App. 1980); Kratzer v. Colo. Intergovernmental Risk Share Agency, 18 P.3d 766 (Colo. App. 2000); Aspen Orthopaedics & Sports Med., L.L.C. v. Aspen Valley Hosp. Dist., 353 F.3d 832 (10th Cir. 2003).

The failure to allege compliance with the notice provision in an original complaint does not require dismissal of the complaint or judgment notwithstanding the verdict so long as the fact of the complying notice was established by the evidence. Morgan v. Bd. of Water Works of Pueblo, 837 P.2d 300 (Colo. App. 1992).

Strict compliance with notice provision is necessary for subject matter jurisdiction. Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. v. Denver Sch. Dist. No. 1, 787 P.2d 206 (Colo. App. 1989); Bauman v. Colo. Dept. of Health, 857 P.2d 499 (Colo. App. 1993); Barham v. Scalia, 928 P.2d 1381 (Colo. App. 1996).

When a plaintiff fails to plead compliance with the CGIA, and a court addresses the case in the context of a motion to dismiss, the court must accept as a matter of "fact" that the plaintiff failed to comply with the notice provisions. This lack of compliance, then, is a jurisdictional issue. Aspen Orthopaedics & Sports Med., L.L.C. v. Aspen Valley Hosp. Dist., 353 F.3d 832 (10th Cir. 2003).

Failure to move for dismissal until trial not waiver of notice. The fact that the defendants do not move for dismissal until the time of trial does not constitute a waiver of the notice requirement. Jones v. Ne. Durango Water Dist., 622 P.2d 92 (Colo. App. 1980).

Public entities may be equitably estopped from asserting bar of this section to prevent manifest injustice. Gray v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 43 Colo. App. 107, 602 P.2d 879 (1979).

Even if subsection (3) requires notice to the city council as the "governing body," public entities may be equitably estopped from setting up this section as a bar to actions against it. Isbill Assocs. v. City & County of Denver, 666 P.2d 1117 (Colo. App. 1983).

City is not equitably estopped from asserting the notice requirement as a bar to actions against it unless the plaintiffs can show a change of position to their detriment in justifiable reliance on the words or conduct of the city. Morrison v. City of Aurora, 745 P.2d 1042 (Colo. App. 1987).

Notice to the defendant is not required pursuant to this section unless defendant's actions were during the performance of his duties and within the scope of his employment. Kennedy v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 776 P.2d 1159 (Colo. App. 1989); Hartman v. Regents of the Univ. of Colo., 22 P.3d 524 (Colo. App. 2000), aff'd, 45 P.3d 721 (Colo. 2002).

The plain language of subsection (3) requires a notice of claim against a public entity other than the state to be filed with the governing body of the public entity or the attorney representing the public entity and the filing of a notice of claim with the regional transportation district's risk manager does not constitute compliance with the requirements of subsection (3). Brock v. Nyland, 955 P.2d 1037 (Colo. 1998); Curlin v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 983 P.2d 178 (Colo. App. 1999).

Where the attorney general delegated responsibility for handling claims to the university counsel in a memorandum of understanding, a plaintiff who sent notice of a claim to the university complied with the requirements of subsection (3). Booth v. Univ. of Colo., 64 P.3d 926 (Colo. App. 2002), aff'd, 78 P.3d 1098 (Colo. 2003).

Decision of the Colorado supreme court could be applied retroactively where holding that subsection (3) requires a notice of claim against a public entity other than the state to be filed with the governing body of the public entity or the attorney representing the public entity did not establish a new rule of law. Curlin v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 983 P.2d 178 (Colo. App. 1999).

Compliance with subsection (3) is not a jurisdictional prerequisite to suit, but failure to comply with subsection (3) mandates dismissal of an action absent a showing that a public entity waived or should be estopped from raising the failure to comply as a bar to suit. Curlin v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 983 P.2d 178 (Colo. App. 1999).

There is no requirement in this section that a notice of claim be provided to a public employee or that employee's attorney. Rather, this section only requires that a notice be sent to the attorney general when the state is involved, or to the governing body of the public entity involved or that entity's attorney. Barham v. Scalia, 928 P.2d 1381 (Colo. App. 1996).

The giving of notice may be excused under proper circumstances of mental and physical incapacity, the question of sufficiency of the circumstances being one for the jury. Jacob v. City of Colo. Springs, 175 Colo. 102, 485 P.2d 889 (1971).

Exception to notice requirement applies where disabled person sues by his legal representative. Antonopoulos v. Town of Telluride, 187 Colo. 392, 532 P.2d 346 (1975).

All persons laboring under general forms of disability included in exception. The exception to the notice requirement includes all persons laboring under any of the generally recognized forms of disability as defined in § 13-81-101 (3). Antonopoulos v. Town of Telluride, 187 Colo. 392, 532 P.2d 346 (1975).

Compliance not essential for jurisdiction. Compliance with the notice provisions of the CGIA is not essential to the court's jurisdiction. Nowakowski v. District Court, 664 P.2d 709 (Colo. 1983).

Failure to comply with § 24-10-109 notice requirements does not bar federal age discrimination claim. Bauman v. Colo. Dept. of Health, 857 P.2d 499 (Colo. App. 1993), cert. denied, 511 U.S. 1004, 114 S. Ct. 1369, 128 L. Ed. 2d. 46 (1994).

Affidavit by parties presented material issue of fact as to satisfaction of notice requirement and as to whether actions of public transit authority estopped it from raising lack of notice. Coady v. Worrell, 686 P.2d 1375 (Colo. App. 1984).

Substantial compliance with the 180-day notice provision is a condition precedent to any "action" brought under the CGIA, therefore, the time for filing minors' notice is not extended pursuant to the tolling provisions of § 13-81-103 until two years after the minors' legal representative is appointed. Brown v. Teitelbaum, 830 P.2d 1081 (Colo. App. 1991).

Where plaintiffs failed to plead compliance with the notice requirements of the CGIA, the district court should dismiss their complaint without prejudice. Plaintiffs may move for leave to file a second amended complaint and plead compliance with the CGIA notice requirements, if they believe they can cure their insufficient amended complaint. Aspen Orthopaedics & Sports Med., L.L.C. v. Aspen Valley Hosp. Dist., 353 F.3d 832 (10th Cir. 2003).

Merely taking steps to protect the legal interests of a client following initiation of a lawsuit does not qualify as a denial of a claim within the meaning of subsection (6). Treating a defendant's legal response to the complaint as a denial of a claim, when no notice of claim has previously been filed, undermines the very purposes served by the subsection (6) 90-day waiting period, namely, to allow a public entity to investigate and remedy dangerous conditions, to settle meritorious claims without incurring the expenses associated with litigation, to make necessary fiscal arrangements to cover potential liability, and to prepare for the defense of claims. Dicke v. Mabin, 101 P.3d 1126 (Colo. App. 2004).

Applied in Clark v. Tinnin, 731 F. Supp. 998 (D. Colo. 1990).

V. TIME PERIODS.

"Discovery of the injury" construed. The phrase "discovery of the injury" implicitly encompasses the discovery of the basis of the claim. Young v. State, 642 P.2d 18 (Colo. App. 1981), aff'd, 665 P.2d 108 (Colo. 1983).

"Injury" triggering notice requirement includes a decrease in the value of property, where such decrease results from government's announcement of intent to take action physically affecting property at some time in the future. City of Lafayette v. Barrack, 847 P.2d 136 (Colo. 1993).

The start of the notice period for injuries begins when an injury and its cause are discovered. Trinity Broad. of Denver, Inc. v. City of Westminster, 848 P.2d 916 (Colo. 1993); Miller v. Campbell, 971 P.2d 261 (Colo. App. 1998); City & County of Denver v. Crandall, 161 P.3d 627 (Colo. 2007).

The trigger for the 180 days in cases of death is the same as in all injuries; the period starts to run when the death and its cause are discovered. Miller v. Campbell, 971 P.2d 261 (Colo. App. 1998).

Claimant must have opportunity to discover underlying facts. There must be a reasonable opportunity for a claimant to discover the basic and material facts underlying a claim before she is duty-bound to give the statutory notice required by subsection (1). State v. Young, 665 P.2d 108 (Colo. 1983); Brown v. Teitelbaum, 830 P.2d 1081 (Colo. App. 1991).

In medical malpractice claims, patients who rely on their physicians' diagnosis of permanent injury should not be barred from suit because their trust in the physicians prevented earlier discovery of the injury. Nor should patients be compelled to file suit before they are aware of the physician's wrongful conduct. Smith v. Winter, 934 P.2d 885 (Colo. App. 1997); Miller v. Campbell, 971 P.2d 261 (Colo. App. 1998).

The CGIA's notice period places the burden on the injured party to determine the cause of the injury, to ascertain whether a governmental entity or public employee is the cause, and to notify the governmental entity within 180 days from the time when the injury is discovered. Trinity Broad. of Denver, Inc. v. City of Westminster, 848 P.2d 916 (Colo. 1993); Grossman v. City & County of Denver, 878 P.2d 125 (Colo. App. 1994); Miller v. Campbell, 971 P.2d 261 (Colo. App. 1998); City & County of Denver v. Crandall, 161 P.3d 627 (Colo. 2007).

A claimant has a duty of reasonable diligence to determine the basic and material facts underlying a potential claim against a governmental entity. Therefore, a claimant building owner who allowed four months to pass before hiring an engineer or take other appropriate steps to investigate the cause of the building's cracking foundation failed to prove the statute was unconstitutional as applied to it. Trinity Broad. of Denver, Inc. v. City of Westminster, 848 P.2d 916 (Colo. 1993).

Action against city barred where there was reasonable opportunity to discover the underlying facts and the notice was not amended nor replaced. Miller v. Mountain Valley Ambul. Serv., 694 P.2d 362 (Colo. App. 1984).

Notice period begins to run in indemnity action when tort-feasor knows of injury. The running of the 90 (now 180) days as provided in this section should not begin to run in an indemnity action until such time as the alleged tort-feasor receives knowledge of the occurrence of a secondary injury. Brady v. City & County of Denver, 181 Colo. 218, 508 P.2d 1254 (1973).

Notice period is triggered when claimants discover or should have discovered they have been wrongfully injured. Smith v. Winter, 934 P.2d 885 (Colo. App. 1997).

And at conclusion of disability for disabled person. A disabled person is relieved from the statutory duty of giving notice until the removal of his disability. At the conclusion of the disability, the 90-day (180-day) notice requirement commences and runs as it would against any other claimant. Antonopoulos v. Town of Telluride, 187 Colo. 392, 532 P.2d 346 (1975); Fritz v. Regents of Univ. of Colo., 196 Colo. 335, 586 P.2d 23 (1978).

Notice period does not begin to run until appointment of legal representation where plaintiff was rendered incapacitated as a result of the incident that gave rise to the claim. Plaintiff suffered severe permanent brain injury and could not know, or reasonably be expected to know, of her injuries. No formal adjudication of incapacity is needed to find that 180-day period had not commenced as a result of a disability. Visser ex rel. Eder v. Mahan, 111 P.3d 575 (Colo. App. 2005).

The notice period does not begin to run until the plaintiff discovers his or her injury. Where the plaintiff was rendered unconscious as a result of the accident that gave rise to the claim and subsequently suffered memory loss due to anesthesia and the injuries suffered, the 180-day notice period did not begin to run until the plaintiff recovered his memory and thereby discovered his injury. Since the notice was filed within 171 days after plaintiff recovered his memory, the filing was timely. Bryant v. City of Lafayette, 946 P.2d 499 (Colo. App. 1997).

Premature filing of action not fatal. Dismissal with prejudice is too harsh a sanction for the filing of an action before expiration of the response period set forth in subsection (6). Lopez v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 899 P.2d 254 (Colo. App. 1994), aff'd on other grounds, 916 P.2d 1187 (Colo. 1996).

Contrary to the plain language of subsection (1), the premature filing of a complaint prior to the expiration of the 90-day period set forth in subsection (6) was not a jurisdictional defect mandating dismissal of the action. Dicke v. Mabin, 101 P.3d 1126 (Colo. App. 2004).

Section 24-10-118 (1)(a) does not make compliance with subsection (6) of this section a jurisdictional prerequisite for suing public employees. Dicke v. Mabin, 101 P.3d 1126 (Colo. App. 2004).

Party may not wait until all elements of claim mature. Once the underlying basis of the claim is discovered, or should have been discovered, the aggrieved party may not wait until all elements of the claim mature. Young v. State, 642 P.2d 18 (Colo. App. 1981), aff'd, 605 P.2d 108 (Colo. 1983); Mountain Gravel and Const. v. Cortez, 721 P.2d 698 (Colo. App. 1986); Morrison v. City of Aurora, 745 P.2d 1042 (Colo. App. 1987); City of Lafayette v. Barrack, 847 P.2d 136 (Colo. 1993); Abrahamson v. City of Montrose, 77 P.3d 819 (Colo. App. 2003).

Injuries from a false arrest or false imprisonment do not result from learning that the charges underlying the arrest and imprisonment were inadequate; the injuries are inherent in the acts themselves. Just as claims for false arrest and false imprisonment presumptively accrue for the purposes of a statute of limitations when the wrongful acts occur, necessarily, they presumptively accrue for purposes of filing a CGIA notice of claim no later than those dates. Masters v. Castrodale, 121 P.3d 362 (Colo. App. 2005).

A plaintiff may not invoke the continuing violation doctrine to relate his notice of a claim to conduct that caused injury more than 180 days before he filed the notice. Application of such doctrine would have the effect of allowing the plaintiff to accumulate his damages before requiring him to give notice of claim as required by this section, thereby defeating the purpose of the notice claim statute. Gallagher v. Univ. of N. Colo., 18 P.3d 837 (Colo. App. 2000), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 54 P.3d 386 (Colo. 2002).

Trial court erred in not granting defendant's motion to the extent it sought dismissal of any claim for damages that arose from conduct occurring more than 180 days prior to filing notice of claim. Gallagher v. Univ. of N. Colo., 18 P.3d 837 (Colo. App. 2000), rev'd on other grounds, 54 P.3d 386 (Colo. 2002); City & County of Denver v. Crandall, 161 P.3d 627 (Colo. 2007).

The CGIA requires timely notice of claim. The CGIA notice of claim provision is both a condition precedent and a jurisdictional prerequisite to suit under the CGIA and must be strictly applied and failure to comply with it is an absolute bar to suit. City & County of Denver v. Crandall, 161 P.3d 627 (Colo. 2007).

Claimant must demonstrate that he or she filed a timely notice of claim within 180 days from when the claimant discovered the injury due to an occurrence. City & County of Denver v. Crandall, 161 P.3d 627 (Colo. 2007).

The recurrence of symptoms outside of the 180-day period does not excuse failure to timely file under the CGIA's notice requirement. City & County of Denver v. Crandall, 161 P.3d 627 (Colo. 2007).

Tolling of the statute of limitations does not occur under subsection (5) if the 90-day waiting period expires prior to the expiration of the two-year statute of limitations. Cochran v. W. Glenwood Springs Sanitation Dist., 223 P.3d 123 (Colo. App. 2009).

Since plaintiffs failed to establish a separate and discrete occurrence, recurring symptoms from an injury first discovered outside the 180-day notice period does not excuse failure to timely file written notice of injury. City & County of Denver v. Crandall, 161 P.3d 627 (Colo. 2007).

Notice held to be timely. Nat'l Cas. Co. v. Great Southwest Ins., 833 P.2d 741 (Colo. 1992).

C.R.C.P. 6(a) and § 24-11-110 apply to this section. C.R.C.P. 6(a) and § 24-11-110 which allow an extra time period for document filing when a document is required to be filed "on any day when the public office is closed", is applicable to this section. Austin v. Weld County, 702 P.2d 293 (Colo. App. 1985).

The proper inquiry is whether sufficient evidence existed to cause a reasonable person to know that a toilet overflow that caused a fall was not merely an isolated household occurrence, but resulted from the city capping plaintiff's sewer line, an abnormal plumbing problem. Grossman v. City & County of Denver, 878 P.2d 125 (Colo. App. 1994).

Notice requirements of this article may be modified prospectively without violating the provisions of § 2-4-303. Adams County Sch. Dist. No. 1 v. District Court, 199 Colo. 284, 611 P.2d 963 (1980).

And were so modified for those under disability of minority. All applicable statutes of limitation and notice requirements began to run for those who attained the age of 18 as of the effective date of the 1977 amendment to § 13-81-101 (3), changing the age of legal disability from 21 to 18. Adams County Sch. Dist. No. 1 v. District Court, 199 Colo. 284, 611 P.2d 963 (1980).

Plaintiff's minority did not prevent the mandatory 180-day notice period from commencing to run since there was no showing that plaintiff was incapable of discovering his injury within 180 days and 1986 amendment to subsection (1) made it a "non-claim statute" that prohibits the initiation of litigation after a specified time regardless of disability. Hergenreter v. Morgan County Sch. Dist., 888 P.2d 346 (Colo. App. 1994).

A loss of consortium claim does not necessarily arise at the same time as the underlying claim. Therefore, in appropriate cases, the trial court should make a factual determination when such a claim arose in order to decide if notice of the loss of consortium claim was timely. Smith v. Winter, 934 P.2d 885 (Colo. App. 1997).

Notice, which was delayed due to lack of sufficient postage until after 180 days after discovery of injury when notice was originally mailed before end of 180-day period, but returned and re-mailed, substantially complied with notice provision. Lafitte v. State Hwy. Dept., 885 P.2d 338 (Colo. App. 1994), overruled in Reg'l Transp. Dist. v. Lopez, 916 P.2d 1187 (Colo. 1996).

The 180-day filing period pursuant to this section may not be shortened to 179 days if the final day falls on a legal holiday. Instead, the provisions of § 2-4-108 (2) are controlling. Matthews v. City & County of Denver, 20 P.3d 1227 (Colo. App. 2000).

24-10-110. Defense of public employees - payment of judgments or settlements against public employees. (1) A public entity shall be liable for:

(a) The costs of the defense of any of its public employees, whether such defense is assumed by the public entity or handled by the legal staff of the public entity or by other counsel, in the discretion of the public entity, where the claim against the public employee arises out of injuries sustained from an act or omission of such employee occurring during the performance of his duties and within the scope of his employment, except where such act or omission is willful and wanton;

(b) (I) The payment of all judgments and settlements of claims against any of its public employees where the claim against the public employee arises out of injuries sustained from an act or omission of such employee occurring during the performance of his duties and within the scope of his employment, except where such act or omission is willful and wanton or where sovereign immunity bars the action against the public entity, if the employee does not compromise or settle the claim without the consent of the public entity; and

(II) The payment of all judgments and settlements of claims against any of its public employees where the claim against the public employee arises out of injuries sustained from an act or omission of such employee occurring during the performance of his or her duties and within the scope of employment, except where such act or omission is willful and wanton, even though sovereign immunity would otherwise bar the action, when the public employee is operating an emergency vehicle within the provisions of section 42-4-108 (2) and (3), C.R.S., if the employee does not compromise or settle the claim without the consent of the public entity.

(1.5) Where a claim against a public employee arises out of injuries sustained from an act or omission of such employee which occurred or is alleged in the complaint to have occurred during the performance of his duties and within the scope of his employment, the public entity shall be liable for the reasonable costs of the defense and reasonable attorney fees of its public employee unless:

(a) It is determined by a court that the injuries did not arise out of an act or omission of such employee occurring during the performance of his duties and within the scope of his employment or that the act or omission of such employee was willful and wanton. If it is so determined, the public entity may request and the court shall order such employee to reimburse the public entity for reasonable costs and reasonable attorney fees incurred in the defense of such employee; or

(b) The public employee compromises or settles the claim without the consent of the public entity.

(2) The provisions of subsection (1) of this section shall not apply where a public entity is not made a party defendant in an action and such public entity is not notified of the existence of such action in writing by the plaintiff or such employee within fifteen days after commencement of the action. In addition, the provisions of subsection (1) of this section shall not apply where such employee willfully and knowingly fails to notify the public entity of the incident or occurrence which led to the claim within a reasonable time after such incident or occurrence, if such incident or occurrence could reasonably have been expected to lead to a claim.

(3) Repealed.

(4) Where the public entity is made a codefendant with its public employee, it shall notify such employee in writing within fifteen days after the commencement of such action whether it will assume the defense of such employee. Where the public entity is not made a codefendant, it shall notify such employee whether it will assume such defense within fifteen days after receiving written notice from the public employee of the existence of such action.

(5) (a) In any action in which allegations are made that an act or omission of a public employee was willful and wanton, the specific factual basis of such allegations shall be stated in the complaint.

(b) Failure to plead the factual basis of an allegation that an act or omission of a public employee was willful and wanton shall result in dismissal of the claim for failure to state a claim upon which relief can be granted.

(c) In any action against a public employee in which exemplary damages are sought based on allegations that an act or omission of a public employee was willful and wanton, if the plaintiff does not substantially prevail on his claim that such act or omission was willful and wanton, the court shall award attorney fees against the plaintiff or the plaintiff's attorney or both and in favor of the public employee.

(6) The provisions of subsection (5) of this section are in addition to and not in lieu of the provisions of article 17 of title 13, C.R.S.

ANNOTATION

Governmental immunity concerning municipal police officers matter of concurrent local and statewide concern. Governmental immunity for tortious acts of municipal police officers and, specifically, limitations on compensatory damages for personal injuries in actions against municipal governments, based on such tortious conduct, are matters of concurrent local and statewide concern. Frick v. Abell, 198 Colo. 508, 602 P.2d 852 (1979).

A municipality may provide greater monetary compensation to the victims of torts committed by the municipality's own police officers than is provided under state statutory provisions. Frick v. Abell, 198 Colo. 508, 602 P.2d 852 (1979).

State liable in 42 U.S.C. § 1983 action. In an official capacity action it is the state rather than the named party that is the interested party. Oten v. Colo. Bd. of Soc. Servs., 738 P.2d 37 (Colo. App. 1987).

Hence, the relief granted in such an action runs against the state, provided that it has received adequate notice of the suit and an opportunity to respond. Oten v. Colo. Bd. of Soc. Servs., 738 P.2d 37 (Colo. App. 1987).

Subsection (1)(a) is not a statutory exception to the corporate practice of medicine doctrine. Villalpando v. Denver Health & Hosp. Auth., 181 P.3d 357 (Colo. App. 2007).

Subsection (1.5)(a) provides for intervention as of right where public entity seeks reimbursement of reasonable attorney fees and costs advanced to a public employee later found to be acting outside of the scope of his or her employment. Once the court finds that the public employee was acting outside the scope of employment, the public entity's right to reimbursement of reasonable fees and costs is unconditional pursuant to subsection (1.5)(a). Because subsection (1.5)(a) requires that the court hearing the underlying action must award attorney fees upon request, subsection (1.5)(a) necessarily provides for intervention as of right. Lattany v. Garcia, 140 P.3d 348 (Colo. App. 2006).

Subsection (5)(c) must be strictly limited to fees incurred in defense of covered state claims only, and no award should be made under this statute for any work performed in defense of overlapping § 1983 claims absent a demonstration of entitlement to such fees under § 1988. Haynes v. City of Gunnison, 214 F. Supp.2d 1119 (D. Colo. 2002).

Public entity not liable if required notice not given. If a claimant fails to give the notice required by § 24-10-109, a public entity cannot be liable under this section for a judgment against an employee in his individual capacity or for the employee's cost of his defense. Kristensen v. Jones, 195 Colo. 122, 575 P.2d 854 (1978).

Employees claim for indemnification and costs barred where the underlying complaint has settled without the involvement of the state and where the state was not made a party defendant to the original action and was not notified of the existence of the action in writing within 15 days after commencement of the action. Bd. of Soc. Servs. v. Dept. of Soc. Servs., 902 P.2d 407 (Colo. App. 1994).

The general assembly chose not to apply the conditions of § 42-4-108 (2) to the indemnification provisions of subsection (1)(b)(II) of this section because § 42-4-108 (2) refers only to § 24-10-106 (1)(a). Only when the operator's acts causing the injuries are willful and wanton is the operator personally liable. Correntino v. Cordova, 4 P.3d 1082 (Colo. 2000).

State employees do not enjoy sovereign immunity when they are sued in their individual capacities for willful and wanton conduct, because relief is sought from the individuals themselves rather than from the state treasury. Middleton v. Hartman, 45 P.3d 721 (Colo. 2002).

The Governmental Immunity Act was intended to apply when the claimant seeks redress for injuries that result from tortious conduct. This act does not extend indemnification to defendants of their attorney fees where the plaintiff, the city and county of Denver, initiated a declaratory judgment proceeding seeking to determine only whether the defendants were obligated to respond to questions before an investigative body and where there are no claims for recovery for an injury. City and County of Denver v. Blatnik, 32 P.3d 593 (Colo. App. 2001).

The director and supervisors of a county department of social services are not public employees and are not entitled to indemnification from the state under this section when they are sued as a result of their official duties. Norton v. Gilman, 949 P.2d 565 (Colo. 1997).

University of Colorado will not be responsible for judgments against an employee who is sued in his individual and official capacity for willful and wanton acts such as malicious and intentional retaliation in employment practices. Hartman v. Regents of the Univ. of Colo., 22 P.3d 524 (Colo. App. 2000), aff'd on other grounds, 45 P.3d 721 (Colo. 2002).

Derivative constitutional immunity is not conferred upon indemnified employees by the state's possible assumption of an indemnification obligation in this section. Griess v. State of Colo., 841 F.2d 1042 (10th Cir. 1988).

The state cannot confer a derivative constitutional sovereign immunity upon its employees by assuming an obligation to indemnify them. The state's obligation to pay for defendants' defense costs derives not from the nature of plaintiff's claim, but from an entirely collateral, voluntary undertaking on the part of the state. This section is only an agreement between the state and its employees and cannot be invoked as a basis for cloaking individual officers with the state's sovereign immunity. The fact the state is required to indemnify defendants for defense costs does not turn plaintiff's claim into a claim against the state. Middleton v. Hartman, 45 P.3d 721 (Colo. 2002).

The protections afforded under the Colorado Governmental Immunity Act attach on the date the negligence is alleged to have occurred. Muniz v. Garner, 921 F. Supp. 700 (D. Colo. 1996).

Court erred in granting attorney fees pursuant to subsection (5)(c) when the claim was based upon a federal civil rights claim; attorney fees should have been based upon the standards for a claim under the federal civil rights laws not on the state statute. Cherry Creek Aviation, Inc. v. City of Steamboat Springs, 969 P.2d 812 (Colo. App. 1998).

Attorney fees may be awarded to a defendant pursuant to subsection (5)(c) with respect to common law claims that are separate from federal civil rights claims made in the same complaint even if the defendant simultaneously is awarded mandatory attorney fees with respect to the federal civil rights claims under federal law. Such an award does not disrupt the federal statute. Meier v. McCoy, 119 P.3d 519 (Colo. App. 2004).

Nothing in § 24-10-119 indicates that a federal court cannot apply the attorney fee provision in subsection (5)(c) to state claims over which it exercises supplemental jurisdiction. Robbins v. Jefferson County Sch. Dist. R-1, 186 F.3d 1253 (10th Cir. 1999).

Plaintiff set forth specific facts in his complaint that support his claim that public employees acted willfully and wantonly. Plaintiff met the willful component by asserting that the county sheriff and deputy sheriffs intentionally brought the media into his home to film and record his arrest. Robinson v. City & County of Denver, 39 F. Supp.2d 1257 (D. Colo. 1999).

Plaintiff met the wanton component by asserting that, in bringing the media into his home, those defendants acted outrageously and knowingly disregarded his rights against trespass and invasion of privacy. Robinson v. City & County of Denver, 39 F. Supp.2d 1257 (D. Colo. 1999).

Plaintiff's allegation of willful and wanton conduct by the county sheriff and deputy sheriffs was sufficient to satisfy subsection (5)(a). Therefore, those defendants sued in their individual capacities are not immune from plaintiff's state-law tort claims under the Governmental Immunity Act. Robinson v. City & County of Denver, 39 F. Supp.2d 1257 (D. Colo. 1999).

24-10-111. Judgment against public entity or public employee - effect. (1) Any judgment against a public entity shall constitute a complete bar to any action for injury by the claimant, by reason of the same subject matter, against any public employee whose act or omission gave rise to the claim.

(2) Any judgment against any public employee whose act or omission gave rise to the claim shall constitute a complete bar to any action for injury by the claimant, by reason of the same subject matter, against a public entity.

(3) The joinder contained in the provisions of this section shall be construed as preventing the joinder of any public entity or employee of such public entity in the same action.

24-10-112. Compromise of claims - settlement of actions. (1) (a) (I) A claim against the state may be compromised or settled for and on behalf of the state by the attorney general, with the concurrence of the head of the affected department, agency, board, commission, institution, hospital, college, university, or other instrumentality thereof, except as provided in part 15 of article 30 of this title.

Dismissal of defamation complaint against a public employee appropriate when allegations of willful and wanton conduct were not supported by specific factual allegations suggesting that the employee acted recklessly with respect to the consequences of such employee's actions. Wilson v. Meyer, 126 P.3d 276 (Colo. App. 2005).

Trial court did not err in awarding defendant attorney fees and costs when plaintiffs alleged willful, wanton, and outrageous conduct by the individual defendants and sought exemplary damages and when such claims were dismissed even though plaintiffs themselves filed a motion to dismiss the claim for exemplary damages and there was delay and confusion concerning which orders the court granted. Terry v. Sullivan, 58 P.3d 1098 (Colo. App. 2002).

This section and § 29-5-111 conflict regarding the reimbursement of defense costs for level I peace officers. The Governmental Immunity Act pertains to governmental employees generally, while § 29-5-111 defines the rights of police officers specifically. It is well settled that, in the event of apparent statutory conflict, specific language overrides general language. Therefore, in light of the conflict between the two statutes, § 29-5-111 takes precedence. Brown v. Gray, 227 F.3d 1278 (10th Cir. 2000).

Denying city's motion for limited intervention to collect reimbursement for costs expended in defense of deputy sheriffs involved in a physical altercation while off-duty and not acting under color of law was error. City had statutory right to intervene in lawsuit and its request to do so was timely. Lattany v. Garcia, 140 P.3d 348 (Colo. App. 2006).

Applied in Forrest v. County Comm'rs, 629 P.2d 1105 (Colo. App. 1981); Villalpando v. Denver Health & Hosp. Auth., 181 P.3d 357 (Colo. App. 2007).

(II) Repealed.

(b) Repealed.

(2) Claims against public entities, other than the state, may be compromised or settled by the governing body of the public entity or in such manner as the governing body may designate.

ANNOTATION

Annotator's note. The following notes are taken from cases decided under former CSA C. 153, § 27, which dealt with the findings of fact and recommendations by the former Colorado claims commission.

Court cannot dictate commission's judicial decision. Where it appears that the commission is called upon to audit and examine claims, and in doing so is invested with judicial powers, a court, while it may compel it to take action, will never dictate what its decision shall be. Post

Printing & Publ'g Co. v. Shafroth, 53 Colo. 129, 124 P. 176, appeal dismissed, 226 U.S. 602, 33 S. Ct. 115, 57 L. Ed. 377 (1912).

But will compel commission to act upon claim. The power conferred upon the commission to audit and allow claims against the state is of a judicial nature, and mandamus will not lie to compel the commission to allow a claim. But if the commission refuses to act upon a claim properly presented to it, the court will compel it to do so. People v. Auditor, 2 Colo. 97 (1873).

24-10-113. Payment of judgments. (1) A public entity or designated insurer shall pay any compromise, settlement, or final judgment in the manner provided in this section, and an action pursuant to the Colorado rules of civil procedure shall be an appropriate remedy to compel a public entity to perform an act required under this section.

(2) The state and the governing body of any other public entity shall pay, to the extent funds are available in the fiscal year in which it becomes final, any judgment out of any funds to the credit of the public entity that are available from any or all of the following:

(a) A self-insurance reserve fund;

(b) Funds that are unappropriated for any other purpose unless the use of such funds is restricted by law or contract to other purposes;

(c) Funds that are appropriated for the current fiscal year for the payment of such judgments and not previously encumbered.

(3) If a public entity is unable to pay a judgment during the fiscal year in which it becomes final because of lack of available funds, the public entity shall levy a tax, in a separate item to cover such judgment, sufficient to discharge such judgment in the next fiscal year or in the succeeding fiscal year if the budget of the public entity has been finally adopted for the fiscal year in which the judgment becomes final before such judgment becomes final; but in no event shall such annual levy for one or more judgments exceed a total of ten mills, exclusive of existing mill levies. The public entity shall continue to levy such tax, not to exceed a total annual levy of ten mills, exclusive of existing mill levies, but in no event less than ten mills if such judgment will not be discharged by a lesser levy, until such judgment is discharged. In the event that more than one judgment is unsatisfied and a ten-mill levy is insufficient to satisfy the judgments in one year, the proceeds of the ten-mill levy shall be prorated annually among the judgment creditors in the proportion that each outstanding judgment bears to the total judgments outstanding.

24-10-113.5. Attorney general to notify general assembly. (1) If a final money judgment is obtained against the state, payment of which requires an appropriation, and the appropriate appellate remedies have been exhausted or the time limit for such remedies has expired, the attorney general, within twenty days after such occurrence, shall certify to the speaker of the house of representatives and the president of the senate, or the director of the office of legislative legal services if the general assembly is not in session, the title of the action, the civil action number, and the amount of money due and owing for the payment in full satisfaction of the final judgment.

(2) If a claim against the state is settled and such settlement requires an appropriation by the general assembly, the attorney general, within twenty days after such settlement, shall make the certification required by subsection (1) of this section, which certification shall state the names of the parties and the amount of money necessary for the settlement.

24-10-114. Limitations on judgments - recommendation to general assembly - authorization of additional payment. (1) The maximum amount that may be recovered under this article in any single occurrence, whether from one or more public entities and public employees, shall be:

(a) For any injury to one person in any single occurrence, the sum of one hundred fifty thousand dollars;

(b) For an injury to two or more persons in any single occurrence, the sum of six hundred thousand dollars; except that, in such instance, no person may recover in excess of one hundred fifty thousand dollars.

(1.5) For purposes of subsection (1) of this section, an assignment or subrogation to recover damages paid or payable for an injury shall not be deemed to be a separate occurrence.

(2) The governing body of a public entity, by resolution, may increase any maximum amount set out in subsection (1) of this section that may be recovered from the public entity for the type of injury described in the resolution. The amount of the recovery that may be had shall not exceed the amount set out in such resolution for the type of injury described therein. Any such increase may be reduced, increased, or repealed by the governing body by resolution. A resolution adopted pursuant to this subsection (2) shall apply only to injuries occurring subsequent to the adoption of such resolution.

(3) Nothing in this section shall be construed to permit the recovery of damages for types of actions authorized under part 2 of article 21 of title 13, C.R.S., in an amount in excess of the amounts specified in said article.

(4) (a) A public entity shall not be liable either directly or by indemnification for punitive or exemplary damages or for damages for outrageous conduct, except as otherwise determined by a public entity pursuant to section 24-10-118 (5).

(b) A railroad operating in interstate commerce that sells to a public entity, or allows the public entity to use, such railroad's property or tracks for the provision of public passenger rail service shall not be liable either directly or by indemnification for punitive or exemplary damages or for damages for outrageous conduct to any person for any accident or injury arising out of the operation and maintenance of the public passenger rail service by a public entity.

(5) Notwithstanding the maximum amounts that may be recovered from a public entity set forth in subsection (1) of this section, an amount may be recovered from the state under this article in excess of the maximum amounts only if paragraph (a) or (b) of this subsection (5) applies:

(a) The general assembly acting by bill authorizes payment of all or a portion of any judgment against the state that exceeds the maximum amount. Any claimant may present proof of judgment to the general assembly and request payment of that portion of the judgment which exceeds the maximum amount. Any portion of a judgment approved for payment by the general assembly shall be paid from the general fund.

(b) The state claims board created in section 24-30-1508 (1), acting in accordance with its authority under section 24-30-1515, compromises or settles a claim on behalf of the state for the maximum liability limits under this article and determines, in its sole discretion, to recommend to the general assembly that the general assembly, by bill, authorize all or any portion of an additional payment. In determining whether to make such recommendation, the claims board shall consider interests of fairness, the public interest, and the interests of the state. A recommendation made under this paragraph (b) shall not include payment for noneconomic loss or injury and shall be reduced to the extent the claimant's loss is or will be covered by another source, including, without limitation, any insurance proceeds that have been paid or will be paid, and no insurer shall have a right of subrogation, assignment, or any other right against the claimant or the state for any additional payment or any portion of such payment that is approved by the general assembly. Any additional payment or any portion of such payment approved by the general assembly shall be paid from the general fund.

ANNOTATION

Limitation on judgments is within province of the general assembly and does not violate claimant's rights to equal protection or due process. State is liable to victims of accident in which highway worker dislodged boulder which rolled down hill and into tour bus killing and injuring passengers to the extent set forth in law. State v. DeFoor, 824 P.2d 783 (Colo. 1992).

Accident victims, as passengers on tour bus injured by negligent highway worker, are in a class the classification of which requires a rational basis review. State v. DeFoor, 824 P.2d 783 (Colo. 1992).

Due process of law is not applicable to statute limiting recovery of damages from state. Guarantee of access to courts does not address adequacy of remedy. State v. DeFoor, 824 P.2d 783 (Colo. 1992).

General assembly may simultaneously create governmental liability and place limitations on actions brought against state. State v. DeFoor, 824 P.2d 783 (Colo. 1992).

Governmental immunity concerning municipal police officers matter of concurrent local and statewide concern. Governmental immunity for tortious acts of municipal police officers and, specifically, limitations on compensatory damages for personal injuries in actions against municipal governments, based on such tortious conduct, are matters of concurrent local and statewide concern. Frick v. Abell, 198 Colo. 508, 602 P.2d 852 (1979).

Action by estate for damages barred for failure to give the requisite notice pursuant to the Colorado Governmental Immunity Act (CGIA). DeForrest v. City of Cherry Hills Vill., 72 P.3d 384 (Colo. App. 2002).

A municipality may provide greater monetary compensation to the victims of torts committed by the municipality's own police officers than is provided under state statutory provisions. Frick v. Abell, 198 Colo. 508, 602 P.2d 852 (1979).

Limitations in subsection (1) of this section operate independently of the amount of damages requested under § 24-10-109. Pyles-Knutzen v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 781 P.2d 164 (Colo. App. 1989).

The CGIA specifies the amount of plaintiff's maximum recovery from public entities or public employees, and this rule establishes the procedure by which defendant may deposit an undisputed sum into the court registry. Rudnick v. Ferguson, 179 P.3d 26 (Colo. App. 2007).

Trial court did not err in permitting defendants to tender $150,000 into the court registry and in dismissing the case as moot without requiring defendants to confess judgment, admit their liability, or enter into a settlement with the plaintiffs. Rudnick v. Ferguson, 179 P.3d 26 (Colo. App. 2007).

The CGIA unambiguously limits the recovery that a victim may receive from public entities or employees regardless of whether the recovery was obtained by settlement or judgment, absent a finding that the public employee acted in a willful and wanton manner.

DeForrest v. City of Cherry Hills Vill., 72 P.3d 384 (Colo. App. 2002).

The statute clearly limits the total recovery by a claimant, not individual judgments obtained by a claimant. DeForrest v. City of Cherry Hills Vill., 72 P.3d 384 (Colo. App. 2002).

Claim is moot when plaintiff is offered the maximum amount that could be recovered at trial. Rudnick v. Ferguson, 179 P.3d 26 (Colo. App. 2007).

Claim is moot regardless of whether all defendants contributed to the maximum amount deposited in the court registry. Rudnick v. Ferguson, 179 P.3d 26 (Colo. App. 2007).

Subsection (1)(b) applicable where two persons own single tract. Subsection (1)(b) applies where the injury is to a single tract but two persons each own an undivided one-half interest in the property. City of Colo. Springs v. Gladin, 198 Colo. 333, 599 P.2d 907 (1979).

Maximum recovery of $150,000 pursuant to this section for injury caused to child by negligence of pharmacy at state hospital includes anything recoverable pursuant to § 13-17-202. Costs recoverable under § 13-17-202 are available only to extent recovery pursuant to this section does not equal maximum recovery available. DeCordova v. State, 878 P.2d 73 (Colo. App. 1994).

The operative injury for purposes of a wrongful death action is the wrongful death itself; thus the $150,000 per injury damages cap in the CGIA does not apply separately to each party in a wrongful death action but rather to the wrongful death action as a whole. Steedle v. Sereff, 167 P.3d 135 (Colo. 2007).

Section 24-10-103 (2) defines an "injury" as including "death"; therefore, the operative injury for purposes of a wrongful death action is the wrongful death itself, and subsection (1)(a) of this section limits damages to $150,000. Steedle v. Sereff, 167 P.3d 135 (Colo. 2007).

Punitive damage awards against public entities are prohibited under subsection (4). Lopez v. Reg'l Transp. Dist., 899 P.2d 254 (Colo. App. 1994).

Limitation on judgment in this section is not an affirmative defense and is not waived if not presented in the pleadings, at trial, or in the motion for a new trial. City of Colo. Springs v. Gladin, 198 Colo. 333, 599 P.2d 907 (1979); Lee v. Colo. Dept. of Health, 718 P.2d 221 (Colo. 1986).

CGIA does not permit a jury to enter a verdict and judgment in excess of the statutory limitations. DeForrest v. City of Cherry Hills Vill., 72 P.3d 384 (Colo. App. 2002).

Public entity exclusively responsible for payment of entire judgment. Lee v. Colo. Dept. of Health, 718 P.2d 221 (Colo. 1986).

Statute limits recovery to amounts specified. Lee v. Colo. Dept. of Health, 718 P.2d 221 (Colo. 1986).

Costs and interest may be awarded within amounts specified. Lee v. Colo. Dept. of Health, 718 P.2d 221 (Colo. 1986).

Entry of an order confirming the amount of the award and reducing the judgment to $150,000 in accordance with this section is sufficient "proof of judgment" for purposes of subsection (5). Nieto v. State, 952 P.2d 834 (Colo. App. 1997), aff'd in part and rev'd in part on other grounds, 993 P.2d 493 (Colo. 2000).

24-10-114.5. Limitation on attorney fees in class action litigation. If the plaintiffs prevail in any class action litigation brought against any public entity, the amount of attorney fees which the plaintiffs' attorney is entitled to receive out of any award to the plaintiffs shall be determined by the court; except that such amount shall not exceed two hundred fifty thousand dollars. Such limitation shall apply where the public entity pays the attorney fees directly to the plaintiffs' attorneys or where the public entity is required to pay the attorney fees indirectly through any program it administers by reducing the benefits or amounts due to the individual plaintiffs.

24-10-115. Authority for public entities other than the state to obtain insurance.

(1) A public entity, other than the state, either by itself or in conjunction with any one or more public entities may:

(a) Insure against all or any part of its liability for an injury for which it might be liable under this article;

(b) Insure any public employee acting within the scope of his employment against all or any part of such liability for an injury for which he might be liable under this article;

(c) Insure against the expense of defending a claim for injury against the public entity or its employees, whether or not liability exists on such claim;

(d) Insure against all or part of its liability or the liability of a railroad for claims arising from the passenger rail operations of a public entity on property or tracks owned by, or purchased from, a railroad.

(2) The insurance authorized by subsection (1) of this section may be provided by:

(a) Self-insurance, which may be funded by appropriations to establish or maintain reserves for self-insurance purposes;

(b) An insurance company authorized to do business in this state which meets all of the requirements of the division of insurance for that purpose;

(c) A combination of the methods of obtaining insurance authorized in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection (2);

(d) Any risk management pool of public passenger rail services authorized to be created pursuant to the federal "Product Liability Risk Retention Act of 1981", 15 U.S.C. sec. 3901 et seq., as amended.

(3) A public entity, other than the state and other than a school district, may establish and maintain an insurance reserve fund for self-insurance purposes and may include in the annual tax levy of the public entity such amounts as are determined by its governing body to be necessary for the uses and purposes of the insurance reserve fund, subject to the limitations imposed by section 29-1-301, C.R.S., or such public entity may appropriate from any unexpended balance in the general fund such amounts as the governing body shall deem necessary for the purposes and uses of the insurance reserve fund, or both. A school district shall establish and maintain an insurance reserve fund in accordance with the provisions of section 22-45-103 (1) (e), C.R.S., for liability and property damage self-insurance purposes, including workers' compensation pursuant to section 8-44-204 (2), C.R.S., using moneys allocated thereto pursuant to the provisions of section 22-54-105 (2), C.R.S. The fund established pursuant to this subsection (3) shall be kept separate and apart from all other funds and shall be used only for the payment of administrative and legal expenses necessary for the operation of the fund and for the payment of claims against the public entity which have been settled or compromised or judgments rendered against the public entity for injury under the provisions of this article and for attorney fees and for the costs of defense of claims and to secure and pay for premiums on insurance as provided in this article.

(4) Policies written pursuant to this section and section 24-10-116 shall insure all of the risks and liabilities arising under this article, including costs of defense, unless the public entity requests in writing and obtains lesser coverage, in which event the policy issued shall conspicuously itemize the risks and liabilities not covered.

(5) A self-insurance fund established by a public entity which is subject to section 29-1-108, C.R.S., shall not be construed to be unexpended funds for budgetary purposes and shall be accumulated and held over for use in subsequent years.

(6) Repealed.

(7) Policies written, self-insurance funds established, or risk management pools entered into by a public entity for the purpose of insuring a public entity as described in paragraph (d) of subsection (1) of this section shall maintain such levels of insurance as are sufficient to insure against the maximum liability permitted against a railroad or its indemnitor pursuant to 49 U.S.C. sec. 28103.

Editor's note: Subsection (6) was enacted in House Bill No. 1143, enacted by the General Assembly at its first regular session in 1989, as a conforming amendment necessitated by the authorization for the operation of the university of Colorado university hospital by a nonprofit-nonstock corporation. The Colorado Supreme Court subsequently declared House Bill No. 1143 unconstitutional in its entirety. See Colorado Association of Public Employees v. Board of Regents, 804 P.2d 138 (Colo. 1990). Senate Bill 91-225, enacted by the General Assembly at its first regular session in 1991, authorized the operation of university hospital by a newly created university of Colorado hospital authority. 24-10-115.5. Authority for public entities to pool insurance coverage. (1) Public entities may cooperate with one another to form a self-insurance pool to provide all or part of the insurance coverage authorized by this article or by section 29-5-111, C.R.S., for the cooperating public entities. Any such self-insurance pool may provide such coverage by the methods authorized in sections 24-10-115 (2) and 24-10-116 (2), by any different methods if approved by the commissioner of insurance, or by any combination thereof. Any such insurance pool shall be formed pursuant to the provisions of part 2 of article 1 of title 29, C.R.S. The provisions of articles 10.5 and 47 of title 11, C.R.S., shall apply to moneys of such self-insurance pool.

(2) Any self-insurance pool authorized by subsection (1) of this section shall not be construed to be an insurance company nor otherwise subject to the provisions of the laws of this state regulating insurance or insurance companies; except that the pool shall comply with the applicable provisions of sections 10-1-203 and 10-1-204 (1) to (5) and (10), C.R.S.

(3) Prior to the formation of a self-insurance pool, there shall be submitted to the commissioner of insurance a complete written proposal of the pool's operation, including, but not limited to, the administration, claims adjusting, membership, and capitalization of the pool. The commissioner shall review the proposal within thirty days after receipt to assure that proper insurance techniques and procedures are included in the proposal. After such review, the commissioner shall have the right to approve or disapprove the proposal. If the commissioner approves the proposal, he shall issue a certificate of authority. The costs of such review shall be paid by the public entities desiring to form such a pool. Any such payment received by the commissioner is hereby appropriated to the division of insurance in addition to any other funds appropriated for its normal operation.

(4) Each self-insurance pool for public entities created in this state shall file, with the commissioner of insurance on or before March 30 of each year, a written report in a form prescribed by the commissioner, signed and verified by its chief executive officer as to its condition. Such report shall include a detailed statement of assets and liabilities, the amount and character of the business transacted, and the moneys reserved and expended during the year.

(5) The commissioner of insurance, or any person authorized by him, shall conduct an insurance examination at least once a year to determine that proper underwriting techniques and sound funding, loss reserves, and claims procedures are being followed. This examination shall be paid for by the self-insurance pool out of its funds at the same rate as provided for foreign insurance companies under section 10-1-204 (9), C.R.S.

(6) (a) The certificate of authority issued to a public entity under this section may be revoked or suspended by the commissioner of insurance for any of the following reasons:

(I) Insolvency or impairment;

(II) Refusal or failure to submit an annual report as required by subsection (4) of this section;

(III) Failure to comply with the provisions of its own ordinances, resolutions, contracts, or other conditions relating to the self-insurance pool;

(IV) Failure to submit to examination or any legal obligation relative thereto;

(V) Refusal to pay the cost of examination as required by subsection (5) of this section;

(VI) Use of methods which, although not otherwise specifically proscribed by law, nevertheless render the operation of the self-insurance pool hazardous, or its condition unsound, to the public;

(VII) Failure to otherwise comply with the law of this state, if such failure renders the operation of the self-insurance pool hazardous to the public.

(b) If the commissioner of insurance finds upon examination, hearing, or other evidence that any participating public entity has committed any of the acts specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (6) or any act otherwise prohibited in this section, the commissioner may suspend or revoke such certificate of authority if he deems it in the best interest of the public. Notice of any revocation shall be published in one or more daily newspapers in Denver which have a general state circulation. Before suspending or revoking any certificate of authority of a public entity, the commissioner shall grant the public entity fifteen days in which to show cause why such action should not be taken.

(7) Any public entity pool formed under this article and under article 13 of title 29, C.R.S., and the members thereof, may combine and commingle all funds appropriated by the members and received by the pool for liability or property insurance or self-insurance or for other purposes of the pool.

(8) (a) Any self-insurance pool organized pursuant to this section may invest in securities meeting the investment requirements established in part 6 of article 75 of this title and may also invest in membership claim deductibles and in any other security or other investment authorized for such pools by the commissioner of insurance.

(b) Any public entity which is a member of a self-insurance pool which is organized pursuant to this section or any instrumentality formed by two or more of such members may invest in subordinated debentures issued by such self-insurance pool.

(9) In addition to liability coverage pursuant to subsection (1) of this section and property coverage pursuant to section 29-13-102, C.R.S., a self-insurance pool authorized by subsection (1) of this section may provide workers' compensation coverage pursuant to section 8-44-204, C.R.S.

ANNOTATION

Under the plain language of this section, public entity self-insurance pools such as Colorado intergovernmental risk sharing agency are not to be construed to be insurance companies and are not otherwise subject to state laws regulating insurance companies except §§ 10-1-203, 10-1-204 (1) to (5) and (10). City of Arvada v. Colo. Intergovernmental Risk Sharing Agency, 988 P.2d 184 (Colo. App. 1999), aff'd, 19 P.3d 10 (Colo. 2001).

24-10-116. State required to obtain insurance. (1) The state shall obtain insurance to:

(a) Insure itself against all or any part of any liability for an injury for which it might be liable under this article;

(b) Insure any of its public employees acting within the scope of their employment against all or any part of his liability for injury for which he might be liable under this article;

(c) Insure against the expense of defending a claim for injury against the state or its public employees, whether or not liability exists on such claim.

(2) The insurance required under subsection (1) of this section may be provided by:

(a) Self-insurance, which may be funded by appropriations to establish or maintain reserves for self-insurance purposes;

(b) An insurance company authorized to do business in this state which meets all the requirements of the division of insurance for that purpose;

(c) A combination of the methods of obtaining insurance authorized in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection (2).

24-10-118. Actions against public employees - requirements and limitations.

(1) Any action against a public employee, whether brought pursuant to this article, section 29-5-111, C.R.S., the common law, or otherwise, which lies in tort or could lie in tort regardless of whether that may be the type of action or the form of relief chosen by the claimant and which arises out of injuries sustained from an act or omission of such employee which occurred or is alleged in the complaint to have occurred during the performance of his duties and within the scope of his employment, unless the act or omission causing such injury was willful and wanton, shall be subject to the following requirements and limitations, regardless of whether or not such action against a public employee is one for which the public entity might be liable for costs of defense, attorney fees, or payment of judgment or settlement under section 24-10-110:

(a) Compliance with the provisions of section 24-10-109, in the forms and within the times provided by section 24-10-109, shall be a jurisdictional prerequisite to any such action against a public employee, and shall be required whether or not the injury sustained is alleged in the complaint to have occurred as the result of the willful and wanton act of such employee, and failure of compliance shall forever bar any such action against a public employee. Any such action against a public employee shall be commenced within the time period provided for that type of action in articles 80 and 81 of title 13, C.R.S., relating to limitation of actions, or it shall be forever barred.

(b) The maximum amounts that may be recovered in any such action against a public employee shall be as provided in section 24-10-114 (1), (2), and (3).

(c) A public employee shall not be liable for punitive or exemplary damages arising out of an act or omission occurring during the performance of his duties and within the scope of his employment, unless such act or omission was willful and wanton.

(d) The fact that a plaintiff sues both a public entity and a public employee shall not be deemed to increase any of the maximum amounts that may be recovered in any such action as provided in this section or in section 24-10-114.

(2) (a) A public employee shall be immune from liability in any claim for injury, whether brought pursuant to this article, section 29-5-111, C.R.S., the common law, or otherwise, which lies in tort or could lie in tort regardless of whether that may be the type of action or the form of relief chosen by a claimant and which arises out of an act or omission of such employee occurring during the performance of his duties and within the scope of his employment unless the act or omission causing such injury was willful and wanton; except that no such immunity may be asserted in an action for injuries resulting from the circumstances specified in section 24-10-106 (1).

(b) Any member of any state board, commission, or other advisory body appointed pursuant to statute, executive order, or otherwise, and any other person acting as a consultant or witness before any such body, shall be immune from liability in any civil action brought against said person for acts occurring while the person was acting as such a member, consultant, or witness, if such person was acting in good faith within the scope of such person's respective capacity, makes a reasonable effort to obtain the facts of the matter as to which action was taken, and acts in the reasonable belief that the action taken by such person was warranted by the facts.

(2.5) If a public employee raises the issue of sovereign immunity prior to or after the commencement of discovery, the court shall suspend discovery; except that any discovery necessary to decide the issue of sovereign immunity shall be allowed to proceed, and the court shall decide such issue on motion. The court's decision on such motion shall be a final judgment and shall be subject to interlocutory appeal.

(3) Nothing in this section shall be construed to allow any action which lies in tort or could lie in tort regardless of whether that may be the type of action or the form or relief chosen by a claimant to be brought against a public employee except in compliance with the requirements of this article.

(4) The immunities provided for in this article shall be in addition to any common-law immunity applicable to a public employee.

(5) Notwithstanding any provision of this article to the contrary, a public entity may, if it determines by resolution adopted at an open public meeting by the governing body of the public entity that it is in the public interest to do so, defend a public employee against a claim for punitive damages or pay or settle any punitive damage claim against a public employee.

ANNOTATION

This section definitively expresses the intent to grant immunity to negligent employees of immune governmental entities. The language in subsection (2)(a) that waives immunity under "the circumstances specified in section 24-10-106 (1)" refers not only to the act of operating a motor vehicle but also to the ownership status of the vehicle. The motor vehicle must be "owned or leased" by the public entity. Therefore, county employee who caused an automobile accident while using his personal vehicle and acting in the course and scope of his employment was immune from liability under the Colorado Governmental Immunity Act. Ceja v. Lemire, 143 P.3d 1093 (Colo. App. 2006), aff'd, 154 P.3d 1064 (Colo. 2007).

It is only where a plaintiff has stated a federal claim that a notice of claim provision may be struck down based on supremacy because allowing a federal claim to be limited by state law would defeat the objective of the federal law. King v. U.S., 53 F. Supp.2d 1056 (D. Colo. 1999).

Action against public employee for willful and wanton conduct is not subject to the notice provisions of the Governmental Immunity Act. Pacino v. Sanchez, 807 P.2d 1231 (Colo. App. 1990).

Trial court did not err in determining that plaintiff failed to give the statutory notice in medical malpractice action where plaintiff retained counsel and obtained a set of doctors' and hospital's medical records by December 1985 but filed no notice of claim until August 1987. Brown v. Teitelbaum, 830 P.2d 1081 (Colo. App. 1991).

Substantial compliance with the 180-day notice provision is a condition precedent to any "action" brought under the Governmental Immunity Act, therefore, the time for filing minors' notice is not extended pursuant to the tolling provisions of § 13-81-103 until two years after the minors' legal representative is appointed. Brown v. Teitelbaum, 830 P.2d 1081 (Colo. App. 1991).

Under the Governmental Immunity Act, proper notice of injury is a jurisdictional prerequisite when an alleged injurious act by a public employee occurs or is alleged to have occurred during the performance of the employee's duties and within the scope of the employee's employment. Capra v. Tucker, 857 P.2d 1346 (Colo. App. 1993).

Subsection (1)(a) of this section does not make compliance with § 24-10-109 (6) a jurisdictional prerequisite for suing public employees. Dicke v. Mabin, 101 P.3d 1126 (Colo. App. 2004).

Failure to comply with notice provisions in the Governmental Immunity Act barred bringing of tort action against a public employee for conduct occurring in scope of her employment. Running of notice prevented court from exercising subject matter jurisdiction and the court had no authorization to create exception to the no fault act. Shandy v. Lunceford, 886 P.2d 319 (Colo. App. 1994).

There is no requirement in this section that a notice of claim be provided to a public employee or that employee's attorney. Rather, this section only requires that a notice be sent to the attorney general when the state is involved, or to the governing body of the public entity involved or that entity's attorney. Barham v. Scalia, 928 P.2d 1381 (Colo. App. 1996).

Accident occurred during the performance of defendant's duties and within the scope of defendant's employment for the purpose of triggering the jurisdictional notice requirement of subsection (1)(a) upon a showing that the defendant was required to drive a patrol car to and from his private residence to perform his job properly, the state paid all operating costs of the vehicle while defendant was on call, and the defendant was not allowed to use the patrol car for personal reasons. Capra v. Tucker, 857 P.2d 1346 (Colo. App. 1993).

The question of whether a public employee acts within the scope of his employment is a question of sovereign immunity. As such, it is proper for a trial court to decide for the purposes of immunity whether an employee was acting within the scope of his employment on a C.R.C.P. 12(b)(1) motion to dismiss for lack of subject matter jurisdiction. The trial court, however, must resolve disputed issues of fact before it decides whether it has subject matter jurisdiction over the claim. Gallagher v. Univ. of N. Colo., 54 P.3d 386 (Colo. 2002).

"Willful and wanton" conduct was adequately pleaded. Holland v. Bd. of County Comm'rs, 883 P.2d 500 (Colo. App. 1994).

Since the Colorado Governmental Immunity Act does not define the term "willful and wanton", the court followed a majority of courts that have addressed the issue and applied the definition set forth in the exemplary damages statute, § 13-21-102(1)(b). Cossio v. City and County of Denver, 986 F. Supp. 1340 (D. Colo. 1997); O'Hayre v. Bd. of Educ. for Jefferson County Sch. Dist. R-1, 109 F. Supp.2d 1284 (D. Colo. 2000).

State trooper's decision to end a traffic stop of a vehicle by following the vehicle to its destination instead of issuing a citation is not willful and wanton conduct. The decision was not needless or reckless but was simply a choice between logical alternatives that a reasonable officer would entertain. Moody v. Ungerer, 885 P.2d 200 (Colo. 1994).

Under the factual circumstances, police officer's actions were not "willful and wanton" and therefore did not approach the level of culpable conduct required to abrogate the immunity conferred by the Governmental Immunity Act where officer failed to offer a motorist a ride home following a traffic stop in which the officer ordered the driver not to drive, and the motorist was subsequently assaulted. Jarvis v. Jarvis, 892 P.2d 398 (Colo. App. 1994).

County sheriffs entitled to qualified immunity where the court found no evidence that their actions were "willful and wanton". Conduct of sheriffs involved in executing an in rem seizure warrant did not violate clearly established statutory or constitutional rights of which a reasonable person would have known. Trujillo v. Simer, 934 F. Supp. 1217 (D. Colo. 1996).

Allegations that a school principal assaulted and battered a student were sufficient to meet the standard for willful and wanton claims. O'Hayre v. Bd. of Educ. for Jefferson County Sch. Dist. R-1, 109 F. Supp.2d 1284 (D. Colo. 2000).

The plaintiff need not specifically use the word "intent" to plead an intentional act. O'Hayre v. Bd. of Educ. for Jefferson County Sch. Dist. R-1, 109 F. Supp.2d 1284 (D. Colo. 2000).

Where the court has determined that an equitable estoppel claim is not barred by sovereign immunity, as it does not lie in tort and could not lie in tort, whether or not a public employee's behavior was willful or wanton is irrelevant. Kohn v. City of Boulder, 919 P.2d 822 (Colo. App. 1995).

Trial court erred in limiting damages in regard to issues of material fact as to whether police officer's conduct was willful and wanton. DeForrest v. City of Cherry Hills Vill., 72 P.3d 384 (Colo. App. 2002).

The denial of a summary judgment motion asserting a qualified immunity defense for individual public employees of a municipality against a tort claim is not immediately appealable. City of Lakewood v. Brace, 919 P.2d 231 (Colo. 1996).

A challenge to the contents of a notice of claim raises an issue of "sovereign immunity" for purposes of subsection (2.5); the trial court's ruling in this case was a "final judgment" subject to interlocutory appeal. Bresciani v. Haragan, 968 P.2d 153 (Colo. App. 1998).

Reference to "final judgment" does not require the public entity to pursue an interlocutory appeal whenever a trial court denies its pre-trial motion to dismiss. Rather, the section merely provides that the trial court's ruling is subject to interlocutory appeal. Walton v. State, 968 P.2d 636 (Colo. 1998) (holding contrary to Buckles v. State, 952 P.2d 855 (Colo. App. 1998)).

When a summary judgment motion based on sovereign immunity is denied, the governmental entity or public employee may pursue an interlocutory review. Such a right also exists for defendants in 42 U.S.C. § 1983 claims pursuant to the principle of neutrality. Furlong v. Gardner, 956 P.2d 545 (Colo. 1998).

The meaning of qualified immunity in the context of the Colorado Governmental Immunity Act is different than in the context of 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Under state law, qualified immunity is ultimately a factual determination. Furlong v. Gardner, 956 P.2d 545 (Colo. 1998).

The failure of a public employee to perform his or her duties adequately does not convert the action into one based upon conduct outside the scope of his employment. Yonker by & through Helstrom v. Thompson, 939 P.2d 530 (Colo. App. 1997).

C.R.C.P. 54(b) certification not required for appeal from order granting or denying motion to dismiss based on governmental immunity. Richland Dev. Co. v. E. Cherry Creek Valley Water & San. Dist., 899 P.2d 371 (Colo. App. 1995).

Because the question whether a public employee's act or omission was willful or wanton does not require the pre-trial determination of an issue involving sovereign immunity, the defendant is not entitled under subsection (2.5) to an interlocutory appeal of such a determination. Mattson v. Harrison, 929 P.2d 41 (Colo. App. 1996); Richardson ex rel. Richardson v. Starks, 36 P.3d 168 (Colo. App. 2001).

Alleged willful and wanton conduct by public employees may not support an assertion of claims in tort against the public entity employer. Ramos v. City of Pueblo, 28 P.3d 979 (Colo. App. 2001); Carothers v. Archuleta County Sheriff, 159 P.3d 647 (Colo. App. 2006).

Applied in Patel v. Thomas, 793 P.2d 632 (Colo. App. 1990); Carothers v. Archuleta County Sheriff, 159 P.3d 647 (Colo. App. 2006).

24-10-119. Applicability of article to claims under federal law. The provisions of this article shall apply to any action against a public entity or a public employee in any court of this state having jurisdiction over any claim brought pursuant to any federal law, if such action lies in tort or could lie in tort regardless of whether that may be the type of action or the form of relief chosen by the claimant.

Source: L. 86: Entire section added, p. 882, § 16, effective July 1 .

ANNOTATION

Reference to "courts of this state," was not intended to include federal courts hearing federal claims. Greiss v. Colo., 841 F.2d 1042 (10th Cir. 1988); Goodwin v. DeBekker, 807 F. Supp. 101 (D. Colo. 1992).

Nothing in this section indicates that a federal court cannot apply the attorney fee provision, § 24-10-110 (5)(c), to state claims over which it exercises supplemental jurisdiction. Robbins v. Jefferson County Sch. Dist. R-1, 186 F.3d 1253 (10th Cir. 1999).

24-10-120. Severability. If any provision of this article or the application thereof to any person or circumstances is held invalid, such invalidity shall not affect other provisions or applications of the article which can be given effect without the invalid provision or application, and to this end the provisions of this article are declared to be severable.

24-11-101. Legal holidays - effect. (1) The following days, viz: The first day of January, commonly called New Year's day; the third Monday in January, which shall be observed as the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.; the third Monday in February, commonly called Washington-Lincoln day; the last Monday in May, commonly called Memorial day; the fourth day of July, commonly called Independence day; the first Monday in September, commonly called Labor day; the second Monday in October, commonly called Columbus day; the eleventh day of November, commonly called Veterans' day; the fourth Thursday in November, commonly called Thanksgiving day; the twenty-fifth day of December, commonly called Christmas day; and any day appointed or recommended by the governor of this state or the president of the United States as a day of fasting or prayer or thanksgiving, are hereby declared to be legal holidays and shall, for all purposes whatsoever, as regards the presenting for payment or acceptance and the protesting and giving notice of the dishonor of bills of exchange, drafts, bank checks, promissory notes, or other negotiable instruments and also for the holding of courts, be treated and considered as is the first day of the week commonly called Sunday.

(2) In case any of said holidays or any other legal holiday so designated falls upon a Sunday, then the Monday following shall be considered as the holiday, and all notes, bills, drafts, checks, or other negotiable instruments falling due or maturing on either of said days shall be deemed to be payable on the next succeeding business day. In case the return or adjourned day in any suit, matter, or hearing before any court comes on any day referred to in this section, such suit, matter, or proceeding, commenced or adjourned as aforesaid, shall not, by reason of coming on any such day, abate, but the same shall stand continued to the next succeeding day at the same time and place, unless the next day is Sunday, when in such case the same shall stand continued to the next succeeding secular or business day at the same time and place. Nothing in this section shall prevent the issuing or serving of process on any of the days mentioned in this section or on Sunday.

(3) The provisions of this section shall not operate to prohibit agencies in the executive branch of state government from doing business on any of the legal holidays named in this article. Employees under the jurisdiction of the state personnel system who are required to work on any of the legal holidays named in this article shall be granted an alternate day off in the same fiscal year or be paid in accordance with the state personnel system or state fiscal rules in effect on April 30, 1979.

Editor's note: Columbus Day, referred to in subsection (1), was originally enacted in 1907, see L. 07: p. 422, § 1. This was codified in the Revised Statutes of Colorado, see R.S. 08, p. 803, § 2948, and then recodified in the Compiled Laws of Colorado, see C.L., p. 1120, § 3810. In 1933, C.L. § 3810 [C.L. 3807, 3808, 3809, 3811, 3812, and 3813] was relocated into C.L. § 3802, see L. 33, p. 548, § 2. The Columbus Day provision was recodified in the CSA, C. 79, p. 605, § 1, and numbered as § 67-1-2 in CRS 53 and C.R.S. 1963. In 1969, S.B. 4 amended § 67-1-2 and moved the Columbus Day provision to § 67-1-1, see L. 69, p. 480, §§ 1, 2. In compiling the 1973 Colorado Revised Statutes, § 67-1-1 was subsequently renumbered as § 24-11-101.

ANNOTATION

Public utilities commission is a "public office" within the terms of this section. Thus, where the last day for filing a petition for rehearing falls on a Sunday, when the commission offices are closed, the filing of the petition on a Monday is timely. Denver Clean-Up Serv., Inc. v. Pub. Utils. Comm'n, 174 Colo. 329, 483 P.2d 974 (1971).

Summons and complaint mistakenly ordering court appearance on a Sunday does not excuse the obligation to appear in court nor purge the court of jurisdiction over the person. Banos v. El Paso County Court, 804 P.2d 259 (Colo. App. 1990).

With a 180-day filing requirement, plaintiff was permitted to file notice of a claim on the

This section shall not be construed as resulting in a tolling, waiver, or extension of the 180-day filing requirement pursuant to § 24-10-109. Rather, this section merely allows the 180-day period to be given effect and provide a uniform method for determining when a statutory period begins and ends. Matthews v. City & County of Denver, 20 P.3d 1227 (Colo. App. 2000).

Applied in Fleming v. City of Lakewood, 723 P.2d 166 (Colo. App. 1986).

24-11-111. Colorado Day. On the first Monday of August in each year, commonly called “Colorado Day”, appropriate observance may be held by the public in tribute to the anniversary of the 1876 admission of the state of Colorado into the United States of America.

24-11-112. Cesar Chavez Day. (1) The thirty-first day of March in each year, the same being the anniversary of the birth of Cesar Estrada Chavez, shall be known as “Cesar Chavez Day” and appropriate observance may be held by the public and in all public schools of the state in tribute to his unselfish commitment to the principles of social justice and respect for human dignity.

(2) The head of a state agency may allow an employee of the agency to have a day off with pay on Cesar Chavez day in lieu of any other legal holiday described in section 24-11-101 (1) that occurs in the same state fiscal year on a weekday, other than a weekday on which an election is held throughout the state, on which the state agency is required to be open but on which the operations of the agency are required to be maintained at only a minimum level.

(3) On Cesar Chavez day, each state agency shall remain open and conduct the operations of the agency at no less than a minimum level.

(4) A holiday allowed under this section is in lieu of a legal holiday described in section 24-11-101 (1). The total number of legal holidays in a state fiscal year available to an employee of a state agency is not changed by this section.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, “Fearing Hell as Essential to Validity of Affidavit”, see 18 Dicta 144 (1941).

Unlikely that notary public invokes “everliving God” to witness truth of statement. Under most office arrangements where the handling and notarization of papers are routine and perfunctory, as where the notary public is familiar with a signature, it is unlikely that “the everliving God” is invoked to witness the truth of a statement. Rogers v. People, 161 Colo. 317, 422 P.2d 377 (1966).

24-12-102. Form of affirmation. Those officials empowered to administer oaths are enumerated in this section. Zimmerman v. Indus. Comm'n, 108 Colo. 552, 120 P.2d 636 (1941).

However, the secretary of the industrial commission is not mentioned therein, and there is no specific statutory provision investing this officer with such power. Zimmerman v. Indus. Comm'n, 108 Colo. 552, 120 P.2d 636 (1941) (decided prior to the abolition of the industrial commission in 1986).

Function of notary public is to take affidavits and depositions. Affidavits and depositions, when made, are legal papers, and the taking of them has been recognized as the function of a notary public from the earliest times. People ex rel. Attorney Gen. v. Wicks, 101 Colo. 397, 74 P.2d 665 (1937).

Thus, notary public authorized to administer oath to surety on bail bond. The affidavit of a surety on a bail bond as to his ownership of property, or other qualifications as a surety, is one "authorized or by law required to be taken", within the meaning of this section, and under this section a notary public has the authority to administer the oath. People v. Pollock, 65 Colo. 275, 176 P. 329 (1918).

24-12-104. Officers in armed forces empowered to perform notarial acts. (1) In addition to the acknowledgment of instruments and the performance of other notarial acts in the manner and form and as otherwise authorized by law, instruments may be acknowledged, documents attested, oaths and affirmations administered, depositions and affidavits executed, and other notarial acts performed before or by any commissioned officer in active service of the armed forces of the United States or any such officer performing inactive-duty training with the equivalent rank of second lieutenant or higher in any component part of the armed forces of the United States, by or for any person who is a member of the armed forces of the United States, or is serving as a merchant seaman outside the limits of the United States included within the fifty states and the District of Columbia, or is outside said limits by permission, assignment, or direction of any department or official of the United States government, in connection with any activity pertaining to the prosecution of any war in which the United States is then engaged.

(2) Such acknowledgment of instruments, attestation of documents, administration of oaths and affirmations, execution of depositions and affidavits, and performance of other notarial acts, whenever made or taken, are hereby declared legal, valid, and binding, and instruments and documents so acknowledged, authenticated, or sworn to shall be admissible in evidence and eligible to record in this state under the same circumstances and with the same force and effect as if such acknowledgment, attestation, oath, affirmation, deposition, affidavit, or other notarial act had been made or taken within this state before or by a duly qualified officer or official as otherwise provided by law.

(3) In the taking of acknowledgments and the performing of other notarial acts requiring certification, a certificate indorsed upon or attached to the instrument or document which shows the date of the notarial act and which states, in substance, that the person appearing before the officer acknowledged the instrument as his act or made or signed the instrument or document under oath shall be sufficient for all intents and purposes. The instrument or document shall not be rendered invalid by the failure to state the place of execution or acknowledgment.

(4) If the signature, rank, and branch of service or subdivision thereof of any such commissioned officer appears upon such instrument or document or certificate, no further proof of the authority of such officer so to act shall be required, and such action by such commissioned officer shall be prima facie evidence that the person making such oath or acknowledgment is within the purview of this section.

(5) If any instrument is acknowledged substantially as provided in this section, whether such acknowledgment has been taken before or after February 27, 1943, such acknowledgment shall be prima facie evidence of proper execution of such instrument and shall carry with it the presumptions provided for by section 38-35-101, C.R.S.

24-12-105. Appointees of officers of home rule cities and city and counties. In all home rule cities and city and counties, the charters of which provide that officers, boards, or commissions named therein shall perform the acts and duties required of county officers by the state constitution or by general law, any deputy, employee, or appointee of such officer, board, or commission may administer any oath or affirmation which, by the state constitution or general law, might be administered by the county officer whose duties are performed by such officer, board, or commission making such appointment or employing such deputy, so long as such deputy, employee, or appointee is employed in such capacity.

24-12-106. False swearing or affirming, perjury. ANNOTATION

Three elements are necessary to complete the crime of perjury: (1) Signing a false statement; (2) wilfully and corruptly taking the oath or affirming the same; and (3) making an oath before authorized officer in a manner prescribed by statute. Rogers v. People, 161 Colo. 317, 422 P.2d 377 (1966).

Surety making false affidavit on financial condition guilty of perjury. Where one offers himself as surety in bail bond and makes, before notary public, false affidavit as to his financial condition, he is guilty of perjury. People v. Pollock, 65 Colo. 275, 176 P. 329 (1918).

In prosecutions for perjury, the uncorroborated oath of one witness is not enough to establish the falsity of the testimony of the accused. Rather, the offense must be proved by the testimony of two witnesses, or the testimony of one witness and by other independent and corroborating circumstances which are deemed of equal weight of the testimony of another witness. Moreover, the corroboration of a single witness for the prosecution must contradict in definite and positive terms the statement of the accused. Lindsay v. People, 119 Colo. 438, 204 P.2d 878 (1949).

24-12-107. Oaths taken out of state. All oaths and affirmations required or authorized to be taken by any statute of this state, when the person required to make the same resides out of or is absent from this state, may be made before and administered by any notary public or clerk of any court of record of the state wherein such person may be, such notary or clerk certifying the same under his notarial seal or the seal of such court.

24-12-108. Tax returns - applications for refunds. Any person required to make any return or any application for refund or protest against any deficiency assessment involving any tax imposed by the sales, use, income, motor fuel, and motor vehicle tax laws under oath or affirmation, in lieu of such oath or affirmation, may make a written verification or declaration that it is true and correct and that it is made under the penalties of perjury in the first degree, and the same is valid and complete without any attestation before a notary public or other officer if the signature thereto is witnessed by a legally competent person.

24-13-101. Clerks of district courts. The clerks of the district courts are required to execute a bond to the people of the state, with sufficient security to be approved by the judges of their respective districts, conditioned for faithful performance of their duties as clerks of said courts and conditioned that they will promptly pay over to the persons legally authorized to receive the same all moneys coming into their hands by virtue of said office. The bonds shall be in the penal sums as follows: In counties of the first class, twenty-five thousand dollars; in counties of the second class, ten thousand dollars; and in all other counties, five thousand dollars. Whenever in the judgment of the district judge of the district, conditions arise which require a larger bond from said clerk than that specified in this section, said clerks may be required to execute new and additional bonds in such amounts as may be required by such district judge.

ANNOTATION

Bond executed where no bond required is not an official bond. An instrument executed by an officer in the form of an official bond, where no such bond is required of him by law, is not an official bond; it is without force or effect, and there can be no recovery upon it. Sullivan v. People, 16 Colo. App. 303, 64 P. 1049 (1901).

Bond that substantially conforms to statutory provision is all that is required, where the statute does not prescribe a form therefor. Cooper v. People ex rel. Bd. of Comm'rs, 28 Colo. 87, 63 P. 314 (1900).

Bond running to "state of Colorado" is in substantial compliance. While this section provides that an official bond shall run to the "people of the state", a bond in which the obligee is the "state of Colorado" is in substantial compliance. Cooper v. People ex rel. Bd. of Comm'rs, 28 Colo. 87, 63 P. 314 (1900).

As is bond which omits word "promptly". Despite the fact that this section requires the clerk of the district court to "promptly" pay over to the person legally authorized to receive the same all moneys that may come to his hand by virtue of his office, omitting the word "promptly" in the bond does not destroy its character as a statutory bond, nor relieve the sureties from liability. Cooper v. People ex rel. Bd. of Comm'rs, 28 Colo. 87, 63 P. 314 (1900).

As is bond conditioned that clerk pay over money coming into hands as clerk. The official bond of a district clerk conditioned that he should pay over all moneys that might come into his hands as clerk is in substantial compliance with the statutory requirement specifying that the condition shall be to pay over all money that might come into his hands by virtue of his office. Whatever money comes into his hands as clerk comes into his hands by virtue of his office. People ex rel. Howard v. Cobb, 10 Colo. App. 478, 51 P. 523 (1897).

Bond's sureties are only liable for abuse of officer's authority which he possesses, but are not liable for the abuse of an authority which he pretends to have but does not possess. The fact that the clerk of a district court represents to an assignee that he has authority to receive money of the estate without an order of court, and, relying on said representation, the assignee deposits with the clerk money belonging to the estate, does not make the sureties on the clerk's bond liable for a conversion of the money by the clerk. People ex rel. Howard v. Cobb, 10 Colo. App. 478, 51 P. 523 (1897).

No liability for money which officer is unauthorized to receive. Money paid to the clerk of the district court which he has no authority to receive, and without an order of the court directing the money to be paid into court, is not money paid into court, nor is it money coming into the hands of the clerk by virtue of his office for the payment of which the sureties on his official bond would be liable. People ex rel. Howard v. Cobb, 10 Colo. App. 478, 51 P. 523 (1897).

24-13-102. Suits on clerk's bond. The bonds so executed by said clerks may be sued upon in the name of the people to the use of any person injured by their breach in any court of competent jurisdiction.

ANNOTATION

There is no express provision that the county treasurer shall bring suit. The only provision is that the bond shall be payable to the people of the state of Colorado, and that suit shall be brought thereon in the name of the people to the use of any party injured by its breach. Cooper v. People ex rel. Bd. of Comm'rs, 28 Colo. 87, 63 P. 314 (1900).

24-13-103. Bond filed with secretary of state. Every such bond, before such clerk shall enter upon the duties of his office, shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state, and copies thereof certified by the secretary of state under the seal of the state shall be received as evidence without proof of the execution of the original in all courts of this state.

ANNOTATION

Section is not applicable to the clerks of county courts. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Von Bernuth, 79 Colo. 300, 245 P. 490 (1926).

24-13-104. Judge to examine bond. It is the duty of the presiding judge of the district court of each judicial district and of each county court in this state to examine and inquire into the sufficiency of the official bonds of the clerk of said court. If it appears that any one or more of the sureties on any such official bond have removed from the county or district, died, or become insolvent or of doubtful solvency, an order shall be entered of record requiring such clerk, within such time as may be fixed by the court, not less than five days nor more than ten days from the entry of such order, to file a new bond, with sureties to be approved as required by law, unless the number and pecuniary ability of other sureties on the bond are such as to satisfy the judge that the bond is sufficient, notwithstanding the fact that one or more of the sureties may have removed, died, or become insolvent or of doubtful solvency, in which case the bond in question, in the discretion of said judge, may be held to be sufficient. Every clerk of the district court shall procure and cause to be filed in the office of the clerk of the county for which he has been appointed such clerk of court a duly certified copy of such official bond.

ANNOTATION

Presumed that judge inquires into bond's sufficiency following surety's death. The official bond of a district court clerk does not become insufficient merely because of the removal from the county, death, or insolvency of one of the sureties, and where there is no record of any order requiring a new bond or of any inquiry into the sufficiency of the old one after the death of a surety, it will be presumed that the judge of the court complied with his statutory duty, inquired into the sufficiency of the bond, and found it sufficient. Sullivan v. People, 16 Colo. App. 303, 64 P. 1049 (1901).

But where new bond filed without approval, no recovery against sureties. Where one of the sureties on the official bond of a district court clerk dies and, upon the suggestion of one of the judges of the court, the clerk executes a new bond with other sureties and files it with the secretary of state, but it does not appear that the bond is ever accepted or approved by any judge of the court, and there is no evidence that any judge knows of its existence, and no order is ever entered of record requiring the clerk to file the new bond as provided in this section, the bond was not an official bond and no recovery can be had against the sureties thereon. Sullivan v. People, 16 Colo. App. 303, 64 P. 1049 (1901).

24-13-105. County board to examine bonds - new bond. It is the duty of the board of county commissioners of each county, at each regular term, on the first day of each term, to examine and inquire into the sufficiency of the official bond of the county treasurer, sheriff, coroner, county assessor, county clerk and recorder, and county surveyor and all other official bonds given by any county officer, as required by law. If it appears that one or more of the sureties on the official bond of any such county officer have removed from the county, died, or become insolvent or of doubtful solvency, the board of county commissioners shall cause such officer to be summoned to appear before said board, on a day to be named in said summons, to show cause why he should not be required to give a new bond, with sufficient surety. If, at the appointed time, he fails to satisfy said board as to the sufficiency of the present surety, an order shall be entered of record by said board, requiring such officer to file in the office of the county clerk and recorder, within twenty days, a new bond, to be approved as required by law, unless the number and pecuniary ability of other sureties on the bond are such as to satisfy the board that the bond is sufficient, notwithstanding the fact that one or more of the sureties on said bond may have removed, died, or become insolvent or of doubtful solvency, in which case the bond in question, in the discretion of said board, may be held to be sufficient.

ANNOTATION

Finding of insufficiency prerequisite to requiring new bond. The board of county commissioners has no jurisdiction to require the filing of a new bond without a finding of the insufficiency of the original one. People ex rel. Carr v. Brown, 23 Colo. 425, 48 P. 661 (1897).

District judge has no jurisdiction to require county commissioner to give new bond, because bonds of county commissioners are within the meaning of the term "other official bonds, given by any county officer, as required by law". People ex rel. Jones v. District Court, 18 Colo. 293, 32 P. 819 (1893).

24-13-106. Parties interested may offer evidence. All persons interested in the sufficiency of the official bond of any of the officers or persons named in sections 24-13-104 and 24-13-105 may appear at the prescribed time and place and shall be allowed to introduce any evidence lawfully tending to prove the removal, death, insolvency, or doubtful solvency of any surety on such official bond, and the officer or person interested, or any of his sureties, may also appear and introduce any evidence lawfully tending to establish the sufficiency of such official bond.

24-13-107. Record of examination. It is the duty of the judge of said district court, county judge, and board of county commissioners to enter upon their respective records, at the time prescribed in sections 24-13-104 and 24-13-105 for an examination, that an examination and inquiry into the sufficiency of the official bonds within their cognizance has been made and that they severally are deemed sufficient or insufficient as the facts may justify.

24-13-108. Failure to file new bond - vacancy. If any officer or person enumerated in sections 24-13-104 and 24-13-105 fails to file a new bond within the prescribed time when so required by an order entered of record requiring the filing of such new bond, the officer in default shall be deemed to have vacated his office, and the same steps shall be taken to fill such vacancy thus created as are taken to fill a vacancy by the death or resignation of such officer.

ANNOTATION

Two proceedings are authorized for failure to find a new bond: One is to be initiated by the board of county commissioners and is predicated upon the insufficiency of the officer's original bond under § 24-13-105, and the other is a bondsman who is unwilling to be security for the officer under § 24-13-109. It follows, therefore, that an information to oust or exclude an officer from his office, because of his failure to file a new bond, must, by apt averments, bring the case within one of these provisions. People ex rel. Carr v. Brown, 23 Colo. 425, 48 P. 661 (1897).

24-13-109. Release of sureties - notice. Any person who is the surety of any sheriff, coroner, county clerk and recorder, county treasurer, county surveyor, or other county officer shall have the power of releasing himself from further liability as such surety for such officer by filing in the office of the county clerk and recorder a notice that he is no longer willing to be surety for such officer. If the person so desiring to be released from such surety is suretyship for the county clerk and recorder, in addition to such filing of notice, he shall deliver a copy of the notice to the chairman of the board of county commissioners or, if he is absent, to some other member of said board. Any person who is surety on the official bond of the clerk of the district court or master may be released by filing a notice in the office of said clerk of the district court in like manner and also delivering a copy thereof to the judge of said court.

ANNOTATION

Sufficient notice by the surety is a jurisdictional fact in a proceeding under § 24-13-

108. People ex rel. Carr v. Brown, 23 Colo. 425, 48 P. 661 (1897).

24-13-110. Duty of county clerk and recorder. When any notice is filed with the county clerk and recorder, he shall immediately give notice thereof to such officer, who shall thereupon file other surety, to be approved by the board of county commissioners if the same is then in session or if a session thereof is commenced within ten days after notice has been given, but, if said board is not in session nor a session thereof is commenced within ten days thereafter, the officer within ten days shall file said bond with the county clerk and recorder, who shall judge of the sufficiency of said bond, subject to the decision and approval of said board of county commissioners at their first meeting thereafter. If such notice relates to the surety of the county clerk and recorder, it is the duty of the county commissioner to whom the copy of such notice is given immediately to require said clerk to file other surety to be approved by the board of county commissioners in like manner, but, if said board is not in session, the county commissioner to whom such notice may be given may approve such surety, subject to the decision and approval of the said board at its first meeting thereafter. In case such notice relates to the surety of the clerk of the district court or any master, it is the duty of the judge of said court forthwith, upon receiving such notice, to require such master or clerk to file within ten days other surety, to be approved by him as in other cases.

same, mandamus will not lie to control the board's discretion in the matter. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Crotty, 9 Colo. 318, 12 P. 151 (1886).

24-13-111. Effect of new bond - release. If a new bond is given by any officer, then the former sureties shall be entirely released and discharged from all liability incurred by any such officer as to any business which may have been transacted from and after the time of the approval of the new bond, and the sureties to the new bond shall be liable for all official delinquencies of said officer, whether of omission or commission, which may occur after approval of the new bond.

ANNOTATION

Applied in People ex rel. Carr v. Brown, 23 Colo. 425, 48 P. 661 (1897).

24-13-116. Approval of bonds - clerk of county board. The county treasurer, county assessor, county clerk and recorder, or any county officer shall file his official bond in the office of the county clerk and recorder, which bond shall be executed as required by law and shall be approved by the board of county commissioners in open session. If said board is not in session on the filing of such bond, then the county clerk and recorder shall judge of its sufficiency, subject to the final decision and approval of said board at its first meeting thereafter. If said board is not in session, the county clerk and recorder, in filing his bond, shall present the same to the chairman of the board of county commissioners or, in case of his absence or inability to act, to one of the other members of said board, who shall judge of its sufficiency, subject to the decision and approval of said board at its first meeting thereafter.

ANNOTATION

Bond of county clerk filed with same officer as superior. In the absence of a special statutory provision, the bond of a clerk of a county court may be properly filed with the same officer as the bond of his superior. Bd. of County Comm'rs v. Von Bernuth, 79 Colo. 300, 245 P. 490 (1926).

Delivery of statutory bond may be sufficient, without official approval, to bond sureties where the officer has begun his duties or where the obligee has indicated satisfaction and relied upon it to his advantage. Irvin v. Crook, 17 Colo. 16, 28 P. 549 (1891).

24-13-117. Approval of bonds to be of record. It is the duty of the board of county commissioners to make an entry in the records of said board of its approval of all official bonds, and, when so approved by said board, the county clerk and recorder shall record the same in the records of said county for inspection by all persons.

24-14-101. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

- (1) "Agent" means any person duly authorized by an officer or employee to perform an act within the course of his service or employment.
- (2) "Employee" means any employee of the state or its governmental subdivisions.
- (3) "Officer" means any elected or appointed public official.
- (4) "State" means any agency or department of the state of Colorado, a county, or a city and county.

24-14-102. Purchase of insurance authorized. The head of a department of the state of Colorado, with the approval of the governor or, in the case of the county or city and county, the chief executive officer or board of county commissioners, subject to appropriations being available therefor, is hereby authorized to procure insurance, through the department of personnel as provided in the "Procurement Code", articles 101 to 112 of this title, for the purpose of insuring its officers, employees, and agents against any liability, other than a liability which may be insured against under the provisions of the "Workers' Compensation Act of Colorado", for injuries or damages resulting from their negligence or other tortious conduct during the course of their service or employment. Counties or cities and counties are authorized to insure their officers, employees, and agents against similar liabilities.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For comment on Am. Bus Lines v. Am. Sur. Co., appearing below, see 43 Den. L.J. 238 (1966).

Section is only applicable to state, county, and city departments. This section only applies to agencies or departments of the state, or to counties or cities and counties. Maloney v. City & County of Denver, 35 Colo. App. 167, 530 P.2d 1004 (1974).

It does not apply to political subdivisions. Maloney v. City & County of Denver, 35 Colo. App. 167, 530 P.2d 1004 (1974).

Therefore, it cannot apply to school boards or school districts. Maloney v. City & County of Denver, 35 Colo. App. 167, 530 P.2d 1004 (1974).

Section is authorization statute and was not designed to limit scope of coverage. Am. Bus Lines v. Am. Sur. Co., 238 F. Supp. 589 (D. Colo. 1965).

"Permissive use", rather than "scope of employment", is the proper test of coverage with respect to a liability policy covering state vehicles and extending coverage to use with the state's permission. Am. Bus Lines v. Am. Sur. Co., 238 F. Supp. 589 (D. Colo. 1965).

Therefore, employee driving state vehicle for repairs covered. A state employee who had driven a state vehicle for repairs and was returning it at the time of an accident was using the truck with the state's permission and was acting within his scope of employment, even though he had earlier violated regulations by going to his home and the home of a friend and by drinking beer. Am. Bus Lines v. Am. Sur. Co., 238 F. Supp. 589 (D. Colo. 1965).

24-14-103. Approval of seller - premium cost. Any policy of insurance shall be obtained from an insurer authorized to transact business in this state and deemed by the department of personnel or the appropriate governing body of the governmental subdivision to be responsible and financially sound considering the extent of the coverage required. The premium for such insurance shall be a proper charge against the state or the appropriate governmental subdivision.

24-14-104. Amount of coverage - limitations. (1) The extent of the insurance coverage shall be limited as follows:

(a) For any bodily injury and property damage to one person in any single occurrence, the sum of one hundred fifty thousand dollars;

(b) For any bodily injury and property damage to two or more persons in any single occurrence, the sum of four hundred thousand dollars; except that, in such instance, no person may recover in excess of one hundred fifty thousand dollars.

24-14-105. Limitation of actions. No action arising against an officer, employee, or agent of the state or state governmental subdivision for which insurance coverage is provided in this article shall be brought unless the same is brought within the time period prescribed in section 13-80-102 or 13-80-102.5, C.R.S., except as set forth in section 13-80-103 (1) (b) and (1) (c), C.R.S.

24-16-103. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) “Agency of government” means any state agency, department, division, board, bureau, commission, institution, or section which is a budgetary unit exercising purchasing authority or discretion.

(2) “Contract” means any agreement for public works for a fixed or determinable amount duly awarded after advertisement and competitive bid.

(3) “Cost” means the total cost of labor, materials, provisions, supplies, equipment rentals, equipment purchases, insurance, supervision, engineering, clerical and accounting services, the value of the use of equipment, including depreciation, owned by an agency of government, and reasonable estimates of other administrative costs not otherwise directly attributable to the project which may be reasonably apportioned to such project in accordance with generally accepted cost accounting principles and standards.

(4) “Generally accepted cost accounting principles and standards” means those accounting principles and standards promulgated by the cost accounting standards board of the American institute of certified public accountants which pertain to contractors engaged in the performance of government contracts.

(5) “Project” means any public work for which appropriation or expenditure of funds may be reasonably expected to exceed twenty-five thousand dollars in the aggregate for any fiscal year.

(6) "Public work" means any construction, alteration, repair, or improvement of any land, building, structure, facility, road, highway, or other public improvement suitable for and intended for use in the promotion of the public health, welfare, or safety or maintenance programs for the upkeep of public roads, highways, or bridge structures; except that "public works" does not include routine maintenance that is not definable by a stop or start time or by geographical limits.

(7) "Responsible agency of government" means the agency of government which has fiscal accountability for a project.

(8) "Responsible official" means the person having overall responsibility, including delegated authority, for keeping the accounting records of the responsible agency of government.

24-17-102. Control system to be maintained. (1) Each principal department of the executive department of the state government listed in section 24-1-110 shall institute and maintain systems of internal accounting and administrative control within said department, which shall be applicable to all agencies within said department and which shall provide for:

- (a) A plan of organization that specifies such segregation of duties as may be necessary to assure the proper safeguarding of state assets;
- (b) Restrictions permitting access to state assets only by authorized persons in the performance of their assigned duties;
- (c) Adequate authorization and record-keeping procedures to provide effective accounting control over state assets, liabilities, revenues, and expenditures;
- (d) Personnel of quality and integrity commensurate with their assigned responsibilities;
- (e) An effective process of internal review and adjustment for changes in conditions.

24-17-103. Annual report to controller. Not later than December 31 of each year following April 9, 1988, the head of each principal department shall file, with the controller, the state auditor, and the governor, a written statement that the department's systems of internal accounting and control either do or do not fully comply with the requirements of section 24-17-102. In the event that the statement filed indicates that the systems employed by the department are not in compliance with section 24-17-102, the statement shall further detail specific weaknesses known to exist, together with plans and schedules for correcting any such weaknesses.

STATE CONTINGENCY-BASED CONTRACTS

24-17-201. Short title. This part 2 shall be known and may be cited as the "State Contingency-Based Contracts Act".

Source: L. 2004: Entire part added, p. 1124, § 1, effective May 27.

24-17-202. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) Under certain circumstances, contingency-based contracts can benefit the state by reducing state agencies' fixed contractual costs and linking state agency expenditures to the achievement of desired results, but contingency-based contracts can also have unintended adverse consequences that impact state finances in ways that a contracting state agency might not foresee.

(b) Contracting is a function of the executive branch of state government, but the power to appropriate state moneys is a legislative function, and it is necessary and appropriate to provide limited legislative guidance to the executive branch regarding contingency-based contracts in order to protect state finances and the appropriations process from possible unintended adverse effects of contingency-based contracts.

(2) The general assembly further finds and declares that:

(a) Existing statutes expressly authorize certain state agencies to enter into contingency-based contracts in specified circumstances, and these statutes reflect the considered judgment of the general assembly that contingency-based contracts are appropriate in those circumstances. It is not the intent of the general assembly to subject contingency-based contracts entered into pursuant to specific statutory authorization to the requirements of this part 2.

(b) Because the office of state planning and budgeting is the executive branch agency that makes state economic forecasts for the executive branch and oversees the participation of the executive branch in the state budgeting process, it is the state agency best suited to determine, in accordance with the guidelines set forth in this part 2, whether a contingency-based contract not expressly authorized by statute is appropriate.

24-17-203. Definitions. As used in this part 2, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Contingency-based contract" means a contract entered into by a state agency and a vendor for services that:

(a) Requires all or part of the vendor's compensation to be computed by multiplying a stated percentage times the amount of measurable savings in the state agency's expenditures or costs of operation that are demonstrably attributable to the vendor's services under the contract; and

(b) Is entered into without the authority of a state statute that specifically authorizes the agency to enter into such a contract.

(2) "Office" means the office of state planning and budgeting created in section 24-37-102.

Source: L. 2004: Entire part added, p. 1125, § 1, effective May 27.

24-17-204. Review of contingency-based contracts by office of state planning and budgeting. (1) No contingency-based contract shall be deemed valid unless the head of the principal department of state government entering into the contract or containing the agency entering into the contract submits the contract and an analysis of the contract to the office as required by paragraph (b) of subsection (2) of this section and the office approves the contract and transmits its approval in writing to the department. The state controller shall also promptly forward each contingency-based contract that it reviews pursuant to section 24-30-202 to the office.

(2) (a) Whenever a principal department of state government or another state agency enters into a contingency-based contract, the department or agency shall prepare an analysis of the contract that addresses:

(I) The extent to which the contract requires the vendor's compensation to be computed on a contingency basis and the maximum potential contractual liability to pay contingency-based compensation to the vendor;

(II) The extent to which it is necessary to offer contingency-based compensation to the vendor and the amount of any reduction in fixed contractual costs achieved by offering contingency-based compensation;

(III) The extent to which the contractually specified performance measure used to determine contingency-based compensation is appropriate and capable of being accurately determined;

(IV) The extent to which the contingency-based compensation specified in the contract might affect the state budgeting and appropriations process; and

(V) Any other factors that the department or agency deems relevant to consider in evaluating the contract.

(b) The head of a principal department of state government entering into a contingency-based contract or containing an agency entering into a contingency-based contract shall sign both the contract and the analysis prepared pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) and shall submit both the contract and the analysis to the office so that the office may approve or disapprove the contract.

(c) Upon receipt of a contingency-based contract and analysis, the office shall review and either approve or disapprove the contract. The office shall promptly transmit written notification of a decision to approve a contingency-based contract to the head of the principal department that submitted the contract to the office and the joint budget committee of the general assembly. The office shall promptly transmit written notification of a decision to disapprove a contingency-based contract only to the head of the principal department that submitted the contract to the office.

24-17-205. Existing legal requirements not superseded. The provisions of this part 2 shall not be construed to repeal, supersede, or otherwise affect any other statutory provisions that limit the use of or require review or approval of contingency-based contracts. Nothing in this part 2 shall be construed to authorize or prohibit a state agency from entering into a contingency-based contract in the absence of a statute that specifically authorizes the state agency to enter into such a contract.

CODE OF ETHICS

24-18-101. Legislative declaration. The general assembly recognizes the importance of the participation of the citizens of this state in all levels of government in the state. The general assembly further recognizes that, when citizens of this state obtain public office, conflicts may arise between the public duty of such a citizen and his or her private interest.

The general assembly hereby declares that the prescription of some standards of conduct common to those citizens involved with government is beneficial to all residents of the state. The provisions of this part 1 recognize that some actions are conflicts per se between public duty and private interest while other actions may or may not pose such conflicts depending upon the surrounding circumstances.

24-18-102. Definitions. As used in this part 1, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Business" means any corporation, limited liability company, partnership, sole proprietorship, trust or foundation, or other individual or organization carrying on a business, whether or not operated for profit.

(2) "Compensation" means any money, thing of value, or economic benefit conferred on or received by any person in return for services rendered or to be rendered by himself or another.

(3) "Employee" means any temporary or permanent employee of a state agency or any local government, except a member of the general assembly and an employee under contract to the state.

(4) "Financial interest" means a substantial interest held by an individual which is:

(a) An ownership interest in a business;

(b) A creditor interest in an insolvent business;

(c) An employment or a prospective employment for which negotiations have begun;

(d) An ownership interest in real or personal property;

(e) A loan or any other debtor interest; or

(f) A directorship or officership in a business.

(5) "Local government" means the government of any county, city and county, city, town, special district, or school district.

(6) "Local government official" means an elected or appointed official of a local government but does not include an employee of a local government.

(7) "Official act" or "official action" means any vote, decision, recommendation, approval, disapproval, or other action, including inaction, which involves the use of discretionary authority.

(8) "Public officer" means any elected officer, the head of a principal department of the executive branch, and any other state officer. "Public officer" does not include a member of the general assembly, a member of the judiciary, any local government official, or any member of a board, commission, council, or committee who receives no compensation other than a per diem allowance or necessary and reasonable expenses.

(9) "State agency" means the state; the general assembly and its committees; every executive department, board, commission, committee, bureau, and office; every state institution of higher education, whether established by the state constitution or by law, and every governing board thereof; and every independent commission and other political subdivision of the state government except the courts.

24-18-103. Public trust - breach of fiduciary duty. (1) The holding of public office or employment is a public trust, created by the confidence which the electorate reposes in the integrity of public officers, members of the general assembly, local government officials, and employees. A public officer, member of the general assembly, local government official, or employee shall carry out his duties for the benefit of the people of the state.

(2) A public officer, member of the general assembly, local government official, or employee whose conduct departs from his fiduciary duty is liable to the people of the state as a trustee of property and shall suffer such other liabilities as a private fiduciary would suffer for abuse of his trust. The district attorney of the district where the trust is violated may bring appropriate judicial proceedings on behalf of the people. Any moneys collected in such actions shall be paid to the general fund of the state or local government. Judicial proceedings pursuant to this section shall be in addition to any criminal action which may be brought against such public officer, member of the general assembly, local government official, or employee.

24-18-104. Rules of conduct for all public officers, members of the general assembly, local government officials, and employees. (1) Proof beyond a reasonable doubt of commission of any act enumerated in this section is proof that the actor has breached his fiduciary duty and the public trust. A public officer, a member of the general assembly, a local government official, or an employee shall not:

(a) Disclose or use confidential information acquired in the course of his official duties in order to further substantially his personal financial interests; or

(b) Accept a gift of substantial value or a substantial economic benefit tantamount to a gift of substantial value:

(I) Which would tend improperly to influence a reasonable person in his position to depart from the faithful and impartial discharge of his public duties; or

(II) Which he knows or which a reasonable person in his position should know under the circumstances is primarily for the purpose of rewarding him for official action he has taken.

(2) An economic benefit tantamount to a gift of substantial value includes without limitation:

(a) A loan at a rate of interest substantially lower than the commercial rate then currently prevalent for similar loans and compensation received for private services rendered at a rate substantially exceeding the fair market value of such services; or

(b) The acceptance by a public officer, a member of the general assembly, a local government official, or an employee of goods or services for his or her own personal benefit offered by a person who is at the same time providing goods or services to the state or a local government under a contract or other means by which the person receives payment or other compensation from the state or local government, as applicable, for which the officer, member, official, or employee serves, unless the totality of the circumstances attendant to the acceptance of the goods or services indicates that the transaction is legitimate, the terms are fair to both parties, the transaction is supported by full and adequate consideration, and the officer, member, official, or employee does not receive any substantial benefit resulting from his or her official or governmental status that is unavailable to members of the public generally.

(3) The following are not gifts of substantial value or gifts of substantial economic benefit tantamount to gifts of substantial value for purposes of this section:

(a) Campaign contributions and contributions in kind reported as required by section 1-45-108, C.R.S.;

(b) An unsolicited item of trivial value;

(b.5) A gift with a fair market value of fifty-three dollars or less that is given to the public officer, member of the general assembly, local government official, or employee by a person other than a professional lobbyist.

(c) An unsolicited token or award of appreciation as described in section 3 (3) (c) of article XXIX of the state constitution;

(c.5) Unsolicited informational material, publications, or subscriptions related to the performance of official duties on the part of the public officer, member of the general assembly, local government official, or employee;

(d) Payment of or reimbursement for reasonable expenses paid by a nonprofit organization or state and local government in connection with attendance at a convention, fact-finding mission or trip, or other meeting as permitted in accordance with the provisions of section 3 (3) (f) of article XXIX of the state constitution;

(e) Payment of or reimbursement for admission to, and the cost of food or beverages consumed at, a reception, meal, or meeting that may be accepted or received in accordance with the provisions of section 3 (3) (e) of article XXIX of the state constitution;

(f) A gift given by an individual who is a relative or personal friend of the public officer, member of the general assembly, local government official, or employee on a special occasion.

(g) Payment for speeches, appearances, or publications that may be accepted or received by the public officer, member of the general assembly, local government official, or employee in accordance with the provisions of section 3 of article XXIX of the state constitution that are reported pursuant to section 24-6-203 (3). (d);

(h) Payment of salary from employment, including other government employment, in addition to that earned from being a member of the general assembly or by reason of service in other public office;

(i) A component of the compensation paid or other incentive given to the public officer, member of the general assembly, local government official, or employee in the normal course of employment; and

(j) Any other gift or thing of value a public officer, member of the general assembly, local government official, or employee is permitted to solicit, accept, or receive in accordance with the provisions of section 3 of article XXIX of the state constitution, the acceptance of which is not otherwise prohibited by law.

(4) The provisions of this section are distinct from and in addition to the reporting requirements of section 1-45-108, C.R.S., and section 24-6-203, and do not relieve an incumbent in or elected candidate to public office from reporting an item described in subsection (3) of this section, if such reporting provisions apply.

(5) The amount of the gift limit specified in paragraph (b.5) of subsection (3) of this section, set at fifty-three dollars as of August 8, 2012, shall be identical to the amount of the gift limit under section 3 of article XXIX of the state constitution, and shall be adjusted for inflation contemporaneously with any adjustment of the constitutional gift limit pursuant to section 3 (6) of article XXIX.

24-18-105. Ethical principles for public officers, local government officials, and employees. (1) The principles in this section are intended as guides to conduct and do not constitute violations as such of the public trust of office or employment in state or local government.

(2) A public officer, a local government official, or an employee should not acquire or hold an interest in any business or undertaking which he has reason to believe may be directly and substantially affected to its economic benefit by official action to be taken by an agency over which he has substantive authority.

(3) A public officer, a local government official, or an employee should not, within six months following the termination of his office or employment, obtain employment in which he will take direct advantage, unavailable to others, of matters with which he was directly involved during his term of employment. These matters include rules, other than rules of general application, which he actively helped to formulate and applications, claims, or contested cases in the consideration of which he was an active participant.

(4) A public officer, a local government official, or an employee should not perform an official act directly and substantially affecting a business or other undertaking to its economic detriment when he has a substantial financial interest in a competing firm or undertaking.

(5) Public officers, local government officials, and employees are discouraged from assisting or enabling members of their immediate family in obtaining employment, a gift of substantial value, or an economic benefit tantamount to a gift of substantial value from a person whom the officer, official, or employee is in a position to reward with official action or has rewarded with official action in the past.

ANNOTATION

It would not violate this section for a former employee of the department of health care policy and financing to enter into a contract with a consulting company to work on project management issues relating to a major health care provider where the state agency indicated there is no conflict. Independent Ethics Commission Letter Ruling 10-02.

24-18-106. Rules of conduct for members of the general assembly. (1) Proof beyond a reasonable doubt of commission of any act enumerated in this section is proof that the member of the general assembly committing the act has breached his fiduciary duty and the public trust. A member of the general assembly shall not accept a fee, a contingent fee, or any other compensation, except his official compensation provided by statute, for promoting or opposing the passage of legislation.

(2) It shall not be a breach of fiduciary duty and the public trust for a member of the general assembly to:

(a) Use state facilities or equipment to communicate or correspond with a member's constituents, family members, or business associates;

(b) Accept or receive a benefit as an indirect consequence of transacting state business; or

(c) Accept the payment of or reimbursement for actual and necessary expenses for travel, board, and lodging from any organization declared to be a joint governmental agency of this state under section 2-3-311 (2), C.R.S., if:

(I) (A) The expenses are related to the member's attendance at a convention or meeting of the joint governmental agency at which the member is scheduled to deliver a speech, make a presentation, participate on a panel, or represent the state of Colorado or for some other legitimate state purpose;

(B) The travel, board, and lodging arrangements are appropriate for purposes of the member's attendance at the convention or meeting;

(C) The duration of the member's stay is no longer than is reasonably necessary for the member to accomplish the purpose of his or her attendance at the convention or meeting;

(D) The member is not currently and will not subsequent to the convention or meeting be in a position to take any official action that will benefit the joint governmental agency; and

(E) The attendance at conventions or meetings of the joint governmental agency has been approved by the executive committee of the legislative council or by the leadership of the house of the general assembly to which the member belongs; or

(II) The general assembly pays regular monthly, annual, or other periodic dues to the joint governmental agency that are invoiced expressly to cover travel, board, and lodging expenses for the attendance of members at conventions or meetings of the joint governmental agency.

(3) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no member of the general assembly shall lobby, solicit lobbying business or contracts, or otherwise establish a lobbying business or practice respecting issues before the general assembly prior to the expiration of his or her term. Where the member tenders his or her resignation prior to the expiration of his or her term, the requirements of this subsection (3) shall apply up through the date of the member's resignation from office.

24-18-107. Ethical principles for members of the general assembly. (1) The principles in this section are intended only as guides to a member of the general assembly in determining whether or not his conduct is ethical.

(2) A member of the general assembly who has a personal or private interest in any measure or bill proposed or pending before the general assembly shall disclose the fact to the house of which he is a member and shall not vote thereon. In deciding whether or not he has such an interest, a member shall consider, among other things, the following:

- (a) Whether the interest impedes his independence of judgment;
 - (b) The effect of his participation on public confidence in the integrity of the general assembly; and
 - (c) Whether his participation is likely to have any significant effect on the disposition of the matter.
- (3) An interest situation does not arise from legislation affecting the entire membership of a class.

(4) If a member of the general assembly elects to disclose the interest, he shall do so as provided in the rules of the house of representatives or the senate, but in no case shall failure to disclose constitute a breach of the public trust of legislative office.

24-18-108. Rules of conduct for public officers and state employees. (1) Proof beyond a reasonable doubt of commission of any act enumerated in this section is proof that the actor has breached his fiduciary duty.

(2) A public officer or a state employee shall not:

- (a) Engage in a substantial financial transaction for his private business purposes with a person whom he inspects, regulates, or supervises in the course of his official duties;
- (b) Assist any person for a fee or other compensation in obtaining any contract, claim, license, or other economic benefit from his agency;
- (c) Assist any person for a contingent fee in obtaining any contract, claim, license, or other economic benefit from any state agency; or
- (d) Perform an official act directly and substantially affecting to its economic benefit a business or other undertaking in which he either has a substantial financial interest or is engaged as counsel, consultant, representative, or agent.

(3) A head of a principal department or a member of a quasi-judicial or rule-making agency may perform an official act notwithstanding paragraph (d) of subsection (2) of this section if his participation is necessary to the administration of a statute and if he complies with the voluntary disclosure procedures under section 24-18-110.

A member of a board, commission, council, or committee who receives no compensation other than a per diem allowance or necessary and reasonable expenses, a member of the general assembly, a public officer, a local government official, or an employee may, prior to acting in a manner which may impinge on his fiduciary duty and the public trust, disclose the nature of his private interest. Members of the general assembly shall make disclosure as provided in the rules of the house of representatives and the senate, and all others shall make the disclosure in writing to the secretary of state, listing the amount of his financial interest, if any, the purpose and duration of his services rendered, if any, and the compensation received for the services or such other information as is necessary to describe his interest. If he then performs the official act involved, he shall state for the record the fact and summary nature of the interest disclosed at the time of performing the act. Such disclosure shall constitute an affirmative defense to any civil or criminal action or any other sanction.

24-18-113. Board of ethics for the general assembly - created - duties. (1) (a) There is hereby created a board of ethics for the general assembly. The board shall consist of four legislative members. One member shall be appointed by and serve at the pleasure of the majority leader of the house of representatives; one member shall be appointed by and serve at the pleasure of the majority leader of the senate; one member shall be appointed by and serve at the pleasure of the minority leader of the house of representatives; and one member shall be appointed by and serve at the pleasure of the minority leader of the senate.

(b) The terms of the members appointed by the majority and minority leaders of the house of representatives and the senate and who are serving on March 22, 2007, shall be extended to and expire on or shall terminate on the convening date of the first regular session of the sixty-seventh general assembly. As soon as practicable after such convening date, the majority and minority leaders of the house of representatives and the senate shall each appoint or reappoint members in the same manner as provided in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1). Thereafter, the terms of members appointed or reappointed by the majority and minority leaders of the house of representatives and the senate shall expire on the convening date of the first regular session of each general assembly, and all subsequent appointments and reappointments by the majority and minority leaders of the house of representatives and the senate shall be made as soon as practicable after such convening date. The person making the original appointment or reappointment shall fill any vacancy by appointment for the remainder of an unexpired term. Members appointed or reappointed by the majority and minority leaders of the house of representatives and the senate shall continue in office until the member's successor is appointed.

(2) The board of ethics for the general assembly shall, upon written request of a member of the general assembly, issue advisory opinions concerning issues relating to the requesting member's conduct and the provisions of this article.

PROSCRIBED ACTS RELATED TO CONTRACTS AND CLAIMS

24-18-201. Interests in contracts. (1) Members of the general assembly, public officers, local government officials, or employees shall not be interested in any contract made by them in their official capacity or by any body, agency, or board of which they are members or employees. A former employee may not, within six months following the termination of his employment, contract or be employed by an employer who contracts with a state agency or any local government involving matters with which he was directly involved during his employment. For purposes of this section, the term:

(a) "Be interested in" does not include holding a minority interest in a corporation.

(b) "Contract" does not include:

(I) Contracts awarded to the lowest responsible bidder based on competitive bidding procedures;

(II) Merchandise sold to the highest bidder at public auctions;

(III) Investments or deposits in financial institutions which are in the business of loaning or receiving moneys;

(IV) A contract with an interested party if, because of geographic restrictions, a local government could not otherwise reasonably afford itself of the subject of the contract. It shall be presumed that a local government could not otherwise reasonably afford itself of the subject of a contract if the additional cost to the local government is greater than ten percent of a contract with an interested party or if the contract is for services that must be performed within a limited time period and no other contractor can provide those services within that time period.

(V) A contract with respect to which any member of the general assembly, public officer, local government official, or employee has disclosed a personal interest and has not voted thereon or with respect to which any member of the governing body of a local government has voted thereon in accordance with section 24-18-109 (3) (b) or 31-4-404 (3), C.R.S. Any such disclosure shall be made: To the governing body, for local government officials and employees; in accordance with the rules of the house of representatives and the senate, for members of the general assembly; and to the secretary of state, for all others.

ANNOTATION

It would not pose a violation of this section for a retired community college accounting professor to enter into a contract with the college since he was not involved in the accounting procedures at the college when he was employed there and the proposed contract does not involve a matter in which he was directly involved as a professor. Independent Ethics Commission Advisory Opinion 10-08.

It would not violate this section for a former employee of the department of health care policy and financing to enter into a contract with a consulting company to work on project management issues relating to a major health care provider, where the state agency indicated there is no conflict. 24-18-205. Settlements to be withheld on affidavit. (1) Every officer charged with the disbursement of public moneys who is informed by affidavit establishing probable cause that any officer whose account is about to be settled, audited, or paid by him has violated any of the provisions of this part 2 shall suspend such settlement or payment and cause such officer to be prosecuted for such violation by the district attorney of the appropriate jurisdiction.

(2) If there is judgment for the defendant upon such prosecution, the proper officer may proceed to settle, audit, or pay such account as if no such affidavit had been filed.

Independent Ethics Commission

24-18.5-101. Independent ethics commission - establishment - membership - subpoena power - definitions.

24-18.5-101. Independent ethics commission - establishment - membership - subpoena power - definitions. (1) As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Article XXIX" means article XXIX of the state constitution approved by the voters at the 2006 general election.

(b) "Commission" means the independent ethics commission created in section 5 (1) of article XXIX.

(2) (a) The independent ethics commission, originally established in the office of administrative courts in the department of personnel created in section 24-30-1001, is hereby transferred to and established in the judicial department as an independent agency, effective on June 10, 2010. The commission shall consist of five members. The appointing authorities for the commission members, the order of appointment of such members, and other requirements pertaining to commission membership shall be as specified in section 5 (2) of article XXIX. Subject to the requirements of paragraph (b) of this subsection (2), the member appointed by the senate pursuant to section 5 (2) (a) (I) of article XXIX shall be appointed by the president of the senate with the approval of two-thirds of the members elected to the senate. Subject to the requirements of paragraph (b) of this subsection (2), the member appointed by the house of representatives pursuant to section 5 (2) (a) (II) of article XXIX shall be appointed by the speaker of the house of representatives with the approval of two-thirds of the members elected to the house of representatives.

(b) In connection with the appointment of commission members, no more than two members appointed to the commission shall be affiliated with the same political party.

(c) The commission members shall be appointed to four-year terms; except that the first member appointed by the senate and the first member appointed by the governor shall initially serve two-year terms. Appointments to the commission by the senate and the house of representatives shall be made no later than May 1, 2007, and the initial terms of commission members shall commence July 1, 2007.

(3) Commission members shall serve without compensation; except that commission members shall be reimbursed for the actual and necessary expenses that they incur in carrying out their duties and responsibilities as commission members.

(4) In accordance with the provisions of section 5 of article XXIX, the powers and duties of the commission shall be as follows:

(a) To hear complaints, issue findings, and assess penalties on ethics issues arising under article XXIX and other standards of conduct and reporting requirements as provided by law; and

(b) (I) To issue advisory opinions and letter rulings on ethics issues arising under article XXIX and other standards of conduct and reporting requirements as provided by law.

(II) The commission shall prepare a response to a request for an advisory opinion from a public officer, member of the general assembly, local government official, or government employee as to whether particular action by such officer, member, official, or employee satisfies the requirements of article XXIX as soon as practicable after the request is made to the commission.

(III) Any person who is not a public officer, member of the general assembly, local government official, or government employee may submit a request to the commission for a letter ruling concerning whether potential conduct of the person making the request satisfies the requirements of article XXIX. In such case, the commission shall issue a response to the request as soon as practicable.

(IV) Each advisory opinion or letter ruling, as applicable, issued by the commission shall be a public document and shall be promptly posted on a web site that shall be maintained by the commission; except that, in the case of a letter ruling, the commission shall redact the name of the person requesting the ruling or other identifying information before it is posted on the web site.

(5) (a) Subject to the provisions of paragraph (c) of this subsection (5), the commission shall dismiss as frivolous any complaint filed under article XXIX that fails to allege that a public officer, member of the general assembly, local government official, or government employee has accepted or received any gift or other thing of value for private gain or personal financial gain.

(b) For purposes of this subsection (5):

(I) "Official act" shall have the same meaning as set forth in section 24-18-102 (7).

(II) “Private gain” or “personal financial gain” means any money, forbearance, forgiveness of indebtedness, gift, or other thing of value given or offered by a person seeking to influence an official act that is performed in the course and scope of the public duties of a public officer, member of the general assembly, local government official, or government employee.

(c) This subsection (5) is repealed if the Colorado supreme court holds, in response to one or more written questions submitted by the general assembly pursuant to section 3 of article VI of the state constitution, that the standard of accepting or receiving “any gift or other thing of value for private gain or personal financial gain” specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (5) is unconstitutional in applying section 3 (1) or (2) of article XXIX.

(6) Pursuant to the provisions of section 5 (1) of article XXIX, the commission shall adopt reasonable rules as may be necessary for the purpose of administering and enforcing the provisions of article XXIX and any other standards of conduct and reporting requirements as provided by law. Any rules shall be promulgated in accordance with the requirements of article 4 of this title.

(7) Subject to available appropriations, the commission may employ such staff as it deems necessary to enable it to carry out its functions in accordance with the requirements of this article and article XXIX.

(8) No subpoena requiring the attendance of a witness or the production of documents shall be issued by the commission unless a motion to issue any such subpoena has been made by one member of the commission and approved by no fewer than four members of the commission.

(9) Any final action of the commission concerning a complaint shall be subject to judicial review by the district court for the city and county of Denver.

(10) Any state employee on the staff of the commission as of June 10, 2010, shall be transferred with the agency and shall become an employee of the agency.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, “The Practitioner’s Guide to Amendment 41 and the Colorado Independent Ethics Commission”, see 38 Colo. Law. 37 (October 2009).

As personification of state, governor proper party defendant in suit contesting constitutionality of article XXIX (amendment 41) at time of its filing. The evaluation of whether a person or entity is a proper party in a lawsuit must be determined in light of relevant facts and circumstances. Here, there was no alternative entity for plaintiffs to sue in order to challenge article XXIX. Colorado has long recognized the practice of naming the governor, in his role as state’s chief executive, as proper defendant in cases where a party seeks to “enjoin or mandate enforcement of a statute, regulation, ordinance, or policy”. The only appropriate state agent for litigation purposes was the governor. Prior to creation of the independent ethics commission (commission), the governor was appropriate party defendant in a constitutional challenge. Developmental Pathways v. Ritter, 178 P.3d 524 (Colo. 2008).

Considering both language of article XXIX and voters’ intent in initiating it, article

XXIX is self-executing in that it does not require any further action by the general assembly to be effective. A constitutional provision is self-executing when the provision appears to take immediate effect and no further action by the general assembly is required to implement the right given. Here, article XXIX can take effect without any further action by the general assembly. Its provisions do not merely lay out bare principles without any means of implementation; rather, the article has a built-in mechanism for operation. It provides for the creation of the commission that, once in existence, will be independent of the general assembly and will promulgate necessary rules to implement and enforce gift bans and other ethical standards. There is no indication that voters intended to require further legislative action with respect to article XXIX. To the contrary, voters used initiative process to avoid possibility that general assembly would prevent them from establishing commission that would enforce gift bans against general assembly’s members as well as other government employees. Developmental Pathways v. Ritter, 178 P.3d 524 (Colo. 2008).

Because preliminary injunction issued before commission came into existence and before it had opportunity to act in furtherance of this article, plaintiffs failed to present a ripe as-applied constitutional challenge. Relief plaintiffs seek is only available in a successful facial challenge, not in an as-applied challenge. In order for plaintiffs to obtain a declaration that article is unconstitutional as applied, there must be an actual application or at least a reasonable possibility of enforcement or threat of enforcement. As of the time of suit, the commission was not yet in existence, and it had not yet acted to enforce the gift bans. No enforcement or threat of enforcement of the gift bans had occurred. Therefore, concerns expressed by plaintiffs were merely speculative interpretations of what might occur once commission is operative. As such, district court did not have jurisdiction to grant preliminary injunction. Developmental Pathways v. Ritter, 178 P.3d 524 (Colo. 2008).

24-19-101. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) The payment of compensation to government-supported officials or employees after such officials or employees have ended their employment creates unnecessary costs, which ultimately are borne by the taxpayers of this state.

(b) In order to reduce government costs, it is necessary for the state to limit the payment of postemployment compensation to government-supported officials and employees.

(c) The continued payment of compensation to any official or employee after such official or employee has ended his or her service with a governmental unit or government-financed entity not only affects the finances of such governmental unit or government-financed entity, but also has a serious impact on the state as a whole because of the total effect of such compensation payment arrangements on the ability of state and local governments to provide services using the scarce resources that are available. Further, the general assembly finds and declares that the provision of large payments to government-supported officials and employees after their employment has ended has caused grave damage to the trust of the citizens of this state in their state and local government officials. Because of these concerns, the general assembly finds and declares that this is a matter of statewide concern.

24-19-102. Definitions. For the purposes of this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

- (1) "Government-financed entity" means any organization, group, or other entity if:
 - (a) Such entity is composed of members which are governmental units or who are officials or employees of governmental units; and
 - (b) At least fifty percent of the annual operating budget for such entity is derived from dues, contributions, or other payments received from governmental units.
- (2) "Government-supported official or employee" means any person who is employed or who was employed by a governmental unit or by a government-financed entity and who is or was a manager, an official, or an administrator for such governmental unit or government-financed entity.

(3) (a) "Governmental unit" means the state of Colorado, any department, division, section, unit, office, commission, board, institution, institution of higher education, or other agency of the executive, legislative, or judicial branch of the state government, or any local government, authority, public corporation, body politic, or other instrumentality of the state.

(b) "Governmental unit" does not include the university of Colorado hospital authority created pursuant to section 23-21-503, C.R.S.

(4) "Local government" means a county, municipality, city and county, or school district or a special district created pursuant to the "Special District Act", article 1 of title 32, C.R.S.

(5) (a) "Postemployment compensation" means compensation paid to a government-supported official or employee after termination of such government-supported official or employee's employment from a particular employment position with a governmental unit or a government-financed entity or after termination of the performance of actual services for such governmental unit or government-financed entity in such employment position if such compensation was not earned prior to such termination or, for an official or employee who becomes employed in a new position with the governmental unit or government-financed entity after such termination, if such compensation was not earned in the new position. "Postemployment compensation" shall include, but is not limited to, the provision of any unearned postemployment employee benefits. "Postemployment compensation" does not include the following:

(I) Any retirement benefits earned by a government-supported official or employee during the employment of such official or employee with a governmental unit or government-financed entity;

(II) Any payment made as a part of a bona fide early retirement program that is available to a class of five or more government-supported officials or employees;

(III) Any payments of deferred compensation that have been earned by a government-supported official or employee during the employment of such official or employee with a governmental unit or government-financed entity;

(IV) Any workers' compensation payment; or

(V) Any unemployment compensation payment.

(b) The term "postemployment compensation" includes any retirement benefits or any payments of deferred compensation to be paid into a retirement fund or deferred compensation plan after termination of performance of actual services for the particular employment position in the usual course of said employment. The prohibition of postemployment compensation is intended to eliminate any employment contract provision that binds the employer to make payments into a retirement fund or deferred compensation program after termination of performance of actual services in an employment position. Said prohibition is not intended to forbid the receipt of benefits or payments earned during actual performance of services if these benefits or payments are to be credited to or received by the employee after termination of actual performance of services for an employment position.

(c) Unless otherwise excluded by the provisions of this article, the term "postemployment compensation" includes any payment made to a government-supported official or employee after the term of employment of such official or employee in a particular employment position has ended pursuant to a settlement agreement between a governmental unit or government-financed entity and the official or employee; except that such payment is not postemployment compensation if such payment is made as part of a bona fide settlement of a legitimate legal dispute.

24-19-103. Prohibition against postemployment compensation - exception.

(1) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, notwithstanding any other provision of law to the contrary, no governmental unit or government-financed entity shall pay postemployment compensation to any government-supported official or employee.

(2) (a) At the option of the appointing authority for any government-supported official or employee, such official or employee may be provided postemployment compensation that consists of the payment of up to a maximum of three months of salary for such official or employee and the provision of up to a maximum of three months of employee benefits for such official or employee. No postemployment compensation shall be provided other than cash payments and the provision of employee benefits. Postemployment compensation may be approved and provided only if the government-supported official or employee who is to receive such compensation was employed by the governmental unit or government-financed entity for less than five years; except that postemployment compensation may be approved and provided for an official or employee of a state institution of higher education or of the Auraria higher education center, regardless of the length of employment.

(b) Postemployment compensation may be provided to any government-supported official or employee only if the appointing authority for the official or employee takes positive action to approve such compensation. The provisions of this subsection (2) shall not be construed to authorize any employment contract term requiring the provision of postemployment compensation in violation of the provisions of section 24-19-104. Postemployment compensation payments shall be solely the option of the appointing authority for a government-supported official or employee and no official or employee shall be entitled to or have any right to receive any postemployment compensation.

(3) Any employment contract, employment contract extension, or other agreement between a governmental unit or government-financed entity and a government-supported official or employee that is not substantially in compliance with this section is null and void. Any payment made to any person by a governmental unit or government-financed entity in violation of this section is illegal and the recipient of such payment shall return the payment to the governmental unit or government-financed entity.

24-19-104. Terms of employment contracts - public inspection. (1) Except as expressly permitted pursuant to subsection (1.5) of this section, if any governmental unit or government-financed entity enters into an employment contract or employment contract extension with a government-supported official or employee, such employment contract or employment contract extension shall contain terms that clearly state that:

(a) Such employment contract is subject to termination by either party to such contract at any time during the term of such contract and that such official or employee shall be deemed to be an employee-at-will;

(b) No compensation, whether as a buy-out of the remaining term of the contract, as liquidated damages, or as any other form of remuneration, shall be owed or paid to such government-supported official or employee upon or after the termination of such contract except for compensation that was earned prior to termination prorated to the date of termination; and

(c) If the contract is not substantially in compliance with the prohibition against payment of postemployment compensation, the contract is null and void.

(1.5) (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section, each system of higher education and each campus of each state institution of higher education may have in effect employment contracts or employment contract extensions having a duration not more than five years with not more than six government-supported officials or employees if:

(I) The governing board of the institution determines that the contract or extension is necessary for the hiring or retaining of the employee in light of prevailing market conditions and competitive employment practices in other states;

(II) The contract contains a clause that the institution remains free to terminate the contract or extension without penalty if sufficient funds are not appropriated.

(b) Nothing in this subsection (1.5) shall be construed to exempt any governmental unit or government-financed entity from the requirements of section 24-19-103.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section or paragraph (a) of this subsection (1.5), each system of higher education and each campus of each state institution of higher education may have in effect an unlimited number of employment contracts or employment contract extensions having a duration of not more than five years with an unlimited number of government-supported officials or employees if the employment contracts or employment contract extensions are for research to be performed in university settings. A contract executed pursuant to this paragraph (c) shall include a provision that the contract shall become unenforceable if, during the term of the contract, the system of higher education or campus of a state institution of higher education that is a party to the contract:

(I) Ceases to be an enterprise, as defined in section 20 (2) (d) of article X of the state constitution; and

(II) Lacks present cash reserves sufficient to pledge irrevocably to satisfy the terms of the contract.

(d) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section or paragraph (a) of this subsection (1.5), each system of higher education and each campus of each state institution of higher education may, subject to the approval of the chief executive officer of the system or institution and any rules or limitations established by the chief executive officer, have in effect an unlimited number of term employment contracts or term employment contract extensions having a duration of not more than three years with an unlimited number of government-supported officials or employees if the term employment contracts or term employment contract extensions are for half-time or longer, non-tenure-track classroom teaching appointments. A person employed pursuant to a term employment contract or term employment contract extension described in this paragraph (d) may have duties in addition to classroom teaching, as described in the contract or contract extension. A term employment contract or term employment contract extension executed pursuant to this paragraph (d) at a minimum shall include a provision stating the contract or contract extension is unenforceable if, during the term of the contract or contract extension, the system of higher education or campus of a state institution of higher education that is a party to the contract:

(I) Ceases to be an enterprise, as defined in section 20 (2) (d) of article X of the state constitution; and

(II) Lacks present cash reserves sufficient to pledge irrevocably to satisfy the terms of the contract.

(2) If any governmental unit or government-financed entity enters into an employment contract or employment contract extension with any government-supported official or employee on or after July 1, 1993, such governmental unit or government-financed entity shall make the terms of such contract available to the public for inspection and copying during regular business hours.

(3) The provisions of this section shall not be interpreted to authorize the termination of any government-supported official or employee for any reason that is contrary to applicable federal, state, or local law.

(4) (a) No governmental unit or government-financed entity shall enter into an employment contract with a government-supported official or employee or extend an existing employment contract with a government-supported official or employee if such employment contract or contract extension contains any provisions that are intended to evade the requirements of this article. Contractual provisions that are prohibited under the provisions of subsection (1) of this section include, but are not limited to, any provision that allows a government-supported official or employee to earn an unreasonably large portion of contractual compensation during the early stages of the term of employment of such government-supported official or employee.

(b) The provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) shall not be interpreted to prohibit the reimbursement of any actual relocation expenses of government-supported officials or employees or the payment of reasonable incentives for accepting employment to government-supported officials or employees.

24-19-105. Settlement agreements - public inspection - filing with the department of personnel. (1) (a) Notwithstanding any other law to the contrary, if any settlement agreement between a governmental unit or government-financed entity and a government-supported official or employee settles any employment dispute between such parties and involves the payment of any compensation to such official or employee after the term of employment of such official or employee in a particular employment position has ended, information regarding any amounts paid or benefits provided under such settlement agreement shall be a matter of public record. Any governmental unit or government-financed entity that is a party to such a settlement agreement shall make such information available for public inspection and copying during regular business hours.

(b) If a state governmental unit enters into a settlement agreement to settle any employment dispute with a government-supported official or employee, the state governmental unit shall file a copy of the final settlement agreement with the department of personnel, which shall be a public record pursuant to the provisions of part 2 of article 72 of this title.

(2) The provisions of subsection (1) of this section shall apply to:

(a) Any settlement agreement entered into on or after July 1, 1993; and

(b) Any settlement agreement entered into prior to July 1, 1993, if no other provision of law would prohibit public disclosure of the provisions of such settlement agreement.

ANNOTATION

Provisions in a settlement agreement prohibiting discussion or disclosure of the circumstances surrounding a school district superintendent's resignation and prohibiting disparaging comments or remarks are enforceable and are not void as contravening the public policy expressed in article II, § 10, of the Colorado Constitution and the open records act, §§ 24-72-101 to 24-72-402, C.R.S. Pierce v. St. Vrain Valley Sch. Dist., 981 P.2d 600 (Colo. 1999).

24-19-106. Existing employment contracts - contract extensions. The provisions of this article shall not apply to any employment contract which was in existence before July 1, 1993; except that the provisions of this article shall apply to any extension of an existing contract if such contract does not contain any term which would prohibit the application of the provisions of this article to such contract extension.

- 24-19.5-101. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:
- (1) “Alternative forms of payment” means forms of payment, including but not limited to credit, charge, or debit cards, other than cash or check.
- (2) “Collector state governmental entity” means any state governmental entity that collects moneys payable to the state that the state governmental entity must remit to one or more other state or local governmental entities.
- (3) “Moneys payable to the state” means moneys owed or paid to any state governmental entity other than bail bonds, judicial bonds, or other moneys that the state governmental entity must return to the payer upon the satisfaction of one or more specified conditions by the payer.
- (4) “Provider of alternative forms of payment” means a person or entity, including but not limited to an issuer of credit, charge, or debit cards, that provides its customers with the ability to use one or more alternative forms of payment.

(5) "State governmental entity" means the state, any department, agency, or other entity of the state, any state-sponsored institution of higher education, or any authorized agent of any of the foregoing.

Source: L. 99: Entire article added, p. 426, § 1, effective August 4.

24-19.5-102. Acceptance of alternative forms of payment for the payment of moneys payable to the state - allocation of costs. (1) Any state governmental entity responsible for the collection of moneys payable to the state may accept one or more alternative forms of payment for the payment of such moneys in accordance with the provisions of this article.

(2) A collector state governmental entity that chooses to accept one or more alternative forms of payment for the payment of moneys payable to the state that the collector state governmental entity must remit to one or more other governmental entities shall either:

(a) Remit to such other governmental entities the gross amount of any payments made by alternative forms of payment that the collector state governmental entity is required to remit to such other governmental entities notwithstanding the deduction of any moneys from such gross amount by any provider of alternative forms of payment pursuant to a master agreement or other agreement authorized by this article; or

(b) Enter into an intergovernmental agreement with each such other governmental entity regarding the allocation of the costs of accepting such alternative forms of payment.

24-19.5-104. Master agreements - authority of state treasurer. (1) The state treasurer may negotiate and enter into one or more contractual master agreements with providers of alternative forms of payment in accordance with law. To ensure that state governmental entities accept alternative forms of payment in the most consumer-oriented, uniform, and cost-effective manner possible, any state governmental entity that wishes to accept one or more alternative forms of payment shall do so by joining in any master agreements entered into by the state treasurer with respect to such alternative forms of payment. However, the existence of a master agreement covering a particular alternative form of payment shall not require any state governmental entity to accept such alternative form of payment.

(2) The state treasurer shall enter into no more than one master agreement covering any particular alternative form of payment. Any provider of alternative forms of payment that wishes to have one or more state governmental entities accept the alternative forms of payment that it provides shall be a party to any master agreements covering such alternative forms of payment and shall be subject to the same terms and conditions as all other providers of alternative forms of payment that are parties to such agreements. However, this subsection (2) shall not require the state treasurer to include any particular provider of alternative forms of payment as a party to any master agreement.

(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (1) of this section, the following state governmental entities may accept alternative forms of payment without joining a master agreement entered into by the state treasurer:

(a) Judicial or legislative state governmental entities that are not part of the executive branch of state government; and

(b) State governmental entities that, on or before August 4, 1999, were accepting one or more alternative forms of payment for the payment of moneys payable to the state and had one or more contracts with one or more providers of alternative forms of payment that enabled the state governmental entity to accept such alternative forms of payment.

(4) No later than sixty days following the end of any given fiscal year, the state treasurer shall report to the joint budget committee the total amount of:

(a) Gross payments payable to the state that were made to state governmental entities by alternative forms of payment pursuant to master agreements during such fiscal year; and

(b) Net revenues remitted to state governmental entities by providers of alternative forms of payment pursuant to master agreements during such fiscal year.

(5) The state treasurer may promulgate rules governing master agreements, including but not limited to rules governing the negotiation and administration of such agreements. The state treasurer shall promulgate such rules in accordance with article 4 of this title.

Recovery of Federal Reimbursement for Costs Associated with Illegal Immigration

Law reviews: For article, "2006 Immigration Legislation in Colorado", see 35 Colo. Law. 79 (October 2006).

24-19.7-101. Legislative declaration.

24-19.7-102. Illegal immigration - recovery of state's costs - attorney general to pursue remedies.

24-19.7-101. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly finds that:

(a) The costs incurred by Colorado in addressing illegal immigration have increased in the last three years and are placing a burden on the state's budgetary and human resources;

(b) The areas in which these costs have dramatically increased include, but are not limited to, identifying illegal immigrants, processing illegal immigrants through the criminal justice system, incarcerating illegal immigrants, and providing education, medical assistance, health care, and foster care for illegal immigrants;

(c) At the same time, federal funding to assist states in dealing with illegal immigration has decreased, yet the federal government is asking state governments to do even more with their own funds to enforce federal immigration laws and preserve homeland security, which are essentially federal responsibilities; and

(d) The federal government is in arrears on its obligation to reimburse states for costs incurred by the states in dealing with illegal immigration.

(2) The general assembly, therefore, determines that it is necessary for the state of Colorado to protect its interests and seek the recovery of reimbursement available under federal law for the costs incurred by this state in dealing with illegal immigration.

(1) On and after July 31, 2006, the attorney general, on behalf of the state of Colorado, shall pursue all available remedies to recover any moneys owing from the federal government to the state for the reimbursement of costs incurred by the state in dealing with illegal immigration.

(2) On or before December 31, 2006, and on or before December 31, 2007, the attorney general shall file a written report with the governor, the president of the senate, the speaker of the house of representatives, and the chair of the joint budget committee that details the progress and status of the attorney general's pursuit of remedies.

Directive to the Attorney General to Demand Federal Enforcement of Existing Federal Immigration Laws

Editor's note: This article was enacted by House Bill 06S-1022. That bill contained a referendum clause and was approved by a vote of the registered electors of the state of Colorado on November 7, 2006. This article was effective upon proclamation of the governor, December 31, 2007. The vote count for the measure was as follows:

24-19.8-101. Legislative declaration.

24-19.8-101. Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds and declares that the failure to enforce immigration laws at the federal level places an undue burden on state government resources and that there is a limitation on what can be done at the state level to enforce the federal laws and to implement laws at the state level. The general assembly further finds that the state of Colorado spends a disproportionate share of its limited tax revenue on public services and benefits such as health care, law enforcement, criminal defense and incarceration, and education that are provided to illegal aliens as a result of the federal government's failure to enforce immigration laws. Therefore, the Colorado state attorney general shall initiate or join other states in a lawsuit against the United States attorney general to demand the enforcement of all existing federal immigration laws by the federal government.

24-19.9-101. Definitions. As used in this article, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Covered person" means a member of the board of directors or comparable governing body, officer, or employee of a public entity.

(2) "Institution of higher education" means a state university or college, community college, junior college, local district college, or area vocational school described in title 23, C.R.S.

(3) "Public entity" means any instrumentality of the state that is not an agency of the state and that is not subject to administrative direction by any department, commission, bureau, or agency of the state and includes any service authority, law enforcement authority, special purpose authority, or institution of higher education. "Public entity" shall not include any county, municipality, school district, or any special district formed pursuant to title 32, C.R.S.

(4) "Special purpose authority" shall have the same meaning as set forth in section 24-77-102 (15).

(5) "Travel-related expenditures" means expenditures made by a public entity to cover expenses incurred by a covered person for lodging, meals, and incidental expenses in connection with travel undertaken by the covered person for business-related purposes.

Source: L. 2011: Entire article added, (HB 11-1211), ch. 214, p. 938, § 1, effective July 1.

24-19.9-102. Restrictions on travel-related expenditures - covered persons - mandatory reimbursement of excess - exemptions. (1) (a) In the absence of extenuating circumstances, no public entity may make travel-related expenditures on behalf of any covered person in an amount that would exceed, on a daily basis, two times the maximum allowable federal per diem rate that governs the location in which the person is traveling, rounded up to the nearest whole dollar, as determined by the United States general services administration, as of October 1 of the calendar year immediately preceding the fiscal year in which the per diem rate is to be used.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, the public entity may make:

(I) Lodging expenditures that are above two times the federal per diem rate for travel-related expenditures in connection with an educational conference where an entity other than the public entity is hosting the conference and the person or entity organizing the conference selected the conference hotel or hotels; or

(II) Travel expenditures that are directly related to a program or a business purpose of a state institution of higher education or a state hospital authority.

(c) In the circumstances described in subparagraph (I) or (II) of paragraph (b) of this subsection (1), the public entity shall make available for review by its governing body or for public inspection, upon the provision of reasonable notice, itemization of any expenditures satisfying such exceptions to the requirements of this section.

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of this article, "travel-related expenditures" shall not include the actual costs of travel undertaken by the covered person for business-related purposes including, without limitation, airline fares, taxicab fares, automobile rentals, or reimbursement for automobile mileage expenses.

(2) If the public entity makes travel-related expenditures on behalf of a covered person in excess of the amount authorized by subsection (1) of this section, the covered person shall reimburse the fund of the public entity from which such moneys were diverted for the entire sum in excess of such authorized amount.

(3) A public entity shall make no travel-related expenditures on behalf of the spouse or a member of the immediate family of a covered person. In the event a public entity makes travel-related expenditures on behalf of the spouse or a member of the immediate family of a covered person, the covered person shall reimburse the fund of the public entity from which such moneys were diverted for the entire sum spent by the entity on such expenditures.

24-19.9-103. Enforcement - complaint procedure - sanctions. (1) Any person who believes that a violation of section 24-19.9-102 has occurred may file a written complaint with the secretary of state within one hundred eighty days of the date of the alleged violation. The secretary of state shall refer the complaint to an administrative law judge within three days of the filing of the complaint. The administrative law judge shall hold a hearing within fifteen days of the referral of the complaint and shall render a decision within fifteen days of the hearing. The defendant shall be granted an extension of up to thirty days upon the defendant’s motion or longer upon a showing of good cause. If the administrative law judge determines that such violation has occurred, such decision shall include any appropriate order, sanction, or relief, including:

(a) An order directing the covered person, or the spouse or a member of the immediate family of a covered person, as applicable, on whose behalf travel-related expenditures were made by the public entity in violation of section 24-19.9-102, to reimburse the fund of the public entity from which such moneys were diverted for some or all of the expenditures in accordance with the requirements of section 24-19.9-102;

(b) Injunctive relief; or

(c) A restraining order to enjoin the continuance of the violation.

(2) The decision of the administrative law judge shall be final and subject to review by the court of appeals, pursuant to section 24-4-106 (11). The secretary of state and the administrative law judge are not necessary parties to the review. The decision may be enforced by the secretary of state or, if the secretary of state does not file an enforcement action within thirty days of the decision, in a private cause of action by the person filing the complaint. Any private action brought under this section shall be brought within one year of the date of the violation in state district court. The prevailing party in a private enforcement action shall be entitled to reasonable attorney fees and costs.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

24-21-101. Office at seat of government - duties - bond. (1) The secretary of state shall keep office at the seat of government and perform all the duties which may be required of the secretary of state by law. The secretary of state shall have charge of and keep all the acts and resolutions of the territorial legislature and of the general assembly of the state, the enrolled copy of the constitution of the state, and all bonds, books, records, maps, registers, and papers of a public character which may be deposited, to be kept in the office. The secretary of state shall give a bond to the state of Colorado in the sum of ten thousand dollars, conditioned for the faithful discharge of the duties of the office, said bond to be approved by the governor and attorney general and to be deposited in the office of the state treasurer.

(2) The secretary of state shall have such other powers, duties, and functions as are prescribed for heads of principal departments in the "Administrative Organization Act of 1968", article 1 of this title.

24-21-104. Fees of secretary of state. (1) (a) It is the duty of the secretary of state to charge fees, which shall be determined and collected pursuant to subsection (3) of this section, for filing each body corporate and politic document, for filing each facsimile signature, for each notary public's commission, for each foreign commission, for each official certificate, for administering each oath, for all transcripts or copies of papers and records, computer tapes, microfilm, or microfiche, and for other papers officially executed and other official work that may be done in the secretary of state's office. The secretary of state shall not deliver any such commission, file for record any certificate, or do any such official work until the fee or sum so fixed to be collected therefor has first been paid. At the time of service of any subpoena upon the secretary of state or any of his or her deputies or employees a fee of fifty dollars and a fee of ten dollars for meals and mileage at the rate prescribed for state officers and employees in section 24-9-104 for each mile actually and necessarily traveled in going to and returning from the place named in the subpoena, shall be paid to the department of state cash fund. If the person named in the subpoena is required to attend the place named in the subpoena for more than one day, there shall be paid, in advance, to the department of state cash fund, the sum of forty-four dollars for each day of attendance to cover the expenses of the person named in the subpoena.

(b) Notwithstanding the amount specified for any fee in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), the secretary of state by rule or as otherwise provided by law may reduce the amount of one or more of the fees if necessary pursuant to section 24-75-402 (3), to reduce the uncommitted reserves of the fund to which all or any portion of one or more of the fees is credited. After the uncommitted reserves of the fund are sufficiently reduced, the secretary of state by rule or as otherwise provided by law may increase the amount of one or more of the fees as provided in section 24-75-402 (4).

(2) Except as otherwise provided by statute, the secretary of state is authorized to maintain an accounts receivable system for the collection of fees charged for papers officially executed and all other official work which may be done in his office.

(3) (a) This subsection (3) shall apply, where referenced by statute, to all fees charged by the secretary of state.

(b) The department of state shall adjust its fees so that the revenue generated from the fees approximates its direct and indirect costs, including the cost of maintenance and improvements necessary for the distribution of electronic records; except that the department may reduce its fees to generate revenue in an amount less than costs if necessary pursuant to section 24-75-402 (3). Such costs shall not include the costs paid by the amounts appropriated by the general assembly from the general fund to the department of state for elections pursuant to section 24-21-104.5. Such fees shall remain in effect for the fiscal year following the adjustment. All fees collected by said department shall be transmitted to the state treasurer, who shall credit the same to the department of state cash fund, which fund is hereby created. All moneys credited to the department of state cash fund shall be used as provided in this section and shall not be deposited in or transferred to the general fund of this state or any other fund. The moneys credited to the department of state cash fund shall be available for appropriation by the general assembly to the department of state in the general appropriation bill or pursuant to section 24-9-105 (2).

(c) Beginning July 1, 1984, and each July 1 thereafter, whenever moneys appropriated to the department of state during the prior fiscal year are unexpended, said moneys shall be made a part of the appropriation to the department of state for the next fiscal year, and such amount shall not be raised from fees collected by the department of state. If a supplemental appropriation is made to the department of state for its activities, the fees of the department of state shall be adjusted by an additional amount that is sufficient to compensate for such supplemental appropriation. Funds appropriated to the department of state in the general appropriation bill from the department of state cash fund shall be designated as cash funds and shall not exceed the amount anticipated to be raised from fees collected by the department of state.

(d) (I) Notwithstanding any provision of paragraph (b) of this subsection (3) to the contrary, for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1984, the general assembly, acting by bill, may direct the state treasurer to deduct from the department of state cash fund any unappropriated moneys in said fund and to credit such moneys to the general fund.

(II) Repealed.

(III) Notwithstanding any provision of paragraph (b) of this subsection (3) to the contrary, on July 1, 1997, the state treasurer shall deduct one million dollars from the department of state cash fund and transfer such sum to the state rail bank fund created in section 43-1-1309, C.R.S.

(IV) and (V) Repealed.

(VI) Notwithstanding any provision of paragraph (b) of this subsection (3) to the contrary, on July 1, 1998, the state treasurer shall deduct three million dollars from the department of state cash fund and transfer such sum to the state public school fund created in section 22-54-114, C.R.S.

(VII) Notwithstanding any provision of paragraph (b) of this subsection (3) to the contrary, in addition to any transfers authorized in H.B. 98-1234, on July 1, 1998, the state treasurer shall deduct one million dollars from the department of state cash fund and transfer such sum to the state public school fund created in section 22-54-114, C.R.S.

(VIII) Notwithstanding any provision of paragraph (b) of this subsection (3) to the contrary, on July 1, 1998, the state treasurer shall deduct one million seven hundred thousand dollars from the department of state cash fund and transfer such sum to the children's basic health plan trust fund created in section 25.5-8-105, C.R.S.

(IX) Notwithstanding any provision of paragraph (b) of this subsection (3) to the contrary, on July 1, 1998, the state treasurer shall deduct one million dollars from the department of state cash fund and transfer such sum to the Colorado tourism promotion fund created in section 24-32-1306.

(X) Notwithstanding any provision of paragraph (b) of this subsection (3) to the contrary, on March 27, 2002, the state treasurer shall deduct one million two hundred thousand dollars from the department of state cash fund and transfer such sum to the general fund.

(XI) Notwithstanding any provision of paragraph (b) of this subsection (3) to the contrary, on March 5, 2003, the state treasurer shall deduct two million two hundred thousand dollars from the department of state cash fund and transfer such sum to the general fund.

(XII) Notwithstanding any provision of paragraph (b) of this subsection (3) to the contrary, on March 5, 2003, the state treasurer shall deduct five hundred thousand dollars from the department of state cash fund and transfer such sum to the general fund.

(XII.5) Notwithstanding any provision of paragraph (b) of this subsection (3) to the contrary, on April 20, 2009, the state treasurer shall deduct two million one hundred seventy-five thousand dollars from the department of state cash fund and transfer such sum to the general fund.

(XIII) to (XV) Repealed.

(e) (Deleted by amendment, L. 97, p. 1484, § 1, effective July 1, 1997.)

(f) Repealed.

(g) All moneys collected by the office of the secretary of state pursuant to section 4-9-525, C.R.S., shall be transferred to the state treasurer and credited to the department of state cash fund pursuant to this subsection (3).

(h) (Deleted by amendment, L. 98, p. 1331, § 42, effective June 1, 1998.)

24-21-104.5. General fund appropriation - cash fund appropriation - elections. The general assembly is authorized to appropriate moneys from the department of state cash fund to the department of state to cover the costs of the local county clerk and recorders relating to the conduct of general elections and November odd-year elections. If the amount of moneys in the department of state cash fund is insufficient to cover such costs, the general assembly may appropriate additional general fund moneys to cover such costs after exhausting all moneys in the department of state cash fund. The intent of the general assembly is to authorize the appropriation of department of state cash fund moneys and general fund moneys to the department of state to offset some of the costs of local county clerk and recorders associated with the additional election duties and requirements resulting from the passage of section 20 of article X of the state constitution and from the increased number of initiatives that are being filed.

ANNOTATION

Deputy is authorized to pass upon validity of objections to nominating petitions. Although petitions for nominating independent candidates for offices to be voted on by the entire state are properly filed with the secretary of state, the secretary is not vested solely with the decision-making power in passing upon the validity of objections to such petitions, because the secretary has the power to appoint a deputy to act for the secretary if the secretary deems it necessary, and the deputy shall have full authority to act in all things relating to the office. Olshaw v. Buchanan, 186 Colo. 362, 527 P.2d 545 (1974).

But both secretary and deputy cannot have full authority in given case. Under this section, either the deputy has full authority in a given case or the secretary has, but not both. This is to prevent the possibility of simultaneous but conflicting opinions by the secretary and the deputy on the same questions. Olshaw v. Buchanan, 186 Colo. 362, 527 P.2d 545 (1974).

24-21-106. May employ clerical assistance. The secretary of state is hereby authorized to employ, in addition to his deputy, clerical assistants pursuant to section 13 of article XII of the state constitution.

24-21-107. Publications.

(1) Repealed.

(2) Publications by the secretary of state circulated in quantity outside the executive branch shall be issued in accordance with the provisions of section 24-1-136. Any fee collected pursuant to this subsection (2) shall be deposited in the department of state cash fund created in section 24-21-104 (3).

Subject to provisions of section 13-25-115, C.R.S., documents from the office of secretary of state used in court proceedings shall be acknowledged, exemplified, verified, or attested to in a manner which shall make unnecessary the personal appearance of the secretary of state in a court proceeding to acknowledge, exemplify, verify, or attest to the validity of such documents. The secretary of state may designate a person to attend court proceedings if the secretary of state is subpoenaed for the purpose of acknowledging, exemplifying, verifying, or attesting to the validity of documents furnished by that office. The revenues derived from fees as established in section 24-21-104 (1) shall be deposited in the department of state cash fund created in section 24-21-104 (3).

24-21-110. Applications for licenses - authority to suspend licenses - rules. (1) Every application by an individual for a license issued by the department of state or any authorized agent of such department shall require the applicant's name, address, and social security number.

(2) The department of state or any authorized agent of the department shall deny, suspend, or revoke any license pursuant to the provisions of section 26-13-126, C.R.S., and any rules promulgated in furtherance thereof, if the department or agent thereof receives a notice to deny, suspend, or revoke from the state child support enforcement agency because the licensee or applicant is out of compliance with a court or administrative order for current child support, child support debt, retroactive child support, child support arrearages, or child support when combined with maintenance or because the licensee or applicant has failed to comply with a properly issued subpoena or warrant relating to a paternity or child support proceeding. Any such denial, suspension, or revocation shall be in accordance with the procedures specified by rule of the department of state, rules promulgated by the state board of human services, and any memorandum of understanding entered into between the department of state or an authorized agent thereof and the state child support enforcement agency for the implementation of this section and section 26-13-126, C.R.S.

(3) (a) The department of state shall enter into a memorandum of understanding with the state child support enforcement agency, which memorandum shall identify the relative responsibilities of the department of state and the state child support enforcement agency in the department of human services with respect to the implementation of this section and section 26-13-126, C.R.S.

(b) The appropriate rule-making body of the department of state is authorized to promulgate rules to implement the provisions of this section.

(4) For purposes of this section, "license" means any recognition, authority, or permission that the department of state or any authorized agent of such department is authorized by law to issue for an individual to practice a profession or occupation or for an individual to participate in any recreational activity. "License" may include, but is not necessarily limited to, any license, certificate, certification, letter of authorization, or registration issued for an individual to practice a profession or occupation or for an individual to participate in any recreational activity.

24-21-111. Electronic filing - authority - electronic access - passwords - rules.

(1) (a) Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, the secretary of state may require any filing to be made by electronic means as determined by the secretary of state.

(b) In order to ensure the security of the secretary of state's on-line business filing system, the secretary shall implement, under such conditions as the secretary may determine, a password-protected system for and take appropriate actions to address fraudulent activities against altering data in any filings, updates, or other filing requirements under title 7, C.R.S., while still allowing for access to and retrieval of publicly available records, including a certificate of good standing, without a password.

(2) Where a document is stored by the secretary of state or the department of state and available to the public by electronic means, the secretary of state, to the extent it is reasonable and feasible, may designate electronic access as the sole means of access to the document.

(3) The secretary of state may use a phase-in period or any other method to mitigate hardship caused by mandatory electronic services that are required pursuant to subsections (1) and (2) of this section. The secretary of state may provide exceptions from such mandatory electronic services where hardship or other good cause is shown. If the secretary of state requires any filing to be made by electronic means or designates electronic access as the sole means of access to a document, the secretary of state shall assure that such filing may be made or such access attained by means that do not require use by the public of customized or specially designed electronic hardware or software.

(4) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Document" means a document, record, or other information.

(b) "Filing" means a document required or permitted by law to be filed with the department of state or the secretary of state or a document required or permitted by law to be delivered to the department or the secretary of state and filed by the department or the secretary of state.

24-21-111.5. Electronic filing system - improvements - integration with other systems. (1) At the earliest practicable date, the secretary of state shall develop and implement enhancements to the on-line business filing information systems. The enhancements must include at least the following:

(a) Enhancements to user accounts that:

(I) Allow for the association of multiple business records in one account;

(II) Allow a user to file multiple documents at one time;

(III) Create a system that allows a user to pay for multiple filings at one time; and

(IV) Create, at the secretary's discretion, the ability for a user to store payment information, view the user's balance, view the user's transaction history, and add money to the user's account;

(b) Enhancements for registered agents and to record management systems that allow a registered agent to quickly identify the business entities and charitable organizations for which the registered agent is listed and to determine when reports are due;

(c) Enhancements for external certifications that allow users to obtain certified documents, certificates of fact, and any other similar authentications that the secretary deems necessary;

(d) Enhancements that allow for the on-line filing of documents that would guide the user through the filing process;

(e) Enhancements that allow for the integration of any documents filed pursuant to title 7, C.R.S., with any documents filed pursuant to article 16 of title 6, C.R.S., as well as any changes the secretary deems necessary to implement such integration, including changes involving the filing of registration statements, amendments, and renewals, and changes to the search function; and

(f) Enhancements that allow users greater search functionality, provide more useful and specific search results, and allow for greater usability.

24-21-112. Electronic verification program - notice - definitions. (1) As used in this section:

(a) “Electronic verification program” or “e-verify program” means the electronic employment verification program that is authorized in 8 U.S.C. sec. 1324a and jointly administered by the United States department of homeland security and the social security administration, or its successor program.

(b) “Employer” means a person transacting business in Colorado who, at any time, employs another person to perform services of any nature and who has control of the payment of wages for such services or is the officer, agent, or employee of the person having control of the payment of wages.

(2) The secretary of state, in consultation with the department of labor and employment, shall post on the secretary of state’s web site information pertaining to the prohibition against hiring or continuing to employ an unauthorized alien, as defined in 8 U.S.C. sec. 1324a (h) (3), and the availability of and the requirements for participation in the electronic verification program as a means for employers to verify the work eligibility status of new employees. The web site posting required by this subsection (2) shall appear in the same format as required by section 8-2-124 (2) (a), C.R.S., and shall appear in a conspicuous location on the secretary of state’s web site. The secretary of state’s web site shall also provide a link to the e-verify web site available through the internet portal for the United States citizenship and immigration services, or its successor agency.

24-21-113. Secretary of state business software licensing - business computer systems maintenance and enhancement cash fund. (1) The secretary of state may charge fees for the licensing or sale of business and licensing software developed by the department of state.

(2) The secretary of state shall transmit all fees collected pursuant to subsection (1) of this section to the state treasurer, who shall credit them to the business computer systems maintenance and enhancement cash fund, which fund is hereby created. The secretary of state shall use the moneys credited to the fund only for the maintenance or enhancement of the department of state’s business computer systems. Moneys transferred to the fund shall not be deposited in or transferred to the general fund of this state or any other fund. The moneys credited to the fund are available for appropriation by the general assembly to the department of state in the general appropriation bill.

ADDRESS CONFIDENTIALITY FOR VICTIMS OF DOMESTIC VIOLENCE, A SEXUAL OFFENSE, OR STALKING

Source: L. 2011: Entire part repealed, (HB 11-1080), ch. 256, p. 1108, § 1, effective June 2.

Editor's note: This part 2 was added in 2007. For amendments to this part 2 prior to its repeal in 2011, consult the 2010 Colorado Revised Statutes and the Colorado statutory research explanatory note beginning on page vii in the front of this volume. This part 2 was relocated to part 21 of article 30 of this title. Former C.R.S. section numbers are shown in editor's notes following those sections that were relocated in said part 21.

REDACTION OF TAX IDENTIFICATION NUMBERS

Editor's note: Section 3 of chapter 336, Session Laws of Colorado 2009, provides that the act adding this part 3 applies to any secured transaction record in the possession of the secretary of state before, on, or after June 1, 2009.

24-21-301. Definitions. As used in this part 3, unless the context otherwise requires:

- (1) "Redact" means to obscure information contained in a copy of a secured transaction record.
- (2) "Secured transaction record" means a record that has been filed in the office of the secretary of state pursuant to part 5 of article 9 or article 9.5 or 9.7 of title 4, C.R.S.
- (3) "Tax identification number" means a grouping of numerical digits in a secured transaction record that the secretary of state deems likely to be the social security number or individual taxpayer identification number of an individual identified in such secured transaction record.

Source: L. 2009: Entire part added, (SB 09-283), ch. 336, p. 1778, § 1, effective June 1.

24-21-302. Redaction of tax identification number from secured transaction records - liability - rules. (1) The secretary of state may redact any tax identification number contained in a secured transaction record and, for this purpose, may use commercially available or other redaction software or other methods determined by the secretary of state to be cost effective.

(2) Subject to the provisions of section 4-9-522, C.R.S., the secretary of state shall retain the unredacted original of a secured transaction record that contains a tax identification number. Notwithstanding any provision of part 2 of article 72 of this title or any other provision of law, the secretary of state shall not be required to open any such unredacted original to public inspection; except that a complete copy of the unredacted original of such secured transaction record shall be furnished upon application to the secretary of state for a certified copy of that specific secured transaction record.

(3) (a) Any person who believes that the secretary of state has redacted information in a copy of a specific secured transaction record other than the social security number or individual taxpayer identification number of an individual identified in such secured transaction record may apply to the secretary of state for the restoration of such redacted information.

(b) If, upon application pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (3), the secretary of state determines that such redacted information is not the social security number or individual taxpayer identification number of an individual identified in such secured transaction record, the secretary of state shall restore such redacted information so that the information is perceivable, accessible, and open to public inspection.

(c) Nothing in this section shall preclude the restoration of redacted information that the secretary of state determines should not have been redacted.

(4) The secretary of state shall not be liable for redacting or failing to redact a tax identification number pursuant to this section.

(5) The secretary of state may promulgate rules in accordance with article 4 of this title to administer the provisions of this section, including any rules necessary to establish procedures for requesting the redaction of a tax identification number or the restoration of redacted information that is not the social security number or individual taxpayer identification number of an individual identified in such secured transaction record.

24-22-101. Oath - bond and sureties - conditions of bond. (1) On or before the second Tuesday in January after his election and before entering upon his duties, the state treasurer shall take and subscribe to the oath required by the state constitution and shall give a bond to the people of the state of Colorado in the sum of one million dollars, with not less than ten individual sureties or one or more surety companies authorized to do business in this state. The bond and each surety shall be approved by the governor and the attorney general and held in the custody of the secretary of state.

(2) The conditions of said bond shall be in substance that the state treasurer and all persons employed in the treasury department under his supervision shall faithfully discharge their respective duties and trusts and that the state treasurer shall be held responsible against all risks and losses whatsoever for all state moneys coming into his hands or received by the treasury department.

(3) If the bond is furnished by one or more surety companies, the entire premium therefor shall be paid by the state, and the general assembly shall appropriate the amount thereof.

(4) Whenever the governor, with the concurrence of the attorney general, deems the surety on said bond to be insufficient for the said sum of one million dollars, he may demand, and the state treasurer shall give, additional bond with sureties, at the cost of the state, to be approved by the governor and the attorney general.

24-22-107. Duties and powers of state treasurer. (1) The state treasurer shall prepare and submit to the governor a quarterly report showing the condition of the state treasury, the amount of state moneys on hand and on deposit, the amount of securities held in custody, a list of the funds and accounts carried on the records of the treasury department, and such other information as he may deem appropriate.

(2) He shall furnish information in writing to the governor or either house of the general assembly, whenever requested, upon any subject pertaining to the treasury department or touching upon any duty of his office.

(3) Repealed.

(4) He may issue publications circulated in quantity outside the executive branch of state government in accordance with the provisions of section 24-1-136.

(5) He shall perform any other duty which may be required by law.

(6) The state treasurer shall be the state's cash management officer responsible for the efficient management of all state cash and shall perform the duties necessary to carry out such function, in consultation with the governor.

(6.5) The state treasurer may provide technical assistance to any state or local governmental entity, upon the request of such entity, concerning the efficient management of the entity's public funds. Such technical assistance may include, but is not limited to, providing advice or recommendations relative to cash management, investments, and banking services. The treasurer shall not be liable to any state or local governmental entity for any loss of public funds resulting from the technical assistance provided to such entity by the treasurer if the treasurer, in the good faith performance of the treasurer's duties as a public official, has complied with the standards established in part 6 of article 75 of this title for the investment of public funds in securities. A state or local governmental entity may reimburse the treasurer for any reasonable travel expenses incurred by the treasurer in providing technical assistance pursuant to this subsection (6.5) to such state or local governmental entity.

(7) The state treasurer shall have such other powers, duties, and functions as are prescribed for heads of principal departments in the "Administrative Organization Act of 1968", article 1 of this title.

ANNOTATION

Neither this section nor any other constitutional or statutory provision addresses the authority of the state treasurer to distribute information advocating support of or opposition to a pending ballot measure — even if the measure concerns fiscal matters. The Fair Campaign Practices Act is the controlling law with respect to that authority. Coffman v. Colo. Common Cause, 102 P.3d 999 (Colo. 2004).

24-22-108. Willful neglect of duty - penalty. If the state treasurer willfully neglects or refuses to perform any duty imposed upon him by law, or is guilty of bribery, compensation for past official behavior, soliciting unlawful compensation, or trading in public office, or accepts or receives any fee or reward not allowed by law for the performance of any legal duty, or knowingly does any act not authorized by law or in any manner other than as required by law, he is guilty of a misdemeanor in office and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars, and, upon any such conviction, the court may adjudge that he be removed from office.

24-22-115. Tobacco litigation settlement cash fund - health care supplemental appropriations and overexpenditures account - creation. (1) (a) There is hereby created in the state treasury the tobacco litigation settlement cash fund. The cash fund shall consist of all moneys transmitted to the state treasurer in accordance with the terms of the master settlement agreement, the smokeless tobacco master settlement agreement, and the consent decree approved and entered by the court in the case denominated State of Colorado, ex rel. Gale A. Norton, Attorney General v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.; American Tobacco Co., Inc.; Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp.; Liggett & Myers, Inc.; Lorillard Tobacco Co., Inc.; Philip Morris, Inc.; United States Tobacco Co.; B.A.T. Industries, P.L.C.; The Council For Tobacco Research—U.S.A., Inc.; and Tobacco Institute, Inc., Case No. 97 CV 3432, in the district court for the city and county of Denver other than moneys credited to the tobacco litigation settlement trust fund pursuant to section 24-22-115.5. Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, all interest derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the cash fund shall be credited to the cash fund; except that, beginning with the fiscal year 2001-02, and each fiscal year thereafter, all interest derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the cash fund shall be credited to the breast and cervical cancer prevention and treatment fund created pursuant to section 25.5-5-308, C.R.S. Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, all moneys in the cash fund shall be subject to appropriation by the general assembly for such purposes as may be authorized by law in accordance with the terms of the settlement agreements and the consent decree. Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, at the end of the 2004-05 and 2005-06 fiscal years, but prior to the making of any transfer of moneys from the cash fund to the general fund at the end of the fiscal year as required by this paragraph (a), an amount needed, up to one million dollars, to pay the state's share of the annual funding required by the "Home- and Community-based Services for Children with Autism Act", part 8 of article 6 of title 25.5, C.R.S., shall be transferred from the cash fund to the Colorado autism treatment fund created pursuant to section 25.5-6-805, C.R.S. Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, at the end of any fiscal year commencing on or after July 1, 2004, but before July 1, 2006, all unexpended and unencumbered moneys in the cash fund, all moneys in the cash fund not appropriated for the following fiscal year, and all moneys in the cash fund not required for transfers pursuant to section 24-75-1104.5 (1) in the following fiscal year shall be transferred to the general fund.

(b) Except as provided in subsection (2) of this section, for the 2006-07 fiscal year and the 2007-08 fiscal year, an amount needed, up to one million dollars, to pay the state's share of the annual funding required by the “Home- and Community-based Services for Children with Autism Act”, part 8 of article 6 of title 25.5, C.R.S., shall be transferred from the tobacco litigation settlement cash fund to the Colorado autism treatment fund created pursuant to section 25.5-6-805, C.R.S. The amount to be transferred shall be taken into account when determining the amount of cash fund moneys available for allocation to tobacco settlement programs pursuant to section 24-75-1104.5 (1.5) and shall be transferred at the end of the 2006-07 fiscal year and at the end of the 2007-08 fiscal year. On and after July 1, 2011, all unexpended and unencumbered moneys in the cash fund shall remain in the fund until expended in order to reduce the share of allocations made from current-year receipts of settlement moneys as required by section 24-75-1104.5 (1.3).

(2) (a) There is hereby created in the state treasury, as an account within the tobacco litigation settlement cash fund established pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, the tobacco settlement defense account, which shall be used by the department of law: To defend the state in lawsuits arising out of challenges to or arising under the provisions of the master settlement agreement, the smokeless tobacco master settlement agreement, and the consent decree approved and entered by the court in the case denominated State of Colorado, ex rel. Gale A. Norton, Attorney General v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.; American Tobacco Co., Inc.; Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp.; Liggett & Myers, Inc.; Lorillard Tobacco Co., Inc.; Philip Morris, Inc.; United States Tobacco Co.; B.A.T. Industries, P.L.C.; The Council For Tobacco Research—U.S.A., Inc.; and Tobacco Institute, Inc., Case No. 97 CV 3432, in the district court for the city and county of Denver, or duly enacted Colorado laws related to the tobacco litigation settlement, including, but without limitation, this section, sections 24-22-115.5 and 24-22-116, and parts 2 and 3 of article 28 of title 39, C.R.S.; to defend the state against claims of entitlement to tobacco litigation settlement moneys by any person, as defined in section 2-4-401 (8), C.R.S.; to enforce and defend all rights and obligations of the state under said settlement agreements, decree, or laws; and to resolve any dispute with any participating manufacturer, as defined in section 39-28-302 (6), C.R.S., or nonparticipating manufacturer, as defined in section 39-28-302 (5), C.R.S., that arises under the provisions of said settlement agreements, decree, or laws. Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (1) of this section and section 24-22-115.5, the tobacco settlement defense account shall consist of all tobacco litigation settlement moneys received by the attorney general and transmitted to the state treasurer to compensate the state for attorney fees, court costs, or other expenses incurred by the state in obtaining the tobacco litigation settlement and all interest derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the tobacco settlement defense account. Any moneys received by the state treasurer to compensate the state for attorney fees, court costs, or other expenses, including all interest derived from the deposit and investment of such moneys after receipt by the state treasurer, shall be transferred to the tobacco settlement defense account for use in accordance with the provisions of this subsection (2).

(b) All moneys in the tobacco settlement defense account shall be subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly to the department of law. Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (1) of this section, at the end of any fiscal year, all unexpended and unencumbered moneys and all moneys not appropriated for the following fiscal year in the tobacco settlement defense account shall remain in the tobacco settlement defense account to be used for the purposes set forth in this subsection (2).

(c) (I) Notwithstanding any provision of this subsection (2) to the contrary, on March 27, 2002, the state treasurer shall deduct three million five hundred thousand dollars from the tobacco settlement defense account in the tobacco litigation settlement cash fund and transfer such sum to the general fund.

(II) In order to restore the amount transferred from the tobacco settlement defense account in the tobacco litigation settlement cash fund pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c), moneys from the general fund shall be transferred to the tobacco settlement defense account in accordance with section 24-75-217.

(d) Notwithstanding any provision of this subsection (2) to the contrary, on March 5, 2003, the state treasurer shall deduct thirty-three million two hundred twenty-six thousand seven hundred seventy-eight dollars from the tobacco litigation settlement cash fund and transfer such sum to the general fund.

(e) Notwithstanding any provision of this subsection (2) to the contrary, on June 5, 2003, the state treasurer shall deduct five million six hundred fifty-one thousand one hundred five dollars from the tobacco litigation settlement cash fund and transfer such sum to the general fund for use in the 2002-03 fiscal year.

(f) Notwithstanding any provision of this subsection (2) to the contrary, upon receipt of any moneys paid to the state treasurer in April 2003 in accordance with the terms of the master settlement agreement, the smokeless tobacco master settlement agreement, and the consent decree approved and entered by the court in the case denominated State of Colorado, ex rel. Gale A. Norton, Attorney General v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.; American Tobacco Co., Inc.; Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp.; Liggett & Myers, Inc.; Lorillard Tobacco Co., Inc.; Philip Morris, Inc.; United States Tobacco Co.; B.A.T. Industries, P.L.C.; The Council For Tobacco Research—U.S.A., Inc.; and Tobacco Institute, Inc., Case No. 97 CV 3432, in the district court for the city and county of Denver, other than attorney fees and costs, the state treasurer shall deduct twenty-one million six hundred sixty thousand six hundred nine dollars of such amount from the tobacco litigation settlement cash fund and transfer such sum to the general fund for use in the 2002-03 fiscal year.

(g) Repealed.

(3) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2007, p. 141, § 1, effective March 22, 2007.)

(4) (a) The health care supplemental appropriations and overexpenditures account is hereby created in the tobacco litigation settlement cash fund. Notwithstanding any other provision of this section or section 24-22-115.5, upon receipt of any moneys paid to the state treasurer in April 2007 in accordance with the terms of the master settlement agreement, the smokeless tobacco master settlement agreement, and the consent decree approved and entered by the court in the case denominated State of Colorado, ex rel. Gale A. Norton, Attorney General v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.; American Tobacco Co., Inc.; Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp.; Liggett & Myers, Inc.; Lorillard Tobacco Co., Inc.; Philip Morris, Inc.; United States Tobacco Co.; B.A.T. Industries, P.L.C.; The Council For Tobacco Research—U.S.A., Inc.; and Tobacco Institute, Inc., Case No. 97 CV 3432, in the district court for the city and county of Denver, other than attorney fees and costs, the state treasurer shall credit to the account twenty-four million four hundred thousand dollars of such moneys not required to be allocated to tobacco settlement programs for the 2007-08 fiscal year pursuant to section 24-75-1104.5 (1). All interest and income earned on the deposit and investment of moneys in the account shall be credited to the breast and cervical cancer prevention and treatment fund created in section 25.5-5-308, C.R.S. Six million two hundred thousand dollars of the moneys in the account may be used only for overexpenditures or supplemental appropriations to the children's basic health plan trust created pursuant to section 25.5-8-105, C.R.S., for the 2006-07 and 2007-08 fiscal years or, to the extent not needed for that purpose, for overexpenditures or supplemental appropriations for the Colorado benefits management system for the 2006-07, 2007-08, 2008-09, or 2009-10 fiscal years. All other moneys in the account may be used only for overexpenditures or supplemental appropriations for the Colorado benefits management system for the 2006-07, 2007-08, 2008-09, or 2009-10 fiscal years. All moneys in the account not appropriated for the 2006-07, 2007-08, 2008-09, or 2009-10 fiscal years pursuant to a supplemental appropriations bill enacted by the general assembly or approved for overexpenditure by a majority of the members of the joint budget committee of the general assembly as evidenced by the receipt by the state controller of written confirmation of such approval pursuant to section 24-75-111 (1) (c) (I) (C) on or before April 15, 2010, shall be transferred to the general fund on April 16, 2010.

(b) An overexpenditure made from the health care supplemental appropriations and overexpenditures account pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) shall be made pursuant to, and subject to the requirements of, section 24-75-111. If the general assembly does not enact a supplemental appropriation for the full amount of such an overexpenditure during the next regular session following the overexpenditure, the unreleased portion of the succeeding fiscal year's appropriation restricted pursuant to section 24-75-111 (4) (a) shall revert, upon adjournment of the general assembly sine die, to the tobacco litigation settlement cash fund and be allocated as specified in this section, section 24-22-115.5, and part 11 of article 75 of this title.

(c) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, the state treasurer shall transfer to the general fund any unexpended and unencumbered moneys remaining in the health care supplemental appropriations and overexpenditures account as of June 30, 2012.

(2) Amendments to subsection (1) by Senate Bill 03-268, Senate Bill 03-282, and Senate Bill 03-342 were harmonized. Amendments to subsection (1) by House Bill 06-1310 and Senate Bill 06-219 were harmonized.

(3) Subsection (2)(g)(II) provided for the repeal of subsection (2)(g), effective July 1, 2011. (See L. 2009, p. 2016.)

24-22-115.5. Legislative declaration - tobacco litigation settlement trust fund - creation. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) The purpose of the tobacco litigation settlement trust fund created by this section is to provide a permanent source of tobacco litigation settlement moneys so that all programs or funds authorized by law to be funded with tobacco litigation settlement moneys can be fully funded without appropriations of general fund moneys; and

(b) It is the intent of the general assembly that all interest derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the tobacco litigation settlement trust fund be retained in the trust fund until such time as actuarially sound projections of future interest earnings indicate that the interest to be derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the trust fund will be sufficient to fully fund any programs or funds authorized by law to be funded by tobacco litigation settlement moneys.

(2) (a) There is hereby created in the state treasury the tobacco litigation settlement trust fund. The principal of the trust fund shall consist of:

(I) The first thirty-three million dollars of all moneys, other than attorney fees and costs, paid to the state treasurer in accordance with the terms of the master settlement agreement, the smokeless tobacco master settlement agreement, and the consent decree approved and entered by the court in the case denominated State of Colorado, ex rel. Gale A. Norton, Attorney General v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.; American Tobacco Co., Inc.; Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp.; Liggett & Myers, Inc.; Lorillard Tobacco Co., Inc.; Philip Morris, Inc.; United States Tobacco Co.; B.A.T. Industries, P.L.C.; The Council For Tobacco Research—U.S.A., Inc.; and Tobacco Institute, Inc., Case No. 97 CV 3432, in the district court for the city and county of Denver;

(II) For the 2005-06 fiscal year, up to twenty-one percent of the moneys, other than attorney fees and costs, paid to the state treasurer in accordance with the settlement agreements and the consent decree in the preceding fiscal year, less the amount transferred to the general fund pursuant to section 24-22-115 (3).

(III) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2004, p. 1706, § 2, effective June 4, 2004.)

(IV) Repealed.

(a.5) Repealed.

(a.7) (I) The principal of the tobacco litigation settlement trust fund shall not be expended or appropriated for any purpose; except that moneys in the trust fund may be appropriated to the children's basic health plan trust as provided in section 24-75-1104.5 (1) (c). All interest derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the trust fund shall be credited to the trust fund. Such interest shall become subject to appropriation by the general assembly for the funding of any programs or funds authorized by law to be funded by tobacco litigation settlement moneys at such time as the state auditor certifies that actuarially sound projections of future interest earnings indicate that such interest will be sufficient to fully fund such programs and funds. No part of such trust fund, principal or interest, shall be transferred to the general fund or any other fund or used or appropriated except as provided in this section.

(II) and (III) Repealed.

(b) (I) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, on March 5, 2003, the state treasurer shall transfer the balance of moneys in the tobacco litigation settlement trust fund to the general fund.

(II) Repealed.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), any moneys paid to the state treasurer in accordance with the terms of the master settlement agreement, the smokeless tobacco master settlement agreement, and the consent decree approved and entered by the court in the case denominated State of Colorado, ex rel. Gale A. Norton, Attorney General v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.; American Tobacco Co., Inc.; Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp.; Liggett & Myers, Inc.; Lorillard Tobacco Co., Inc.; Philip Morris, Inc.; United States Tobacco Co.; B.A.T. Industries, P.L.C.; The Council For Tobacco Research—U.S.A., Inc.; and Tobacco Institute, Inc., Case No. 97 CV 3432, in the district court for the city and county of Denver, other than attorney fees and costs, after March 5, 2003, but before July 1, 2003, shall be credited to the tobacco litigation settlement cash fund created by section 24-22-115 (1).

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, on July 1, 2004, the state treasurer shall transfer the balance of moneys in the tobacco litigation settlement trust fund to the general fund.

(3) (a) The state treasurer shall contract with one or more private, professional fund managers, professional fund advisors, or portfolio managers for the investment of moneys in the tobacco litigation settlement trust fund as provided in this section. Such moneys may be invested in the types of investments authorized in sections 24-36-109, 24-36-112, and 24-36-113. Such moneys may also be invested in domestic and international equities; except that:

(I) Any investment of tobacco litigation settlement trust fund moneys in the common or preferred stock, or both, of any single corporation shall not exceed five percent of the then book value of the trust fund;

(II) The tobacco litigation settlement trust fund shall not acquire more than five percent of the outstanding stock or bonds of any single corporation; and

(III) The aggregate amount of moneys of the tobacco litigation settlement trust fund invested in common or preferred stock or in corporate bonds, notes, or debentures that are convertible into common or preferred stock shall not exceed sixty percent of the then book value of the trust fund. No more than fifteen percent of these investments shall be in the common or preferred stock of corporations not organized under the laws of the United States or any state, territory, or possession of the United States or the District of Columbia or of the Dominion of Canada or any province thereof.

(a.5) In addition to the types of investments specified in paragraph (a) of this subsection (3), the state treasurer may invest moneys in the tobacco litigation settlement trust fund in any type of security, regardless of its maturity date, in which a public entity may invest public funds pursuant to section 24-75-601.1 (1) (d) or (1) (e).

(b) The state treasurer may make payments without appropriation of all actual and necessary charges for expenses related to the investment of the tobacco litigation settlement trust fund moneys. Such payments shall be made from investment assets or income.

(2) Subsections (2)(a.5)(II), (2)(a.7)(II)(E), (2)(a.7)(III)(B), and (2)(b)(II)(B) provided for the repeal of subsections (2)(a)(IV), (2)(a.7)(II), (2)(a.7)(III), and (2)(b)(II), respectively, effective December 15, 2003, unless the state treasurer and the tobacco litigation settlement financing corporation entered into at least one property sale contract pursuant to article 82.5 of this title. No such contract had been entered into as of December 15, 2003. (See L. 2003, p. 2544.)

24-22-115.6. Miscellaneous tobacco litigation settlement moneys. (1) Notwithstanding the provisions of sections 24-22-115 and 24-22-115.5, any tobacco litigation settlement moneys received by the state shall be subject to appropriation by the general assembly if the purpose for which such moneys may be expended is not specified or approved by a court or other non-Colorado authority.

(2) When any agency of state government proposes that any tobacco litigation settlement moneys are custodial in nature, the agency shall notify the joint budget committee in writing and shall explain the basis for determining that the moneys are custodial and shall set forth the purpose for which the agency intends to expend such moneys.

Editor's note: Section 4 of chapter 181, Session Laws of Colorado 2000, provides that the act amending this section applies to all moneys transmitted to the state treasurer before, on, or after May 23, 2000, to compensate the state for attorney fees, court costs, and other expenses incurred by the state in obtaining the tobacco litigation settlement.

24-22-116. Legislative declaration - exclusion of revenue in tobacco litigation settlement funds from fiscal year spending. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) In 1992, the voters of this state approved section 20 of article X of the state constitution, which limits fiscal year spending of state government;

(b) Section 20 (2) (e) of article X defines "fiscal year spending" to include all revenues and expenditures except those for refunds and those from certain sources, such as federal funds and damage awards;

(c) In exercising its legislative prerogative to enact legislation to implement section 20 of article X as it relates to state government, the general assembly enacted article 77 of this title during the 1993 regular session;

(d) As part of this implementing legislation, the general assembly defined certain terms that were necessary for the implementation of section 20 of article X but were not defined by the constitutional provision;

(e) The general assembly defined "damage award" to include any pecuniary compensation received by the state as a result of any judgment or allowance in favor of the state;

(f) The exclusion from state fiscal year spending of monetary awards to the state as the result of court action is consistent with the purpose of section 20 of article X, which is to protect taxpayers from unwarranted tax increases, since such monetary awards are not revenue raised by the state from taxpayers;

(g) The inclusion in state fiscal year spending of revenue over which the state has no control might imperil other state projects and programs, since fluctuations in such revenue can cause the state to exceed its constitutional spending limit and the refund of excess revenue could take away from another part of the state's budget;

(h) Due to this potential impact, the inclusion of such monetary awards in state fiscal year spending would discourage or prevent the state from pursuing legal action to protect the state's interests as authorized by law;

(i) All of the moneys received by the state in accordance with the terms of the master settlement agreement, the smokeless tobacco master settlement agreement, and the consent decree entered by the court in the case denominated State of Colorado, ex rel. Gale A. Norton, Attorney General v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.; American Tobacco Co., Inc.; Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp.; Liggett & Myers, Inc.; Lorillard Tobacco Co., Inc.; Philip Morris, Inc.; United States Tobacco Co.; B.A.T. Industries, P.L.C.; The Council For Tobacco Research—U.S.A., Inc.; and Tobacco Institute, Inc., Case No. 97 CV 3432, in the district court for the city and county of Denver, and credited to the tobacco litigation settlement cash fund created in section 24-22-115 (1), including moneys transferred to the tobacco settlement defense account created in said cash fund pursuant to section 24-22-115 (2), or the tobacco litigation settlement trust fund created in section 24-22-115.5 are in settlement of the state of Colorado's antitrust, consumer protection, public nuisance, racketeering, and other statutory claims for relief against defendants in said action;

(j) (I) The moneys received by the state in accordance with said master settlement agreements and said consent decree are in settlement of nine statutory claims for relief made by the state against defendants in said action, three of which were based upon violations of the "Colorado Consumer Protection Act", two of which were based upon violations of the "Colorado Organized Crime Control Act", two of which were based upon violations of state public nuisance statutes, and only one of which was based upon violations of the "Colorado Antitrust Act of 1992" and the impact of such violations on increased health care costs and expenditures of the state; and

(II) The state will take any legal action necessary to oppose any claim of the federal government to any portion of the moneys received by the state in accordance with said master settlement agreements and said consent decree for claims not related to such increased health care costs and expenditures and for any amount of such moneys in excess of federal payments made for such increased health care costs and expenditures;

(k) Monetary awards to the state as the result of said court action, including those distributed to local governments, satisfy the definition of "damage awards" and therefore are excluded from fiscal year spending.

(2) (a) (I) For purposes of section 20 of article X of the state constitution and article 77 of this title, any moneys credited to the tobacco litigation settlement cash fund in accordance with section 24-22-115 (1), including moneys transferred to the tobacco settlement defense account created in said cash fund pursuant to section 24-22-115 (2), or the tobacco litigation settlement trust fund in accordance with section 24-22-115.5 are damage awards, as defined in section 24-77-102 (2), or interest accruing on such damage awards. Any moneys credited to or expended from the tobacco litigation settlement cash fund, including the tobacco settlement defense account, or the tobacco litigation settlement trust fund, are not included in state fiscal year spending, as defined in section 24-77-102 (17), for any state fiscal year.

(II) Repealed.

(b) For purposes of section 20 of article X of the state constitution and article 77 of this title, any moneys expended from the tobacco litigation settlement cash fund created in section 24-22-115 (1), including the tobacco settlement defense account created in said cash fund pursuant to section 24-22-115 (2), or the tobacco litigation settlement trust fund created in section 24-22-115.5 and received by any local government are damage awards or interest accruing on such damage awards and are not included in the fiscal year spending of the receiving local government for any budget year.

24-22-117. Tobacco tax cash fund - accounts - creation - legislative declaration - repeal. (1) (a) There is hereby created in the state treasury the tobacco tax cash fund, which fund is referred to in this section as the "cash fund". The cash fund shall consist of moneys collected from the cigarette and tobacco taxes imposed pursuant to section 21 of article X of the state constitution. All interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the cash fund shall be credited to the cash fund; except that all interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the cash fund during the 2008-09, 2009-10, 2010-11, and 2011-12 fiscal years shall be credited to the general fund. Any unexpended and unencumbered moneys remaining in the cash fund at the end of a fiscal year shall remain in the cash fund and shall not be credited or transferred to the general fund or any other fund, except as otherwise provided in this section.

(b) Repealed.

(c) For each fiscal year from the 2004-05 fiscal year through the 2007-08 fiscal year and for the 2012-13 fiscal year and each fiscal year thereafter, the general assembly shall annually appropriate three percent of the moneys estimated to be deposited in that fiscal year into the cash fund, plus three percent of the interest and income earned on the deposit and investment of moneys in the cash fund, and, for the 2008-09, 2009-10, 2010-11, and 2011-12 fiscal years, the general assembly shall annually appropriate three percent of the moneys estimated to be deposited in that fiscal year into the cash fund, for health-related purposes to provide revenue for the state's general fund and the old age pension program and for municipal and county governments to compensate proportionately for tax revenue reductions attributable to lower cigarette and tobacco sales resulting from the implementation of the tax imposed pursuant to section 21 of article X of the state constitution, as follows:

(I) (A) Twenty percent of the moneys specified in this paragraph (c) to the state's general fund for health-related purposes.

(B) Beginning in fiscal year 2006-07 and for fiscal year 2007-08 through fiscal year 2010-11, of the moneys specified in sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (I), fifty percent shall be appropriated for the purposes of providing immunizations performed by county or district public health agencies in areas that were served by county public health nursing services prior to July 1, 2008, and fifty percent shall be appropriated to the pediatric specialty hospital fund, created in paragraph (e) of subsection (2) of this section, for the purposes of augmenting hospital reimbursement rates for regional pediatric trauma centers as defined in section 25-3.5-703 (4) (f), C.R.S., under the "Colorado Medical Assistance Act", articles 4, 5, and 6 of title 25.5, C.R.S.

(B.5) Beginning in fiscal year 2011-12 and for each fiscal year thereafter, of the moneys specified in sub-subparagraph (A) of this subparagraph (I), fifty percent shall be appropriated for the purposes of providing immunizations performed by county or district public health agencies in areas that were served by county public health nursing services prior to July 1, 2008, and fifty percent shall be appropriated for expenditures in the children's basic health plan created in article 8 of title 25.5, C.R.S.

(C) Repealed.

(II) Fifty percent of the moneys specified in this paragraph (c) to provide health-related services under the "Colorado Medical Assistance Act", articles 4 to 6 of title 25.5, C.R.S., for persons who qualify to receive old age pensions; and

(III) Thirty percent of the moneys specified in this paragraph (c) to the department of revenue to be apportioned to municipal and county governments in amounts consistent with the provisions of section 39-22-623, C.R.S.

(2) There are hereby created in the state treasury the following funds:

(a) (I) The health care expansion fund to be administered by the department of health care policy and financing. The state treasurer and the controller shall transfer an amount equal to forty-six percent of the moneys deposited into the cash fund, plus forty-six percent of the interest and income earned on the deposit and investment of moneys in the cash fund, to the health care expansion fund; except that, for fiscal year 2004-05, the state treasurer and the state controller shall transfer an amount equal to forty-six percent of the moneys deposited into the cash fund less the amount of money sufficient to fund the reinstatement of medical assistance benefits for legal immigrants as provided for in House Bill 05-1086, enacted at the first regular session of the sixty-fifth general assembly, and except that, for the 2008-09, 2009-10, 2010-11, and 2011-12 fiscal years, the state treasurer and the controller shall transfer to the health care expansion fund only an amount equal to forty-six percent of the moneys deposited into the cash fund. All interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the health care expansion fund shall be credited to the health care expansion fund; except that all interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the health care expansion fund during the 2008-09, 2009-10, 2010-11, and 2011-12 fiscal years shall be credited to the general fund. Any unexpended and unencumbered moneys remaining in the health care expansion fund at the end of a fiscal year shall remain in the fund and shall not be credited or transferred to the general fund or any other fund.

(II) Except as provided in subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (a), for fiscal year 2005-06 and each fiscal year thereafter, moneys in the health care expansion fund shall be annually appropriated by the general assembly to the department of health care policy and financing for the following purposes:

(A) To increase eligibility in the children's basic health plan, article 8 of title 25.5, C.R.S., for children and pregnant women from one hundred eighty-five percent to two hundred percent of the federal poverty line;

(B) To remove the asset test under the medical assistance program, articles 4, 5, and 6 of title 25.5, C.R.S., for children and families;

(C) To expand the number of children that can be enrolled in the children's home- and community-based service waiver program, section 25.5-6-901, C.R.S., and the children's extensive support waiver program;

(D) To increase eligibility in the medical assistance program, articles 4, 5, and 6 of title 25.5, C.R.S., to at least sixty percent of the federal poverty line for a parent of a child who is eligible for the medical assistance program or the children's basic health plan, article 8 of title 25.5, C.R.S.;

(E) To fund medical assistance to legal immigrants pursuant to section 25.5-5-201, C.R.S.;

(F) To pay for enrollment increases above the average enrollment for state fiscal year 2003-04 in the children's basic health plan, article 8 of title 25.5, C.R.S., or, for state fiscal year 2011-12 and for each fiscal year thereafter, to pay for costs associated with children enrolled in the medical assistance program, articles 4, 5, and 6 of title 25.5, C.R.S., whose family income is more than one hundred percent but does not exceed one hundred thirty-three percent of the federal poverty line and who would have been eligible for enrollment in the children's basic health plan prior to September 1, 2011;

(G) To provide up to five hundred forty thousand dollars for cost-effective marketing to increase the enrollment of eligible children and pregnant women in the children's basic health plan, article 8 of title 25.5, C.R.S.;

(H) To provide presumptive eligibility to pregnant women under the medical assistance program, articles 4, 5, and 6 of title 25.5, C.R.S.; and

(I) To provide funding for extending medicaid eligibility for persons who are in the foster care system immediately prior to emancipation, as set forth in section 25.5-5-201 (1) (n), C.R.S.

(III) Moneys transferred to the health care expansion fund in fiscal year 2004-05, less the amount necessary for the administrative costs of the department of health care policy and financing to facilitate the program expansions specified in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a), shall remain in the health care expansion fund as a reserve. Beginning in fiscal year 2005-06 and for each fiscal year thereafter, ten percent of the moneys transferred in each fiscal year to the health care expansion fund and any unexpended and unencumbered moneys remaining in the health care expansion fund at the end of a fiscal year shall remain in the fund and be added to the reserve until the first time the reserve balance is equal to the amount annually transferred to the health care expansion fund. Moneys in the health care expansion fund that are designated as reserve moneys, up to one-half of the amount annually transferred to the health care expansion fund, may be expended only if the appropriations necessary to sustain the populations specified in subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (a) exceed the annual transfer of moneys to the health care expansion fund.

(IV) and (V) Repealed.

(b) (I) The primary care fund to be administered by the department of health care policy and financing. The state treasurer and the controller shall transfer an amount equal to nineteen percent of the moneys deposited into the cash fund, plus nineteen percent of the interest and income earned on the deposit and investment of those moneys, to the primary care fund; except that, for the 2008-09, 2009-10, 2010-11, and 2011-12 fiscal years, the state treasurer and the controller shall transfer to the primary care fund only an amount equal to nineteen percent of the moneys deposited into the cash fund. All interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the primary care fund shall be credited to the primary care fund; except that all interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the primary care fund during the 2008-09, 2009-10, 2010-11, and 2011-12 fiscal years shall be credited to the general fund. Any unexpended and unencumbered moneys remaining in the primary care fund at the end of a fiscal year shall remain in the fund and shall not be credited or transferred to the general fund or any other fund.

(II) For fiscal year 2005-06 and each fiscal year thereafter, moneys in the primary care fund shall be annually appropriated by the general assembly to the department of health care policy and financing for comprehensive primary care as specified in part 3 of article 3 of title 25.5, C.R.S.

(III) and (IV) Repealed.

(V) (A) Notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (b), and pursuant to the declaration of a state fiscal emergency as described in paragraph (d) of subsection (6) of this section, for the 2011-12 fiscal year, eleven million seven hundred fifty-five thousand dollars of the moneys in the primary care fund shall be transferred to the Colorado health care services fund created pursuant to section 25.5-3-112 (1) (a), C.R.S., and up to fifteen million seven hundred seventy-five thousand six hundred seventy dollars may be appropriated for any health-related purpose and to serve populations enrolled in the children's basic health plan and the Colorado medical assistance program at the programs' respective levels of enrollment as of January 1, 2005. Additionally, for the 2011-12 fiscal year, two million one hundred thirty-five thousand eight hundred thirty dollars shall be transferred from the primary care fund to the primary care special distribution fund, created in section 25.5-3-112 (4) (a), C.R.S.

(B) This subparagraph (V) is repealed, effective July 1, 2013.

(c) (I) The tobacco education programs fund to be administered by the department of public health and environment. The state treasurer and the controller shall transfer an amount equal to sixteen percent of the moneys deposited into the cash fund, plus sixteen percent of the interest and income earned on the deposit and investment of those moneys, to the tobacco education programs fund; except that, for the 2008-09, 2009-10, 2010-11, and 2011-12 fiscal years, the state treasurer and the controller shall transfer to the tobacco education programs fund only an amount equal to sixteen percent of the moneys deposited into the cash fund. All interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the tobacco education programs fund shall be credited to the tobacco education programs fund; except that all interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the tobacco education programs fund during the 2008-09, 2009-10, 2010-11, and 2011-12 fiscal years shall be credited to the general fund. Any unexpended and unencumbered moneys remaining in the tobacco education programs fund at the end of a fiscal year shall remain in the fund and shall not be credited or transferred to the general fund or any other fund.

(II) The interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the tobacco education programs fund and credited to the tobacco education programs fund may be used to give credit to a wholesaler or distributor for taxes paid on cigarettes or other tobacco products that are bad debts pursuant to sections 39-28-104 and 39-28.5-107, C.R.S.; except that the interest earned on the tobacco education programs fund shall be used only for that portion of the bad debt attributable to the taxes imposed pursuant to section 21 of article X of the state constitution.

(III) For fiscal year 2005-06 and each fiscal year thereafter, moneys in the tobacco education programs fund shall be annually appropriated by the general assembly as follows:

(A) To the prevention services division of the department of public health and environment for the tobacco education, prevention, and cessation programs specified in part 8 of article 3.5 of title 25, C.R.S.; and

(B) Up to three hundred fifty thousand dollars to the division of liquor enforcement in the department of revenue for the purpose of enforcing laws relating to the sale of tobacco to minors.

(III.5) For fiscal year 2011-12 and for each fiscal year thereafter, the general assembly may annually appropriate moneys in the tobacco education programs fund to the department of health care policy and financing in order to allow the department to obtain federal matching funds for the Colorado quitline program.

(IV) (A) Notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (c), and pursuant to the declaration of a state fiscal emergency as described in subparagraph (I) of paragraph (b) of subsection (6) of this section, for the 2009-10 fiscal year, in addition to the purposes described in sub-subparagraphs (A) and (B) of subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (c), the moneys in the tobacco education programs fund may be appropriated for any health-related purpose and to serve populations enrolled in the children's basic health plan and the Colorado medical assistance program at the programs' respective levels of enrollment as of January 1, 2005.

(B) Notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (c), and pursuant to the declaration of a state fiscal emergency as described in subparagraph (II) of paragraph (b) of subsection (6) of this section, for the 2010-11 fiscal year, in addition to the purposes described in sub-subparagraphs (A) and (B) of subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (c), the moneys in the tobacco education programs fund may be appropriated for any health-related purpose and to serve populations enrolled in the children's basic health plan and the Colorado medical assistance program at the programs' respective levels of enrollment as of January 1, 2005.

(C) Notwithstanding the provisions of subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (c), and pursuant to the declaration of a state fiscal emergency as described in subparagraph (III) of paragraph (b) of subsection (6) of this section, for the 2011-12 fiscal year, in addition to the purposes described in sub-subparagraphs (A) and (B) of subparagraph (III) of this paragraph (c), the moneys in the tobacco education programs fund may be appropriated for any health-related purpose and to serve populations enrolled in the children's basic health plan and the Colorado medical assistance program at the programs' respective levels of enrollment as of January 1, 2005.

(D) This subparagraph (IV) is repealed, effective July 1, 2013.

(d) (I) The prevention, early detection, and treatment fund to be administered by the department of public health and environment. The state treasurer and the controller shall transfer an amount equal to sixteen percent of the moneys deposited into the cash fund, plus sixteen percent of the interest and income earned on the deposit and investment of those moneys, to the prevention, early detection, and treatment fund; except that, for the 2008-09, 2009-10, 2010-11, and 2011-12 fiscal years, the state treasurer and the controller shall transfer to the prevention, early detection, and treatment fund only an amount equal to sixteen percent of the moneys deposited into the cash fund. All interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the prevention, early detection, and treatment fund shall be credited to the prevention, early detection, and treatment fund; except that all interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the prevention, early detection, and treatment fund during the 2008-09, 2009-10, 2010-11, and 2011-12 fiscal years shall be credited to the general fund. Any unexpended and unencumbered moneys remaining in the prevention, early detection, and treatment fund at the end of a fiscal year shall remain in the fund and shall not be credited or transferred to the general fund or any other fund. The moneys in the prevention, early detection, and treatment fund shall be annually appropriated by the general assembly to the department of public health and environment for allocation by the department consistent with the provisions of this paragraph (d).

(II) Of the moneys appropriated annually by the general assembly to the department of public health and environment pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (d), moneys shall be annually allocated by the department of public health and environment for breast and cervical cancer screenings pursuant to section 25-4-1505, C.R.S., and transferred to the department of health care policy and financing for the breast and cervical cancer treatment program established in section 25.5-5-308, C.R.S., in the following amounts not to exceed five million dollars in any fiscal year:

(A) For the 2005-06 fiscal year, fourteen percent of the amount appropriated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (d);

(B) For the 2006-07 fiscal year, sixteen percent of the amount appropriated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (d);

(C) For the 2007-08 fiscal year, eighteen percent of the amount appropriated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (d); and

(D) For the 2008-09 fiscal year and each fiscal year thereafter, twenty percent of the amount appropriated pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (d).

(III) For fiscal year 2005-06, and each fiscal year thereafter, fifteen percent of the moneys transferred to the prevention, early detection, and treatment fund shall be transferred to the health disparities grant program fund created in paragraph (f) of this subsection (2) for the health disparities grant program in part 22 of article 4 of title 25, C.R.S.

(IV) Repealed.

(IV.5) For fiscal year 2008-09, and each fiscal year thereafter until and including fiscal year 2012-13, after the allocation and transfer required by subparagraphs (II) and (III) of this paragraph (d), of the moneys in the prevention, early detection, and treatment fund, two million dollars shall be transferred to the department of health care policy and financing for medicaid disease management and treatment programs, authorized by section 25.5-5-316, C.R.S., that address cancer, heart disease, and lung disease or the risk factors associated with such diseases.

(V) (A) For fiscal year 2008-09 and each fiscal year thereafter, after the allocation of the moneys pursuant to subparagraphs (II), (III), and (IV.5) of this paragraph (d), moneys in the prevention, early detection, and treatment fund shall be annually appropriated by the general assembly to the prevention services division of the department of public health and environment for the cancer, cardiovascular disease, and chronic pulmonary disease prevention, early detection, and treatment program established in part 3 of article 20.5 of title 25, C.R.S.

(B) and (C) Repealed.

(VI) Pursuant to the declaration of a state fiscal emergency as described in subparagraph (III) of paragraph (b) of subsection (6) of this section, notwithstanding any provisions of subparagraphs (II), (III), (IV.5), and (V) of this paragraph (d) to the contrary, for fiscal year 2011-12, the general assembly shall appropriate moneys in the prevention, early detection, and treatment fund for the purposes described in subparagraphs (II), (III), (IV.5), and (V) of this paragraph (d), as well as any other health-related purpose and to serve populations enrolled in the children's basic health plan and the Colorado medical assistance program at the programs' respective levels of enrollment as of January 1, 2005.

(e) Repealed.

(f) (I) The health disparities grant program fund to be administered by the department of public health and environment. Moneys shall be transferred to the health disparities grant program fund as described in subparagraph (III) of paragraph (d) of this subsection (2). All interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the health disparities grant program fund shall be credited to the health disparities grant program fund; except that all interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the health disparities grant program fund during the 2008-09, 2009-10, 2010-11, and 2011-12 fiscal years shall be credited to the general fund. Any unexpended or unencumbered moneys remaining in the health disparities grant program fund at the end of the fiscal year shall remain in the fund and shall not be credited to the general fund or any other fund. The moneys in the health disparities grant program fund shall be annually appropriated by the general assembly to the department of public health and environment for allocation by the department of public health and environment consistent with the provisions of paragraph (d) of this subsection (2).

(II) and (III) Repealed.

(IV) (A) Notwithstanding any provisions of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (f) to the contrary, and pursuant to the declaration of a state fiscal emergency as described in subparagraph (III) of paragraph (b) of subsection (6) of this section, for the 2011-12 fiscal year, the moneys in the health disparities grant program fund may be appropriated for any health-related purpose and to serve populations enrolled in the children's basic health plan and the Colorado medical assistance program at the programs' respective levels of enrollment as of January 1, 2005.

(B) This subparagraph (IV) is repealed, effective July 1, 2013.

(3) For purposes of section 20 of article X of the state constitution and article 77 of this title, any moneys collected or expended from the imposition of the cigarette and tobacco tax imposed pursuant to section 21 of article X of the state constitution are not included in fiscal year spending, as defined in section 20 of article X of the state constitution, and are excluded from the spending limit contained in section 24-75-201.1 and any corresponding spending limits on local governments receiving such revenues.

(4) Moneys appropriated to the health care expansion fund, the primary care fund, and the prevention, early detection, and treatment fund shall be used to supplement revenues that are appropriated by the general assembly for health-related purposes as of January 1, 2005, and shall not be used to supplant those appropriations.

(5) The moneys generated by the implementation of the tax pursuant to section 21 of article X of the state constitution shall be appropriated by the general assembly and utilized by the recipients of the moneys only for such purposes as are specified in section 21 of article X of the state constitution. The moneys shall not be utilized:

(a) For the purposes of lobbying as defined in section 24-6-301 (3.5) (a); or

(b) To support or oppose any ballot issue or ballot question.

(6) (a) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the general assembly may use revenue generated by the implementation of the cigarette and tobacco taxes pursuant to sections 39-28-103.5 and 39-28.5-102.5, C.R.S., and section 21 of article X of the state constitution for any health-related purpose and to serve populations enrolled in the children's basic health plan and the Colorado medical assistance program at the respective program levels of enrollment as of January 1, 2005. Such use of revenue shall be preceded by a declaration of a state fiscal emergency, which shall be adopted by a joint resolution, approved by a two-thirds majority vote of the members of the senate and of the house of representatives, and signed by the governor. The declaration shall apply only to a single fiscal year.

(b) (I) The general assembly, pursuant to section 21 (7) of article X of the state constitution and Senate Joint Resolution 09-035, which was approved by a two-thirds majority vote of the members of the general assembly and signed by the governor, declares a state fiscal emergency for the 2009-10 fiscal year.

(II) The general assembly, pursuant to section 21 (7) of article X of the state constitution and Senate Joint Resolution 10-010, which was approved by a two-thirds majority vote of the members of the general assembly and signed by the governor, declares a state fiscal emergency for the 2010-11 fiscal year.

(III) The general assembly, pursuant to section 21 (7) of article X of the state constitution and Senate Joint Resolution 11-009, which was approved by a two-thirds majority vote of the members of the general assembly and signed by the governor, declares a state fiscal emergency for the 2011-12 fiscal year.

(IV) This paragraph (b) is repealed, effective July 1, 2013.

(c) Repealed.

(d) (I) The general assembly, pursuant to section 21 (7) of article X of the state constitution and Senate Joint Resolution 11-009, which was approved by a two-thirds majority vote of the members of the general assembly and signed by the governor, declares a state fiscal emergency for the 2011-12 fiscal year.

(II) This paragraph (d) is repealed, effective July 1, 2013.

(7) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that for purposes of this section and section 21 (5) of article X of the state constitution, interest or income credited to the general fund pursuant to paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section and paragraphs (a) to (d) and (f) of subsection (2) of this section are not revenues generated by operation of section 21 (2) of article X of the state constitution.

PART 2

ACCOUNTS AND CONTROL

24-30-201. Accounts and control - controller. (1) The powers, duties, and functions concerning accounts and control as set forth in this part 2 shall be the responsibility of the state controller. The controller shall be appointed by the executive director of the department of personnel, subject to the provisions of section 13 of article XII of the state constitution. The controller shall be bonded in such amount as the executive director shall fix. The powers and duties of the controller shall be:

(a) To keep in continuous touch with the operations, plans, and needs of the several departments and other agencies of the state and with the sources and amounts of revenue and other receipts of the state;

(b) Repealed.

(c) To examine and approve work programs and quarterly allotments to the several departments and changes therein;

(d) To examine and approve all statements and reports on the financial condition and estimated future financial condition and the operations of the state government and the several budget units before any such reports are released to the governor, to the general assembly, or for publication; receive and deal with all requests for information as to financial conditions and operations of the state; and prepare such statements of unit costs and other cost statistics as may be required from time to time or requested by the governor or the general assembly;

(e) To manage the finances and financial affairs of the state, except as otherwise provided in section 5 (2) of article VIII of the state constitution and by law for institutions of higher education and for the Auraria higher education center;

(f) To coordinate all the procedures for financial administration and financial control so as to integrate them into an adequate and unified system, including the devising, prescribing, and installing of accounting forms, records, and procedures for all state agencies;

(g) To conduct all central accounting and fiscal reporting for the state as a whole;

(h) To maintain a current audit of all cash, cash receipts, and receivables; to preaudit and control the incurring of obligations; and to preaudit all disbursements;

(i) To issue warrants for the payment of claims against the state;

(j) Pursuant to rules and regulations promulgated by the executive director of the department of personnel, to assist state agencies in their efforts to recover moneys owing to the state and to collect, on behalf of the state, accounts referred to the controller under rules and regulations authorizing such referral under defined circumstances, as further specified in section 24-30-202.4;

(k) To control all supply stocks, property, and equipment in use and enforce the keeping of inventory accounts;

(l) To make available to each member of the general assembly by November 1 of each year a report on all capital leases having a total value of five hundred thousand dollars or more, concerning real property pursuant to sections 24-82-102, 24-82-801, and 24-82-1204, concerning personal property pursuant to the "Procurement Code", articles 101 to 112 of this title, and concerning lease-purchase agreements pursuant to section 24-82-801. The controller shall notify, in the most cost-effective manner available, each member of the general assembly of the availability of the report and offer to provide the members with copies of the report. The controller shall require each department and agency of the executive branch shall submit to the controller by October 1 of each year a report on capital leases having a total value of five hundred thousand dollars or more, concerning real property pursuant to section 24-82-102, concerning personal property pursuant to the "Procurement Code", articles 101 to 112 of this title, and concerning lease-purchase agreements pursuant to section 24-82-801, the payments of which are financed by appropriated funds to which the department or agency is a party. For the purpose of this paragraph (l), "capital lease" means a capital lease as defined in the generally accepted accounting principles issued by the governmental accounting standards board that the controller prescribes for the state as specified in section 24-30-202 (12).

(2) The powers, duties, and functions concerning accounts and control and the office of the controller shall be administered as if transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of personnel.

ANNOTATION

Governor's veto of appropriation provision held proper. MacManus v. Love, 179 Colo. 218, 499 P.2d 609 (1972).

"Under the provisions of law" in former subsection (1)(b) must be read to limit the controller's authority over transfers to those transfers authorized by some source independent of this section. Colo. General Assembly v. Lamm, 700 P.2d 508 (Colo. 1985).

To read former subsection (1)(b) as applying to any transfer, not just those authorized by a source independent of this statute, would bring about an unconstitutional result, since it would amount to a delegation of the legislative appropriation power to the chief executive. Colo. General Assembly v. Lamm, 700 P.2d 508 (Colo. 1985).

24-30-202. Procedures - vouchers and warrants - rules - penalties. (1) No disbursements shall be made in payment of any liability incurred on behalf of the state, other than from petty cash or by any alternative means of payment approved by fiscal rule promulgated by the controller, unless there has been previously filed with the office of the state controller a commitment voucher. The commitment voucher may be in the form of an advice of employment, a purchase order, a copy of a contract, or a travel authorization or in other form appropriate to the type of transaction as prescribed by the controller. Any state contract involving the payment of money by the state shall contain a clause providing that the contract shall not be deemed valid until it has been approved by the controller or such assistant as he may designate. Such contracts entered into on or after July 1, 1997, shall also contain a clause notifying the other party to the contract of the controller's authority to withhold debts owed to state agencies under the vendor offset intercept system pursuant to section 24-30-202.4 (3.5) (a) (I) and the types of debts that are subject to withholding under said system. The form and content of and procedures for filing such vouchers shall be prescribed by the fiscal rules promulgated by the controller.

(2) The controller, or such assistant as he may designate, shall examine each commitment voucher to ascertain whether or not the proposed expenditure is authorized by the appropriation and allotment to which it is proposed to be charged, whether or not the prices or rates are in accordance with law or administrative rules or are fair and reasonable and whether or not the amount of the expenditure exceeds the unencumbered balance of the allotment. The controller or his designated assistant shall record his approval or disapproval either on the face of each voucher or by electronically entering such approval or disapproval in the state computer-based accounting system. The head of the state department, institution, or other agency involved shall be notified of any proposed expenditures that are disallowed.

(3) In no event shall the head of any state department, institution, or other agency or the controller, either by himself or through any assistant designated by him, approve any commitment voucher involving expenditure of any sum in excess of the unencumbered balance of the appropriation to which the resulting disbursement would be charged. No person shall incur or order or vote for the incurrence of any obligation against the state in excess of or for any expenditure not authorized by appropriation and approved commitment voucher except as expressly authorized by this section. Any such obligation so raised in contravention of this section shall not be binding against the state but shall be null and void ab initio and incapable of ratification by any administrative authority of the state to give effect thereto against the state. But every person incurring or ordering or voting for the incurrence of such obligation and his surety shall be jointly and severally liable therefor.

(4) The controller is hereby authorized to grant special authority for any department, institution, or other agency, during any fiscal year, to make specific purchases of supplies or materials to be used in the next ensuing fiscal year or to enter into contracts in anticipation of appropriations already made or to be made for the next ensuing fiscal year for any purpose authorized by any existing law, including contracts by the department of transportation for state highway reconstruction, repair, maintenance, and capacity expansion projects to be funded by the revenues appropriated out of the capital construction fund under section 24-75-302 (2), but in no case for any amount exceeding that necessary to meet the requirements for the first quarter of the next fiscal year. No such purchase order shall be issued nor contract entered into unless such purchase order or contract has been approved and countersigned by the controller or the controller's authorized agent, whose duty it shall be to see that the special authority so granted is not exceeded; except that this restriction shall not apply to contracts for capital outlay projects for which appropriations have been provided for obligations to be incurred in two or more fiscal years. Payments made at the close of a fiscal year under such authority shall be treated as deferred charges to the appropriations and expenses of the next ensuing fiscal year until the beginning of such year.

(5) (a) No money of the state or for which the state is responsible shall be withdrawn from the treasury or otherwise disbursed for any purpose except to pay obligations under expenditures authorized by appropriation and allotment and not in excess of the amount so authorized. Each such expenditure shall have been authorized by the head of the department, institution, or other agency by or for which the expenditure was made. Such authorization shall contain the manual or facsimile signature of the head of the department, institution, or agency or any assistant designated by him. The controller, or his authorized agent, shall have approved a commitment voucher therefor, and a claim on a prescribed form shall have been submitted to and approved by the controller or his agent. The provisions of this section shall not be construed to apply to withdrawals of funds from any state depository bank for immediate redeposit in any other state depository bank or for investment.

(b) Before any state department, institution, or agency enters into any option or agreement to purchase any real property or any interest therein that has a total purchase price of more than one hundred thousand dollars, such department, institution, or agency shall contract with at least one but not more than three independent appraisers for an estimate of the value of such property. Such appraiser shall be qualified with respect to the subject matter of the appraisal and shall be instructed to determine the fair market value of the real property by using sound, fair, and recognized appraisal practices which are consistent with the laws of Colorado. One copy of each such appraisal shall be attached to the option or contract for said purchase prior to the controller's approving the option or contract. This paragraph (b) shall not apply to the acquisition of property by the department of transportation for the construction, maintenance, or supervision of the public highways of this state, nor shall it apply to any additional lease-purchase agreement entered into pursuant to the master lease program authorized by part 7 of article 82 of this title.

(5.5) Any commitment voucher that provides that the financial obligations of the state in subsequent fiscal years are contingent upon funds for that purpose being appropriated, budgeted, and otherwise made available shall not be deemed to create any state multiple-fiscal year direct or indirect debt or other financial obligation whatsoever for purposes of section 20 (4) (b) of article X of the state constitution. If a lease-purchase agreement is subject to the requirement of specific authorization by the general assembly under part 8 of article 82 of this title, such committees shall make a recommendation to the general assembly concerning whether to authorize the lease-purchase agreement involving the issuance of certificates of participation or other instruments. The department of personnel and the Colorado commission on higher education shall maintain comparative data which will assist in determining the relative costs to the state, over the entire term of the arrangement, of financing the purchase or lease of property through pay-as-you-go methods, certificates of participation, or other arrangements.

(6) The controller shall prescribe the form of warrants to be drawn upon the state treasurer. All warrants for approved expenditures and claims shall be drawn and issued under direction of the controller or his authorized agent and transmitted to the department of the treasury to be recorded.

(7) Each warrant drawn and issued shall be signed by the controller and countersigned by the state treasurer. Facsimiles of such signature and countersignature may be affixed by a mechanical device. The signature of the controller on a warrant, however affixed, shall constitute full and complete authority to the state treasurer to pay the amount thereof upon presentation to him.

(8) Each warrant drawn and issued shall bear a notation clearly printed in a prominent position upon its face stating that it shall be void after six months from its date of issue. Upon satisfactory proof furnished of loss or destruction, during said six-month period, of any warrant drawn and issued in payment of an approved expenditure or claim, the controller shall cause a duplicate of such lost or destroyed warrant to be drawn and issued in favor of the original payee or his or her assignee, as the case may be. The issuing state agency shall thereupon void said original warrant, and, if it thereafter is presented for payment, the state treasurer shall refuse payment thereof.

(8.5) Any other provision of law to the contrary notwithstanding, the controller may, after adequate notification to the state treasurer, make payment by means of an electronic fund transfer. Payment by electronic fund transfer shall be in lieu of payment by state warrant and shall discharge the controller's obligation with respect to payment. Any unauthorized use of the electronic fund transfer capability shall be reported to the controller within twenty-four hours after occurrence or disclosure becomes known. Immediately upon discovery of unauthorized use, measures which will prevent further unauthorized use shall be implemented.

(9) (a) During the month of May of each year, a list of all warrants drawn and issued during the last completed fiscal year that have not then been presented to the state treasurer for payment shall be posted in a conspicuous place in the offices of the controller and the state treasurer. Such list shall recite the number, date of issue, name of payee, and amount of each such warrant. Every warrant so listed that shall remain unpaid on the last working day in the month of June of each year shall be scheduled for cancellation as of said date and expunged from the records of the controller and the state treasurer, and the amount thereof shall be credited to the general fund or, if practicable, to the account to which originally charged; except that the amount of any warrant drawn on the wildlife cash fund created in section 33-1-112 (1), C.R.S., other than a warrant refunding a license fee submitted as part of an unsuccessful limited license application, shall be credited to said fund.

(b) If at any time thereafter application is made to the controller for reissuance of any warrant which has been cancelled and expunged from the records and it appears that the expenditure or claim which the cancelled warrant represented is still valid and unpaid, the controller shall issue a new warrant, and the amount thereof shall be charged to the fund or account to which the amount of the cancelled warrant was previously credited.

(c) In the event of any conflict between this subsection (9) and any provision of the "Unclaimed Property Act", article 13 of title 38, C.R.S., the provisions of the "Unclaimed Property Act" shall control; except that this subsection (9) shall control with regard to:

(I) A tax warrant;

(II) Repealed.

(III) That portion of a warrant representing moneys received from the federal government;

(IV) A warrant drawn on the wildlife cash fund created in section 33-1-112 (1), C.R.S., other than a warrant refunding a license fee submitted as part of an unsuccessful limited license application.

(d) Notwithstanding any provision of this subsection (9) to the contrary, the provisions of this subsection (9) shall not apply to any warrant drawn by an institution of higher education or by the Auraria higher education center that is exempt from the state fiscal rules pursuant to paragraph (b) of subsection (13) of this section.

(10) The attorney general shall be the legal adviser of the controller and to the attorney general shall be referred any question concerning the legality of any obligation by or claim against the state.

(11) It is the duty of the controller to keep up to date a detailed list of all sources from which moneys accrue to the state, classified according to the departments, institutions, and other agencies responsible for the collection of the moneys, showing for each of the several units: The several kinds of taxes, fees, and other charges collected or to be collected; the name of the person responsible for collecting public moneys from each such source; and the name of the employee actually engaged in collecting, handling, and depositing such moneys. The controller has the power, and it is his duty with respect to each state tax, to prescribe or approve such accounts and procedures as will provide adequate accounting and current internal audit control of unpaid taxes and other charges and the proceeds of collections and as will furnish the information required for the maintenance of the general accounts of the state. The controller has the power and it is his duty to prescribe the forms to be used by the several units for licenses, permits, and certificates for which fees are prescribed by law and to establish controls of the supplies of such forms.

(12) The controller shall prescribe and cause to be installed a unified and integrated system of accounts for the state. Except as otherwise provided in sections 24-75-201 (2) and

25.5-4-201, C.R.S., such system shall be based upon the accrual system of accounting, as enunciated by the governmental accounting standards board, which shall include:

(a) A set of budgetary control accounts for each fund, which shall be maintained pursuant to the accounts and control functions of the department of personnel;

(b) A set of general controlling proprietary and operating accounts for each fund, which shall be maintained pursuant to the accounts and control functions of the department of personnel, recording the transactions of the fund in summary form and showing the actual current assets, prepaid expenses, current liabilities, deferred credits to income, reserves, actual income, actual expenditures, and current surplus or deficit as the case may be;

(c) A uniform classification of the sources of revenue and nonrevenue receipts, which shall be observed by all the departments, institutions, and other agencies;

(d) A standard classification of the departments, institutions, and other agencies and their principal functions, by major functions of government;

(e) A standard classification of expenditures by activities;

(f) A unified classification of ordinary recurring expenses, extraordinary expenses, and capital outlays, respectively, by the kinds of commodities and services involved, which shall be observed in reporting expenditures, in preparing budget estimates, and in allotting appropriations.

(13) (a) The controller shall promulgate fiscal rules to carry out the functions assigned and the procedures prescribed by this section. Such rules relating to the forms, records, and procedures involved in financial administration shall be binding upon the several departments, institutions, including institutions of higher education except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (13), and other agencies of the state and upon their several officers and employees.

(b) It is the intent of the general assembly that fiscal rules promulgated by the controller shall be applicable to any institution of higher education; except that the governing board of an institution of higher education that has adopted fiscal procedures and has determined that the fiscal procedures provide adequate safeguards for the proper expenditure of the moneys of the institution may elect to exempt the institution from the fiscal rules promulgated by the controller pursuant to this subsection (13), including any procedures or forms required by law to be promulgated by the controller and any review or approval required to be performed by the controller, and shall not be required to comply with rules promulgated pursuant to this subsection (13) or with the provisions of subsection (1), (5) (b), (20.1), (22), or (26) of this section. The provisions of this paragraph (b) shall also apply to the board of directors of the Auraria higher education center with regard to the expenditure of moneys of the auraria higher education center.

(c) Repealed.

(d) An institution of higher education, including the auraria higher education center, that is exempt from the state fiscal rules pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (13) shall continue to provide to the controller such information as is necessary to enable the controller to meet the obligations set forth in subsection (11) of this section and sections 24-17-102 and 24-30-204; except that an institution of higher education shall be required to provide only such data and reports as are readily accessible to the institution or presently generated by the institution.

(14) If the controller or any other state employee knowingly draws or issues any warrant upon the state treasurer not authorized by law, he is guilty of a misdemeanor in office and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of a sum four-fold the amount of such warrant, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one year, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

(15) Any person holding the office of state treasurer or controller or any other state officer or employee who, directly or indirectly, receives from any person, body of persons, association, or corporation, for himself or herself or otherwise than in behalf of the state, any reward, compensation, or profit, either in money or other property or thing of value, in consideration of the loan to or deposit with any such person, body of persons, association, or corporation of any public money or other property belonging to the state or in the consideration of the approval or payment of any claim against the state or any other agreement or arrangement touching the use of such money or uses or knowingly permits the use of any such money for any purposes not authorized by law commits a class 6 felony and shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-401, C.R.S.

(16) Any person who, directly or indirectly, pays or gives to anyone holding the office of state treasurer or controller or to any other state officer or employee or other person any reward or compensation, either in money or other property or things of value, in consideration of the loan to or deposit with any such person, body of persons, association, or corporation of any public money belonging to the state or for which the state is responsible or in consideration of the approval or payment of any claim against the state or of any other agreement or arrangement touching the use of such money commits a class 6 felony and shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-401, C.R.S.

(17) Any state officer or employee who willfully neglects or refuses to perform his duty as prescribed in this section or as prescribed in the fiscal rules promulgated by the controller in conformity with this section is guilty of a misdemeanor in office and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred dollars nor more than one thousand dollars.

(18) (a) to (e) Repealed.

(f) All state agencies are required to make and preserve records of employees' wages and hours and other conditions and practices of employment.

(g) to (j) Repealed.

(19) If any money of the state is paid out from any appropriation or fund for any purpose and such money, or any part thereof, is for any reason subsequently refunded to the state, the controller is authorized to order the money so refunded to be credited to the fund or appropriation from which it was originally paid.

(20) Repealed.

(20.1) The controller, or the controller's designee, is hereby authorized, upon written request made to the controller, to allow any state department, institution, or agency to draw upon its appropriation a sum set by fiscal rule promulgated by the controller, which fiscal rule may not authorize a sum in excess of two thousand five hundred dollars, and considered appropriate for the circumstances, to be used for the payment of incidental expenses. Items of postage, express, telegrams, and other incidental expenses may be paid from such moneys. At the end of each month, or as often as is practicable, the department, institution, or agency making such incidental expenditures shall submit a voucher to the controller covering the total amount of such expenditures and shall submit a list of all such expenditures, together with proper receipts, if any, and the controller shall draw the controller's warrant against the proper appropriation to cover all items of expenditures which the controller approves. The controller is also authorized, upon the request of any state department, institution, or agency, to allow a reasonable advance of moneys to employees and officials for authorized travel on official state business not to exceed an amount set by fiscal rule promulgated by the controller.

(21) If, as a result of fire or other insured loss to state property, the state receives moneys from any insurance company, the controller is authorized to deposit such moneys in an account from which he may, without regard to the provisions of part 3 of article 37 of this title and without further legislative action, reimburse contractors for repair, replacement, or reconstruction of state properties damaged or destroyed under a contract executed in accordance with state contracting laws and procedures in effect at the time of the execution of the contract. If the amount of insurance recovery exceeds the actual cost of such repair, replacement, or reconstruction, any balance remaining in said account after payment of actual costs shall revert to the general fund. With respect to the loss or damage to state property which is not insured or the loss or damage to state property which is insured but the insurance does not fully cover the loss or damage, the controller may, with the approval of the governor, without further legislative action, reimburse contractors for the repair, replacement, or reconstruction of such state property up to a maximum amount of one hundred thousand dollars; except that the controller is not authorized to provide for reimbursement for repair, replacement, or reconstruction of state property if the state is self-insured for loss or damage to state property.

(22) The controller shall make uniform and equitable fiscal rules controlling the types of perquisites which may be allowed state employees in the executive branch of government in addition to their regular salaries. Such rules shall include the eligibility of employees to receive such perquisites, the charges to be made for such perquisites, and the method of payment of such charges to the state. Before such rules become effective, they shall be approved by the governor. No employee shall have authority to grant to himself or herself or to any other employee under his or her supervision any perquisite, nor shall any employee receive any perquisite without full payment therefor, except as provided for by statute or by the rules of the controller as authorized in this section. Charges prescribed by such rules shall be reviewed annually by the controller.

(23) Repealed.

(24) (a) The controller shall promulgate fiscal rules requiring that disbursements made in the payment of any liability incurred on behalf of the executive branch of this state be made within forty-five days after such liability was incurred or shall pay interest from the forty-fifth day at a rate of one percent per month on the unpaid balance until the account is paid in full.

(b) As used in paragraph (a) of this subsection (24), "liability incurred on behalf of the state" means the receipt of supplies, as defined in section 24-101-301 (22), or services, as defined in section 24-101-301 (20), and receipt of a correct notice of the amount due, by the state agency procuring such supplies or services from a nongovernmental entity. No liability is incurred on behalf of the state if a good faith dispute exists as to the state's obligation to pay all or a portion of the account. Nothing in this subsection (24) shall be construed to affect any provision for the time of payment in a written contract between a state agency procuring services or supplies and a nongovernmental entity.

(25) (a) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2005, p. 278, § 9, effective August 8, 2005.)

(b) On July 1, 1985, the controller shall, by fiscal rule, provide for the assessment of a reasonable monetary penalty based on cost against any person who issues a check returned for insufficient funds to any state department, institution, or agency in payment of fees, fines, or other moneys due the state.

(c) For the purposes of this subsection (25), "insufficient funds" means not having a sufficient balance in account with a bank or other drawee for the payment of a check when presented for payment within thirty days after issue.

(d) The penalty provided for in this subsection (25) shall be assessed in addition to any other penalties provided by law except for the penalty provided in section 24-35-114 relating to checks issued to the department of revenue.

(26) The controller shall promulgate equitable fiscal rules concerning travel policies applicable to state employees, including methods of transportation, travel advances, reimbursements, travel allowances, use of travel agents, and use of state or privately owned vehicles, and may promulgate such rules for the implementation of a state travel policy as he deems necessary to assure fair and reasonable expenditures. The controller shall make available a report no later than February 1 of each year to the governor, the joint budget committee, and the legislative audit committee regarding the travel expenses of state employees for the prior fiscal year. Such report shall include, but shall not be limited to, an itemized list of the travel expenses of each department including in-state travel, out-of-state travel, and out-of-country travel. The controller shall notify, in the most cost-effective manner available, the governor, the joint budget committee, and the legislative audit committee of the availability of the report and offering to provide copies of the report.

(27) To avoid the imposition of duplicative or excessively burdensome or numerous reporting requirements upon state-supported institutions of higher education and to encourage the promulgation of reporting rules that, to the extent possible, require such institutions to provide only data and reports readily accessible to or presently generated by such institutions, the controller shall consult with the Colorado commission on higher education before adopting, amending, or repealing rules affecting or creating reporting requirements applicable to such institutions.

24-30-202.4. Collection of debts due the state - controller's duties - creation of debt collection fund - definitions. (1) The state controller shall advise and assist the various state agencies concerning the collection of debts due the state through such agencies, in accordance with rules promulgated by the executive director of the department of personnel, to achieve the prompt collection of debts due such agencies. The controller may delegate the responsibility for the collection of debts to the central collection services section of the division of finance and procurement, or any successor section, in the department.

(2) Except as otherwise provided for institutions of higher education pursuant to section 23-5-113, C.R.S., and except for those debts under the jurisdiction of the department of revenue referred to in section 24-35-108 (1) (a), under the jurisdiction of the judicial department referred to in section 16-11-101.6, C.R.S., and under the jurisdiction of the department of labor and employment related to overpayment of unemployment insurance benefits and delinquent taxes referred to in section 8-79-102, C.R.S., all state agencies shall refer to the state controller debts due the state that the agency has been unable to collect within thirty days after such debts have become past due, together with the data and information necessary for the controller to institute collection procedures. Debts are not subject to referral pursuant to this subsection (2) if payment arrangements have been made and payments due in accordance with the terms of the arrangements are not delinquent. The controller may grant a waiver to the requirement that a state agency refer debts within such thirty-day period based upon a documented request and justification provided by a state agency, pursuant to rules promulgated by the department of personnel under article 4 of this title. A waiver may include but shall not be limited to extended periods to collect delinquent debts. For accounts where no waiver to assignment has been granted, the controller shall use all state collection capabilities to collect that debt, including, but not limited to, the certification of that debt to the department of revenue for offset of that debt against any tax refund due the debtor under the provisions of subparagraph (II) of paragraph (a) of subsection (3) of this section. No later than one hundred eighty days after receipt by the controller, the controller or the controller's designee shall legally assign all debts that are not claims in process of collection to private counsel or private collection agencies that appear on the list of private counsel or private collection agencies. For the purposes of this section, "claims in process of collection" means any debts on which payments are being made, on which payments have been promised, on which suit has been brought, or any other debts as defined in rules promulgated by the department of personnel pursuant to article 4 of this title. The private counsel or private collection agencies included in the list of private counsel or private collection agencies shall be selected through competition pursuant to the provisions of the "Procurement Code", articles 101 to 112 of this title. Criteria for selection of the private counsel or private collection agencies shall be developed by the executive director of the department of personnel in consultation with the controller, affected state agencies, and the private collection community.

(2.5) The department of personnel may provide debt collection services for political subdivisions of the state. The provisions of this section governing the time for referral of accounts to private collection agencies, write off, release, or compromise of debts shall not govern the debt collection services provided to political subdivisions except as agreed between the department and such political subdivisions or state agencies and institutions.

(3) (a) (I) Upon referral to the controller of debts due the state, the controller shall institute procedures for collection thereof pursuant to the rules and regulations promulgated therefor by the executive director of the department of personnel.

(II) Upon verification by the appropriate state agency of the amount of the debt due the state, the controller may certify to the department of revenue any unpaid debt due the state to be offset against a tax refund due the debtor, pursuant to section 39-21-108 (3), C.R.S. Before any unpaid debt is certified to the department of revenue, the controller shall give written notice to the debtor that the debt shall be offset against a tax refund due the debtor and shall notify the debtor that the debtor may, within thirty days of the postmark of the written notice from the controller, request a hearing to dispute the tax refund offset. Such hearing shall be held within thirty calendar days from receipt of the request from the debtor. If the agency that referred the debt to the controller certifies that the debt was the subject of a final agency determination or judicial decision or that the debt has been reduced to judgment, the debtor may not dispute the validity of the debt at the hearing. No money shall be refunded or offset against a tax refund due the debtor if such a hearing is requested until such time as the hearing is completed and a decision is rendered. If at the hearing the dispute is resolved in favor of the debtor, the debtor shall be entitled to a refund of any moneys due plus interest, pursuant to section 39-21-110.5, C.R.S. Provisions for adequate notice and opportunity for hearing shall be made by rules and regulations promulgated by the executive director of the department of personnel. Any debts may be written off, released, or compromised pursuant to paragraph (c) of this subsection (3).

(c) The state controller, with the consent of the state treasurer, is authorized to write off, release, or compromise any debt due the state, but only in accordance with the rules applicable thereto. Such rules may provide delegated authority and criteria for write off, release, and compromise of debts and may include provisions to prohibit the referral of debts for tax offset based on the age or amounts of debts. The rules governing write off, release, and compromise of debts may include provisions authorizing the collection of principal, interest, and other collection fees and costs, including the fees required in subsection (8) of this section.

(d) Proceeds of debts collected by the state controller or by a private counsel or private collection agency shall be accounted for and paid into the fund from which the receivable was derived, and if the fund is no longer in existence, it shall be paid into the general fund. Revenues collected by the controller to pay for state collection activities shall be deposited in the debt collection fund.

(e) There is hereby created in the state treasury a fund to be known as the debt collection fund. Subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly, moneys in the debt collection fund may be used by the controller to offset a shortfall during the fiscal year in the revenue available to pay for the expenses incurred by the controller in collecting debts owed the state. The debt collection fund balance at the end of any fiscal year shall not exceed twenty-five percent of the annual appropriated budget for the collection of debts owed the state. Net revenues collected in excess of twenty-five percent of the debt collection fund balance shall revert to the general fund at the end of each fiscal year.

(f) Notwithstanding any provision of paragraph (e) of this subsection (3) to the contrary, on June 30, 2012, the state treasurer shall deduct two hundred forty-nine thousand four hundred ninety-four dollars from the debt collection fund and transfer such sum to the general fund.

(g) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, for the 2011-12 fiscal year the general assembly may appropriate moneys in the debt collection fund created in paragraph (e) of this subsection (3) to the department of revenue for the purpose of modifying the program administered through the "Gambling Payment Intercept Act", part 6 of article 35 of this title, to include the collection of unpaid debts due to the state.

(3.5) (a) (I) The controller shall approve disbursements from state funds from the state's central accounting system in accordance with section 24-30-202 (2). If the controller finds that there is an unpaid balance or debt owing to state agency claimants for any of the following, the controller, upon notice of withholding to the payee, shall withhold the amount of the disbursement that does not exceed the amount of the unpaid balance or debt:

(A) Any unpaid child support debt as set forth in section 14-14-104, C.R.S., or child support arrearages that are the subject of enforcement services provided pursuant to section 26-13-106, C.R.S., as certified by the department of human services;

(B) Any unpaid balance of tax, accrued interest, or other charges specified in article 21 of title 39, C.R.S., that is subject to offset under section 39-21-108 (3), C.R.S., and owing by the payee according to the records of the controller;

(C) Any unpaid debt owing to the state or any agency thereof by such payee, the amount of which is found to be owing as a result of a final agency determination or the amount of which has been reduced to judgment as certified by the controller;

(D) Any unpaid loan due to the student loan division of the department of higher education as set forth in section 23-3.1-104 (1) (p), C.R.S., found to be owing to such division by such payee as a result of final agency determination; or

(E) Any amount required to be paid to the unemployment compensation fund pursuant to articles 70 to 82 of title 8, C.R.S., the amount of which has been: Determined to be owing as a result of a final agency determination or judicial decision or that has been reduced to judgment by the division of unemployment insurance in the department of labor and employment; and referred to the controller for collection pursuant to section 8-79-102 (2), C.R.S.

(II) Any moneys withheld for payment of child support debt or child support arrearages pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a) shall be deposited with the state treasurer for disbursement by the department of human services. For all names and amounts certified by the department of human services pursuant to section 26-13-111, C.R.S., the controller shall provide to the department of human services the payees' names and associated amounts deposited with the state treasurer pursuant to this subparagraph (II) and any other identifying information as required by the department of human services.

(III) Any moneys withheld for payment of an unpaid balance of tax, interest, or other charges specified in subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a) and subject to offset under section 39-21-108 (3), C.R.S., shall be deposited with the state treasurer. For all names and amounts submitted by the executive director of the department of revenue pursuant to section 39-21-114 (10), C.R.S., the controller shall provide to said department the payees' names and associated amounts deposited with the state treasurer pursuant to this subparagraph (III).

(IV) Any moneys withheld for payment of an unpaid debt owing to the state pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a) shall be deposited with the state treasurer. For all names and amounts certified by the central collections unit pursuant to this section, the controller shall provide to the central collections unit the payees' names and associated amounts deposited with the state treasurer pursuant to this subparagraph (IV).

(V) All moneys withheld for payment of a student loan division debt pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a) shall be deposited with the state treasurer for disbursement by the state treasurer to the division. For all names and amounts certified by the division pursuant to section 23-3.1-104 (1) (q), C.R.S., the controller shall provide to the division the payees' names and associated amounts deposited with the state treasurer pursuant to this subparagraph (V).

(VI) The controller shall deposit with the state treasurer any moneys withheld for payment of unemployment compensation debt pursuant to subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a), and the state treasurer shall credit the moneys to the unemployment compensation fund. For all names and amounts certified by the division of unemployment insurance pursuant to section 8-79-102 (2), C.R.S., the controller shall provide to the division the payees' names and associated amounts deposited with the state treasurer pursuant to this subparagraph (VI).

(VII) Any approved disbursement in excess of the unpaid balance or debt shall be paid to the approved payee.

(b) In the event that there are debts for unpaid child support, as set forth in section 26-13-111, C.R.S., debts for an unpaid balance of tax, interest, or other charges pursuant to article 21 of title 39, C.R.S., and other debts owing to the state or any agency thereof as set forth in subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (3.5), the amount withheld pursuant to subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (3.5) shall be credited to the unpaid debts and shall be applied first to those unpaid debts in the order they appear in this paragraph (b), and any remaining amounts shall be prorated among other unpaid debts withheld pursuant to subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (3.5) on the basis of the ratio of the amount of each such remaining unpaid debt as compared to the total amount of the remaining unpaid debts.

(c) The controller shall charge for disbursements withheld pursuant to subparagraph (I) of paragraph (a) of this subsection (3.5) and shall credit amounts so collected to the vendor offset implementation fund, which fund is hereby created in the state treasury. The amount of such charges shall be negotiated by the controller with departments using the vendor offset intercept system.

(4) (Deleted by amendment, L. 99, p. 689, § 9, effective August 4, 1999.)

(5) No contract for the collection of state debts under the provisions of this section shall be awarded for a term in excess of that permitted by the provisions of the "Procurement Code", articles 101 to 112 of this title.

(6) Any contract awarded to private counsel or private collection agency shall require that such contractee remain licensed under such contractee's respective occupational licensing statutes or regulations during the term of the contract. Such contract shall require that a private counsel or private collection agency shall at all times act in compliance with the provisions of the "Colorado Fair Debt Collection Practices Act", article 14 of title 12, C.R.S., and in compliance with any rules or regulations promulgated by the executive director.

(7) The controller shall establish specific performance policies and standards for measuring state agency performance in collecting debts due the state.

(8) (a) The department of personnel may add a collection fee to the amount of a debt's principal and accruing interest referred to the state controller pursuant to this section except where other specific statutory authority, requirements under federal programs, or written agreement with the debtor provide otherwise. The department shall determine upon annual review the amount of the collection fee, which shall approximate the reasonable costs incurred by the controller in collecting debts. The collection fee may include a fee to recover the collection costs incurred by either the controller, private counsel, or private collection agencies, but in no case shall the aggregate fee for the controller or private collection agencies exceed twenty-one percent and in no case shall the aggregate fee for private counsel exceed twenty-five percent.

(b) The debtor shall be liable for repayment of the total amount of a debt due to the state, including the collection fee plus allowable fees and costs pursuant to paragraph (c) of this subsection (8) and the delinquency charge pursuant to section 24-79.5-102. Any court-ordered award that is insufficient to cover the total amount outstanding shall be applied first to the principal amount owed, then to court costs, then to attorney fees, then to interest, and then to any delinquency charge.

(c) If such a debt due to the state is litigated and the state prevails, in addition to the collection fee, the debtor shall also be liable for the following:

- (I) Reasonable attorney fees as may be determined by the court;
- (II) Court costs as described in section 13-16-122, C.R.S.; and
- (III) Fees incurred by the state's attorney in processing the litigation and collection of any judgment.

(d) If such a debt due to the state is in the form of a check, draft, or order not paid upon presentment and referred to the department of personnel for collection, the department is entitled, in addition to the collection fee, to collect damages as specified in section 13-21-109 (1) (b) (II) and (2) (a), C.R.S.

(9) Except as provided in the "Colorado Fair Debt Collection Practices Act", article 14 of title 12, C.R.S., within five days after the initial communication with a debtor in connection with the collection of any debt, the controller, private counsel, or private collection agency shall, unless the information is contained in the initial communication or the debtor has paid the debt, send the debtor a written notice with the disclosures specified in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection (9). If such disclosures are placed on the back of the notice, the front of the notice shall contain a statement notifying debtors of that fact. Such disclosures shall state:

(a) The amount of the debt, including an itemization of any fees assessed as provided for in paragraph (a) of subsection (8) of this section; and

(b) The name of the creditor to whom the debt is owed.

ANNOTATION

The general rule is that the failure to exhaust administrative remedies prior to seeking judicial relief is a jurisdictional defect. This is especially true in cases involving tax matters, and thus, if there are complete, adequate, and speedy administrative remedies available for alleged tax irregularities, a taxpayer must exhaust them. Kendal v. Cason, 791 P.2d 1227 (Colo. App. 1990).

Taxpayers' claim that offsets of their tax refunds against their debts violated the statutory scheme because their debts had not been reduced to judgment could have been raised at administrative hearing. Each of the debts involved was under $500 and the taxpayers were given the opportunity for an administrative hearing before the offset as required by this section. Kendal v. Cason, 791 P.2d 1227 (Colo. App. 1990).

24-30-202.7. Lottery winnings offset - definitions. (1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Debtor" means a person who owes an outstanding debt.

(b) "Outstanding debt" means any unpaid debt due to the state that is referred pursuant to section 24-30-202.4 (2) to the state controller or the central collection services section of the division of finance and procurement, or any successor section, in the department of personnel, including the collection fee and any allowable fees and costs pursuant to section 24-30-202.4 (8). "Outstanding debt" does not include any debt collected by the department of personnel for a political subdivision of the state.

(2) Beginning January 1, 2012, the department of personnel shall periodically certify to the department of revenue information regarding debtors with an outstanding debt. Such information shall include the social security number of the debtor, the amount of the debtor's outstanding debt, and any other identifying information required by the department of revenue.

(3) Upon receiving notification from the department of revenue that a lottery cash prize winner appears among those certified by the department of personnel, the department of revenue shall notify the debtor, in writing, that the state intends to offset the debtor's outstanding debt against the debtor's winnings from the state lottery. Such notification shall include information on the debtor's right to object to the offset and to request an administrative review pursuant to the rules of the department of personnel.

(4) Upon notification by the department of revenue of amounts deposited with the state treasurer pursuant to section 24-35-212, the proceeds of the outstanding debt collected shall be accounted for and deposited into the fund or funds required pursuant to section 24-30-202.4 (3) (d).

(5) The executive director of the department of personnel shall promulgate rules pursuant to article 4 of this title establishing procedures to implement this section.

24-30-203. Refunds of money erroneously collected. (1) In all cases not otherwise provided for by specific statute, whenever any money not owed or belonging to the state of Colorado is collected or received by the state of Colorado through mistake either of law or of fact, upon proper showing made to the satisfaction of the head of the department of the state of Colorado which collected or received such money and upon proper voucher drawn by such department head and approved by the governor and controller, the controller is authorized to draw a warrant to refund such money to the person from whom it was collected or received. Such refund shall be made from the fund into which such money was deposited. No refund made under the authority of this section shall be made unless a claim therefor is filed within one year after such money is collected or received by the state of Colorado.

(2) Nothing in this section shall alter, modify, or amend the procedure, time of filing claims, or methods of processing or paying refunds specifically provided for in other statutes.

ANNOTATION

Payments recoverable where claim properly and timely filed. Where a claim is properly and timely filed within this section through an action by a racing association against the state treasurer and the racing commission to recover

"breakage" payments paid under protest, such payments are recoverable. Colo. Racing Comm'n v. Brush Racing Ass'n, 136 Colo. 279, 316 P.2d 582 (1957).

24-30-203.5. Recovery audits - legislative declaration - contracting - reporting - definitions. (1) (a) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(I) Improper payments are a serious problem for state agencies given the magnitude and complexity of state operations;

(II) Improper payments waste state and federal moneys and detract from the efficiency and effectiveness of state agency operations by diverting resources from their intended uses;

(III) An improper payment occurs when a vendor or other entity receives a payment from a state agency in error or in excess of the legal amount to which the vendor or other entity is entitled.

(b) The general assembly further finds and declares that:

(I) Recovery audits are a nationally recognized best practice for disbursements management and provide insight for improving operational efficiency and internal controls in the disbursement of state and federal moneys;

(II) In order to improve the economy and efficiency of state agency operations, it is necessary, appropriate, and in the best interests of the state to require the state controller to contract for recovery audits to recoup improper payments by state agencies of state or federal tax dollars, fees, gifts, grants, donations, and other state and federal moneys not specifically excluded by law or rule; and

(III) Recovery audits will not cost the state any money because the contractor's costs are deducted from any dollars recovered, which makes recovery audits self-funding.

(2) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Consultant" means a private contractor that has recovery audit expertise.

(b) "Improper payment" means a payment by a state agency to a vendor or other entity that is made in error or is in excess of the amount to which the recipient is entitled, including, but not limited to:

(I) A payment to a recipient who does not meet applicable eligibility requirements for receiving the payment;

(II) A duplicate payment;

(III) A payment resulting from an invoice or pricing error;

(IV) A payment resulting from a failure to apply an applicable discount, rebate, or other allowance;

(V) A payment resulting from a failure to comply with a purchasing agreement; and

(VI) A payment resulting from any other inadvertent error.

(c) "Recovery audit" means a financial management technique used to identify improper payments made by a state agency to vendors and other entities in connection with the payment activities of the state agency.

(d) "State agency" has the same meaning as set forth in section 24-3-101. "State agency" does not include a state institution of higher education.

(3) (a) On or before July 1, 2011, the state controller shall contract with one or more experienced consultants to conduct recovery audits for the 2007-08, 2008-09, and 2009-10 fiscal years. On or before July 1, 2011, and on or before July 1 of every third year thereafter, the state controller shall contract with one or more experienced consultants to conduct recovery audits for the period of three fiscal years that ends on the June 30 immediately preceding the applicable July 1 contracting deadline.

(b) A contract with a consultant entered into as required by paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) shall:

(I) Provide for reasonable compensation for the recovery audit services provided under the contract, which, notwithstanding any other provision of law, shall include compensation determined by the application of a specified percentage to the total amount collected by the consultant in the course of the consultant's recovery audit and related collection activities;

(II) Specify limitations on the scope of the powers that may be exercised by the consultant and procedures to be followed by the consultant in conducting recovery audits to the extent deemed necessary and appropriate by the state controller and the consultant to ensure that the due process rights of any person from whom the consultant seeks recovery of an improper payment are adequately protected; and

(III) Require any data or information determined by the state agency being audited to be confidential to be securely transmitted and maintained by the consultant in accordance with the security policies, standards, and guidelines established by the state chief information security officer or the state chief information officer pursuant to section 24-37.5-403.

(c) Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary and except to the extent prohibited by federal law or regulations or by an agreement between the state or a state agency and the federal government, the government of another state, or an agency or other government entity of another state, the state controller or a state agency being subjected to a recovery audit, and any contractor or vendor that has a contract with such a state agency, shall provide a consultant acting under a contract required by paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) with any confidential information in the custody of the state controller, the state agency, or the contractor or vendor that is necessary for the performance of the recovery audit. A consultant acting under such a contract, or any employee or agent of the consultant, is subject to all prohibitions against the disclosure of confidential information obtained from the state or the contractor or vendor in connection with the contract that apply to the state controller, the applicable state agency, the contractor or vendor, or an employee thereof and to all civil or criminal penalties that apply to a violation of any such prohibition.

(4) (a) The state controller shall require recovery audits to be performed on the payments to vendors and other entities made by all state agencies; except that the state controller may, subject to the review provided for in paragraph (b) of this subsection (4), exempt a state agency in whole or in part from the recovery audits otherwise required by this section if the state controller determines that a recovery audit is not likely to yield significant net benefits to the state or that the exempted state agency or portion of a state agency is already subjected to recovery audits under any federal law or regulation or state law, rule, or policy.

(b) For recovery audits for the 2007-08, 2008-09, and 2009-10 fiscal years, the state controller shall provide the state auditor and the legislative audit and joint budget committees with a report by March 1, 2011, that details any exemptions from recovery audits proposed to be allowed by the state controller. For the 2010-11 fiscal year and for any fiscal year thereafter in which the state controller proposes to change the exemptions from recovery audits, the state controller shall provide a report of the proposed changes to the state auditor and the legislative audit and joint budget committees by the March 1 that immediately precedes the execution of one or more recovery audit contracts for the applicable fiscal year. The legislative audit and joint budget committees may veto any exemption from recovery audits proposed by the state controller by majority votes of the members of each of the committees taken before June 30, 2011, and taken before June 30 of each year thereafter in which the state controller proposes a change in the exemptions from recovery audits.

(5) The state controller shall reimburse federal agencies for any amounts recovered from federal programs in accordance with federal statutes, rules, and regulations. The state controller may retain a portion of the net amount recovered due to a recovery audit in order to reimburse the actual administrative costs, including reimbursement paid to other state agencies required by this subsection (5) and additional costs incurred by the state controller in contracting for and providing oversight of the recovery audit. The state controller shall reimburse any state agency that incurs additional costs in relation to the recovery audits for such costs from the portion of any amounts recovered from recovery audits of the state agency.

(6) (a) The state controller shall provide copies, including electronic copies, of any reports received from a consultant performing recovery audits pursuant to this section to:

- (I) The governor;
- (II) The state auditor; and
- (III) The legislative audit and joint budget committees of the general assembly.

(b) The state controller shall provide the copies of reports required by paragraph (a) of this subsection (6) not later than the seventh business day after the date the state controller receives the consultant's report.

(c) Not later than June 30, 2012, and not later than June 30 of every third year thereafter, the state controller shall issue a report to the general assembly summarizing the contents of all reports received from consultants that performed recovery audits contracted for pursuant to this section. The report shall also be posted on the web site of the state controller.

(7) Nothing in this section shall be construed to limit the authority of a governing board of a state institution of higher education to contract for a recovery audit for the institution it governs.

(8) Any moneys collected from a recovery audit pursuant to this section shall be transmitted to the state treasurer and credited to the recovery audit cash fund, which is hereby created in the state treasury. The cash fund shall consist of moneys credited to the cash fund pursuant to this subsection (8) and any other moneys appropriated or transferred to the cash fund by the general assembly. The general assembly shall annually appropriate the moneys in the cash fund to the state controller for the purpose of paying contingent contractor fees, state agency recovery audit costs, and amounts due to the federal government for moneys collected from recovery audits. All interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the cash fund shall be credited to the cash fund. At the completion of each recovery audit cycle, the state controller shall transfer any moneys remaining in the cash fund to the general fund; except that the state controller shall instead transfer moneys remaining in the cash fund to the fund from which the improper payment was originally made if the state constitution specifies the purposes for which the moneys in that fund shall be used or if the improper payment was made with moneys originally received by the state as a fiduciary or as gifts, grants, donations, or custodial funds.

(9) The state controller shall manage all state agency recovery audits conducted pursuant to this section.

24-30-204. Fiscal year. (1) The fiscal year of the state government shall commence on July 1 and end on June 30 of each year. This fiscal year shall be followed in making appropriations and in financial reporting and shall be uniformly adopted by all departments, institutions, and agencies in the state government except the department of transportation, which shall prepare and submit its budget as required by law. Financial statements for the fiscal year shall be submitted by each department, institution, or agency to the controller no later than August 25. The controller shall prepare financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and submit these financial statements to the governor and the general assembly no later than September 20. The controller may grant an extension, not to exceed twenty days, to any department, institution, or agency because of administrative hardship in complying with this section.

(2) (a) For fiscal years commencing on or after July 1, 1992, in addition to the financial statements required pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, all departments, institutions, and agencies in the state government shall submit a quarterly report of financial information to the controller no later than thirty days after the last day of each fiscal year quarter. Such report shall include such financial information as deemed reasonable and necessary by the controller. Such report shall include, but shall not be limited to, sufficient financial information for the controller to determine if such department, institution, or agency is properly crediting monthly revenues and accruals and is properly billing the federal government, in a timely manner, for reimbursement of state moneys expended for federal programs. The controller shall work with all departments to develop a format for such quarterly report of each department, institution, and agency.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), a governing board that implements a capital construction or acquisition project as described in section 23-1-106 (9) or (10), C.R.S., is not required to submit for the project quarterly reports as described in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2).

(3) The official books of the state shall be closed no later than thirty-five days after the end of the fiscal year. As of this date, all adjusted revenue, expenditures, and expense accounts shall be closed into the state accounting system in order to divide the financial details of the state into comparable periods.

24-30-205. Duties of controller. The controller shall be devoted full time to the duties of the office and shall follow no other gainful employment. During the consideration of the budget and appropriation bills by the general assembly, it is the controller's duty, upon demand by either house of the general assembly or any committee thereof, to appear before the same and render any testimony, explanation, or assistance required. The controller shall have the technical and clerical assistance as, in the opinion of the governor, the execution of the controller's duties requires. The controller shall be furnished with suitable office space for the performance of the controller's duties.

24-30-207. Reports of revenue and expenditures.

(1) Repealed.

(2) On or before September 15 of each year, the controller shall prepare and transmit to the executive director of the department of revenue a graphic summary of statewide revenue and expenditures of the state as published in the controller's comprehensive annual financial report. The executive director of the department of revenue shall print such summary each year in a prominent location on the state income tax instruction booklet. The summary shall be for the last complete fiscal year.

(3) For the 1997-98 fiscal year and for each fiscal year thereafter, the controller shall prepare a report for the state ascertaining the amount of uncommitted reserves, as defined in section 24-75-402 (2), credited to each state cash fund, as defined by section 24-75-402 (2) (b). Such report shall be audited by the state auditor. Such report shall be delivered to the office of state planning and budgeting and to the joint budget committee of the general assembly on or before September 20 of each year.

DIVISION OF ADMINISTRATIVE HEARINGS

24-30-1001. Office of administrative courts - administrative courts cash fund - creation. (1) Effective July 1, 2005, there is hereby created the office of administrative courts in the department of personnel, the head of which shall be the executive director of the department of personnel. The office of administrative courts shall exercise its powers, duties, and functions as a type 2 agency.

(2) The executive director of the department of personnel shall establish and maintain administrative offices and courts for the office of administrative courts in Denver, and in the southern region and on the western slope of the state, in addition to such other offices and courts as the executive director deems necessary to carry out the powers, duties, and functions of the office of administrative courts.

(3) The executive director of the department of personnel shall establish any fees or cost allocation billing process necessary to pay for the direct and indirect costs of the office of administrative courts. The department of personnel shall not establish a fee for individuals or beneficiaries that have a right to an administrative hearing without prior approval of the associated state agency and formal rule-making related to the fee pursuant to article 4 of this title. All moneys collected shall be transmitted to the state treasurer, who shall credit the same to the administrative courts cash fund, which fund is hereby created. The moneys in the fund shall be subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly for the direct and indirect costs of the office of administrative courts. All interest derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the fund shall be credited to the fund. Any unexpended and unencumbered moneys remaining in the fund at the end of a fiscal year shall remain in the fund and shall not be credited or transferred to the general fund or any other fund.

24-30-1003. Administrative law judges - appointment - qualifications - standards of conduct. (1) The executive director of the department of personnel may appoint such administrative law judges except those employed pursuant to sections 24-50-103 (7) and 40-2-104, C.R.S., as may be necessary to provide services to each state agency, except the state personnel board and the public utilities commission, entitled to use administrative law judges. Administrative law judges shall be appointed in accordance with the provisions of section 13 of article XII of the state constitution and the laws and rules governing the state personnel system.

(1.5) The director of the office of administrative courts shall appoint and assign administrative law judges to hear particular cases or classes of cases that come before the office of administrative courts in a manner that, in the discretion of such director, is necessary and appropriate to provide services to each state agency.

(2) Any administrative law judge shall meet the same qualifications as a district court judge as provided in section 11 of article VI of the state constitution.

(3) (Deleted by amendment, L. 91, p. 1340, § 57, effective July 1, 1991.)

(4) (a) Administrative law judges appointed pursuant to this section shall be subject to the standards of conduct set forth in the Colorado code of judicial conduct. The performance review plan for each administrative law judge shall include this Colorado code of judicial conduct.

(b) A complaint alleging a violation of the Colorado code of judicial conduct shall be referred to the executive director of the department of personnel who shall investigate the complaint and determine if the administrative law judge violated any canons of the code. Such administrative law judge shall be subject to the disciplinary procedures set forth in rules adopted by the state personnel board.

(c) If the decision is unsatisfactory to any party, an appeal may be made to the board of ethics for the executive branch of state government in the office of the governor.

(d) If the administrative law judge is found by the executive director or the board of ethics to have acted in violation of the canons of the Colorado code of judicial conduct, then the decision shall be made a part of the personnel file of the administrative law judge against whom the complaint was filed.

(5) In addition to the authority set forth in section 24-4-105 or as otherwise provided by law, administrative law judges in the office of administrative courts shall have the power to:

- (a) Issue subpoenas, administer oaths, and control the course of trials and other proceedings before them; and
- (b) Engage in or encourage the use of alternative dispute resolution as appropriate.

PART 11

DIVISION OF CENTRAL SERVICES

24-30-1101. Legislative findings and declarations. (1) The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that:

(a) Services such as printing, document management, mail-related services, microfilm, graphic arts, fleet management, and other similar services are being widely used by the state of Colorado as a practical and economical means of improving administrative production and efficiency;

(b) and (c) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2004, p. 305, § 1, effective August 4, 2004.)

(d) Meeting the service needs of state departments, institutions, and agencies in efficient and economical ways within the resource capabilities of the state is the prime goal of the division of central services policy;

(e) To most effectively utilize resources committed to existing services and to assure the best services at competitive costs to user agencies while preserving the managerial prerogatives and responsibilities assigned to department and agency heads by statute and otherwise, it is necessary to establish central planning, control, and coordination of service activities.

(1) “Cost” means the direct cost of providing goods or services including, but not limited to, the total cost of labor and all related benefits, maintenance costs, materials, provisions, supplies, equipment rentals, equipment purchases, insurance, financing, supervision, engineering, clerical and accounting services, the value of the use of equipment, including its depreciation or replacement value, and an equitable share of other administrative costs not otherwise directly attributable to a particular good or service which may be reasonably apportioned to each particular service in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles and standards.

(2) “Director” or “executive director” means the executive director of the department of personnel.

(3) (Deleted by amendment, L. 96, p. 1497, § 8, effective June 1, 1996.)

(4) “Services” means printing, document management, mail-related services, microfilm, graphic arts, fleet management, and other similar support functions that are or may be used by the state of Colorado as a practical and economical means of improving administrative production and efficiency.

(5) “State agency” means this state or any department, board, bureau, commission, institution, or other agency of the state; except that “state agency” shall not include any state institution of higher education, the Auraria higher education center, or the state board of stock inspection commissioners, created pursuant to section 35-41-101, C.R.S.

(6) (a) “State-owned motor vehicle” means all motor vehicles owned by the state or any agency of the state that shall include all two- and four-wheel drive trucks, all passenger vehicles including cars, vans, station wagons and other similar passenger vehicles, and any other vehicle not described herein that may be designated as a state-owned motor vehicle if a state agency requests such designation; except that “state-owned motor vehicle” shall not include any vehicle rated at one ton or more that is:

(I) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2010, (SB 10-003), ch. 391, p. 1851, § 29, effective June 9, 2010.)

(II) A specialized vehicle used for the purposes of construction or maintenance, and owned, operated, or controlled by the department of transportation.

(b) “State-owned motor vehicle” shall not include any vehicle donated to a specific state agency.

24-30-1104. Central services functions of the department - definitions. (1) Within the counties of Adams, Arapahoe, Boulder, Douglas, Pueblo, El Paso, and Jefferson, the city and county of Broomfield, and the city and county of Denver, and within any other areas in the state of Colorado where central services are offered, the department of personnel shall perform the following functions for the executive branch of the state of Colorado, its departments, institutions, and agencies, under the direction of the executive director:

(a) Formulate, in consultation with state departments, institutions, and agencies, recommendations for a strategic plan for approval of the executive director of the department of personnel and the governor no later than January 1 of 2005 and every five years thereafter;

(b) Review all existing and future services, service applications, software related to services, planning systems, personnel, equipment, and facilities and establish priorities for those that are necessary and desirable to accomplish the purposes of this part 11;

(c) Establish procedures and standards for management of service functions set forth in this part 11 for all state departments, institutions, and agencies;

(d) Establish and maintain facilities as needed to carry out the duties set forth in this part 11, including but not limited to those listed;

(e) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2004, p. 306, § 3, effective August 4, 2004.)

(f) Advise the governor and the general assembly on central services matters;

(g) Prepare and submit such reports as are required by this part 11 or which the governor or the general assembly may request;

(h) Approve or disapprove the acquisition of services, service equipment, and software related to services by any state department, institution, or agency and approve, modify, or disapprove the staffing pattern for service operations by any state department, institution, or agency in accordance with the approved plan;

(i) Continually study and assess service operations and needs of state departments, institutions, and agencies;

(j) Provide services, equipment, and facilities as required pursuant to this part 11 for state departments, institutions, and agencies according to their needs;

(k) Establish, in consultation with other state departments, institutions, and agencies, techniques and standards for microfilm, digital imaging, and digital conversion and evidentiary certification of photographs, microphotographs, or reproductions;

(l) Notify state agencies through written statements, which may include electronic statements, prepared by central services that state agencies may obtain goods and services directly from the private sector, if the cost and quality of such goods or services offered by the private sector are competitive with those provided by central services;

(m) Offer services to any state institution of higher education that chooses to purchase such services. When an institution of higher education intends to purchase a service provided by the department, the institution shall include the department in any solicitation or vendor qualification process for the service. Whenever practicable, institutions of higher education shall seek partnerships with the department for the purpose of procuring services at a cost savings to the institution and the state.

(1.5) The department of personnel shall establish a rule providing for a waiver to a state agency of subsection (1) of this section when the state agency can procure the services described in this part 11 at a net cost savings to the state.

(2) In addition to the county-specific functions set forth in subsection (1) of this section, the department of personnel shall take such steps as are necessary to fully implement a central state motor vehicle fleet system by January 1, 1993. The provisions of the motor vehicle fleet system created pursuant to this subsection (2) shall apply to the executive branch of the state of Colorado, its departments, its institutions, and its agencies; except that the governing board of each institution of higher education, by formal action of the board, and the Colorado commission on higher education, by formal action of the commission, may elect to be exempt from the provisions of this subsection (2) and may obtain a motor vehicle fleet system independent of the state motor vehicle fleet system. Under the direction of the executive director, the department of personnel shall perform the following functions pertaining to the motor vehicle fleet system throughout the state:

(a) Establish and operate a central state motor vehicle fleet system and such subsidiary-related facilities as are necessary to provide for the efficient and economical use of state-owned motor vehicles by state officers and employees;

(b) Establish and operate central facilities for the maintenance, repair, and storage of state-owned passenger motor vehicles for the use of state agencies; utilize any available state facilities for that purpose; and enter into contracts with such facilities as are necessary to carry out the provisions of this part 11;

(c) (I) Adopt uniform rules for motor vehicle acquisition, operation, maintenance, repair, and disposal standards. Uniform rules adopted by the executive director of the department of personnel pertaining to acquisition of motor vehicles by lease or purchase shall provide that low energy consumption shall be a favorable factor in determining the low responsible bidder. The size of any passenger motor vehicle shall not be greater than necessary to accomplish its purpose.

(II) By January 1, 2008, the executive director shall adopt a policy to significantly increase the utilization of alternative fuels and that establishes increasing utilization objectives for each following year. To encourage compliance with this policy, the rules promulgated pursuant to this paragraph (c) may establish progressively more stringent percentage mileposts and shall, for fiscal years commencing after July 1, 2004, require the collection of data concerning the annual percentage of state-owned bi-fueled vehicles that were fueled exclusively with an alternative fuel. For the years commencing on January 1, 2008, and January 1, 2009, the executive director shall purchase flexible fuel vehicles or hybrid vehicles, subject to availability, unless the increased cost of such vehicle is more than ten percent over the cost of a comparable nonflexible fuel vehicle. Beginning on January 1, 2010, the executive director shall purchase motor vehicles that operate on compressed natural gas, subject to their availability and the availability of adequate fuel and fueling infrastructure, unless the increased base cost of such vehicle or the increased life-cycle cost of such vehicle is more than ten percent over the cost of a comparable nonflexible fuel vehicle. If the executive director does not purchase a motor vehicle that operates on compressed natural gas because of its cost, he or she shall purchase another type of flexible fuel vehicle or a hybrid vehicle, subject to availability, unless the increased cost of such vehicle is more than ten percent over the cost of a comparable nonflexible fuel vehicle. The executive director shall adopt a policy to allow some vehicles to be exempted from this requirement. During the second regular session of the sixty-seventh general assembly in 2010, the executive director shall report simultaneously to the transportation committee of the senate and the transportation and energy committee of the house of representatives, or any successor committees, detailing the key financial decision points and analysis that led to the executive director's determination to purchase or decline to purchase motor vehicles that operate on natural gas as required by this subparagraph (II). As used in this subparagraph (II):

(A) "Flexible fuel vehicle" means any dedicated flexible-fuel or dual-fuel vehicle designed to operate on at least one alternative fuel.

(B) "Hybrid vehicle" means a motor vehicle with a hybrid propulsion system that uses an alternative fuel by operating on both an alternative fuel, including electricity, and a traditional fuel.

(III) For purposes of this paragraph (c):

(A) "Alternative fuel" has the meaning established in section 25-7-106.8, C.R.S.

(B) "Bi-fueled vehicle" means a motor vehicle, which may be purchased to comply with applicable federal requirements including, but not limited to, the federal "Energy Policy Act of 1992", 42 U.S.C. sec. 13257, and 42 U.S.C. sec. 7587, that can operate on both an alternative fuel and a traditional fuel or that can operate alternately on a traditional fuel and an alternative fuel.

(C) "Biodiesel" means fuel composed of mono-alkyl esters of long chain fatty acids derived from plant or animal matter that meet ASTM specifications and that is produced in Colorado.

(IV) (A) By January 1, 2007, the director shall adopt a policy that all state-owned diesel vehicles and equipment shall be fueled with a fuel blend of twenty percent biodiesel and eighty percent petroleum diesel, subject to availability and so long as the price is no greater than ten cents more per gallon than the price of diesel fuel. The director shall provide for the proper administration, implementation, and enforcement of the policy.

(B) Repealed.

(d) (I) Require that all state agencies transfer custody of certificates of title to all state-owned motor vehicles that are owned by such agencies to the department of personnel for the purpose of compiling complete data on all motor vehicles owned by the state;

(II) Require that all motor vehicles presently owned by state agencies be entered into the state fleet management program. Per-mile costs for the program shall be determined by criteria established by the department of personnel.

(III) (Deleted by amendment, L. 96, p. 1498, § 10, effective June 1, 1996.)

(IV) Require that any department, institution, or agency of the executive branch of the state that owns, operates, or controls vehicles that are not part of the central state motor vehicle fleet system provide the department of personnel with information requested by the department for the purpose of compiling complete data on all motor vehicles owned by the state.

(e) Require that all vehicles purchased after July 1, 1992, shall be owned by the department of personnel and leased and permanently assigned to state agencies. Purchases shall be based on specifications as requested by the state agency in cooperation and consultation with the department of personnel and the motor vehicle advisory council.

(f) Maintain, store, repair, dispose of, and replace state-owned motor vehicles under the control of the department of personnel. The department of personnel shall ensure that state-owned motor vehicles are not routinely replaced until they meet the replacement criteria relating to mileage, cost, safety, and other relevant factors established by the department.

(g) Establish and maintain a centralized record-keeping system for the acquisition, operation, maintenance, repair, and disposal of all motor vehicles in the fleet;

(h) Assign suitable transportation, either on a temporary or permanent basis to any state agency upon: Proper requisition; proper showing of need for use on authorized state business; or approved commuting as provided in section 24-30-1113;

(i) Establish and maintain a record-keeping system for the assignment and use of each vehicle in the motor fleet, which shall include:

(I) Verification from the executive director of a state agency or the executive director's designee that any employee driving a state vehicle has a valid driver's license;

(II) A statement of the authorized state business or other approved purpose for which the vehicle is assigned;

(III) Any other information which the director determines is necessary to carry out the purposes and provisions of this part 11;

(j) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2004, p. 306, § 3, effective August 4, 2004.)

(k) Allocate and charge against each state agency to which transportation is furnished, on the basis of mileage or on the basis of the period of time for which each vehicle is assigned to the agency, its proportionate part of the cost of maintenance and operation of the motor vehicle fleet;

(l) Enforce such rules and regulations as may be adopted by the director pursuant to the provisions of this part 11;

(m) Delegate or conditionally delegate to the respective heads of agencies to which state-owned motor vehicles are permanently assigned such duties as may be designated by the director for the enforcement of all or part of the rules and regulations adopted by the department of personnel;

(n) Require state agencies, officers, and employees to keep all records and make all reports regarding state-owned motor vehicle use as provided in rules and regulations adopted by the department of personnel;

(o) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2004, p. 306, § 3, effective August 4, 2004.)

(p) Negotiate and enter into contracts for the purchase or lease of such personal property as is deemed necessary to achieve the purposes and provisions of this part 11;

(q) Adopt an annual operating budget;

(r) Supervise and be responsible for the expenditure of moneys appropriated to carry out the purposes and provisions of this part 11;

(s) Exercise any other powers or perform any other duties that are reasonably necessary for the fulfillment of the powers and duties assigned to the department of personnel pursuant to this part 11; and

(t) Require that the federal environmental protection agency mile-per-gallon rating for all motor vehicles purchased for the state-owned motor vehicle fleet on or after January 1, 2007, meet or exceed the average fuel efficiency standards as established pursuant to the federal "Energy Policy and Conservation Act", 15 U.S.C. sec. 2001, et seq., recodified as 49 U.S.C. sec. 32901 et seq.

(3) Repealed.

(4) In addition to any other duties imposed by this section, the department of personnel shall establish and maintain a program for parking permits and building and grounds maintenance for the state capitol buildings group pursuant to part 1 of article 82 of this title.

24-30-1105. Powers of the executive director - penalties. (1) In order to perform the duties and functions set forth in this part 11, the executive director of the department of personnel shall, in relation to departments, institutions, and agencies of the executive branch:

(a) Approve the equipment, software related to services, and facilities with which specific services shall be performed by or for any state department, institution, or agency in accordance with the approved plan;

(b) Prescribe standards governing the selection and operation of service equipment by or for any state department, institution, or agency;

(c) Adopt such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the purposes and provisions of this part 11;

(d) Contract for such services as the department of personnel may require for purposes of this part 11;

(e) Require such reports from other departments, institutions, and agencies as may be necessary;

(f) Recommend to the governor the transfer of funds, equipment, supplies, and personnel from existing departments, institutions, and agencies to the department of personnel or to such other agency as may be necessary to accomplish the purposes of this part 11, such transfer to be effective upon the approval by the governor;

(g) Certify for evidentiary purposes as true copies of the originals, before the originals are destroyed or lost, photographs, microphotographs, or reproductions on film created by the department of personnel. Such certified photographs, microphotographs, or reproductions shall have the same legal force and effect as if certified by the original custodian of the records.

(h) In performance of such microfilm services as may be requested by the custodians of the types of documents referred to in this paragraph (h):

(I) Have rights of reasonable access in person or through employees to all types of nonconfidential documents in the possession of the state of Colorado, its departments, institutions, or agencies;

(II) Have rights of reasonable access in person or through specifically designated employees to all types of confidential documents in the possession of the state of Colorado, its departments, institutions, or agencies;

(III) Assist custodians of documents upon which microfilm, digital imaging, and digital conversion services have been performed in the lawful disposition of such documents pursuant to section 24-80-103;

(i) Have power to enter into contracts with other governmental entities in the state of Colorado for the purpose of furnishing services;

(j) Establish policies jointly with the supreme court of the state of Colorado for the expungement and sealing of official state records with a view to the technical and evidentiary problems attendant to expungement or sealing of photographs, microphotographs, and reproductions.

(2) (a) Except in accordance with judicial order or as otherwise provided by law, the executive director or the employees of the department of personnel shall not divulge or make known in any way any information disclosed in any confidential document to which the employees have access in performing the duties specified in this part 11.

(b) Officials or employees of the state who violate this subsection (2) are guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be punished by a fine of not less than five hundred dollars nor more than five thousand dollars, or by imprisonment in the county jail for not less than six months nor more than two years, or by both such fine and imprisonment. Such persons shall, in addition to these penalties, be subject to removal or dismissal from public service on grounds of malfeasance in office.

24-30-1108. Revolving fund - service charges - pricing policy. (1) There is hereby created a department of personnel revolving fund for use in acquiring such materials, supplies, labor, and overhead as are required. Moneys collected and deposited in the fund shall be from state and local government user fees and from rebates, including, but not limited to, rebates from car rentals, travel agencies, lodging, and travel cards. The fund shall be under the direction of the executive director.

(2) Users of department services shall be charged the full cost of the particular service, which shall include the cost of all material, labor, and overhead.

(3) The executive director shall have a pricing policy of remaining competitive with or at a lower rate than private industry in the operation of any service function which the executive director establishes.

(4) The executive director shall keep a full, true, and accurate record of the costs of providing each particular service.

(5) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, on April 20, 2009, the state treasurer shall deduct two million three hundred thousand dollars from the capitol complex facilities fund, which is an account within the department of personnel revolving fund, and transfer such sum to the general fund.

24-30-1112. Permanent assignment of vehicles - verification of minimum mileage - revocation. (1) Unless an agency can justify to the division the need for permanent assignment because of the unique use of a vehicle, a state-owned passenger motor vehicle shall not be permanently assigned to:

(a) Any agency, state officer, or state employee, if the use of such vehicle is not likely to meet the minimum required mileage established by the department of personnel for the utilization classification associated with the vehicle's intended work function unless:

(I) The state officer's or employee's duties are routinely related to public safety; and

(II) The state officer's or employee's duties are likely to expose such officer or employee routinely to life-threatening situations.

(2) The division shall establish a program and adopt rules and regulations providing for annual verification that each permanently assigned motor vehicle has met the minimum required mileage based on the appropriate utilization classification. If verification establishes that a vehicle has not met the minimum annual mileage rate and if the responsible state agency cannot justify such lower mileage, permanent assignment shall be revoked immediately.

(3) The division shall adopt rules and regulations governing the procedure for revocation of assignment of state-owned motor vehicles. Revocation of assignment shall occur when it has been determined that:

(a) The vehicle has been used for other than official business, or without the state agency executive director's approval as provided in section 24-30-1113;

(b) Required reports have not been filed or reports which have been filed fail to meet the standards established in rules and regulations adopted by the division for the filing of such reports and such deficiencies are not cured within thirty days after receiving notification from the division of such deficiency;

(c) False information has knowingly and willfully been supplied on an application for permanent assignment, commuting reimbursement form, or other required report or form;

(d) An individual required to do so fails to sign all reports or forms submitted for vehicles permanently assigned and fails to cure the deficiency within thirty days after receiving notification from the division of such deficiency;

(e) That a state-owned motor vehicle has been abused; or

(f) That a violation of other rules or regulations promulgated by the division has occurred which warrants revocation of assignment as specified in the rules and regulations adopted by the division.

(4) New requisitions for assignment of vehicle following the revocation of assignment shall not be honored until the division is assured that the violation for which a vehicle was previously revoked will not recur.

24-30-1113. Commuting - reimbursement by state officers and employees. (1) Except as provided in this section, the state agency shall not assign any state-owned motor vehicle to an officer or employee of a state agency for any reason other than as necessitated by the conduct of official state business.

(2) The use of state-owned motor vehicles for commuting purposes by officers and employees of state agencies between official work stations and residences may be authorized by the state agency's executive director where the state agency's executive director determines that such use is based on rules and regulations promulgated by the division and which includes:

- (a) Promotion of a legitimate nonpartisan state interest;
- (b) Promotion of the efficient operation of the state motor vehicle fleet system; and
- (c) Is cost-effective to the state agency.

(3) A determination by the director that commuting purposes meet the criteria for commuting authorization shall be based on review and verification of written application forms and supporting documentation submitted in the manner provided in rules and regulations adopted by the division.

(4) (a) Any individual who has received the state agency executive director's authorization to use a state-owned motor vehicle for commuting purposes shall reimburse the state for such use at a rate computed by the division. This rate shall approximate the benefit derived from the use of the vehicle. Reimbursement shall be for twenty days per month regardless of how many days the individual uses the vehicle to commute during the month. Reimbursement shall be made as provided by rule.

(b) Unless provided by rule, no exceptions shall be made to the reimbursement provisions of this subsection (4).

24-30-1114. Restrictions on assignment of vehicles. (1) Requisitions for assignment or reassignment of state-owned motor vehicles shall not be honored when the purpose of the assignment or reassignment is to provide a newer or lower mileage vehicle to a state officer or employee on the basis of rank, position, management authority, length of service, or other nonessential purpose.

(2) Special use vehicles, including but not limited to four-wheel drive and law enforcement vehicles, shall be assigned only to those agencies and individuals authorized or otherwise designated by the division to operate such vehicles.

24-30-1115. Motor fleet management fund - creation. (1) There is hereby created a fund to be known as the motor fleet management fund, which shall be administered by the department of personnel and which shall consist of all moneys which may be transferred thereto in accordance with section 24-30-1104 (2) (k) or 24-30-1113 (4).

(2) The moneys in the fund shall be subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly for the purposes of this part 11. Any moneys not appropriated shall remain in the fund and shall not be transferred to or revert to the general fund of the state at the end of any fiscal year. Subject to severe budget constraints and annual appropriation, a portion of the state motor fleet shall be replaced each year. The number of motor vehicles to be replaced annually shall be based on a methodology provided by the department of personnel and approved by the general assembly.

(3) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, on April 20, 2009, the state treasurer shall deduct one million dollars from the motor fleet management fund and transfer such sum to the general fund.

(4) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, on April 15, 2010, the state treasurer shall deduct three hundred ninety-seven thousand one hundred forty-three dollars from the motor fleet management fund and transfer such sum to the general fund.

PART 12

PRODUCTS AND SERVICES OF PERSONS WITH SEVERE DISABILITIES

24-30-1201. Definitions. As used in this part 12, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Direct labor" means all work required for preparing, processing, and packing products and all work required for providing services, but the term does not include supervision, administration, inspection, or shipment.

(2) "Nonprofit agency for persons with severe disabilities" means a private nonprofit organization established under the laws of the United States or this state which is operated in the interest of individuals who are severely impaired, the net income of which does not inure in whole or in part to the benefit of any shareholder, officer, or other individual, and which, in the production of commodities and in the provision of services, employs during its fiscal year severely impaired individuals for not less than seventy-five percent of the man-hours of direct labor required for the production of commodities or for the provision of services.

(3) "Public agency" means any public office, officer, department, commission, institution, or bureau, any agency, division, or unit within a department or office, or any other public authority of this state. "Public agency" shall not include any municipality, county, school district, special district, nor any other political subdivision of the state.

(4) "Severe disability" means one or more physical or mental disabilities which constitute a substantial impairment to employment and which are of such a nature as to require multiple vocational rehabilitation services over an extended period of time.

Source: L. 79: Entire part added, p. 877, § 1, effective July 1. L. 87: Entire section repealed, p. 349, § 4, effective July 1.

24-30-1203. Purchasing requirements. (1) In order to provide preferential treatment to the products and services of nonprofit agencies for persons with severe disabilities, public agencies shall purchase such products and services directly from said agencies in accordance with applicable specifications of the department of personnel and of local purchasing officials for other public agencies. Whenever such products and services are available at a price determined to be reasonable by the appropriate purchasing official, the price shall recover for the nonprofit agency for persons with severe disabilities the cost of all materials, labor, and overhead, including delivery expenses, incurred in the production of products or the provision of services by such nonprofit agency.

(2) Notwithstanding any other provision of this part 12, no purchase shall be made of any product or service that does not conform to the standards and specifications necessary for the purpose for which the product or service is required.

24-30-1204. Cooperation between state agencies. In furtherance of the purposes of this part 12 and in order to contribute to the economy of state government, it is the intent of the general assembly that there be close cooperation among the department of personnel, the division of correctional industries in the department of corrections, and any other agency of this state from which procurement of products or services is required under any law of this state. The committee, the division of correctional industries, and any other similar agency of this state are authorized to enter into such agreements, cooperative working relationships, or other arrangements as may be determined to be necessary for effective coordination and efficient realization of the objectives of this part 12 and any other similar procurement law of this state. The department of personnel may secure, directly from any agency, division, or department of this state, any information which is necessary to enable it to carry out the provisions of this part 12.

PART 13

STATE BUILDINGS

24-30-1301. Definitions. As used in this part 13, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Capital construction" means:

(a) Purchase of land, regardless of the value thereof;

(b) Purchase, construction, or demolition of buildings or other physical facilities, including utilities, or remodeling or renovation of existing buildings or other physical facilities, including utilities, to make physical changes necessitated by changes in the program, to meet standards required by applicable codes, to correct other conditions hazardous to the health and safety of persons which are not covered by codes, to effect conservation of energy resources, to effect cost savings for staffing, operations, or maintenance of the facility, or to improve appearance;

(c) Site improvement or development;

(d) Purchase and installation of the fixed and movable equipment necessary for the operation of new, remodeled, or renovated buildings and other physical facilities and for the conduct of programs initially housed therein upon completion of the new construction, remodeling, or renovation;

(e) Purchase of the services of architects, engineers, and other consultants to prepare plans, program documents, life-cycle cost studies, energy analyses, and other studies associated with any capital construction project and to supervise the construction or execution of such capital construction projects;

(f) Any item of instructional or scientific equipment if the cost will exceed fifty thousand dollars; except that "capital construction" includes the purchase of instructional or scientific equipment by a state institution of higher education or by the Auraria higher education center created in article 70 of title 23, C.R.S., only if the institution or the center uses moneys appropriated pursuant to section 24-75-303 to purchase the instructional or scientific equipment.

(2) (a) "Controlled maintenance" means:

(I) Corrective repairs or replacement used for existing state-owned, general-funded buildings and other physical facilities, including, but not limited to, utilities and site improvements, which are suitable for retention and use for at least five years, and replacement and repair of the fixed equipment necessary for the operation of such facilities, when such work is not funded in an agency's operating budget to be accomplished by the agency's physical plant staff;

(II) That controlled maintenance funds may not be used for:

(A) Corrective repairs or replacement for buildings and other physical facilities and replacement or repair of the fixed and movable equipment necessary for the operation of physical facilities, when such work is funded in an agency's operating budget to be accomplished by the agency's physical plant staff; for the repair and replacement of fixed and movable equipment necessary for the conduct of programs (such repair and replacement is funded as capital outlay); or for rented or leased facilities or facilities constructed and maintained by self-liquidating property funds. Minor maintenance items shall not be accumulated to create a controlled maintenance project, nor shall minor maintenance work be accomplished as a part of a controlled maintenance project unless the work is directly related.

(B) Any work properly categorized as capital construction or capital outlay.

(b) "Controlled maintenance" may include the purchase of the services of architects, engineers, and other consultants to investigate conditions and prepare recommendations for the correction thereof, to prepare plans and specifications, and to supervise the execution of such controlled maintenance projects as provided by appropriation by the general assembly.

(3) "Department" means the department of personnel.

(4) "Economic life" means the projected or anticipated useful life of a facility.

(5) "Energy consumption analysis" means the evaluation of all energy-consuming systems and components by demand and type of energy, including the internal energy load imposed on a facility by its occupants, equipment, and components and the external energy load imposed on the facility by climatic conditions.

(6) "Executive director" means the executive director of the department of personnel.

(7) "Facility" means any public building or facility of the state but does not include highways. "Facility" also includes an academic or auxiliary facility that qualifies for controlled maintenance as specified in section 23-1-106 (10.2), C.R.S.

(7.5) "High performance standard certification program" means a building renovation, design, and construction standard that:

(a) Is quantifiable, measurable, and verifiable as certified by an independent third party;

(b) Reduces the operating costs of state-assisted facilities by reducing the consumption of energy, water, and other resources;

(c) Results in the recovery of the increased initial capital costs attributable to compliance with the program over a time period by reducing long-term energy, maintenance, and operating costs;

(d) Improves the indoor environmental quality of state-assisted facilities for a healthier work environment;

(e) Encourages the use of products harvested, created, or mined within Colorado, regardless of product certification status;

(f) Protects Colorado's environment; and

(g) Complies with the federal secretary of the interior's standards for the treatment of historic properties when such work will affect properties fifty years of age or older, unless the state historical society, designated in section 24-80-201, determines that such property is not of historical significance, as that term is defined in section 24-80.1-102 (6).

(8) "Initial cost" means the required cost necessary to construct a facility or construct or renovate a major facility.

(9) "Life-cycle cost" means the cost alternatives, over the economic life of a facility, including its initial cost, the cost of the energy consumed, replacement costs, and the cost of operation and maintenance of the facility.

(10) "Major facility" means any building or facility of twenty thousand or more gross square feet and wherein significant energy demands will exist.

(11) "Principal representative" means the governing board of a state department, institution, or agency or, if there is no governing board, the executive head of a state department, institution, or agency, as designated by the governor or the general assembly.

(12) "State agency" means this state or any department, institution, or other agency of the state, including institutions of higher education.

(13) "State-assisted facility" means a facility constructed, or a major facility constructed or renovated, in whole or in part, with state funds or with funds guaranteed or insured by a state agency; except that, for purposes of section 24-30-1305 (9):

(a) "State-assisted facility" means a facility that:

(I) Is substantially renovated, designed, or constructed with state funds or with funds guaranteed or insured by a state agency and such funds constitute at least twenty-five percent of the project cost;

(II) Contains five thousand or more gross square feet;

(III) Includes a heating, ventilation, or air conditioning system; and

(IV) Has not entered the design phase prior to January 1, 2008.

(b) "State-assisted facility" does not include:

(I) A facility specified in section 23-1-106 (9), C.R.S.; or

(II) A publicly-assisted housing project, as that term is defined in section 24-32-718.

(III) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2008, p. 1307, § 1, effective August 5, 2008.)

(14) "State facility" means a facility constructed, or a major facility constructed or renovated, by a state agency.

(15) "Substantial renovation" means any renovation the cost of which exceeds twenty-five percent of the value of the property.

24-30-1302. State buildings - transfer. (1) The powers, duties, and functions of the office of state planning and budgeting relating to state buildings are transferred by a type 2 transfer to the department of personnel.

(2) Effective July 1, 1979, the officers and employees of the office of state planning and budgeting engaged prior to such date in the performance of the powers, duties, and functions vested by this part 13 in the department shall become employees of the department and shall retain all rights to state personnel system and retirement benefits under the laws of this state, and their services shall be deemed to have been continuous. Effective July 1, 1979, all of the books, records, reports, equipment, property, accounts, liabilities, and funds of the office of state planning and budgeting which pertain to the powers, duties, and functions vested by this part 13 in the department shall be transferred thereto.

(3) Whenever the powers, duties, or functions vested by this part 13 are referred to in any other statute or in any contract or other document and designate the former division of public works, or its predecessor, or the office of state planning and budgeting, such designation shall be deemed to apply solely to the department of personnel.

24-30-1303. Department of personnel - responsibilities. (1) The department shall:

(a) With the approval of the governor, negotiate and execute leases on behalf of the state government for land, buildings, and office or other space and, as provided in section 24-82-102 (2), negotiate and execute leases of state-owned property not presently needed for state use;

(b) With the approval of the governor, negotiate and approve easements and rights-of-way across nonstate land on behalf of the state government and, as provided in section 24-82-202, negotiate and approve easements and rights-of-way across land owned by or under the control of the state or its institutions, departments, or agencies;

(c) Repealed.

(d) Supervise and be responsible for the expenditure of funds appropriated by the general assembly for capital construction projects and controlled maintenance projects at the institutions and agencies of the state;

(e) Maintain a current record of balances by project in the capital construction and controlled maintenance funds;

(f) Cause to be developed and enforced methods of internal control, on standardized basis within individual state agencies, that will assure compliance with appropriations provisions and executive orders;

(g) Repealed.

(h) Develop, or cause to be developed, with the approval of the governor, specific standards relating to office space, to architectural, structural, mechanical, and electrical systems in such office space, and to energy conservation in such office space, except in higher education as provided in section 23-1-106, C.R.S., which shall be the basis for approving facilities master plans, facility program plans, schematic designs, design development phases, and construction documents relating to the lease, acquisition, or construction of office space; except that such standards shall be approved by the president of the senate and the speaker of the house of representatives when they concern space, systems, or energy conservation in that portion of the capitol buildings group which is under the jurisdiction of the general assembly;

(i) Develop a construction procedures manual for state facilities and state-assisted facilities, with the approval of the governor;

(j) Develop, or cause to be developed, standards of inspection, with the approval of the governor, which shall be the basis of all inspections and be responsible for assuring the uniform inspection of construction projects by the state agencies, utilizing such resources as may be locally available, in conjunction with the architect, engineer, or consultant;

(k) Coordinate initiation of budget requests for those capital construction projects for which the executive director shall be designated as principal representative by the governor;

(k.5) Coordinate initiation of budget requests for controlled maintenance projects and make recommendations concerning such requests to the capital development committee and to the office of state planning and budgeting. In the event that a controlled maintenance request exceeds approximately five hundred thousand dollars, the executive director may require the department making the request to prepare a feasibility study or program plan for the request. The executive director may establish guidelines or criteria for such feasibility study or program plan.

(l) Develop, or cause to be developed, after consultation with the office of state planning and budgeting pursuant to section 24-37-201, standards for the preparation of current facilities master plans coordinated with operational master plans, and facility program plans coordinated with operational program plans for each state institution and agency, except state schools, colleges, and universities as provided in section 23-1-106, C.R.S., for review and recommendation by the capital development committee;

(m) Repealed.

(n) (I) (Deleted by amendment, L. 94, p. 567, § 20, effective April 6, 1994.)

(II) Develop, or cause to be developed, methods of control on a standardized basis for all state agencies to ensure conformity of physical planning with approved building codes and of construction with approved physical planning.

(o) (Deleted by amendment, L. 94, p. 567, § 20, effective April 6, 1994.)

(p) Develop and maintain, or cause to be developed and maintained, at state agencies approved lists of qualified architects, industrial hygienists, engineers, landscape architects, land surveyors, and consultants from which the principal representative shall make a selection, including therein such information as may be required by part 14 of this article;

(q) Develop and maintain, or cause to be developed and maintained, at state agencies, approved lists of qualified contractors to bid on construction projects and promulgate rules and regulations as may be necessary for contractor prequalification processes for bidding on construction projects;

(r) Promulgate rules for independent third-party review of facility program plans, schematic design, design development, and construction documents to assure compliance with appropriate building codes, approved construction standards, and the appropriation and to assure the review of cost estimates prior to authorization of the calling of bids for compliance with the appropriation. In the event the executive director or his designee, after such review, finds that facility program plans, schematic design, design development, or construction documents do not comply with approved construction standards and the appropriation or that cost estimates do not comply with the appropriation, he shall immediately notify the principal representative in writing of his findings and make appropriate recommendations. Upon receipt of such notice, the principal representative shall take action as necessary to implement the recommendations and bring the project into compliance, continuing or modifying plans, designs, construction documents, or cost estimates as the case may be.

(s) (I) Promulgate rules and regulations for the administration of the bid procedure and acceptable methods for determining the lowest responsible bidder;

(II) In cooperation with the project architect, engineer, or consultant, be responsible for the administration of the bid procedure for state agencies without staff capability and perform such additional functions as the department may determine;

(III) When directly responsible for the bid procedure, recommend the lowest responsible bid to the principal representative, after consultation with the project architect, engineer, or consultant;

(IV) Promulgate, with the assistance of the attorney general and the state controller, standardized contract language for agreements between architects, engineers, or consultants and state agencies and language for construction contracts between contractors or construction managers and state agencies;

(V) Review and approve modifications to such standard contract language;

(t) (I) Review and make recommendations on capital construction project requests, if requested by the office of state planning and budgeting or the capital development committee;

(II) Be responsible for the preparation of the state's controlled maintenance budget request and submit recommendations for the same to the office of state planning and budgeting and the capital development committee;

(u) and (v) Repealed.

(w) Develop and maintain, or cause to be developed and maintained, life-cycle cost analysis methods for state facilities and state-assisted facilities and, prior to beginning construction, assure that such methods are reviewed by an independent third party to ensure compliance with sections 24-30-1304 and 24-30-1305. The department shall review and approve specific exceptions to systems selected for construction, which systems are not found to be the best choice on a life-cycle basis.

(x) and (y) Repealed.

(z) Establish minimum building codes, with the approval of the governor and the general assembly after the recommendations and review of the capital development committee, for all construction by state agencies on state-owned or state lease-purchased properties or facilities. At the discretion of the department, said codes may apply to state-leased facilities where local building codes may not exist.

(aa) Repealed.

(bb) Develop and maintain a list of the information required to be included in facility management plans and updates submitted pursuant to section 24-30-1303.5 (3.5);

(cc) Develop procedures for the submission of facility management plans and updates pursuant to section 24-30-1303.5 (3.5); and

(dd) Review facility management plans and updates submitted pursuant to section 24-30-1303.5 (3.5) and submit a report regarding such plans and updates to the office of state planning and budgeting and the capital development committee.

(ee) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2009, (SB 09-292), ch. 369, p. 1967, § 75, effective August 5, 2009.)

(2) The provisions of subsection (1) of this section shall not apply to lands under the jurisdiction of the state board of land commissioners or to leases of land held by the division of parks and wildlife.

(3) (a) All buildings and facilities, except public roads and highways and projects under the supervision of the division of parks and wildlife, erected for state purposes shall be constructed in conformity with a construction procedures manual for state facilities and state-assisted facilities prepared by the department and approved by the governor. Such construction shall be made only upon plans, designs, and construction documents that comply with approved state standards and rules promulgated pursuant to this section.

(b) Projects under the supervision of the division of parks and wildlife that are excluded from paragraph (a) of this subsection (3), shall:

(I) Maintain a current record of balances by capital project, including but not limited to:

(A) Planned budgets, actual expenditures, and additions or deletions to and components of projects; and

(B) Items categorized for professional services, construction or improvement, contingencies, and moveable equipment.

(II) Report the current record of balances by capital project on or before September 15, 2001, not less than one time annually on or before each September 15 thereafter to the office of state planning and budgeting, the joint budget committee, and the capital development committee.

(4) When the principal representative is a legislative agency, the principal representative may request, and the department shall provide to the principal representative within five working days of such request, a progress report of the department's actions undertaken as of the date of the request towards completion of any of the department's duties set forth in subsection (1) of this section.

(5) (a) The department may delegate to state agencies any or all of the responsibilities and functions outlined in this part 13 and the department's responsibilities and functions under part 14 of this article, pursuant to rules and regulations promulgated by the department, when the state agency has the professional or technical capability on staff to perform such functions competently.

(b) The department may authorize state agencies to hire private construction managers to supervise the capital construction projects. The cost of such construction manager shall be paid from moneys appropriated for the specific capital construction projects. This subsection (5) (b) shall not apply to projects under the supervision of the department of transportation.

(c) If the executive director determines that the governing board of a state institution of higher education has adopted procedures that adequately meet the safeguards set forth in the requirements of part 14 of this article and article 92 of this title, the executive director may exempt the institution from any of the procedural requirements of part 14 of this article and article 92 of this title in regard to a capital construction project to be constructed pursuant to the provisions of section 23-1-106 (9) or (10), C.R.S.; except that the selection of any contractor to perform professional services as defined in section 24-30-1402 (6) shall be made in accordance with the criteria set forth in section 24-30-1403 (2).

(d) Upon application by any state agency that demonstrates internal expertise related to the leasing and acquisition of commercial real property, the department may delegate an individual employed by the state agency to act on behalf of the department in the performance of the responsibilities and functions described in paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section. The delegation authorized pursuant to this paragraph (d) may include, with the consent of the department, the authority to waive the use of the department-approved real estate lease form or real estate lease amendment form.

24-30-1303.1. Code appeals board - creation - duties. (1) There is hereby created the code appeals board. The board shall consider code variances necessary for buildings of various types and ages in the state's building inventory.

(2) (a) The board shall be composed of five members appointed by the director of the department. The director may remove any member for misconduct, incompetence, or neglect of duty. Board members shall be Colorado residents and shall be Colorado licensed architects, Colorado registered engineers, or officials certified by the international conference of building officials. The board shall have at least one architect, one engineer, and one member who is an official certified by the international conference of building officials. Three of the five board members shall not be state employees. Effective July 1, 1990, one member shall serve for a three-year term, but, of the appointments to be made effective July 1, 1990, one member who is not a state employee shall serve an initial two-year term, and one member who may be a state employee shall serve an initial two-year term, and one member who is not a state employee shall serve an initial one-year term, and one member who may be a state employee shall serve an initial one-year term. Thereafter, all appointments shall be for three-year terms. Any vacancy occurring in the membership of the board shall be filled by the director of the department for the unexpired term of such member.

(b) The department shall provide such clerical or other assistance as is necessary for the proper performance of the work of the board and shall, from funds appropriated for coordination of construction, reimburse board members for expenses as may be allowable by state fiscal rules.

(c) A majority of the members shall constitute a quorum, and no official action shall be taken at any meeting of the board unless a quorum is present.

(d) Technical analysis and assistance which the board may require to consider a code appeal shall be provided by the appellant.

(3) Any member of the board or witnesses or consultants appearing before the board shall be immune from suit in any civil action based upon any proceeding performed in good faith.

(4) (a) The provisions of section 24-34-104, concerning the termination schedule for regulatory bodies of the state, unless extended as provided in that section, are applicable to the state code appeals board created by this section.

(b) The board, annually in the month of July, shall elect from the membership thereof a president, vice-president, and secretary-treasurer. The board shall meet at least once a month and at such other times as it deems necessary.

(c) The board is authorized:

(I) To adopt and, from time to time, revise such rules and regulations not inconsistent with the law as may be necessary to enable it to carry into effect the provisions of this article. In adopting such rules and regulations, the board shall establish procedures for conducting its business and shall render all decisions and findings in writing to the appellant with a duplicate copy to the director of the department.

(II) To consider and rule at the request of an appellant on questions of interpretation of state capital construction projects;

(III) To consider and rule, on the basis of procedures described in published national standards, on questions of life safety equivalence where the requirements of an adopted building code are judged to be impractical to implement or which are judged to present a significant hardship on state capital construction projects. The board shall require any such life safety equivalence approaches, which may be proposed in lieu of an adopted building code requirement on state capital construction projects, to be rigorously justified by the appellant on the basis of industry practice, sound life safety engineering, and existing precedent.

(5) Nothing contained in this section shall prohibit the creation, pursuant to rules promulgated by the board, of similarly constituted boards at institutions and agencies of higher education.

24-30-1303.5. Department to prepare and maintain inventory of state property - vacant facilities. (1) The department shall obtain and maintain a correct and current inventory of all real property, with improvements thereon, owned by or held in trust for the state of Colorado or any state department, agency, or institution, including state institutions of higher education, and, in cooperation with the attorney general, correct any defects in title to said real property necessary to vest marketable title in the state. For purposes of this section, "real property" does not include land or any interest therein acquired by the department of transportation and used, or intended to be used, for right-of-way purposes, nor does "real property" include the public lands of the state which are subject to the jurisdiction of the state board of land commissioners.

(2) Such inventory shall be comprised of sufficient information to identify such property with respect to which unit of state government has control thereof, where such property is located, and when and from what source the property was acquired, including subsequent improvements. The department shall establish and maintain an accurate index system which will assure that inquiries as to the location and control of all such property will be promptly answered.

(3) The department shall establish procedures whereby each state department, agency, or institution, including each state institution of higher education, is required to report all acquisitions of real property, including improvements, and all dispositions thereof to the department to enable the inventory to be promptly and accurately maintained with respect to such changes. The report shall consist of a copy of each purchase or sale agreement pertaining to the acquisition or disposition of real property, including improvements, or, if such agreements are not available, such other documents describing the terms and conditions of the transaction as the department finds to be appropriate in order to maintain the information required by subsection (2) of this section. For each transaction involving the acquisition or disposition of real property, the state department, agency, or institution shall also provide to the department a copy of the deed pertaining to the real property after the deed has been recorded.

(3.5) (a) With respect to all real property owned by or held in trust for the state of Colorado or any state department, agency, or institution, including state institutions of higher education, each state department, agency, or institution shall identify any vacant facility under its control. As used in this section, "vacant" means:

- (I) Unoccupied;
- (II) Unused in whole or in part for the purposes for which the improvement was designed, intended, or remodeled; or
- (III) Without current defined plans by the state department, agency, or institution for the next fiscal year.

(b) For any facility that becomes vacant after July 1, 2003, the state department, agency, or institution shall be required to submit for the approval of the department a facility management plan consistent with the procedures established by the department. The state department, agency, or institution shall submit the facility management plan to the department within thirty days after the facility becomes vacant. In addition to any other information required by the department, the facility management plan shall include the following:

- (I) A financial analysis of the possible uses of the facility;
- (II) Any plans for the disposal of the facility through sale, lease, demolition, or otherwise;
- (III) If the state department, agency, or institution does not intend to dispose of the facility during the next fiscal year, a plan for the proposed controlled maintenance, if any, necessary to avoid the deterioration of the vacant facility; and
- (IV) Whether the facility has or is eligible to receive a national, state, or local historic designation or listing.

(c) (I) For each year after the department approves a facility management plan, the state department, agency, or institution shall submit an annual facility management plan update consistent with the procedures established by the department. The update shall be submitted on or before November 1 of the year following the approval of a facility management plan and each November 1 thereafter until such time that the facility is no longer vacant. In addition to any other information required by the department, the update shall identify all actions taken by the state department, agency, or institution within the last year consistent with the facility management plan. If based on the update or on any other information known by the department, the department determines that the state department, agency, or institution has failed to comply with the provisions of an approved facility management plan, the department may revoke the approval of the facility management plan. If the department revokes approval of the facility management plan, a state department, agency, or institution shall be required to submit a new facility management plan for the vacant facility subject to the provisions of this subsection (3.5).

(II) In addition to any other requirements of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (c), the facility management plan update shall describe any changes proposed by the state department, agency, or institution to the facility management plan. Any proposed changes to the facility management plan shall be subject to the approval of the department, and any approved changes shall become part of the facility management plan for purposes of future updates.

(d) Any facility management plan or update required to be submitted by a state institution of higher education pursuant to this subsection (3.5) shall be submitted to the Colorado commission on higher education instead of the department. The commission shall submit a copy of the facility management plan or update and the commission's recommendations regarding it to the department.

(e) Repealed.

(f) No state department, agency, or institution shall be eligible for any capital construction appropriations until the department approves a facility management plan for all vacant facilities controlled by the state department, agency, or institution; except that the capital development committee may exempt a state department, agency, or institution from the provisions of this paragraph (f).

(4) For purposes of maintaining a current inventory, no acquisition or disposition of real property may be made and no funds or other valuable consideration may be given by a state department, agency, or institution for such acquisition, nor may any final document of conveyance of state property be transmitted to a purchaser, until a complete report on such transaction as required pursuant to subsection (3) of this section has been filed with the department and the department has issued a written acknowledgment of the receipt of such report to the agency. Such written acknowledgment shall be issued without delay, and nothing in this section shall be construed to give the department any power to approve or disapprove any acquisition or disposition of real property, improvements thereon, or other capital assets.

(5) In addition to obtaining and maintaining a correct and current inventory of all real property, with improvements thereon, the department shall also establish a separate inventory of computer equipment and all other capital assets valued in excess of one hundred thousand dollars, owned by or held in trust for the state of Colorado or any state department, agency, or institution, including state institutions of higher education. Such capital assets inventory shall be maintained and kept current in the same manner as specified by subsections (3) and (4) of this section for real property and improvements thereon.

(5.5) The department shall cause to be developed performance criteria for state real property. An analysis shall be made upon selected real property against such performance criteria to assess whether such real property should be considered for sale or other disposition, if such real property is not performing and is determined not to be of sound investment value, or should be held for an identified future state need. The department may contract to maintain such inventories, develop such performance criteria, and perform such analysis and may enter exclusive brokerage agreements on behalf of state executive agencies to the extent necessary to accomplish the maintenance of such inventory and such analysis. The department shall make recommendations to the capital development committee regarding various real property management strategies resulting from such analysis. This subsection (5.5) shall not apply to property which is subject to the provisions of section 43-1-106 (8) (n), C.R.S.

(6) The department shall prepare an annual report of the acquisitions and dispositions of property subject to this section and make the report available to the members of the capital development committee. Such report shall include a description of such property and its present use and value.

24-30-1303.7. Controlled maintenance projects - flexibility in administering appropriations. (1) When the actual cost of a controlled maintenance project exceeds the amount specifically appropriated for such project in the annual general appropriation act or when an emergency need arises for a new controlled maintenance project, the executive director may eliminate one or more projects authorized by appropriation in the general appropriation act and utilize the savings to cover such additional cost or the cost of the emergency project. When the actual cost of a controlled maintenance project is less than the amount specifically appropriated for such project in the annual general appropriation act, the executive director may apply such savings to other appropriated controlled maintenance projects.

(2) and (3) Repealed.

24-30-1303.9. Eligibility for state controlled maintenance funding - legislative declaration. (1) The office of the state architect shall develop guidelines in order to establish when a state-owned, general-funded building or other physical facility is eligible for controlled maintenance funding. The guidelines shall address the timing of such eligibility with respect to the dates on which acquisition, construction, additions, renovations, or corrective repairs of a state-owned, general-funded building or other physical facility occurred.

(2) The guidelines shall be annually reviewed and approved by the capital development committee.

(3) The guidelines shall provide for a waiver of eligibility requirements that a state agency or state institution of higher education may request in writing. If the state architect determines that special consideration is appropriate, he or she shall seek approval from the capital development committee.

(4) The guidelines shall be posted on the web site of the office of the state architect.

(5) Notwithstanding the eligibility requirements specified in this section, if a need arises for emergency controlled maintenance funding, the state agency or state institution of higher education shall communicate such need to the state architect in writing, and the state architect, in his or her discretion, may use moneys in the emergency controlled maintenance account created in section 24-75-302 (3.2) to fund such emergency controlled maintenance need. The state architect shall annually provide an emergency controlled maintenance funding status report to the capital development committee that shows spending for emergency controlled maintenance projects from the emergency controlled maintenance account.

24-30-1304. Life-cycle cost - legislative findings and declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds:

(a) That state-owned and state-assisted facilities have a significant impact on the state's consumption of energy;

(b) That energy conservation practices adopted for the design, construction, and utilization of these facilities will have a beneficial effect on the state's overall supply of energy;

(c) That the cost of the energy consumed by these facilities over the life of the facilities must be considered, in addition to the initial cost of constructing such facilities; and

(d) That the cost of energy is significant, and facility designs must take into consideration the total life-cycle cost, including the initial construction cost, the cost, over the economic life of the facility, of the energy consumed, replacement costs, and the cost of operation and maintenance of the facility, including energy consumption.

(2) The general assembly declares that it is the policy of this state to insure that energy conservation practices are employed in the design of state-owned and state-assisted facilities. To this end the general assembly requires all state agencies to analyze the life-cycle cost of each facility constructed, or each major facility constructed or renovated, over its economic life, in addition to the initial construction or renovation cost.

24-30-1305. Life-cycle cost - application - high performance standards - report.

(1) The general assembly authorizes and directs that state agencies shall employ design and construction methods for state facilities and design and construction methods for state-assisted facilities under their jurisdiction, in such a manner as to further the policy declared in section 24-30-1304, insuring that life-cycle cost analyses and energy conservation practices are employed in new state-owned and state-assisted facilities and in new or renovated major state-owned and state-assisted facilities.

(2) The life-cycle cost analysis shall include but not be limited to such elements as:

(a) The coordination, orientation, and positioning of the facility on its physical site;

(b) The amount and type of fenestration employed in the facility;

(c) Thermal performance and efficiency characteristics of materials incorporated into the facility design;

(d) The variable occupancy and operating conditions of the facility, including illumination levels;

(e) Architectural features which affect energy consumption; and

(f) An energy consumption analysis of a major facility's heating, ventilating, and air conditioning system, lighting system, and all other energy-consuming systems. The energy consumption analysis of the operation of energy-consuming systems in the major facility should include but not be limited to:

(I) The comparison of two or more system alternatives;

(II) The simulation or engineering evaluation of each system over the entire range of operation of the major facility for a year's operating period; and

(III) The engineering evaluation of the energy consumption of component equipment in each system considering the operation of such components at other than full or rated outputs.

(3) The life-cycle cost analysis performed for each major facility shall provide but not be limited to the following information:

(a) The initial estimated cost of each energy-consuming system being compared and evaluated;

(b) The estimated annual operating cost of all utility requirements, including consideration of possible escalating costs of energy. The department may rely on any national or locally appropriate fuel escalating methodology approved by the department in performing life-cycle cost analyses.

(c) The estimated annual cost of maintaining each energy-consuming system;

(d) The average estimated replacement cost for each system expressed in annual terms for the economic life of the major facility; and

(e) (I) The use of biofuel to provide supplemental or exclusive heating, power, or both for the major facility. For a renovation of a major facility, the cost analysis regarding the use of biofuel shall consider any stranded utility costs.

(II) As used in this paragraph (e), "biofuel" means nontoxic plant matter consisting of agricultural or silvicultural crops or their byproducts, urban wood waste, mill residue, slash, or brush.

(4) The life-cycle cost analysis shall be certified by a licensed architect or professional engineer, or by both architect and engineer, particularly qualified by training and experience for the type of work involved.

(5) In order to protect the integrity of historic buildings, no provision of section 24-30-1304 or this section shall be interpreted to require such analysis with respect to any property eligible for, nominated to, or entered in the national register of historic places, designated by statute, or included in an established list of places compiled by the state historical society.

(6) Selection of the optimum system or combination of systems to be incorporated into the design of state facilities and state-assisted facilities shall be based on the life-cycle cost analysis over the economic life of the facility, unless a request for an alternative system is made and approved by the department prior to beginning construction.

(7) The principal representatives of all state agencies shall be responsible for implementing the provisions of this section and the policy established in section 24-30-1304.

(8) The provisions of section 24-30-1304 and this section shall not apply to municipalities or counties nor to any agency or department of any municipality or county.

(9) (a) The office of the state architect, or an analogous successor office in the department, shall, in consultation with the Colorado commission on higher education, adopt and update from time to time a high performance standard certification program.

(b) A state agency or department controlling the substantial renovation, design, or new construction of a state-assisted facility shall, pursuant to the program adopted in paragraph (a) of this subsection (9), perform the substantial renovation, design, or new construction to achieve the highest performance certification attainable as certified by an independent third party pursuant to the high performance standard certification program. For purposes of this paragraph (b), a certification is attainable if the increased initial costs of the substantial renovation, design, or new construction, including the time value of money, can be recouped from decreased operational costs within fifteen years.

(c) (I) If the state agency or department estimates that such increased initial costs will exceed five percent of the total cost of the substantial renovation, design, or new construction, the general assembly's capital development committee shall specifically examine such estimate before approving any appropriation for the substantial renovation, design, or new construction.

(II) If a state-assisted facility undergoing substantial renovation cannot achieve high performance due to either the historical nature of the building or because the increased costs of renovating the state-assisted facility cannot be recouped from decreased operational costs within fifteen years, an accredited professional shall assert in writing that, as much as possible, the substantial renovation has been consistent with the high performance standard certification program.

(III) Any design or new construction of a facility of less than five thousand square feet that is, but for its size, otherwise subject to this section and minor renovation and controlled maintenance of such facilities and facilities that are subject to this section shall be executed to the high performance standards adopted in the high performance standard certification program even if high performance certification is not sought at that time.

(IV) A state-assisted facility may be exempted from complying with this section upon a determination by the executive director that extenuating circumstances exist such as to preclude the implementation of this subsection (9).

(d) The department shall report annually to the general assembly's capital development committee regarding contracting documents, project guidelines, and reporting and tracking procedures related to the implementation of this subsection (9).

24-30-1306. Acceptance of gifts and grants. The department, with the approval of the governor, is specifically empowered to receive and expend all grants, gifts, and bequests, where such grants, gifts, or bequests involve no state funds for acquisition, construction, or operation, including federal funds available for the purposes for which the department exists, and to contract with the United States and all other legal entities with respect thereto. The department may provide, where such funds are specifically appropriated, matching funds wherever funds, grants, gifts, bequests, and contractual assistance are available on such basis. The department shall provide such information, reports, and services as may be necessary to secure such financial aid.

24-30-1307. Legislative declaration. The purpose of this part 13 is to allow the department of personnel to develop the policies and standards for state agencies to follow for the major renovation or new construction of state facilities and to allow the department of personnel to delegate the authority to implement such policies and standards to the individual state agencies. It is not the purpose of this part 13 to require state agencies to add FTEs or incur additional expenditures to implement the provisions of this part 13.

NEGOTIATION OF CONSULTANTS' CONTRACTS

24-30-1401. Legislative declaration. The purpose of this part 14 is to provide managerial control by the state over competitive negotiations for the acquisition of the professional services provided by architects, industrial hygienists, engineers, landscape architects, and land surveyors. It is hereby declared to be the policy of this state to publicly announce requirements for such professional services, to encourage all qualified persons to put themselves in a position to be considered for a contract, and to negotiate contracts for such professional services on the basis of demonstrated competence and qualification for the types of professional services required and on the basis of the furnishing of such professional services at fair and reasonable fees.

Source: L. 79: Entire part added, p. 890, § 1, effective July 1. L. 97: Entire section amended, p. 108, § 2, effective March 24.

24-30-1402. Definitions. As used in this part 14, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Certified industrial hygienist" means an individual that is certified by the American board of industrial hygiene or its successor.

(1.5) "Continuing contract" means a contract for professional services entered into pursuant to this part 14 between a state agency and a person, whereby the person provides professional services to the state agency for work of a specified nature as outlined in the contract required by the state agency with no specific time limitation. Any such contract shall provide a termination clause.

(2) "Department" means the department of personnel.

(2.2) “Industrial hygienist” means an individual who has obtained a baccalaureate or graduate degree in industrial hygiene, biology, chemistry, engineering, physics, or a closely related physical or biological science from an accredited college or university. The special studies and training of such individual shall be sufficient in the cognate sciences to provide the ability and competency to:

(a) Anticipate and recognize the environmental factors and stresses associated with work and work operations and to understand their effects on individuals and their well-being;

(b) Evaluate on the basis of training and experience and with the aid of quantitative measurement techniques the magnitude of such environmental factors and stresses in terms of their ability to impair human health and well-being;

(c) (I) Prescribe methods to prevent, eliminate, control, or reduce such factors and stresses and their effects.

(II) Any individual who has practiced within the scope of the meaning of industrial hygiene for a period of not less than five years immediately prior to July 1, 1997, is exempt from the degree requirements set forth in this subsection (2.2).

(III) Any individual who has a two-year associate of applied science degree in environmental science from an accredited college or university and in addition not less than four years practice immediately prior to July 1, 1997, within the scope of the meaning of industrial hygiene is exempt from the degree requirements set forth in this subsection (2.2).

(3) “Person” means an individual, a corporation, a limited liability company, a partnership, a business trust, an association, a firm, or any other legal entity.

(3.5) “Practice of industrial hygiene” means the performance of professional services, including but not limited to consulting, investigating, sampling, or testing in connection with the anticipation, recognition, evaluation, and control of those environmental factors or stresses arising in or from the workplace that may cause sickness, impaired health, or significant discomfort to workers or the public. “Practice of industrial hygiene” includes but is not limited to the identification, sampling, and testing of chemical, physical, biological, and ergonomic stresses and the development of physical, administrative, personal protective equipment, and training methods to prevent, eliminate, control, or reduce such factors and stresses and their effects. The term does not include the practice of architecture, as defined in section 12-25-302 (6), C.R.S., or the practice of engineering, as defined in section 12-25-102 (10), C.R.S.

(4) “Practice of landscape architecture” means the performance of professional services such as consultation, investigation, reconnaissance, research, planning, design, or responsible supervision in connection with the development of land areas or land use, where and to the extent that the dominant purpose of any such service is the preservation and development of existing and proposed land features, ground surface, planting, naturalistic features, and esthetic values. “Practice of landscape architecture” includes the design, location, and arrangement of such tangible objects and features as are incidental and necessary to the purposes outlined in this subsection (4), but the term does not include the making of land surveys or final engineered plats for official recording, integration of design of structures of earth, or other construction materials.

(5) “Principal representative” means the governing board of a state department, institution, or agency or, if there is no governing board, the executive head of a state department, institution, or agency, as designated by the governor or the general assembly.

(6) “Professional services” means those services within the scope of the following:

(a) The practice of architecture, as defined in section 12-25-302 (6), C.R.S.;

(b) The practice of engineering, as defined in section 12-25-102 (10), C.R.S.;

(c) The practice of professional land surveying, as defined in section 12-25-202 (6), C.R.S.;

(d) The practice of landscape architecture, as defined in subsection (4) of this section;

(e) The practice of industrial hygiene, as defined in subsection (3.5) of this section.

(7) “State agency” means this state or any department, board, bureau, commission, institution, or other agency of this state.

24-30-1403. Professional services - listings - preliminary selections. (1) Any person desiring to provide professional services to a state agency shall annually submit to the department a statement of qualifications and performance data and such other information as may be required by the department. The department may request such person to update such statement before the anniversary date in order to reflect changed conditions in the status of such person.

(2) (a) For each proposed project for which professional services are required, the principal representative of the state agency for which the project is to be done shall evaluate current statements of qualifications and performance data on file with the department and shall conduct discussions with no less than three persons regarding their qualifications, approaches to the project, abilities to furnish the required professional services, anticipated design concepts, and use of alternative methods of approach for furnishing the required professional services. The principal representative shall then select, in order of preference, no less than three persons ranked in order and deemed to be most highly qualified to perform the required professional services after considering, and based upon, such factors as the ability of professional personnel, past performance, willingness to meet time and budget requirements, location, current and projected work loads, the volume of work previously awarded to the person by the state agency, and the extent to which said persons have and will involve minority subcontractors, with the object of effecting an equitable distribution of contracts among qualified persons as long as such distribution does not violate the principle of selection of the most highly qualified person. In selection pursuant to this section, Colorado firms shall be given preference when qualifications appear to be equal. All selections are subject to approval by the principal representative, and all contracts between the principal representative and such selected professionals shall be consistent with appropriation and legislative intent.

(b) The requirements of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) shall not apply to the state board of land commissioners, established in article 1 of title 36, C.R.S., in connection with contract expenditures from the state board of land commissioners investment and development fund created in section 36-1-153, C.R.S.

24-30-1404. Contracts. (1) The principal representative shall negotiate a contract with the highest qualified person providing professional services for such services at compensation which the principal representative determines in writing to be fair and reasonable. In making such decision, the principal representative shall take into account the estimated value of the services to be rendered and the scope, complexity, and professional nature thereof. For all lump-sum or cost-plus-a-fixed-fee professional service contracts, the principal representative shall require the firm receiving the award to execute a certificate stating that wage rates and other factual unit costs supporting the compensation to be paid by the state agency for the professional services are accurate, complete, and current at the time of contracting. Any professional service contract under which such a certificate is required shall contain a provision that the original contract price and any additions thereto shall be adjusted to exclude any significant sums by which the principal representative determines the contract price had been increased due to inaccurate, incomplete, or noncurrent wage rates and other factual unit costs. All such contract adjustments shall be made within one year following the end of the contract.

(2) If the principal representative is unable to negotiate a satisfactory contract with the person considered to be the most qualified at a price the principal representative determines to be fair and reasonable, negotiations with that person shall be formally terminated. The principal representative shall then undertake negotiations with the second most qualified person. If the principal representative fails to negotiate a contract with the second most qualified person, the principal representative shall formally terminate such negotiations. The principal representative shall then undertake negotiations with the third most qualified person.

(3) Upon completion of negotiations with the third most qualified person, the principal representative shall be allowed to enter into renegotiations with any or all of the three most qualified persons to arrive at a satisfactory contractual arrangement, if possible. The principal representative shall have the authority to reject all bids and restructure or redesign the proposed project.

(4) Each contract for professional services entered into by the principal representative shall contain a prohibition against contingent fees as follows: The architect, or professional land surveyor, or professional engineer, or landscape architect, as applicable, warrants that he has not employed or retained any company or person, other than a bona fide employee working solely for him, to solicit or secure this contract and that he has not paid or agreed to pay any person, company, corporation, individual, or firm, other than a bona fide employee working solely for him, any fee, commission, percentage, gift, or other consideration contingent upon or resulting from the award or the making of this contract.

(5) Upon any violation of this section, the principal representative shall have the right to terminate the contract without liability and, at its discretion, to deduct from the contract price, or otherwise recover, the full amount of such fee, commission, percentage, or consideration.

(6) Nothing in this part 14 shall be construed to prohibit continuing contracts between persons providing professional services and state agencies. All selections, contracts, and negotiations undertaken pursuant to this part 14 and all processes and procedures in connection with such matters shall be in conformity with this part 14.

(7) (a) Except as provided in paragraphs (b), (c), (e), (f), and (g) of this subsection (7), any professional services contract entered into pursuant to the provisions of this part 14 shall be executed and encumbered within six months after the date on which the appropriation that includes the project for which the professional services are required becomes law. If no professional services contract is required for a particular project, the contract with the contractor for the project shall be entered into within six months after the appropriation. If a state agency determines that the nature of a particular project is such that the deadlines imposed by this section cannot be met, the state agency may request the capital development committee to recommend to the controller that the deadline be waived for that project. The controller, in consultation with the capital development committee, may grant a waiver from such deadlines. This subsection (7) shall not apply to projects under the supervision of the department of transportation. This subsection (7) shall not affect any priority established pursuant to section 24-35-210 (11) in the general appropriation act for expenditures for projects to be financed from net lottery proceeds appropriated for capital construction.

(b) The deadlines established in paragraph (a) of this subsection (7) shall apply to projects funded with net lottery proceeds, but the six-month period shall begin to run only when an agency receives a distribution from such proceeds for a particular project.

(c) This subsection (7) shall not apply to:

(I) Maintenance, repair, and improvement projects included in the capital construction section of the general appropriation act or in any supplemental appropriation act for the division of parks and wildlife in the department of natural resources;

(II) The acquisition of any easement by the division of parks and wildlife in the department of natural resources;

(III) Grants for off-highway vehicle trail purposes made pursuant to section 33-14.5-106, C.R.S.;

(IV) Projects included in the capital construction section of the general appropriation act for the hazardous materials and waste management division in the department of public health and environment, or in any supplemental appropriation act, which projects are listed as remediation pursuant to the federal "Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act of 1980", 42 U.S.C. sec. 9601 et seq., as amended, brownfields redevelopment, or natural resource damage repair, replacement, or restoration.

(d) The provisions of this subsection (7) shall not be construed to limit the authority of any state agency to amend a contract in order to provide for technical corrections, provision of unanticipated work, extensions of performance periods, or other modifications which are necessary to secure satisfactory completion of the work and provision of goods and services within the scope of the original contract.

(e) In the event that the governor restricts or delays the expenditure of moneys for a project for which a professional services contract is required pursuant to the authority granted the governor in section 24-75-201.5, the running of the six-month deadline imposed in paragraph (a) of this subsection (7) for such projects shall be tolled until such time as the restriction or delay is no longer in effect.

(f) In the event that an appropriation is made to a state agency for allocation to other state agencies, the six-month period shall apply to the execution and encumbrance of a contract by the agency receiving the allocation and shall begin to run from the date of the allocation by the agency that received the original appropriation. Nothing in this paragraph (f) shall be construed to extend the duration of any appropriation.

(g) This subsection (7) shall not apply to:

(I) A capital construction project at an institution of higher education, including the Auraria higher education center established in article 70 of title 23, C.R.S., that is to be constructed solely from cash funds held by the institution or federal funds made available for the project or a combination of the cash funds and the federal funds; or

(II) The state board of land commissioners, established in article 1 of title 36, C.R.S., in connection with contract expenditures from the state board of land commissioners investment and development fund created in section 36-1-153, C.R.S.

24-30-1405. Public notice. When professional services are required to be contracted for, public notice shall be given by the state agency if the basic construction cost of the project is estimated by the state agency to be more than one million dollars or if the fee for professional services is estimated to exceed one hundred thousand dollars. The public notice shall be given at least fifteen days prior to the selection of the three or more most highly qualified persons by the principal representative pursuant to section 24-30-1403 (2), and, except for projects under the supervision of the department of transportation, the public notice shall be given no later than eight weeks after the date on which the appropriation for the project becomes law. The public notice shall be given by publication at least once in one or more daily newspapers of general circulation in this state. The public notice shall contain a general description of the proposed project and shall indicate the procedure by which interested persons may apply for consideration for the contract.

24-30-1406. Criminal liability. (1) Any person, other than a bona fide employee working solely for a person providing professional services, who offers, agrees, or contracts to solicit or secure for any other person state agency contracts for professional services and who, in so doing, receives any fee, commission, gift, or other consideration contingent upon or resulting from the making of the contract commits a class 3 felony and shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-401, C.R.S.

(2) Any person providing professional services who offers to pay or does pay any fee, commission, gift, or other consideration contingent upon or resulting from the making of a contract for professional services with a state agency commits a class 1 misdemeanor and shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-501, C.R.S.

(3) Any state agency official or employee who solicits or secures or offers to solicit or secure a contract for professional services with a state agency and who is paid any fee, commission, gift, or other consideration contingent upon the making of such contract commits a class 1 misdemeanor and shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-501, C.R.S.

DIVISION OF RISK MANAGEMENT

24-30-1501. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly recognizes that the general liability and automobile liability insurance policies of the state of Colorado have been cancelled, that no responsive bids were received, and that, as a direct result, the governor called an extraordinary session of the general assembly to address the need for a method to protect the state and its employees against claims brought under the "Colorado Governmental Immunity Act", article 10 of this title, and arising under federal law. The general assembly further recognizes that the consequences of uninsured liability of the state, including failure to respond to meritorious claims in a timely fashion and greater ultimate costs of settlement caused by failure to investigate claims in an orderly and timely manner, are undesirable. The general assembly hereby declares, therefore, that the appropriate remedy is to create a reserve fund for purposes of self-insurance of the state. The general assembly declares that the purpose of this part 15 is to create a self-insurance fund, provide a mechanism for claims adjustment, investigation, and defense, and authorize the settlement and payment of claims and the payment of judgments rendered against the state. The general assembly also recognizes that no responsible bids have been received for property insurance policies for the state of Colorado and that a method for covering loss or damage to state property is needed. The general assembly hereby declares that the appropriate remedy is to create a reserve for purposes of self-insurance of the state for loss or damage to state property. The general assembly declares that its intent is to explore, on an annual basis, the availability of commercial liability insurance policies and property damage insurance policies, considering the possibility that the insurance industry can provide coverage in the future that is less expensive than the costs of operating a risk management system and paying for claims out of the risk management fund and out of the self-insured property fund.

(2) The general assembly recognizes that liability claims arising prior to September 15, 1985, exist for which no commercial insurance coverage is available. The general assembly hereby finds and declares that the risk management system will provide an appropriate remedy for such claims and that the department of personnel should be authorized to administer such claims.

(3) The general assembly also recognizes that the provision of workers' compensation insurance for state employees has become expensive. The general assembly hereby finds and declares that the administration of workers' compensation for state employees out of a separate account in the risk management fund as a self-insurance measure is an appropriate response to the high cost of workers' compensation insurance.

24-30-1502. Definitions. As used in this part 15, unless the context otherwise requires:

- (1) "Board" means the state claims board created in section 24-30-1508.
- (2) Repealed.
- (3) "Executive director" means the executive director of the department of personnel.
- (4) "Final money judgment" means any judgment for monetary damages against the state after all appropriate appeals of such judgment have been exhausted.
- (4.3) "Liability protection" means professional liability protection for damages from any negligent professional act, error, or omission on the part of the members of the board of supervisors of each local conservation district.
- (4.5) "Property" means both real property as defined in section 39-1-102 (14), C.R.S., and personal property as defined in section 39-1-102 (11), C.R.S. For purposes of the self-insured property fund, "personal property" means personal property owned by the state of Colorado or personal property leased by the state of Colorado for which the state is required to provide insurance under the terms of a lease or lease-purchase agreement. For purposes of the self-insured property fund, "personal property" does not include aircraft owned by the state of Colorado or vehicles licensed for use on highways or roads. For purposes of the self-insured property fund, "real property" means buildings owned by the state of Colorado or buildings leased by the state of Colorado for which the state is required to provide insurance under the terms of a lease or lease-purchase agreement.

(5) (a) "State agency" means any principal department of the state, any state agency, institution, or hospital, any board, commission, advisory board, or other entity established by law within or as an advisory to any existing state department, institution, or agency, and any state-supported institution of higher education or other instrumentality thereof, except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (5) and in section 24-30-1517 (2), and the legislative and judicial departments of the state. The term also includes the Colorado state fair authority created pursuant to section 35-65-401, C.R.S., and any conservation district organized and certified pursuant to article 70 of title 35, C.R.S.; except that, in the case of conservation districts, such inclusion under the risk management fund is only for the purpose of liability protection as defined in subsection (4.3) of this section.

(b) The governing board of each institution of higher education, including the Auraria higher education center established in article 70 of title 23, C.R.S., by formal action of the governing board, and the Colorado commission on higher education, by formal action of the commission, may elect to be excluded from the meaning of "state agency" pursuant to this subsection (5) and may obtain a risk management program independent of the program created pursuant to this part 15. Nothing in this paragraph (b) shall be construed to affect the exempt status of any institution in the university of Colorado system, including the university of Colorado at Boulder, Denver, and Colorado Springs, and the university of Colorado health sciences center, from the state risk management system pursuant to section 24-30-1517 (2), or to require the governing board of any such institution in the university of Colorado system to take formal action in order to be exempt from the definition of "state agency".

(6) "Workers' compensation" means protection afforded to a state employee pursuant to articles 40 to 47 of title 8, C.R.S.

24-30-1503.5. Risk management system - independent program. (1) If an institution of higher education, the Auraria higher education center established in article 70 of title 23, C.R.S., or the Colorado commission on higher education elects to be excluded from the meaning of "state agency" and to obtain an independent risk management program pursuant to section 24-30-1502 (5) (b), such institution, center, or commission shall conduct an analysis of the institution's, center's, or commission's ability to provide workers' compensation and the estimated property and liability losses, insurance costs, and administrative costs of risk management that the institution, center, or commission will incur by implementing an independent program.

(2) Before any institution of higher education, the Auraria higher education center established in article 70 of title 23, C.R.S., or the Colorado commission on higher education implements an independent risk management program, the institution, center, or commission, as applicable, shall submit a written report detailing the findings of the analysis conducted pursuant to subsection (1) of this section to the president of the senate, the speaker of the house of representatives, the majority and minority leaders of the senate and the house of representatives, the members of the joint budget committee, the members of the business affairs and labor committee in the house of representatives, or any successor committee, and the members of the business, labor, and technology committee in the senate, or any successor committee.

(3) In the event that an institution of higher education, the Auraria higher education center established in article 70 of title 23, C.R.S., or the Colorado commission on higher education implements an independent risk management program, the institution, center, or commission shall conduct the analysis and submit the report required pursuant to this section within the existing resources of the institution, center, or commission, as applicable.

24-30-1504. Powers and duties of the department. (1) The department of personnel shall have the following powers and duties:

(a) To coordinate and administer a comprehensive risk management program that serves all state agencies;

(b) To administer, supervise, and manage the investigation and adjustment of claims brought against the state;

(c) To administer, supervise, and manage the legal defense of claims brought against the state;

(d) To recommend to the executive director those persons or parties who may contract with the state to provide claims investigation, claims adjustment, support services, or legal services;

(e) To assist and supervise any parties who have contracted with the state to provide claims investigation, claims adjustment, support services, or legal services pursuant to this part 15;

(f) To develop and administer a system that identifies the property and liability losses, insurance costs, and administrative costs of risk management incurred by each state agency;

(g) To establish and administer a program to reduce property and liability losses incurred by each state agency;

(h) To establish and administer a program of inspection of state property;

(i) To investigate and to direct or deny payment for claims for loss or damage to state property;

(j) To establish and administer a program for the payment or denial of liability claims arising prior to September 15, 1985, for which no commercial liability insurance exists;

(k) To establish and administer a workers' compensation self-insurance program for state employees or to procure commercial workers' compensation insurance therefor;

(l) To establish and administer a pilot program beginning July 1, 1999, for the purpose of developing a statewide database and uniform reporting system to track employment claims brought against state agencies and the losses incurred as a result of such claims. The pilot program shall include:

(I) A minimum of three agencies selected by the department of personnel, including at least one institution of higher education and one department of the executive branch other than the department of higher education; and

(II) Repealed.

(m) On and after July 1, 2001, to establish and administer a statewide database and uniform reporting system to track employment claims brought against state agencies and the losses incurred as a result of such claims, except as excluded pursuant to sections 24-30-1502 (5) (b) and 24-30-1517 (2).

24-30-1505. Powers of the executive director. (1) In order to perform the powers and duties set forth in this part 15, the executive director shall exercise the following powers:

(a) Supervise the development and administration of the following risk management programs:

(I) A comprehensive risk management program;

(II) A program identifying property and liability losses, insurance costs, and administrative costs of risk management incurred by each state agency;

(III) A program to reduce property and liability losses incurred by each state agency;

(IV) A program of inspection of state property;

(V) The pilot program described in section 24-30-1504 (1) (l) and the statewide database and uniform tracking system described in section 24-30-1504 (1) (m) for the purpose of tracking employment claims brought against state agencies and the losses incurred as a result of such claims, except as excluded pursuant to sections 24-30-1502 (5) (b) and 24-30-1517 (2). In developing and administering such programs, the executive director may:

(A) Adopt rules that define relevant terms including, but not limited to, "claims" and "losses"; and

(B) Require state agencies, including institutions of higher education, to submit such information as is necessary to implement the programs.

(b) Manage the investigation and adjustment of claims brought against the state;

(c) Manage the legal defense of claims brought against the state;

(d) Supervise any parties who have contracted with the state to provide claims investigation, claims adjustment, support services, or legal services pursuant to this part 15;

(e) Identify and evaluate the exposure of state agencies to claims for property and liability losses;

(f) Repealed.

(g) Assist state agencies to develop and use proper insurance and indemnity clauses in state contracts;

(h) Manage the investigation and adjustment of claims for loss or damage to state property;

(i) Investigate and direct or deny payment of liability claims arising prior to September 15, 1985, for which no commercial liability insurance exists;

(j) Manage the workers' compensation self-insurance program for state employees or the procurement of commercial workers' compensation insurance therefor.

(2) The executive director shall determine the need, if any, for procuring commercial insurance to protect the state against liability and the specifications for such insurance. The acquisition of any insurance shall be pursuant to the state "Procurement Code", articles 101 to 112 of this title. In the event that no responsible competitive sealed bids are received, the executive director may negotiate with any agent, broker, or insurance company to secure the required coverage or necessary coverage. Such negotiated policy or policies shall be subject to the approval of the board.

24-30-1509. Powers and duties of the board. (1) The board shall have the following powers and duties:

(a) To oversee the management of the risk management fund created in section 24-30-1510;

(b) To compromise or settle claims on behalf of the state in the amounts authorized in section 24-30-1515 (2) (a) (V) and pursuant to the procedures set forth in section 24-30-1515;

(c) To adopt rules to govern its own organization and proceedings;

(d) To determine whether to recommend to the general assembly that the general assembly, by bill, authorize all or any portion of an additional payment to a claimant in accordance with the provisions of section 24-10-114 (5) (b).

Editor's note: Section 5 of chapter 242, Session Laws of Colorado 2012, provides that the act adding subsection (1)(d) applies to claims asserted against the state on or after January 1, 2012.

24-30-1510. Risk management fund - creation - authorized and unauthorized payments. (1) (a) There is hereby created in the state treasury a fund to be known as the risk management fund, which shall consist of all moneys that may be appropriated thereto by the general assembly or that may be otherwise made available to it by the general assembly. Moneys "otherwise made available" shall be deemed to include transfers of moneys to the fund authorized in the general appropriation act. All interest earned from the investment of moneys in the risk management fund shall be credited to the risk management fund and become a part thereof. The moneys in the fund are hereby continuously appropriated for the purposes of the risk management fund other than the direct and indirect administrative costs of operating the risk management system. The general assembly shall make annual appropriations from the fund for the direct and indirect administrative costs of operating the risk management system that are attributable to the operation of the risk management fund. At the end of any fiscal year, all unexpended and unencumbered moneys in the fund shall remain therein and shall not be credited or transferred to the general fund or any other fund.

(b) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, on June 1, 2009, the state treasurer shall deduct ten million ten thousand five hundred ninety-nine dollars from the risk management fund and transfer such sum to the general fund.

(2) The risk management fund shall maintain reserves for incurred but unpaid claims, including general liability and automobile liability claims. The risk management fund shall maintain reserves to provide for the contingency that the reserves set aside in the fund to meet estimated expenses are inadequate to cover the actual expenses realized. The board after consultation with the executive director shall recommend the amount of money that is required to maintain adequate reserves. Adequate reserves shall be maintained in the risk management fund subject to available appropriations made by the general assembly in its discretion.

(3) Expenditures shall be made out of the risk management fund in accordance with subsection (1) of this section only for the following purposes:

(a) To pay liability claims and expenses related thereto, brought against the state, its officials, or its employees pursuant to the "Colorado Governmental Immunity Act", article 10 of this title, and claims against the state, its officials, or its employees arising under federal law, which the state is legally obligated to pay and which are compromised or settled pursuant to section 24-30-1515 or in which a final money judgment against the state has been entered;

(b) To pay the administrative costs of operating the risk management system and the costs of purchasing services pursuant to sections 24-30-1506, 24-30-1507, and 24-30-1513;

(c) To procure and pay premiums for one or more policies of insurance purchased pursuant to this part 15 to protect against all or any portion of the potential liabilities of the state of Colorado or of any state agency or its officers and employees;

(d) To pay any deductible or self-insured retention contained in any insurance policy purchased by or at the direction of the executive director;

(e) To pay liability claims and expenses related thereto when a state agency has contracted to defend and hold harmless the owner of property leased to the state agency for a state purpose if such contract limits the state's obligation to claims arising from alleged negligent acts or omissions of the state agency and of its public employees which occurred or are alleged to have occurred during the performance of their duties and within the scope of their employment, except where such acts or omissions are willful and wanton. Such claims shall be subject to the limitations of the "Colorado Governmental Immunity Act", article 10 of this title. No such contract shall be valid unless approved in writing by the executive director and meets the requirements of this paragraph (e).

(f) To make payments in accordance with the provisions of sections 24-30-1510.6 and 24-30-1510.7;

(g) To fund an employee assistance program established and operated by the executive director pursuant to section 24-50-604 (1) (k);

(h) To pay the defense of liability claims and expenses related thereto, brought against an expert witness or consultant who has statutory immunity from civil suit and who has been retained by a board or commission within the department of regulatory agencies, to render expert testimony or expert opinion or provide consultative advice, in connection with a prospective or pending disciplinary action, and who does render expert testimony or expert opinion, or provide consultative advice, to a board or commission within the department of regulatory agencies in good faith and within the scope of his or her expertise;

(i) To pay liability claims and expenses incurred pursuant to section 24-82-1005 (2).

(4) Moneys in the risk management fund shall not be used to pay any of the following:

(a) Claims brought pursuant to the "Colorado Governmental Immunity Act", article 10 of this title, for which governmental immunity has not been waived pursuant to section 24-10-106;

(b) Claims which are actionable in contract except for claims relating to employment contracts and except for claims arising pursuant to paragraph (e) of subsection (3) of this section;

(c) Claims for liabilities or losses which are covered under commercial insurance policies purchased by the state;

(d) Expenses for complying with successful claims for injunctive relief;

(e) Any other claim or expense not set forth in subsection (3) of this section.

(5) As of July 1, 2000, Pinnacol Assurance created pursuant to section 8-45-101, C.R.S., is no longer included within, or part of, the risk management fund created pursuant to this section and the department of personnel assumes no responsibility and bears no financial obligation for the defense of, or liability for, any claims or lawsuits asserted against Pinnacol Assurance.

ANNOTATION

The Colorado compensation insurance authority is a state agency only for the purposes of the risk management fund and the Colorado Governmental Immunity Act. Simon v.

State Compensation Ins. Auth., 903 P.2d 1139 (Colo. App. 1994), rev'd on other grounds, 946 P.2d 1298 (Colo. 1997).

24-30-1510.3. Risk management fund - state employee workers' compensation account - assessment of risks to institutions of higher education. In determining the amount of risk assessed to institutions of higher education for purposes of making recommendations to the joint budget committee on the amount of appropriations necessary to reflect the risks attributable to institutions of higher education for the risk management fund and for the state employee workers' compensation account in the risk management fund, the executive director shall base such assessments and recommendations on actuarially sound analyses that appropriately and fairly reflect the accurate risks and claim experience attributable to institutions of higher education.

24-30-1510.5. Self-insured property fund - creation - authorized and unauthorized payments - executive director authorized to make payments. (1) (a) There is hereby created in the state treasury a fund to be known as the self-insured property fund, which shall consist of all moneys that may be appropriated thereto by the general assembly or which may be otherwise made available to it by the general assembly. Moneys "otherwise made available" shall be deemed to include transfers of moneys to the fund authorized in the general appropriation act. All interest earned from the investment of moneys in the self-insured property fund shall be credited to the self-insured property fund and become a part thereof. The moneys in the fund are hereby continuously appropriated for the purposes of the self-insured property fund other than the direct and indirect administrative costs of operating the risk management system. The general assembly shall make annual appropriations from the fund for the direct and indirect administrative costs of operating the risk management system that are attributable to the operation of the self-insured property fund. At the end of any fiscal year, all unexpended and unencumbered moneys in the fund shall remain therein and shall not be credited or transferred to the general fund or any other fund.

(b) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, on June 1, 2009, the state treasurer shall deduct one million two hundred ninety-five thousand fifty-five dollars from the self-insured property fund and transfer such sum to the general fund.

(2) The self-insured property fund shall maintain reserves for incurred but unpaid loss or damage claims to state property. The self-insured property fund shall maintain reserves to provide for the contingency that the reserves set aside in the fund to meet estimated expenses are inadequate to cover the actual expenses realized. The executive director shall recommend the amount of money that is required to maintain adequate reserves. Adequate reserves shall be maintained in the self-insured property fund subject to available appropriations made by the general assembly in its discretion.

(3) Expenditures shall be made out of the self-insured property fund in accordance with subsection (1) of this section only for the following purposes:

(a) To pay claims for loss or damage to state property subject to the following conditions:

(I) Claims for loss or damage to real property shall be based on replacement cost;

(II) Claims for loss or damage to personal property shall be based on actual cash value;

(III) The loss or damage to property on which the claim is based shall have been caused by one or more of the hazards covered under the self-insured property fund as set forth in subsection (5) of this section;

(IV) The principal state department shall pay a five-thousand-dollar deductible for each occurrence;

(b) To procure and pay premiums for one or more policies of insurance purchased pursuant to this part 15 to protect against loss or damage to state property;

(c) To pay the administrative costs of operating the risk management system.

(4) Moneys in the self-insured property fund shall not be used to pay the following:

(a) Claims for loss or damage to state property which are specifically insured by a commercial insurance policy;

(b) Claims for extra expense and normal wear and tear.

(5) The self-insured property fund shall provide self-insurance for loss or damage to state property due to the following hazards:

(a) Fire and lightning; except that coverage shall not be provided if the state agency does not report such incident or occurrence to the appropriate fire department;

(b) Windstorm and hail;

(c) Debris removal in connection with a hazard that is covered under the self-insured property fund;

(d) Explosion;

(e) Sudden and accidental damage from smoke;

(f) Vandalism and malicious mischief;

(g) Theft of state-owned property; except that coverage shall not be provided if the state agency does not report such theft to the appropriate law enforcement agency;

(h) Damage from the weight of ice or snow; except that outdoor equipment, awnings, fences, pavements, patios, swimming pools, wharves, and docks are not covered;

(i) Flood;

(j) Earthquake;

(k) Business interruption if the state is obligated under the terms of a lease or bond issue to continue making payments on the state property after the loss or damage has occurred and if the business interruption is caused by a hazard that is covered under the self-insured property fund;

(l) Any other hazard that the executive director determines pursuant to rule and regulation is appropriate for inclusion under the self-insured property fund.

(6) The executive director or a designee of the executive director is authorized to pay property claims of a state agency subject to available funds in the self-insured property fund and subject to the limitations in this section. The executive director or a designee of the executive director is authorized to provide for the repair and replacement of property consistent with the provisions of this part 15 and is authorized to provide for the payment of the costs of such repair and replacement out of the self-insured property fund. Disbursements from the self-insured property fund for claims of state agencies for loss or damage to property shall be paid by the state treasurer upon warrants drawn in accordance with the law upon vouchers issued by the department of personnel.

Editor's note: Subsection (3)(b) provided for the repeal of this section, effective January 1, 1995. (See L. 90, p. 1196.)

24-30-1510.7. Workers' compensation for state employees. (1) (a) There is hereby created, as a separate account in the risk management fund, the state employee workers' compensation account, which shall consist of all moneys which may be appropriated thereto by the general assembly and which may be otherwise made available to it by the general assembly for the purpose of establishing a workers' compensation self-insurance program for state employees or for the procurement of commercial workers' compensation insurance therefor, in accordance with subsection (2) of this section. As of May 24, 1990, the state controller shall also transfer any moneys appropriated to pay workers' compensation premiums for the 1989-90 fiscal year to the state employee workers' compensation account. Moneys "otherwise made available" shall be deemed to include transfers of moneys to the account authorized in the general appropriation act. All interest earned from the investment of moneys in the state employee workers' compensation account pursuant to this section shall be credited to the account and become a part thereof. Moneys in the state employee workers' compensation account shall be subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly for purposes of this section.

(b) Notwithstanding any provision of this section to the contrary, on June 1, 2009, the state treasurer shall deduct ten million three hundred sixteen thousand sixty dollars from the state employee workers' compensation account in the risk management fund and transfer such sum to the general fund.

(2) Expenditures shall be made out of the state employee workers' compensation account in the risk management fund in accordance with subsection (1) of this section only for the following purposes:

(a) To pay workers' compensation benefits to state employees in accordance with articles 40 to 47 of title 8, C.R.S., and to pay the administrative costs of operating the department of personnel in relation to the workers' compensation self-insurance program for state employees;

(b) To pay the premium for commercial workers' compensation insurance, if the state elects not to be self-insured for workers' compensation purposes.

(3) Prior to July 1, 1990, nothing in this section shall apply to the department of institutions; but this section shall apply to the department of human services beginning on July 1, 1990.

(4) Amounts which are recorded in the state employee workers' compensation account as claims, including reserves, but which are not required to be paid in the current fiscal year shall not be considered as expenditures in excess of the amount authorized by an item of appropriation for purposes of section 24-75-109.

(5) (a) (I) Notwithstanding section 8-44-105, C.R.S., if the state elects to self-insure workers' compensation claims as authorized in this section or to insure for such claims through an entity other than Pinnacol Assurance, created in section 8-45-101, C.R.S., on and after the effective date of such election, the state shall be directly and primarily liable for all liabilities due on all workers' compensation claims after such election that arise on and after the beginning date of the initial policy period in the annually renewable memorandum of agreement containing a premium payment plan in effect between the state and Pinnacol Assurance.

(II) In no event shall the department of personnel elect to self-insure for workers' compensation claims prior to the beginning of a fiscal year in which the general assembly appropriates sufficient funds for such self-insurance.

(b) (I) Funding of the liability obligations assumed by the state from Pinnacol Assurance pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (5) beyond a current fiscal year is contingent upon funds for that purpose being appropriated, budgeted, and otherwise made available.

(II) Nothing in this paragraph (b) shall be construed to relieve the state of any liability obligation if the state elects to self-insure or insure through an entity other than Pinnacol Assurance pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (5).

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 8-44-201 (1), C.R.S., if the state elects to self-insure workers' compensation claims as authorized in this section, the executive director of the department of labor and employment shall not prescribe or apply security requirements in granting or continuing permission for such state self-insurance program.

24-30-1513. State auditor - examination. The state auditor or any person authorized by him shall conduct an examination in accordance with section 2-3-103, C.R.S., to determine that proper underwriting techniques, sound funding procedures, loss reserves, claims procedures, and accounting practices are being followed in the management and operation of the risk management fund, the self-insured property fund, and the state employee workers' compensation account in the risk management fund. The state auditor shall present a report of his findings concerning the risk management fund to the board and to the general assembly and shall present a report of his findings concerning the self-insured property fund and the state employee workers' compensation account to the general assembly.

24-30-1515. Compromise or settlement of claims - authority. (1) A claim against the state or against a state official or employee whose defense has been assumed by the state may be compromised or settled on behalf of the state according to the requirements set forth in subsection (2) of this section. Prior to settling a claim of more than fifty thousand dollars, the board or the person authorized to settle the claim shall consult with the head of the affected state agency to assess the appropriateness of the proposed compromise or settlement amount. In settling a claim, the board or the person authorized to settle the claim may require the execution and presentation of those documents required by rule and regulation including those documents which discharge or hold harmless the state of all liability under the claim.

(2) (a) The following parties are authorized to make compromises or settlements on behalf of the state in the following amounts:

(I) A claims adjuster employed by the department of personnel or under contract with the department of personnel is authorized to settle claims for an amount not to exceed five thousand dollars;

(II) The claims manager of the department of personnel is authorized to settle and direct payment in settlement of claims for an amount not to exceed twenty-five thousand dollars;

(III) The state risk manager is authorized to settle and direct payment in settlement of claims for an amount not to exceed fifty thousand dollars;

(IV) The executive director is authorized to settle and direct payment in settlement of claims for an amount not to exceed one hundred thousand dollars;

(V) The board is authorized to settle and direct payment in settlement of claims for an amount of one hundred thousand dollars or more but not to exceed the maximum liability limits under the "Colorado Governmental Immunity Act", as set forth in section 24-10-114.

(b) The board is authorized to settle and direct payments in settlement of claims brought under federal law.

(3) Disbursements from the risk management fund for claims compromised or settled in accordance with this part 15 shall be paid by the state treasurer upon warrants drawn in accordance with law upon vouchers issued by the department of personnel upon order of the board or person authorized in subsection (2) of this section to make such compromise or settlement.

(4) The provisions of the "State Administrative Procedure Act", article 4 of this title, shall not be applicable to the payment or settlement of claims pursuant to this part 15. Any person or party adversely affected or aggrieved in compromising or settling a claim shall pursue such remedy in a district court of this state pursuant to the Colorado rules of civil procedure.

24-30-1516. Rules and regulations. (1) In order to carry out the purposes of this part 15, the executive director may promulgate reasonable rules and regulations governing the following:

(a) The administration of the programs authorized in this part 15;

(b) The management and administration of the investigation and adjustment of claims brought against the state, its officials, and its employees and of claims of state agencies for loss or damage to state property;

(c) The management and administration of legal defense of claims brought against the state, its officials, and its employees;

(d) The general supervision of parties who have contracted with the state to provide claims investigation, claims adjustment, support services, or legal services;

(e) Specifications on documents required to present a claim for compromise or settlement;

(f) Specifications on documents required to discharge or hold harmless the state from liability under a claim;

(g) Standards for compromising and settling claims brought against the state or against a state official or employee whose defense has been assumed by the state.

24-30-1517. Applicability. (1) With respect to claims covered under the risk management fund, until January 1, 1995, section 24-30-1510 shall apply to claims arising on or after September 15, 1985, and on and after January 1, 1995, section 24-30-1510 shall apply to claims whenever arising. With respect to claims for loss or damage to state property covered under the self-insured property fund, this part 15 shall apply to claims arising on or after July 1, 1986. With respect to claims for workers' compensation made by state employees, other than employees of the department of human services, this part 15 shall apply to claims arising on or after May 24, 1990. With respect to claims for workers' compensation made by employees of the department of human services, this part 15 shall apply to claims arising on or after July 1, 1990.

(2) Nothing in this part 15 shall apply to the university of Colorado system, including the university of Colorado at Boulder, Denver, and Colorado Springs and the university of Colorado health sciences center.

PART 18

TELECOMMUNICATIONS ADVISORY COMMISSION

24-30-1801. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that there is a lack of coordination among the various state agencies regarding the utilization of telecommunications facilities and services. The general assembly further finds that better coordination of such facilities and services, particularly among the governing boards of the institutions of higher education, the department of higher education, the department of education, and the school districts across the state, would result in improved education programs and a more cost-effective telecommunications system. The use of telecommunications services and facilities to expand educational opportunity, however, does not mean that the role of the teacher in the classroom should be diminished.

(2) The general assembly hereby finds that the development and use of a statewide telecommunications network will accelerate economic development within the state. The general assembly further finds that cooperation and participation by medical and health facilities, public and private economic development organizations, the judicial system, and local governments in developing a statewide telecommunications network will facilitate expansion of such network to its full potential and encourage economic growth and development within Colorado.

UTILITY COST-SAVINGS MEASURES

24-30-2001. Definitions. As used in this part 20, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) “Energy performance contract” means a contract for evaluations, recommendations, or implementation of one or more utility cost-savings measures designed to produce utility cost savings or operation and maintenance cost savings, which contract:

(a) Sets forth savings attributable to the calculated utility cost savings or operation and maintenance cost savings for each year during the contract period;

(b) Provides that the amount of actual savings for each year during the contract period shall exceed annual contract payments, including maintenance costs, to be made during such year by the state agency contracting for the utility cost-savings measures; except that, for the purposes of this part 20 only, the term “annual contract payments” does not include moneys received by the state from rebates, gifts, grants, or donations specifically designated by the gifting, granting, or donating party for the design or implementation of a utility cost-savings measure or state moneys that have been specifically appropriated in a distinct line item, or, in the case of the department of transportation, otherwise set aside in the department’s budget, for the design or implementation of a utility cost-savings measure that is wholly addressed within the scope of the utility cost-savings contract;

(c) Requires the party entering into the energy performance contract with the state agency to provide a written guarantee that the sum of utility cost savings and operation and maintenance cost savings for each year during the first three years of the contract period shall not be less than the calculated savings for that year described in paragraph (a) of this subsection (1); and

(d) Requires payments by a state agency to be made within twelve years after the date of the execution of the contract; except that the maximum term of the payments shall be less than the cost-weighted average useful life of utility cost-savings equipment for which the contract is made, not to exceed twenty-five years.

(2) “Operation and maintenance cost savings” means a measurable decrease in operation and maintenance costs that is a direct result of the implementation of one or more utility cost-savings measures. Such savings shall be calculated in comparison with an established baseline of operation and maintenance costs.

(3) “Shared-savings contract” means a contract for one or more utility cost-savings measures that do not involve capital equipment projects, which contract:

(a) Provides that all payments to be made by the state agency contracting for the utility cost-savings measures shall be a stated percentage of calculated savings of energy costs attributable to such measures over a defined period of time and that such payments shall be made only to the extent that such savings occur; except that this paragraph (a) shall not apply to payments for maintenance and repairs and obligations on termination of the contract prior to its expiration;

(b) Provides for an initial contract period of no longer than ten years; and

(c) Requires no additional capital investment or contribution of funds.

(4) “State agency” means a department or institution of this state, including institutions of higher education.

(5) “Utility cost savings” means:

(a) A cost savings caused by a reduction in metered or measured physical quantities of a bulk fuel or utility resulting from the implementation of one or more energy conservation measures when compared with an established baseline of usage; or

(b) A decrease in utility costs as a result of changes in applicable utility rates or utility service suppliers. The savings shall be calculated in comparison with an established baseline of utility costs.

(6) “Utility cost-savings contract” means an energy performance contract or a shared-savings contract or any other agreement in which utility cost savings are used to pay for services or equipment.

(7) "Utility cost-savings measure" means any installation, modification, or service that is designed to reduce energy consumption and related operating costs in buildings and other facilities and includes, but is not limited to, the following:

- (a) Insulation in walls, roofs, floors, and foundations and in heating and cooling distribution systems;
- (b) Heating, ventilating, or air conditioning and distribution system modifications or replacements in buildings or central plants;
- (c) Automatic energy control systems;
- (d) Replacement or modification of lighting fixtures;
- (e) Energy recovery systems;
- (f) Renewable energy and alternate energy systems;
- (g) Cogeneration systems that produce steam or forms of energy, such as heat or electricity, for use primarily within a building or complex of buildings;
- (h) Devices that reduce water consumption or sewer charges;
- (i) Changes in operation and maintenance practices;
- (j) Procurement of low-cost energy supplies of all types, including electricity, natural gas, and other fuel sources, and water;
- (k) Indoor air quality improvements that conform to applicable building code requirements;
- (l) Daylighting systems;
- (m) Building operation programs that reduce utility and operating costs including, but not limited to, computerized energy management and consumption tracking programs, staff and occupant training, and other similar activities;
- (n) Services to reduce utility costs by identifying utility errors and optimizing existing rate schedules under which service is provided; and
- (o) Any other location, orientation, or design choice related to, or installation, modification of installation, or remodeling of, building infrastructure improvements that produce utility or operational cost savings for their appointed functions in compliance with applicable state and local building codes.

24-30-2002. Contracts for energy analysis and recommendations. (1) Subject to subsection (2) of this section, a state agency may contract with any entity or person experienced in the design and implementation of energy conservation for an energy analysis and recommendations pertaining to measures that would significantly increase utility cost savings and operation and maintenance cost savings in buildings or other facilities owned or rented by the state agency.

(2) The state personnel director or the state personnel director's designee may authorize a state agency to enter into such a contract. The contract shall be negotiated by the state agency pursuant to the negotiation requirements described in part 14 of this article; except that direct, indirect, overhead, and other costs and rates may be solicited and considered in the evaluation of qualifications and included in any resulting contract. The contract may include provisions that define the rate, amount, and nature of costs that may be proposed in any subsequent utility cost-savings contract, that describe the content of the analysis, and that reserve the option of the state agency to negotiate a suitable utility cost-savings contract.

(3) Such energy analysis and recommendations shall include estimates of the amounts by which utility cost savings and operation and maintenance cost savings would increase and estimates of all costs of such utility cost-savings measures or energy-savings measures, including, but not limited to, itemized costs of design, engineering, equipment, materials, installation, maintenance, repairs, and debt service.

(4) Payment by a state agency for an energy analysis and recommendations contract may be made from moneys appropriated to the state agency for operating expenses or utilities, or payments may be deferred and incorporated into a subsequent utility cost-savings contract.

Source: L. 2001: Entire part added, p. 1090, § 1, effective August 8.

24-30-2003. Utility cost-savings contracts. (1) A state agency may enter into a utility cost-savings contract with any person or entity experienced in the design and implementation of utility cost-savings measures for buildings or other facilities or with the entity or person who performed the energy analysis and recommendations pursuant to section 24-30-2002 if:

(a) The energy analysis and recommendations made pursuant to section 24-30-2002 indicate that the expected annual contract payments required under the utility cost-savings contract and any additional maintenance costs for one or more utility cost-savings measures are expected to be equal to or less than the sum of the utility cost savings and operation and maintenance cost savings achieved by the implementation of such measures on an annual basis; and

(b) The state personnel director or the director's designee, pursuant to criteria contained in procedures established by such director, approves the energy analysis and recommendations made pursuant to section 24-30-2002.

(2) (a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (2), a utility cost-savings contract shall be negotiated by the state agency pursuant to the negotiation requirements described in part 14 of this article.

(b) The negotiation requirements described in part 14 of this article and any other state competitive bidding or procurement provision shall not apply to a state agency that enters into a utility cost-savings contract with the entity or person who performed the energy analysis for and made recommendations to the state agency pursuant to section 24-30-2002.

(3) A utility cost-savings contract may include appropriate lease-purchase or other authorized financing agreements.

(4) The legislative authorization required by section 24-82-801 (1) shall not apply to a lease-purchase agreement in a utility cost-savings contract and no subsequent legislative authorization shall be required for any payment made pursuant to such an agreement.

(5) Payments by a state agency required under a utility cost-savings contract may be made from moneys appropriated to the state agency for operating expenses or utilities appropriations available to the state agency at the time the contract payments are due.

(6) The provisions of articles 91 and 92 of this title shall not apply to utility cost-savings contracts.

(7) Utility cost-savings contracts shall be subject only to the supervisory provisions of part 13 of this article.

(8) All savings realized as a result of a utility cost-savings contract that are in excess of the annual calculated savings by such contract may be utilized as provided in section 24-75-108 (3).

(9) The utility cost-savings contracts authorized by this section shall provide that all of the obligations of the state under such contracts shall be subject to the action of the general assembly in annually making moneys available for all payments thereunder and that the obligations shall not be deemed or construed as creating an indebtedness of the state within the meaning of any provision of the state constitution or the laws of the state concerning or limiting the creation of indebtedness by the state and shall not constitute a multiple fiscal-year direct or indirect debt or other financial obligation of the state within the meaning of section 20 (4) of article X of the constitution.

(10) The state personnel director may establish procedures containing criteria for authorization of utility cost-savings contracts.

PART 21

ADDRESS CONFIDENTIALITY PROGRAM

Editor's note: This part 21 was added with relocations in 2011. Former C.R.S. section numbers are shown in editor's notes following those sections that were relocated.

24-30-2101. Short title. This part 21 shall be known and may be cited as the "Address Confidentiality Program Act".

Source: L. 2011: Entire part added with relocations, (HB 11-1080), ch. 256, p. 1108, § 2, effective June 2.

Editor's note: This section is similar to former § 24-21-201 as it existed prior to 2011.

24-30-2102. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that a person attempting to escape from actual or threatened domestic violence, a sexual offense, or stalking frequently moves to a new address in order to prevent an assailant or potential assailant from finding him or her. This new address, however, is only useful if an assailant or potential assailant does not discover it. Therefore, in order to help victims of domestic violence, a sexual offense, or stalking, it is the intent of the general assembly to establish an address confidentiality program, whereby the confidentiality of a victim's address may be maintained through, among other things, the use of a substitute address for purposes of public records and confidential mail forwarding.

(2) The general assembly further finds and declares that the desired result of the "Address Confidentiality Program Act" for the purpose of post-enactment review is to establish a substitute address for a program participant that is used by state and local government agencies whenever possible; to permit agencies to have access to the participant's actual address when appropriate; to establish a mail forwarding system for program participants; and to ensure that there is adequate funding to pay the program costs for all persons who apply to the program.

24-30-2103. Definitions. As used in this part 21, unless the context otherwise requires: (1) "Actual address" means a residential, work, or school address as specified on the individual's application to be a program participant under this part 21, and includes the county and voting precinct number.

(2) "Address confidentiality program" or "program" means the program created under this part 21 in the department to protect the confidentiality of the actual address of a relocated victim of domestic violence, a sexual offense, or stalking.

(3) "Applicant" means an individual identified as such in an application received by the executive director or his or her designee pursuant to section 24-30-2105.

(4) "Application assistant" means a person designated by the executive director or his or her designee to assist an applicant in the preparation of an application to participate in the address confidentiality program.

(5) "Department" means the department of personnel created in section 24-1-128.

(6) "Domestic violence" means an act described in section 18-6-800.3 (1), C.R.S.

(7) "Executive director" means the executive director of the department.

(8) "Person" means any individual, corporation, limited liability company, partnership, trust, estate, or other association or any state, the United States, or any subdivision thereof.

(9) "Program participant" or "participant" means an individual accepted into the address confidentiality program in accordance with this part 21.

(10) "Public record" means all documents, papers, letters, maps, books, photographs, films, sound recordings, magnetic or other tapes, digital data, artifacts, or other documentary material, regardless of physical form or characteristics, made or received pursuant to law or ordinance in connection with the transaction of public business by a state or local government agency.

(11) "Sexual offense" means an act described in part 4 of article 3, or article 6 or 7 of title 18, C.R.S.

(12) "Stalking" means an act of harassment as described in section 18-9-111, C.R.S., or stalking as described in section 18-3-602, C.R.S.

(13) "State or local government agency" or "agency" means every elected or appointed state or local public office, public officer, or official; board, commission, bureau, committee, council, department, authority, agency, institution of higher education, or other unit of the executive, legislative, or judicial branch of the state; or any city, county, city and county, town, special district, school district, local improvement district, or any other kind of municipal, quasi-municipal, or public corporation.

(14) "Substitute address" means an address designated by the executive director or his or her designee under the address confidentiality program that is used instead of an actual address as set forth in this part 21.

24-30-2104. Address confidentiality program - creation - substitute address - uses - service by mail - application assistance centers. (1) There is hereby created the address confidentiality program in the department to protect the confidentiality of the actual address of a relocated victim of domestic violence, a sexual offense, or stalking and to prevent the victim's assailants or potential assailants from finding the victim through public records. Under the program, the executive director or his or her designee shall:

(a) Designate a substitute address for a program participant that shall be used by state and local government agencies as set forth in this part 21; and

(b) Receive mail sent to a program participant at a substitute address and forward the mail to the participant as set forth in subsection (2) of this section.

(2) The executive director or his or her designee shall receive first-class, certified, or registered mail on behalf of a program participant and forward the mail to the participant for no charge. The executive director or his or her designee may arrange to receive and forward other classes or kinds of mail at the participant's expense. Neither the executive director nor his or her designee shall be required to track or otherwise maintain records of any mail received on behalf of a participant unless the mail is certified or registered mail.

(3) (a) Notwithstanding any provision of law to the contrary, a program participant may be served by registered mail or by certified mail, return receipt requested, addressed to the participant at his or her substitute address with any process, notice, or demand required or permitted by law to be served on the program participant. Service is perfected under this subsection (3) at the earliest of:

(I) The date the program participant receives the process, notice, or demand; or

(II) Five days after the date shown on the return receipt if signed on behalf of the program participant.

(b) This subsection (3) does not prescribe the only means, or necessarily the required means, of serving a program participant in the state.

(c) Whenever the laws of the state provide a program participant a legal right to act within a prescribed period of ten days or less after the service of a notice or other paper upon the participant and the notice or paper is served upon the participant by mail pursuant to this subsection (3) or by first-class mail as otherwise authorized by law, five days shall be added to the prescribed period.

(4) The executive director or his or her designee may designate as an application assistant any person who:

(a) Provides counseling, referral, or other services to victims of domestic violence, a sexual offense, or stalking; and

(b) Completes any training and registration process required by the executive director or his or her designee.

(5) Any assistance and counseling rendered by the executive director or his or her designee or an application assistant to an applicant related to this part 21 shall in no way be construed as legal advice.

24-30-2105. Filing and certification of applications - authorization card. (1) On and after July 1, 2008, upon the recommendation of an application assistant, an individual may apply to the executive director or his or her designee to participate in the address confidentiality program. The following individuals may apply to the executive director or his or her designee to have an address designated by the executive director or his or her designee to serve as the substitute address of the individual and any individuals designated in paragraph (j) of subsection (3) of this section:

(a) An adult individual;

(b) A parent or guardian acting on behalf of a minor when the minor resides with the individual; or

(c) A guardian acting on behalf of an incapacitated individual.

(2) An application assistant shall assist the individual in the preparation of the application. The application shall be dated, signed, and verified by the applicant and shall be signed and dated by the application assistant who assisted in the preparation of the application. The signature of the application assistant shall serve as the recommendation by such person that the applicant have an address designated by the executive director or his or her designee to serve as the substitute address of the applicant. A minor or incapacitated individual on whose behalf a parent or guardian completes an application pursuant to the authority set forth in paragraph (b) or (c) of subsection (1) of this section shall be considered the applicant, but any statements that are required to be made by the applicant shall be made by the parent or guardian acting on behalf of the minor or incapacitated individual.

(3) The application shall be on a form prescribed by the executive director or his or her designee and shall contain all of the following:

(a) The applicant's name;

(b) A statement by the applicant that the applicant is a victim of domestic violence, a sexual offense, or stalking and that the applicant fears for his or her safety;

(c) Evidence that the applicant is a victim of domestic violence, a sexual offense, or stalking. This evidence may include any of the following:

(I) Law enforcement, court, or other state or local government agency or federal agency records or files;

(II) Documentation from a domestic violence program or facility, including but not limited to a battered women's shelter or safe house, if the applicant is alleged to be a victim of domestic violence;

(III) Documentation from a sexual assault program if the applicant is alleged to be a victim of a sexual offense; or

(IV) Documentation from a religious, medical, or other professional from whom the applicant has sought assistance in dealing with the alleged domestic violence, sexual offense, or stalking.

(d) A statement by the applicant that disclosure of the applicant's actual address would endanger the applicant's safety;

(e) A statement by the applicant that the applicant has confidentially relocated in the past ninety days or will confidentially relocate in the state;

(f) A designation of the executive director or his or her designee as an agent for the applicant for purposes of receiving certain mail;

(g) The mailing address and telephone number where the applicant can be contacted by the executive director or his or her designee;

(h) The actual address that the applicant requests not to be disclosed by the executive director or his or her designee that directly relates to the increased risk of domestic violence, a sexual offense, or stalking;

(i) A statement as to whether there is any existing court order or court action involving the applicant or an individual identified in paragraph (j) of this subsection (3) related to dissolution of marriage proceedings, child support, or the allocation of parental responsibilities or parenting time and the court that issued the order or has jurisdiction over the action;

(j) The name of any person who resides with the applicant who also needs to be a program participant in order to ensure the safety of the applicant and, if the person named in the application is eighteen years of age or older, the consent of such person to be a program participant;

(k) A statement by the applicant, under penalty of perjury, that to the best of the applicant's knowledge, the information contained in the application is true.

(4) Upon determining that an application has been properly completed, the executive director or his or her designee shall certify the applicant and any individual who is identified in paragraph (j) of subsection (3) of this section as a program participant. Upon certification, the executive director or his or her designee shall issue to the participant an address confidentiality program authorization card, which shall include the participant's substitute address. The card shall remain valid for so long as the participant remains certified under the program.

(5) Applicants and individuals identified in paragraph (j) of subsection (3) of this section shall be certified for four years following the date of filing unless the certification is withdrawn or canceled prior to the end of the four-year period. A program participant may withdraw the certification by filing a request for withdrawal acknowledged before a notary public. A certification may be renewed by filing a renewal application with the executive director or his or her designee at least thirty days prior to expiration of the current certification. The renewal application shall be dated, signed, and verified by the applicant. The renewal application shall contain:

(a) Any statement or information that is required by subsection (3) of this section that has changed from the original application or a prior renewal application; and

(b) A statement by the applicant, under penalty of perjury, that to the best of the applicant's knowledge, the information contained in the renewal application and a prior application is true.

24-30-2106. Change of name, address, or telephone number. (1) A program participant shall notify the executive director or his or her designee within thirty days after the participant has obtained a legal name change by providing the executive director or his or her designee a certified copy of any judgment or order evidencing the change or any other documentation the executive director or his or her designee deems to be sufficient evidence of the name change.

(2) A program participant shall notify the executive director or his or her designee of a change in address or telephone number from the address or telephone number listed for the participant on the application pursuant to the requirements set forth in section 24-30-2105 (3) (g) and (3) (h) no later than seven days after the change occurs.

24-30-2107. Certification cancellation - records. (1) The certification of a program participant shall be cancelled under any of the following circumstances:

(a) The program participant files a request for withdrawal of the certification pursuant to section 24-30-2105 (5).

(b) The program participant fails to notify the executive director or his or her designee of a change in the participant's name, address, or telephone number listed on the application pursuant to section 24-30-2106.

(c) The program participant or parent or guardian who completes an application on behalf of an applicant knowingly submitted false information in the program application.

(d) Mail forwarded to the program participant by the executive director or his or her designee is returned as undeliverable.

(2) If the executive director or his or her designee determines that there is one or more grounds for cancelling certification of a program participant pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, the executive director or his or her designee shall send notice of cancellation to the program participant. Notice of cancellation shall set out the reasons for cancellation. The participant shall have thirty days to appeal the cancellation decision under procedures developed by the executive director or his or her designee.

(3) An individual who ceases to be a program participant is responsible for notifying persons who use the substitute address that the designated substitute address is no longer valid.

Editor's note: This section is similar to former § 24-21-207 as it existed prior to 2011.

24-30-2108. Address use by state or local government agencies. (1) The program participant, and not the executive director or his or her designee, is responsible for requesting that a state or local government agency use the participant's substitute address as the participant's residential, work, or school address for all purposes for which the agency requires or requests such residential, work, or school address.

(2) Except as otherwise provided in this section or unless the executive director or his or her designee grants a state or local government agency's request for a disclosure pursuant to section 24-30-2110, when a program participant submits a current and valid address confidentiality program authorization card to the agency, the agency shall accept the substitute address designation by the executive director or his or her designee on the card as the participant's address to be used as the participant's residential, work, or school address when creating a new public record. The substitute address given to the agency shall be the last known address for the participant used by the agency until such time that the agency receives notification pursuant to section 24-30-2107 (3). The agency may make a photocopy of the card for the records of the agency and thereafter shall immediately return the card to the program participant.

(3) (a) A designated election official as defined in section 1-1-104 (8), C.R.S., shall use the actual address of a program participant for precinct designation and all official election-related purposes and shall keep the participant's actual address confidential from the public. The election official shall use the substitute address for all correspondence and mailings placed in the United States mail. The substitute address shall not be used as an address for voter registration.

(b) A state or local government agency's access to a program participant's voter registration shall be governed by the disclosure process set forth in section 24-30-2110.

(c) The provisions of this subsection (3) shall apply only to a program participant who submits a current and valid address confidentiality program authorization card when registering to vote.

(d) The provisions of this subsection (3) shall not apply to a program participant who registers to vote pursuant to section 1-2-213, C.R.S.

(4) A program participant who completes an application to register to vote at a driver's license examination facility while receiving a driver's license or an identification card pursuant to section 1-2-213, C.R.S., shall be required to have the participant's actual address on the driver's license or identification card.

(5) The substitute address shall not be used for purposes of listing, appraising, or assessing property taxes and collecting property taxes under the provisions of title 39, C.R.S.

(6) Whenever a program participant is required by law to swear or affirm to the participant's address, the participant may use his or her substitute address.

(7) The substitute address shall not be used for purposes of assessing any taxes or fees on a motor vehicle or for titling or registering a motor vehicle. Notwithstanding any provision of section 24-72-204 (7) to the contrary, any record that includes a program participant's actual address pursuant to this subsection (7) shall be confidential and not available for inspection by anyone other than the program participant.

(8) The substitute address shall not be used on any document related to real property recorded with a county clerk and recorder.

(9) A school district shall accept the substitute address as the address of record and shall verify student enrollment eligibility through the executive director or his or her designee. The executive director or his or her designee shall facilitate the transfer of student records from one school to another.

(10) Except as otherwise provided in this section, a program participant's actual address and telephone number maintained by a state or local government agency or disclosed by the executive director or his or her designee is not a public record that is subject to inspection pursuant to the provisions of part 2 of article 72 of title 24. This subsection (10) shall not apply to the following:

(a) To any public record created more than ninety days prior to the date that the program participant applied to be certified in the program; or

(b) If a program participant voluntarily requests that a state or local government agency use the participant's actual address or voluntarily gives the actual address to the state or local government agency.

(11) For any public record created within ninety days prior to the date that a program participant applied to be certified in the program, a state or local government agency shall redact the actual address from a public record or change the actual address to the substitute address in the public record, if a program participant who presents a current and valid program authorization card requests the agency that maintains the public record to use the substitute address instead of the actual address on the public record.

24-30-2109. Disclosure of actual address prohibited. (1) The executive director or his or her designee is prohibited from disclosing any address or telephone number of a program participant other than the substitute address designated by the executive director or his or her designee, except under any of the following circumstances:

(a) The information is required by direction of a court order. However, any person to whom a program participant's address or telephone number has been disclosed shall not disclose the address or telephone number to any other person unless permitted to do so by order of the court.

(b) The executive director or his or her designee grants a request by an agency pursuant to section 24-30-2110.

(c) The program participant is required to disclose the participant's actual address as part of a registration required by the "Colorado Sex Offender Registration Act", article 22 of title 16, C.R.S.

(2) The executive director or his or her designee shall provide immediate notification of disclosure to a program participant when disclosure is made pursuant to paragraph (a) or (b) of subsection (1) of this section.

(3) If, at the time of application, an applicant or an individual designated in section 24-30-2105 (3) (j) is subject to a court order related to dissolution of marriage proceedings, child support, or the allocation of parental responsibilities or parenting time, the executive director or his or her designee shall notify the court that issued the order of the certification of the program participant in the address confidentiality program and the substitute address designated by the executive director or his or her designee. If, at the time of application, an applicant or an individual designated in section 24-30-2105 (3) (j) is involved in a court action related to dissolution of marriage proceedings, child support, or the allocation of parental responsibilities or parenting time, the executive director or his or her designee shall notify the court having jurisdiction over the action of the certification of the applicant in the address confidentiality program and the substitute address designated by the executive director or his or her designee.

(4) No person shall knowingly and intentionally obtain a program participant's actual address or telephone number from the executive director or his or her designee or an agency knowing that the person is not authorized to obtain the address information.

(5) No employee of the executive director or his or her designee or of an agency shall knowingly and intentionally disclose a program participant's actual address or telephone number unless the disclosure is permissible by law. This subsection (5) only applies when an employee obtains a participant's actual address or telephone number during the course of the employee's official duties and, at the time of disclosure, the employee has specific knowledge that the actual address or telephone number disclosed belongs to a participant.

(6) Any person who knowingly and intentionally obtains or discloses information in violation of this part 21 shall be guilty of a class 1 misdemeanor and shall be punished as provided in section 18-1.3-501, C.R.S.

24-30-2110. Request for disclosure. (1) A state or local government agency requesting disclosure of a program participant's actual address pursuant to this section shall make such a request in writing on agency letterhead and shall provide the executive director or his or her designee with the following information:

(a) The name of the program participant for whom the agency seeks disclosure of the actual address;

(b) A statement, with explanation, setting forth the reason or reasons that the agency needs the program participant's actual address and a statement that the agency cannot meet its statutory or administrative obligations without disclosure of the participant's actual address;

(c) A particular statement of facts showing that other methods to locate the program participant or the participant's actual address have been tried and have failed or that the methods reasonably appear to be unlikely to succeed;

(d) A statement that the agency has adopted a procedure setting forth the steps the agency will take to protect the confidentiality of the program participant's actual address; and

(e) Any other information as the executive director or his or her designee may reasonably request in order to identify the program participant in the records of the executive director or his or her designee.

(2) (a) The executive director or his or her designee shall provide the program participant with notice of a request for disclosure received pursuant to subsection (1) of this section, and, to the extent possible, the participant shall be afforded an opportunity to be heard regarding the request.

(b) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (c) of this subsection (2), the executive director or his or her designee shall provide the program participant with written notification whenever a request for a disclosure has been granted or denied pursuant to this section.

(c) No notice or opportunity to be heard shall be given to the program participant when the request for disclosure is made by a state or local law enforcement agency conducting a criminal investigation involving alleged criminal conduct by the participant or when providing notice to the participant would jeopardize an ongoing criminal investigation or the safety of law enforcement personnel.

(3) The executive director or his or her designee shall promptly conduct a review of all requests received pursuant to this section. In conducting a review, the executive director or his or her designee shall consider all information received pursuant to subsections (1) and (2) of this section and any other appropriate information that the executive director or his or her designee may require.

(4) The executive director or his or her designee shall grant a state or local government agency's request for disclosure and disclose a program participant's actual address pursuant to this section if:

(a) The agency has a bona fide statutory or administrative need for the actual address.

(b) The actual address will only be used for the purpose stated in the request.

(c) Other methods to locate the program participant or the participant's actual address have been tried and have failed or such methods reasonably appear to be unlikely to succeed.

(d) The agency has adopted a procedure for protecting the confidentiality of the actual address of the program participant.

(5) Upon granting a request for disclosure pursuant to this section, the executive director or his or her designee shall provide the state or local government agency with the disclosure that contains:

(a) The program participant's actual address;

(b) A statement setting forth the permitted use of the actual address and the names or classes of persons permitted to have access to and use of the actual address;

(c) A statement that the agency is required to limit access to and use of the actual address to the permitted use and persons set forth in the disclosure; and

(d) The date on which the permitted use expires, if expiration is appropriate, after which the agency may no longer maintain, use, or have access to the actual address.

(6) A state or local government agency whose request is granted by the executive director or his or her designee pursuant to this section shall:

(a) Limit the use of the program participant's actual address to the purposes set forth in the disclosure;

(b) Limit the access to the program participant's actual address to the persons or classes of persons set forth in the disclosure;

(c) Cease to use and dispose of the program participant's actual address upon the expiration of the permitted use, if applicable; and

(d) Except as otherwise set forth in the disclosure, maintain the confidentiality of a program participant's actual address.

(7) Upon denial of a state or local government agency's request for disclosure, the executive director or his or her designee shall provide prompt written notification to the agency stating that the agency's request has been denied and setting forth the specific reasons for the denial.

(8) A state or local government agency may file written exceptions with the executive director or his or her designee no more than fifteen days after written notification is provided pursuant to subsection (7) of this section. The exceptions shall restate the information contained in the request for disclosure, state the grounds upon which the agency asserts that the request for disclosure should be granted and specifically respond to the executive director's or his or her designee's specific reasons for denial.

(9) Unless the state or local government agency filing exceptions agrees otherwise, the executive director or his or her designee shall make a final determination regarding the exceptions within thirty days after the filing of exceptions pursuant to subsection (8) of this section. Prior to making a final determination regarding the exceptions, the executive director or his or her designee may request additional information from the agency or the program participant and conduct a hearing. If the final determination of the executive director or his or her designee is that the denial of the agency's request for disclosure was properly denied, the executive director or his or her designee shall provide the agency with written notification of this final determination stating that the agency's request has again been denied and setting forth the specific reasons for the denial. If the final determination of the executive director or his or her designee is that the denial of the agency's request for disclosure has been improperly denied, the executive director or his or her designee shall grant the agency's request for disclosure in accordance with this section. The final determination of the executive director or his or her designee shall constitute final agency action.

(10) The record before any judicial review of a final agency action pursuant to subsection (9) of this section shall consist of the state or local government agency's request for disclosure, the executive director's or his or her designee's written response, the agency's exceptions, the hearing transcript, if any, and the executive director's or his or her designee's final determination.

(11) During any period of review, evaluation, or appeal, the agency shall, to the extent possible, accept and use the program participant's substitute address.

(12) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, the executive director or his or her designee shall establish an expedited process for disclosure to be used by a criminal justice official or agency for situations where disclosure is required pursuant to a criminal justice trial, hearing, proceeding, or investigation involving a program participant. An official or agency receiving information pursuant to this subsection (12) shall certify to the executive director or his or her designee that the official or agency has a system in place to protect the confidentiality of a participant's actual address from the public and from personnel who are not involved in the trial, hearing, proceeding, or investigation.

(13) Nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the executive director or his or her designee from granting a request for disclosure to a state or local government agency pursuant to this section upon receipt of a program participant's written consent to do so.

24-30-2111. Nondisclosure of address in criminal and civil proceedings. No person shall be compelled to disclose a program participant's actual address during the discovery phase of or during a proceeding before a court of competent jurisdiction or administrative tribunal unless the court or administrative tribunal finds, based upon a preponderance of the evidence, that the disclosure is required in the interests of justice. A court or administrative tribunal may seal the portion of any record that contains a program participant's actual address. Nothing in this section shall prevent a state or local government agency, in its discretion, from using a program participant's actual address in any document or record filed with a court or administrative tribunal if, at the time of filing, the document or record is not a public record.

24-30-2112. Participation in the program - orders relating to allocation of parental responsibilities or parenting time. (1) Nothing in this part 21, nor participation in the program, shall affect an order relating to the allocation of parental responsibilities or parenting time in effect prior to or during program participation.

(2) Program participation does not constitute evidence of domestic violence, a sexual offense, or stalking and shall not be considered for purposes of making an order allocating parental responsibilities or parenting time; except that a court may consider practical measures to keep a program participant's actual address confidential when making an order allocating parental responsibilities or parenting time.

24-30-2114. Surcharge - collection and distribution - address confidentiality program surcharge fund - creation - definitions. (1) On and after July 1, 2007, each person who is convicted of the crimes set forth in subsection (2) of this section shall be required to pay a surcharge of twenty-eight dollars to the clerk of the court for the judicial district in which the conviction occurs.

(2) The following crimes shall be subject to the surcharge set forth in subsection (1) of this section:

- (a) Stalking;
- (b) A crime, the underlying factual basis of which has been found by the court on the record to include an act of domestic violence; or
- (c) Criminal attempt, conspiracy, or solicitation to commit the crimes set forth in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this subsection (2).

(3) The clerk of the court shall allocate the surcharge required by this section as follows:

(a) Five percent shall be retained by the clerk of the court for administrative costs incurred pursuant to this section. Such amount retained shall be transmitted to the state treasurer for deposit in the judicial stabilization cash fund created in section 13-32-101 (6), C.R.S.

(b) Ninety-five percent shall be transferred to the state treasurer, who shall credit the same to the address confidentiality program surcharge fund created pursuant to subsection (4) of this section.

(4) (a) There is hereby created in the state treasury the address confidentiality program surcharge fund, which shall consist of moneys received by the state treasurer pursuant to this section and any moneys received pursuant to section 24-30-2104 (2). The moneys in the fund shall be subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly to the department for the purpose of paying for the costs incurred by the executive director or his or her designee in the administration of the program. All interest derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the fund shall be credited to the fund. Any moneys not appropriated by the general assembly shall remain in the fund and shall not be transferred or revert to the general fund at the end of any fiscal year.

(b) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2011, (HB 11-1080), ch. 256, p. 1121, § 2, effective June 2, 2011.)

(c) No general fund moneys shall be appropriated for the purpose of implementing the address confidentiality program.

(5) The court may waive all or any portion of the surcharge required by this section if the court finds that a person subject to the surcharge is indigent or financially unable to pay all or any portion of the surcharge. The court may waive only that portion of the surcharge that the court finds that the person is financially unable to pay.

(6) As used in this section, “convicted” and “conviction” mean a plea of guilty accepted by the court, including a plea of guilty entered pursuant to a deferred sentence under section 18-1.3-102, C.R.S., a verdict of guilty by a judge or jury, or a plea of no contest accepted by the court.

24-30-2115. Address confidentiality program grant fund - creation. (1) There is hereby created in the state treasury the address confidentiality program grant fund, referred to in this section as the “fund”, which shall consist of any gifts, grants, or donations received by the department for the fund pursuant to subsection (2) of this section. The moneys in the fund shall be continuously appropriated by the general assembly to the department for the purpose of paying for the costs incurred by the executive director or his or her designee in the administration of the program. All interest derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the fund shall be credited to the fund. Any moneys not appropriated by the general assembly shall remain in the fund and shall not be transferred or revert to the general fund at the end of any fiscal year.

(2) The department is authorized to seek, accept, and expend gifts, grants, and donations from private or public sources for the implementation of the program. All private and public funds received through gifts, grants, and donations shall be transmitted to the state treasurer, who shall credit the same to the fund.

PART 22

DISABILITY ASSISTANCE ACT

24-30-2201. Short title. This part 22 shall be known and may be cited as the “Laura Hershey Disability-Benefit Support Act”.

Source: L. 2011: Entire part added, (HB 11-1216), ch. 131, p. 456, § 1, effective April 26.

24-30-2202. Definitions. As used in this part 22, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) “Committee” means the disabled-benefit support contract committee created in section 24-30-2203.

(2) “Disability benefits” means cash payments from social security disability insurance under Title II of the federal “Social Security Act”, 42 U.S.C. sec. 401 et seq., as amended, cash payments made by the federal government to persons who are aged, blind, or disabled under Title XVI of the federal “Social Security Act”, 42 U.S.C. sec. 401 et seq., as amended, and long-term care under the “Colorado Medical Assistance Act”, articles 4 to 6 of title 25.5, C.R.S.

(3) “Nonprofit entity” means an entity incorporated under the “Colorado Revised Nonprofit Corporation Act”, articles 121 to 137 of title 7, C.R.S., or a tax-exempt entity under 26 U.S.C. sec. 501 (c) (3) of the federal “Internal Revenue Code of 1986”.

(4) “Recipient” means a person who receives disability benefits or long-term care services.

Source: L. 2011: Entire part added, (HB 11-1216), ch. 131, p. 456, § 1, effective April 26.

24-30-2203. Disabled-benefit support contract committee. (1) The disabled-benefit support contract committee is hereby created within the department of personnel. The committee consists of nine members appointed by the governor as follows:

(a) Three members who are disabled and currently receiving disability benefits or have received application assistance;

(b) One member of a statewide, cross-disability organization representing persons with disabilities;

(c) One member who is trained to increase access to disability benefits for persons with disabilities by an organization supported by the United States social security administration;

(d) One member who is a medical doctor;

(e) One member who is a mental health professional;

(f) One member who is an expert in nonprofit management; and

(g) One member appointed by the executive director of the department of personnel.

(2) Members of the committee serve three-year terms; except that members appointed under paragraph (a) of subsection (1) of this section serve an initial term of one year, and members appointed under paragraphs (b), (c), and (d) of subsection (1) of this section serve an initial term of two years.

(3) An act of the committee is void unless a majority of the members has voted in favor of the act.

(4) The committee shall implement section 24-30-2204 using the disability-benefit support fund created in section 24-30-2205.

(5) The committee is authorized to seek and accept grants or donations from private or public sources for the purposes of this part 22; except that the committee shall not accept a gift, grant, or donation that is subject to conditions that are inconsistent with this part 22 or part 13 of article 75 of this title regarding the status of grants and donations made to state agencies. The committee shall transmit the moneys to the disability-benefit support fund.

(6) The committee has the following duties and powers:

(a) To sue and be sued and otherwise assert or defend the committee's legal interests;

(b) To prepare and sign contracts;

(c) To have and exercise all rights and powers necessary or incidental to, or implied from, the specific powers granted in this part 22; and

(d) To fix the time and place at which meetings may be held.

(7) The committee may hire employees or obtain the services of professional advisors.

(8) The attorney general is the legal counsel for the committee.

24-30-2204. Program to assist persons to obtain disability benefits - repeal.

(1) Within six months after the first transfer to the disability-benefit support fund from the registration number fund created in section 42-1-407, C.R.S., the committee shall invite nonprofit entities to submit a proposal for a program to aid persons with disabilities in accessing disability benefits. To qualify, the nonprofit organization must be based in Colorado and governed by a board that:

(a) Is composed of persons with a demonstrated commitment to improving the lives of recipients with disabilities;

(b) Contains members who understand a range of significant disabilities, including physical and mental; and

(c) Contains a majority of either:

(I) Recipients with disabilities; or

(II) Family members of recipients with disabilities who have experience in representing the interests of a person with a disability.

(2) (a) (I) The committee shall review the proposed programs and shall award a contract to the nonprofit entity that best meets the requirements of this section in accordance with the "Procurement Code", articles 101 to 112 of this title.

(II) The term of the contract is one year. Before the contract expires, the committee shall evaluate whether the nonprofit entity and the contract are reasonably meeting the requirements of this section, including objective and quantitative evaluations, whenever possible, of the satisfaction of program participants, the program's success in obtaining disability benefits for program participants, the program's effectiveness at helping program participants obtain jobs, and improvements in the quality of life of program participants. The committee shall include the evaluation criteria in the contract.

(III) The committee may renew the contract annually for up to five years. After five years, the committee shall reopen the contract to a competitive bid process.

(b) The committee shall not award the contract unless the proposal includes:

(I) A system for evaluating whether a person with a disability is reasonably able to navigate the application process to obtain disability benefits, health care, and employment;

(II) A system for prioritizing the need of applicants based upon the evaluations;

(III) A plan for assisting persons with disabilities in navigating the processes of obtaining and retaining disability benefits, health care, and employment;

(IV) A plan for establishment of working relationships with state agencies, county departments of human services, health care providers, the United States social security administration, and the business community;

(V) A policy of preferential hiring of persons with disabilities;

(VI) Reasonable standards for accounting control of expenditures;

(VII) Metrics to evaluate the program's quality and cost-effectiveness;

(VIII) Effective July 1, 2016, the ability to serve persons with disabilities statewide; and

(IX) A plan for serving persons with disabilities statewide within five years. This subparagraph (IX) is repealed, effective July 1, 2016.

(c) The committee shall not discriminate against a contracting entity for advocacy concerning persons with disabilities.

(3) The entity awarded a contract under this section shall make quarterly reports of expenditures to the department of personnel, which shall make the reports available to the committee. The committee shall include in the contract a method and format for making the reports.

24-30-2205. Disability-benefit support fund. The disability-benefit support fund is hereby created in the state treasury. The moneys in the fund consist of amounts transferred to the fund under section 42-1-407, C.R.S., or transferred to the fund under section 24-30-2203 (5). The committee shall use the moneys in the fund to implement this part 22; except that the committee may direct the state treasurer to transfer moneys in the fund to the registration number fund created in section 42-1-407, C.R.S., to fund the implementation of part 4 of article 1 of title 42, C.R.S. The committee shall not use more than five percent of the money in the fund to administer this part 22. The state treasurer shall credit all interest earned on the investment of moneys in the fund to the fund. At the end of each fiscal year, the moneys in the fund, including income earned from investment, remain in the fund. The general assembly shall appropriate the moneys in the fund to the department of personnel or governor's office to implement this part 22.

Source: L. 2011: Entire part added, (HB 11-1216), ch. 131, p. 459, § 1, effective April 26.

24-30-2206. Implementation. The general assembly does not intend to require the department of personnel to expend moneys to implement this part 22. Notwithstanding any other section of this part 22, the department of personnel and the committee need not implement this part 22 until the disability-benefit support fund contains enough money to implement this part 22.

PART 1

ATTORNEY GENERAL

24-31-101. Powers and duties of attorney general. (1) (a) The attorney general of the state shall be the legal counsel and advisor of each department, division, board, bureau, and agency of the state government other than the legislative branch. He shall attend in person at the seat of government during the session of the general assembly and term of the supreme court and shall appear for the state and prosecute and defend all actions and proceedings, civil and criminal, in which the state is a party or is interested when required to do so by the governor, and he shall prosecute and defend for the state all causes in the appellate courts in which the state is a party or interested.

(b) It is the duty of the attorney general, at the request of the governor, the secretary of state, the state treasurer, the executive director of the department of revenue, or the commissioner of education, to prosecute and defend all suits relating to matters connected with their departments. When requested so to do, he shall give his opinion in writing upon all questions of law submitted to him by the general assembly or either house thereof or by the governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, executive director of the department of revenue, state treasurer, state auditor, or commissioner of education.

(c) When required, he shall prepare drafts for contracts, forms, and other writings which may be required for the use of the state. He shall keep in proper books a record of all official opinions and a register of all actions prosecuted or defended by him and of all proceedings had in relation thereto and the status of pending matters in his office, which books or registers shall be delivered to his successor. Publication of opinions or other material circulated in quantity outside the executive branch shall be issued in accordance with the provisions of section 24-1-136.

(d) Any moneys received by him belonging to the state or received in his official capacity shall be paid forthwith to the department of the treasury and, generally, he shall have such legal duties in regard to the activities of the state and its various departments, boards, bureaus, and agencies as are imposed by law.

(e) Whenever the attorney general is unable or has failed or refused to provide legal services to an agency of state government, as determined by the governor if the agency is in the executive branch or by the chief justice if the agency is in the judicial branch, such agency may employ counsel of its own choosing to provide such legal services. Any expense incurred by reason of the employment of counsel pursuant to this paragraph (e) shall be a lawful charge against appropriations for this purpose made by the general assembly to the department of law.

(f) The attorney general shall have concurrent original jurisdiction with the relevant district attorney over part 3 of article 25 of title 12, C.R.S.

(2) Repealed.

(3) The attorney general may appoint such deputies and assistants as are necessary for the efficient operation of his office within the limitations of appropriations made therefor by the general assembly.

(4) Upon the request of any employee in the state personnel system, it is the duty of the attorney general to represent such employee in any civil action or administrative proceeding instituted against such employee, either in his official or individual capacity if the action or proceeding arises out of performance of such employee's official duties as determined by the attorney general and if the action or proceeding has not been brought by the state personnel director or the appointing authority of such employee seeking dismissal or other disciplinary action; except that the attorney general shall not represent any such employee in an action brought under section 24-50.5-105.

(4.5) The attorney general, pursuant to section 24-30-1507, shall have the duty to represent expert witnesses and consultants described in section 24-30-1510 (3) (h).

(5) The general assembly hereby recognizes and reaffirms that the attorney general has all powers conferred by statute, and by common law in accordance with section 2-4-211, C.R.S., regarding all trusts established for charitable, educational, religious, or benevolent purposes.

(6) The attorney general shall have such other powers, duties, and functions as are prescribed for heads of principal departments in the "Administrative Organization Act of 1968", article 1 of this title.

ANNOTATION

Law reviews. For article, "Administrative Law", see 59 Den. L.J. 173 (1982).

Section is the exclusive source of the attorney general's powers. People ex rel. Tooley v. District Court, 190 Colo. 486, 549 P.2d 774 (1976).

Attorney general does not have powers beyond those granted by general assembly. Gillies v. Schmidt, 38 Colo. App. 233, 556 P.2d 82 (1976).

Although the constitution recognizes the attorney general as being part of the executive branch of government, § 1 of art. IV, Colo. Const., the attorney general does not have powers beyond those granted by the general assembly. People ex rel. Tooley v. District Court, 190 Colo. 486, 549 P.2d 774 (1976).

No authority to prosecute criminal actions absent governor's command. In the absence of a command from the governor, the attorney general is not authorized to prosecute criminal actions. People ex rel. Tooley v. District Court, 190 Colo. 486, 549 P.2d 774 (1976).

However, this section does not limit the power of the attorney general to petition for the impeachment of a state grand jury. People v. Valdez, 928 P.2d 1387 (Colo. App. 1996).

Powers of attorney general are not enlarged by grand jury act. The statutory powers granted to the attorney general under this section are not enlarged by the statewide grand jury act, § 13-73-101 et seq. People ex rel. Tooley v. District Court, 190 Colo. 486, 549 P.2d 774 (1976).

Therefore, attorney general cannot prosecute all grand jury indictments. Neither by express provision nor by implication did the general assembly grant the attorney general the right to prosecute all indictments returned by a state grand jury. People ex rel. Tooley v. District Court, 190 Colo. 486, 549 P.2d 774 (1976).

Attorney general prosecuting case is exercising district attorney's powers. When the governor requires the attorney general to prosecute a criminal case in which the state is a party, he becomes to all intents and purposes the district attorney, and may in his own name and official capacity exercise all the powers of that officer. People v. Gibson, 53 Colo. 231, 125 P. 531 (1912); People ex rel. Witcher v. District Court, 190 Colo. 483, 549 P.2d 778 (1976).

This section and § 20-1-102 are not inconsistent. This section, permitting the governor to appoint the attorney general to prosecute cases in which the state is a party or is interested, and § 20-1-102, directing the district attorney to appear on behalf of the state or counties of his district where the state or the people thereof or any county may be a party, are not inconsistent. The specific duty imposed upon the district attorney in no way limits or excludes the general authority of the attorney general upon the same subject. People ex rel. Witcher v. District Court, 190 Colo. 483, 549 P.2d 778 (1976); People v. Vickers, 199 Colo. 305, 608 P.2d 808 (1980).

For history of statutes providing for prosecutions, see People v. Gibson, 53 Colo. 231, 125 P. 531 (1912).

Attorney general is authorized to sue to enjoin restraint of trade. The attorney general has jurisdiction, when ordered by the governor, to institute a suit on behalf of the people to enjoin a combination in restraint of trade. Denver Jobbers' Ass'n v. People ex rel. Dickson, 21 Colo. App. 326, 122 P. 404 (1912).

He is also statutory legal advisor of the legislative and executive departments. In re Interrogatories of House, 62 Colo. 188, 162 P. 1144 (1916) (decided under former law).

Including university board of regents. The attorney general is the legal adviser of the board of regents of the university, and it is his duty to institute, prosecute, and defend all suits in its behalf. People ex rel. Jerome v. Regents of State Univ., 24 Colo. 175, 49 P. 286 (1897).

But he is not "ex officio" counsel for state treasurer and state officers; however, when requested to do so, it is his duty to appear for such officers in actions brought against them in their official capacity. Nance v. People ex rel. Sheedy, 25 Colo. 252, 54 P. 631 (1898).

Executive order authorizing representation of state department required. In a proceeding in the county court by the department of public welfare (now department of social services) against the estate of a pensioner, the attorney general is required to obtain an executive order from the governor authorizing and directing him to represent the department; if he fails to do so, the agency is without representation in the trial court, and is without representation to sue out a writ of error in the supreme court. Dunbar v. County Court, 131 Colo. 483, 283 P.2d 182 (1955) (decided under former law).

The duty of the attorney general to represent the state in civil actions extends only to situations in which the attorney general's participation is required by the governor. Bd. of Soc. Serv. v. Dept. of Soc. Serv., 902 P.2d 407 (Colo. App. 1994).

Employees of county department of social services are not entitled to representation by the attorney general because such employees are not in the state personnel system. Gilman v. State, 932 P.2d 832 (Colo. App. 1996), rev'd on other grounds, 949 P.2d 565 (Colo. 1997).

24-31-102. Offices, boards, and divisions. (1) The department of law, the chief executive officer of which shall be the attorney general, includes the following:

- (a) Division of legal affairs, which division shall include the office of the attorney general and which shall have and exercise the powers and duties specified and provided in section 24-31-101;
- (b) The division of state solicitor general, including the office of state solicitor general;
- (c) Repealed.

The attorney general has avoided violating due process and avoided the appearance of impropriety by establishing an internal system that allows the office to act as both an advocate and an advisor to the decision-making body in the same administrative case. People ex rel. Woodard v. Brown, 770 P.2d 1373 (Colo. App. 1989), cert. denied, 783 P.2d 1223 (Colo. 1989).

ANNOTATION

No authority of attorney general or designee to confer full grand jury subpoena power on police officers. Authority to appoint deputies pursuant to this section combined with the responsibility to present evidence to statewide grand jury pursuant to § 13-73-106 does not give the attorney general or his designee authority to confer full grand jury subpoena power on police officers by naming them as strike force investigators. People v. Corr, 682 P.2d 20 (Colo. 1984), cert. denied, 469 U.S. 855, 105 S. Ct. 181, 83 L. Ed.2d 115 (1984).

24-31-104. Appointment of subordinate officers and employees. The attorney general and the heads of the divisions specified in section 24-31-102 may appoint the subordinate officers and employees of their respective divisions, but only in conformity with sections 24-2-102 and 24-2-103.

24-31-104.5. Funding for insurance fraud investigations and prosecutions - creation of fund. (1) (a) For the purpose of providing adequate funds to the Colorado department of law for the investigation and prosecution of allegations of insurance fraud, in addition to any other fee collected pursuant to section 10-3-207 (1), C.R.S., each entity regulated by the division of insurance shall pay to the division a nonrefundable annual fee. Based upon the appropriations made to the department of law from the insurance fraud cash fund and the recommendation of the attorney general, the commissioner of insurance shall set the fee so that the revenue generated from the fee approximates the direct and indirect costs of the investigation and prosecution of allegations of insurance fraud. The fee shall not exceed three thousand dollars and is payable on or before March 1 of each year.

(b) The commissioner of insurance shall establish a tiered fee schedule that sets the annual fee required by paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) based upon the prior year's direct written premiums, gross contract funds, or charges received in Colorado by each regulated entity. The regulated entities with direct written premiums, gross contract funds, or charges received in Colorado in excess of one million dollars shall pay one fee, and the regulated entities with one million dollars or less shall pay a lesser fee.

(2) The division of insurance shall transmit fees collected pursuant to subsection (1) of this section to the state treasurer for deposit in the insurance fraud cash fund, which fund is hereby created in the state treasury. The fund consists of fees collected pursuant to this section and any other moneys deposited into the fund. Interest derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the fund shall be credited to the fund. The moneys in the fund are subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly to the department of law for use in investigating and prosecuting allegations of insurance fraud. Any unexpended and unencumbered moneys remaining in the fund at the end of any fiscal year remain in the fund and do not revert to the general fund.

(3) The attorney general shall provide annual reports to the joint budget committee, the senate business, labor, and technology committee, and the house economic and business development committee, or any successor committees, and shall post on the attorney general's web site a statistical report of the number of full-time employees dedicated to insurance fraud, referrals, open investigations, convictions, arrests, and actions initiated, and the number of restitutions, fines, costs, and forfeitures obtained, from the investigation and prosecution of insurance fraud as provided in this section. In the report, the attorney general shall make his or her best effort to delineate between the types of cases prosecuted by line of insurance.

24-31-105. Criminal enforcement section. There is hereby established, within the department of law and under the control of the attorney general, a criminal enforcement section. The criminal enforcement section or any attorney in the department of law authorized by the attorney general shall prosecute all criminal cases for the attorney general and shall perform other functions as may be required by the attorney general. The attorney general is hereby authorized to appoint a deputy attorney general as chief of the criminal enforcement section. The chief of said section shall be a licensed attorney with a minimum of two years of criminal experience as a trial or appellate prosecutor.

24-31-106. Rights of crime victims - victims' services coordinator. (1) To assure that the constitutional and statutory rights of victims are preserved in criminal cases being prosecuted or defended by the office of the attorney general, the attorney general may appoint, in accordance with section 13 of article XII of the state constitution, a victims' services coordinator, who shall be subject to the state personnel system pursuant to article 50 of this title.

(2) The victims' services coordinator shall perform such services as designated by the attorney general to assure that victims of crime are afforded the rights described in section 24-4.1-302.5 with regard to criminal cases being prosecuted or defended by the department of law.

(3) The attorney general may further direct the victims' services coordinator to provide appropriate services to the victims of crime, as defined by section 18-1-104 (1), C.R.S., whose cases are being handled on appeal by the department of law.

(4) The position of victims' services coordinator shall be properly classified under the state personnel director's classification system.

24-31-107. Applications for licenses - authority to suspend licenses - rules.

(1) Every application by an individual for a license issued by the department of law or any authorized agent of such department shall require the applicant's name, address, and social security number.

(2) The department of law or any authorized agent of the department shall deny, suspend, or revoke any license pursuant to the provisions of section 26-13-126, C.R.S., and any rules promulgated in furtherance thereof, if the department or agent thereof receives a notice to deny, suspend, or revoke from the state child support enforcement agency because the licensee or applicant is out of compliance with a court or administrative order for current child support, child support debt, retroactive child support, child support arrearages, or child support when combined with maintenance or because the licensee or applicant has failed to comply with a properly issued subpoena or warrant relating to a paternity or child support proceeding. Any such denial, suspension, or revocation shall be in accordance with the procedures specified by rule of the department of law, rules promulgated by the state board of human services, and any memorandum of understanding entered into between the department of law or an authorized agent thereof and the state child support enforcement agency for the implementation of this section and section 26-13-126, C.R.S.

(3) (a) The department of law shall enter into a memorandum of understanding with the state child support enforcement agency, which memorandum shall identify the relative responsibilities of the department of law and the state child support enforcement agency in the department of human services with respect to the implementation of this section and section 26-13-126, C.R.S.

(b) The appropriate rule-making body of the department of law is authorized to promulgate rules to implement the provisions of this section.

(4) For purposes of this section, "license" means any recognition, authority, or permission that the department of law or any authorized agent of such department is authorized by law to issue for an individual to practice a profession or occupation or for an individual to participate in any recreational activity. "License" may include, but is not necessarily limited to, any license, certificate, certification, letter of authorization, or registration issued for an individual to practice a profession or occupation or for an individual to participate in any recreational activity.

Editor's note: Section 51(2) of chapter 236, Session Laws of Colorado 1997, provides that the act enacting this section applies to all orders whether entered on, before, or after July 1, 1997.

24-31-108. Receipt of moneys - subject to appropriation - exception for custodial moneys - legal services cash fund - creation - definition - repeal. (1) (a) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this subsection (1) or in subsection (2) or (3) of this section, any moneys received by the attorney general and paid to the department of the treasury pursuant to section 24-31-101 (1) (d) are subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly.

(b) (I) The department of law is authorized to solicit, accept, and expend gifts, grants, and donations from public and private sources for the purposes of this article; except that the department may not accept a gift, grant, or donation that is subject to conditions inconsistent with this article or any other law of the state. All moneys collected by the department of law pursuant to this paragraph (b) shall be transmitted to the state treasurer to be credited to the particular fund deemed most appropriate by the department of law and shall be continuously appropriated to the department of law for the purposes of this article.

(II) The department of law shall include with its annual budget request to the joint budget committee a report describing the receipt and expenditure of moneys under this paragraph (b).

(III) This paragraph (b) is repealed, effective July 1, 2015.

(2) Any moneys received by the attorney general as an award of attorney fees or costs that are not custodial moneys shall be placed in a separate attorney fees and costs account and shall be subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly for legal services provided by the department of law.

(2.5) There is hereby created in the state treasury the legal services cash fund, also referred to in this subsection (2.5) as the "fund". The department of law shall transmit all moneys received from state agencies as payment for legal services to the state treasurer, who shall credit the same to the fund. The moneys in the fund and all interest earned on such moneys are subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly to the department of law for the direct and indirect costs associated with providing legal services to state governmental entities and for any of the department's litigation expenses. Any unexpended moneys in the fund at the end of the fiscal year shall remain in the fund and shall not be credited or transferred to any other fund.

(3) If all or a portion of any moneys received by the attorney general and paid to the department of the treasury pursuant to section 24-31-101 (1) (d) are custodial moneys, the attorney general shall direct the state treasurer in writing to place such custodial moneys in a separate account. Any custodial moneys placed in a separate account pursuant to this subsection (3) shall not be subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly. A copy of the written direction to the state treasurer shall be delivered to the joint budget committee. Such written direction shall set forth the basis for the attorney general's determination that the moneys are custodial moneys and shall specify the manner in which the moneys will be expended. Such written direction shall be given to the state treasurer within thirty days after the date the moneys are paid to the department of the treasury. Any custodial moneys placed in a separate account pursuant to this subsection (3) shall be expended only for the purposes for which the moneys have been provided. The department of law shall provide with its annual budget request an accounting of how custodial moneys have been or will be expended. For informational purposes, the expenditure of such moneys may be indicated in the annual general appropriation act.

(4) (a) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires, "custodial moneys" means moneys received by the attorney general:

(I) That originated from a source other than the state of Colorado;

- (II) That are awarded or otherwise provided to the state for a particular purpose;
- (III) For which the state is acting as a custodian or trustee to carry out the particular purpose for which the moneys have been provided.
- (b) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (4), custodial moneys shall not include the following:
 - (I) Moneys in the tobacco litigation settlement cash fund created in section 24-22-115;
 - (II) Moneys in the tobacco litigation settlement trust fund created in section 24-22-115.5; and
 - (III) Tobacco litigation settlement moneys subject to appropriation or expenditure pursuant to section 24-22-115.6.

24-31-202. Division of state solicitor general - office of state solicitor general - creation. There is hereby created the division of state solicitor general, including the office of state solicitor general, in the department of law, the head of which shall be the state solicitor general.

Source: L. 73: p. 174, § 2. C.R.S. 1963: § 3-9-5.

24-31-203. State solicitor - qualifications - appointment - duties. (1) The attorney general shall appoint the state solicitor who shall be an assistant attorney general. The person appointed state solicitor shall be an attorney-at-law in good standing and shall have been admitted to practice law in Colorado for at least five years immediately preceding the taking of office as state solicitor.

(2) The state solicitor shall be the head of the division of state solicitor general and shall provide such legal services for each state agency as may be designated by the attorney general. No state agency shall appoint or employ any person to perform legal services except in accordance with the provisions of this part 2.

(3) No assistant state solicitor may appear in any court of this state or of the United States on behalf of any state agency unless specifically authorized to so appear by the attorney general. When so authorized to appear on behalf of a state agency, any assistant shall have all the power and authority of an assistant attorney general and shall be designated as a special assistant attorney general. When acting as a special assistant attorney general, an assistant state solicitor shall not be entitled to any compensation other than compensation as an assistant state solicitor.

(4) The state solicitor may make such rules and regulations, pursuant to the provisions of section 24-4-103, as may be necessary to carry out the duties imposed upon him by law or by the attorney general.

(5) Upon request by the head of any department, division, commission, board, institution, or institution of higher education, the state solicitor shall assign assistant solicitors to perform legal services for the requesting agency. The requesting party may request, and the state solicitor may assign, assistant solicitors on a permanent or temporary basis to the requesting agency.

(6) Legal services performed by assistant solicitors shall be subject to the supervision of the state solicitor and shall be rendered in accordance with the legal policies of the state as determined by the attorney general.

24-31-204. Assistant state solicitors - appointment - qualifications. (1) The state solicitor, with the consent of the attorney general, may appoint such assistants as may be necessary to provide legal services to each state agency. Assistants shall be appointed in accordance with the provisions of section 13 of article XII of the state constitution and the laws and rules governing the state personnel system.

(2) No person shall be appointed an assistant who is not an attorney-at-law in good standing and who has not been admitted to practice law in this state.

(3) The state solicitor shall not reduce the level of existing legal services available to any state agency on July 1, 1973.

(4) Whenever the state solicitor assigns an assistant to a state agency, that state agency shall provide adequate office space, secretarial and technical assistance, and adequate funds for operating, travel, and capital expenses.

PART 3

PEACE OFFICERS STANDARDS AND TRAINING

Cross references: For the legislative declaration contained in the 1992 act enacting this part 3, see section 12 of chapter 167, Session Laws of Colorado 1992.

24-31-301. Definitions. As used in this part 3, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Applicant" means any person seeking certification to serve as a peace officer or a reserve peace officer.

(1.5) "Basic training" means the basic law enforcement training received by a peace officer at any approved law enforcement training academy.

(2) "Certification" means the issuance to an applicant of a signed instrument evidencing that such applicant has met the requirements imposed by this part 3 and the P.O.S.T.

board. Certification includes “basic certification” and “provisional certification” that shall be issued to peace officers, “reserve certification” that shall be issued to reserve peace officers, and such additional certifications as the board may approve for peace officers.

(3) (Deleted by amendment, L. 94, p. 1725, § 3, effective May 31, 1994.)

(3.5) Repealed.

(4) “Local government representative” means a member of a board of county commissioners, member of a city or town council or board of trustees, or mayor of a city or town or city and county.

(5) “Peace officer” means any person described in section 16-2.5-101, C.R.S., and who has not been convicted of a felony or convicted on or after July 1, 2001, of any misdemeanor as described in section 24-31-305 (1.5), or released or discharged from the armed forces of the United States under dishonorable conditions.

(5.5) “Reserve peace officer” means any person described in section 16-2.5-110, C.R.S., and who has not been convicted of a felony or convicted on or after July 1, 2001, of any misdemeanor as described in section 24-31-305 (1.5), or released or discharged from the armed forces of the United States under dishonorable conditions.

(6) “Training academy” means any school approved by the P.O.S.T. board where peace officers and reserve peace officers receive instruction and training.

(7) “Training program” means a course of instruction approved by the P.O.S.T. board for peace officer or reserve peace officer certification and other peace officer training programs.

24-31-302. Creation of board. (1) There is hereby created, within the department of law, the peace officers standards and training board, referred to in this part 3 as the “P.O.S.T. board”.

(2) The P.O.S.T. board shall exercise its powers and perform its duties and functions under the department of law as if transferred to the department by a type 2 transfer, as such transfer is defined in the “Administrative Organization Act of 1968”, article 1 of this title.

(3) The P.O.S.T. board shall consist of twenty members. The chairperson of the P.O.S.T. board shall be the attorney general, and the board shall annually elect from its members a vice-chairperson. The other members shall be the special agent in charge of the Denver division of the federal bureau of investigation, the executive director of the department of public safety, one local government representative, six active chiefs of police from municipalities of this state or state institutions of higher education, six active sheriffs from counties of this state, three active peace officers with a rank of sergeant or below, and one lay member. The governor shall appoint the chiefs of police, sheriffs, peace officers, the lay member, and the local government representative as members of the board for terms of three years per appointment. If any chief of police, sheriff, peace officer, lay member, or local government representative vacates such office during the term for which appointed to the P.O.S.T. board, a vacancy on the board shall exist. Any vacancy shall be filled by appointment by the governor for the unexpired term.

(4) The members of the P.O.S.T. board shall receive no compensation for their services but may be reimbursed for actual and necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their official duties.

ANNOTATION

Denver deputy sheriffs are peace officers within definition of "peace officer, level I", in § 18-1-901. Fraternal Order, No. 27 v. Denver, 914 P.2d 483 (Colo. App. 1995).

For purposes of the reference to § 18-1-901(3)(I)(I) made in subsection (5) of this section, the certification requirement does not constitute a part of that definition. Fraternal Order, No. 27 v. Denver, 914 P.2d 483 (Colo. App. 1995).

Because the constitution grants Denver the power to control the qualifications, as well as the powers, duties, and terms or tenure, of its deputy sheriffs, it necessarily follows that the P.O.S.T. Act is in conflict with the constitution to the extent that it purports to require Denver deputy sheriffs to be certified by the P.O.S.T. board. Fraternal Order, No. 27 v. Denver, 914 P.2d 483 (Colo. App. 1995).

24-31-303. Duties - powers of the P.O.S.T. board. (1) The P.O.S.T. board has the following duties:

- (a) To approve and to revoke the approval of training programs and training academies, and to establish reasonable standards pertaining to such approval and revocation;
 - (b) To conduct periodic evaluations of training programs and inspections of training academies;
 - (c) To establish procedures for determining whether or not an applicant has met the standards which have been set;
 - (d) To certify qualified applicants and withhold, suspend, or revoke certification;
 - (e) To certify inspectors of vehicle identification numbers and approve training courses relating thereto;
 - (f) To require a background investigation of each applicant by means of fingerprint checks through the Colorado bureau of investigation and the federal bureau of investigation or such other means as the P.O.S.T. board deems necessary for such investigation;
 - (g) To promulgate rules and regulations deemed necessary by such board for the certification of applicants to serve as peace officers or reserve peace officers in the state pursuant to the provisions of article 4 of this title;
 - (h) To establish standards for training in bail recovery practices;
 - (i) To promulgate rules and regulations that establish the criteria that shall be applied in determining whether to recommend peace officer status for a group or specific position as provided in section 16-2.5-201 (4), C.R.S.; and
 - (j) To establish standards for training of school resource officers, as described in section 24-31-312.
- (2) (a) The P.O.S.T. board may charge the following fees, the proceeds of which may be used to support the certification of applicants pursuant to this part 3:
- (I) For the manuals or other materials that the board may publish in connection with its functions, an amount not to exceed twenty dollars per publication; and
 - (II) For the administration of certification and skills examinations, an amount not to exceed one hundred twenty-five dollars per examination per applicant.
- (b) There is hereby created in the state treasury a P.O.S.T. board cash fund. The fees collected pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) and pursuant to section 42-3-304 (24), C.R.S., shall be transmitted to the state treasurer who shall credit such revenue to the P.O.S.T. board cash fund. It is the intent of the general assembly that the fees collected shall cover all direct and indirect costs incurred pursuant to this section. In accordance with section 24-36-114, all interest derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the P.O.S.T. board cash fund shall be credited to the general fund. All moneys in the P.O.S.T. board cash fund shall be subject to annual appropriation by the general assembly and shall be used for the purposes set forth in this subsection (2) and in section 24-31-310. At the end of any fiscal year, all unexpended and unencumbered moneys in the P.O.S.T. board cash fund shall remain in the fund and shall not revert to the general fund or any other fund.
- (3) The P.O.S.T. board may make grants to local governments or to any college or university for the purpose of funding the training programs required by this section.
- (4) (Deleted by amendment, L. 98, p. 749, §2, effective May 22, 1998.)

(5) It is unlawful for any person to serve as a peace officer, as described in section 16-2.5-102, C.R.S., or a reserve peace officer as defined in section 16-2.5-110, C.R.S., in this state unless such person:

- (a) Is certified pursuant to this part 3; and
 - (b) Has undergone both a physical and a psychological evaluation to determine such person's fitness to serve as a peace officer or a reserve peace officer. Such evaluations shall have been performed within one year prior to the date of appointment by a physician and either a psychologist or psychiatrist licensed by the state of Colorado.
- (6) Repealed.

24-31-304. Applicant for training - fingerprint-based criminal history record check. (1) For purposes of this section, "training academy" means a basic or reserve peace officer training program approved by the P.O.S.T. board that is offered by a training academy, community college, college, or university.

(2) A training academy shall not enroll as a student a person who has been convicted of an offense that would result in the denial of certification pursuant to section 24-31-305 (1.5).

(3) A person seeking to enroll in a training academy shall submit a set of fingerprints to the training academy prior to enrolling in the academy. The training academy shall forward the fingerprints to the Colorado bureau of investigation for the purpose of obtaining a fingerprint-based criminal history record check. Upon receipt of fingerprints and payment for the costs, the Colorado bureau of investigation shall conduct a state and national fingerprint-based criminal history record check utilizing records of the Colorado bureau of investigation and the federal bureau of investigation. The P.O.S.T. board shall be the authorized agency to receive information regarding the result of a national criminal history record check. The P.O.S.T. board shall notify the training academy if the fingerprint-based criminal history record check indicates that the person is prohibited from enrolling in the training academy pursuant to subsection (2) of this section. The person seeking to enroll in the training academy shall bear only the actual costs of the state and national fingerprint-based criminal history record check.

(4) (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (2) of this section and section 24-31-305 (1.5) to the contrary, if the person anticipates that he or she will be prohibited from enrolling in the training academy on the grounds that the person has been convicted on or after July 1, 2001, of one or more of the misdemeanors described in section 24-31-305 (1.5), the person may, at the time of applying for admission to the training academy, notify the P.O.S.T. board of the conviction or convictions and request the P.O.S.T. board to grant the person permission to enroll in the training academy.

(b) The P.O.S.T. board shall promulgate rules deemed necessary by the board concerning the procedures for the granting of permission to enroll in a training academy pursuant to this subsection (4). The P.O.S.T. board, in promulgating the rules, shall take into consideration the procedures for the granting of exemptions to denials of certification and the withdrawal of denials of certification described in section 24-31-305 (1.6). The P.O.S.T. board, in promulgating the rules, may specify that an applicant for certification pursuant to section 24-31-305 need not submit a set of fingerprints at the time of applying for the certification if the applicant has already submitted a set of fingerprints pursuant to this section.

24-31-305. Certification - issuance - renewal - revocation. (1) (a) Basic peace officer certification requirements shall include:

- (I) Successful completion of a high school education or its equivalent;
- (II) Successful completion of basic training approved by the P.O.S.T. board;
- (III) Passage of examinations administered by the P.O.S.T. board; and
- (IV) Current first aid and cardiopulmonary resuscitation certificates or their equivalents.

(b) The training required for basic certification may be obtained through a training program conducted by a training academy approved by the P.O.S.T. board or completion of requirements of another state, federal, or tribal jurisdiction having standards deemed at least equivalent to those established pursuant to this part 3.

(c) Repealed.

(1.3) Reserve peace officer certification requirements shall include:

- (a) Successful completion of a high school education or its equivalent;
- (b) Successful completion of reserve training approved by the P.O.S.T. board; and
- (c) Current first aid and cardiopulmonary resuscitation certificates or their equivalents.

(1.5) The P.O.S.T. board shall deny certification to any person who has been convicted of:

- (a) A felony;
- (b) Any misdemeanor in violation of sections 18-3-204, 18-3-402, 18-3-404, 18-3-405.5, and 18-3-412.5, C.R.S.;
- (c) Any misdemeanor in violation of sections 18-7-201, 18-7-202, 18-7-203, 18-7-204, 18-7-302, and 18-7-601, C.R.S.;
- (d) Any misdemeanor in violation of any section of article 8 of title 18, C.R.S.;
- (e) Any misdemeanor in violation of sections 18-9-111 and 18-9-121, C.R.S.;
- (f) Any misdemeanor in violation of sections 18-18-404, 18-18-405, 18-18-406, and 18-18-411, C.R.S.;
- (g) Any misdemeanor in violation of section 18-6-403 (3) (b.5), as it existed prior to July 1, 2006, and section 18-7-208, C.R.S.; or
- (h) Any misdemeanor in violation of federal law or the law of any state that is the equivalent of any of the offenses specified in paragraphs (a) to (g) of this subsection (1.5).

(1.6) (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (1.5) of this section, if an applicant anticipates prior to the denial of certification that he or she will be denied certification on the ground that the applicant has been convicted on or after July 1, 2001, of any misdemeanor or misdemeanors described in subsection (1.5) of this section, the applicant or the chief law enforcement officer of the agency, if any, employing such applicant may, at the time of the application for certification, notify the P.O.S.T. board of such conviction or convictions and request the board to grant the applicant an exemption from denial of certification.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (1.5) of this section, if an applicant is denied certification on the ground that the applicant has been convicted on or after July 1, 2001, of any misdemeanor or misdemeanors described in subsection (1.5) of this section, the applicant or the chief law enforcement officer of the agency, if any, employing such applicant may, within thirty days after the effective date of denial, request that the P.O.S.T. board withdraw the denial of certification.

(c) The P.O.S.T. board shall promulgate rules and regulations deemed necessary by the board concerning the procedures for the granting of exemptions to denials of certification and the withdrawal of denials of certification under this subsection (1.6).

(1.7) (a) Unless revoked, a basic certification or reserve certification issued pursuant to this part 3 is valid as long as the certificate holder is continuously serving as a peace officer or reserve peace officer.

(b) If a basic or reserve certificate holder has not served as a peace officer or reserve peace officer for a total of at least six months during any consecutive three-year period, the certification automatically expires at the end of such three-year period, unless the certificate holder is then serving as a peace officer or reserve peace officer.

(c) The P.O.S.T. board may promulgate rules for the renewal of certification that expired pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (1.7).

(2) (a) A certification issued pursuant to subsection (1) or (1.3) of this section or section 24-31-308 shall be suspended or revoked by the P.O.S.T. board if the certificate holder has been convicted of a felony at any time, or has been convicted on or after July 1, 2001, of any misdemeanor or misdemeanors described in subsection (1.5) of this section, or has otherwise failed to meet the certification requirements established by the board.

(b) (I) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2), if the certification of a certificate holder is revoked pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) on the ground that the certificate holder has been convicted on or after July 1, 2001, of any misdemeanor or misdemeanors described in subsection (1.5) of this section, the certificate holder or the chief law enforcement officer of the agency, if any, employing such certificate holder may, within thirty days after the effective date of the revocation, request the P.O.S.T. board to reinstate the certification.

(II) The P.O.S.T. board shall promulgate rules and regulations deemed necessary by the board concerning the procedures for the reinstatement of revocations of certification.

(3) Certification shall not vest tenure or related rights. The policies, if any, of the employing agency shall govern such rights. Additional certification reflecting higher levels of proficiency may, at the discretion of the employing agency, be required in hiring, retaining, or promoting peace officers.

(4) The P.O.S.T. board may grant variances from the requirements of this section to any individual, including any individual called to active duty by the armed forces of the United States, if strict application thereof would result in practical difficulty or unnecessary hardship and where the variance would not conflict with the basic purposes and policies of this part 3. The P.O.S.T. board shall promulgate rules regarding the procedure for applying for and granting variances pursuant to this subsection (4).

ANNOTATION

Because the constitution grants Denver the power to control the qualifications, as well as the powers, duties, and terms or tenure, of its deputy sheriffs, it necessarily follows that the P.O.S.T. Act is in conflict with the constitution to the extent that it purports to require Denver deputy sheriffs to be certified by the P.O.S.T.

board. Fraternal Order, No. 27 v. Denver, 914 P.2d 483 (Colo. App. 1995).

Because the state's interest under the Peace Officers Standards and Training Act was not sufficient to outweigh Denver's home rule authority, the provisions of this section supersede the conflicting provisions of the P.O.S.T.

Act. Fraternal Order of Police, Lodge 27 v. Denver, 926 P.2d 582 (Colo. 1996).

The qualification and certification of Denver deputy sheriffs is a local concern, specifically, where it was shown that there was no need for statewide uniformity of training that would include Denver deputy sheriffs; that the extraterritorial impact of Denver deputy sheriffs is, at best, de minimis; that Denver deputy sheriffs do not substantially impact public safety beyond the boundaries of Denver; and Denver's interest in the training and certification of its deputy sheriffs is substantial and has direct textual support in the Colorado Constitution and in case law precedent. Fraternal Order of Police, Lodge 27 v. Denver, 926 P.2d 582 (Colo. 1996).

The holding regarding the training and certification under the P.O.S.T. Act is limited to Denver deputy sheriffs since Colorado Constitution article XX, § 2, pertains only to the City and County of Denver. Fraternal Order of Police, Lodge 27 v. Denver, 926 P.2d 582 (Colo. 1996).

24-31-307. Enforcement. (1) The P.O.S.T. board shall have the power to direct the attorney general to enforce the provisions of this part 3 through an action in district court for injunctive or other appropriate relief against:

(a) Any individual undertaking or attempting to undertake any duties as a peace officer or a reserve peace officer in this state in violation of this part 3; and

(b) Any agency permitting any individual to undertake or attempt to undertake any duties as a peace officer or a reserve peace officer in this state under the auspices of such agency in violation of this part 3.

(2) The attorney general shall be entitled to recover reasonable attorney fees and costs against the defendant in any enforcement action under this part 3, if the attorney general prevails.

24-31-308. Reciprocity - provisional certificate. (1) The P.O.S.T. board is authorized to grant a provisional certificate to any person who:

(a) Has been authorized to act as a peace officer in another state or federal jurisdiction, excluding the armed forces, within the preceding three years and has served as a certified law enforcement officer in good standing in such other state or federal jurisdiction for more than one year;

(b) Passes the certification examination required pursuant to this part 3; and

(c) Possesses current first aid and cardiopulmonary resuscitation certificates or their equivalent.

(2) (a) The P.O.S.T. board is authorized to grant a basic certification to a person who meets the criteria established for basic certification by rule of the P.O.S.T. board.

(b) Any rule of the P.O.S.T. board establishing the criteria for basic certification shall provide that a basic certification will be issued only after an applicant has successfully demonstrated to the P.O.S.T. board a proficiency in all skill areas as required by section 24-31-305.

(3) (a) A provisional certificate shall be valid for six months.

(b) Upon a showing of good cause, the P.O.S.T. board may renew a provisional certificate once for a period not to exceed an additional six months.

24-31-309. Profiling - officer identification - training. (1) (a) The general assembly finds, determines, and declares that profiling is a practice that presents a great danger to the fundamental principles of our constitutional republic and is abhorrent and cannot be tolerated.

(b) The general assembly further finds and declares that motorists who have been stopped by peace officers for no reason other than the color of their skin or their apparent race, ethnicity, age, or gender are the victims of discriminatory practices.

(c) The general assembly further finds and declares that Colorado peace officers risk their lives every day. The people of Colorado greatly appreciate the hard work and dedication of peace officers in protecting public safety. The good name of these peace officers should not be tarnished by the actions of those who commit discriminatory practices.

(d) It is therefore the intent of the general assembly in adopting this section to provide a means of identification of peace officers who are engaging in profiling, to underscore the accountability of those peace officers for their actions, and to provide training to those peace officers on how to avoid profiling.

(2) For purposes of this section, "profiling" means the practice of detaining a suspect based on race, ethnicity, age, or gender without the existence of any individualized suspicion of the particular person being stopped.

(3) Any peace officer certified pursuant to this part 3 shall not engage in profiling.

(4) (a) A peace officer certified pursuant to this part 3 shall provide, without being asked, his or her business card to any person whom the peace officer has detained in a traffic stop, but has not cited or arrested. The business card shall include identifying information about the peace officer including, but not limited to, the peace officer's name, division, precinct, and badge or other identification number and a telephone number that may be used, if necessary, to report any comments, positive or negative, regarding the traffic stop. The identity of the reporting person and the report of any such comments that constitutes a complaint shall initially be kept confidential by the receiving law enforcement agency, to the extent permitted by law. The receiving law enforcement agency shall be permitted to obtain some identifying information regarding the complaint to allow initial processing of the complaint. If it becomes necessary for the further processing of the complaint for the complainant to disclose his or her identity, the complainant shall do so or, at the option of the receiving law enforcement agency, the complaint may be dismissed.

(b) The provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) shall not apply to authorized undercover operations conducted by any law enforcement agency.

(c) Each law enforcement agency in the state shall compile on at least an annual basis any information derived from telephone calls received due to the distribution of business cards as described in paragraph (a) of this subsection (4) and that allege profiling. The agency shall make such information available to the public but shall not include the names of peace officers or the names of persons alleging profiling in such information. The agency may also include in such information the costs to the agency of complying with the provisions of this subsection (4).

(5) The training provided for peace officers shall include an examination of the patterns, practices, and protocols that result in profiling and prescribe patterns, practices, and protocols that prevent profiling. On or before August 1, 2001, the P.O.S.T. board shall certify the curriculum for such training.

(6) No later than six months after June 5, 2001, each law enforcement agency in the state shall have written policies, procedures, and training in place that are specifically designed to address profiling. Each peace officer employed by such law enforcement agency shall receive such training. The written policies and procedures shall be made available to the public for inspection during regular business hours.

24-31-310. Resources for the training of peace officers - peace officers in rural jurisdictions - legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that Colorado peace officers risk their lives every day in the normal course of their duties. On the roads and highways and throughout the state, peace officers are expected to make quick and difficult decisions that concern both public and officer safety. The general assembly further finds and declares that good training is crucial for peace officers to make decisions that are in the best interests of the health and safety of the citizens of Colorado. The general assembly recognizes that the P.O.S.T. board oversees peace officer training programs and that in the past the state has provided funding for such training programs. The general assembly further recognizes that the state has not provided funding for peace officer training programs since 1992, and that the lack of state funding has had a significant impact on the training of peace officers in the state. Therefore, it is the intent of this section to reimplement state funding for peace officer training programs and to enable the P.O.S.T. board to provide substantial training for peace officers who serve the citizens of Colorado.

(2) The moneys collected and transferred to the P.O.S.T. board cash fund pursuant to section 42-3-304 (24), C.R.S., shall be used to provide training programs for peace officers, especially peace officers in rural and smaller jurisdictions that have limited resources due to the size or location of such jurisdictions. The moneys shall be used and distributed pursuant to subsection (3) of this section.

(3) The moneys collected and transferred to the P.O.S.T. board cash fund pursuant to section 42-3-304 (24), C.R.S., shall be used and distributed as determined by the P.O.S.T. board. The moneys in the fund shall be used to pay the salary and benefits of any employee hired by the department of law in order to administer the peace officer training programs and to cover any other costs incurred by the P.O.S.T. board in connection with such programs. Under no circumstance shall general fund moneys be used to cover such costs incurred by the department of law or the P.O.S.T. board.

24-31-311. DNA evidence - collection - retention. (1) The training provided for peace officers shall include proper collection and retention techniques, practices, and protocols for evidence that may contain biological or DNA evidence. On or before August 1, 2009, the P.O.S.T. board shall certify the curriculum for the training. After August 1, 2009, the training shall be provided to persons who enroll in a training academy for basic peace officer training and to all peace officers described in section 16-2.5-101, C.R.S., who are certified by the P.O.S.T. board pursuant to this part 3 prior to August 1, 2009.

(2) The P.O.S.T. board may develop a specialized certification program that concentrates on the proper techniques, practices, and protocols for evidence collection with emphasis on evidence that may contain biological or DNA evidence.

24-31-312. School resource officer training. (1) On or before January 1, 2014, the P.O.S.T. board shall identify a school resource officer training curriculum to prepare peace officers.

(2) To the extent practicable, the training curriculum described in subsection (1) of this section shall incorporate the suggestions of relevant stakeholders and advocates.

(3) (a) In assigning peace officers to serve as school resource officers pursuant to section 22-32-146, C.R.S., each law enforcement agency is encouraged to ensure that such peace officers have successfully completed the school resource officer training curriculum described in subsection (1) of this section, or will complete said training within six months after beginning the assignment.

(b) On and after January 1, 2015, each county sheriff and each municipal law enforcement agency of the state shall employ at least one peace officer who has successfully completed the training curriculum described in subsection (1) of this section.

(4) For the purposes of section 22-32-146, C.R.S., the training curriculum provided pursuant to subsection (1) of this section shall include a means of recognizing and identifying peace officers who successfully complete the training curriculum.

(5) In providing the training curriculum described in subsection (1) of this section, the P.O.S.T. board may include provisions to allow for the awarding of credit to a peace officer who has successfully completed a school resource officer certification curriculum offered by one or more public or private entities, which entities shall be identified by the P.O.S.T. board.

(6) The P.O.S.T. board may charge a fee to each peace officer who enrolls in the training curriculum described in subsection (1) of this section. The amount of the fee shall not exceed the direct and indirect costs incurred by the P.O.S.T. board in providing the curriculum.

ENFORCEMENT OF TOBACCO SETTLEMENT

24-31-401. Definitions. As used in this part 4, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Smokeless tobacco settlement" means the settlement agreement between the state of Colorado and various domestic smokeless tobacco products manufacturers, dated November 23, 1998, which was approved by the district court of the city and county of Denver as part of a consent decree dated November 25, 1998, in the case denominated State of Colorado, ex rel. Gale A. Norton, Attorney General v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.; American Tobacco Co., Inc.; Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp.; Liggett & Myers, Inc.; Lorillard Tobacco Co., Inc.; Philip Morris, Inc.; United States Tobacco Co.; B.A.T. Industries, P.L.C.; The Council For Tobacco Research—U.S.A., Inc.; and Tobacco Institute, Inc., Case No. 97 CV 3432.

(2) "Tobacco settlement" means the settlement agreement between the state of Colorado and various domestic tobacco products manufacturers, dated November 23, 1998, which was approved by the district court of the city and county of Denver as part of a consent decree dated November 25, 1998, in the case denominated State of Colorado, ex rel. Gale A. Norton, Attorney General v. R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.; American Tobacco Co., Inc.; Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp.; Liggett & Myers, Inc.; Lorillard Tobacco Co., Inc.; Philip Morris, Inc.; United States Tobacco Co.; B.A.T. Industries, P.L.C.; The Council For Tobacco Research—U.S.A., Inc.; and Tobacco Institute, Inc., Case No. 97 CV 3432.

24-31-402. Enforcement by attorney general. (1) The general assembly hereby finds that both the tobacco settlement and the smokeless tobacco settlement impose numerous duties and obligations on the parties to those settlement agreements relating to the marketing and advertising of tobacco products and the payment of damages to the state. The general assembly further finds that most of these duties and obligations continue for a minimum of twenty-five years from the dates of the settlement agreements. Therefore, the attorney general shall oversee and take the necessary actions to enforce compliance with the provisions of the tobacco settlement agreement and the smokeless tobacco settlement agreement, consistent with the duties and obligations set forth in said settlement agreements and with Colorado law.

(2) The enforcement duty specified in subsection (1) of this section is in addition to and does not limit the authority of the attorney general otherwise existing under common law or the statutes of this state.

PART 1

DIVISION OF LOCAL GOVERNMENT

24-32-101. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly finds and declares that:

(a) Strong local government has been a major factor in the political and economic development of the state;

(b) The future welfare of the state depends, in large measure, on local leadership and the effectiveness of local government;

(c) Population shifts and other economic and social trends have brought new problems to local government in growing metropolitan areas and throughout the state; and

(d) The state has primary responsibility for strengthening local government, encouraging local initiative, and providing coordination of state services and information to assist local government in effectively meeting the needs of Colorado citizens.

24-32-103. Division created. There is hereby created, as a division of the department of local affairs, the division of local government. The division shall be in the charge of a director who shall be appointed by the executive director of the department. The director, and any assistants and employees of the division, shall be appointed pursuant to section 13 of article XII of the state constitution.

24-32-104. Functions of the division. (1) The division shall perform the following functions:

(a) Assist the governor in coordinating the activities and services of those departments and agencies of the state having relationships with units of local government in order to provide more effective services to units of local government and to simplify procedures with respect thereto;

(b) Advise the governor and the general assembly of the problems of local government;

(c) Serve as a clearing house, for the benefit of local government, of information relating to the common problems of local government and of state and federal services available to assist in the solution of those problems;

(d) Refer local government to appropriate departments and agencies of the state and federal government for advice, assistance, and available services in connection with specific problems;

(e) Perform such research as is necessary to carry out the functions of the division, including the study of local government, intergovernmental relations, the structure and powers of local government units and their relationships to each other, local government finance, services, management, and functions;

(f) Encourage and when so requested assist cooperative efforts among the officials of local government units toward the solution of common problems;

(g) Encourage and cooperate in training institutes, conferences, and programs for local government officials and employees;

(h) Publish an annual compendium of local government fiscal data beginning with calendar year 1968 and publish from time to time other statistical and research reports of interest to local government, the general assembly, and the general public;

(i) Upon request by local government officials, provide technical assistance in defining their local government problems and developing solutions thereof;

(j) Provide technical assistance to district attorneys, including, but not limited to, coordinating educational grants;

(k) Repealed.

(l) Administer emergency services provided by the state.

L. 92: (1)(j) and (1)(k) amended and (1)(l) added, p. 1011, § 3, effective March 12. L. 93: (1)(k) repealed, p. 1784, § 55, effective June 6.

24-32-105. Limitation of authority of division. Nothing in this part 1 shall give to the division any power of control or supervision over any unit of local government.

24-32-106. Powers of the director. (1) In order to perform the functions and duties of the division expressly set forth in this part 1, the director, acting under the authority of the executive director of the department of local affairs, has the following powers:

(a) To employ assistants and personnel as may be appropriate to the functions of the division within the appropriation given by the general assembly;

(b) To contract for services and materials required by the division;

(c) To receive and expend gifts, grants, and bequests, subject to approval of the governor, and to expend state funds which are appropriated by the general assembly;

(d) To contract with the federal government or any agency or instrumentality thereof and to receive any grants or moneys therefrom for purposes not inconsistent with the purposes set forth in this part 1;

(e) To exercise any other authority consistent with the purposes for which the division is created which is reasonably necessary for the fulfillment of assigned responsibilities;

(f) Repealed.

(g) To award grants for water and sewer emergencies of local governments. Such grants shall be made based upon financial need as determined by the director, and the director may require that such grants be contingent on repayment by the local government.

24-32-107. Payment of expenses and salaries. Vouchers covering expenses and salaries of the division shall be signed by the director, and warrants shall be drawn by the controller in payment thereof as provided by law.

24-32-108. Establishment of a file. The division of local government, with the cooperation of the secretary of state, shall promptly establish and maintain on a current basis, as a public record, a file listing by name all incorporated towns, cities, or cities and counties of the state, referred to in this part 1 as "municipalities", with the date of incorporation of each municipality, recording by legal description all changes in the boundaries of such municipalities, and accompanied by a map of the same. The division of local government shall maintain such a current and revised list for public inspection. Within thirty days after July 1, 1967, each municipality shall submit to the division of local government a description of its current legal boundaries, accompanied by a map, and the date of its municipal incorporation.

24-32-109. Notice of change - failure to file - effect. No annexation, consolidation, merger, detachment of any area, new incorporation, or dissolution of an existing municipality shall be effective until notice of the completion of such action with a legal description accompanied by a map of the area concerned is filed in duplicate by the municipality with the county clerk and recorder of the county in which the annexation, consolidation, merger, detachment, incorporation, or dissolution takes place. In case such action effects a change in county boundaries, the same shall be filed with the county clerk and recorder of each county affected. A certified duplicate copy of any annexation, consolidation, merger, detachment, incorporation, or dissolution shall be filed with the division of local government by the county clerk and recorder of the county.

ANNOTATION

Filing requirements of this section and § 31-12-113 (2)(a)(II)(A) not satisfied by mere substantial compliance. There are several clear indications in these statutory provisions that substantial compliance with filing requirements is insufficient. Both statutes plainly declare that the consequence of noncompliance is that annexation shall not become effective. Unlike statutes governing annexations by petition, this section and § 31-12-113 do not expressly allow for substantial compliance. Presence of an explicit good cause exception in § 31-12-113 (2)(c) suggests general assembly intended that only a showing of good cause would excuse strict compliance. Grandote Golf & Ctry. Club v. Town of La Veta, 252 P.3d 1196 (Colo. App. 2011).

Even assuming that substantial compliance with § 31-12-113 and the requirements of this section may render an annexation effective, there was no substantial compliance with additional requirement that a certified copy of the annexation ordinance and map be filed with division of local government. This requirement cannot be deemed a mere formality; excusing noncompliance with this requirement would not result in fulfillment of the relevant statutes' purposes. Grandote Golf & Ctry. Club v. Town of La Veta, 252 P.3d 1196 (Colo. App. 2011).

Because required filings of annexation ordinance did not occur, and because no good cause was shown or even alleged for the failure, the annexation contemplated by the ordinance did not become effective. Grandote Golf & Ctry. Club v. Town of La Veta, 252 P.3d 1196 (Colo. App. 2011).

24-32-115. Economic self-sufficiency - development of standards - rules - fund - legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that:

(a) Most state public assistance programs are calibrated to the federal poverty line, a one-size-fits-all national standard designed in the 1960s that is calculated largely on the cost of food and has only been updated for inflation;

(b) The standard is outdated and virtually irrelevant to the actual costs families face today, such as child care, health care, and transportation;

(c) A self-sufficiency standard measures how much income is needed for a family of a given composition in a given place to adequately meet its basic needs without public or private assistance;

(d) A self-sufficiency standard provides a more accurate assessment of the economic well-being of Colorado families;

(e) A self-sufficiency standard is an excellent tool that could be used in many ways, including:

(I) Creating a benchmark for measuring the effects of programs and policies;

(II) Economic development;

(III) Targeting higher-wage jobs for Coloradans;

(IV) Enhancing education, job training, and skills development programs; and

(V) Counseling clients transitioning from welfare to workforce development programs.

(2) (a) On or before January 1, 2008, the executive director of the department of local affairs shall make available on the web site of the department of local affairs a standard to measure the self-sufficiency of Colorado families. The standard shall take into account regional and county variations in the costs of housing, child care, health care, food, and transportation and miscellaneous costs, and the effect of existing tax laws, including state sales tax, payroll taxes, federal and state income tax, child care tax credits, and the earned income tax credit.

(b) The standard required pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) shall:

(I) Rely to the extent possible, on data reported by the United States census bureau, United States department of housing and urban development, and on other data reported to state and federal agencies using standardized methodology;

(II) Determine housing costs using fair market rents for apartments as reported by the United States department of housing and urban development;

(III) Determine child care costs using average costs for licensed child care facilities, including but not limited to family day care, as reported to the state's child care resource and referral agencies for children of different ages in different areas of the state;

(IV) Determine food costs using the United States department of agriculture low-cost food plan; and

(V) In health care costs, include insurance premium costs and out-of-pocket expenses based upon the medical expenditure panel survey and adjusted for inflation using the medical consumer price index.

(3) The department of local affairs is authorized to seek and accept gifts, grants, or donations from private or public sources for the purposes of this section. All private and public funds received through gifts, grants, or donations shall be transmitted to the state treasurer, who shall credit the same to the self-sufficiency standard fund, which fund is hereby created and referred to in this section as the "fund". The moneys in the fund shall be continuously appropriated for the direct and indirect costs associated with the implementation of this section. Any moneys in the fund not expended for the purpose of this section may be invested by the state treasurer as provided by law. All interest and income derived from the investment and deposit of moneys in the fund shall be credited to the fund. Any unexpended and unencumbered moneys remaining in the fund at the end of a fiscal year shall remain in the fund and shall not be credited or transferred to the general fund or another fund.

24-32-116. Inventory of local governmental entities - information required - definitions. (1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Agent" means:

(I) For a special district created pursuant to title 32, C.R.S., the special district's designated local government contact person, as reported annually by the special district and included in the database by the department; or

(II) For all other local governmental entities, a person designated by a local governmental entity to receive a filing of a notice of claim pursuant to section 24-10-109 (3).

(b) "Department" means the department of local affairs.

(c) "Inventory" means the on-line database of active local governments maintained by the department as of August 8, 2012.

(d) "Local governmental entity" means a city, county, city and county, special district, school district, or other unit of local government.

(2) (a) The department shall update and expand the inventory and any associated forms or documents as necessary to obtain and integrate, for each local governmental entity, the information described in subsection (3) of this section.

(b) Nothing in this section precludes the department from including additional information in the inventory.

(3) (a) No later than twelve months after August 8, 2012, each local governmental entity in the state shall provide the following information to the department, which shall include the same in the inventory:

(I) The official name of the local governmental entity;

(II) The principal address of the local governmental entity;

(III) If other than the principal address, the mailing address of the local governmental entity;

(IV) The name of the local governmental entity's agent; and

(V) The mailing address of the agent.

(b) A local governmental entity shall update any information provided pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) as required by the department. Failure to update the information provided pursuant to paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) renders any notice of a claim pursuant to section 24-10-109 to the last local governmental entity's agent in the inventory valid as a matter of law.

(4) The department shall make the inventory accessible from the department's web site.

(5) Nothing in this section precludes the filing of a notice of claim or the service of process on any person authorized by law.

PART 2

DIVISION OF PLANNING

Editor's note: This part 2 was numbered as article 36 of chapter 106, C.R.S. 1963. The substantive provisions of this part 2 were repealed and reenacted in 1971, resulting in the addition, relocation, and elimination of sections as well as subject matter. For amendments to this part 2 prior to 1971, consult the Colorado statutory research explanatory note beginning on page vii in the front of this volume.

24-32-202. Division of planning - creation. (1) There is hereby created within the department of local affairs a division of planning, the head of which shall be the director of the division of planning, which office is hereby created. The director shall be appointed by the executive director of the department of local affairs, referred to in this part 2 as the "executive director", subject to the provisions of section 13 of article XII of the state constitution, and such director shall be qualified by training or experience in planning and capital programming. The director shall appoint the necessary staff of his division in accordance with the provisions of section 13 of article XII of the state constitution.

(2) The division of planning and the office of the director thereof shall exercise their powers and perform their duties and functions specified by this part 2 under the department of local affairs and the executive director thereof as if the same were transferred to the department by a type 2 transfer, as such transfer is defined in the "Administrative Organization Act of 1968", being article 1 of this title.

(3) The director of the division of planning shall:

(a) Exchange reports and data which relate to local and regional planning with other departments, institutions, and agencies of the state and on a mutually agreed basis with towns, cities, cities and counties, counties, and other local agencies and instrumentalities;

(b) Attend and participate in meetings of county, municipal, or regional planning bodies, interstate agencies, and other planning conferences;

(c) Advise the governor and the general assembly on matters of local and regional planning, and consult with other offices of state government with respect to matters of local and regional planning affecting the duties of their offices; and, upon request of any town, city, city and county, county, regional area, or group of adjacent communities having common or related planning problems, recommend to the governor and the general assembly any proposals for legislation affecting local or regional planning; but nothing in this part 2 shall be construed to grant any authority to the division of planning or to the director thereof over the planning responsibilities of local government; and

(d) Exercise all other powers necessary and proper for the discharge of his duties and the carrying out of the intent of this part 2, including the coordination of the provisions of part 1 of article 28 of title 30, C.R.S.

24-32-203. Duties of the division of planning. (1) The division of planning shall:

(a) Provide planning assistance upon request to any town, city, city and county, county, regional area, or group of adjacent communities having common or related planning problems; and, whenever such assistance includes the rendering of technical services, such services may be rendered without charge or, upon advance agreement, shall be rendered with reimbursement;

(b) Provide information to and cooperate with the general assembly or its committees concerned with studies relevant to local and regional planning;

(c) Supply to the public and to officials of state departments and local agencies available information on local and regional planning problems and community development;

(d) Accept and receive grants and services relevant to local and regional planning from the federal government, other state agencies, local governments, and private and civic sources.

24-32-204. Population statistics, estimates, and projections. (1) The division of planning is hereby designated as the primary state agency of demographic information. Said office shall prepare, maintain, and interpret such population statistics, estimates, and projections as the director of the division of planning shall direct, including distributions of the state's population by significant groupings, such as school- and college-age populations, political subdivision populations, and racial and ethnic populations.

(2) Other agencies of the state government may prepare and maintain any such information but only as authorized by the director of the division of planning.

(3) The division of planning shall cooperate with and give assistance to other agencies and organizations, both public and private, in the preparation, maintenance, and interpretation of demographic information.

(4) The director of the division of planning shall annually invite other agencies and organizations, both public and private, that engage in demographic studies to review the basic demographic assumptions and premises of the division of planning to the end that its statistics, estimates, and projections will be as accurate as possible.

PART 3DIVISION OF COMMERCE AND DEVELOPMENT

24-32-301. Creation of division - director - assistants. There is hereby created a division in the department of local affairs to be known as the division of commerce and development, referred to in this part 3 as the "division". The division shall be in the charge of a director, who shall be appointed by the executive director of the department. The director shall appoint such assistants and clerical employees as may be deemed necessary to effectively administer this part 3. The director and such assistants and employees shall be appointed pursuant to section 13 of article XII of the state constitution.

24-32-303. Authority and responsibility of the director. (1) In furtherance of the policy expressed in section 24-32-302, the director, acting under the authority of the governor, has the following powers:

(a) Creation, within the appropriations and allocations given by the general assembly or the governor, of such subdivisions and positions within the division as the director may deem necessary to fulfill his responsibilities;

(b) Contracting, in accordance with existing law, for those services and materials required by the activities of the division;

(c) Promulgation of such rules and regulations as may be necessary to effectuate the purposes of the division;

(d) Expenditure of state funds, within the appropriations, allocations, and directives of the general assembly or the governor, for the encouragement and stimulation of local planning, promotion, and development activities;

(e) Any other authority, consistent with the purposes for which the division was created, which is reasonably necessary for the fulfillment of the assigned responsibilities.

(2) In furtherance of the policy expressed in section 24-32-302, the director has the following responsibilities:

(a) Development, promotion, and coordination of long-range plans for the economic development of the state;

(b) Stimulation and guidance of area redevelopment plans in those areas of the state with declining economies;

(c) Development and expansion of foreign and domestic markets for Colorado products;

(d) Conduct of a program to achieve a balance between commerce, industry, agriculture, professions, and the labor market in order to provide employment and economic well-being for all the people of Colorado, with particular emphasis on those rural and lesser populated areas of the state which desire to receive such assistance;

(e) and (f) Repealed.

(g) Conduct of a state economic research and information center for the use of state and local governmental agencies, private industry, labor, the professions, and other groups, both in and out of the state, interested in the economy of the state;

(h) Coordination and stimulation of and assistance to the efforts of governmental and private agencies engaged in the planning and development of a balanced economy for Colorado;

(i) Cooperation with the federal government and the other state governments to encourage such joint planning, agreements, and compacts as would serve the purposes of the division;

(j) Acceptance and administration of federal grant-in-aid funds and state trust funds devoted to state development and promotional activities;

(k) Representation of the governor in matters pertaining to the economic development of the state.

PART 7

DIVISION OF HOUSING - COLORADO HOUSING ACT OF 1970

24-32-701. Short title. This part 7 shall be known and may be cited as the "Colorado Housing Act of 1970".

24-32-702. Legislative declaration. (1) It is hereby declared that there exists in this state a need for additional adequate, safe, sanitary, and energy-efficient new and rehabilitated dwelling units; that a need exists for assistance to families in securing new or rehabilitated rental housing; and that, unless the supply of housing units is increased, a large number of residents of this state will be compelled to live under unsanitary, overcrowded, and unsafe conditions to the detriment of their health, welfare, and well-being and to that of the communities of which they are a part. It is further declared that coordination and cooperation among private enterprise and state and local government are essential to the provision of adequate housing, and to that end it is desirable to create a division of housing within the department of local affairs. The general assembly further declares that the enactment of these provisions as set forth in this part 7 are for the public and statewide interest.

(2) The general assembly further finds that, in an effort to meet the housing needs within the state, the private housing and construction industry has developed mass production techniques which can substantially reduce housing construction costs and that the mass production of housing, consisting primarily of factory manufacture of dwelling units, presents unique problems with respect to the establishment of uniform health and safety standards and inspection procedures. The general assembly further finds that by minimizing the problems of standards and inspection procedures it is demonstrating its intention to encourage the reduction of housing construction costs and to make housing and home ownership more feasible for all residents of the state.

(3) The general assembly further finds that, in an effort to meet the housing needs within the state through the use of manufactured housing units, it is necessary to require state supervision of compliance with government-approved codes of manufacture, such as the uniform building code and the federal regulations governing manufactured housing units. It is the intent of the general assembly that such supervision be accomplished primarily through the use of private inspection and certification entities to the extent allowed by the state constitution, the "State Personnel System Act", article 50 of this title, and the rules promulgated by the state personnel board.

(4) The general assembly further finds and declares that:

(a) Publicly-assisted rental housing that is affordable to low- and moderate-income persons should be preserved; and

(b) The division of housing should encourage property owners to notify the division when affordable housing units will be lost as housing for low- or moderate-income persons, so that the division may explore options for preserving the affordable housing resources.

24-32-705. Functions of division - repeal. (1) The division has the following functions:

(a) To encourage private enterprise and all public and private agencies engaged in the planning, construction, and acquisition of adequate housing or the rehabilitation or weatherization of existing housing in Colorado by providing research, advisory, and liaison services and rehabilitation, construction, acquisition, and weatherization grants from appropriations made for this purpose by the general assembly. For the purposes of this paragraph (a), “weatherization” means the provision and installation of materials and devices which improve the thermal performance of a residence so as to conserve energy and reduce energy costs and includes those structural, heating, electrical, and plumbing repairs and improvements which are necessary to safely and effectively improve thermal performance. All such grants to public and private agencies shall be at least equally matched from a nonstate source and shall be for providing energy-efficient housing to low-income households. None of these grants shall be used for development, planning, or administration which shall be funded within the administrative budget of the division.

(b) To assist local communities in the development and operation of local housing authorities;

(c) To encourage and promote cooperation among counties and municipalities to jointly establish and operate housing authorities;

(d) Repealed.

(e) To conduct continuing research into new approaches to housing throughout the state including, but not limited to, the following:

(I) and (II) Repealed.

(III) Programs for low-income housing throughout the state designed to discourage concentration in urban centers and particularly in urban center ghettos;

(f) To investigate living, dwelling, and housing conditions in the state and the means and methods of correcting unsafe, unsanitary, or substandard conditions;

(g) To enter upon buildings or property in order to conduct investigations or to make surveys or soundings. In the event the division is unable to obtain permission for such entry, the director may petition the district court in which the property is located for an order authorizing such entry. Upon a finding by the court that the order requested is reasonably necessary to carry out the intent of this part 7, the order shall be granted.

(h) To make available to responsible agencies, boards, commissions, or other governmental agencies its findings and recommendations with regard to any building or property where conditions exist which are unsafe, unsanitary, or substandard;

(i) To accept and receive grants and services from the federal government and other sources and to process such grants and services for other public and private nonprofit agencies and corporations;

(j) To enforce the provisions of part 9 of this article and the rules and regulations adopted pursuant thereto;

(k) To provide training and technical assistance to counties and municipalities which have building codes in the development of energy efficiency construction and renovation performance standards by such local governments;

(l) To provide in graphic illustrations and charts the information needed by a person who applies for or obtains a homeowner's permit to build his own home to correlate the R-values to the U-values of the more energy conserving performance standards as found in section 6-7-105 (2), C.R.S. This information shall be distributed to local building departments and building material supply outlets in the state and shall be given to builders and unlicensed persons who apply for or obtain homeowners' permits to build their own homes.

(m) To provide technical assistance to building officials, who shall instruct persons who apply for or obtain homeowners' permits to build their own homes on the use of the information provided in paragraph (l) of this subsection (1);

(n) Pursuant to section 24-32-717, to administer loans to local housing authorities and public and private nonprofit corporations;

(o) Repealed.

(p) Pursuant to section 24-32-718, to maintain a database of affordable housing units to be lost as affordable housing;

(q) (I) Pursuant to section 24-32-720, to compile and report information regarding property foreclosures in the state.

(II) This paragraph (q) is repealed, effective January 1, 2015.

(r) To make available to foreclosure counselors, as defined in section 38-38-801, C.R.S., a description of the foreclosure deferment program described in part 8 of article 38 of title 38, C.R.S.;

(s) To establish uniform standards pursuant to section 38-38-807.5, C.R.S.;

(t) To serve as the sole state agency for the purpose of administering and distributing financial housing assistance to persons in low- and moderate-income households and to persons with disabilities and assist such persons in obtaining housing, including, without limitation, rental assistance.

(2) The division, through the director thereof, shall serve in an advisory capacity to the state housing and finance authority, created by part 7 of article 4 of title 29, C.R.S., and shall provide information on the housing facility needs of low- and moderate-income families in the state of Colorado.

(3) Repealed.

24-32-706. State housing board. (1) There is hereby created, within the division of housing, the state housing board. The board shall consist of seven members who shall be appointed by the governor for terms of four years each, except as provided in subsection (2) of this section. In making appointments to the board, the governor shall include representation by at least one member who is a person with a disability, as defined in section 24-45.5-102 (2), a family member of a person with a disability, or a member of an advocacy group for persons with disabilities.

(2) Appointments made to take effect January 1, 1983, shall be made in accordance with section 24-1-135. On and after January 1, 1983, and prior to June 15, 1987, their successors shall be appointed for terms of six years each. Persons holding office on June 15, 1987, are subject to the provisions of section 24-1-137. Thereafter members shall be appointed for terms of four years each. Members shall not serve more than two consecutive full terms. All members shall be appointed with the consent of the senate.

(3) At least one member shall be appointed from each congressional district and shall be a qualified elector thereof. A vacancy on the board occurs whenever any member moves out of the congressional district from which he was appointed. A member who moves out of such congressional district shall promptly notify the governor of the date of such move, but such notice is not a condition precedent to the occurrence of the vacancy. The governor shall fill the vacancy as provided in subsection (5) of this section.

(4) Not more than four members shall be from any one political party.

(5) Any vacancy shall be filled by the governor pursuant to subsection (1) of this section for the unexpired term.

(6) Members of the board shall serve without compensation but shall be reimbursed for necessary expenses incurred in the performance of their duties.

(7) The board shall meet upon call of the chairman or whenever directed by the governor.

(8) The governor may remove any appointed member of the board for malfeasance in office, for failure to regularly attend meetings, or for any cause that renders said member incapable or unfit to discharge the duties of his office, and any such removal, when made, shall not be subject to review.

24-32-707. Powers of board. (1) The board shall have the following powers:

(a) To advise the general assembly, the governor, and the division on housing matters;
 (b) To establish uniform construction and maintenance standards for hotels, motels, and multiple dwellings in those areas of the state where no such standards exist; and for factory-built housing;

(c) To develop and submit to the general assembly and units of local government recommendations for uniform housing standards and building codes;

(d) To conduct examinations and investigations and to take testimony and proof under oath at hearings;

(e) Through the division of housing, to act as agent for local governmental and private nonprofit entities in connection with federal, state, and local public and private nonprofit housing programs;

(f) (Deleted by amendment, L. 99, p. 440, § 4, effective August 4, 1999.)

(g) To promulgate rules and regulations establishing income limits for the determination of what constitutes a low- or moderate-income family pursuant to section 24-32-717 (4) (b).

(h) and (i) Repealed.

(2) The board shall serve in an advisory capacity to the state housing finance authority, created by part 7 of article 4 of title 29, C.R.S., and shall provide information as to the need for development of housing facilities for low- and moderate-income families in Colorado.

24-32-717. Home investment trust fund - short-term loans - definitions.
(1) (a) For the purpose of meeting the federal matching fund requirements of Title II of the federal "National Housing Act", the division shall establish a home investment trust fund which shall be created and administered pursuant to the provisions of 24 CFR part 92, as may be amended from time to time. The division shall pay into such fund any moneys made available by the state or federal government for the purpose of making loans as provided in this section. Any moneys in such fund at the end of any fiscal year shall not revert to the general fund.

(b) Notwithstanding any provision of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1) to the contrary, on June 1, 2009, the state treasurer shall deduct one million two hundred eighty-four thousand dollars from the home investment trust fund and transfer such sum to the general fund.

(2) Upon the approval of the board, the division may make a loan from moneys in the home investment trust fund to any local housing authority, public nonprofit corporation, or private nonprofit corporation for development or redevelopment costs incurred prior to the completion or occupancy of low- or moderate-income housing or for the rehabilitation of such housing. The interest rate on such loan shall be determined by the board and set forth in the loan agreement signed by the applicant. In conjunction with the making of such loan, the division shall require the borrower to furnish collateral security in such amounts and in such form as the division shall determine to be necessary to assure the payment of such loan and the interest thereon as the same become due. The loan shall be subject to the terms and conditions imposed by the division and shall be repaid within the time and in the manner specified by the division in the loan agreement.

(3) As principal and interest payments are received by the division from the borrower, such moneys shall be deposited in the home investment trust fund.

(4) For the purposes of this section, unless the context otherwise requires, the following definitions shall apply:

(a) "Family" means two or more persons related by blood, marriage, or adoption who live or expect to live together as a single household in the same home, a single person who is either at least sixty-two years of age or has a disability, or a single person whom the board may by regulation determine to be eligible for assistance under this part 7.

(b) "Low- or moderate-income family" means a family whose income is insufficient to secure decent, safe, and sanitary housing provided by private industry without public assistance and whose income is below the respective income limits established by the board by regulation, taking into consideration such factors as the following:

(I) The amount of the total income of such family available for housing needs;

(II) The size of the family;

(III) The cost and condition of housing facilities available;

(IV) The ability of such family to compete successfully in the private housing market and to pay the amounts at which private enterprise is providing decent, safe, and sanitary housing; and

(V) Standards established by various programs of the federal government for determining eligibility based on the income of such family.

(c) "Low- or moderate-income housing" means a residential structure or structures occupied by one or more low- or moderate-income families.

(5) Repealed.

24-32-718. Publicly assisted housing - notice of termination - database - high energy performance building standard program - definitions. (1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Financial assistance" means any financial assistance administered by the division that is subject to affordability restrictions, including, but not limited to, grants and loans from the division and federally funded rental assistance contracts, loans, or insurance.

(b) "Publicly assisted housing project" means a property with five or more rental units that was developed, rehabilitated, purchased, or insured with financial assistance.

(2) (a) The division shall provide information about the database it maintains pursuant to subsection (3) of this section to owners of publicly assisted housing projects and shall encourage them to give notice to the division no less than one hundred twenty days before taking any action that will make the project no longer affordable, if the affordability restrictions on the project are still in effect at the time the notice is required.

(b) For purposes of this subsection (2), the following actions shall be considered actions that make a project no longer affordable:

(I) Converting the property to commercial use or increasing residential rent to an amount exceeding the amount permitted under the affordability restrictions in effect at the time of the notice; or

(II) Withdrawing from or electing not to renew an available federally funded project-based rental assistance contract.

(c) During the period of one hundred twenty days after notice is given to the division, the division may attempt to coordinate a purchase by a purchaser that is committed to maintaining the project as an affordable housing resource.

(3) The division shall maintain an updated database of publicly assisted housing projects on which it has received the notice required by subsection (2) of this section.

(4) The board, in consultation with the division, shall adopt and update from time to time a nationally recognized high energy performance building standard program for publicly assisted housing projects. The division shall present a report on the program annually to the general assembly for comment and review. The standard shall apply to all new applications for publicly assisted housing projects made to the division on or after January 1, 2009; except that the executive director of the department of local affairs may exempt a particular publicly assisted housing project from compliance with the standard upon a determination by the executive director that extenuating circumstances exist such as to preclude the implementation of this subsection (4).

24-32-720. Property foreclosure reports - official state statistics - repeal. (1) The division shall collect and compile property foreclosure data from each county in the state and shall issue, at least quarterly, a report summarizing the information. The report shall include but need not be limited to the following:

(a) Data regarding the number of notices of election and demand that were recorded in the state during the previous quarter, the same quarter of the previous year, and the previous year;

(b) Data regarding the number of properties sold at auction in the state during the previous quarter, the same quarter of the previous year, and the previous year;

(c) Data regarding the number of instances in the previous quarter, the same quarter of the previous year, and the previous year in which a property owner or other interested party cured a default on a property for which a notice of election and demand was recorded;

(d) A comparison of foreclosure data from various counties in the state in which there has been a relatively large occurrence of foreclosure activity during the previous quarter, the same quarter of the previous year, and the previous year;

(e) An analysis of the regional difference in foreclosure activity over the previous quarter, the same quarter of the previous year, and the previous year; and

(f) A forecast of how foreclosure data may change in the next quarter and over the next year.

(2) The division shall make the foreclosure report prepared pursuant to subsection (1) of this section available to the public on the division's internet web site and by any other means determined appropriate by the division.

(3) The information compiled and reported by the division shall be the official foreclosure data for the state. The state and any political subdivision of the state shall use the division's data when citing state foreclosure statistics; except that any political subdivision of the state may cite foreclosure statistics as they are reported by the public trustee of any county in the state. Whenever possible, the division and any other political subdivision of the state shall encourage private entities that cite foreclosure statistics to use the information compiled and reported by the division. For the purposes of reporting foreclosure data as allowed pursuant to this section, the term "foreclosure" shall be used only to refer to a property that has been sold at auction.

(4) The public trustee of each county in the state shall provide to the division the foreclosure data from his or her county necessary for the division to compile the report required pursuant to this section. Each public trustee shall provide the information to the division on a quarterly basis or otherwise as requested by the division.

(5) This section is repealed, effective January 1, 2015.

24-32-721. Colorado affordable housing construction grants and loans - housing development grant fund - creation - repeal. (1) There is hereby created in the state treasury the housing development grant fund, which fund shall be administered by the division and is referred to in this section as the "fund". The fund shall consist of moneys appropriated to the Colorado affordable housing construction grants and loan fund by the general assembly, all moneys collected by the division for purposes of this section from federal grants, and other contributions, grants, gifts, bequests, and donations received from other governmental entities, individuals, private organizations, or foundations and any interest earnings on such moneys, which moneys the division is hereby authorized and directed to solicit, accept, expend, and disburse for the purpose of making grants or loans as provided in this section. All such moneys shall be transmitted to the state treasurer to be credited to the fund. The moneys in the fund are hereby continuously appropriated to the division for the purposes of this section. The moneys in the fund may be expended for the purpose of funding activities initiated during the 2008-09 state fiscal year that are to be completed in subsequent state fiscal years.

(2) (a) Upon the approval of the board, the division may make a grant or loan from moneys in the fund to improve, preserve, or expand the supply of affordable housing and to finance foreclosure prevention activities in Colorado as well as to fund the acquisition of housing and economic data necessary to advise the board on local housing conditions.

(b) In the case of any loan made from moneys in the fund for which the division is the primary lender, the borrower shall be required to seek replacement loans or funding no later than one hundred eighty days from the date of the loan.

(c) The authorization granted to the division in paragraph (a) of this subsection (2) to make a grant or loan from moneys in the fund to finance foreclosure prevention activities in the state is repealed, effective June 30, 2011.

(3) (a) Any moneys in the fund not expended or encumbered from any appropriation at the end of any fiscal year, including interest earned on the investment or deposit of moneys in the fund, shall remain in the fund and shall not revert to the general fund or any other fund and shall remain available for expenditure by the division in the next fiscal year for the purposes specified in subsection (2) of this section without further appropriation.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision of this section, not more than two hundred fifty thousand dollars may be appropriated from the general fund pursuant to this section in any one state fiscal year for any uses not related to construction grants or loans.

24-32-722. Consolidation of public housing agencies for low- and moderate-income households and persons with disabilities into the division - legislative declaration - repeal. (1) The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that:

(a) The division is a state public housing agency that distributes federal housing moneys to persons in low- and moderate-income households to assist such persons in obtaining housing. The division also administers the supportive housing program, a public housing agency that distributes federal housing moneys to persons with disabilities to assist such persons in obtaining housing. Such moneys largely consist of section 8 housing voucher moneys distributed by the United States department of housing and urban development to the division in accordance with sections 24-32-702 (4) and 24-32-705 (1) (i) and to the supportive housing program. Such moneys are distributed by the division to housing authorities and other eligible nonprofit entities across the state as provided by law or in accordance with agreements for the receipts of grants or services from the federal government.

(b) Consolidating the two public housing agencies administered by the state that provide financial housing assistance to persons in low- and moderate-income households and persons with disabilities to assist such persons in obtaining housing into the division will promote economic efficiencies, allow for statewide strategic planning and administration of financial housing assistance, and maximize the amount of federal funding made available to local housing authorities and other local eligible nonprofit agencies.

(2) (a) By enacting this section, the general assembly intends that the maximum amount of financial housing assistance and administrative funding made available by the federal government for housing be directed to local public housing authorities and other local eligible nonprofit agencies for administration and distribution by local eligible entities to persons in low- and moderate-income households and persons with disabilities to satisfy their fundamental needs for housing.

(b) By enacting this section, the general assembly intends to transfer all authority over the two public housing agencies that provide financial housing assistance to persons in low- and moderate-income households and persons with disabilities to the division.

(c) Nothing in this section shall be intended by the general assembly to limit the state's ability to receive the maximum amount of funding from the federal government for housing assistance for persons in low- and moderate-income households and persons with disabilities.

(3) (a) (I) Not later than July 1, 2012, the two public housing agencies administered by the state that provide financial housing assistance to persons in low- and moderate-income households and persons with disabilities to assist such persons in obtaining housing vouchers and other forms of such assistance shall be consolidated into the division in accordance with the provisions of section 24-32-705 (1) (t).

(II) The requirements of subparagraph (I) of this paragraph (a) shall not apply to a grant that is in the process of being administered as of July 1, 2011, the terms of which may prohibit the transfer of any moneys provided thereunder to a party other than the department of human services.

(b) The consolidation required by paragraph (a) of this subsection (3) shall be organized in such manner that the division is the sole state agency for the purpose of administering and distributing financial housing assistance to persons in low- and moderate-income households and to persons with disabilities to assist such persons in obtaining housing, including, without limitation, rental assistance.

(c) Except as may be otherwise required by federal law, for the 2012-13 state fiscal year and for any subsequent state fiscal year, and notwithstanding any other provision of law and subject to available funding received from the federal government, the number of housing vouchers made available to persons with disabilities, as defined by the "Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990", 42 U.S.C. sec. 12102 (2), by the division in any one state fiscal year shall not be less than the number of vouchers made available to persons with disabilities by both the division and the supportive housing program in the 2011-12 state fiscal year.

(4) In carrying out the consolidation required by subsection (3) of this section, the division shall consult with representatives of persons with disabilities.

(5) and (6) Repealed.

(7) This section is repealed, effective July 1, 2013.

24-32-723. Office of homeless youth services - creation - function - duties - definitions. (1) This section shall be known and may be cited as the "Colorado Homeless Youth Services Act".

(2) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Entity" means any state agency, any state-operated program, or any private nonprofit or not-for-profit community-based organization.

(b) "Homeless youth" means a child or youth who is at least eleven years of age but is less than twenty-one years of age who:

(I) Lacks a fixed, regular, and adequate nighttime residence; or

(II) Has a primary nighttime residence that is:

(A) A supervised, publicly or privately operated shelter designed to provide temporary living accommodations; or

(B) A public or private place not designed for, nor ordinarily used as, a regular sleeping accommodation for human beings.

(III) "Homeless youth" shall not include any individual imprisoned or otherwise detained pursuant to an act of congress or a state law.

(3) There is hereby created the office of homeless youth services in the state department for the purpose of providing information, coordination, and support services to public and private entities serving the homeless youth of Colorado. The office of homeless youth services shall seek to:

(a) Identify and remove obstacles to the provision of services;

(b) Improve the quality of services provided to homeless youth;

(c) Reduce needless expenditures caused by the provision of overlapping services; and

(d) Identify housing and supportive services funding resources available to entities serving homeless youth.

(4) (a) In providing the services described in this section, the office of homeless youth services is strongly encouraged to work with the executive directors, or their designees, of the departments specified in section 25-20.5-108 (6), C.R.S., as well as the Colorado department of public health and environment, the judicial department, private nonprofit and not-for-profit organizations, appropriate federal departments, and other key stakeholders in the community.

(b) At a minimum, the office of homeless youth services shall have the following duties:

(I) To provide information, coordination, and technical assistance as may be necessary to reduce needless expenditures associated with the provision of overlapping services and to improve the quality of services provided to homeless youth;

(II) To identify both procedural and substantive obstacles to the provision of services and to make recommendations to the entities specified in this section concerning procedural, regulatory, or statutory changes necessary to remove such obstacles;

(III) To obtain information from service providers concerning known services available for the homeless youth population in the state of Colorado and to post such information on a web site on the internet;

(IV) To develop, maintain, and make available a listing of all rights and organizations that may be relevant to the homeless youth population in the state of Colorado, including but not limited to a listing of legal, educational, and victims' rights and organizations related thereto;

(V) To obtain information concerning known funding sources available for the homeless youth population in the state of Colorado; and

(VI) To work with entities to identify issues concerning sharing of information in providing services to homeless youth and to facilitate resolution of such information-sharing issues.

(c) On or before January 15, 2012, and on or before each January 15 thereafter, the office of homeless youth services, in conjunction with the prevention services division in the department of public health and environment and the department of education, shall submit a consolidated report to the general assembly of existing reports relating to prevention, intervention, and treatment services provided to homeless youth eighteen years of age to twenty-one years of age by the department of human services, county departments of social services, and other state departments that operate prevention, intervention, and treatment programs serving youth eighteen years of age to twenty-one years of age. The report shall also include the data that the department of education annually compiles on the number of homeless youth enrolled in public schools in the state, the type of homelessness, and the list of services that are provided to such homeless youth. The consolidated report shall include the number of youth served, the types of services provided, and the outcomes derived from such services.

Editor's note: (1) Subsections (1), (2), (3), and (4) are similar to former §§ 26-5.9-101, 26-5.9-103, 26-5.9-104, and 26-5.9-105, respectively, as they existed prior to 2010.

(2) Subsections (2)(b) and (4)(c) were numbered as §§ 26-5.9-103 (2) and 26-5.9-105 (3), respectively, in House Bill 11-1079, and those amendments were harmonized with this section as amended and relocated by House Bill 11-1230.

PART 8

OFFICE OF RURAL DEVELOPMENT

24-32-801. Legislative declaration. (1) Rapid growth experienced by many communities in this state has caused many problems for local government and its citizens in providing necessary public services and desirable living areas.

(2) Lack of growth and development, however, in the less densely populated and rural areas of this state has caused another problem which adds to that of the urban areas.

(3) Migration of people, and youth in particular, to the urban areas because of lack of opportunity for employment and development of careers compounds the problems of governments already pressed to meet the demands of current growth.

(4) It is the responsibility of the state to assist rural areas with financial and technical assistance to provide economic opportunity and community amenities and to promote the general welfare of the people of this state.

24-32-802. Office of rural development created. (1) There is created in the department of local affairs the office of rural development, referred to in this part 8 as the "office". The executive director of the department of local affairs, subject to the provisions of section 13 of article XII of the state constitution, shall appoint the coordinator of rural development, which position is hereby created, who shall be the head of the office.

(2) The office and the coordinator of rural development shall exercise their powers and perform their duties and functions specified in this part 8 under the department of local affairs as if the same were transferred to the department by a type 2 transfer, as such transfer is defined in the "Administrative Organization Act of 1968", article 1 of this title.

24-32-803. Duties of the office. (1) The office shall coordinate the activities of the various divisions within the department of local affairs for the purpose of:

(a) Cooperating with and providing technical assistance to local officials for the orderly development of rural Colorado;

(b) Encouraging and, when requested, assisting local governments to develop mutual and cooperative solutions to rural community development;

(c) Studying the legal provisions that affect rural development and recommending to the governor and the general assembly such changes and provisions as may be necessary to encourage rural development;

(d) Serving as a clearinghouse for rural development information, including state and federal programs designed for rural development;

(e) Carrying out studies and continuous analyses of rural development in the state with particular emphasis on its effect on population dispersion and economic opportunity;

(f) Encouraging and assisting, when requested, local governments to develop mutual and cooperative solutions to rural community development;

(g) Contracting with the federal government or any agency or instrumentality thereof and receiving any grants or moneys therefrom for purposes of rural development in Colorado.

PART 12

STATE CLEARINGHOUSE

24-32-1201. Legislative declaration. The provisions of this part 12 are enacted to establish a state clearinghouse in accordance with circular number A-95 of the United States office of management and budget. In order to avoid duplication with existing duties and functions of state and local governmental agencies and in order to preserve the policy of this state that the decision-making authority as to the character and use of land shall be at the lowest possible level of government, it is the intent of the general assembly that the state clearinghouse shall be primarily a state central information center for the receipt and dissemination of federal assistance information and shall not be a policy-making or planning agency.

24-32-1203. State clearinghouse designated - duties - limitations. (1) The department of local affairs is hereby designated as the state clearinghouse for the state in accordance with circular number A-95. The executive director of the department of local affairs shall employ, within the appropriation as set forth by the general assembly, pursuant to the provisions of section 13 of article XII of the state constitution, such officers and employees as he deems necessary to carry out the provisions of this part 12.

(2) (a) The state clearinghouse shall perform the functions described for state clearinghouses in circular number A-95. The state clearinghouse is a central information center and shall not be a policy-making or planning agency.

(b) Every state agency whose area of responsibility may be affected by a proposed project involving federal assistance shall cooperate with the state clearinghouse in the project notification and review system as provided in circular number A-95.

(c) Comments made by the state clearinghouse and affected state agencies on applications for federal assistance under the project notification and review system described in circular number A-95 shall be limited to the subject matter items listed in section 5 of part I of attachment A of circular number A-95.

(d) In the absence of any provision of law authorizing centralized state-wide comprehensive planning, including land use or growth policies, any reference in circular number A-95 to state comprehensive plans or planning, state priorities or objectives, or the equivalent shall be construed by the state clearinghouse and affected state agencies to refer to the aggregate of local and regional plans and policies established pursuant to statute and the policies, purposes, and objectives expressed in the laws of the state.

PART 17PRIVATE ACTIVITY BOND CEILING ALLOCATION

24-32-1701. Short title. This part 17 shall be known and may be cited as the “Colorado Private Activity Bond Ceiling Allocation Act”.

Source: L. 87: Entire part added, p. 988, § 1, effective May 20.

24-32-1702. Legislative declaration. The “Internal Revenue Code of 1986”, as amended, limits the total amount of tax-exempt private activity bonds which may be issued by any state and its political subdivisions in each year by imposing volume caps. Said code allows each state to provide by law a formula for allocating the state volume cap among the issuing authorities of the state. This part 17 is enacted to establish an allocation formula for the state of Colorado which maximizes the state's total tax-exempt private activity bond issuance authority and which provides an orderly and equitable process of allocating such authority among issuing authorities of this state.

(2) "Bond" means any bond or other obligation which may be issued by any issuing authority which constitutes a private activity bond, as defined in section 141 of the code but only to the extent that such bond or other obligation is subject to the state ceiling limitations of section 146 of the code.

(3) "Business day" means any normal day of business excluding Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays. Each business day begins at 8 a.m. and closes at 5 p.m.

(4) "Carryforward purpose" has the meaning ascribed to such term in section 146 (f) (5) of the code.

(5) "Code" means the "Internal Revenue Code of 1986", as amended.

(6) "Committee" means the bond allocations committee created pursuant to section 24-32-1707 (3).

(7) "Department" means the department of local affairs.

(8) "Designated local issuing authority" means any city, town, county, or city and county which has a population in any year which would result in the local issuing authority having any allocation of the state ceiling in excess of one million dollars as calculated pursuant to section 24-32-1706 (1).

(8.5) "Direct allocation" means an allocation of the state ceiling made to state issuing authorities as specified in section 24-32-1705 (1) (a) or designated local issuing authorities as specified in section 24-32-1706 (1).

(9) "Executive director" means the executive director of the department.

(10) "Form 8038" means the federal department of the treasury tax form 8038 or any other federal tax form or other method of reporting required by the federal department of the treasury under section 149 of the code.

(11) "Inducement resolution" means a resolution, ordinance, or similar action adopted by an issuing authority for the purpose of taking official action regarding the issuance of, or otherwise stating the intent of the issuing authority to issue, bonds to finance a project.

(12) "Issuing authority" means any entity or person which has the authority to issue bonds or other obligations the interest on which is exempt from federal income taxation pursuant to section 103 (a) of the code. Such term includes any designated local issuing authority or any local or state issuing authority.

(13) "Local issuing authority" means any city, town, county, or city and county.

(14) "Mortgage credit certificate election" means an election pursuant to section 25 (a) (2) (ii) of the code, by any issuing authority, not to issue qualified mortgage bonds which the issuing authority is otherwise authorized to issue, including the receipt of allocations made pursuant to this part 17, in exchange for the authority under section 25 of the code to issue mortgage credit certificates in connection with a qualified mortgage credit certificate program within the meaning of section 25 (a) (2) of the code, so long as the implementation of the program is evidenced by the issuing authority to the satisfaction of the executive director, which satisfaction shall be evidenced by a certificate from the executive director certifying his determination that a qualified mortgage credit certificate program has been implemented, together with a certification of the issuing authority providing that such election shall not be revoked.

(15) "Population" means the population of the state of Colorado as determined by the most recent census estimate of the resident population of the state of Colorado published by the United States bureau of the census before the beginning of each year. "Population" also means the population of a local issuing authority as determined by the most recent census estimate of the resident population of the local issuing authority published by the state demographer before the beginning of each year. The department shall specify population data in the report issued pursuant to section 24-32-1706 (1).

(16) "Project" means the facility, facilities, or program to be financed in whole or in part with the proceeds of the bonds.

(17) "Qualified mortgage bond" means any bond or obligation which constitutes a qualified mortgage bond as defined in section 143 of the code.

(18) "State ceiling" means the bond ceiling for the state and its issuing authorities as computed under section 146 (d) of the code.

(19) "State issuing authority" means any of the entities listed in section 24-32-1705 (1).

(20) "Statewide balance" means the portion of the state ceiling that remains after the allocations made to the state issuing authorities and the local issuing authorities in sections 24-32-1705 and 24-32-1706, plus or minus any allocation from or relinquishment to the statewide balance pursuant to this part 17.

(21) "Statewide balance award period" means a period commencing on the date on which notification of an allocation from the statewide balance is mailed to an issuing authority and ending on a date to be determined by the executive director, which date is no later than December 23 each year.

(22) "Year" means each calendar year, beginning with the calendar year 1987.

24-32-1705. Allocations to state issuing authorities. (1) (a) Within thirty days after May 20, 1987, and by January 15 of each year thereafter, fifty percent of the state ceiling shall be initially allocated among the following state issuing authorities in amounts established by the department:

(I) The Colorado agricultural development authority, created by section 35-75-104, C.R.S.;

(II) The Colorado health facilities authority, created by section 25-25-104, C.R.S.;

(III) The Colorado housing and finance authority, created by section 29-4-704, C.R.S.;

(IV) The Colorado educational and cultural facilities authority, created by section 23-15-104, C.R.S.; and

(V) Collegeinvest, created by section 23-3.1-203, C.R.S.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this subsection (1), the department is not required to allocate any specific amount to any specific state issuing authority.

(2) State issuing authorities may assign amounts of their allocations to any issuing authority, and any assignment shall be effective upon receipt by the department of written notification of the assignment. The notification shall include the amounts assigned, the names of the assignor and the assignee, a representation by the assignor that the assignment was made by the assignor without receipt of monetary consideration, the date of the assignment, and a copy of the executed assignment. No assignee may elect to treat all or any portion of an assignment of an allocation from a state issuing authority as an allocation for a project with a carryforward purpose or make a mortgage credit certificate election with respect to all or any portion of such an assignment without the prior written consent of the assignor to the election. A record of each assignment shall be maintained by the assignee for each bond issued by the assignee for which the assignment applies.

(3) Any allocation of the state ceiling made or assigned pursuant to this section shall automatically be relinquished to the statewide balance on September 15 of each year, except to the extent that:

(a) Bonds are issued by the state issuing authority or its assigns prior to September 15 of each year; or

(b) A mortgage credit certificate election is made by the state issuing authority or its assignee prior to September 15 of each year; or

(c) The state issuing authority or its assignee notifies the department, by written notice which contains the information and attachments set forth in section 24-32-1709, prior to September 15 of each year, that the allocation has been made by the state issuing authority or its assignee to a project which has a carryforward purpose as such project is described in the inducement resolution attached and that the state issuing authority or its assignee desires to treat all or a portion of its initial allocation as an allocation to such project for such carryforward purpose.

(4) If the amount of an allocation of the state ceiling made to a state issuing authority pursuant to this section is in excess of the amount of bonds that the state issuing authority or its assignee issued or used for a carryforward purpose or the amount of qualified mortgage bonds that the state issuing authority or its assignee elected not to issue pursuant to a mortgage credit certificate election, the excess shall be relinquished to the statewide balance on September 15 each year. Any state issuing authority may voluntarily relinquish all or any part of its allocation to the statewide balance at any time by so notifying the department in writing.

24-32-1706. Allocations to designated local issuing authorities. (1) Within twenty days after May 20, 1987, and by January 15 of each year thereafter, that portion of the state ceiling that bears the same ratio to fifty percent of the state ceiling for such calendar year as the population of the designated local issuing authority bears to the population of the entire state shall be initially allocated to each designated local issuing authority. For the purposes of such allocation, the department shall provide a report within ten days after May 20, 1987, and by each January 15 thereafter, which report shall contain a statement of the population for the entire state and each designated local issuing authority.

(2) Designated local issuing authorities may assign the amounts of their allocations pursuant to this section to any issuing authority, and any assignment shall be effective upon receipt by the department of written notification of the assignment. The notification shall include the amounts assigned, the names of the assignor and assignee, a representation by the assignor that the assignment was made by the assignor without receipt of monetary consideration, the date of the assignment, and a copy of the executed assignment. No assignee may elect to treat all or any portion of an assignment of an allocation from a designated local issuing authority as an allocation for a project with a carryforward purpose or make a mortgage credit certificate election with respect to all or any portion of such an assignment without the prior written consent of the assignor to such election. A record of each assignment shall be maintained by the assignee for each bond issued by the assignee for which the assignment applies.

(3) Any allocation of the state ceiling made or assigned pursuant to this section shall automatically be relinquished to the statewide balance on September 15 of each year, except to the extent that:

(a) Bonds are issued by the designated local issuing authority or its assigns prior to September 15 of each year; or

(b) A mortgage credit certificate election is made by the designated local issuing authority or its assignee prior to September 15 of each year; or

(c) The designated local issuing authority or its assignee notifies the department, by written notice which contains the information and attachments set forth in section 24-32-

1709, prior to September 15 of each year, that the allocation has been made by the designated local issuing authority or its assignee to a project which has a carryforward purpose as such project is described in the inducement resolution attached and that the designated local issuing authority or its assignee desires to treat all or a portion of its initial allocation as an allocation to such project for such carryforward purpose.

(4) If the amount of an allocation of the state ceiling made to a designated local issuing authority pursuant to this section is in excess of the amount of bonds that the designated local issuing authority or its assignee issued or used for a carryforward purpose or the amount of qualified mortgage bonds that the designated local issuing authority or its assignee elected not to issue pursuant to a mortgage credit certificate election, the excess shall be relinquished to the statewide balance on September 15 each year. Any designated local issuing authority may voluntarily relinquish all or any part of its allocation to the statewide balance at any time by so notifying the department in writing.

24-32-1707. Statewide balance. (1) Fifty percent of the state ceiling less any amount allocated to designated local issuing authorities pursuant to section 24-32-1706 shall be allocated within twenty days after May 20, 1987, and as of January 15 of each year thereafter, to the statewide balance. In addition, the statewide balance shall include any amounts relinquished thereto pursuant to section 24-32-1705 (3) or (4), section 24-32-1706 (3) or (4), subsection (8) of this section, section 24-32-1708, or section 24-32-1710 (3).

(2) (a) Until September 15 of each year, the statewide balance may be allocated only among:

- (I) Issuing authorities that are not designated local issuing authorities;
- (II) State issuing authorities that did not receive a direct allocation pursuant to section 24-32-1705; or
- (III) Any designated local or state issuing authorities that have, prior to the date of receipt of an allocation from the statewide balance, relinquished to the statewide balance pursuant to section 24-32-1705 or 24-32-1706 any of their initial allocation remaining after any or all of their initial allocation has been used for the issuance of bonds in respect of which a form 8038 has been filed pursuant to section 24-32-1708.

(b) On and after September 15 each year, the statewide balance may be allocated among all issuing authorities. The executive director shall make all of the allocations from the statewide balance in his or her sole discretion with the advice of the committee and in accordance with the priorities pursuant to this section.

(3) There is hereby created, within the department, a bond allocations committee, composed of nine members, as follows: The executive director, who shall act as chairman of the committee; four municipal or county officials, one of whom shall represent a municipality or county west of the continental divide; three citizens at large, one of whom shall reside west of the continental divide; and one representative of the state issuing authorities who shall be appointed annually and serve at the pleasure of the governor. The four municipal or county officials and the three citizens at large shall be appointed by the governor for terms not to exceed three years, and such members shall serve at the pleasure of the governor. Any vacancy occurring in the membership of the committee shall be filled by the governor by appointment for the unexpired term of such member. The members of the committee shall serve without compensation; except that members shall be entitled to reimbursement for actual and necessary expenses. The executive director may convene the committee from time to time as he deems necessary.

(4) The committee shall review and recommend to the executive director statewide priorities for the allocation of the statewide balance. Prior to the making of such recommendations, the department shall hold one or more public meetings to obtain input from the public regarding statewide priorities for the current year, information regarding the use of all bond allocations in the prior year, and other appropriate matters.

(5) An issuing authority shall apply for an allocation from the statewide balance by submitting a completed application for an allocation which contains the information and attachments required by section 24-32-1709.

(6) (a) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2009, (SB 09-041), ch. 56, p. 199, § 4, effective March 25, 2009.)

(b) (I) (Deleted by amendment, L. 2009, (SB 09-041), ch. 56, p. 199, § 4, effective March 25, 2009.)

(II) Repealed.

(7) Allocations from the statewide balance shall be effective for a statewide balance award period which shall be determined and may be extended by the executive director for each allocation. Allocations from the statewide balance shall not be assignable.

(8) Any issuing authority may relinquish all or any part of its allocation to the statewide balance at any time by so notifying the department in writing.

(9) The executive director shall file with the general assembly before February 1 of each year a detailed accounting of the distribution and use of bond allocations for the prior year.

(10) Until October 31 of each year, no allocation of the statewide balance shall be made for carryforward purposes.

(11) The executive director is authorized to contract with a private person, corporation, or entity for the review of applications for bonding authority from the statewide balance for industrial development bonds.

24-32-1708. Bond issuance and mortgage credit certificate election - reporting requirement. (1) Each issuing authority shall, within five days after the issuance and delivery of any bonds or within five days after it has made a mortgage credit certificate election and in no case later than 5 p.m. on December 23 of each year, file a copy of form 8038 or a copy of the mortgage credit certificate election form with the department showing that the bonds have been sold and delivered or showing the amount of qualified mortgage bonds which the issuing authority has elected not to issue. Any allocation for which form 8038 or a copy of the mortgage credit certificate election form had not been received within the times stated in this section, other than an allocation relating to a carryforward purpose, shall expire and be relinquished to the statewide balance as of December 24 of each year.

(2) The executive director, for good cause, may extend the time for filing by no more than three days.

24-32-1709. Application for allocation from statewide balance. (1) An issuing authority may request an allocation from the statewide balance by filing with the department a separate application regarding each project for which an allocation is requested, signed by an officer of the issuing authority. Each application shall be filed on a form provided by the department, which shall contain the following information and attachments:

(a) The name of the issuing authority;

(b) The mailing address of the issuing authority;

(c) The name and title of the official of the issuing authority and the name and address of the legal counsel of said authority to whom notices should be sent and from whom information may be obtained;

(d) The principal amount of the bonds proposed to be issued;

(e) The nature and the location or purpose of the project;

(f) The initial owner, user, or beneficiary of the project;

(g) A written, preliminary opinion of bond counsel, addressed to the department, that the bonds proposed to receive the allocation constitute private activity bonds as defined in section 141 of the code and stating the amount of such bonds requiring an allocation under the state ceiling and that the issuing authority is authorized under the laws and constitution of the state to issue such bonds. The written opinion required by this paragraph (g) may be based on the assumption that an allocation will be made and the opinion shall cite the authority upon which it is based.

(h) A copy of the fully executed inducement resolution of the issuing authority relating to the project that is the subject of the application, certified as a true and correct copy by an authorized officer of the issuing authority; and

(i) Any information regarding the project to be financed with the proceeds of the bonds which are the subject of the requested allocation or regarding the financing which the issuing authority may want to provide to the department or which the department may request.

(2) To the extent that an issuing authority requests an allocation from the statewide balance in respect of which it expects to make an election for a carryforward purpose, such application, in addition to the application information and attachments set forth in subsection (1) of this section, shall be accompanied by the following:

(a) The classification of the carryforward purpose under section 146 (f) (5) of the code;

(b) Any information required by section 146 (f) (2) of the code;

(c) A certification signed by both an official of the issuing authority responsible for the supervision of the issuance of the bonds and, if applicable, a representative of the person or entity constructing, acquiring, or rehabilitating the project stating that they will proceed with diligence to insure the issuance of the bonds within the carryforward period provided by section 146 (f) of the code; and

(d) A written, preliminary opinion from bond counsel that the carryforward purpose qualifies for carryforward treatment under section 146 (f) of the code.

24-32-1709.5. Administrative costs of the department - private activity bond allocation fund - creation - rules. (1) The department may charge and collect the following administrative fees for the costs associated with the administration of this part 17:

(a) The direct allocation fee. The department may charge an administrative fee for direct allocations. The executive director shall annually determine the amount of the fee. In no event shall the amount of the fee specified in this paragraph (a) be set so as to reimburse the department for more than thirty percent of the direct and indirect costs of administering this part 17. The fee charged shall only be borne by entities that use the direct allocation to issue private activity bonds or make a mortgage credit certificate election.

(b) The statewide balance application fee. No application for an allocation required by section 24-32-1707 shall be complete unless it is accompanied by an application fee. The executive director shall determine the amount of the fee.

(c) The statewide balance issuance fee. The department may charge an administrative fee to entities that receive bonding authority from the statewide balance as specified in section 24-32-1707. The executive director shall annually determine the amount of the fee based on the costs associated with the administration of this part 17.

(2) (a) The fees collected pursuant to this section shall be transmitted to the state treasurer, who shall credit the fees to the private activity bond allocations fund, which fund is hereby created in the state treasury and referred to in this subsection (2) as the "fund". The moneys in the fund shall be subject to appropriation by the general assembly for the direct and indirect costs associated with the administration of this part 17. All interest and income derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the fund shall be credited to the fund. Any unexpended and unencumbered moneys remaining in the fund at the end of a fiscal year shall remain in the fund and shall not be credited or transferred to the general fund or any other fund.

(b) The fund is excluded from the limitations specified in section 24-75-402. The fund's target reserve shall be three times the level of the prior year's spending authority from the fund. The uncommitted reserves of the fund shall not exceed the target reserve. If the amount of uncommitted reserves of the fund at the conclusion of any given fiscal year exceeds the target reserve, the executive director shall reduce the amount of one or more of the fees specified in subsection (1) of this section to an amount calculated to result in an amount of uncommitted reserves of the fund for the current fiscal year that does not exceed the target reserve. In calculating the reduction in fees, the executive director may take into account any increases in spending authority from the fund. If the executive director reduces the amount of a fee pursuant to this paragraph (b), the executive director may subsequently raise the amount of the fee so long as the projected amount of uncommitted reserves of the fund does not exceed the target reserve. The executive director shall not increase the fee beyond any limits specified in subsection (1) of this section.

(3) The executive director may promulgate rules in accordance with article 4 of this title to the extent necessary for the administration of this part 17.

24-32-1710. Notifications and validity of allocations from the statewide balance.

(1) The department shall notify the issuing authority in writing of the amount allocated or not allocated from the statewide balance to the proposed project.

(2) The notification shall:

(a) Be of such format as determined by the department and as conforms to the code;

(b) Specify the amount of bonds that the issuing authority may issue based upon an allocation from the statewide balance;

(c) Specify the commencement date and the expiration date of the statewide balance award period; and

(d) Be mailed to the issuing authority and the legal counsel specified in the application at the address specified in the application.

(3) Any allocation of the statewide balance shall be valid only until the expiration of the statewide balance award period unless the bonds are issued and delivered or a mortgage credit certificate election is made within the statewide balance award period, in which event, the allocation shall be subtracted from the statewide balance on the date of the issuance and delivery of the bonds or the date of the mortgage credit certificate election. If no bonds are issued or if no mortgage credit certificate election is made before the expiration of the statewide balance award period, the allocation from the statewide balance shall be relinquished to the statewide balance.

24-32-1711. Statewide balance carryforward allocations. (1) Any portion of the statewide balance that has not been allocated to bonds that were issued on or before December 23 or that the issuing authority elected not to issue pursuant to a mortgage credit certificate election made on or before December 23 or that are not the subject of a proper carryforward election under section 24-32-1705 (3) (b) or 24-32-1706 (3) (b) shall be available for allocations to carryforward purposes on and after December 26.

(2) Any issuing authority may apply to the department for allocations from the statewide balance for carryforward purposes by delivering to the department the information and attachments required under section 24-32-1709.

(3) On or before December 29, the executive director of the department shall determine the allocations from the statewide balance to carryforward purposes. The executive director shall make such determinations in his sole discretion, taking into account the likelihood that the bonds will in fact be issued during the carryforward period and such other factors as the executive director deems relevant. The department shall notify the issuing authority of any such allocation to a carryforward purpose to be received by it by no later than 5 p.m. on December 29, which notice may be written, oral, or telephonic. Any such oral or telephonic notice shall be confirmed by a writing mailed no later than December 29.

COLORADO YOUTH CONSERVATION AND SERVICE CORPS

24-32-2001. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly finds and declares that:

(a) Central elements in the development of the state's youth should be the provision of meaningful work experience to teach the value of labor and membership in a productive society and the provision of basic education to address unemployment, undereducation, and lack of life-coping skills among young adults;

(b) It is the policy of this state to conserve and protect its natural resources, scenic beauty, historical and cultural sites, and other community facilities;

(c) An ever-growing number of this state's youth are dropping out of school before obtaining a high school diploma at a time when education is absolutely essential to the future employability, opportunities, and well-being of an individual;

(d) There are many unemployed young adults without hope or opportunities for entrance into the labor force who are unable to afford higher education and who create a serious strain on tax revenues in community services;

(e) The young men and women of the state should be given an opportunity to develop meaningful public service work and educational experience through programs that protect and conserve the valuable resources of the state and promote participation in other community enhancement projects;

(f) There exists a continuing need for the development and expansion of youth conservation and service programs and for involvement by young persons in public works and services, the provision of human services, and the enhancement of our natural resources;

(g) It is in the public interest to target employment projects to those activities which have the greatest benefit to the local economy;

(h) Severe cutbacks in the funding for community and human services leave many local community service agencies without the resources to provide necessary services to those in need; and

(i) The talent and energy of the state's unemployed young adults are an untapped resource which should be challenged to meet the serious shortage in community services and to promote and conserve the valuable resources of the state.

24-32-2003. Colorado youth conservation and service corps council - creation - membership - duties. (1) There is hereby established the Colorado youth conservation and service corps council, referred to in this part 20 as the "council".

(2) The council shall consist of the following fourteen members:

(a) The executive director of the department of local affairs or the executive director's designee;

(b) The executive director of the department of natural resources or the executive director's designee;

(c) The director of the governor's job training office or the director's designee;

(d) The director of the department of education's dropout prevention program or the director's designee;

(e) The director of the state board for community colleges and occupational education or the director's designee;

(f) The director, manager, or head of the Colorado youth conservation corps or such person's designee;

(g) The director of the Colorado youth service corps or such person's designee;

(h) One member appointed by the governor who is the director, manager, or head of a local agency administering a youth conservation corps or a youth service corps;

(i) One member appointed by the governor representing nonprofit organizations;

(j) One member appointed by the governor who is a current or former youth service or conservation corps member;

(k) Two members appointed by the governor from the private sector recognized for expertise in youth employment and development programs, environmental and resource conservation projects, job and basic skills training programs, youth conservation corps programs, and youth service corps programs; and

(l) One member from the house of representatives, appointed by the speaker of the house of representatives, and one member from the senate, appointed by the president of the senate.

(3) The term of each member appointed by the governor shall be four years; except that, of such members first appointed, two shall be appointed for terms of two years, and the youth services or conservation corps member appointed pursuant to paragraph (j) of subsection (2) of this section shall be appointed for a term of one year. A member appointed by the governor to fill the vacancy of another member arising other than by expiration of such other member's term shall be appointed for the unexpired term of such other member whom such appointee is to succeed. Any member appointed by the governor shall be eligible for reappointment for one four-year term.

(4) Members of the council shall serve without compensation.

(5) The council shall have the following powers, duties, and functions:

(a) To assist program agencies with the development of youth conservation corps programs or youth service corps programs, or any combination thereof;

(b) To assist program agencies with the preparation of proposals for grants to the commission on national and community service at such time, in such manner, and containing such information as the commission on national and community service may reasonably require, including, but not limited to:

(I) That enrollment in such program be limited to individuals who, at the time of enrollment, are not less than sixteen years of age nor more than twenty-five years of age; except that a summer program may include individuals who are not less than fifteen years of age nor more than twenty-one years of age at the time of enrollment of such individuals and who are citizens or nationals of the United States or lawful permanent resident aliens of the United States;

(II) That such program ensure that educationally and economically disadvantaged youth, including youth who are dropouts, youth who are in foster care but who are becoming too old for foster care, youth who have limited English proficiency, limited basic skills, or learning disabilities, and youth who are homeless, be offered opportunities to enroll;

(III) A comprehensive description of the objectives and performance goals for any such program to be conducted, a plan for managing and funding any such program, and a description of the types of projects to be carried out, including a description of the types and duration of training and work experience to be provided by any such program;

(c) To advise and consult with program agencies regarding certain training and education services required by the commission on national and community service in applying for grant moneys from the commission; and

(d) To appoint a technical advisory committee, if needed, to assist the council with specific issues and problems that may arise in connection with the council's duties.

(6) The council shall assist with the coordination and collaboration of program agencies with the executive and legislative branches of state government, the business community, school districts, state institutions of higher education, and local government and community-based agencies in the development of youth conservation corps and youth service corps programs.

24-32-2004. Colorado youth service corps established - director's duties.

(1) There is hereby created in the department of local affairs, the office of the Colorado youth service corps. The youth service corps shall be a volunteer-based program in the charge of a director, who shall be a volunteer approved by the executive director of the department and who shall serve without compensation. The director shall appoint such assistants and clerical staff, to be chosen from volunteers and retirees, as may be deemed necessary to effectively administer this part 20. The provisions of Colorado law relating to civil service, hours of work, rate of compensation, sick leave, unemployment compensation, old age health and survivors' insurance, state retirement, and vacation leave shall not apply to corps members. Such assistants and clerical staff shall serve without compensation.

(2) The youth service corps shall exercise its powers and perform its duties and functions specified in this part 20 under the department as if the same were transferred to the department by a type 2 transfer as such transfer is defined in the "Administrative Organization Act of 1968", article 1 of this title.

24-32-2005. Duties and functions of the youth service corps. (1) The youth service corps, through the director, and with the advice of the Colorado youth conservation and service corps council established in section 24-32-2003, shall:

(a) Recruit individuals for the youth service corps who are residents of the state unemployed at the time of application and who are at least sixteen years of age but who have not reached their twenty-fifth birthday;

(b) Match youth service corps members with appropriate local government agencies and community-based agencies and available projects;

(c) Develop general employment guidelines for placement of youth service corps members in local government agencies and community-based agencies which establish appropriate authority for hiring, firing, grievance procedures, and employment standards consistent with state and federal law;

(d) Monitor youth service corps members' activities for compliance with this part 20 and compliance with work agreements;

(e) Establish a program for providing incentives to encourage successful completion of the terms of enrollment in the youth service corps and the continuation of educational pursuits by awarding a youth service corps member a scholarship to a state institution of higher education, private college or university, private occupational school, or vocational school, in an amount not to exceed five thousand dollars, upon such successful completion;

(f) Enter into agreements with the state's institutions of higher education, community college system, vocational schools, and private occupational schools and with other educational institutions or independent nonprofit agencies to provide special education in basic skills, including reading, writing, and mathematics, for those youth service corps members who may benefit by participation in such classes;

(g) Assist youth service corps members in transition to employment, higher education, or vocational school upon termination from the programs, including such activities as orientation to the labor market, on-the-job training, and placement in the private sector;

(h) Coordinate youth employment and training efforts under its jurisdiction and cooperate with other state agencies or departments and program agencies providing youth services to ensure that funds appropriated for the purposes of this part 20 will not be expended to duplicate existing services but will increase the services of youth to the state;

(i) Recruit local government agencies and community-based agencies to employ the youth service corps members in service activities;

(j) Assist local government agencies and community-based agencies in the development of scholarships and matching funds from private and public sources, individuals, and foundations in order to support a portion of the youth service corps member's compensation; and

(k) Determine appropriate financial support levels by private businesses, community-based agencies, foundations, local government agencies, and individuals which will provide matching funds for youth service corps members in projects under work agreements.

24-32-2006. Colorado youth service corps - criteria for enrollment. (1) The director may select and enroll in the youth service corps any person who is at least sixteen years of age but not yet twenty-five years of age, who is a resident of the state, and who is not for medical, legal, or psychological reasons incapable of service.

(2) In the selection of youth service corps members, preference shall be given to youths residing in areas, both urban and rural, in which there exists substantial unemployment above the state unemployment rate. Efforts shall be made to enroll youths who are economically, socially, physically, or educationally disadvantaged.

(3) The director may prescribe such additional standards and procedures in consultation with supervising agencies as may be necessary in conformance with this part 20.

Source: L. 91: Entire part added, p. 925, § 1, effective May 31.

24-32-2007. Local youth employment opportunities. The director shall use existing local offices of the department or contract with local government agencies or community-based agencies to establish the youth service corps program and to ensure coverage of the youth service corps program statewide. Each local office, local government agency, or community-based agency shall maintain a list of available youth employment opportunities and the appropriate forms or work agreements therefor in the jurisdiction covered by the local office, local government agency, or community-based agency.

Source: L. 91: Entire part added, p. 925, § 1, effective May 31.

24-32-2008. Placement under work agreements. (1) Placement of youth service corps members shall be made in local government agencies and community-based agencies, under work agreements, and shall include those assignments which provide for addressing unmet community needs and assisting the community in economic development efforts. Each work agreement shall:

(a) Demonstrate that the project is appropriate for the youth service corps members' interests, skills, and abilities and that the project is designed to meet unmet community needs;

(b) Include a requirement of regular performance evaluation, such evaluation to include clear work performance standards set by the local government agency or community-based agency and procedures for identifying strengths, recommended improvement areas, and conditions for probation or dismissal of any youth service corps member; and

(c) Include a commitment for partial financial support of each youth service corps member from a private business, a local government agency, a community-based agency, an individual, or a foundation. The director may establish additional standards for the development of placements for youth service corps members with local government agencies or community-based agencies and assure that the work agreements comply with those standards.

(2) State agencies may use the youth service corps for the purpose of employing youth qualifying under section 24-32-2007.

24-32-2009. Youth service corps members - compensation - scholarship. (1) The compensation received by the youth service corps members shall be considered a training and subsistence allowance.

(2) The provisions of law relating to civil service, hours of work, rate of compensation, sick leave, unemployment compensation, old age health and survivors' insurance, state retirement plans, and vacation leave shall not apply to the youth service corps members. The youth service corps member shall be awarded a scholarship, in an amount not to exceed five thousand dollars, to a state institution of higher education, private college or university, private occupational school, or vocational school, of such youth service corps member's choice upon successful completion of the terms of enrollment in the youth service corps.

Source: L. 91: Entire part added, p. 926, § 1, effective May 31.

24-32-2010. Youth service corps members not to displace current workers. The assignment of youth service corps members shall not result in the displacement of currently employed workers, including partial displacement such as reduction in hours of nonovertime work, wages, or other employment benefits. Participating local government agencies or community-based agencies may not terminate, lay off, or reduce the working hours of any employee for the purpose of utilizing a youth service corps member with funds available.

Source: L. 91: Entire part added, p. 926, § 1, effective May 31.

24-32-2011. Acceptance and utilization of funds. (1) The department is authorized, on behalf of the youth service corps, to accept, receive, and expend all donations, grants, contributions, gifts, bequests, federal funds, and funds from any source to be used by the youth service corps in performing its duties and functions under sections 24-32-2005 and 24-32-2009. The youth service corps shall make every effort to become self-supporting by accepting, receiving, and expending grants, gifts, and moneys from any other source.

(2) The youth service corps may accept, or provide, within the limitations of the budget of the youth service corps, matching funds whenever any grant, gift, bequest, or contractual assistance is available on such a matching-fund basis.

(3) The youth service corps may also accept contributions in the form of equipment or in-kind services.

24-32-2012. Colorado youth service corps fund - created. (1) There is hereby created in the state treasury a fund to be known as the Colorado youth service corps fund, which shall be administered by the executive director of the department of local affairs.

(2) All moneys received pursuant to section 24-32-2011 and any other moneys received by the youth service corps shall be placed in said fund.

(3) The general assembly shall make annual appropriations of the moneys in the fund to the department for allocation to the youth service corps for administering the provisions of this part 20. All interest derived from the deposit and investment of moneys in the fund shall be credited to the fund.

(4) Any moneys in the fund not appropriated shall remain in the fund and shall not be transferred or revert to the general fund of the state at the end of any fiscal year.

(5) The general assembly shall make no general fund appropriation to either the fund or the department of local affairs for payment of any deficiency in the fund in the event that moneys in the fund are not sufficient for the costs of administering the provisions of this part 20.

PART 30

COMMUNITY-BASED ACCESS GRANT PROGRAM

Editor's note: Section 24-32-3001 was enacted by House Bill 99-1102 as § 23-11-104.5. It was relocated as a new part to this article because article 11 of title 23, concerning the Colorado advanced technology institute, was repealed by House Bill 99-1359. The program created in the section was the responsibility of the Colorado advanced technology institute in the introduced version of House Bill 99-1102, but subsequent amendments moved the responsibility to the department of local affairs, which is located in this article.

24-32-3001. Community-based access grant program - powers and duties of department of local affairs - definitions - legislative declaration. (1) As used in this section:

(a) "Aggregate" means to aggregate or consolidate the telecommunications service requirements of all or a substantial portion of the public offices within a community into a coordinated and rational network plan for the provision and procurement of telecommunications services so as to maximize economies of scale and combine the buying power of the entities operating such offices.

(b) "Community" means a geographically contiguous and distinct population, self-defined for the purposes of applying for the grant resources described in this section, and having a sponsoring fiscal agent that is a political subdivision of the state.

(c) "Connect" and "connection" refer to the establishment of a full-time, dedicated, digital network connection between a public office and the state network.

(d) "Department" means the department of local affairs, created in section 24-1-125.

(e) "Director" means the executive director of the department.

(f) "End-user equipment" means hardware and software that are identified with a specific public office or other physical location and that can operate independently of the state network. The term includes, without limitation, personal computers, network servers, local area networks, and video conferencing equipment.

(g) "Private-sector telecommunications provider" means a private corporation, whether or not operated for profit, that offers telephone, cable, wireless, or other telecommunications services to the public.

(h) "Public office" means any building, office, or facility that is physically located within the geographic boundaries of a community and is owned or operated by:

(I) An agency or political subdivision of the state or of any local government, including, but not limited to, a state administrative agency, a public school or college, a library, a county or municipal government, and a public hospital or health care facility; or

(II) A nonprofit hospital.

(2) The department shall establish a community-based access grant program under which the department shall allocate capital construction funds appropriated to the department for this purpose to communities seeking to aggregate the telecommunications services required by the public offices within the community to connect to the digital network operated by the department of personnel pursuant to article 30 of this title. Said telecommunications services shall be procured by the communities from private-sector telecommunications providers.

(3) The use of moneys allocated under this section shall be limited as follows:

(a) Expenditures shall be made only in accordance with proposals that result in material improvements in the availability and competitive cost of advanced, digital telecommunications services to the community as compared to other communities of comparable size and characteristics.

(b) Expenditures shall be made only for services procured by the community from private-sector telecommunications service providers.

(c) Expenditures shall be made only for costs associated with:

(I) Terminating communications equipment at a public office;

(II) Leased digital telecommunications services associated with connecting a public office to the state's digital network; and

(III) Appropriate cost-recovery charges for the use of the state's digital network.

(d) No expenditures shall be made for costs associated with connecting public offices that already have connections; except that such public offices may be reimbursed for their net, new incremental costs incurred as a result of their inclusion in the community's plan for the aggregation of telecommunications services.

(e) No expenditures shall be made for end-user equipment, applications development, maintenance, training, or other similar costs incurred by a public office or organization.

(f) Moneys shall be disbursed only to the fiscal agent acting on behalf of a community.

(4) The department shall receive and evaluate proposals for funding under this section, subject to the following policy directives:

(a) The proposal process shall be conducted with the overall goal of providing funding to every community whose proposal is of high quality and competitive with those of communities of comparable size and characteristics.

(b) Priority shall be given to those communities proposing to aggregate the traffic of, and obtain participation from, the greatest proportion of the public offices within the community. To qualify for consideration, proposals shall list all public offices in the community and, as to each such public office, shall specify whether or not the public office is to be connected under the proposal. In addition, increased priority shall be given to those communities that show participation of private- and nonprofit-sector telecommunications consumers in the total aggregated demand.

(c) In accordance with measurable criteria established in advance by the department, the department shall consider the degree of cash and in-kind matching funds to be provided by the community, consistent with the community's resources.

(5) Notwithstanding the provisions of subsection (3) of this section, the department may allocate up to ten percent of the capital construction appropriation for technical assistance, training, engineering, and consulting to prepare plans, program documents, life-cycle cost studies, requests for proposals and other studies, and documents associated with and necessary for the development of proposals under this section.

(6) The department shall coordinate the allocation of the capital construction funds appropriated to it for the purposes of this section with the schedule of deployment for the state's digital networks.

(7) In the funding of aggregated access for communities, the department shall require that public entities participating in the aggregation of traffic locally demonstrate the ability to divert or separate local traffic, including but not limited to internet and voice traffic, from the point of aggregation to a local destination.

(8) The department shall allocate the capital construction funds appropriated to it for the purposes of this section in such a manner as to reduce geographic disparity throughout the state in the availability and cost of advanced communications services.

(9) The department shall report to and make an appearance before the capital development committee at the conclusion of each fiscal year of operation of this program.

(10) The general assembly hereby finds and declares that the aggregation of local public telecommunications services is a new state program and that administration of the program requires services of a specialized, technical nature that are not available within the state personnel system. The director is therefore authorized to contract with a private person, corporation, or entity for the administration of the community-based access grant program described in subsection (2) of this section if the contract otherwise complies with part 5 of article 50 of this title, concerning contracts for personal services.

(11) During the initial year of funding, the department of local affairs shall allocate the moneys made available for the purposes of this section in a manner that:

(a) Provides technical assistance for strategic telecommunications planning to communities that require help in preparing competitive proposals for future funding;

(b) Evaluates the relationship between the size of a community and the ability to successfully attract investment through aggregation; and

(c) Gives priority to proposals that demonstrate a high probability of success through sufficient prior strategic telecommunications planning, local managerial expertise, and technical feasibility of the chosen bid from the private vendor.

PART 32

OFFICE OF SMART GROWTH

24-32-3201. Legislative declaration. The general assembly hereby finds and declares that the purpose of this part 32 is to recognize and reward communities that cooperatively plan for and manage growth. By enacting this part 32, the general assembly intends that the state will be able to provide financial and other services to local governments to assist such governments in anticipating and responsibly addressing the unique public impacts caused by growth.

24-32-3202. Definitions. As used in this part 32, unless the context otherwise requires:

(1) "Colorado heritage planning grant" means a grant awarded by the office of smart growth pursuant to section 24-32-3203 (3) (c).

(2) "Department" means the Colorado department of local affairs.

(3) "Eligible participant" means one or more local governments that satisfy the requirements for grant eligibility pursuant to section 24-32-3203 (3).

(4) "Executive director" means the executive director of the department of local affairs.

(5) "Fund" means the Colorado heritage communities fund created in section 24-32-3207.

(6) "Growth" means changes in population that impact land use, infrastructure development, and the surrounding environment.

(7) "Local government" means any county, city and county, city, town, or special district created pursuant to article 1 of title 32, C.R.S.; except that, for purposes of this part 32 in connection with section 24-32-3203 (3) (c) (I), "local government" shall be deemed to include an irrigation district, ditch company, or conservancy district.

(8) "Office" means the office of smart growth created by this part 32.

Source: L. 2000: Entire part added, p. 885, § 1, effective August 2. L. 2001: (7) amended, p. 1064, § 3, effective June 5.

24-32-3203. Office of smart growth - creation - powers and duties of executive director. (1) (a) There is hereby created within the department of local affairs the office of smart growth. The office shall be established within an existing division of the department in the discretion of the executive director.

(b) The office shall be in the charge of a director who shall be appointed by the executive director. The director and any assistants and employees of the office shall be appointed in accordance with the provisions of section 13 of article XII of the state constitution.

(2) The office shall exercise its powers and perform its duties and functions specified by this part 32 under the department of local affairs and the executive director thereof as if the same were transferred to the department by a type 2 transfer, as such transfer is defined in the "Administrative Organization Act of 1968", article 1 of this title.

(3) The executive director shall have the following powers and duties in administering this part 32:

(a) To designate areas within Colorado as Colorado heritage communities. Areas designated as Colorado heritage communities shall be eligible for a Colorado heritage planning grant by the office out of moneys in the fund created by section 24-32-3207 in accordance with the provisions of this part 32.

(b) To adopt and publicize criteria regarding grants made available by the office out of moneys in the fund pursuant to paragraphs (c) and (d) of this subsection (3);

(c) To review and approve applications for Colorado heritage planning grants awarded by the office out of moneys in the fund in accordance with the requirements of this part 32, and to determine the amount of money to be awarded under each such grant. An application for such a grant shall:

(I) Be submitted jointly by the governing bodies of at least two local governments; except that applications regarding water banking pursuant to subparagraph (II) of this paragraph (c) may also be submitted singly or in combination by the governing body of a local government or by an irrigation district, ditch company, or conservancy district; and

(II) Address critical planning issues, including, without limitation, land use and development patterns, transportation planning, mitigation of environmental hazards, water banking pursuant to article 80.5 of title 37, C.R.S., and energy use.

(d) To review and approve applications for grants awarded by the office out of moneys in the fund to assist a local government, as applicable, in developing a master plan in conformity with section 30-28-106 or 31-23-206, C.R.S., and to determine the amount of money to be awarded under each such grant pursuant to section 24-32-3207 (2);

(e) To attend and participate in meetings of county, municipal, or regional planning bodies, interstate agencies, and other conferences of such bodies, agencies, or related entities;

(f) To advise the governor and the general assembly on matters involving growth, consult with other offices of state government with respect to growth issues affecting the duties of their offices, and, upon request of any local government, regional area, or group of adjacent communities having common or related problems arising from growth, recommend to the governor and the general assembly any proposals for legislation that would address the impact of growth; but nothing in this part 32 shall be construed to grant to the office or the executive director any authority over the land use or planning responsibilities of local governments; and

(g) To exercise all other powers necessary and proper for the discharge of the executive director's duties and the carrying out of the intent of this part 32, including the coordination of the provisions of article 28 of title 30 and article 23 of title 31, C.R.S.

(4) The director of the office of smart growth created by this section shall advise the executive director in connection with the exercise of the executive director's powers and duties in administering this part 32.

24-32-3204. Powers and duties of the office of smart growth. (1) The office shall have the following powers and duties:

(a) To serve as a clearing house, for the benefit of local governments, of information relating to the common problems faced by local governments in connection with growth and of state and federal resources available to assist in the resolution of problems caused by growth;

(b) To refer local governments to appropriate departments or agencies of the state or federal government for advice, assistance, or available services in connection with specific problems relating to growth;

(c) To perform such research as is necessary to carry out the functions of the office;

(d) To encourage and, when so requested, assist cooperative efforts among local governments toward the solution of common problems relating to growth;

(e) Upon request by local governments, to provide technical assistance to such governments in addressing problems caused by the impacts of growth in such areas as, without limitation, completion of comprehensive or master plans and the resolution of land use disputes involving other governmental entities; and

(f) To accept and receive grants and services relevant to the fulfillment of this part 32 from the federal government, other state agencies, local governments, or private and civic sources.

24-32-3205. Qualifications. (1) Subject to the requirements of this part 32, the governing body or bodies of any eligible participant or participants, as applicable, may submit an application to the executive director requesting a grant pursuant to this part 32. Any grant approved by the executive director in accordance with the requirements of this part 32 shall be awarded to the governing body or bodies that submitted the application.

(2) In order to obtain grant moneys under this part 32 and as a condition of the receipt of moneys under said part, each eligible participant shall agree to:

(a) Use any grant moneys in accordance with the criteria publicized by the executive director pursuant to section 24-32-3203 (3) (b); and

(b) Perform such other requirements as the executive director deems appropriate in the exercise of his or her discretion to further the purposes of this part 32.

(3) Eligible participants shall apply for grants made available pursuant to this part 32 on official application forms provided by the office. Eligible participants shall provide such information on the forms as the executive director may require in furtherance of the purposes of this part 32.

24-32-3207. Colorado heritage communities fund - creation - source of funds.

(1) There is hereby created in the state treasury the Colorado heritage communities fund, which fund shall be administered by the director and which shall consist of all moneys appropriated to said fund by the general assembly and all other moneys collected by the office for the fund from federal grants or other contributions, grants, gifts, bequests, or donations received from other agencies of state government, individuals, private organizations, or foundations. Such moneys shall be transmitted to the state treasurer to be credited to the fund.

(2) Not more than an amount equal to thirty percent of any moneys in the fund as of the beginning of any given fiscal year shall be made available before the end of that same fiscal year to local governments in grant moneys for the development of master plans pursuant to section 24-32-3203 (3) (d).

(3) Any moneys in the fund not expended or encumbered from any appropriation at the end of any fiscal year shall remain available for expenditure in the next fiscal year without further appropriation.

(4) All moneys, including interest earned on the investment or deposit of moneys in the fund, shall remain in the fund and shall not revert to the general fund of the state at the end of any fiscal year.

(5) Repealed.

24-32-3209. Comprehensive planning disputes - development plan disputes - mediation - list of qualified professionals to assist in mediating land use disputes - definitions. (1) As used in this section, unless the context otherwise requires:

(a) "Comprehensive plan" means the master plan of a local government adopted pursuant to section 30-28-106 or 31-23-206, C.R.S., or an amendment to such plan.

(b) "Comprehensive planning dispute" means a dispute between two or more local governments regarding a comprehensive plan.

(c) "County" means a home rule or statutory county.

(c.5) "Development plan" means a mutually binding and enforceable development plan established pursuant to section 29-20-105 (2), C.R.S., by intergovernmental agreement between the county or counties in which land to be annexed is located and a municipality or between any two or more municipalities located within such county or counties.

(d) "Landowner" means any owner of record of state, municipal, or private land and includes an owner of any easement, right-of-way, or estate in the land.

(e) "Local government" means a municipality or a county.

(f) "Mediation" means an intervention in comprehensive planning dispute negotiations by a trained neutral third party with the purpose of assisting the local governments in reaching their own solution to the dispute.

(g) "Municipality" means a home rule or statutory city, town, territorial charter city, or city and county.

(h) "Neighboring jurisdiction" means the following:

(I) For a county, any adjacent county and any municipality that is wholly or partially located within the boundaries of the county or within three miles of any boundary of the county; and

(II) For a municipality, each county within which the municipality is wholly or partially located and any county or municipality that is located within three miles of any boundary of the municipality.

(2) (a) Each local government shall provide to each neighboring jurisdiction written notice of the public hearings at which the comprehensive plan of the local government is to be considered and a copy of the proposed comprehensive plan. Such neighboring jurisdiction may review the comprehensive plan and submit comments to the local government prior to the first hearing on such plan by the local government.

(b) A neighboring jurisdiction may file a written objection to a comprehensive plan with a local government at any time up to and including thirty days after the adoption of such plan. Such objection may include a request for the local government to participate in a mediation of the comprehensive planning dispute with the neighboring jurisdiction coordinated by the department through the office using a mediator from the list maintained pursuant to subsection (6) of this section. Such local government shall participate in the mediation upon the request of the neighboring jurisdiction.

(c) If a neighboring jurisdiction has more than one objection to a comprehensive plan, all such objections shall be considered together in the mediation conducted pursuant to this subsection (2). A neighboring jurisdiction requesting such dispute resolution or mediation process shall pay for the costs of the mediator's services.

(2.3) (a) The parties to an intergovernmental agreement establishing a development plan shall provide notice and a copy of the agreement, together with a map demonstrating the territory covered by the agreement, to each neighboring jurisdiction.

(b) Each municipality that has received a petition for annexation filed pursuant to section 31-12-107, C.R.S., which annexation covers territory included within the boundaries encompassed within a development plan to which the municipality is not a party, and that has received notice and a copy of the plan in accordance with the requirements of paragraph (a) of this subsection (2.3) shall provide to the parties to the development plan written notice of the petition for annexation, as well as a copy of the petition, prior to the referral of the petition by the municipal clerk to the governing body of the municipality pursuant to section 31-12-107 (1) (f), C.R.S. Where any portion of the area to be annexed under the petition is located within the boundaries of a development plan, each neighboring jurisdiction that is a party to such plan may file with the governing body of the annexing municipality a written objection to the petition no later than thirty days after receipt of the petition in accordance with the requirements of this paragraph (b). In the written objection filed, the neighboring jurisdiction may additionally request that the annexing municipality participate in a mediation of the dispute arising out of the petition with the assistance of a qualified professional from the list of such professionals maintained by the department pursuant to subsection (6) of this section. Upon the request of any neighboring jurisdiction that is a party to the development plan, the annexing municipality shall participate in the mediation required by this paragraph (b).

(c) No petition for annexation shall be referred by a municipal clerk to the governing body of the municipality for any action pursuant to section 31-12-107 (1) (f), C.R.S., until:

(I) The mediation required by paragraph (b) of this subsection (2.3) is completed; or

(II) Not less than ninety days have passed from the date on which the municipality in receipt of the petition for annexation was notified of a request to mediate by a neighboring jurisdiction pursuant to paragraph (b) of this subsection (2.3).

(d) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the costs of obtaining the assistance of a qualified professional in accordance with the requirements of paragraph (b) of this subsection (2.3) shall be assumed by the neighboring jurisdiction requesting the mediation. Where more than one neighboring jurisdiction requests the mediation, the costs of obtaining the assistance of a qualified professional shall be allocated pro rata between or among all such jurisdictions.

(3) In the alternative to a mediation conducted pursuant to this section, the parties to the dispute may use an existing intergovernmental agreement or a new agreement to resolve the disputes in whatever manner the local governments determine.

(4) In conducting a mediation pursuant to this section, the mediator shall consider information provided by any landowner in the land area that is subject to the dispute and may consider such other information as is presented by other interested persons.

(5) Any agreement or understanding reached between two or more local governments in the course of conducting a mediation in accordance with subsection (2) of this section shall not be binding in the event that such governments are ultimately unsuccessful in resolving their comprehensive planning or development plan dispute.

(6) To fulfill its role in coordinating a mediated solution to disputes between and among local governments, the department shall maintain a list of qualified professionals that are available to assist in resolving land use disputes arising between local governments. Such list shall include only those persons and organizations the department determines have professional expertise and skills in land use, planning, zoning, subdivision, annexation, real estate, public administration, mediation, arbitration, or related disciplines. Such list shall be made available to governmental entities and the public through the office created by this part 32 for the purpose of facilitating the resolution of disputes between or among local governments arising out of land use matters.

PART 33

REGULATION OF FACTORY-BUILT STRUCTURES, MULTI-FAMILY STRUCTURES WHERE NO STANDARDS EXIST, MANUFACTURED HOME INSTALLATIONS, AND SELLERS OF MANUFACTURED HOMES

24-32-3301. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds, determines, and declares that:

(a) The comprehensive regulation of the manufacture of factory-built structures to ensure safety is a matter of statewide concern.

(b) The comprehensive regulation of the installation of manufactured homes to ensure safety, affordability, and performance is a matter of statewide and local concern.

(c) The protection of Colorado consumers who purchase manufactured homes from fraud and other unfair business practices is a matter of statewide concern and consumers can best be protected by:

(I) Requiring registration of persons engaged in the business of selling manufactured homes;

(II) Imposing uniform escrow and bonding requirements upon persons engaged in the business of selling manufactured homes; and

(III) Requiring persons engaged in the business of selling manufactured homes to include specified disclosures and provisions in any contract for the sale of a manufactured home.

(d) The imposition of registration requirements upon sellers of manufactured homes by both the state and political subdivisions of the state would impose an undue burden upon sellers of manufactured homes and discourage the sale of manufactured homes.

(e) The uniform registration, escrow and bonding, and contract requirements imposed on sellers of manufactured homes by this part 33 are exclusive and no political subdivision of the state shall impose any additional registration, escrow and bonding, or contract requirements on the sellers.

(2) The general assembly further declares that in enacting this part 33, it is the intent of the general assembly that the division establish through the board rules as it deems necessary to ensure:

(a) The safety of factory-built structures;

(b) Consumer safety in the purchase of manufactured homes;

(c) The registration of manufactured home installers and the creation of uniform standards for the installation of manufactured homes on a statewide basis; and

(d) The safety of hotels, motels, and multi-family structures in areas of the state where no construction standards for hotels, motels, and multi-family structures exist.

(3) The general assembly further declares that the factory-built structure programs administered and rules adopted pursuant to this part 33 shall apply only to work performed in a factory or completed at a site using components shipped with the factory-built structure as reflected in the approved plans for the factory-built structure.

24-32-3305. Rules - advisory committee - enforcement. (1) The board shall promulgate rules as it deems necessary to ensure:

- (a) The safety of factory-built structures;
- (b) The safety of consumers purchasing manufactured homes;
- (c) The safety of manufactured home installations; and
- (d) The safety of hotels, motels, and multi-family structures in areas of the state where no construction standards for hotels, motels, and multi-family structures exist.

(2) Rules promulgated by the board shall include provisions imposing requirements reasonably consistent with recognized and accepted standards adopted by the international conference of building officials, the international code council, the international association of plumbing and mechanical officials, the national fire protection association, the Colorado state plumbing and electrical codes, and the structural engineers association of Colorado, or a combination thereof, except to the extent that the board finds that the standards and codes are inconsistent with this part 33. All rules promulgated by the board shall be adopted pursuant to article 4 of this title.

(3) The board shall consult with and obtain the advice of an advisory committee on residential and nonresidential structures in the drafting and promulgation of rules. The committee shall consist of twelve members appointed by the state director of housing from the following professional and technical disciplines: One from architecture, one from structural engineering, three from building code enforcement, one from mechanical engineering or contracting, one from electrical engineering or contracting, one from the plumbing industry, one from the mobile home industry, one from the construction design or producer industry, one from manufactured housing, and one from organized labor. Committee members shall be reimbursed for actual and necessary expenses incurred while engaged in official duties.

(4) The division shall enforce the provisions of this part 33 and the rules adopted pursuant thereto.

(5) The division may act as agent for the federal government for the enforcement of mobile home safety and construction standards relating to any issue with respect to which a federal standard has been established under the federal act.

Source: L. 2003: Entire part added, p. 537, § 2, effective March 5.

24-32-3306. Recognition of similar standards - compliance with standards. (1) If the board determines that standards for factory-built housing prescribed by statute or rule of another state or by the United States department of housing and urban development are reasonably consistent with, or equal to, standards required by this part 33, it may provide by rule that factory-built housing approved by the other state or by the department meets the standards required by this part 33.

(2) No person, partnership, firm, corporation, or other entity may manufacture, sell, or offer for sale within this state any new factory-built structure that is not manufactured in compliance with the applicable provisions of the construction standards adopted by the board.

Source: L. 2003: Entire part added, p. 538, § 2, effective March 5.

24-32-3307. Noncompliance with standards. (1) The state director of housing may obtain injunctive relief from the appropriate court to enjoin the manufacture, substantial repair or alteration, sale, delivery, or installation of factory-built housing by filing an affidavit specifying the manner in which the housing does not conform to the requirements of this part 33 or to rules promulgated pursuant to section 24-32-3305. The director or the director's designee may suspend the issuance of insignias of approval while injunctive relief is being sought.

(2) If the division, acting as agent for the federal government, determines that any manufactured home does not conform to applicable state or federal manufactured home construction and safety standards or that it contains a defect that constitutes an imminent safety hazard after the sale of the manufactured home by a manufacturer to a distributor or dealer and prior to the sale of the manufactured home by the distributor or dealer to a purchaser, the manufacturer shall provide for parts replacement and installation reimbursement as required under the federal act or rules adopted pursuant thereto.
